

College faculty selects seniors for Who's Who

Fifteen seniors have been selected by the McPherson College Faculty to be included in the 1968-69 edition of Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities.

Those chosen for the honor are Winona Achilles, Mrs. Patricia Albin, Gary Blackwell, Donna Brubaker, Carolyn Dell, Jody Duffy, Carlos Green, Patricia Hayes, Mrs. Jean Hendricks, Marlin Hoover, Mrs. Mary Nell Hoover, Dennis Martin, Susan Sell, Marilyn Smith, and Larry Vernon.

Graduate work at Wichita State University is planned for the future by Winona Achilles, McPherson. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Achilles.

Miss Achilles, a music major, has been president of Music Educators National Council. She has been in A Cappella Choir and Band for four years, in Madrigals the past two years. She is treasurer of the Choir and secretary of the Band.

She is a member of Student Education Association.

Mrs. Patricia Drury Albin, McPherson, an elementary education major, plans to teach upon graduation. She is now student teaching in McPherson Public Schools. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Drury, Marshalltown, Iowa.

Mrs. Albin is secretary of the Student Council, secretary of the Maurice A. Hess Chapter of Student Education Association, a member of the Student Council special projects committee, and a member of women's council.

She has served as co-vice-president for the McPherson College YMCA-YWCA, secretary of the junior class and has been a member of the Women's Athletic Association.

Gary Blackwell, Little River, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy C. Blackwell, Pawnee Rock. Blackwell, a physics major, plans to go to graduate school and eventually teach on the college level.

Blackwell is chairman of the Student Court, a member of M-Club, a lab assistant in the physics department, a member of the tennis team, basketball "B" team, cross country team.

During his sophomore year, he was vice-president of his class and has been on the honor roll.

Music major, Donna Brubaker, Lyons, plans to teach after graduation from McPherson. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Brubaker, Lyons.

Miss Brubaker has been vice-president of Women's Council and Dotzour Hall dormitory council, a member of Student Court for three years, secretary-treasurer of Music Educators National Council and a member of SEA.

Miss Brubaker, who directs the McPherson Church of the Brethren youth choir, has been in the A Cappella Choir since she was a freshman and is one of the accompanist for the choir.

Carolyn Dell, Enid, Okla., is the daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Byron Dell. Miss Dell, an elementary education major, is the editor-in-chief of the 1969 Quadrangle and the co-president of MCY.

Miss Dell has been a member of Chapel Choir, representative-at-large to the Student Council, member of the special projects committee and Art Club vice-president. She has written for the Spectator.

Miss Dell, who has been on honorable mention, plans to teach after graduation.

Elementary education major, Jody Duffy, Abilene, also plans to teach after graduation. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gaylord Duffy, Abilene.

During her four years at McPherson, Miss Duffy has been cheerleader for the "B" team one year, for the "A" team two years and was head cheerleader last year. She has been on honorable mention, in Chapel Choir, and on social committee. She is in Student Council and in Student Court, and is publicity chairman for SEA.

Carlos Green, McPherson, is the son of Curtis Green, Phoenix, Ariz. Green, a history major, spent two years in Brethren Voluntary Service in Nigeria, and plans to either return to Nigeria or go into the Peace Corps.

Green has been in Student Council, Agriculture Club, Young Democrats, French Club, Players' Club, SEEA, and on Fahnestock dormitory council. He was president of his freshman class.

Nurses training is in the future for Patricia Hayes, Geneseo. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kermit Hayes, Geneseo.

Miss Hayes, a home economics major, is the publicity chairman for the Home Economics Chapter. She was co-chairman of MCY her junior year and went on deputation tour her freshman year.

She has been on either honorable mention or honor roll every semester.

Mrs. Jean Lichty Hendricks, Dayton, Ohio, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. Eugene Lichty, will graduate at the end of first semester. She hopes to get a teaching position and either go into BVS or teach next year.

An English major, Mrs. Hendricks, has been on the honor roll, vice-president of Women's Council, secretary of MCY, vice-president of her freshman class, in SEA, and on the Academic Affairs Committee.

She has been in A Cappella Choir two years, and has been an accompanist for the choir.

Biology major, Marlin Hoover, McPherson, plans to study philosophy and theology after graduating in May. He is the son of Rev. and Mrs. Wilbur R. Hoover, Rocky Ford, Colo.

