

Financial aids gives reminder

Students are again reminded that financial aids made available through the Health, Education and Welfare Department must be applied for from year to year and that they must currently qualify for the aids.

The article in the March 6 Spectator indicated that funds for the National Defense Student Loans would likely be similar to last year's allocation. Unfortunately, the recommended appropriation for this fund is 18.4 per cent less than last year. This decrease is reflected in the allocation to McPherson College.

A recent release from HEW indicated "that primary consideration be given to those needy students who have the lowest family income." This prompts the policy that students reapply early for the NDSL funds.

The allocation for Educational Opportunity Grant has now been received. Funds for renewal EOG remain the same as last year and for initial or first year EOG the cut was only 9 per cent. Fortunately, the reduction was not as drastic as was expected on initial EOG funds.

Stump serves as chaplain

Dr. Harley Stump, Professor of English, will serve as chaplain on the Chapman College World Campus Afloat, formerly known as the University of the Seven Seas, the fall semester, 1969-70.

Dr. Stump will travel with the S.S. Ryndam to Europe, Africa and South America.

Recent surgery has improved Dr. Stump's health and after his sabbatical leave, he will resume his teaching responsibilities at McPherson College, fall term, 1970.

As previously stated, the Work Study funds will probably be similar to the 1968-69 school year. This amounts to a cut in that another wage increase to a minimum of $1.45 an hour beginning February, 1970, will make the funds relatively less.

Students who are anticipating loans through local banks should contact their banker or lending agent for assurance that funds will be available, although they may request that the actual loan closing not be done until late July or August.

The Office of Financial Aids has found some sources of other loans which it is hoped will supplement any shortage of funds not available from sources which were available for the 1968-69 school year.

Shalaby joins faculty

Anne Shalaby has signed a contract to teach in the English department fall 1969 semester in the absence of Dr. Harley Stump, professor of English, who will be on sabbatical leave.

Mrs. Shalaby received B.A. and M.A. degrees from Oklahoma State University in English, and has attended the University of Chicago in graduate work beyond the masters.

Her graduate thesis is entitled "The Development of Dylan Thomas' Use of Private Symbolism in Poetry."

She was the recipient of the J. B. Parriott Fellowship and the Phillips Petroleum Company Scholarship.

Mrs. Shalaby taught at Southwestern High School in Kansas City, Mo., and at Oklahoma State University.

She will teach Introduction to Literature and Written Communications.

Helping with set-up and co-ordinating are Dan Snyder, jr., Wichita; and Robbie Davis, jr., Dover, Del.

In case of rain, the Festival will be held in the S.U.

McNichols directs outdoor theater

REHEARSE LINES — Cast members of "Our Man, Charlie Brown," review lines for the presentation at 6:30 p.m. at the Fine Arts Festival, on the lawn between the SU and Brown.

"Our Man Charlie Brown," an outdoor reader's theater, directed by Neva McNicholas, jr., Landing, N. J., will be presented Saturday, May 3, at 6:30 p.m. on the lawn between the Student Union and Brown Auditorium. As a reader's theater, it is in part read (oral interpretation), and in part acted out.

"Our Man Charlie Brown" is adapted from the original Broadway musical comedy "You're a Good Man Charlie Brown." The original script, written by Clark Gesner was adapted from the comic strip "Peanuts" by Charles Schultz.

The inhabitants of this special world are Charlie Brown himself (a born loser, sticking his neck out optimistically from his loose-hanging sweater), played by Tom Nee, sr., Atlantic City, N. J.; Linus (tender and ever hopeful, hugging his blanket for security), played by Ted Livingston, sr., Macedonia, Ohio;

Patty (blonde, one-track-minded), played by Susan Arnesen, jr., Oak Park, Ill.; Schroeder (cool and musical), represented by George McNicholas, soph, Landing, N. J.;

Lucy (Linus's big sister, the black-haired demon, merciless), played by Shirley Miller, fr., Conestoga, Pa. and Snoopy (a dog, alternately self-centered and gregarious, depending on how close it is to supertime), played by John Petersen, soph, Wethersfield, Conn.

Stuco names appointees

Larry Schrock, soph, Goshen, Ind., has been selected as assistant business manager for the Spectator and Vincette Goerl, soph, Little River, has been chosen as assistant editor of the Quadrangle.

Student Council approved their appointment last Wednesday upon the recommendation of the Board of Publications. They will begin their duties next fall.

Applications are still being accepted for the position of campus editor of the Spectator.

