ACCK growth becomes rapid

By LUCILE PETRE
Indications of the rapid growth of the Associated Colleges of Central Kansas are rapidly becoming apparent in new inter-collegiate programs for shared libraries, special productions and distinguished lecturers.

One of the fundamental goals of ACCK is the rental of IBM equipment from Kansas Wesleyan University, which helped speed registration on the McPherson College campus this fall.

The recently installed telephone communication system between the six member colleges has greatly facilitated cooperation. Plans are being considered for a master's program consisting of the strongest departments of each institution.

Aiming for greater strength through united effort, six Kansas colleges joined in forming the Associated Colleges of Central Kansas in May, 1966.

Dr. J. Jack Melhorn, president of McPherson College, and the five other presidents were present for the signing of the Articles of Incorporation.

Included in ACCK's membership are six Protestant, four-year, co-educational, liberal arts colleges and their church affiliates: Bethany College (Lutheran Church of American), Bethel College (Mennonite Church), Kansas Wesleyan University (The Methodist Church), Mc-

Church delegates elect Wagoner as moderator

Paul Wagoner, associate director of development, is the new moderator of the Church of the Brethren District of Kansas including Colorado and Nebraska. He assumed his duties following the Aug. 18-20 meeting of the district delegates.

Wagoner was elected at the district meeting in 1966 and served as moderator-elect for one year. He will serve as moderator for one year also.

As moderator, his chief duty is to preside at the business meeting of the Aug. 1968 district meeting.

As an official of the Church of the Brethren, Wagoner, will be on call to serve churches of the area.

He will meet twice with the district board of which he is an ex-officio member.

Another of his duties as moderator is to be a full member of the Program Committee during his year term.

Wagoner will be one of the delegates of the Church of the Brethren to the assembly of Kansas Council of Churches.

In June of 1968, he plans to attend the Annual Conference of the Church of the Brethren which will be held in Ocean Grove, N. J.

Following the district meeting in 1968, Wagoner will relinquish his position to Irvin Stern, a former professor at McPherson College, who is presently serving as moderator-elect.

Psychology lab adds $6,347 in equipment

By SUSAN PIERSON

"In essence we've moved from the Stone Age to the Atomic Age in one giant step," Dr. Lewis C. Young, associate professor of psychology, was not exaggerating when he used these words to describe the sweeping, almost metamorphic change in the McPherson College Psychology Department.

This year alone, $6,347 of new laboratory equipment was added to the department. There are enough gadgets, dials, flashing lights, slides, and tape recordings to fascinate anyone — be he neurotic, psychotic, or even normal.

Just a sampling of the intriguing devices includes a lie detector, a depth perception test, reaction time apparatus and puzzles for problem solving.

Items perhaps a little more familiar include a slide projector, slides, movie projector, and models of the ear and eye.

One particularly interesting device, the psychogalvanometer, indicates physiological changes which accompany emotional reactions. As the person

59 students take teaching block

That famed old master, experience is preserving his reputation as a skilled teacher, and 59 of McPherson College's student teachers are learning: the student teaching block is in progress.

Students spent their first week observing. This "September experience" as it is sometimes called, familiarizes the prospective teachers with the enrollment process, teachers meetings and several opening days of school.

Student teachers are now returning to their new classrooms once a week, Tuesdays.

Full-time student teaching will begin Oct. 30 and continue until Christmas holiday, providing the student teachers with eight weeks of experience.

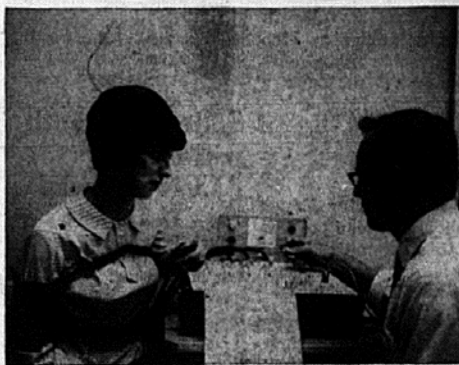

The 29 elementary and 30 secondary student teachers are practicing in McPherson, Moundridge, Buhler, Burdick, Geneseo, Herrington, Marion, Hutchinson and Union Valley School near Hutchinson.

