Dorm officials chosen

Leadership for Mac's five dormitories is being chosen for next year, with some degree of difficulty in a few cases.

All the dorms except Bittinger Hall will see a change in resident directors. Iris Jackson, so., Norcatur, will take over R.D. duties at Kline Hall. Gary Vancil, so., Norton, now one of the resident directors of Fahnestock Hall, will be assisted by Brian Crouse, fr., Myerstown, Pa.

Bob Mann and his wife, who have been at Central College for the past year, will become the new dorm parents for Metzler Hall. Mann will also take the position of Dean of Men for the college. No resident directors have been found for Dotzour Hall at this time. Mabel Markham will continue her duties at Bittinger Hall.

Officers and resident assistants for the men's dormitories have been chosen. Keith Starry, jr., New Oxford, Pa. will head up the dorm council at Fahnestock assisted by Glenn Kussart, jr., Cerro Gordo, Ill. as vice president, Ed Wolfe, South Whitley, Ind., as secretary, and Dennis Schrock, fr., Harmony, Minn., as treasurer.

Bruce Kitzel, Don Eshelman and Marty Nolan have been appointed as R.A.'s for the dorm although there is considerable controversy over these appointments.

Mark Lynch, so., Englewood, Colo. was elected president of Metzler Hall. Jim Dozier, so., Chester, Pa. will be the new vice president with Lynn Kleiber, fr., Ramona, secretary and Randy Porter, jr., Quinter, Treasurer. Resident assistants for Metzler are Jim Kramer, Dave Wine, Roger Trimmel, Ralph Dickerson, for first semester and Jim Dozier for second semester.

The slate of dorm officers for Bittinger Hall is headed up by Terry Ingram, fr., Dayton, Ohio, with Gary Garfield, fr., Ft. Collins, Colo., as vice president. Brent Peterson, so., Wichita will be secretary and Mike Irwin, fr., Ellicott, Md., will take care of finances. The four Bittinger R.A.'s are Tony Hoch, Monte West, Wayne Burns, and Richard Stern.

Susan Stewart has been chosen as the resident assistant for Kline Hall. Dorm Officers for Kline will not be selected until a list is released by Dean Goering of who will be living in Kline next year.

Dotzour Hall has had trouble choosing their dorm council officers for next year. Dotzour's constitution states that candidates must receive the vote of a majority of the residents to be elected as an officer. After three elections none of the candidates for officers had received a majority vote.

The matter was brought to dorm council after the third election. They proposed a constitutional amendment that would solve the problem by accepting a plurality vote after three elections where no majority could be reached.

Resident assistants for Dotzour Hall include Mary Krehbiel, Eileen Snider, Mary Lou Peterson, Quetta Baham and Karlene Morphew.

Big graduation crowds expected

Around twelve hundred people are expected to attend the graduation exercises for the class of 1972 of McPherson College. Graduation marks the final milestone for the 105 seniors in their four years of college.

Dr. J. Jack Melhorn, president of the college will address the class at commencement, speaking on "The Quality of Life." Phil Stover, chosen by the senior class, will also speak.

Exercises will begin at 2:30 p.m. on May 21 at the college stadium. In case of bad weather, commencement will be held in Brown Auditorium.

The following students have met McPherson College requirements and will be graduating this spring:

Marsha Adkins, Foreign Languages-German, Long Beach, Calif.; William Ahearn, Industrial Arts Education, Westwood, N. J.; Wayne Albaugh, Industrial Arts Education, Union Bridge, Md.; Catherine Albright, Education, Ft. Wayne, Ind.; Annette Allsup, Biology, Hutchinson; Richard Banz, Industrial Arts Education, Hutchinson; Gary Bard, Physical Education, McPherson; Darleen Bartell, Education, Moundridge; Carolyn Belser,

A Community Service of Reconciliation and Peace with Communion will be held next Sunday, at 7:30 p.m. in the Fellowship Hall of the Christian Church of McPherson.

The McPherson branch of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom is sponsoring the service.

"Various McPherson College students will be involved in the service, including a folk-singing group," said Penny Bainbridge, sr., Council Bluffs, Iowa.

Themes around which the service will revolve include war, race, the forgotten, and the oppressed. A veteran, a black, a prisoner, and a welfare person will speak to represent these points of view.

Walter Neufeld, Moundridge, Ks., writes about the service which he has given support, "...Many of us have felt the need to communicate with one another in a fellowship...the deep feelings and longings and hurts of our torn world..."

Students who share these concerns are invited to attend.

