Myers will present senior piano recital

The McPherson College Department of Music will present Edward Myers, Dixon, Ill., in a Senior Piano Recital, Sunday, May 12.

Beginning at 3 p.m. in Brown Auditorium, the recital will feature selections by five composers.

The program will include: Novelet, Op. 21 — Schumann Etude in D Flat Major — Liszt Concerto in F Minor — Bach Sonata in E Minor, Op. 90 — Beethoven

Sonata No. 3, Op. 28 — Prokofiev

Robert L. Edwards, assistant professor of piano and organ, will be assisting on the organ during the Bach selection.

Myers is one of two students presenting recitals this semester. All music majors are required to give a recital during their last year at McPherson College.

While at McPherson, Myers has participated in Chapel Choir, A Cappella Choir, Band, Orchestra and MENC.

Myers did not begin playing piano seriously until he came to college, though he started at age six and had taken piano lessons for 13 years.

A teaching fellowship has been granted to Myers by Wichita State University where he will begin graduate study in piano next fall.

Gregg wins $50 award

BY PHIL GROVE

George Gregg, fr, Nickerson, was named recipient of the first Metzler Hall Scholarship award.

The $50 scholarship which was awarded to Gregg this semester is awarded on the basis of the need of the student, his academic achievement and his discipline in the dorm.

Freshman residents of Metzler Hall who meet these qualifications are considered for the scholarship, and through a process of elimination the recipient is named by the Metzler Hall Dorm Council.

Gregg, the first recipient of the award, is majoring in agriculture and is currently enrolled in Written Communications, Animal Husbandry, Sociology, Botany and Speech.

Standing 5'7" and weighing 180 pounds, Gregg played at the guard position on the 1967 College football team. He also enjoys working on his 1962 Ford in his spare time.

Business managers sell ads for paper

BY SUSAN SELL

John Drinen, sr, Coffeyville, will testify that Ken Stromquist, fr, McPherson, newly appointed assistant business manager of the Spectator, has a busy year ahead of him.

Drinen, who has served as business manager this year, will relinquish his duties as Stromquist assumes them in the May 16 practice issue of the Spectator.

The duties of the business manager include selling ads, keeping books, distributing papers and paying bills.

The job has weekly responsibilities as ads must meet deadlines for the paper just as the news copy does.

Soliciting for the advertisements is begun at the first of the school year when the manager contacts businessmen in town. Some promise weekly advertisements while others must be contacted each week.

This year, Drinen has contacted approximately 10 businesses each week. There are 17 weekly advertisers.

Contacting businessmen is done on Fridays. Saturday is spent bringing the books up to date. This includes recording ads which appeared in the previous Thursday's paper and sending out bills.

The ad copy and dummies are given to the editor of the Spectator Sunday so the Monday noon deadline can be met.

Mike Thompson, soph, Beloit, circulation manager of the Spectator, aids in the distribution of the papers.

When the paper comes out Thursday noon, Drinen and Thompson go to the McPherson Sentinel office where the paper is printed and get the papers for distribution.

About 500 copies are distributed on the campus to the residence halls; 100 go to administration and faculty; 500 are mailed out to subscribers, to other colleges and universities, to high schools and to last year's seniors.

The papers are taken to the alumni office where they are addressed. Occasionally the admissions office orders extra papers to be sent to prospective students. These must be addressed by hand. Throughout the year the men have enlisted the aid of feminine help to address the extra Spectators.

The next morning, the weekly routine begins again.

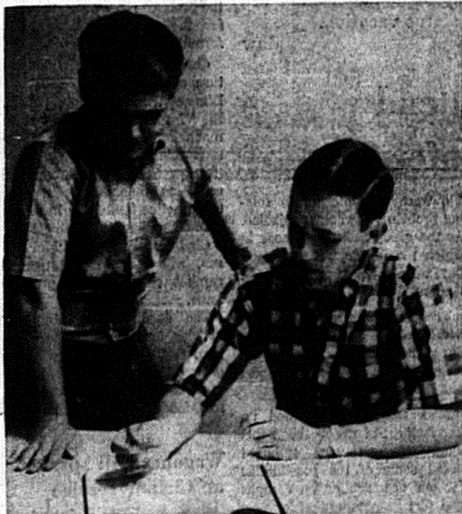

"Being business manager has been good experience for me. I have met many people and acquired good accounting practice," Drinen said.

