

Musical "Carnival" premieres tonight!

McPherson College drama students will present the musical comedy "Carnival" on March 15-16 at 8 p.m. and on March 17 at 2 p.m. in Brown Auditorium on the college campus. The production will be directed by Rick Tyler, a senior from Waterloo, Iowa, and Karlene Morphew, a junior from Carence, Iowa.

The play begins when the orphaned Lilli (played by Holly Grone, a junior from Davenport, Nebr.) appears at the carnival, seeking a job. As the troupe travels through France, Lilli fails several jobs but finds that both Marco, the magician, and Paul, the puppeteer, love her. Marco is played by Roger Helstern, junior from Clayton, Ohio, and Paul is played by Gordon Hornbaker, sophomore from Lyons. Rosalie, the magician's assistant, is played by Sherri Lockwood, freshman from Greensburg, and Warren Schoming, who has performed in several McPherson Theatre Guild productions, is the carnival owner.

"It has been fun to work with the puppets," says Director Tyler.

Directors Tyler and Morphew have strong dramatic backgrounds prior to this musical, in which they direct a cast of 46 persons. Tyler has acted in 16 plays, directed four others and has been a student assistant to the head of the Drama Department, Mrs. Una Yoder. In addition, he was one of the group of students who, last year, toured Kansas, Nebraska and Iowa, presenting shows in churches and high schools. He is president of Alpha Psi Omega, an honorary dramatic fraternity, of which Miss Karlene Morphew is also a member.

Karlene Morphew has directed only one play prior to "Carnival," but has acted in 13, usually in the lead. She will direct a one-act play later this year.

The orchestra for "Carnival" will be directed by Bruce Kit-zel, senior from York, Pa., and stage manager will be Paul Keim, freshman from McPherson. Additional speaking roles will be played by: DeWayne Jackson, freshman from Norcatour; Rande Short, sophomore from Siebert, Colo.; Jaff Daya, senior from Africa; Linda Garland, freshman from Cortez, Colo.; Pam Smith, senior from Maxwell, Iowa; Denisse LeWallen, sophomore from Cando, N. Dak.; and Jane Flora, freshman from Quinter.

Puppet voices will be supplied by Hornbaker and Jackson, with the help of Donna Miller, freshman from Wichita, and Judy Kimmel sophomore from McPherson.

include: Mary Grove, freshman, Washington, Ia.; Eileen Snyder, sophomore St. John; Barb Swank, freshman, Poplar, Mont.; Carol Kussart, senior, McPherson; Janet Brumbaugh, freshman, Belleville, Mich.; Iris Jackson, senior, Norcatour; Brent Peterson, senior, Wichita; Tom Grove, sophomore, Unionville, Ia.; Russ Hunt, sophomore, Brush, Colo.; Rick Doll, sophomore, Wamego; Rod Neher, sophomore, Anna, Ill.; Kathy Oshel, senior, Topeka; Kenton Bradwisch, sophomore, Surrey, N. D.; Cliff Thomas, junior, Kansas City.; Mo. Brad Wille, senior, Manhattan; Susan Burkholder, junior, Buhler; Rhonda Gomis, sophomore, Grimes, Iowa.

Johnston, students can make "good team"

by Diane Tharrington

Before coming to Mac, Joe Johnston, McPherson's new Admissions Director spent five years in the admissions office of a small college in Denver-Rockmount College. Then he traveled to Huntington, Indiana where he was assistant and associate director of admissions at Huntington College for one and a half years.

"The colleges I have worked at before have been about the same size as McPherson or smaller. I like working with this size of college, because it is a comfortable size-big enough for privacy and small enough for the feeling of closeness with each student."

What direction is Joe Johnston planning to take the Admissions program? Said Johnston, "I believe McPherson has more to offer to certain students. We want students that will fit into our system here. The best seller we have for the school is the student — 'Sold students sell' — is one way to put it. I want the students to know they are important. They have a stake in their own future by improving McPherson and helping it to grow. I want to learn more about the students here on campus, learn what they want us to say to incoming students. I believe that a heavy emphasis should be put on a campus visit so that we can tell the recruits just what we have, what we expect of them and what he can expect of us. It's so important to make the students happy here — bring in the students that want to be here for what we have. I guess my approach is similar to a marketing approach, which is meeting the needs of the students and the institution to satisfy both."