Hoover has been on the Academic Affairs Committee, Cultural Committee, in MCY, MENC and Players Club. He is president of Alpha Psi Omega and has been in lab theaters and in major dramatic productions.

He has been Metzler dormitory council treasurer, on the football squad his freshman year, and on Academic Affairs committee.

Susan Sell, Conway, plans to teach her major subject English and journalism in secondary schools. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Sell, Conway.

Miss Sell has been vice-president of SEA and is now president of the organization. She has been in A Cappella Choir, in Players Club, and in two major dramatic productions. She was an assistant in the English department for one and a half years, and has been on honorable mention.

Prof. Fischer views play

"Measure for Measure" is a protest play about the need of mercy and understanding and the authority of the law, presented in a farcical sense.

These were the words of director Charles Fischer, assistant professor in theater, as he concluded one of the many play rehearsals now underway.

The Shakespearean play especially adapted for McPherson College by its director, is a kind of improvisational theater.

As each cast member becomes his Shakespearean counterpart, he retains the language of old, but adds to it the ideas, the actions and reactions of a living drama, transforming the words of then to the reality of now. "The set is unusual and abstract from curtain to floor," explained Fischer. "My play production class will give some assistance in mounting the show. Shakespeare will be doing the prompting."

Lennie Ognibene, soph, Morris Plains, N. J., is in charge of the rock and roll music, with Carolyn Dadisman, sr, Springfield, Ill., heading the choreography aspects.

Four local performances are planned: Oct. 30 and 31, with an invitation to the local high school, and Nov. 1 and 2, for the College and public.

The cast and crew will tour the Associated Colleges of Central Kansas Schools of Kansas Wesleyan, Bethany, Bethel, Sterling, and Tabor, from Nov. 4 to 12.

Hoover, who was president of his sophomore and junior classes, has been in A Cappella Choir, McPherson College Madrigals, and went on deputation tour with a male quartet. He has directed church choirs in McPherson.

Mrs. Mary Nell Albright Hoover, McPherson, is the daughter of Rev. and Mrs. W. David Albright, Fort Wayne, Ind. Mrs. Hoover plans to teach English in Chicago, Ill. next year.

She has been in A Cappella Choir, Madrigals, McPherson College Orchestra, Associated Colleges of Central Kansas Orchestra, and has directed the Church of the Brethren junior high choir.

She is president of Women's Council, on the Quadrangle staff, and has been an assistant in the English department.

Graduate school is in the future for Dennis Martin, Pasadena, Calif. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Martin, Pasadena, Calif.

Martin, who is president of the senior class and the Metzler dormitory council, has been on the honor roll five semesters.

She is managing editor of the Spectator and will be editor-in-chief next semester.

English major Marilyn Smith, Cedaridge, Colo., plans to teach in secondary schools following graduation from McPherson College. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred W. Smith, Cedaridge, Colo.

Miss Smith has been active in dramatics, being on Alpha Psi Omega, in Players' Club, in major productions and in lab theaters. She is also a member of the McPherson Peace Action Council and has worked on the Spectator and Quadrangle staff. She has been listed on honorable mention.

Larry Vernon, Big Pine, Calif., is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Vernon, Big Pine, Calif. Vernon, a math major, plans to teach following graduation from McPherson.

During the 1968-69 academic year, Vernon is serving as the Student Council president. He has also tutored students in math in the MCY tutorial program.

Encased

I went to the zoo alone today and found some geese who strutted around their pen like fools. I wanted to grasp each one and fling him into the air of enlightenment so that he might see the truths outside of his small world of buttered popcorn and cement puddles. Oh, to watch him take the air under his uncut wings and soar out of his encasing boundaries.

But geese are heavy, and there were many, so would you help me — please! — with the task that lies ahead? Come with me to the zoo . . .

Livingston considers letter as an 'ill-disguised threat'

BY TED LIVINGSTON

In the Oct. 3, 1968, issue of the Spectator, Representative John Bower claimed to have told it as it is, and upon careful consideration, I think it is quite possible that he did just that, although by no means intentionally so.

Let us consider the substance of his letter. The first third was a summary dismissal of the ideas espoused by Campbell in his letter of Sept. 12.

Bower accomplished this by a not-so-clever semantics manipulation. The rest was devoted to a disgusting, ill-disguised threat — "young people, this is not idle chatter."