Stromquist, on previewing his responsibilities, said, "I am looking forward to assuming the position of business manager because of the experience I will gain."

Students who are interested in working on the business end of the Spectator still have an opportunity.

An assistant business manager for next year's Spectator is still needed to help Stromquist with his responsibilities. He will then become manager of the 1969-70 Spectator.

Anyone interested in the position may contact Drinen, Stromquist, any of the members of the Board of Publication or the editors.

JOHN DRINEN, sr, Coffeyville, business manager of The Spectator, and his assistant, Ken Stromquist, fr, McPherson, work over ads and bills trying to make ends meet for The Spectator.

Initiation to be held May 14

The initiation of new members into Alpha Psi Omega, the largest national honorary fraternity consisting of 400 chapters honoring the dramatic arts, will be held Tuesday, May 14, at 7 p.m.

To obtain this honor, students must meet national standards, obtain 50 points, and display proficiency on stage as well as off stage.

Students entering the fraternity this year are: Kerry Givens, soph, Nickerson; Nancy Brown, jr, Concord, Mass.; Marilyn Smith, jr, Cedaredge, Colo.; Jody Seremits, jr, Washington, D. C.; Mike Loveless, soph, Mt. Rainer, Md.; Tom Nee, jr, McPherson; and Dan Snyder, soph, Wichita. Marlin Hoover, jr, McPherson, will be in charge of the induction service.

Board members are Susan Arnesen, soph, Oak Park, Ill.; Diane Merrifield, soph, Champaign, Ill.; Judy Peltzman, soph, McPherson; and Georgenne

Junior-Senior Prom to be held Saturday

BY CAROLYN DELL
Dining and dancing to the theme of "Rose Reflections" awaits persons attending this year's Junior - Senior Banquet and Prom.

The event is scheduled for this Saturday evening, May 11. The banquet will be at 6:45 p.m. and the prom at 9 p.m.

Students and faculty will go to the Colonial House in Hession for the banquet and return to the Student Union Cafeteria for the prom.

Featured at the banquet will be a program by the MacCollege

Madrigals, a group of students singing under the leadership of Dr. Doris Coppock, professor of physical education for women.

Persons will be served a choice of a fried chicken or roast beef dinner at the banquet.

At the prom, couples will dance to the music of a four-piece band from Wichita.

The Student Union will be decorated as "The Rose Room," a ballroom in shades of pink.

Each year the junior class plans the banquet and prom in honor of the graduating seniors.

Faculty members are also invited to attend.

General chairman of the evening is Richard Burger, McPherson, junior class vice president.

Pat Hayes, Geneseo, is chairman of the decorations for the banquet and prom.

Members of her committee are Pat Drury, Marshalltown, Iowa; Carolyn Dell, Enid, Okla.; Hal Hayes, Kings, Ill.; and Marston McGwin, Liberty, Ind.

Approximately 200 persons are expected to attend the banquet and prom this year.

Does money buy votes?

Does money buy votes? Robert Kennedy apparently believes it helps. A portion of his campaign funds is spent on gaining the support of young American voters.

The desire to receive student approval is a natural one. Kennedy's method, however, can not be commended. He appeals to collegiates by promising them an all-expense paid weekend if they will campaign for him.

Last weekend 20 McPherson students traveled to Omaha, Neb., to canvass the area for Kennedy votes. Transportation, lodging, and food expenses were completely paid for with funds from Kennedy's headquarters in Omaha. A party on Saturday night was also offered to student workers.

Campaigning for one's political favorite is to be praised, as it indicates an interest in the governmental system. However, this should be done because of a sincere desire to help the particular candidate. When all expenses are paid and a party is also included, it is doubtful that all workers will be serious in their efforts.

Eugene McCarthy seems to have a better method of enlisting student support. He offers collegiates an opportunity to spend an interesting and educating weekend campaigning for him, but the students are required to pay all expenses except lodging. It is likely that the students working for McCarthy are more sincere in their efforts than many of the young Kennedy campaigners and are not merely going along for a free vacation.

New officers attend Leadership Conference

Five of the newly installed officers of YMCA-YWCA attended a Leadership Training Conference April 26-28, at Rock Springs Ranch near Junction City. The weekend was planned by the Rocky Mountain region of the Y and designed to get at leadership and leadership skills on a local level.