"As far as our student incentive program is concerned we hope that those that want to participate in this program do, but those that do not like the program can just spread some good words about the college — it really works!"

"We have the Watts line coming in March 25 thru April and we want students to come in and help us call on students. A student prospect needs to hear from his own peers, which are our students here on campus, also these prospects need some reinforcement from the institution, the college. Together we can make a good team. We would like to work on this while we have the Watts line at our disposal. We are looking for students to help us. We will be covering Kansas and surrounding states. Make your presence known and assist us!"

Holly Grone and Gordon Hornbaker rehearse for tonight's presentation of "Carnival." The musical will be presented three times this weekend under the direction of Karlene Morphew and Rick Tyler.

Fraley splits atomic chapter

by Velma Bunch

Dr. Les Fraley, Department of Physics, co-authored a chapter in a recent book on ionizing radiation. This book, "Advances in Radiation Biology, Vol. 4" is the fourth edition of an annual series. Each book covers the facts on ionizing radiation as they are known up to that volume.

Each chapter is essentially a review of what is known about that particular subject. Chapters are written by reviewing research articles about the subject and organizing them in some meaningful way.

Dr. Fraley's chapter "Effects of Ionizing Radiation on Terrestrial Plant Communities" is mainly for botanists. A large portion of the research for this chapter was done by Dr. Fraley at Colo. State College. Dr. F. W. Whicker, Department of Radiology and Radiation Biology, Colo. State U. was the senior author of this chapter.

Every volume has different editors and each chapter is written by a different person. An advisory board of persons well-known in the field of radiation picks the yearly editors. They, in turn, decide what to have in the chapters and then choose persons who have done research in that field to author them. The editors also organize the book.

This year's volume was edited by J. T. Lett, Dept. of Radiology and Radiation Biology, Colo. State U.; H. Adler, Oak Ridge National Laboratory and M. Zelle, Dept. of Radiology and Radiation Biology, Colo. State U.

This series is mostly for researchers and people working in radiation biology and libraries rather than the mass public. The book was published by Academic Press, New York.

Robinson, Estrada accepted in art elite

Mary Ann Robinson, associate professor of art, and Salvadore Estrada, instructor of painting have had works selected for inclusion in the American Contemporary Arts and Crafts Slide Library in Palm Beach, Fla. Only five other Kansas artists had works accepted for the collection.

Miss Robinson's oil painting

"Reflection" was chosen and Estrada's acrylic paintings "Concert" and "Los Huesos" were selected.

Miss Robinson is also a member of the Kansas Watercolor Society. She received her B.A. from Kansas State University, an M.A. from McCormick Theological Seminary and an M.A. from Wichita State University.

She has been teaching since 1961, at McPherson College.

Estrada has taught classes at McPherson College for two semesters. He received his B.A. from Wichita State University, where he has also done extensive graduate work. He served as artist-in-residence in several Kansas communities before coming to McPherson.

Promotes understanding of economics

A new club, The Business Club of McPherson College, has been formed to promote a better understanding of the business operations and the world of investments.

Its primary objective is to extend beyond classroom theory to make students and other interested persons aware of the "real world" through guest speakers from the business and academic communities, field trips to businesses, and the continuing production of the stock market cable television programs.

The club will have committees on Cable TV, Accounting, Economics, and various phases of investments, such as the Stock Markets, Bond Markets, and Commodities.

"The club is open to all students interested in business and economics, and business majors are especially encouraged to attend," says Mrs. Emma Hofer, Associate Professor of Business, and faculty adviser.

The first meeting will be held Monday, March 18, 1974, at 7:30 p.m. in Mohler 231. All interested persons are invited to attend.

Conference chance to imprint attitudes

The 250 high school youth arriving for the Regional Youth conference this weekend are of vital interest to this college. This body of Brethren youth will represent the biggest number of recruitable juniors and seniors to visit the campus during the year.

Although almost all of these persons are Brethren, a cross-section of individuals will be here to assess our school and perhaps make a decision concerning their plans for future education.

This is one area in which all of us can help McPherson College become a better place to go to school. If we students will remember to mention good, as well as bad points about Mac, the wider variety of students we can attract can only enhance our student body.