ACCK orchestra to present concerts on three campuses

The Philharmonic Orchestra sponsored by the Associated College of Central Kansas will present three concerts on May 4 and 5. The first concert will be at 3 p.m. in Memorial Hall on the campus of Bethel College.

Sunday evening, May 4, the orchestra will play in Brown Auditorium on McPherson College campus at 8:30 p.m. Monday evening, May 5, the third concert will be presented at Kansas Wesleyan University in Salina at 8 p.m. These concerts are all open to the public without charge.

Frederic Balazs, visiting artist of the ACCK, is the conductor of the 60-piece orchestra. The personnel of the orchestra is comprised of college students of the ACCK, college music professors, public school teachers, and community people from Hillsboro, Lindsborg, Salina and McPherson.

Featured soloists will be Miss Leora Martin, violin, performing Vaughn-Williams' "Lark Ascending"; Professor Lambert Dahlsten, piano, performing the first movement of Grieg's "Piano Concerto in A Minor"; Professors Roger Throstenberg and Marvin Gay performing the solo trumpet and English horn parts of Copland's "Quiet City."

Miss Martin is a graduate of the Eastman School of Music and is teacher of stringed instruments and orchestra director in the McPherson public schools. Professors Dahlsten, Throstenberg, and Gay are faculty members at Bethany College.

Frederic Balazs

Conductor Balazs is resident artist and musical director of the Philharmonic Orchestra of Cincinnati Conservatory of Music, a position he has held since 1966.

Hungarian by birth, Balazs was conductor of the Tucson Symphony Orchestra for 12 years. He has been guest conductor of the New York Philharmonic, the Chicago Symphony Orchestra, the Oklahoma City Symphony and the Denver Symphony.

By special arrangement Balazs commutes for the ACCK orchestra rehearsals on Saturday mornings at McPherson. The orchestra performed in February a series of three concerts on the campuses of Bethany College, Sterling College and Tabor College. The May concerts will be the concluding performances for this academic year.

southern ball will begin at 9 p.m. at the Student Union. Tickets for guests are four dollars.

The grand ball will take place in the setting of a plantation house and garden. A passing showboat will provide the stage

These decorations are being planned by a committee chaired by Bunny Helman, North Manchester, Ind.; Roberta Strickler, North Manchester; and Wayne Black, Tipp City, Ohio.

Refreshments for the ball are under the supervision of Marian Snavely, Lebanon, Penn.; and Sherry Walker, Norton.

Banquet details and invitations have been arranged by Barbara Grasmick, Rocky Ford, Colo.; and Kathy Rogers, Brooklyn, Iowa.

Publicity for the occasion was done by the campus publicity committee. Pat Peachey, fr, Grand Junction, Colo., made the posters.

Konicek assumes post

Stanley Konicek assumed the position of superintendent of buildings and grounds April 21, 1969.

Elmer Ruhser resigned from that position which he has held for the past 12 years, and is now reclassified as assistant superintendent of buildings and grounds.

Will students stay in a rut?

Involvement . . . Communication . . . Apathy. During this school year and especially during the Student Council elections, these three words caused many serious discussions. Now, as spring term ends, is the time to consider the aspects of involvement, communication, and apathy.

Many students have expressed opinions saying they are "tired of hearing these words over and over again." What are they doing to alleviate the situation?

On March 28, Student Council members were elected. This year's Council opened the door to a new student-faculty-administration understanding. Next year's Council will be able to further this understanding if students will present their ideas to the Council instead of just talking about presenting ideas.

Students also discovered they could communicate with the faculty and administration. Many proposals were suggested by the students. The administration listened to each proposal and in many cases approved the proposal.

Some people remark that Mac students are apathetic. Perhaps that is the case, but the night discussions held during Speak Week provoked some excellent dialogue between Stuco candidates, students, and faculty. Many constructive ideas and criticisms appeared.

Students have a decision to make concerning involvement, communication, and apathy. Are they going to offer constructive suggestions to better their situation or are they going to stay in the same old rut and gripe?

Haven ladies exhibit art

Paintings and prints of two artists from Haven, Wilma Bauman and Betty Jo Houchen, will be on exhibit during the month of May in Friendship Hall.

Also on exhibit will be studies in ceramics by Charlie Houchen, also of Haven.

Mrs. Bauman, who lives on a farm near Haven, has studied with Betty and William Dickerson of the Wichita Art Association, Ron Du Bois, now of Oklahoma State University and John Bashor, formerly of Bethany College.