Bob Smith, soph, Fredericksburg, Iowa; Steve Laprad, soph, Frankfort, Ind.; Sally Gibson, soph, Ottawa; Rita DeCoursey, fr, McPherson, and Sandy Kusart, fr, Cerro Gordo, Ill, left McPherson for the conference Friday evening and returned Sunday afternoon.

The conference was small and informal, and discussions ranged from specific problems local Y's were encountering to solving problems of racial prejudice. As the group talked, methods in which the people were interacting were pointed out by the leaders.

Free time was spent walking, horseback riding, and getting to know the different people from Nebraska, Colorado, Missouri and Kansas.

Miss DeCoursey summed up her feelings of the weekend this way: "I was very enthused about some of the possibilities for our organization on campus and for the possibilities for people to get involved. I wish everyone could have an experience in a group like this where everyone was participating in a vital way."

A Cappella Choir completes year with concert May 3

BY ED MYERS
The McPherson College A Cappella Choir, under the direction of Donald R. Frederick, professor of voice and choral organizations, completed its year with a concert Friday, May 3.

The program varied from the sacred to the popular and included the profound classic, "Old Mother Hubbard," which proved to be a number of more difficulty than its name would suggest and was handled very well by the choir.

Too often recognition is not given when recognition is due; and in turn it should be mentioned, and Prof. Frederick should be applauded for his beautiful composition "Meeting

At Night" which the choir performed and went unannounced as one of Prof. Frederick's own compositions.

Also included in the program was an eight-part contrapuntal work entitled "Jubilate Deo." Again it is significant to note that this is the first A Cappella Choir to perform this difficult work in concert.

One of the most unique and enjoyed innovations in this year's choir concert, was the use of smaller individual ensembles under the direction of student music majors.

Under the direction of Ken Dilling, the first ensemble sang a Schumann art song, "Sunday On the Rhine," and the title

OFFHAND, FASTBUCK, I'D SAY THAT PERHAPS THE JUNIOR CLASS CAN SURVIVE THE DANCE WITHOUT THE AID OF YOUR CATERING SERVICES.

New editors prepare for practice issue

The May 16 issue of the Spectator will be the final issue for this school year. It will also be the practice issue which the staff for the coming semester will formulate and edit.

Chris Levi, sr, Berryville, will turn over his responsibilities to Dianne Warnke, soph, Elgin, Ill. Miss Warnke has served as managing editor of the Spectator this semester.

Susan Sell, jr, Conway, will serve as managing editor for the practice issue. She has been campus editor this semester.

Cindy Barchesky, fr, McPherson, will assign the stories as campus editor for the practice issue.

The deadline for submitting articles for the last issue is 4 p.m. Sunday. Events which occur Sunday night or Monday may be submitted before 4 p.m. Monday.

Wagoner will speak at Chapel service

Paul Wagoner, associate director of development, will speak at the final Chapel Service of the spring semester.

The Chapel will be May 14 at 9 a.m.

song from the Broadway musical, "Mame."

Donna Brubaker lead the second group through arrangements of a Negro spiritual, "Blind Man," and the popular "Born Free."

Directing the last ensemble was Winona Achilles who chose as her numbers, a Swingle Singers' arrangement of Bach's "Fugue in C minor," and the movie theme, "Georgy Girl."

Compliments are due to these student directors for a fine job; and it is hoped that this small ensemble idea is continued.

Finishing with the always popular "The Impossible Dream," the choir ended a good year and I am sure a year of many rewards.

Heisey thanks Sheller for award

Dear Editor:

I would like to thank the president of Student Council, Dean Sheller, for presenting me with the Outstanding Service Award. It was a great honor to be chosen for this award.

It was only through the efforts and cooperation of many students that it was possible to receive an award such as this.

I want to share this award with each student who has supported and shown interest in the Coffee House. Everett Horton should be commended on the fine job he has done this semester as manager of the Coffee House.

With continued support of the student body the Coffee House should be a success next year.

Sincerely,
Dennis H. Heisey

1967-68 school year is coming to a close

BY MARILYN SMITH
The awards assembly and the '68 Quadrangle, which describes this school year in the past tense, make us aware that the year is, indeed, almost over.