Working together in community is exciting and frustrating, inspiring and discouraging, and thrilling and disappointing — but it is never dull! Working with you in the McPherson College Community for the past seven years has been richly filled with a wide variety of experiences. These experiences which we have shared with students, faculty, staff, and friends of the College have been rewarding ones.

We leave you with a feeling of appreciation for the enrichment which has been ours because of you, and with gratitude that we have had an opportunity to contribute something of ourselves to the McPherson College Community.

Library hours tomorrow are 8-11:30 a.m. and 1:30-5 p.m.

After the men's panty raid on Dotzour, last Wednesday, many girls staged a raid on the men's dorms in retaliation. Pam Knotts proudly sports one of the trophies brought back.

Dotzour Hall to stop traffic

The block in front of Dotzour Hall will be closed to traffic from 10 p.m. to 1 a.m. tonight and instead of the hum of traffic, the blaring sounds of music will fill the air.

Dotzour Hall is having a block party.

The party, sponsored by Dorm Council will include games (like three legged races), music, refreshments and various booths sponsored by the different wings of Dotzour.

Everyone is invited to this free party. As Linda Head, Dotzour Hall vice-president, pointed, there's no school tomorrow.

Dotzour Dorm Council voted to have this party to take the place of the traditional open house.

Studies bypass personal growth

Dear McPherson College,
There is something really sick on this campus.
You demand that we give much energy and effort to become good students but you forget that many of us are struggling to become people. There is a lack of sensitivity to the individual's personal problems and how they relate to his school work. You don't seem to care as much that a person solve his problems as that he ignore them to study and become "educated" in his field. When we try to explain our problems you say they are just excuses for not applying ourselves.

I, like most of the students, believed and accepted this idea until it became impossible to live with the pressure, responsibility, and guilt it placed upon me for not giving more when I could not because of personal struggles. Where was your sensitivity? Must you demand so much technical perfection?

Life's beauty comes through searching, new experiences, and personal expression. I think our society has desecrated it and reduced it to work and factual education. Both may be good, but only when secondary to personal growth and expression. I personally find little value in courses that don't relate to and help me grow as a whole individual or aid in communicating with others.

Perhaps my ideas are too radical and my personal problems too complicated for me to be happy here or anywhere. A lot of what I say may seem invalid or a cop-out, but now I have my own sense of worth and confidence that I can be motivated — just not in structured courses that have nothing to do with me as an individual, but simply add a chalk mark to my list of accomplishments.

For me, now, independent studies seem to be the only hope to combine personal searching, creativity, and college. If these aren't approved, I may quit college to work, read and grow on my own.

Mac College, can you understand and see what I am saying? Will you do anything different for future students?

All-American panty raid?

Good ol' America you've done it again.

Why is it that when a little boy gets a kick out of stealing girls' underwear off the clothesline, you click your tongue, wonder what America's coming to and hurry him away to get "help"?

But when dozens of college "men" decide to get their kicks with girls' underwear, you not only approve of their intrusion, but you sit back, smile and say "After all, boys will be boys."

The great irony is that if one guy decided to stage his own panty raid by himself and went charging down the dorm halls breaking into girls' rooms, you'd probably hurry him away too!

It seems as long as there's lots of guys and it's "just good clean fun" - why, there's nothing more American than swiping underwear!!

College more than business deal

To the Editor: (in response to Glen Stevens and many others)

It is unfortunate that some administrators and educational experience involved, to a businessman-customer relationship. I've found more here at McPherson than could possibly be put in a contract or listed in a simple business transaction.

If one does, however, assume a businessman-customer relationship — as Mr. Stevens seems to do — it appears that Mr. Stevens, in his three years of retailing and merchandizing, never studied wholesale marketing. A successful business must maintain good relations with his supplier, as well as his customers. If the College is to continue, the administration must consider all the members of the College — the faculty, trustees, alumni and the students.

While I would agree that the School should be open to needed change, I would have to say that students are not exempt from the need for change. Students should not expect any more than they are willing to give themselves.

I can not agree that all students are incompetent, but I would have to say that there are more of us incompetents floating around than a lot of us care to admit. The fact that people over eighteen can vote, get married, have children, and serve in the military has little to do with one's competency.

I will withhold my judgment of other people's competency until I am in a position that requires my judgment and which allows me to act upon that judgment.

A Satisfied "Customer"

It seems a little strange that Fahnstock, an honor dorm run by the students, can't have a proctor from their own dorm. This letter was written by a Fahnstock resident who didn't apply for a proctor's job but feels as many others do, that we don't need to "import" people for jobs such as proctors.