Supervisors for the student teaching block are Dr. Dayton G. Rothrock, professor of education and psychology; Dr. Merlin D. Frantz, professor of education and psychology; Monroe Hughbanks, assistant professor in education; and Dwight E. McSpadden, head football and baseball coach and new assistant supervisor for the teaching block.

Student handbook has correct vacation dates

There is one change in the calendar for the academic year 1967-68. The dates concerning spring recess are incorrect in the catalog but have been corrected in The Growl.

Spring recess will begin April 5, 1968 and classes will convene April 16, 1968.

IS SHE GUILTY? Dr. Young experiments with the new lie detector which was purchased with a matching grant. Assisting him is Carolyn Dell, Jr., Enid, Okla. The cost of the equipment shown is about $1000.

reacts emotionally to thoughts or conversation, a needle swings indicating associated physiological changes.

With male subjects, for instance, the needle often swings widely when girlfriends are mentioned.

A tidy little rendition of Pavlov's dog makes it possible to demonstrate this significant experiment without opening a single can of dog food. The dog, disguised as a mild-mannered electronic machine, has an aversion to actual food but renders factual, memorable results in minutes.

Funds for this "giant step" were provided by a government grant totaling $3,173 and an equal amount invested by the College. "It's a tremendous thing that the College was willing to match this," Dr. Young said with obvious pride and gratitude.

Such a major advancement means student, teacher and school all will benefit in numerous ways. The equipment was chosen to serve experimentation, demonstration, and learning needs with the widest possible versatility.

Students now entering psychology will have no trouble getting sufficient hours for graduation. For that matter, students in any psychology course — from general to experimental — receive actual experience with laboratory equipment they might otherwise have only read about.

"In our department," stated Dr. Young, "we now have some of the most sophisticated psychological equipment available."

Faculty meetings have informative programs

Faculty meetings will be different this year. Besides discussing the regular business, a faculty program committee will also present informative and educational programs.

On the first and third Tuesdays, there will be regular meetings. Divisional meetings will be held on the second Tuesday, and departmental meetings on the fourth Tuesday.

This month, the regular meeting will be Sept. 19, and the departmental meeting Sept. 26.

Peace Corp test will be given in Salina, Hutchinson

The Peace Corps placement test will be given in the main post offices at Salina and Hutchinson, Saturday, Sept. 16, at 1:30 p.m. Interested students may contact Leland Lengel, assistant professor of history and political science, for future information.

Frosh lose tug-of-war to sophomores

By JAY DUREPO
Well, it's back to the beanies for another two weeks. Or at least that's what the rules say are the consequences for losing the annual tug-of-war.

Only twice in the last 20 years have the freshmen been able to outwit or outpull the sophomores.

The freshmen were not going to go down without a good thrash, however. Amid rumors of a greased rope, over the legal number of sophomores on the team, and substitution of horsepower for manpower (several cars were present), the freshmen continued their show of spirit.

As an initial mass of defiance, at the count of three, the members of the freshman team threw their beanies to the ground.

The contest was highlighted by several feats of daring. One over-anxious frosh swam the entire width of the lagoon and climbed unaided from the murky waters to join his comrades.

Finally, the contest began. The rope was thrown from the opposite bank to the ready-and-waiting frosh. Twice it was thrown, and twice it fell short of its mark.

Undaunted, the same swimming frosh of earlier mention did a beautiful racing dive and salvaged the somewhat soggy rope for his teammates.

At last, all was ready. The Committee hopes for congress approval of loan

The Library Committee met Sept. 8 to arrive at final plans for construction of the new College library.

The major topic was establishing a date to begin the construction.