It is a chance for students to attract the kind of persons we want as fellow students: to present a two-sided picture along with personal convictions . . . and everyone will benefit.

Communications students utilize cable TV

Diane Tharrington

Students of Modern communications Media, a 4-hour class has produced a cable TV show of news, sports and interviews. This show is shown every other Friday from 6:05 to 6:30. The students who started the production are Scott Robinson, Gary Ratzlaff, Janell Schrock and Mary Hoover, (who is taking it by appointment.) The students on the production staff are Scott Kunze and Tim Daniels (cameramen) Doug Albin, Craig Hill and Vic Medore as reporters and Linda Schoff as set director.

The students try and make the majority of the news college oriented. The first show had a guest speaker from Peru that spoke at a convocation, and Gail Winnecker, who spoke about the renovation of the SU. The second show contained an interview of the students who went on World Campus Afloat and Karlene Morphew introduced the up-coming musical "Carnival."

The equipment needed for such a production is all available in the basement of Miller Library.

To collect the information and film it takes about two weeks. "At first the shows were kind of hard to get together smoothly, but now we are doing pretty good and its going a lot smoother," stated Scott Robinson. "It's really a great experience. It could be that I will continue on with this type of work-it's really interesting," commented both Scott R. and Gary R.

Gary stated, "We want to use any news anyone has to contribute to us - just contact either Scott or myself."

Both Scott and Gary are looking for summer jobs that has something to do with a radio or TV station, either reporting or filming.

Ode to a Chicken

Do not stew, my chicken dear.
Though these mortals know it not—Without us they would cease to be
For else to occupy their thought.
Easter would be the first to suffer.
Wise though humans profess to be
They don't realize there's a chicken
Behind every Bunny you see.
Also philosophers could not philosoph
About the chicken and the egg.
Traditionists could not tradition
As there would be no chicken leg.
Pessimists could not pessim
Without Chick Little's falling sky.
Jesters and jokers could not jest or joke
About us crossing the road and why.
Cowards could not cower
For they'd cease to be chicken.
And picnic goers could not picnic
As they couldn't be "finger-lickin!"
So have faith! We are not yet dead.
Anguish no more, my plucked one —
We may have lost our chicken head
But we still have our chicken heart.

"We'll see about it" attitudes typify Mac administration

Dear Editor,

After recent dealings with the Administration, I have come to the conclusion that McPHERSON COLLEGE DOES NOT GIVE A DAMN ABOUT ITS STUDENTS.

I realize that the administrators can't always satisfy everyone at one time, but any action is better than the inaction that typifies them. Their standard response is "Well, we'll see about it."

When the administration begins to think about the students' problems rather than its own problems, then maybe students will put their faith back into this college. However, until things change, Mac deserves the fate into which it is now heading.

Yours in frustration,
Sharon A. Flora

Dance kicks-off Renovation Fund Drive

Dear Editor,

The Student Union Renovation Fund Drive will begin this Saturday, March 16 with a dance in the Student Union. Admission will be $1.50 to dance to the music of "Blue Earth." All profits from the dance will go into the renovation fund. Full support from the college students is needed to make this dance a success. A good turnout is expected from the students on campus for Youth Conference and the neighboring towns and colleges in which the dance has been promoted.

This could be one of the largest social events of the year for McPherson College. We hope students will invest $1.50 for a good cause and dance to Blue Earth from 10 p.m. to 1 a.m.

Mac hosts Education Fair for 1,000 students, teams

by Beth Wilhide

The Kansas Education Fair will be here on the McPherson College Campus, April 5-6.

Those enrolling in the Fair will have a chance to visit with nationally known and recognized educators; an opportunity to see and hear about the latest K thru 12 educational programs and promising practices; a chance to meet and talk with the states leading educational innovators; a chance to attend an organizational meeting of a Society for Promoting Innovation (SPINN); and an opportunity to participate in an open hearing for Title III, ESEA.

One thousand people are expected to enroll in the Fair. There will be 30 exhibitors and 60 different presentations given during the two day event. Most of the facilities on campus will be used. SEA members will be helping to run the program.