LeCour, crew work to satisfy students

There is a person on campus that deserves much more appreciation than he is shown. He is a quiet person who goes about his business efficiently, but with little show. He is ARA Slater's Food Service manager, Bill LeCour.

Throughout the year Bill has gone out of his way to meet the sometime rude demands of the students on food service. Before special events, the sunrise often finds Bill and his staff hard at work in the kitchen.

Perhaps you remember the Sadie Hawkins feast, the Astrological banquet, or the Valentines' Day special? These meals required many hours of special planning, and even longer hours of preparation. There were far less thank you's than there were complaints.

The next time you are in the cafeteria, give a thought or so to the hard work that Mr. LeCour and his staff have done this year to make your meals a little more pleasant.

Mary Eggemeyer

Student literature published

The ACCK literary magazine will soon be released to all the ACCK colleges. McPherson College has much of the space in the magazine as Mac students submitted more of the literature than other colleges.

The committee sponsoring this venture hopes that the magazine is finished in the next week, prior to exams. If publication is held up, all those wishing a copy are asked to leave their names and addresses with Mrs. Tucker who will send them the magazine after school is out.

This volume contains poetry and prose from all the ACCK schools. Contributors from McPherson College include Linda Thorp, Mike Nichols, Bud Dziekonski, Floy Ditmars, Leanna Povilaitis, and John Sherman. Cost for the magazine is 50c.

Staffs receive new recruits

In planning for next year's Quadrangle and Spectator, the publications staff has discovered that there are still a number of positions to be filled. The Quadrangle is in need of an assistant editor, an assistant business manager, and a copy editor. The Spectator needs a photographer and an assistant business manager.

The staff for the 1973 Quadrangle is: Mari Eggemeyer, editor; Roger Helstern, business manager; Gary Haster, photographer; Brad Wille, sports editor; and Rick Tyler, student life editor.

Carol Flory - a study in involvement

by Mari Eggemeyer

To many young women acquiring a striking new outfit or a brand new pair of shoes is a most rewarding and fulfilling experience. Carol Flory, a brunette sophomore from Marion, Ia., with sparkling green eyes and a ready smile, needs more than this to feel fulfilled.

To Carol, involvement is essential. "I have to be involved — it's my nature I guess," she remarked. That's why I have to know what's happening and why I'm active in a lot of organizations."

During her freshman year at Mac, Carol was assistant editor of the Quadrangle, a member of Young Republicans, a member of MCCC and one of the persons who worked to open the Mac Shack.

Carol appeared in the Freshman Talent Show and during the first semester she was a member of the College Choir. Active participation in all dramatic activities led Carol to her initiation into McPherson's chapter of Alpha Psi Omega, a dramatic fraternity.

This year Carol has continued her involvement in campus affairs. She is editor of the Quadrangle, secretary of Alpha Psi Omega, and a member of both Kaleidoscope and Art Club. Once again she is representing the student body on MCCC.

Carol sits on the Board of Publications and was active on social committee during the first semester.

Carol was a member of the Interterm drama tour troupe and was also in charge of properties for Barefoot in the Park and Winnie-the-Pooh. Last month Carol represented The Happy Journey by Thornton Wilder — the first play that she has directed.

In spite of all this, Carol still has time to occasionally work in the snack bar in the Student Union basement and help out in the cafeteria.

McPherson College is almost a tradition in the Flory family. Carol's mother attended Mac for two years, three of her brothers have graduated here, and baby-brother John starts as a freshman next semester.

Carol has a lot of faith in McPherson College and thinks it has many possibilities. However, she feels, "A lot of changes need to be made and can be made if we only have a student body (and government) that cares and wants to put forth some effort!"

In Carol's eyes, a student who mouths off and does nothing is as bad, as an entirely apathetic student. In her own words, "One thing that really upsets me is when someone gripes and complains about Mac but doesn't try to do anything to remedy what he doesn't like. He has no right to complain if he won't work for what he believes in."

As a Spanish major, Carol is required to spend her junior year abroad. She has chosen the University of Barcelona, Spain, and is looking forward to her year abroad as a total learning experience, both scholastically and in human relations.

After classes are dismissed, Carol plans to use the summer months "thumbing" through Europe because she feels that this is the best way to "learn about and communicate with the people." She adds thoughtfully, "I'm going to miss Mac next year. So far it looks like a lot of changes could be initiated next year and I'd like to be in on that. I'll miss all the activities...as well as the people."