In my opening comments, I allowed that Bower may, indeed, have told it like it is, although not by intention. Let me explain.

Intertwined in this amalgamation of threat and dismissal is the essence of what has been called, for want of a better term, the "generation gap" — the psychological foundations of the age-old struggle between the status quo and innovation.

In dismissing the substance of Campbell's comments, Bower has provided us with the germ of a valuable insight.

Caught up in the fever of self-righteous zeal, many would-be reformers and innovators have exhibited a penchant for denying to those who oppose them the same rights that they so beligerantly claim for themselves.

Even more insidious than this is the intolerance implicit in their reformist zeal. All opposition is viewed as the expression of an entrenched, complacent decadence.

This intolerance is fertile ground for a conservative "backlash" — for a situation in which intolerance is confronted by intolerance.

But the intolerance of present day innovators is not the one factor pertinent to the "generation gap," for the "over thirty crowd" deserves much of the mistrust accorded it. Bower's letter provides ample proof of this. After dispensing with Campbell's challenge, he expresses disbelief in the penchant for questioning the established value structure displayed by many of today's youth and dissidents in general: "We who are older are frankly amazed by young people who speak scathingly of our affluent society."

The temper herein portrayed is a not infrequent malady of man: the values, goals, and purposes of "our" day are absolute — the culmination of man's development; any change is a perversion of the ideal.

The error Bower has committed is, then, a common one — he has attributed absoluteness to a value scheme relative to his peculiar socio-political environment and to his unique historical perspective.

Bower goes further to demand allegiance to this "sacred" establishment. But he, as well as all guardians of the establishment, must come to realize that what they ask, we, in good faith, can not deliver.

For, if we did — if we docilely accept the present value structure as final — we would be forsaking our creative responsibility.

What must occur is a genuine rapprochement. Each of the forces essential to man's well being — the innovator and the guardian of the status quo — must forsake his bias and come to recognize the efficacy of the other.

Without the innovator, there would be no progress — only stagnation; but without the guardian of the status quo to check the penchant for rampant change, society would become a chaotic, unproductive entity, indeed.

We must alleviate the situation in which an entrenched power structure transforms mild reformers into fiery revolutionaries, and an intolerant dissent

Comment

Coed appreciates reactions to complaints about Stuco

BY MARILYN SMITH

Student Council has been the object of some recent controversy on campus. A number of students maintain that "Student Council never does anything," or that it never does anything "significant."

I can appreciate the indignant and defensive feelings these complaints must arouse in the members of Student Council and its committees.

Two years as a Student Council officer in high school taught me the frustrations encountered, and the often unrecognized and unappreciated hours of work that are put in.

Those who say that Student Council never does anything have probably never bothered to attend a meeting, or even to read the minutes posted on the Student Union bulletin board.

Certainly Student Council does much to "promote the general welfare of the student community," as is stated in the preamble to its constitution. We would, for example, not be able to enjoy the upcoming Homecoming activities without the efforts of Student Council.

Some students, however, are dissatisfied with the basic values and goals of Student Council. They seem to visualize it as the leader in bringing radical changes and innovations to our campus.

They dismiss the routine activities of the council as not worthwhile, and instead see it as the agent for activating our apathetic student body.

Although I strongly support the idea that our campus, as well as our society, needs to make changes and to be unafraid to experiment with new ideas and programs, I cannot see why anyone is "hung up" about Student Council.

Certainly we as students should work to help improve it — to try to keep school elections from being popularity contests, to voice ideas and to be willing to work, whether or not we are members of the council.

But the Student Council reflects the majority of the students, and inevitably this means it is basically conservative, not a tool of the progressive minority.

Last year's Project Communications was one of the most exciting events of the year, and probably the most stimulating. I think it was successful primarily because it did not come from the "established channels," but rather from a group of students who had a good idea and did something about it.

Student Council serves a useful and important function, but it cannot and should not be expected to bring forth radical innovations, each student should find "his thing" and enthusiastically pursue it, individually or in groups. Only in this way can great new things be accomplished.

Racine supports student apathy

Dear Editor:

The perennial cry on the McPherson College campus is student apathy. Every year meticulous plans are formulated to combat this apathy, but by Christmas, everyone is too apathetic to do anything about apathy.

We are products of a post-industrial age, an age of affluence and luxury. Our parents contribute generously toward financing our college education.

If this is not enough, then there are always government loans. As students, we receive a four-year reprieve from serving in the armed forces. With so many things in our favor, let us relax and enjoy life. Let's be apathetic.

We have a student council to plan social affairs to entertain and amuse us. The administration tells us where we can smoke and when girls must be in the dorms. And, in general, it regulates all those functions which are overlooked by food, entertainment, professors, and housemothers.

So why try? Give up and enjoy your apathy. Enjoy the warm security of being alive and wanted. It may be one of the only times in your life when you are sure that by just existing, people will feed you, house you, look after you, and protect you from reality.

Bulldogs meet Swedes Oct. 19

McPherson College Bulldogs will battle the Bethany College Swedes at their homecoming Oct. 19.

Game time will be at 2:30 p.m.

Last Saturday, the Swedes held their ground and forced defending champ, Southwestern, to concede a 20-20 tie.

Bulldogs played their best game of the season Saturday, Oct. 12, and held the aggressive Friends Falcons to a 21-14 victory over the Dogs.

The Dogs were alert, intercepting two Falcon passes and recovering two Falcon fumbles.

John Suminski and Hal Wright each scored touchdowns, and Pepe Castuera kicked both extra points soccer style.

John Smith's dramatic recovery of the Friends fumble set up the Dogs first touchdown. Suminski went four yards to the six. Bud Taylor was held for no gain, but Friends was penalized three yards on the play.

Junior Smith reached the one on the next play, and then plunged over to score.

Later in the first half Marty Garren intercepted a second Friends pass, but the Dogs could not get a drive going.

Second TD for the Dogs came in the fourth quarter. After scoring, Friends kicked off, and McPherson took over on the Falcons 39.

The Bulldogs made two first downs in a row on passes caught by Hal Wright. A 15 yard penalty gave the Dogs a first down on the Falcon 11. Aldinger passed to Wright for the touchdown.

Carl Cook intercepted a Falcon pass in the third period, and Castuera attempted two field goals, but they both failed.

Outstanding on defense were Lonnie Pauls, John Smith, Dick Stalcup, and Carlos Green.

Harriers now have surge for winning

BY MIKE BISCEGLIA

The McPherson College cross country team has been given a new surge for winning, paced by Ivan Torres, fr, Bronx, N. Y., and Bob Rosales, fr, Bronx, N. Y.

Thus far in the season, Ivan has placed first for the school in each of its four meets. In the Wichita State University Invitational, McPherson placed fourth out of nine schools.

In the McPherson Open, McPherson placed first in a quadrangular meet against Kansas Wesleyan University, Bethany, and Tabor.

While in high school, Rosales held the Boro One Mile Championship and was captain of the cross country and track team. He also holds the record for the fastest 12 and 18 mile race in the Bronx.

Having raced in the Boston Marathon and placed 40th out of 1170 contestants, Rosales is running today, even though he is still recuperating from an auto accident in January.

Torres, the younger of the two, is new to the sport, having been introduced to it only eight months ago.

In addition to distance running, Torres also keeps in shape for competition through handball, gymnastics, and weight training.

Both men are veterans. Both came to the United States at the age of eight from Puerto Rico, and both have expectations to compete in the 1972 Olympics.

These men train each day by running from 6-7 a.m. and from 3:30-5:30 p.m. for a total of about 13 miles a day.

KWU takes lead in conference race

BY MIKE THOMPSON
Kansas Wesleyan University took over sole possession of first place last Saturday as they romped over Baker University, and College of Emporia took one on the chin from Ottawa.

Sterling won its first game of the season, and Bethany tied a strong Southwestern team.

The McPherson Bulldogs made their best showing of the season but still came up on the short end of a 21-14 verdict in Friends' favor. The game, however, left many Bulldog fans with an optimistic look at the future.

Last week Esbon Kansas High School won a game. Not such a strange occurrence, you say, but it was just cause for celebration in Esbon. It was the first football game they had won in nine years.

Let's jump around the league and see what is in store for us this week.

Southwestern at Baker — It's Homecoming. It's too bad they can't have a victory to start things off. Southwestern 21 — Baker 0.

McPherson at Bethany — Another Homecoming. With much confidence, I'll have to go with the Dogs. McPherson 21 — Bethany 7.

Bethel at C of E — Another Homecoming. C of E is tough at home, and they will be extra mean after their loss of last week. College of Emporia 31 — Bethel 6.

Sterling at Friends — The Quakers play a tough brand of football. Falcons eat Warriors. Friends 28 — Sterling 0.

Ottawa at KWU — The game of the week, but then it could just be another typical KWU victory. The Coyotes are on top and plan to stay there. KWU 17 — Ottawa 9.

Men take dates to 'Fanny Night'

Fahnstock Hall held its first "Fanny Night Out," Saturday, Oct. 12. The Fahnstock men presented their dates with white mums, and then both dates and escorts sat in a reserved section of the stadium directly above the band.

This marks the first of many events to be held in the near future sponsored by Fahnstock Hall.

1968 Homecoming will offer special activities for alumni

Alumni activities planned for 1968 Homecoming include various scheduled meetings, coffee hours, reunion dinners, and the usual unscheduled get-togethers and reminiscences.

Paul Wagoner, director of alumni affairs, has announced the schedule of activities, which includes an Alumni Board meeting at 9:30 a.m. Saturday, in the Student Union private dining room and an Alumni social hour at 4:30 p.m. Saturday, in Friendship Hall.

Class reunion dinners will be held at 5 p.m. Saturday. The class of 1953 will meet at Starlite Restaurant, classes of 1958 and 1963 at McPherson Elks Club, and a group of seven older graduates will meet at the cafeteria for their annual reunion dinner.

A coffee hour will be held at 9:45 a.m. Saturday in the Student Union dining hall.

Homecoming will provide a special Convocation and weekend entertainment.

Students may submit entries

Entries are now being accepted for the student literary magazine to be published early next semester. The magazine, an independent project, will consist of work by McPherson College students.

Any student may submit typed essays, short stories, or poetry (of any style) to Claudia Hanson, Dotzour Hall or Larry Banks, Bittinger Hall. Drawings (preferably in black India ink) or linoleum prints can be submitted to Brian Summerhays, Fahnestock Hall. Artwork should be no larger than four by six inches.

The deadline for entries is December 1.

There will also be a contest to choose a name for the magazine. Details concerning this will be released later.

All students who write or draw are encouraged to enter some of their work. It is hoped that this publication will be truly representative of the whole student body utilizing the as-yet-untapped reservoir of creative talent on campus.

Dr. Walter Jones, McPherson, dentist; Mr. Bill Sheets, McPherson, realtor; and Mr. Ed Frantz, Wichita, insurance salesman, will address students and faculty.

Presiding will be the Rev. Irven Stern, president of the Alumni Association.

Following the addresses, Hal Hayes, sr, Kings, Ill., student Homecoming chairman, and Marcia Sellberg, soph, McPherson, will announce the Queen candidates and their attendants.

Queen candidates are Sue Arnesen, jr, Oak Park, Ill., majoring in home economics; Diane Merrifield, jr, Champaign, Ill., majoring in elementary education; and Lilli Ann Wivell, jr, Columbia, Pa., majoring in home economics.

Sophomore attendants are Jane Brubaker, Rocky Ford, Colo.; Kathy Bryer, Gap, Pa.; and Ginny Yingst, McPherson.

Representing the Freshman class will be Michelle Green, Denver; Jacqueline Troutman, Haddon Heights, N. J.; and Judith Walker, Newton.

Voting for the queen will be in the Student Union lounge Thursday following Convocation until 6 p.m.

Special weekend entertainment arranged by the Homecoming committee includes half-time entertainment at the McPherson vs. Baker football

Group meets, discusses food

A meeting concerning the current food discussion was held in the Student Council Meeting Room, Oct. 16, at 3:30 p.m. for interested faculty and students.

The reason that this meeting was called is that there is a group of students who are interested in changing the negative attitude on campus concerning the food service program.

The topic of this meeting was to be the food and the food prices relative to the food and the food prices of other colleges.

It was hoped that this meeting will culminate in a report which may be presented to the student body.

Five freshmen are B-squad

Five freshmen girls were elected B-team cheerleaders following tryouts Thursday. Ten freshmen girls, who had handed in petitions signed by 50 students, presented two cheers on stage following Convocation.

The five selected were Alice Crump, Kansas City, Mo.; Michelle Green, Denver; Janet Mason, Norborne, Mo.; Shirley Miller, Conestoga, Pa.; and Terry Pifer, Lessburg, Ind.