She has shown her works in one-man shows at Sterling College, Hutchinson Library, Salina Library, Haven and Dodge City.

Mr. and Mrs. Houchen also live on a farm near Haven. Mrs. Houchen is an art teacher for Haven grade school. Her husband is a brick mason.

Mr. Houchen is self-taught and finds the plastic qualities of clay adapt to his interpretation of characters with Western flavor.

Slater plans grad school

Seniors planning to attend graduate school include Peggy Slater, Denver.

As a graduate assistant in English teaching six hours of freshman composition, Miss Slater will place special emphasis on the study of creative writing. She has been accepted at Colorado State University.

I A majors tour assembly plants

Sixteen industrial arts education majors toured the Good-year Tire and Rubber Company in Topeka and the Buick-Oldsmobile-Pontiac Assembly Plant in Kansas City on Monday, April 28th.

Accompanying the students were Dennis A. Dirksen, assistant professor in industrial arts education, and Arlie J. Regier, assistant professor of industrial arts.

Sterling hosts KFPC

The annual meeting of the Kansas Foundation For Private Colleges will be held May 7, at Sterling College.

In attendance will be the trustees of the Foundation, including J. Jack Melhorn, president of the College. As vice-president of the executive committee, Dr. Melhorn will attend a meeting of that group May 6, also at Sterling.

Dr. Byron K. Trippet, president of the Independent College Funds of America, will speak at the opening session.

The afternoon business session will include financial reports, reports of the executive committee and executive director, and election of trustees and officers.

Nineteen Kansas Colleges, enrolling over 13,000 students, form the foundation, which unifies approaches to corporations, foundations and other organizations and individuals for the financial support of the institutions.

In the fiscal year of 1968 ending in July, the gift level was $318,856 from 473 sources.

Theism vs atheism —

Eiler, Deal present papers, exchange ideas in discussion

By Rita DeCoursey
Tom Deal, assistant professor of philosophy and religion, and Dr. David Eiler, associate professor of philosophy and religion, presented short papers on atheism and the theism to a group of fifty interested people, Tuesday, April 22.

In the long discussion which followed, students, faculty and others asked questions of Dr. Eiler and Prof. Deal. The most fascinating part of the evening, to this reporter's view, was witnessing the interaction and exchange of ideas between the two professors.

Prof. Deal argued that it reflects a superficial understanding of atheism and theism to view them as directly opposed to each other.

The term "theism" in itself, without further qualification, makes no distinction between belief in one god and belief in many gods (polytheism.)

But, actually, Christianity

(the particular theism discussed in this debate) rejects other beliefs in a god besides its own.

Thus, theism has both positive and negative aspects. Similarly, atheism on the surface may seem to be simply the lack of belief in any god at all, but really an atheist must have some concept of a god in mind in order to doubt or reject that concept.

Both theism and atheism, to Prof. Deal's way of thinking, are concerns for the problem of social order. Theism's function in society is that of commitment and constructive values.

To check the dogmatism which often results from this emphasis on order and permanence, the atheist functions as a critic, challenging the society to defend its values and policies.

"The concern of atheism is that of clear thinking. It challenges men to thinking hard about basic social values, to test their strength by continually subjecting them to the tests of reason."

Thus atheism urges that we rely on man alone to make decisions and to take responsibility for them.

In reaction to Prof. Deal's paper, Dr. Eiler proposed that Christianity can and does include both the constructive and the critical functions toward society within itself.

There is danger in atheism because its "rejection of the symbolism of a transcendent God can pave the way to political chaos or political absolutism."

Holding the idea of a transcendent God reminds man that he is not himself an absolute, that there is something beyond him.

"In Christianity, God has been thought of as the creator of order." But, at the same time, Christians have challenged the absoluteness of certain systems of order because the idea of a transcendent God always implies that the existing order is not ultimate.

"Because God is active and creative, he can symbolize both the passing away of an existing order and the coming into being of a new order." Thus, a society can function very well on a theistic basis, not needing atheism and all its dangerous tendencies.

Both Dr. Eiler and Prof. Deal seemed to agree that the functions of commitment and challenge are both needed in a society. The disagreement centered on how these functions can best be provided for.

Dr. Eiler felt theism is the best solution to this problem; Whereas, Prof. Deal preferred that man face up to living on the basis of his own actions, without a transcendent god.

Dr. Eiler commented in opening, "More of this kind of intellectual exchange is needed on our campus."