Union sees changes

Phil Stover and Katie Albright, two people instrumental in bringing about many changes in the Student Union, have named their successors as directors of the SU.

Phil and Katie, who have served as the SU's first student directors for the past two years, have named Gary Best, jr., Dayton, Ohio, and Gail Winecker, so, Pittstown, N. J., to succeed them.

The SU has changed a lot in these last two years.

"Freshmen and sophomores can't really appreciate the difference," Phil remarked.

According to Phil and Katie, before Fall 1970, the SU was run by an elderly woman. The games area was "cold and dark" — there was no snack bar or juke box and equipment check out was awkward as the games room was upstairs and the games area was downstairs.

In the spring of 1970 when they heard that administration of the Union was going to be changed, Phil and Ivan Torres submitted a list of suggested improvements. Many of the changes made were a part of this list.

Phil, Ivan and Katie were subsequently named student SU directors and began work in Fall 1970. Phil and Katie have continued as directors this year.

As directors of the SU, Phil and Katie have had responsibilities for many obvious things — the bulletin boards, posters, the big calendar, the showcase, furniture arrangement, the ping pong and pool tournaments, and the Christmas tree — and many not so obvious things — posting off campus mail, watering plants, reserving of SU rooms, keeping the games room finances, and supervising games room employees.

Phil and Katie are passing along several ideas for redecorating the SU basement to Gail and Gary.