Dr. Dayton G. Rothrock, professor of education and psychology and member of the committee, said that if the loan for construction is approved by Congress during this session, then construction will begin in early spring of 1968.

The committee will be meeting with architects about Nov. 1 to finalize plans and to discuss any changes or additions to the present plans.

Dr. Rothrock also said that the committee is open for suggestions from students and faculty concerning the new library.

Between now and the time they are scheduled to meet with the architects, the committee members will be touring other new libraries in the area to get ideas before plans are finalized.

Representatives hold meetings to decide on city-College museum

People representing both McPherson College and the city of McPherson have been holding meetings frequently in order to come to some final decisions concerning the city-College museum.

Many items of Jacob J. Strausz were offered to the museum providing they would be preserved and exhibited.

In a meeting held July 13, Dr. J. Jack Melhorn, president of McPherson College, expressed the interest of the College in the joint project of the museum.

Several other meetings were held during the summer, but the project is still in the formative stage.

Enrollment to 765 students

A total of 765 students are enrolled at McPherson College this year, as compared to the 826 who were enrolled at this same time last year.

The figures, which were released Sept. 7 by E. Dean Reynolds, registrar, indicate that 715 are full-time students while 50 are part-time students.

Figures for the number of students per class have not yet been returned by the Data Processing Center.

gun sounded, and the bitter battle waged on. The freshmen looked good, their strategy being that of a steady pull. However, the sophomores used a steady, well-timed rhythm.

After a little less than 30 seconds of fierce conflict, the sophomores tasted victory as the frosh sank slowly into the lagoon.

The staunch freshmen weren't down yet however. As the first of their number hit the water, they all proceeded to storm the sophomore bank and get their revenge.

Unfortunately, they vented their frustrations on one of their own number. The only forced aquanaut was a freshman thrown in by his teammates.

Support helps to build reality

In last year's Spectator, an editorial was written backing the proposed coffeehouse. The editorial backed the idea that students needed a new hideout where they could intermingle with other students and feel at ease.

The editor went on to say that if this proposed coffeehouse received an OK, the plan would need full student support to guarantee success.

Today, this proposal has become a reality in the form of a coffeehouse, better known as Mac Shack. This student hideout represents many hours of planning and physical labor on the part of the students.

The interior of the two-story structure has been almost completely renovated and the outside has been fixed up and touched up.

And to insure its success by keeping things running smoothly, the Coffeehouse Committee has been formed. Members of this committee have expressed gratitude for the excellent turnouts each night since the Mac Shack opened last Friday.

A proposed dream has taken a physical shape and students are to be commended for doing their part in supporting today's reality.

SNEA aims to broaden understanding of teaching

Broadening the understanding of the teaching profession is the aim this year for the Maurice A. Hess Chapter of the Student National Education Association and its members.

Officers of SNEA have announced the tentative plans for the monthly meetings. SNEA meets the second Wednesday of each month, except January, in room 212, Mohler Hall.

Discipline in the classroom will be the subject of the October meeting. Representatives from elementary, junior high and high schools are scheduled to conduct a panel discussion. A Kansas State Teacher's Association speaker will conduct a lecture-discussion on teacher's salaries in February.

Elections will be held in March. Members will be asked to evaluate the year and suggest improvements.

All SNEA members may attend the annual banquet in April.

Officers for the 1967-68 and 1968-69 terms will meet jointly to discuss past and future plans for SNEA.

Picnic starts activities for Home Ec Chapter

The Home Economics Chapter of McPherson College began its year of activities with a picnic which was held Sept. 12.

The purpose of the picnic, which was held at the Kansas Cylinder Head-Park, was to introduce the chapter to women interested in joining.

Dues for the year are $1.25 and the women have chosen "Home Economics: Its Social Responsibilities," as the annual theme.

Miss Mildred Siek, professor of home economics, is sponsor of the chapter, which meets on the first Tuesday of each month.

State Fair booth will display ACKK material

"Why Associated Colleges of Central Kansas?" will be explained at the Kansas State Fair in Hutchinson Sept. 16-21.