Just as term papers and projects are due and finals approach, Kansas shows us the most beautiful weather of the year. Classes are cut and students find motivation to study hard to come by as we live in eager anticipation of summer.

Yet these last few weeks are some of the most academically important of the semester. "Patience and perseverance" should be our watchwords. I suddenly realize that this is dangerously close to a sermon; never mind, though, I say it only because it is the sermon I myself need, and perhaps others need it, too.

Looking through the Quadrangle and thinking about the year here at McPherson, I feel a vague disappointment which I wonder if others share. I look for something in it that I cannot find, because even the best yearbook is inevitable a dim reflection of what the year really meant for each of us at McPherson College.

At the awards assembly, too, I thought how impossible it is to give recognition to all those who really deserve it. Each student has contributed something unique to our college community, and some of those who gave the most remain unrecognized because they found their own channels to work through instead of using traditionally recognized ones.

We are all proud of those who showed outstanding ability, took responsibility, and gained honors. But the intangible ways in which students have helped each other to grow and learn should not be forgotten in the rounds of applause. They are a very real and valuable part of the life of McPherson College, 1967-68.

Melhorn speaks at Convocation

J. Jack Melhorn, president of the College, was scheduled to speak at the final Convocation, which was held this morning.

He planned to speak about the value of a college education, the importance of taking seriously the role of being a student, and the responsibility of the student for his education.

Other subjects he planned to touch on were college improvements, including freshman orientation, student personnel, the academic calendar, Associated Colleges of Central Kansas, the new library, and new faculty and staff, if the information was available.

College coed expresses thanks

I wish to thank all the people who sent me cards, flowers, and gifts during my stay in the McPherson County Hospital.

Also, I would like to say a special thank you to those who came and visited me.

Everyone's thoughtfulness is deeply appreciated.

Barchesky assumes campus editorship

Cindy Barchesky, fr, McPherson has been selected as campus editor of the Spectator for the fall semester next year. The Student Council approved the recommendation from the Board of Publications.

Miss Barchesky has been reporting for the Spectator both semesters this year and has written an average of 25 inches of copy per week.

As campus editor, she will be responsible for assigning all stories and beats for the Spectator. Besides being in charge of all campus news, Miss Barchesky is also responsible for making sure that all assignments meet the deadline.

Miss Barchesky will have a chance to take over the duties of her position in the practice issue of the paper which will be the next and final issue.

"I worked on a paper in high school and I hope I will enjoy my work on the Spectator and benefit from it in the next three semesters," Miss Barchesky said.

Sophomores will build float for May Day Sherfy will serve as guide at Gettysburg this summer

BY CINDY BARCHESKY

Sophomores are busy constructing the College float that will be entered in the annual May Day Parade.

Besides the sophomores, Larry Marcellus, director of publicity and promotion, Bob Smith, instructor in art, Arlie Regier, assistant professor of industrial arts, and Lewis Young, as associate professor of psychology, will be working on the float.

The tentative theme of the float is "Happiness is Growing Ideas."

Smith designed the float, which is to be 50 feet long. It will be rather abstract and contemporary looking.

May Day has been an annual tradition in McPherson County since 1914 when the first eighth grade graduating class was honored.

Each year there has been a May Fete and the parade.

The May Fete will be Wednesday and Thursday, May 15-16 at the Bandshell in Lakeside Park at 6:30 p.m. Dances and May pole winding will honor the queens and prince charms chosen by the high schools in McPherson County.

The mile long parade begins at 11 a.m. Friday, May 17. Floats, 24 bands, and saddle clubs will be in the parade.

There is a possibility the local National Guard unit will march and wear full combat dress.

A horse show will be in the afternoon at the 4-H grounds.

During the week of May 13-18, a carnival will be in town. It will run each night and Friday and Saturday afternoons.

BY NWOSU NWOSU

Summer is just around the corner, and Marcella Sherfy, sr., McPherson has just been offered the position of Seasonal Ranger-Historian for the duration of the summer, through the National Park, Department of Interior.

Miss Sherfy, a graduating senior who has been on the Dean's honor list since her academic career at McPherson College, hopes to obtain her position on June 3 at Gettysburg, Pa.