The major speakers attending the Fair are: Dr. Dwight Allen, Dean, School of Education, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, Massachusetts — Dr. Jeannette Veatch, Educational Critic, Writer, and Professor of Education, Arizona State University, Tempe, Arizona — Dr. Terrel H. Bell, Superintendent of Schools, Granite City School District, Past Acting U.S. Commissioner of Education, Salt Lake City, Utah — Dr. C. Taylor Whittier, Commissioner of Education, State Department of Education, Topeka, Kansas.

Advance registration is required by March 22. There will be a $5 registration fee for this conference — teacher education students $1. Dr. Dayton Rothrock is taking applications now.

Tyler plays final role after four years

by Diane Tharrington

Some call him "The Hermit of Brown Auditorium" because he spends the greater part of his life on stage, in the Little Theater, in the dressing room or a small office. However, there are more accurate words to describe Rick Tyler, a senior from Waterloo, Iowa, — such as "involved, talented, and dynamic."

Throughout Rick's four years here at McPherson, he has been involved with everything from Regional Youth Conference, which played host to 250 high schools, to drama, he has helped to grow and flourish into a department that has produced many outstanding plays.

Never one to hesitate, Tyler jumped into the swing of things as soon as he arrived at Mac as a freshman. The Freshman Talent Show, which was, at that time, held the first week of school, needed a master of ceremonies for which Rick was promptly chosen. "It was great! As I remember we were all new and didn't know anyone. We were thrown together in a common cause!" reflects Rick.

Like a snowball on a downhill course, Rick began to add more to his extracurricular activities. The following year at Mac he was head of social committee and a member of the cheerleading squad. Rick also became student stage manager of the auditorium — otherwise known as all-around handy man — which included everything from cleaning to readying the stage for productions. In his "spare" time, Tyler became assistant of the drama department.

As the drama department began attempting bigger plays, Rick began to dabble more in productions such as "Barefoot in the Park," and "Centennial Sensations." As a director, his version of "Winnie the Pooh" was, in his words, "quite a play! The set wouldn't stay together and between the animals jumping around keeping the set together and the main characters tearing it apart — it was hilarious!" laughs Rick — now.

"My junior year was my 'slow' year," commented Rick rather facetiously. Between his work as co-chairman of the Regional Youth Conference, cheerleading and his work on the annual, he acted in such productions as "Cactus Flower" and "Amorous Flea" and directed "Dark of the Moon."