The 10 by 15-foot display will consist of gold highlights against a black background. Six college pennants will be arranged across the top of the left wall with the name of the organization underneath.

Below this will be the objectives of ACKK with a gold map showing the locale of each college.

In the center of the map, 72 slides will be shown with tapes to explain what college the pictures are from and what the buildings or activities represent.

Yearbooks, representative of the member colleges and materials about ACKK will be on display. Two students, assisted by a faculty member, from one of the institutions will be at the booth.

Each member college will have a function in building the ACKK booth which will be on display in the Industrial Building.

Larry Marcellus, director of publicity and promotion, at McPherson College, is a member of the committee responsible for the booth.

Frosh reactions horrible, hectic

By RICCI MAYO
"It was horrible, hot, and hectic." "I thought it was confusing." "It made you feel like a freshman." "It was terrible!" These are freshmen reactions to enrollment day.

The majority of the freshmen found enrollment time consuming, tiresome and confusing. Some felt that it was handled in the best manner. Many of frosh were disgruntled because pictures for I.D.s were taken, which had not been previously announced.

When asked how they were adjusting to college life most agreed that the first week was difficult. The freshmen far from home for the first time fought seiges of homesickness. Others felt that the hardest hurdle was adjusting to roommates. "It's like living with a total stranger," was one comment.

On Rejection

Once upon a time
There was an inferior grape

On Religion

One morning this summer I was teaching a group of 12-year olds in a church camp situation. The subject for the session was "Jesus and the Money Changers." I told the group how Jesus went into the temple and over-turned the tables, when he saw the hypocrisy that was in supposedly God's temple. But one little freckle-faced fellow suddenly looked up from the block of wood he had been whittling and said, "Jesus wasn't a very good Christian was He?" Out of the mouths of babes...

McPherson Fire Department destroys old building for new proposed library

An old, somewhat dilapidated two-story building now stands on the corner of Eschelman and Simpson Streets.

The old building, directly across from Mohler will not remain in its present state for long.

Two separate groups will take their respective turns destroying the structure.

The first of the two groups is the McPherson Fire Department. The fire department held two practice sessions on the property; the first was on the evening of Sept. 7 and the second was last evening.

The first practice drill included training in actual forced entry into a building, rescue operation procedures and general fire fighting procedures, including making openings in the floors and roof.

The second of these drills provided practice in the use of masks in a smoke-filled house, ladder drills and cellar-nozzle applications.

The city block recently acquired by the College, will be used almost entirely by the library and its grounds. The new building will stand in the middle of the block and will cover about half of the surface area available.

The structure will be in three stories, the first partially below ground level. It will be of a rectangular shape and probably of brick construction. The library's capacity will be over 120,000 volumes.

The lower level will contain a curriculum library, seminar rooms and audio-visual equipment.

The main floor, or second level, will house the main library functions. These include the cir-ulation desk and card catalogs.

The third floor, or upper level, will house the main stack and reading areas. Also included here are individual study rooms and typing rooms. Individual study booths will be placed around the outside of the main reading areas, with some equipped for listening to sound tapes.

Also housed in the new library will be facilities for the production of video and sound tapes, microfilm readers and viewers, projection booths and language labs.

YMCA-YWCA officers camp near old deserted farmhouse

By JAN FYLE

About sunset last Friday, an enthusiastic group of McPherson College YMCA-YWCA officers drove into the lane of a deserted farmhouse northwest of town.

After unpacking, the group gathered round to discuss the purposes of MCY, aided by cake and hot coffee. Calling each other by their middle names, they decided to explore an empty barn.

Guided only by flashlights, they climbed a rickety wooden ladder to the hay mow, inhabited by birds. Dr. John Burkholder, sponsor of the YMCA, caught a red-tailed hawk, which flew away before he could do any biological experiments on it.