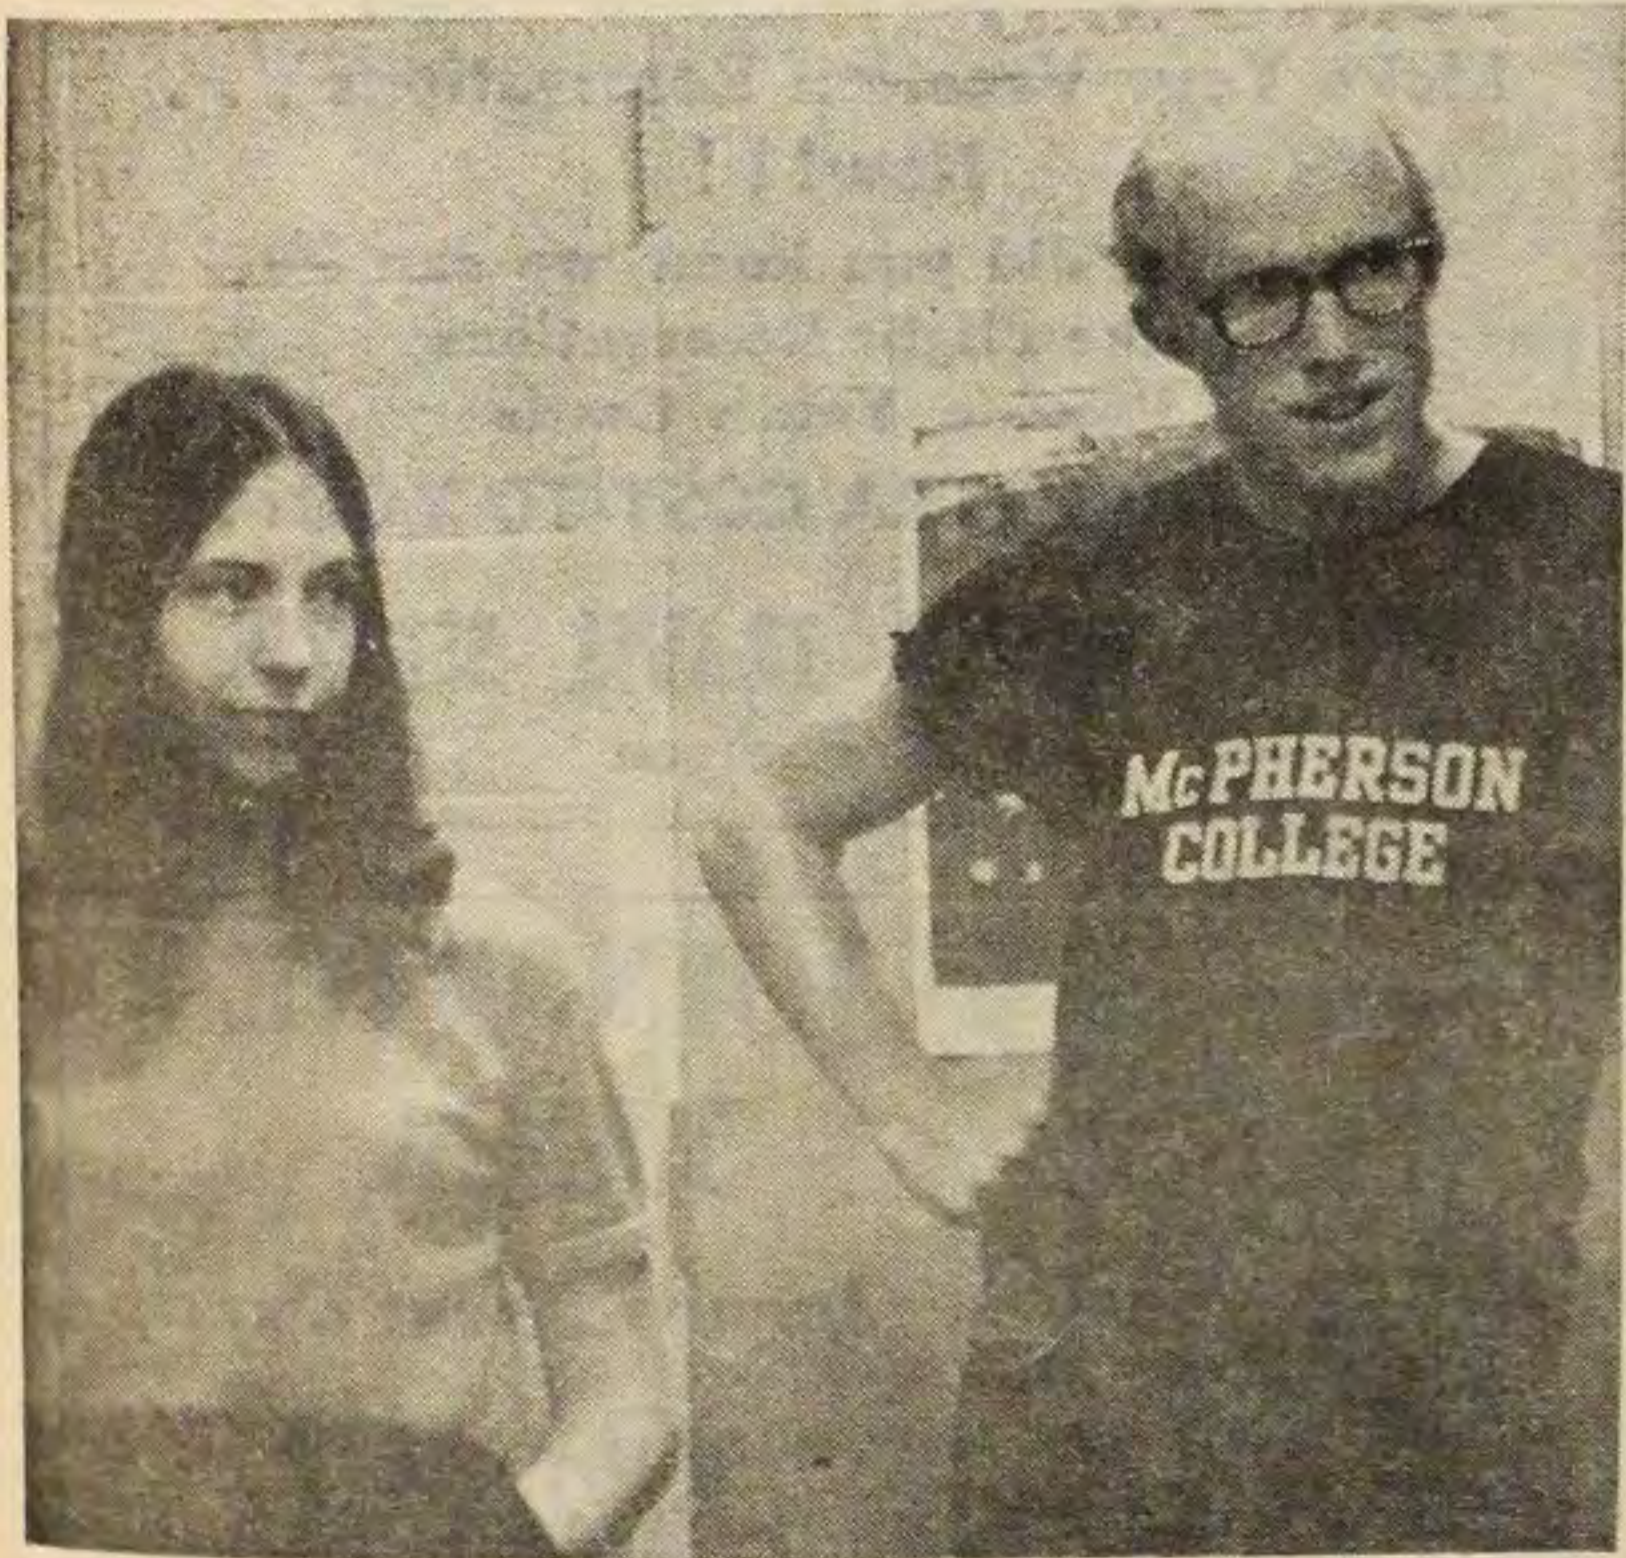

They hope to finish painting and generally fixing up the snack bar area and to develop a conversation area around the piano. Plans also include running ping pong and pool ladders.

"Being student union director has helped me look at students, administrators and myself more objectively," stated Phil.

"It's been an honor and lots of fun, ha, ha, ha," laughed Katie.

Among her numerous activities at Mac this year, Carol Flory has put in many hours working as editor of the Quadrangle.

From the games room, Phil and Katie keep an eye on the activities in the Student Union basement.

Trackmen hold winning streak to season's end

McPherson's track team exhibiting great depth, walked away with the ACCK track title here last Saturday. In the cold, wet, damp Kansas weather the tracksters dressed in orange and black dominated every event.

McPherson compiled 210 points with the nearest competitor, Tabor College far behind with 144.

McPherson won three places in the steeplechase, mile run and three mile run. The team took first in all three sprint events with Senior record holder, Ray Craft winning the 100, and 220.

Craft also anchored the 440 yd. relay and mile relay. Jim Anewalt, Jim Ulrich, Phil Stover and Zack Myers comprised the other legs for the winning relay teams.