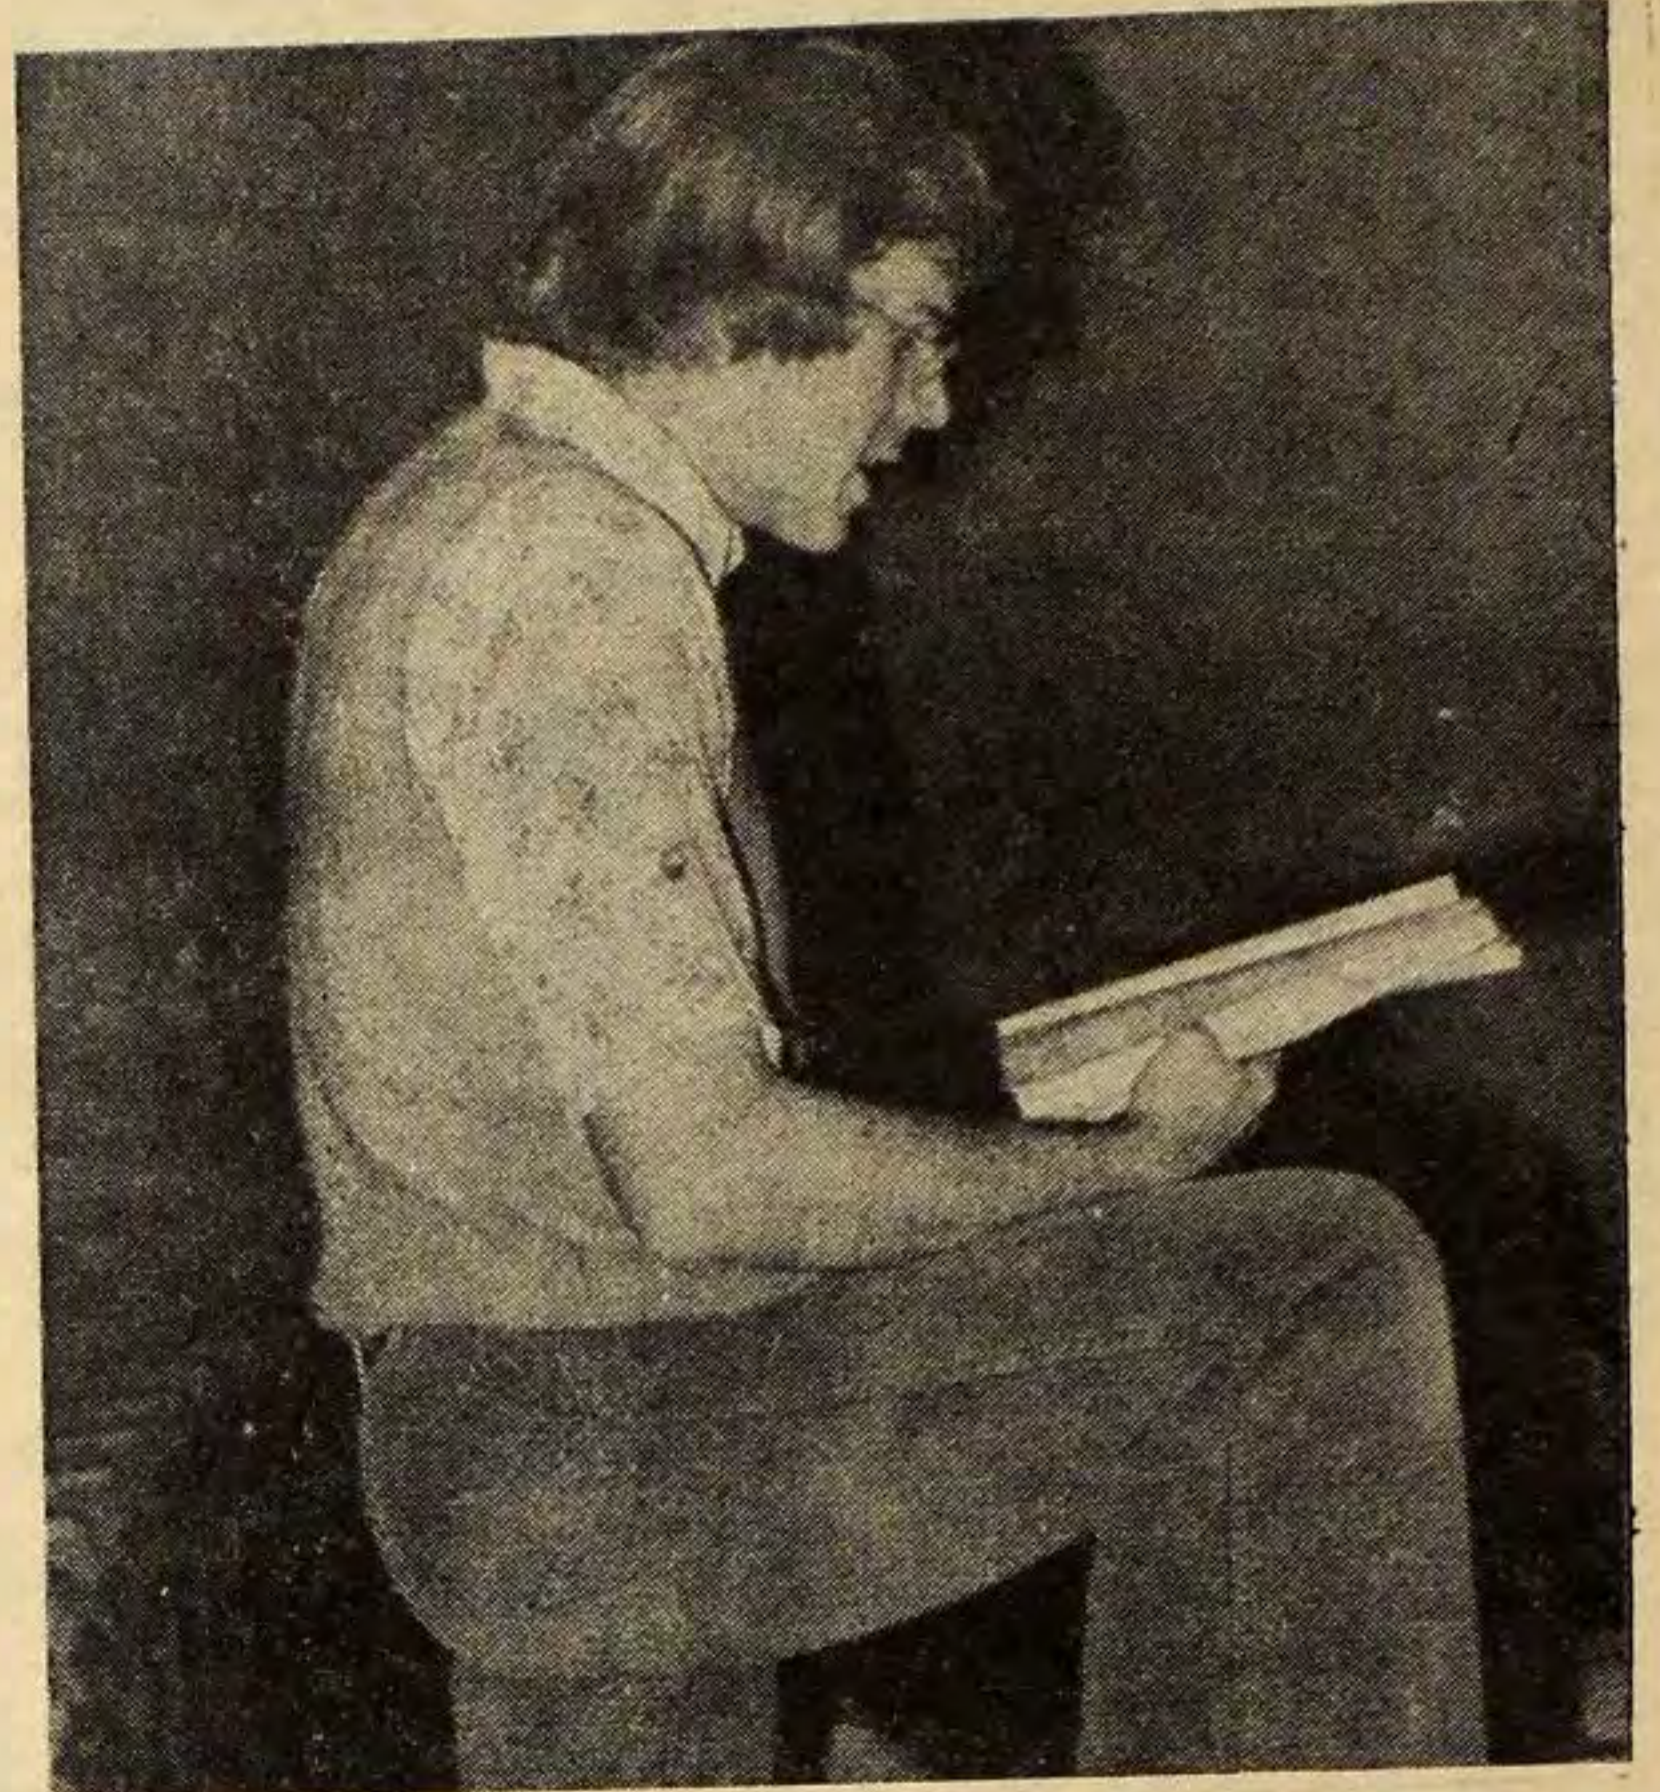

The senior slump which usually follows three years of college work has not yet caught up with Tyler. Already this year Rick has directed a one-act play "This Property is Condemned." He has also added his dramatic abilities to "The Glass Menagerie," "The Tempest," and "Black Comedy."

Student teaching has not slowed him down. "Carnival," under Tyler's co-direction, is being presented this weekend. When he's not searching for missing cast members, he is playing his final role as a student teacher in Hutchinson High School, already in charge of a production. "It's really great to help these high school kids get started in the drama area for the first time. Drama is now starting to be a really big thing in high schools and colleges. People are realizing that sports aren't for everyone," commented Rick.