Later, after wading through weeds taller than themselves, they talked informally in small groups under the new moon. Bedtime came. The men trundled off to the garage while the women slept on the hard floor of the parlor on bedrolls and sleeping bags. Not only did windy night noises haunt the members of the weaker sex, but also restless bugs from the lightbulbs fell into their faces.

Saturday morning the fatigued females awoke to find that the parlor floor was stuck. For a few frantic moments they envisioned staying there forever, hungry. But finally they escaped to fix breakfast.

Fearing they might blow a fuse, the women toasted bread in the living room, brewed coffee in the kitchen, and fixed scrambled eggs.

The scrambled eggs were beaten in a dishpan with a little plastic fork. The ingenious cooks called the men, reconvened and ate.

After breakfast, the MCYers met on the old parlor couches to define the goals and suggested activities for the committees and to decide tentative committee heads for the worship, service, social, project concern, freshman camp and international fair committees.

At noon, they roasted weiners in the middle of the dirt lane, and ate them under a tree by a dilapidated spring house.

There they finished discussing the membership drive, the roles of the officers, and the evaluations of past clubs.

Before supper, they split into two groups. Part went into the kitchen to prepare bacon and tomato sandwiches and leftover scrambled eggs. The others explored the pasture at the top of the cliff until they reached an Indian cave.

Along the way some planned to pick up a few cacti as souvenirs, which they found, as a pretty sticky business.

When the trash was burned and the belongings thrown in the cars, the exhausted MCY cabinet retreated back to the peace and quiet of McPherson campus.

In summing up the weekend Pat Hayes, president of the YWCA, recalled, "It was great — in every aspect. We got a lot accomplished, but we had fun doing it."

Bulldogs start season against strong C of E

By CHRIS LEVI

Saturday marks the beginning of the 1967 football season with the College of Emporia Presbies hosting McPherson College Bulldogs. Game time at Emporia is 2 p.m.

Head coach, Dwight McSpadden, stated that C of E has a number of returning lettermen and will be a tough team to get by.

McSpadden said, "We all hope that there will be full participation by students and faculty at C of E to see the Bulldogs in action."

The coaching staff is polishing the offense and defense this week in preparation for C of E. Also the team will sharpen their execution of hitting because Coach McSpadden stated that some more work has to be done on blocking and tackling.

In the intersquad game played last Saturday, Coach McSpadden said that the team in general improved tremendously from last week.

"The new offensive and defensive plays should be beneficial to us this season," stated McSpadden.

Coach McSpadden released the names of possible starting line up for Saturday's game, but he has not yet decided on final choices.

The offensive team may be as follows:

Frosh serenade Dotzour, Kline

By JAY DUREPO

Peacefully sleeping residents of the women's dormitories were awakened by the melodious strains of a rather hastily organized frosh men's glee club, on the evening of Sept. 7.

A few of the freshmen were a bit reluctant about performing without first rehearsing, but they were persuaded to join in the fun by some upperclassmen.

After singing a few songs which the men had decided upon themselves, they asked the women for requests. Dotzour Hall women requested "Sweet Adeline," but had to settle for "Good Night Ladies."

Women of Kline Hall were serenaded with about the same list of songs.

The freshmen were received with cheers, shouts and general surprise wherever the music of good cheer was spread.

As a conclusion to the evening of serenading, the frosh delivered a short but touching musical good-night to Mrs. Mabel Markham, housemother of Bittinger Hall.

Women to hold 2nd powder-puff football game

The second annual Powder-Puff Football game has been scheduled for Monday, Oct. 9, as a preliminary event to McPherson College Homecoming on Saturday, Oct. 14.

Sponsored by the Women's Athletic Association, the senior and junior coeds will battle the sophomore and freshmen women through four running 12-minute quarters, beginning at 6:15 p.m.

Official flag football rules will be used with all players eligible to receive passes. Tackling will be illegal in the coeds' game.

According to Barbara Westray, sr, Lakehurst, N. J., coordinator of the event, Guy Hayes, director of financial aids and Sid Smith, associate professor and director of athletics, will serve as referees.

