'Down in the Valley' to be Monday, Tuesday

"Down in the Valley," an opera directed by Robert Mesrobian, visiting lecturer in fine arts for the Associated Colleges of Central Kansas, will be given in Brown Auditorium three times next week.

ny, whom he dies to protect, one last time. The story continues as he breaks out of jail and attempts to find her.

Dinks play for dance

"The Devastating Dinks" will play for a dance in the Arnold parking lot Saturday, May 10, from 9-12 p.m. This dance, sponsored by the social committee, is being held instead of the annual spring formal.

"The Rain" will be featured at the dance in the Student Union basement Thursday, May 15, from 9-12 p.m. This is the final dance sponsored by the social committee for the spring semester.

Admission is free for both dances.

Change for spring social?

This year the social committee has cancelled the spring formal because of its proximity to the junior-senior banquet and prom and the financial failure of the winter formal.

This is understandable when one considers the many hours and dollars spent to create an enjoyable evening for a very few students.

However, many underclassmen planning to attend the spring formal are left without a major spring social activity.

On a campus as small as McPherson, much cooperation is needed. Next year, why not have an all-school spring formal following the junior-senior banquet?

The upperclassmen would still have a special event, the banquet, and all efforts could be united to provide the entire student body with a good spring formal.

McPherson College students must learn to think, plan and work together in all aspects of College life for a stronger social and academic atmosphere.

Another suggestion which may be considered for next year by the social committee is the selection of spring formal royalty who could represent the College at the May Fete and May Day, annual end-of-the-year activities.

The royalty may be selected if the spring formal were to remain a dance separate from the junior-senior banquet and prom, or if they were united.

Kansas Campuses

Washburn University, Topeka, has announced the Washburn Summer Theater schedule.

"Love Me Long" by Doris Frankel will be given June 26, 27 and 28. On July 10, 11 and 12 "Susan and God" by Rachael Crothers will be the production, and Peter Ustinov's "Halfway Up the Tree" will be presented July 24, 25 and 26.

All performances will be at 8:15 p.m. at the University Theater.

The Ottawa Campus, student newspaper of Ottawa University, was forced to stop publication by school authorities last week after running an advertisement for posters of naked Beatie John Lennon and his wife.

Frederic B. Zook, dean of students, said the issue was one of responsibility and good taste, not freedom of the press.

Works by seven Midwestern artists are on exhibit in the 10th Biennial Exhibition of Regional Art in the Kansas State University Student Union, Manhattan.

The artists include Tom Dickerson, Norman Eppink, R. James Hunt, Robert Kiskadden, Joel Moss and Lester Raymer.

Tabor College, Hillsboro, has broken ground for three new buildings soon to be constructed.

A women's residence, men's residence and multi-level lounge are being constructed to accommodate the rising number of students.

The Fort Hays State College People - to - People Club is sponsoring an International Art

Show May 9 and 10. Foreign students will exhibit art objects from their native countries in Memorial Union.

Dramatists initiate 3

The Theta Epsilon Chapter of Alpha Psi Omega, national honorary dramatics fraternity, initiated three new members and recognized a fourth who is eligible for initiation.

Carolyn Runyan, soph. Nickerson; Alan Flory, jr. Marion, Iowa; and Bob Powers, soph. Saddle Brook, N. J. were initiated following improvisations before the chapter.

Neva McNicholas, jr. McPherson, was not present, but was recognized as having enough points to qualify for membership.

To become a member, a minimum of 50 points which are awarded for participation on crew and cast of dramatic productions is required.

The chapter voted to recognize members who have received 50 points or more above the minimum for membership.

The two persons who qualify for the special recognition are Michael Loveless, jr. Mt. Ranier, Md.; and Thomas Nee, sr. McPherson.

Awards were to be presented to these two in awards assembly this morning.

Suggestions were presented for making the chapter a vital part of dramatics on the campus.

Chapter sponsor is Charles W. Fischer, assistant professor in English-theater.

Dear Editor: I would like to thank everyone who helped make the submarine sandwich sale a success — those who helped sell them, make them, deliver them and helped us organize things — and, of course, those who bought them.

We sold 300 sandwiches, which were all we had to sell, and made over $100, which will help immensely in the publication of Collage.

Members of the old and new cabinets attended a picnic meeting, May 7 at the home of the sponsor, Monroe R. Hughbanks, professor of education, and Mrs. Hughbanks. The group reviewed the past year and made suggestions for the coming year.

Garza, Taylor study in Mexico

Lydia Garza, sr. Falfurrias, Tex., and Kathy Taylor, jr. McPherson, are studying Spanish at Puebla, Mexico, under a NDEA grant.

Miss Garza and Miss Taylor left Wichita March 23 with a group of 30 students from six states. After a week's study at Acapulco, they went to Puebla, 75 miles southeast of Mexico City, for intensive language and culture study.

Both attended classes on the Wichita State University campus in February and March.

Cotton candy, popcorn, lemonade and ice cream cones added to the atmosphere.

Rain interrupted the out-of-doors steak dinner served by Slaters Food Service, which quickly moved into the Student Union.

"Our Man Charlie Brown," an "out-of-doors" lab theater presentation directed by Neva McNicholas, jr. Landing, N. J., was forced to play before a crowded audience in the SU Lounge. Nevertheless, the change in location did not hinder the actors' ability to present a delightful and well-received play.

The evening program, hosted by Mike Loveless, jr. Mt. Ranier, Md., and Tom Nee, sr. Atlantic City, N. J., presented much new talent.

Four McPherson College poets read original poetry and both emcees gave play cuttings.

Musically, John Lane, sr. Piqua, Ohio, presented an outstanding program. Terry Johnson, soph. Wilmington, Del., captured the audience with song and guitar, including his selections his own composition "Doghouse in the Sky."

Other guitar music ranging from classic to folk was presented by McPherson High School and College students.

A jazz group consisting of Scott Carroll, sr. Lombard, Ill., Cliff Danziger, sr. Yonkers, N. Y., Ray Landis, sr. Dayton, Ohio, and John Lane gave an impressive first performance to complete the evening.

Despite lack of cooperation from the weather, the Art Festival proved to be a success. It is another example of fine work students can initiate and carry out to the benefit of the entire College community.

Shalaby attends lecture on economics

Farouk M. Shalaby, assistant professor in business administration and economics, attended Walter Heller's lecture, "The New Economics" and the New Nixon," at Oklahoma State University on April 28.

Heller, a faithful disciple of Keynesian or the New Economics, served as chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers under President Kennedy and as economic consultant to President Johnson.

Heller stresses that the New Economics has no political label but lists economic alternatives producing similar results. Its goals are full employment, a rapid rate of economic development, price stability, balance of international payments, economic freedom and economic opportunity.

Looking into the 1970's, Heller sees continuing prosperity but emphasized that social problems such as civil rights and youth rebellion will remain strong and become inseparable from economic issues.

President Nixon will rely more heartily on the tool of monetary rather than fiscal policy, differing from the past administration, Heller observed.

Inflation will continue in the near future, Heller predicts, stating it would be lucky to reduce the rate of inflation to two and one-half per cent in three years.