After graduation, Rick plans to start teaching either in Kansas or Iowa. His plans include Karlene Morphew, his able-side kick, whom he plans to wed in July. An end to a long career? No, rather a new beginning.

To celebrate Central College's 90th anniversary, there will be a concert featuring Andae' Crouch and the Disciples at Brown Auditorium on Tuesday, April 9, at 7:30. Tickets are $2.00 in advance and $2.50 at the door. Tickets may be purchased at Peoples Bank, Home State Bank and McPherson State Bank. Everyone from the community is invited.

Dynamic Rick Tyler gives directions to his cast members as he directs his final production "Carnival" which will premiere tonight. Rick is a senior from Waterloo, Iowa.

Women begin spring sports

by Beth Wilhide

Women's spring sports are now in full swing at Mac. The season officially opened last week with nine women participating in track and field events and eleven in softball.

This year, Dr. Doris Coppock and Coach Art Ray are co-coaching women's track and field. These girls have practice everyday along with the men's team. The girls actively involved in the program now are: Corina Dean, Sue Cook, Pam Medford, Jan Foley, Sandy Loshbaugh, Carol Stone, Judy Ward, Marie Kimmel and Susan Burkholder.

Dr. Coppock is coaching the girl's slow pitch softball team. These girls also have regular daily practices. The eleven members on this team are: Sue Cook, Ce Ce Zavala, Marie Kimmel, Corina Dean, Carol Kimmel, Nancy Beavers, Laura Sundahl, Jan Foley, Benita Unruh, Pam Medford and Sue Collins.

Any woman interested in participating in either of these sports may contact Dr. Coppock or Coach Ray.

Two golf lettermen return to '74 squad

by Stan Adams

With only two lettermen returning, McPherson College could have the youngest golf team in the country. Junior Bruce Krehbiel, McPherson, and sophomore Les Dell, are the only familiar faces on the links, and they are backed by one other sophomore, Matt Durksen, Hutchinson. The five remaining members are Larry Brubaker, Doug Albin, Quinter, Bruce Clary, Kabul, Mo., Gary Ratzlaff, Wichita, and Les Summers, Purcell, Okla.

However, even with all the underclassmen, the golf squad should be well rounded and ready for action according to a team spokesman. The team has been practicing intensely in preparation for forthcoming matches.

Mac takes five firsts in spring training meet

by Stan Adams

The McPherson College track team participated in a "Spring training," meet with Hutchinson Junior College and Kansas Wesleyan last Friday, with Mac showing strength in a few of the field events, but losing overall to Hutch by a wide margin.

Mac placed five firsts, six seconds, and four thirds while Hutch slotted 12 firsts, nine seconds and six third place finishers.

Top performers for McPherson were Roger Kamla, first in the shot and discus; Gordon Hornbaker, first in the hammer and second in the discus; Charlie Meyer, third in the shot; Eric Herman, second in the shot; Larry Gilbert, second in the hammer; Bob Tschudin, third in the javelin; Gale Lambert, third in the high jump; Randy Porter and Jim Ochse, tied for first in the steeple chase; DeWayne Jackson, third in the mile run; Al Pepper, third in the 440-yd. dash; Ben Work, first in the 880 yd. run; Tony Hoch, second in the intermediate hurdles; and DeWayne Jackson, second in the three mile run.

Mac dominates tourney in opening competition

The Mac College Soccer Club opened its spring season Saturday, March 2, with a valiant escapade against the K-State Wildcats, second place finishers in the Big-8 last year. Out numbered but never out fought, Mac succumbed to the Cats 4-1. The balanced offense and tenacious defense of K-State overwhelmed the never say die Mac team. The ferocity of the conflict resulted in a casualty for Mac. Ish Suleman suffered a broken tibia early in the game, but gutted it out the remainder of the game.

On March 9 and 10, Mac hosted a tourney on our torrential turf. Teams participating in the tourney were Southwestern, Derby, Bethel and Mac. On Saturday Mac defeated Southwestern 3-1 and Derby 2-1 in an overtime period. At the end of the overtime the score was still locked 1-1. Five penalty kicks were awarded each team. The team that scored the most, was awarded one goal and the game. tremendous performance with Goalie Al Sammis turned in a several diving blocks.
