

by Eckhard Kuhn-Oslus

These mysterious numbers have been floating round campus since the second half of last week. What do they mean? In the first place they mean money, in the second they mean movement and improvement of McPherson College.

The board of trustees will vote on March 6th on the decision of the executive committee to call in a firm of college consultants. There is hardly any question that they will pass it because nobody can overlook the facts that this college badly needs a reform and that it is obviously unable to carry it out alone.

The firm to be hired is Davis McConnell Ralston who plan to operate on a three phase plan. The first step, beginning this March, will consist of analyzing the situation on this campus, at Central College, and in the town.

During the first phase of the consultants' work, faculty, administration, students, and inhabitants of McPherson will work together on a specific definition of the goals of both colleges. Then the consultants will consider whether it will be advisable to work towards a merging of McPherson and Central Colleges.

Once all sides have agreed on a common goal directives will be worked out for the second and third phases. Both the academic and the financial sides will be dealt with. The consultants first help the colleges to find their goals and then help to achieve them.

McPherson College will be neither the first nor the last college consulted by this firm which has performed service to 21 four-year colleges and 32 junior colleges already. Apart from this Davis MacConnell Ralston have been working for 72 schools, U.S. government offices (among others the Department of the Treasury) and many private firms.

Institutions near to this college who have been advised are the McPherson Public Schools and Friends University, Wichita. Also LaVerne College has been advised. The last two places showed some fast moving after the consulting and they did not only move fast but they moved upward, too.

The consultants being independent from any group prejudices or opinions may work with greater objectivity than anybody living on this campus. They will make their proposals regardless of the college's present policies and wishes. They might even propose to close the place for good until it is willing to make drastic changes, as they proposed to Friends University.

As Mr. Holman from the development office said, "They won't always tell you what you want to hear, but you've paid them to listen to them". Thus, if anybody is able to objectively evaluate and improve this place it will be the consultants.

Regarding these facts and the state McPherson is in at the moment (enrollment drops constantly), it is not astonishing that all groups on campus are unanimously for calling in a consultant. Long range planning committee considered the possibilities ever since it started and has been seriously concerned with it since last October. The executive committee decided for it on Jan. 25 and all necessary contacts seem to have been made by now.

To decrease cost it was decided to take at least the first step together with Central College which will carry half the cost of the first phase amounting to $4250. The same amount has to be raised for McPherson College. Total cost will be an estimated $45,000.

To get the financing started

M. Claire Miller from the Board of Trustees has donated $1500 and is looking for others to match his donation.

Here the action 225-1500 has moved in and tries to accomplish this purpose. The students working on it think that this will be the best way to show that we, the students, really care about this college. The action of the students also may encourage other donors to make their pledges to the college.

Besides the financial aspect there is another one. The presentation of the money raised by 225-1500 will give more weight to the students' arguments in favour of more extensive student responsibilities. It is believed that the money raised by 225-1500 will be a definite proof that we—the students of McPherson—really care.

We can expect a whole lot from the consultants and we should all be willing to help the college in its effort to improve.

Laird to talk on draft

Tonight, KFJH and CBS News will produce another edition of "CLASSROOM USA" with Secretary of Defense Melvin Laird answering questions regarding the draft.

CBS News correspondents will be stationed in the Washington studios with Sec. Laird, Rutgers University in New Jersey, Santa Monica High School in California, and the University of Texas in Austin. By direct radio hook-up, students will be able to ask Sec. Laird questions about the draft.

"CLASSROOM USA"—AT ISSUE THE DRAFT" will be heard on CBS and KFJH (Dial 1330 at 7:10 p.m. tonight.)

At the conclusion of the CBS portion of the program, KFJH will continue with KFJH News Director, George Doyle and several officials from Wichita draft boards No. 68 and No. 69.