Assisting the referees will be students in Prof. Smith's Mechanics and Techniques of Officiating class.

An organizational meeting for all interested coeds will be held Monday, Sept. 18, at 6:15 p.m. in the gymnasium classroom at which time captains and coaches for the two teams will be appointed.

"W.A.A. is making this an annual event before Homecoming. We hope all interested women will be at the first meeting," stated Miss Westray.

Dr. Coppock wins nine summer tennis trophies

Participating in the annual Kansas State Closed Tennis Tournament held at Salina, Sept. 2, Dr. Doris Coppock, professor and director of physical education for women, won three trophies to add to the six she previously won this summer.

Scheduled for Labor Day, the finals of the tournament were postponed until Saturday, Sept. 9 at Oakdale Park, Salina.

With Molly Moses, Wichita, Dr. Coppock won first in the women's doubles defeating Ann Nordboe, Salina and Nancy Carroll, Liberal, 6-3, 3-6, 6-3.

In women's singles she defeated Nordboe, 6-4 and 9-7, in the semi-finals but lost to Moses in the finals, 1-6, 6-4, 6-2.

Dr. Coppock and Van Thompson, Wichita, teamed up in the mixed doubles matches to defeat Moses and Jim Pitts, Salina, in the semi-finals, 6-2, 6-0. However, Ann and Ken Nordboe defeated Dr. Coppock and Thompson in the finals, 6-1, 5-7, 6-4. This was the first time Dr. Coppock had entered this tournament.

During the past summer, Dr. Coppock participated in seven other tournaments in Kansas and Oklahoma.

In early June at Oklahoma City, Dr. Coppock and Helma Shuss, Larned, took first in women's doubles in their division of the Oklahoma State Open tennis tournament. In a tournament at Larned, she placed first in women's singles.

On July 4 at a tournament in Buhler, both first place in women's singles and second place in women's doubles were captured by Dr. Coppock.

At an open invitational tennis tournament in Hutchinson, she took first in women's singles. With Molly Moses as her partner again, Dr. Coppock placed first in women's doubles in the same tournament.

Although losing in either the quarter — or semi-final brackets, she participated in the women's doubles division of the Jaycee Invitational, Wichita; the women's singles of the Mid-Continent tournament, Wichita; and the women's singles of the Missouri Valley Tournament, Oklahoma City.

Library receives machines to simplify future research

With the addition of two new machines, library research work will be simplified in the future, according to Miss Virginia Harris, librarian.

A 209-3M automatic copier and a 3M reader-printer microfilm machine were purchased this summer to reduce time on reference work.

The copier reproduces from bound volumes and single sheets, at the price of ten cents per copy. In addition, when proper materials arrive, transparencies can be made.

Several library workers will be trained to use the machine. The hours that they will be running off copies will be announced later, although students can leave requests for copies anytime.

Plans for the new library are being made. The library building committee is currently working with the architect concerning details. When the government loan goes through, actual building will begin.

The modern structure will be located on the corner of Euclid and Eschelman.

The microfilm machine, which prints, reads and copies microfilm, will be available for use soon.

Many new books have been added to the library's growing collection. For the academic year, the library has received approximately $35,000 to be used for books, bound periodicals, microfilm and library materials.

A Title II $5,000 matching government grant was awarded to the school. An additional supplemental grant was also allocated under this program. College library funds this year amounted to $21,000.

Along with Ralph Freund, theater chairman at University of California at Los Angeles, Loretta Young, and Pamela Danova, Reyher's comments will appear on the fly leaf of the new book.

Reyher became acquainted with the Rau's after reading their book and corresponding with them. Later, Reyher was asked to endorse the book as it was soon to appear as an educational text for the novice actor.

Neil Rau, a veteran of 30 years on the motion picture scene, and his wife Margaret have traveled as a team throughout the United States and Europe, covering film locations for both newspapers and magazines.

Highly respected in the show business world, the contributors in their book are such people as David Niven, Rock Hudson, Loretta Young and Doris Day.