Hill offers challenge to griping students to express themselves in political groups

Dear Editor:

Lately there has been a great deal of discussion on the power of the student, on his ability to voice his opinion. There seem to be students who feel the only power they have is through protesting or through underground newspapers. There are also many students who just forget about the whole idea and merely gripe.

As an officer of the College Young Republicans, I'd like to offer a challenge to the students of McPherson College to do something instead of gripe; join a political group and express yourself meaningfully. Of course everything cannot be solved through a political group, but it will do a great deal more than any other movement.

At the present, Kansas is the only state which has a College Resolutions Convention. At this convention, Young Republicans from around the state assume positions in the state capital as senators and congressmen, passing bills that hit on subjects of national and personal concerns from the A.B.M. to the legalizing of marijuana.

These bills are then sent to the Kansas legislature and to Washington D.C. One bill concerning student protests and the responsibility of school and police was recently acted upon by the Kansas legislature. These conventions take place through the Midwest federation also, where 13 states get together and express student opinion, an expression that is heard by government leaders.

The Republican party also sponsors Leadership Training

Schools throughout the nation and Kansas to inform students of more effective ways to express their opinions.

There is not a person on this campus who cannot express his ideas in this area and see results. Our college organization is in constant contact with county chairmen, state legislators, and our congressmen.

The so-called "system" people are ready and willing to hear from students.

If you feel there are things in our society you'd like to help change, if you are willing to work and see the idea of change become reality, join the Young Republicans or the Young Democrats and work for it, through the system that has provided for channels of change.

American Ballet Theater will present Swan Lake in Kansas City's Music Hall May 2 and 3 at 8 p.m.

Now in its 29th season, the American Ballet Theater has traveled on five continents and has been named the official resident company of the John F. Kennedy Center for Performing Arts in Washington, D. C.

The performance will feature the full company of 150. Over a quarter of a million dollars was spent in mounting the production.

The Kansas City Black Theater Players will present excerpts from two plays at White Concert Hall, Washburn University, Topeka, on May 4.

"Blues for Mister Charlie" by James Baldwin and "A Raisin in the Sun" by Lorraine Hansberry are the plays. Tickets for students are $2.

Mathes; Stead

The engagement of Karen Jo Mathes, daughter of Fred Mathes, McPherson and the late Mrs. Mathes, to Donald Stead, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Stead, New Brunswick, N. J., is announced by her father.

Miss Mathes, a former McPherson College student is employed by National Cooperative Refinery Association.

Stead, a graduate of McPherson College, is also employed by NCRA.

A December wedding is being planned.

Students at Kansas State University, Manhattan, will have an opportunity to voice their opinions on a voluntary army in a referendum next week.

Results of the referendum will be sent to the U. S. Senators who introduced the bill for a volunteer army. Other universities may also conduct similar referendums.

Fifteen films produced by students at Kansas State will be shown Friday, May 21, at 8 and 9:30 p.m. in the Union Little Theater.

The films, entitled "Genesis I," were selected from 22 entries. Admission is $1 for students and $1.50 general admission.

Robert Christopher, an editor of Newsweek magazine, will speak on "U. S. Foreign Policy After Vietnam" at the University of Kansas, Lawrence, on May 5.

Christopher, who is in charge of Newsweek's international section, will speak at 7:30 p.m. in the Kansas Union Forum Room.

April 7th the Hutchinson Planetarium began a new program titled "End of the World." That the world will end has always been accepted but when and how the event will occur has been a point of discussion.

This program will examine and show some of the astronomical possibilities such as an asteroid impact, return of the moon, death of the sun or a nearby star exploding into a supernova.

"End of the World" will run until June 1st. Public programs are presented Thursdays at 8 p.m., Saturdays at 2:30 p.m. and Sundays at 2:30 and 4 p.m.

Frantz plans assembly

Dr. Merlin Frantz, dean of academic affairs, will be in charge of the eighth annual Awards Assembly on May 8.

Athletic awards will be given in the following categories: basketball, track, tennis, and cross country competition. The M Club will be represented. The Women's Athletic Association will honor outstanding members.

Those named for membership in Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities will be recognized, as well as seniors planning for graduate study. Honor scholarships to those students with the highest G.P.A. are to be awarded.

Dr. Frantz will recognize these officers of student government, student court chairman, social committee chairman and these positions of publication editors and business managers.

Achievements in the departments of drama, forensics, and music are to be lauded. There will be awards of home economics, and Wall Street Journal.

Smith wins fellowship

Marilyn Smith, sr. Cedaredge, Colorado, has been awarded a Prospective Teacher Fellowship by the University of Missouri at Columbia.