The position of Seasonal Ranger-Historian is one of several types of positions such as ranger, ranger-naturalist, and ranger-archeologist available for the summer through the National Park Service, Department of Interior, Washington, D. C.

Student assistants are also used by the Park Service as engineers, and architects and on maintenance and fire crews. Any type of ranger position requires two years of college plus courses in appropriate fields.

Miss Sherfy explained that she learned of this type of work several years ago through others in McPherson who have worked for the Park Service. Application for position with the Park Service can be made to either a specific park or to the regional offices of the Park Service.

Application forms are available at most post offices or from the Department of Interior in Washington, D. C.

One of Miss Sherfy's assignments will be working at the Visitors' Center of the Gettysburg National Military Park.

The purpose of this sort of facility is to help the American public better understand the historical significance of both the Gettysburg battle and President Lincoln's speech there.

"The work is of special interest to me since part of the land on which the battle was fought was owned by Sherfy ancestors," she explained. "The house this family lived in," she continued, "is still standing at the edge of the battle field and bears the scars of cannon balls."

Miss Sherfy plans to do graduate work in history at the University of Oregon and hopes she will start work on her doctorate degree immediately after completing work for the Master's degree.

'Advise and Consent' will be shown tomorrow in Brown

Henry Fonda, Charles Laughlin, and Don Murray star in "Advise and Consent" which will be shown tomorrow night at 8 p.m. in Brown Auditorium.

"Advise and Consent" is built around the premise that the personalities involved in the government determine how smoothly and in what direction the government will run.

As the workings of the Federal Government unfold, the question concerning whether or not to confirm James Leffingwell as Secretary of State is raised.

Only then does one see how much the private lives of the officials, rather than the influence of their political bosses, sway governmental decisions.

The Social Committee requests a donation of 50 cents for admission.

Guinn, Payson

Dr. and Mrs. Rodney P. Guinn announce the engagement of their daughter, Nancy Dell, to Stephen M. Payson. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George M. Payson of Millis, Mass.

Miss Guinn is a sophomore at McPherson College majoring in English.

Payson is also attending McPherson College and is majoring in biology. No date has been set.

Hayes makes suggestions concerning financial aids

BY JANE DADISMAN

The end of school is nearing, and information is at hand as to the school costs for next year. For those with some uncertainty as to how they can arrange to meet all the costs, some helpful suggestions have been made by Guy Hayes, director of financial aids.

A student must reapply from year to year for loans, grants, employment of any kind on campus, and aid through the Educational Opportunity program. Students should not take it for granted that their NDSL, EOG, assistantship, Work-Study, or any form of financial aid is renewed automatically.

Staff personnel should help arrange yet this spring for help needed for next year. Since there are generally more funds for those who plan early, students are urged to file their applications before the current school year terminates. Deadlines for financial aids may be established.

With various loan programs available through banks, students should either program their needs through college sources or plan to rely on their chosen local banks for their funds.

Many schools remove students from their student aid list if they go to banks for supplemental funds; however, in many cases where the total needed can not be met by college sources, supplemental funds are imperative to the student need. Many state programs and local banks are insisting on early applications because of limited funds for student financing.

Qualifying for aid, based upon family income and resources, is especially important. The effort will be to find appropriate funds for those who have the ability and motivation to do well in college.

Financing should not be the factor which keeps students away from school if they are serious and worthy. Students sometimes seem to feel they have a need simply because they are short of money; the problem may be in planning and management of funds.

Scholarships will be honored at the Office of Financial Aids; the value of the scholarship credit is subject to GPA requirements and will be predetermined before the student goes to the Business Office for settlement of his account.

Repayment on loans or other obligations should be attended to before the close of the school year.

Hedricks will hold meeting for rodeo club

A riding or rodeo club for the College may be organized if enough students are interested.

Any student who is interested is invited to attend a meeting at the home of Jerry Hedricks, Jr., admissions counselor.

The meeting will be May 15 at 7:30 p.m. Hedricks lives at 1142 E. Euclid.

Hedricks, a rodeo clown, would like to see a club organized because many colleges have rodeo teams.

Anyone interested in the club is asked to contact Hedricks or Miss Donna Daniels, fr, Scott City.

MARCELLA SHERFY, sr., McPherson, is studying information needed for the summer's work as a ranger-historian at Gettysburg, Pa.
