ONE DAY was the goal and it was achieved with the help of faculty, administration and students carrying books from Bopghy Library to our new Miller Library!

An estimated 45,000 volumes were transferred from the old library to the new with the work which began at 8 a.m. and continued until about 4:20 p.m. At one time 240 persons were counted in both loops, but this was not the largest number that worked at one time.

Many students and faculty worked throughout the day helping the move, and others worked for only part of the time. President J. Jack Melhorn expressed his deep appreciation to all the people who helped to move the books.

"This cooperative effort underscored the sense of the McPherson College community and provided the opportunity for us to feel that we are a part of the new library."

The Symphony Orchestra of the Associated Colleges of Central Kansas will present a concert Saturday evening, May 2, in Brown Auditorium at 8 p.m. Conductor Paul Roby from Kansas State University, Manhattan, has been coming to McPherson for weekly rehearsals with the orchestra since last September.

Personnel selected by Roby from McPherson include Leora Martin, violin and concertmistress; Paul Sollenberger, viola; Anne Shalaby, viola; Caroline Harnly, cello; Garold Minns, bass; Jan Luty and Karen Woody, flutes; Jayne Miller, clarinet; Winona Achilles and Bruce Kitzel, French horns; Bryce Luty, trumpet; Dale Dowdy, tenor saxophone and percussion.

Students, faculty and community musicians from Lindsborg, Salina, Sterling, Moundridge, Hesston, North Newton and Hillsboro comprise the total membership of the orchestra which has already performed on the other A.C.C.K. campuses this year.

The program will consist of Beethoven's Egmont Overture, Prokofiev's Lieutenant Kije Suite, Liszt's Les Preludes, Mozart's Symphonie Concertante for violin and viola, and Kabalevsky's Colas Breugon Overture.

This is the second season for orchestra which came into being as a result of the cooperative efforts of the music departments in the six colleges of the ACCK.

Tri-college Band performs today

This afternoon at 3 p.m. in Brown Auditorium the Tri-college Band will give a concert of modern music.

This is the first of a series of programs at Mac, Bethel, and Tabor following the Band's participation in the 20th Century Music Festival at Kansas State Teachers College at Emporia.

Wrestling with the questions of life found in "The Perpetual Answer," by John Biggs, this piece includes a brass quintet which poses life's questions and two echo trumpets give an unvaried answer.

George Hitt, director of the Bethel College band and codirector (with Bill Braun, director at McPherson and Tabor) of the Tri-college Band, has completed "Cross-currents" which will be included in this program.

Instead of having one awards assembly this year, student recognition will be given at various events from April 23 to May 14. The first of these awards were presented at the April 23 convocations. They are as follows:

Carlson was elected Governor of Kansas in 1946 and was re-elected in 1948. He resigned in November 1950, to fill a Senate vacancy resulting from the death of Clyde M. Reed. Carlson was re-elected to a full term in 1950, again in 1956 and 1962 and retired at the close of his last term.

Education stimulation

McPherson College's new Miller Library is the best thing that's happened around campus this year.

The beauty of the building both inside and out is something everyone can be proud of. It's an attractive addition to our campus.

More important is what the library can mean to education at McPherson. An old crowded library cannot completely hamper interested students, but the assets of our new library should facilitate and motivate learning.

Although it's been too long coming, the library is a stimulation and challenge to education at McPherson.

Contest offers diamonds for original love poetry

Two poetry contests for college age students have been announced, the Orange Blossom national poetry contest and the Lyric Foundation for Traditional Poetry Award.

The subject is love, the medium is poetry, and the prizes are diamonds in the Orange Blossom contest.

Sponsored by one of the nation's leading creators of diamond rings, the first annual Orange Blossom contest is open to all individuals between the ages of 16 and 21.

Contest entries will be judged by a prominent panel of poetry experts, including singer-composer Glenn Yarbrough, Michael Mesic, editor of Poetry Magazine, and Marsha Lee Masters, poetry editor of the Chicago Tribune and daughter of poet Edgar Lee Masters.

Orange Blossom will present specially designed diamond pendants to the five first award winners. A series of merit commendations also will be given to runners-up.

Each entrant may submit up to five poems, a total of 200 lines in length. Each poem will be judged separately on its own literary merits, with individual authorship and originality being stressed.

Complete contest rules and entry blanks are available at over 2,000 jewelry stores across the United States. Closing date for entries is May 15.

The Lyric award of $100 will be made for the best original and unpublished poem of 32 lines or less, written in the traditional manner by an undergraduate student enrolled in any American or Canadian college or university.

There will also be a second prize of $50 and 20 honorable mentions, each in the amount of $25.

Not more than five poems may be entered by a contestant. The name and home address of the contestant, as well as the name and address of his college, must appear on each poem.

Poems must be mailed not later than June 1 to "College Contest," The Lyric, Brevo Buff, Virginia 23033.

Winners will be announced in the Fall, 1970, issue of The Lyric.

Coeds protest way of change

We would like to protest the manner in which change is handled on this campus. We believe it all started last February when Stuco closed down as a means of shocking the student body out of its apathy.

The move was successful, at least temporarily, as it was followed by two well-attended student meetings and an election in which various constitutional amendments were passed.

The whole issue then seemed to sink into oblivion, as the administration studied it. Then, last Wednesday, it was brought into focus again when Metzler Hall brought a proposal on dorm visitation to Student Council as a test case to see where the administration stood on the amendments. This was followed by a boycott of the Stuco elections (which weren't held because there were no ballots) last Friday.

This move for change has involved considerable emotion, haste, and statements to the effect that the administration is composed of a gang of two-faced, lying SOB's. We would like to submit for your consideration the possibility that maybe they aren't the ogres we make them out to be.

They can and do state their positions to anyone who asks, and they have made some changes as a result of our expressed interest (student members on committees and dorm visitation recently, smoking on campus and convocations attendance in the not-too-far-distant past).

If they were the tyrants trying to enforce their "Christian morals" on us, would they allow such changes? We think not.

This is not to say that we should stop fighting for what we believe in, or that the administration is infallible, not by any means. We do have certain disagreements and criticisms, and they should be made known.

It only means that we should deal with them on an equal level as rational adults, not as oppressed peoples struggling to tyranny, or as children who must have their way right now.

Alumni telethon arouses interest

This year's Alumni Telethon, the program in which alumni call other alumni friends regarding the support of the College, was held March 30-April 4 in the three centers set up in McPherson's Peoples Bank, the Administration Building at Sacred Heart College in Wichita, and the Church of the Brethren in Kansas City, Mo.

The names of 3,200 individuals or couples from across the nation were divided among these centers, and as a result of the calls, $24,600 was the total amount of the actual pledged contributions.

These funds will be used towards the cost of constructing and equipping the audio-visual language lab in Miller Library, and also for the "help 10 attend" program, which makes up the difference between what 10 students pay for tuition and the actual cost of their attending Mac for one day.

In Wichita at Sacred Heart College, twenty members of their Alumni Board watched the calling one evening and then met with Gerald Holman, director of development, and showed interest in the Telethon.

Each evening after all the calls were made, a tabulation at each center was made of the person who had received the largest pledge amount.

Paul Wagoner, associate director of development, says, "We are convinced that there is value in calling various areas where there are alumni. Next year we hope to involve more alumni in calling by moving out to different areas where there is a concentration of alumni, as in the areas of Denver, Topeka, Chicago or Los Angeles.

Board reviews anti-war policies

Two former McPherson College students were among eight war resisters appearing before the General Board of the Church of the Brethren at their March 17-20 meeting.

Gary E. Wilson, LaVerne, Calif., a former Elgin resident working with the American Friends Service Committee in Chicago, and John P. Zinn, Houston, Texas, formerly in alternative service in Chicago, were two of four who turned over draft registration cards to the Board, requesting them to forward the cards along with related Selective Service documents to the U. S. Justice Department.

Following extended discussion by the elected officials among themselves and with the young men, the Board voted 16 for, 7 against, and 1 abstaining to transmit the materials.

The Church of the Brethren, one of the country's historic peace churches, has now indicated it will take a serious look at its ties with the Selective Service System.

As an approved civilian work agency since 1951, the denomination has accepted approximately 100 conscientious objectors a year in alternative service work in the United States and overseas.

The eight men declared in a prepared statement, "We can no longer accept the legality of the Selective Service System over the morality of our consciences."

They said they could and would have sent the draft materials to Washington on their own; what they sought in the overture to the General Board was "the active and heartfelt support of our church."

One of the resisters, Ervin Huston of Nampa, Idaho, a student at Bethany Theological Seminary, Oak Brook, Ill., previously had been in alternative service in Vietnam. He hid the church for not having made the stand of noncooperation better known some years ago, commenting, "I first heard of draft resistance in a U.S.O in Vietnam."

"The presence of the young men, like the concern they carried, signals the serious questioning of Selective Service and war which many church youth and others are engaging in," said the Rev. Wilbur E. Mullen, the draft counselor.

Dr. Dale W. Brown, a professor at Bethany Theological Seminary, reminded the General Board that more than the support of the conscience of radical young people was at stake. "The question," said Dr. Brown, "is whether we of the church are willing to become more radical, to lay our bodies on the line in a witness for peace."

Some of the General Board members stated that while they did not agree personally with the course of action of the eight, they felt the stand was consistent with the Anabaptist-Brethren heritage which puts the dictates of God and of conscience above the dictates of the state.

Retired pastor Raymond R. Peters of North Manchester, Ind., a former chairman and general secretary of the General Board, termed the decision "the most difficult" he had confronted as a member of the Board.

Among those opposed to the acceptance of the draft materials, part of the feeling was that more extended reflection was needed to arrive at a decision.

Stated one board member who voted against the action, "We as a church are an imperfect people who I think sometimes expect a perfect government."

At the time the eight young men appeared, the General Board was considering a proposal calling for the denominational assembly in June to revise the church's policy statement on war, moving away from recommending the alternative service position to men facing the draft to giving equal status to alternative service and noncooperation.

The proposal as passed by the Board in effect would give greater place to individual conscience, including to persons who choose military service as well as to those who take the alternative service or resistance stand.

KU offers scholarships

Graduate scholarships and stipends in the field of social work for students who have qualified for admission to the Graduate School of Social Welfare, University of Kansas, are available now.

Financial assistance through these scholarships and stipends are being offered to students who have an AB degree or expect to earn an AB degree in 1970 by the United Fund and Community Planning Council of Wichita and Sedgwick County.

A general scholarship entitles the student assistance during the time he is in training. In addition, he must accept social work employment in Wichita or Sedgwick County for a period of 12 months for the $2,500 or less he receives and one month for each additional $250 received.

Students accepted for a stipend will receive assistance during the nine months of a block field work assignment in a Wichita agency. A stipend agreement does not involve a commitment to accept employment after receiving a MSW degree.

Students wishing to make application may write to Carol Weaverling, Community Planning Council, 530 Insurance Building, Wichita, Ks. 67202.

Those desiring information for qualification to the School of Social Welfare may write to Dr. Arthur Katz, Director, School of Social Welfare, University of Kansas, Lawrence.

Make your gift to CARE this Mother's Day

Last year nearly 1,000,000 American women received a unique Mother's Day gift. It was a simple card from CARE, telling them that, in their honor, the international agency was forwarding help to needy mothers and children overseas.

CARE hopes to continue projects of nutrition, health, and education through funds from the Mother's Day plan again this year.

All that is required is a dollar or more per honoree. Include the name and address of each person to whom cards should be sent. Orders should be addressed to CARE — Mother's Day, 1125 Grand Avenue, Kansas City, Mo. 64106.

More than 42,000 mothers and children receive CARE food assistance, in addition to 2.5 million school children.

CARE has also established 112 food preservation centers in villages, enabling villagers to add fruits and vegetables to their traditional winter diet of grain products.

Math-physics club to meet for election of officers

Entries are being sought for a graphic arts display June 28 at Lincoln, Neb. The occasion is the Church of the Brethren Annual Conference; the specific event, an art exhibit on the conference theme, "Celebration of Hope."

Hope is an affirmation that God is. Celebration is to be as old as the floods chapping their banks, together as new as the 1970 Conference theme. Through posters, banners, and photographs, it is intended that the biblical concepts of celebration and hope will come alive and take on new and fuller meaning.

It's an open field — serigraph, painting, woodcut, photography, magazine, collage — for poster people and banner creators.

Photographers may submit prints, black and white or color, 11 x 14 inches, minimum size. Entrants may be anyone related in any way to, Church of the Brethren congregations, institutions, such as McPherson College, and programs.

Everyone may submit up to three items in each classification. An impartial committee will select exhibit items.

Material should be postmarked no later than May 26 and should be sent to Office of Communication, Church of the Brethren General Offices, 1451 Dundee Avenue, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

Entrants will receive recognition through the Annual Conference exhibit and through photographs of the work in various publications of the church.

Mathematics and Physics Club will hold its next meeting on Monday, May 4, at 7 p.m. in Harny 203.

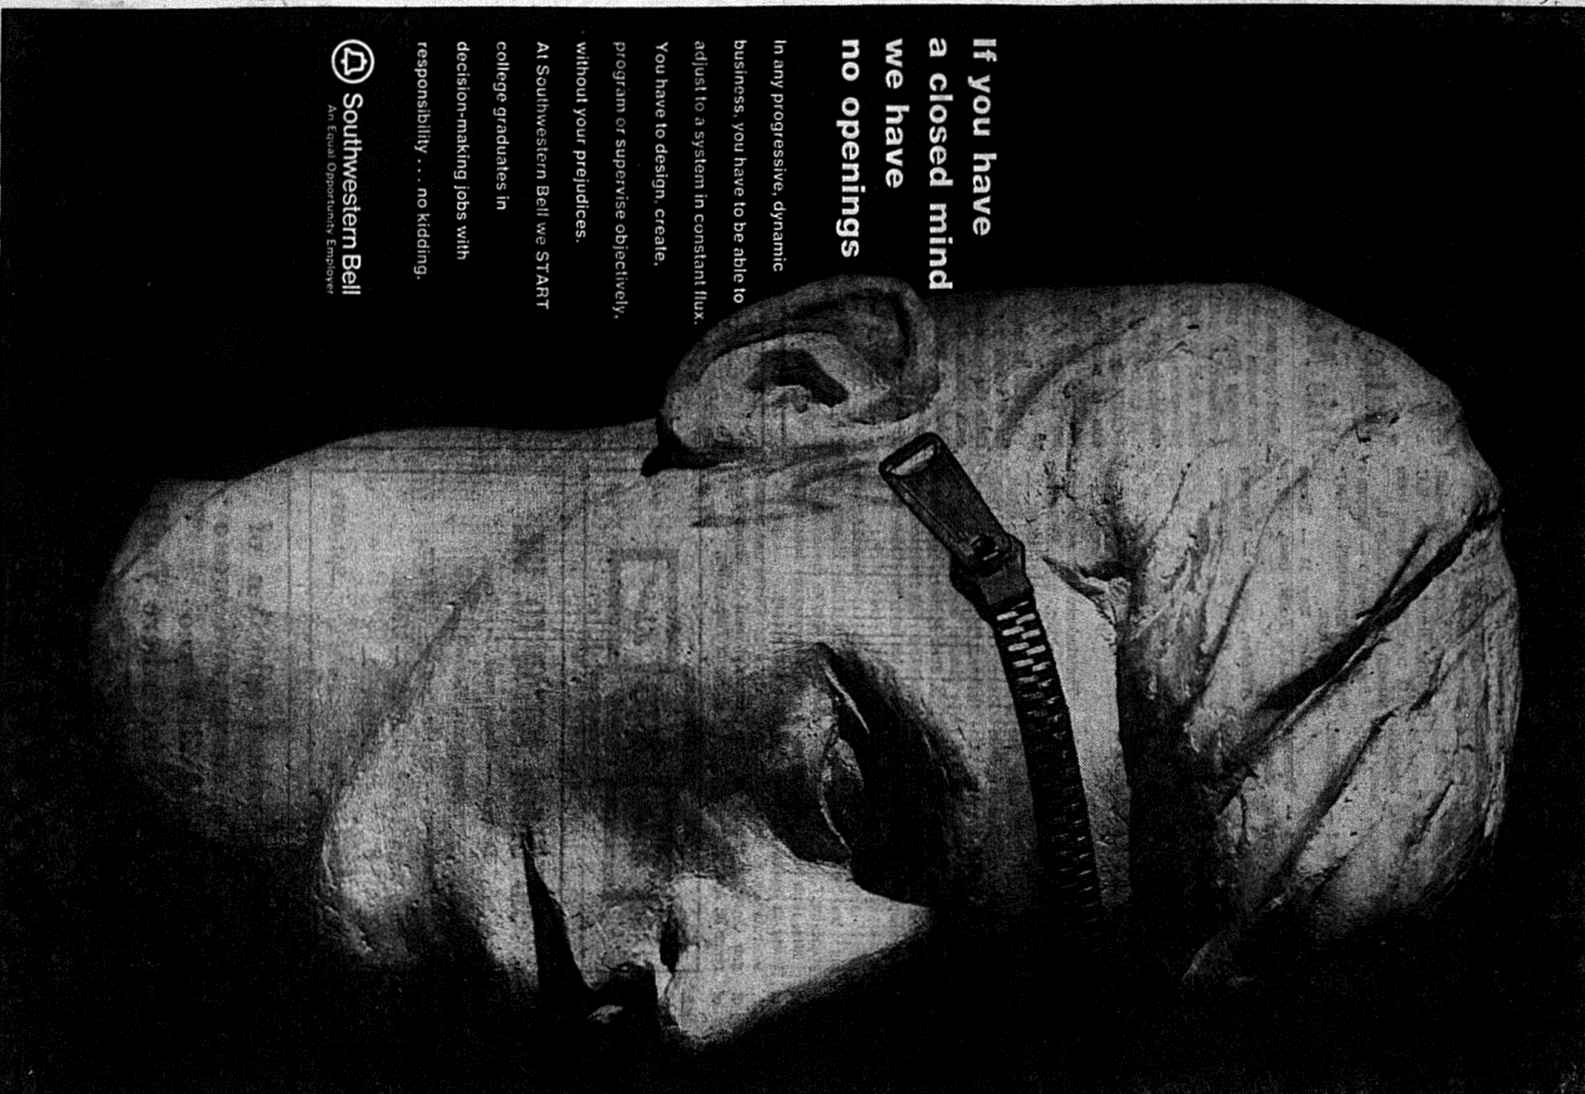

Elections of next year's officers are to be held, and therefore it is important that all members attend.

Plans for the picnic in May will also be discussed. Refreshments will be served.

Professor Ted Zarger, from the Math Department of KNU, was the guest speaker on Monday evening, April 20.

His topic was the S.E.E.D. program in which he is currently participating. "Special Education for the Disadvantaged" is a program experimenting with the teaching of disadvantaged children with qualified personnel and new approaches. Professor Zarger spoke of his experiences with and thoughts of the program. Eight members, six guests and two advisers were present.