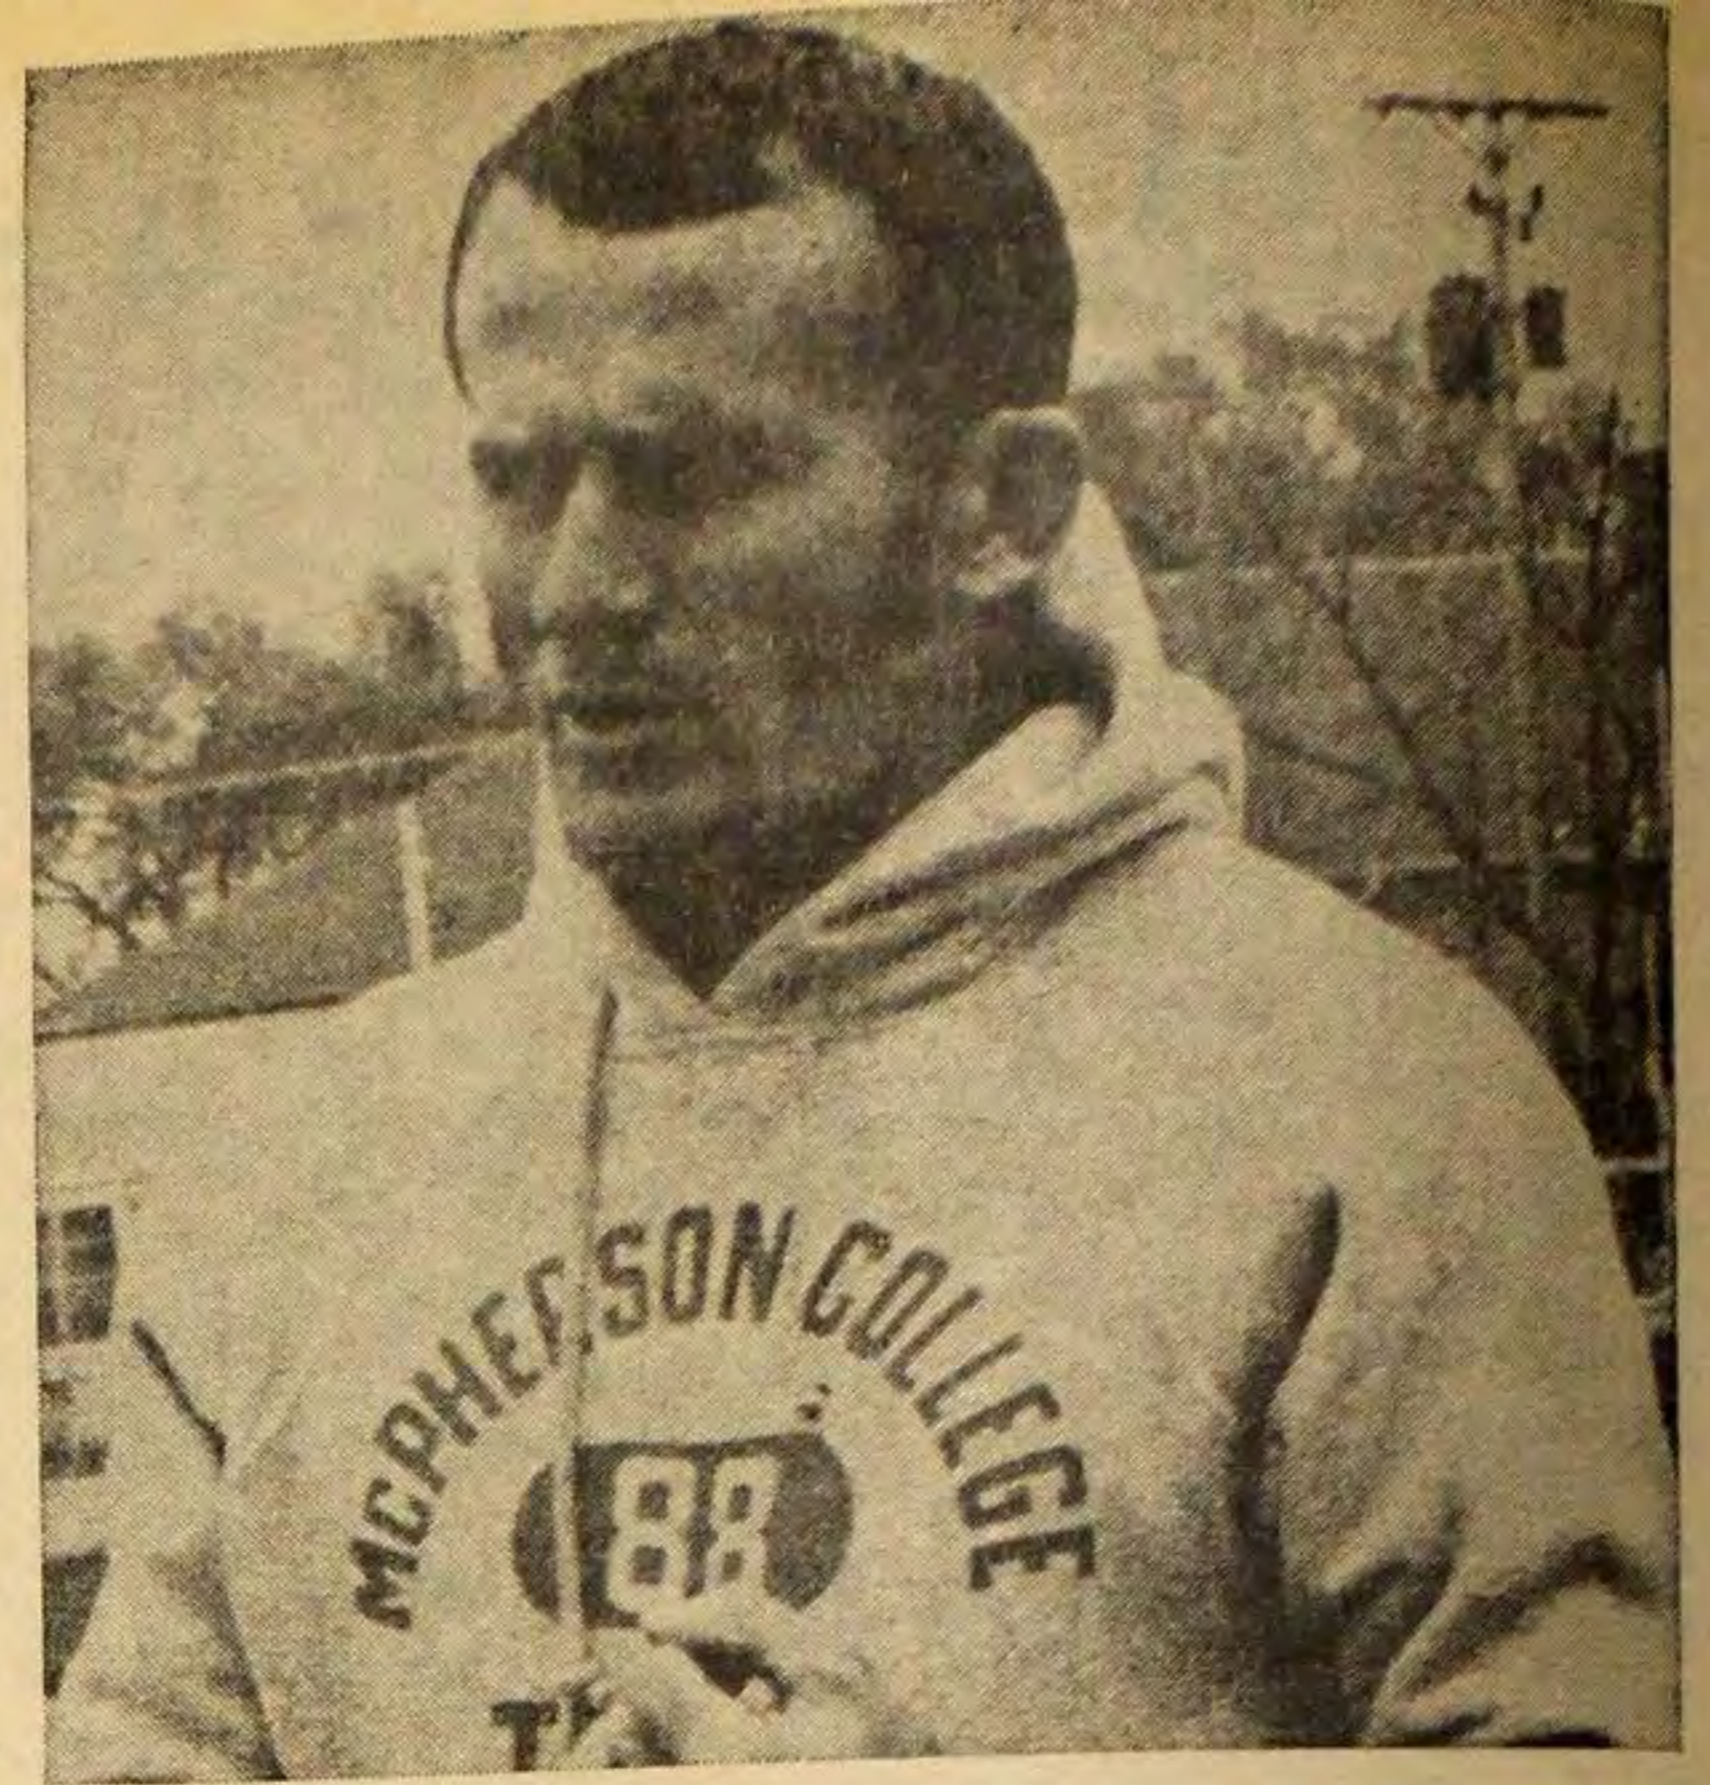

Anewalt and Myers finished first and 2nd in the 440 dash.

In the hammerthrow, Mark Lynch took second. Roger Kamla took first in the shot put. Scheffmeyer was 3rd in the javelin.

Mike Parks won the triple jump with a leap of 41'10". Sophomore, Tom Cope, took third and freshman, Terry Ingram finished fourth in the high jump. Roger Kamla again won the discus with a toss of 143 1/2 feet.

Mac's successful track season will come to an end tomorrow as they play host to the KCAC meet.

In a dual with Bethany meet Monday, Mac broke another one of its records as the 20-year-old half mile record fell to the strides of Senior Phil Stover. Over all Mac lost, however.

Coach Art Ray discusses a recent track meet.

Conference meet finishes season

McPherson's tennis team wound up its season Monday and Tuesday competing against eight other colleges in the KCAC tournament held in Winfield.

Southwestern College hosted the tournament where each school entered seven events. At the time of Spectator publication McPherson held the 4th place title over Kansas Wesleyan, Bethel, Friends University and Sterling College. The final round of competition took place on Tuesday. Dennis Farnsworth, Mark Melhorn, Roger Trimmell, Bill Bohnenblust and Harold Hamilton competed in the singles competition. Melhorn and Trimmell made up the no. 1 singles team with Farnsworth and Keith Graber composing the other team.

McPherson players won five of seven matches in the first round of play, and four in the following round. Tough competition eliminated all McPherson players from the semi-finals however.

The six men who participated in the conference meet received letters in tennis, which were awarded at Convocation this morning.

"We had a good season," commented Coach Jerry Holman. The team won 5 of their 8 matches and took 3rd place in the ACCK tournament as well as placing in the KCAC meet.