They will also be in contact with the director of Kansas Selective Service in Topeka via telephone. Listeners will have the opportunity to phone in questions about the draft to the panel, and have their questions immediately on the air. This portion of the special program will continue to about 9:30 p.m.

NIH official will visit Mac

Delbert L. Nye, Chief, Normal Volunteer Patient Section, of the Clinical Center, National Institutes of Health, Bethesda, Maryland, will conduct an informational meeting Tuesday, March 3, at 7 p.m. in Harnly 310.

He will remain on campus Wednesday, March 4, for interviews with students applying for acceptance to the program. All are welcome to attend and encouraged to apply.

Selected students will go to Bethesda, near Washington, D.C. at government expense to serve as normal volunteers for medical research.

"They will be healthy patients living in a research hospital," Nye said. "Our physicians need to study healthy persons to compare and contrast them with ill ones."

Interested students may pick up brochures describing the program and application forms as well as make appointments for

What's new with the BSU

Should there be another open meeting? The Black Student Union has been talking about having another open meeting. This time the meeting will be held in class rooms of Mohler Hall.

There will be about four class rooms each holding its own discussion. This is to give more people the opportunity to voice their opinion about the topic being discussed or whatever comes to mind or even things he has questions about.

The Black Student Union will give the Coffee House new lights. The BSU long with the Young Republicans are going to try to decorate the upstairs of the Coffee House with the cooperation of the Coffee House Staff.

interviews any time from now through March 4 in the Dean's office.

Dr. John H. Burkholder, professor of biology and campus recruitment chairman, is also available to discuss the program with students.

Accepted students will undergo certain test, some of them involving only minor physical discomforts. None will be dangerous because each test is studied and approved by teams of highly competent medical research physicians. However, a volunteer may withdraw from the program at any time.

Time will be available for most student volunteers to visit the nation's shrines in the Washington area. They are paid a daily stipend and are housed in hospital rooms, with free board and laundry service.

Dental and medical services are also available, if needed, and a variety of free recreational activities is offered.

Around Campus

SECOND SEMESTER HAS BROUGHT NEW faces to the campus. McPherson College has seventy-five new students this term, of which fifty-three are full-time students and twenty-two are part-time students.

Students leaving the student body have also brought about a change in the student community. A total of 123 students left before the beginning of this term. Thirty-three of these graduated either at the end of the fall term or at the close of inter-term. Of the ninety others, fifty-five maintained a 2.0 GPA or above, thirty-three were below a 2.0 GPA, and thirteen of these were suspended.

AS PART OF THE ACTIVITIES DURING March 6-7 concerning the annual Trustee meeting to be held on campus, faculty women, faculty wives and the trustee wives will meet in Dotzour Hall lounge on March 6 from 9-11 a.m. for coffee and chat.

This is being planned by the administrative wives.

OVER $1,750 WAS RAISED BY APPROXIMATELY 150 McPherson College students for the McPherson Heart Fund, conducted by Student Council.

Teams of students canvassed the city door-to-door on Heart Sunday, Feb. 22. The industrial and business drives were conducted earlier in the month.

This year's total nearly tripled the amount raised last year.

The resignations of some McPherson College personnel have been accepted. Their services rendered have been appreciated.

The following are those who will be leaving to serve elsewhere: Guy Hayes, formerly director of financial aids; Jean F. McLane, Jr., assistant professor of German; Edwin A. Mohler, director of publicity and promotion; Dr. Galen Snell, dean of student affairs and assistant professor in psychology; Mrs. Ruth M. Snell, assistant professor in music; Dr. Lewis C. Young, assistant professor of psychology; Mrs. Brenda (Walker) Kumble, formerly the switchboard operator; and James E. Weaver, library assistant.

Applications are now being reviewed for persons who will fill these vacancies. Mrs. Linda Allmon has assumed her new position as switchboard operator. Dr. Meritt L. Frantz, dean of academic affairs, will be in Chicago during Feb. 26-March 3 attending three meetings.