One of only ten fellowships offered under the federal government's Educational Professions Development Act, it provides a total of $4600 for the two-year program, as well as waiving tuition and fees.

The course of study to be undertaken by the Fellows is designed especially to strengthen their preparation for secondary school English teaching.

It includes classes, seminars, independent study, and intern teaching culminating in a Certificate of Specialization as well as an M.A. degree in either English or Education.

Albin, Jones, Blackwell tell value of Stuco experience

By Linda Dean

The present Student Council officers will relinquish their duties to those newly elected

Seniors sign contracts

Nine McPherson College seniors have signed contracts for teaching positions for the 1969-70 school year.

Students who have signed are: Winona Achilles, McPherson, secondary music, Inman; Kenneth Dilling, Nanty Glo, Pa., secondary music, Sylvan Grove; Sue Duncanson, Lewiston, Minn., elementary, Kansas City, Kan.; Jody Duffy, Abilene, elementary, Millersville, Pa.;

Marston McGwin, North Liberty, Ind., secondary agriculture; Susan Sell, Conway, secondary English, Kansas City, Kan.; June Vinchattle, Gowrie, Iowa, elementary, Canton; Linda Woodcock, Halstead, elementary, Moundridge; and Carolyn Yoder, McPherson, secondary home economics, Lindsay, Mo.

Smith's poem is in Messenger

A poem written by Marilyn Smith, sr. Cedaredge, Colorado, appears in the April 24 issue of Messenger, a publication of the Church of the Brethren.

Entitled "Help Me to Hang On," the poem was written last fall as a reaction to a film, shown as part of the student teaching block, which dealt with the seemingly hopeless frustration of a ghetto youth and the inability of the educational system to meet his needs.

Two previous issues of Messenger also carry poems by Marilyn Smith: "Words," March 14, 1968; and "Thoughts of a Heretic," May 23, 1968.

to the positions for next year on May 7.

Pat Albin, sr. McPherson, has held the office of Student Council secretary this year. Her job has consisted mainly of handling all Student Council correspondence.

"I got to meet so many people being secretary," Mrs. Albin said, "and I've really enjoyed it. It has also helped me learn responsibility."

Her main problem as secretary came first semester when, because she was student teaching, she was not on campus as much and felt she didn't know all that was going on.

Mrs. Albin plans to teach in a school system in a suburb of Des Moines, Iowa, next year. She feels her experiences as secretary will be a big help to her in teaching.

Holding the office of treasurer has been Charles Jones, Jr. Canton. He has had the task of keeping the Student Council books straight and also those of the Publications Reserve.

"I've gained a lot of practical experience in learning to keep books which will help me later," Jones commented. "I've also had a lot of fun and have enjoyed being treasurer."

"There were no big problems. The cancellation of the Big Name Group was a disappointment, but other than that it was a pretty good year, as far as the treasury goes."

Jones will be back at McPherson next year as a senior majoring in economics and business administration.

Gary Blackwell, sr. Little River, was Student Court chairman this year.

"It was a good year for Student Court — not much trouble," Blackwell said. "It was an interesting job and I've learned a lot from it this year."

Two of the valuable gains he received from holding this position, Blackwell felt, were an understanding of administrative difficulties and realizing that the total picture is not only from the student's point of view.

Blackwell will be entering Officers School for the United States Air Force this July. He is scheduled for pilot training.

Young tells of interterm

Earlier this semester, a questionnaire, concerning the efforts of the January interterm, was given to students during Conventions. The questionnaire asked for the students' personal opinion of the value of interterm.

Questions concerning transportation problems and subject matter value were among those asked.

Dr. Lewis C. Young, professor of psychology, after evaluating the questionnaires, came to some of these conclusions: that science courses should not be offered because of the amount of time involved; interterm should be mainly for explorations and field trips; and, that, if required courses are given during interterm, they should be given also, during the year.

In answer to the question of continuing interterm for next year, 37 per cent of the students thought interterm should be continued with no changes and 37 per cent felt that some changes should be made.

Mac to play doubleheader

McPherson split a doubleheader with Kansas Wesleyan at McPherson on Tuesday, April 22, dropping the opener 7-0, but winning a thriller in the second game.

Jerry Polk's single in the bottom of the seventh with two out and the bases loaded scored the winning run as McPherson won the second game 2-1.

Steve Layton, pitching his first game of the season, went the distance to win.

McPherson scored once in the first and the winning run in the final inning. The Bulldogs collected six hits including two by Jerry Grant. The box score:
