

Stabilization of salaries receives Trustee approval

Approval to a recommendation to stabilize all salaries for the academic year 1971-72 was recently given by the McPherson College faculty and staff. This was done with the understanding that student tuition and room charges will also be held at their present level during the coming academic year.

According to the proposal, only minimal adjustments such as change in assignment, job description, and advancement in rank will warrant a salary increase during next year.

The recommendation was then presented to the Education Committee and the Executive Committee of the Board of Trustees by Dr. J. Jack Melhorn, McPherson College President. After considering the recommendation of the faculty and staff the Executive Committee released the following motions:

"That for the next academic year we leave tuition and room charges the same and that the charge for board be subject to further study."

"That we accept the recommendation of the Education Committee that salaries remain at the 1970-71 level for the next year."

Harold I. Mohler, Chairman of the Board, expressed his appreciation to the faculty and administration of the college:

"By your action and recommendation in regard to 1971-72 salary schedule, you have shown your faith in, and concern for, McPherson College. I wish to add my personal thanks for your continuing leadership, devotion, and faith in the future of our College."

Vote Gives Approval

The vote of 136 students has decided the fate of McPherson's new Governance Model. This means that only 20 per cent of the students voted.

Fifty-six students voted in opposition to the Model, with four students writing only comments on the ballot.

With the approval of 76 votes, President Melhorn will now present the Governance Model to the Board of Trustees when they meet March 4, 5, 6.

President Melhorn hopes students continue to support the new Governance Model and hopefully there will be a trial period toward the end of this semester for the Model.

Snow Provides White Holiday

S'no fun at all these days unless ya like snow.

Cause that's just about all there is. Big drifts, little drifts, smooth drifts, and drifts with all kinds 'a tracks where students have been playing in them.

More'r less they say Mac got a foot of the white stuff which suited some of the "snow Bunnies" fine. But there were those who didn't own a pair of boots. And ya still gotta eat.

With classes canceled for the day because of bad weather conditions, more students spent the day outside than if the weather had been fit.

Students were seen playing fox and geese, laboring to find which lump of white was their car, wrestling in the snow (this was usually conducted by members of the opposite sex), and jumping off roofs and the overpass into deep drifts. Even heard that one was studying.

Meanwhile Slater's Food Service complained that the village of McPherson was running kinda short on such staples as bread.

J. Jack says it's the worst snow since '52. Some students may have thought it the best.

Three foreign students experience another aspect of life in the United States. The dig-out scene was a typical happening on Tuesday.

Smalley Joins College Staff

Richard E. Smalley has recently assumed the duties of Director of Publicity and Promotion at McPherson College.

Dick is a native of Oklahoma and attended public schools in Geary and Erick, where he graduated. He attended the University of Oklahoma and graduated in December with a Bachelor of Arts degree in Journalism. His specific area of study was public relations.

He plans to be married June 18 to Miss Candy Jones of Richardson, Texas. She is presently attending the University of Oklahoma, majoring in ballet.

Coppock, Choir Success

Approximately thirty people trudged through wind and snow on Sunday afternoon to hear the choir perform "Requiem" by Gabriel Faure.

Gabriel Faure was one of the prominent musicians in France, director of the Paris Conservatory from 1905 to 1920. His music focuses on sheer tonal beauty and this composition is one of the great examples of sacred music from the late 19th century.

Soloists in the forty-minute program were Mary Ann Brown, soprano, junior from Enders, Neb.; Larry Carey, baritone, sophomore from Shipensburg, Pa.; and Roy Rowland, baritone, sophomore from Hagerstown, Md.

Accompanists were Janelle Morgan, piano, and Mrs. J. Jack Melhorn, organ.

This was the first concert with Dr. Doris Coppock acting as new director. Congratulations to Dr. Coppock, the soloists and the choir for putting together such a fine program.

Ski with ACCK

Anyone want a weekend of snow and skiing? Take the weekend of March 12-14, add the approximate cost of $36, and you will find yourself on the ACCK Ski Trip.

The cost includes lodging Saturday night, two meals, round trip transportation, and lift tickets for two days. However, it does not include ski rentals.

The plans are to leave McPherson by bus Friday, March 12, at 5:30 p.m., to ski on Saturday and Sunday and return home late Sunday evening.

Indications are that a bus load, 42 skiers can be arranged quickly; therefore, reservations will be taken on a first come, first served basis. A $10 deposit will be required by March 1 to hold your reservation.

If you are interested contact Dr. Doris Coppock, professor of physical education.

Judy Danielson Shares Vietnamese Encounter

Judy Danielson is an attractive, deeply concerned and dedicated young woman who has just returned to this country after two years with the Vietnam Christian Service. She is a physical therapist and was assigned to the South Vietnamese National Rehabilitation Institute in Saigon.

Since her return in August she has spoken in churches, colleges and high schools, on TV and radio, and to a wide variety of groups. She will be on the McPherson College Campus, March 2, for Chapel.

Of herself she says, "Living in Saigon enabled me to make many friends outside the rehabilitation center: government officials, students, Buddhists, Catholics, professionals, workers, soldiers, etc., and in each group there were both people who were accommodating to the system, and those in opposition to the government, sometimes in direct confrontation."

"I followed the Student Movement Struggle this past year very closely and experienced the repression that the police and the government — with the support of the U.S. aid and advisers — use on those demanding peace and sovereignty for themselves."

"I was one of the signers of two letters sent to President Nixon within the last year by members of voluntary agencies in Vietnam, wherein we called for immediate withdrawal of all American forces from VN, demanded an end to U.S. support of the repressive Saigon Government, etc. I participated in a demonstration for Peace outside the Catholic Cathedral in Saigon last Christmas eve."

New Displays Draw Attention

Friendship Hall has taken on a new look for the remainder of February. Prairie Water Colors, sponsored by the Kansas State Federation of Art, will be on display until the end of the month. The watercolors are done by Midwest artists.

There are also some interesting and cute cartoons and poems dealing with economics now in the Hall. They are humorously to the point.

Paintings and drawings by Kathleen Kuchar will be shown during March. Miss Kuchar is an art instructor at Fort Hays State College. Her paintings will mainly be modern and contemporary in style.

Thank You, Faculty-Staff

Personal dedication is a quality that is not often publicly recognized. Special recognition is certainly in order for the faculty and staff of McPherson College.

In order to cut down rising college expenses, the College presented the faculty and staff with a proposal to stabilize salaries for the 1971-72 academic year. This would mean no pay raises unless a faculty or staff member changed to a higher position in the college personnel.

This was done with an understanding that costs for tuition and room charges would not be increased.

The faculty and staff voted to accept this proposal. Certainly this demanded lot of personal dedication to the institution they work for and to the students they deal with.

It is not the usual practice to deny one's self a raise in salary

Marburg Students Propose Traditional Pacifists Unify

Editor's Note: The following is a proposal drawn up by a group of students who were in Marburg, Germany last year with the Brethren Colleges Abroad program.

PROPOSED: Brethren, Mennonite and Quaker students and youth get themselves together. WHY COALITION?????

1. We need to be aware of and feel a solidarity with the struggles of other pacifist students.

2. There is a great need for more communication between Brethren Service Committee, Mennonite Central Committee and the American Friends Service Committee so that we realize the vast opportunities already for service either on a short basis or for the two year alternative service.

3. Youth need help understanding the pacifist alternative. We must organize ourselves so that we can further this consciousness not only among our fellow students but eventually so that we could offer counseling to high school students. (through summer camps, conferences, and possibly a publication.)

4. BSC, MCC and AFSC must be made aware that both males and females need to face the issues involved in a pacifist life style even though our government only requires males to verbalize their position.

5. To open the dialogue between non-combatants, persons who choose to fulfill their responsibility to the present situation in complete non-cooperation and resistance.

6. The possibilities of joining forces to re-evaluate a peace studies program and its relevance in our historical situation. The possibilities of student and professor exchanges within a peace studies program and the basis for a circulation library.

7. The scheduling of conferences during vacations to discuss and BE pacifists. (short term work camps, inner city projects.)

8. CONTACT. The possibility of having a dorm or house open on every sister campus where one could stay overnight and get in contact with what is happening (prerequisite: something is happening!) during one's summer vacation and wanderings. An address list should be made available to all interested parties.

9. EXCHANGE of ideas for coffee houses, non-violence workshops and information centers and other ideas for distributing information.

10. To help us understand the historical position of the three peace Churches in their relationship to government and politics and discuss the relevance of this position in our world; to help us understand how our world is different from that of our founding fathers.

11. To help us re-evaluate the relationship between a pacifist lifestyle and the CHURCH as an institution. (This demands an understanding as to how the three churches differ as institutions.)

12. To support and increase

Sideliners

by p.o.e.
Hey, Dad, a funny thing happened to me on the way to town today. As I was walking by the lagoon I heard a duck say, "How are we supposed to survive now-a-days?"

And a Drake answered, "Just like we always have done, sink or swim." But, in all that sludge, they couldn't have done either.

That's sad, Charlie, I think the worst thing about pollution is the fact that people get used to it so easily. It happens so slowly and gently that no one really notices.

Human beings adapt too well. Someday we'll all have huge noses to filter the air and iron stomachs to process the poison out of the food. And dumb animals that we are, we will probably think we're just too beautiful for words!

By the way, Charlie, what's a sideliner?

Gish Needs New VW

An unusual ministry has developed within the Church of the Brethren in the past few years. It has grown out of the vision and commitment of Art and Peggy Gish. They and their two small children have been traveling to all parts of the country speaking about the church's testimony on peace and the simple life.

An opportunity has developed for us to participate in this ministry. The VW in which they have been traveling for several years is not likely to last through the spring. It is the concern of some of their friends to buy a new or slightly used VW station wagon for the family.

It's not the right time to be sitting here writing this column. In fact, it's not the right time for you to be sitting there reading this column. It's the right time to do everything.

It's the right time to lobby with legislators; to overthrow the system; to work without the system. To stop the war; to start the peace; to clean up the cities; purify the air; crusade for Christ, destroy the establishment; establish a counter-culture and a counter-counter-culture.

There's a right time and a right place for everything; or so says that aged-old adolescent adage we've been nurtured on. All over the country, the hands on the clock point to the same time — the right time — to do Something. To speak out, to start worrying. To become active in Activism, to become involved in Involvement, to Become.

Time is running out and we are chasing after it. Time is the question and time is the answer. And no longer is it as simple and as uncomplicated as that innocent nursery rhyme definition of time we thought we knew so very well.

Things have changed. Even the watches that adorn our student wrists that hold our clenched fists, somehow show us and the rest of the world what we are so adamantly for and against: the Spiro Agnew watch, the diamond watch, the Mickey Mouse watch. Stop watches, neck watches, under-water watches, time-pieces run by electricity, battery and/or wind-up.

And, like clock-work, we punch in and punch out keeping our eyes on our calendar girls and our calendar boys overseas; seeing that, with every pendulum swing, that we are — indeed — getting closer to getting further away.

We are told: It's time to make Decisions.

We are told: It's time to get an Education.

We are told: It's time to Mature. To get good Jobs.

It's time to keep our country Free. We are told.

And we are told. By our parents. By our peers. By our periodicals. The decision has been removed from our hearts and, magically, medically transplanted into our guilt-ridden hands.

And yet, still we rhetorically ask: what is it the right time for?

But no longer are the issues of immediate importance. The Urgency is what has become so urgent, and somehow, somewhere between the nursery rhymes and the classroom clock, we have learned well how to relate to issues, but not to people. Certainly not to ourselves.

So we run, running after the hour hand as the minute hand chases us.

"Time is running out — and we're being run by the clock, rather than the clock being run by us. We are being told everything — when to sleep, when to get up, when to love, when to hate. And all this talk about honesty and kindness — that can only be achieved when we can overcome the clock, when we can overcome time as our enemy and ruler."

Where is that medium between the innocence of youthful rhymes and the sophistication of truthful times? There are black and white problems — the black and white of peoples' faces, the black and white of our air, the black and white of this newspaper print. But there's also a whole world of gray that desperately needs some color between those youthful rhymes and truthful times.

It's the right time to stop thinking about what is the right time for and to start doing something."

And the hands on the clock, as they strike the hour, point to us all.

the existing cooperative projects.

Need Burn Center

Kathy Kihm, 19, of Chanute was a sophomore at the University of Kansas, who died in October of Lurns received in an apartment fire in Lawrence. She received the best care the KU Medical Center could give, but the KU Medical Center has no burn unit.

There is no burn unit anywhere in Kansas City or in all of Kansas. Provision for a burn center was made two years ago but no money was made available for one. It was left up to the interested doctors to raise the money and knowing the heavy load that doctors carry today, they do not have the time to go soliciting for funds. Little do you know when you, your child or a loved one might need the facilities of a burn center.

A memorial for Kathy Kihm has been established, and all contributions will go to help establish a burn center for Kansas, at the University of Kansas Medical Center.

If you can see the need and would like to be a part of it, please mail your contribution to the KATHY KIHM MEMORIAL FUND, Box 1000, Robinson, Kansas, 66532.

Modern Mexico is Land of Constant Contrasts

To tell someone what it is like to live for a short month in a country where hope is the byword rather than despair; where the old, romantic, colorful past has been preserved at the same time the most modern buildings, hospitals and plants are being built; where a girl can come in from a date on an easy-rider chopper, and before the night is over experience a tradition of the past in the form of a seranade outside her window; to tell someone of all this takes a short eternity.

Many of these experiences become tucked into your subconsciousness to be brought out bit by bit when an experience in your own world pries them out.

This picture of contrast is the one I acquired during my month in Mexico, during Interterm. Several times I was asked "What did you expect before you came here?" It was easy to say sombreros, every one living in adobe houses and everyone standing in some sort of reverence because I was an American. (I mean, doesn't everyone want to be American?)

Instead I found no sombreros, the most beautiful and modern houses with marble where we would use cement, and an extreme pride in their own Mexican ancestry.

The question, "What did you find that you didn't expect?" was much more difficult to answer. I didn't expect the ever-present past, the hopeful look to the future, the beggars, the continuing helpfulness of the people. But most of all I didn't expect to fall so much in love with a country and with a people as I did during my stay.

The weekend in Mexico City was one of constant contrast. After riding the Metro — the most modern form of commuting transportation in Mexico City, we went to the pyramids where we were confronted with the skill and technology of the past. It became impressed on me during the trip how Mexico has succeeded — in my eyes — in preserving their past in an awesome, sometimes foreboding way, and yet has moved forward to become a modern, prosperous country.

To tell someone of all of this and try to make them understand would take much more space than I have and more time to read than you would want to give. Besides, everyone comes back with something different and my most meaningful experience would mean nothing to many people.

But I felt a bit like those men who were also a long way from home at that time, walking in unknown territory. Then I wondered — we are so close to these people on this earth — we can reach them by jet in hours. Why then are we so far apart that one must have a special month to visit and try to know their fellow man.

These are just a few of the experiences, thoughts and feelings I had as a result of my interterm trip to Mexico. It is a deep wish of mine that more students could be exposed to this type of experience.

From talking to others who went on trips over interterm, we are all in agreement. Interterm is a time to take advantage of all the possibilities. No more McPherson Campus Interterms for me.

Meet Feb. 25 Concerning Vote

College Republicans and College Democrats and other interested people invited to attend.

Coeds Find CUTE Program Challenging, Exciting Work

"I slept in my clothes last night so I wouldn't have to get dressed this morning." "Do you live in a real big house?" "I bet you have two bathrooms!" "I was saved last night so I can't curse any more, and I have to be good all the time."

These are just a few of the many questions and comments that Jan Rolander, Brenda Reddinger, Janet Mason, and Jean Lichty, all juniors, experienced as student aides during Interterm at Mueller Elementary School in Wichita.

Jan was a student aide in a combined class of first and second graders. Because of the size of the class, there was a great need for more materials, but the students were still receptive and quick to please. As an aide, Jan helped with math, spelling, art, music, and book lessons.

This classroom experience and the joy in being able to help the Negro children really proved to be an exciting experience for Jan.

A third grade class really kept Brenda busy. Teaching a reading class everyday from 9-11 a.m. was another of her many challenging experiences. Motivating the children, disciplining them, and keeping their attention were three of Brenda's most difficult tasks.

In addition to helping the children, Brenda typed, filed, put up bulletin boards, assisted the children, and corrected papers.

Although she may forget some of their names like Latonya, Marva, Tyrone, and Quila, Brenda will never forget their glowing faces.

An active class of first graders was sometimes very hard for Janet to keep seated during their lessons. Janet helped the children with art projects, led them to the water fountain and rest rooms, pushed them on the merry-go-round, and listened to the children read and tell stories.

The end of the two weeks came too soon for Janet and all her many experiences.

Learning the alphabet, numbers, painting, resting on a rug, drinking milk, reading books, completing puzzles, working with flannel boards, going to the library, and playing with the magic math house kept Jean very busy.

Sharing her attention, time and love to the forty-eight kindergarten children proved very difficult and challenging at times but Jean found many rewards working with the children.

Besides their many unforgettable classroom experiences, the girls made many observations. One of them was a cost comparison of two grocery stores, one in a white neighborhood and one in a black.

The comparison showed that the prices were much higher in the black community, and they had to pay much more for their groceries.

During their visit, they also attended an all black church service at the Tabernacle Baptist Church and found the "soul" service to be very emotional and moving.

The girls' participation and observations led them to an exciting Interterm of experiences they will never forget.

Bulldogs Defeat Bluejays, Braves Tie Bethany for Northern Division

by Quay Hayden
The McPherson College Battling Bulldogs clinched a tie in the northern division by beating the Tabor Bluejays 82-77 in a game played at Hillsboro, Saturday, Feb. 20. At the same time Bethany was trouncing Ottawa 83-71 on their home court.

Dogs Gain Win, Title

Cries of "we are number one" rocked the Tabor College Fieldhouse on Tuesday, Feb. 23, as the McPherson College Battling Bulldogs clinched the KCAC Northern Divisional title by trouncing the Bethany Swedes 73-54.

The Bulldogs took the lead early in the game and never faltered. High point men for the Bulldogs were Dennis Cotton and Russell Clifton with 17 each. Next came Roger Trimmell with 13 and Lowell Monke with 12.

Turnovers were an important part of this game with Bethany having 19 while McPherson had only 9.

McPherson met Bethany Tuesday night for the title of the northern division and the chance to meet the winner of the College of Emporia-Friends University playoff game also played Tuesday night. The winners of these two games will meet tonight for the conference championship in a best of three series.

John Pyle led McPherson in scoring against Tabor with 24 points. Lowell Monke and Dennis Cotton each scored 17. The Bulldogs led by eight points, 42-34 at halftime, and in the last half Tabor outscored McPherson 43-40 to reduce the final margin to four points.

In a game played Tuesday, Feb. 16, the Bulldogs downed the Ottawa Braves 59-54. Dennis Cotton was high scorer with 24 points in one of his best games. Several players were out with the strange stomach sickness that had hit the campus. Starter Roger Trimmell was unable to play due to the stomach illness, and Lowell Monke was able to see only limited action.

Other high scorers for the Bulldogs were John Pyle with 15 points and Russell Clifton with 12.