On Feb. 26-28, he will attend the annual meeting of the American Association of Colleges for Teacher Education.

Three students enjoy free popcorn provided by the Mac Snack and Student Council after the game last Friday night.

Board seeks applications

The Board of Publications is seeking applications for the positions for next year of campus editor of the Spectator, assistant editor of the Quadrangle, assistant business managers for both publications, and an assistant business manager who will take over yet this year on the Spectator staff.

Interested students should apply to Dave Gestry, sr., Peach Bottom, Pa., chairman of the Board of Publications, before Friday, March 13.

Spec endorses 225-1500

The recent uprise in student action has been exemplified in many areas including the proposals on women's hours, open dorms, and student regulation of extra-curricular activities. Perhaps the most significant of all, however, is 225-1500.

This student effort can demonstrate the desire students have to plug into the long range planning, and could be a particularly appropriate way to demonstrate that concern for the student proposals and for the College is genuine.

Obtaining an educational consultant, though costly, is the most objective, comprehensive, and possibly quickest way to carefully plan the future of McPherson College.

Students who want change and a voice in making it should willingly contribute $2.25, and more.

McGovern speaks at Bethel

Senator George McGovern (D-S. D.) spoke at Bethel College on Feb. 11. The audience was a mixed group of students, faculty, and citizens from the area. One's immediate impression of the Senator was that he might have been any college professor or businessman with a mid-western background. He spoke slowly, clearly and calmly, relaxing his audience, yet keeping their attention.

The Senator stated "... three priorities to which we ought to pledge ourselves." He listed first the Vietnam war which he described as a disaster and a moral and diplomatic failure. His second concern was the "military monster devouring the resources of this country." "Neither G-d nor man ever gave us the assignment of policing the rest of the world," the Senator stated.

His third priority was revitalization of our institutions at home. However, Senator McGovern stressed the idea that this did not mean isolation. He saw our aim in foreign relations to be aid, not military efforts.

A discussion period was opened following the delivery of Senator McGovern's speech. The two following questions and answers are examples of the Senator's opinions.

Question: What do you think about the "thawing" relations between the U.S. and China?

Answer: The Senator felt that we should suspend plans for an ABM system to protect us from China if we hoped to have better relations with them. He suggested that we encourage trade, international conferences, and be open for normal diplomatic relations. With the antagonism we displayed toward China, we might expect some unfavorable reactions, just as an individual reacts to antagonism, so will a country.

Question: What good has Spiro Agnew done for this country and why does he have such a large following?

Answer: The Senator stated that he didn't know if he could really be objective, because he didn't fathom Mr. Agnew. He believed it was a mistake when Mr. Agnew was elected governor of Maryland, and that his being capitulated into the Vice-presidency was Mr. Nixon's first mistake. Senator McGovern thought that the press, Peace Movement, students, and Senator Fulbright made much more sense than Mr. Agnew, who was intimidating these people.

Mike Loveless views

Student rights at Mac

by Michael J Loveless
One of the areas of life a student should become acquainted with in his stay at McPherson College concerns rights and responsibilities. Unfortunately many students do not attain a full view of this important area so I shall endeavor now to broaden their view as best I am able.

First, the student of McPherson College has the responsibility to become acquainted with the rules of the College and to obey them.

The College, as stated on page eight of the Catalog "reserves the right to suspend a student at any time with or without legal cause."

Of course, we can't expect the student to have many (any) rights concerning the whole College.

Let us go to the dorms where, as stated in the Growl, "Students living in the dormitories

On the place of religion

by Sylvia Eller

Do the phrases "to acknowledge that all truth is of God," "an opportunity for service to God," and "to provide higher education within a Christian context" necessarily imply a "flagrant attempt to impregnate the minds of students with... execrable nonsense"?

I maintain that they don't and that those students who feel they do should take a second look at what Mac is presently doing with regards to religious teaching.

In the current catalogue it is stated that "the religious development at the College is fostered through the following aims: to acquaint the student with the intelligent understanding of the basic doctrines of the Christian religion."

"to help him develop a Christian perspective of the universe and a Christian oriented philosophy of life; to confront him with the ethical ideals of the Christian religion; and to help him become involved in the community in a charitable manner."

How does the College attempt to carry out these aims? By providing a Christian faculty, courses in philosophy and religion, chapel once a week, Christian organizations such as MCY, religious leaders on campus, and an atmosphere of person-to-person contacts, and by cooperating with community churches.

None of these things are forced on the students with the exception of the Christian faculty, and although I am only a freshman, I have not yet had a faculty member even try to talk to me about my religious beliefs, let alone attempt to force any kind of religious beliefs or practices on me.

Merely because McPherson College has restated its present aims in slightly stronger language does not mean that it is going to suddenly become an institution which forcibly impresses religious "idiocy" on the students. It will very likely remain about where it is regarding religion.

We get letters

Coed rejects 225 plan

225-1500 is not what we need. Our need has already begun to be fulfilled by the students of McPherson College. We have started several proposals that we feel are beneficial to our college.

As it stands now, our proposals will be forgotten about until the consultants have come and have completed their evaluation. If so, our own efforts to help and support our college have been in vain.

The results of the last three weeks' events have been astounding and quite gratifying

I think much of the big fear of religion and trend toward secularism among the college community and American society in general is due to contact with churches that either propound hellfire-and-damnation or are just lacking in relevance to the issues of today.

They tend to put religion, Christianity, and God into little boxes composed of specific beliefs, and one is expected to either accept the little package or reject it.

But religion, Christianity, and God are not little, compact, awful-looking packages. They are broad concepts which can incorporate an unlimited number and variety of individual beliefs, faiths, and practices.

And, believe it or not, there are some institutional churches which will tolerate a variety of beliefs and which are making serious attempts to be relevant to today's world (and succeeding at it, I might add).

Rather than denying religion because of fears and prejudices instilled by former experiences, open your mind and give religion a chance. It can be a good thing.

to the fact that the students do care about McPherson College,

The fear I personally feel is that if our present proposals are not acted upon now, the students will become once again apathetic. We are trying right now, why not let us continue?

We are the students, we care. Let us at least try our proposals. Don't let the efforts of Student Council be blown to the wind.

If we didn't want to help McPherson College, we wouldn't have presented the proposals which are at this time pending. We want action now.

Our proposals are sound and extremely reasonable. Let's support our college and show we care, simply by showing our support for our proposals and requesting immediate action upon them.

Film features "Born Free"

"Born Free" is the movie that will be shown in Student Union basement, Feb. 27, at 8 p.m. Admission will be $5.00.

This lightly fictionalized account of Joy Adamson's best selling book about a lioness raised as a house pet, uses the scrubby plains of Kenya as its backdrop, and abundant wildlife is the cast of thousands and the laws of nature, is the author of the plot.

"Born Free" strikingly reaffirms the lesson taught by Elsa that loyalty, gratitude and affability are traits to be cherished in all species.

Students show new attitude

The beginning of the second term at McPherson College has begun with a changed attitude held by many students. Rather than sitting passively on the by-sides complaining about the college, a majority of the McPherson student body is now involved in efforts which will improve McPherson College.

The Stuco close-down has ended, two student body meetings were well-attended, and the student body voted on and passed various proposals. What a month this has been!

During the years I have attended McPherson College, President Melhorn has talked about a vital, involved student body at McPherson College. The events of the month have brought Dr. Melhorn's dreams into reality.

A group of students from Stuco and from the student body have begun discussions with members of the administration concerning our proposals. Despite the fears of some students over the 225-1500 movement, Stuco will not let these student proposals become "lost" in the hierarchy of the administration.

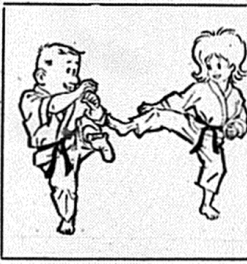

Long-range planning and our proposals are not necessarily opposites of each other.

After one work session on the student proposals, some progress has already been made towards implementing certain sections. Much more work needs to be done by the student group, however, in making the proposals more specific.

We are working together with the administration to implement these proposals, but much more work needs to be done.

What the near future holds for us as McPherson College students is still unknown, but it will be much more certain with your continued discussion and support. Stuco will issue progress reports as progress is made on the proposals.

Shaw speaks for today

by Charles W. Fischer

The responsive audience of Thursday's Convocation made this reviewer nearly forget that the captive audience was not totally in attendance through choice. The Alpha Omega's presentation of SAINT JOAN offered something for everyone: in addition to the creative and flexible acting there was the titillating script by Shaw to delight the student of literature.

For those who enjoy a good argument (as any good Shavian does) the political questions aroused were numerous and well placed; of course, historically, the story of Joan offers much to weigh.

The brevity of the setting should please the economist who feels that capitalism has brought the theatre to its present state, and the simplicity of the costumes should find interest to the home economist and abstract artist. For those who do not fit into any of the above categories the brevity of the performance (the original lasted three and one-half hours) should encourage some favorable acclaims.

The Alpha Omega Players presented for the Convocation's audience an excellent, sincere performance of a most outstanding literary piece. It would be well moved if the Convocation's committee of cultural arts committee would invite the Alpha Omega Players back for another stand on Brown's stage.

However, the one question in ponderance is one of intellectual stimulation. How many persons were entertained and how many were stimulated? The relevance of Saint Joan to modern Americans, to Modern Man, and to 1970 McPherson College persons is unique and impressive.

Shaw presents us with keen insights into the continual war between the individual and society. He challenges each to be convicted of his own will to the point that he can face and meet death in order to defend the convictions.

If one backs down from his convictions, it is warned that he might face "perpetual imprisonment." On the other side of the coin is the argument that "he who says too much truth also dies." The unanswered argument exists between whether to be truly convicted or in being silent and letting wrong occur.

Although Shaw was sixty-seven years of age when this play was finished, he displays a sharp eye towards the "generation gap" for indeed, part of Joan's problem was just that: a gap in trust between the youth and the all-powerful elders. Stubbornly, the elders would not listen to the youth. Cowardly, they eradicated her for radical ideals. Repentfully, they mourned her death and then sought her leadership.

The past few weeks at McPherson College have seen calls of youth wanting to lead. Also, there is a strong call for educational stimuli. To the first call, Shaw provided one side of the argument. The amount of relevance deciphered by the audience provides the answer to the second call.

If there is a lack of educational stimulation at McPherson College it is not because such is not available but because it is not sought after and found by dedicated persons.

Dalton to speak

Special service will be held in observance of Brotherhood Week in Brown Auditorium at 7:30 p.m. on Feb. 26. Sam Dalton of Denver, Colorado will be the speaker.

This program is being sponsored by churches of McPherson and MCY in the interest of promoting better relationships and understanding. The service will also feature special music from the local negro church, St. James Church of God in Christ, served by the Rev. E. Berry. There will be others from Hutchinson and Salina taking part. The public is cordially invited.

Dalton has spoken throughout the country to business men's groups, service clubs, prisons, churches and schools. He was recently featured on the national radio program "Unshackled," and in three issues of "Contact", a magazine published by Christian Business Men's Committee International.

ACCK sponsors economics lecturer

On March 2 McPherson College students will have the chance to hear an important economist lecture on two topics of great relevance and interest to today's problems.

Dr. Richard Leftwich will speak on "The Poverty Problem in the U.S." at 9:30 a.m. in Harnly 101, and the second lecture will be on "Economic Theory: Luxury or Necessity?" in Harnly 101 at 7:00 p.m. Everyone who wishes to may attend.

Bulldogs play final games

by John Miller

The McPherson College Bulldogs defeated the Ottawa Braves on Tuesday, Feb. 17 by a score of 84-60. The game left Ottawa in a daze as the Bulldogs ran over the Braves with a hot first half and an equally strong second half.

In the opening minutes of the game, the Bulldogs had complete control while hitting 4 for 4 from the floor. Gradually they pulled away and led by 20 points at half-time.

Bill Chenoweth, who finished up with 16 points, led the Bulldogs in scoring the first half and pulled down valuable rebounds throughout the game.

Jim Mowry, top scorer for McPherson this season, had his usual 25 points along with a fine defensive performance. Dick Thompson and Hal Wright each played a fine ball game scoring 16 and 14 points respectively.

Overall the Bulldogs had a fantastic 55 percent from the floor compared to Ottawa's 28 percent.

The Tabor College Blue Jays defeated the McPherson Bulldogs by a close score of 80-77 on Friday, Feb. 20.

Tabor won the game at the free throw line hitting 22 out of 28 attempts, while the Bulldogs on the other hand outshot the Blue Jays 31 to 29 from the floor.

The first half was close all the way with the lead changing several times before McPherson gained a 43-41 advantage at half time.

Tabor scored first in the second half to tie the game at 43-43. Minutes later, Tabor scored again to take the lead 45-43 as they went ahead to stay the remainder of the game although the Bulldogs kept close on their heels.

McPherson hit 43 percent of its shots from the field and Tabor 41 percent. Each team made 78 percent of its free throws.

Jim Mowry, a senior playing his final game for McPherson, was high scorer in the game with a total of 24 points. Dick Thompson and Bill Chenoweth both had fine games, scoring 16 and 12 points respectively.

Duffy to speak at Convo

Clinton T. Duffy, formerly warden of the world's largest prison, San Quentin, will speak at Convocation Thursday, March 5, at 9 a.m. in Brown Auditorium.

Duffy, author of "The San Quentin Story," "88 Men and 2 Women," and "Sex and Crime," is credited as the founder of modern penology.

He served as delegate to the Third United Nations Congress on the Prevention of Crime and the Treatment of the Offender, in Stockholm, Sweden, in 1965.

The story of his life has been made into a motion picture, "Duffy of San Quentin."

Duffy will answer the questions of what it's like to die in the gas chamber and whether capital punishment serves any useful purpose.

Coeds defeat Tabor

Friday, Feb. 20, the McPherson College coeds defeated the Tabor College coeds 57 to 30 to give McPherson their eighth victory of the season. Their seasonal record now stands at 8-1.

McPherson led all the way with 17-8 by the end of the first quarter, 34-16 at halftime and 44-20 at the end of the third quarter. High scorer was Mary Hutchison with 23 points and Kathy Rogers had 15.

McPherson's next game will be on Saturday, Feb. 28, at 8 p.m. at the Roundhouse. This game will follow the McPherson High and Strong City girls' game which will start at 6:30 p.m.

Admission charge for the evening, which will go for athletic uniforms, will be adults $.75, students $.50, and children $.25.

Mrs. Snell to give recital

Mrs. Ruth Snell, assistant professor in music, will present her faculty recital on March 1, at 7:30 p.m. in the Church of the Brethren. The public is cordially invited.

Her repertoire of organ music will include pieces from the Baroque, Romantic, and Contemporary periods. She will play Bach's "Trio Sonata in C", and as the contemporary number, will include Towland Leach's suit, 'Casual Brevities' in the repertoire. This descriptive music was written to picture the desert, and each piece is entitled with the name of a different cactus plant.

Mrs. Snell, who received her Masters Degree in music from the University of Arizona in 1967, has been teaching at McPherson College for three years. Besides she is also the organist at the Church of the Brethren.
