Class earns $200 for S.U.

by Brent Peterson

The Student Union renovation fund drive received a real boost from Professor Cameron's Marketing Class. A profit of $200 was earned by these students as they sold sandwiches and goodies to the teachers attending the Education Fair on April 6.

Students were divided into four groups that were to compete with each other. The group with the most profit was to receive the best grade. In earning this profit, the students were to apply the principles of marketing that are being studied in the course. Items of prime consideration were the location of the sales booth, items to be sold, and prices to be charged.

The Faculty Dames donated the majority of sweets that were sold by the students. This gave the profits a real boost since there was no cost in these items to the class. Stuco members provided a small part of the necessary labor, and Professor and Mrs. Cameron contributed time and effort to the project.

With the school matching $5 for each dollar earned by student projects, one can see that a considerable amount was added to the Student Union Renovation Fund by this project. Professor Cameron expressed hopes that the success of this project would set a goal for other student organizations and would serve as a challenge to these groups.

Tuition costs rise

Tuition costs for the '74-'75 academic year will be $75 higher than the present cost. The cost of single rooms in all dorms will rise 25 per cent above the present cost. All rooms in Bittinger Hall are being raised $25 per year. Food costs, at present have not been raised, but that is no guarantee that they will not also increase for the next school year.

Tuition has been increased in response to the ever rising cost of living.

The cost of single rooms is going up because the present charge of 15 per cent does not cover the cost of keeping open the extra space for the students who desire private rooms.

If everyone living in Metzler Hall had a roommate, the third floor could be closed and everyone would be accommodated easily," said Dean Goering.

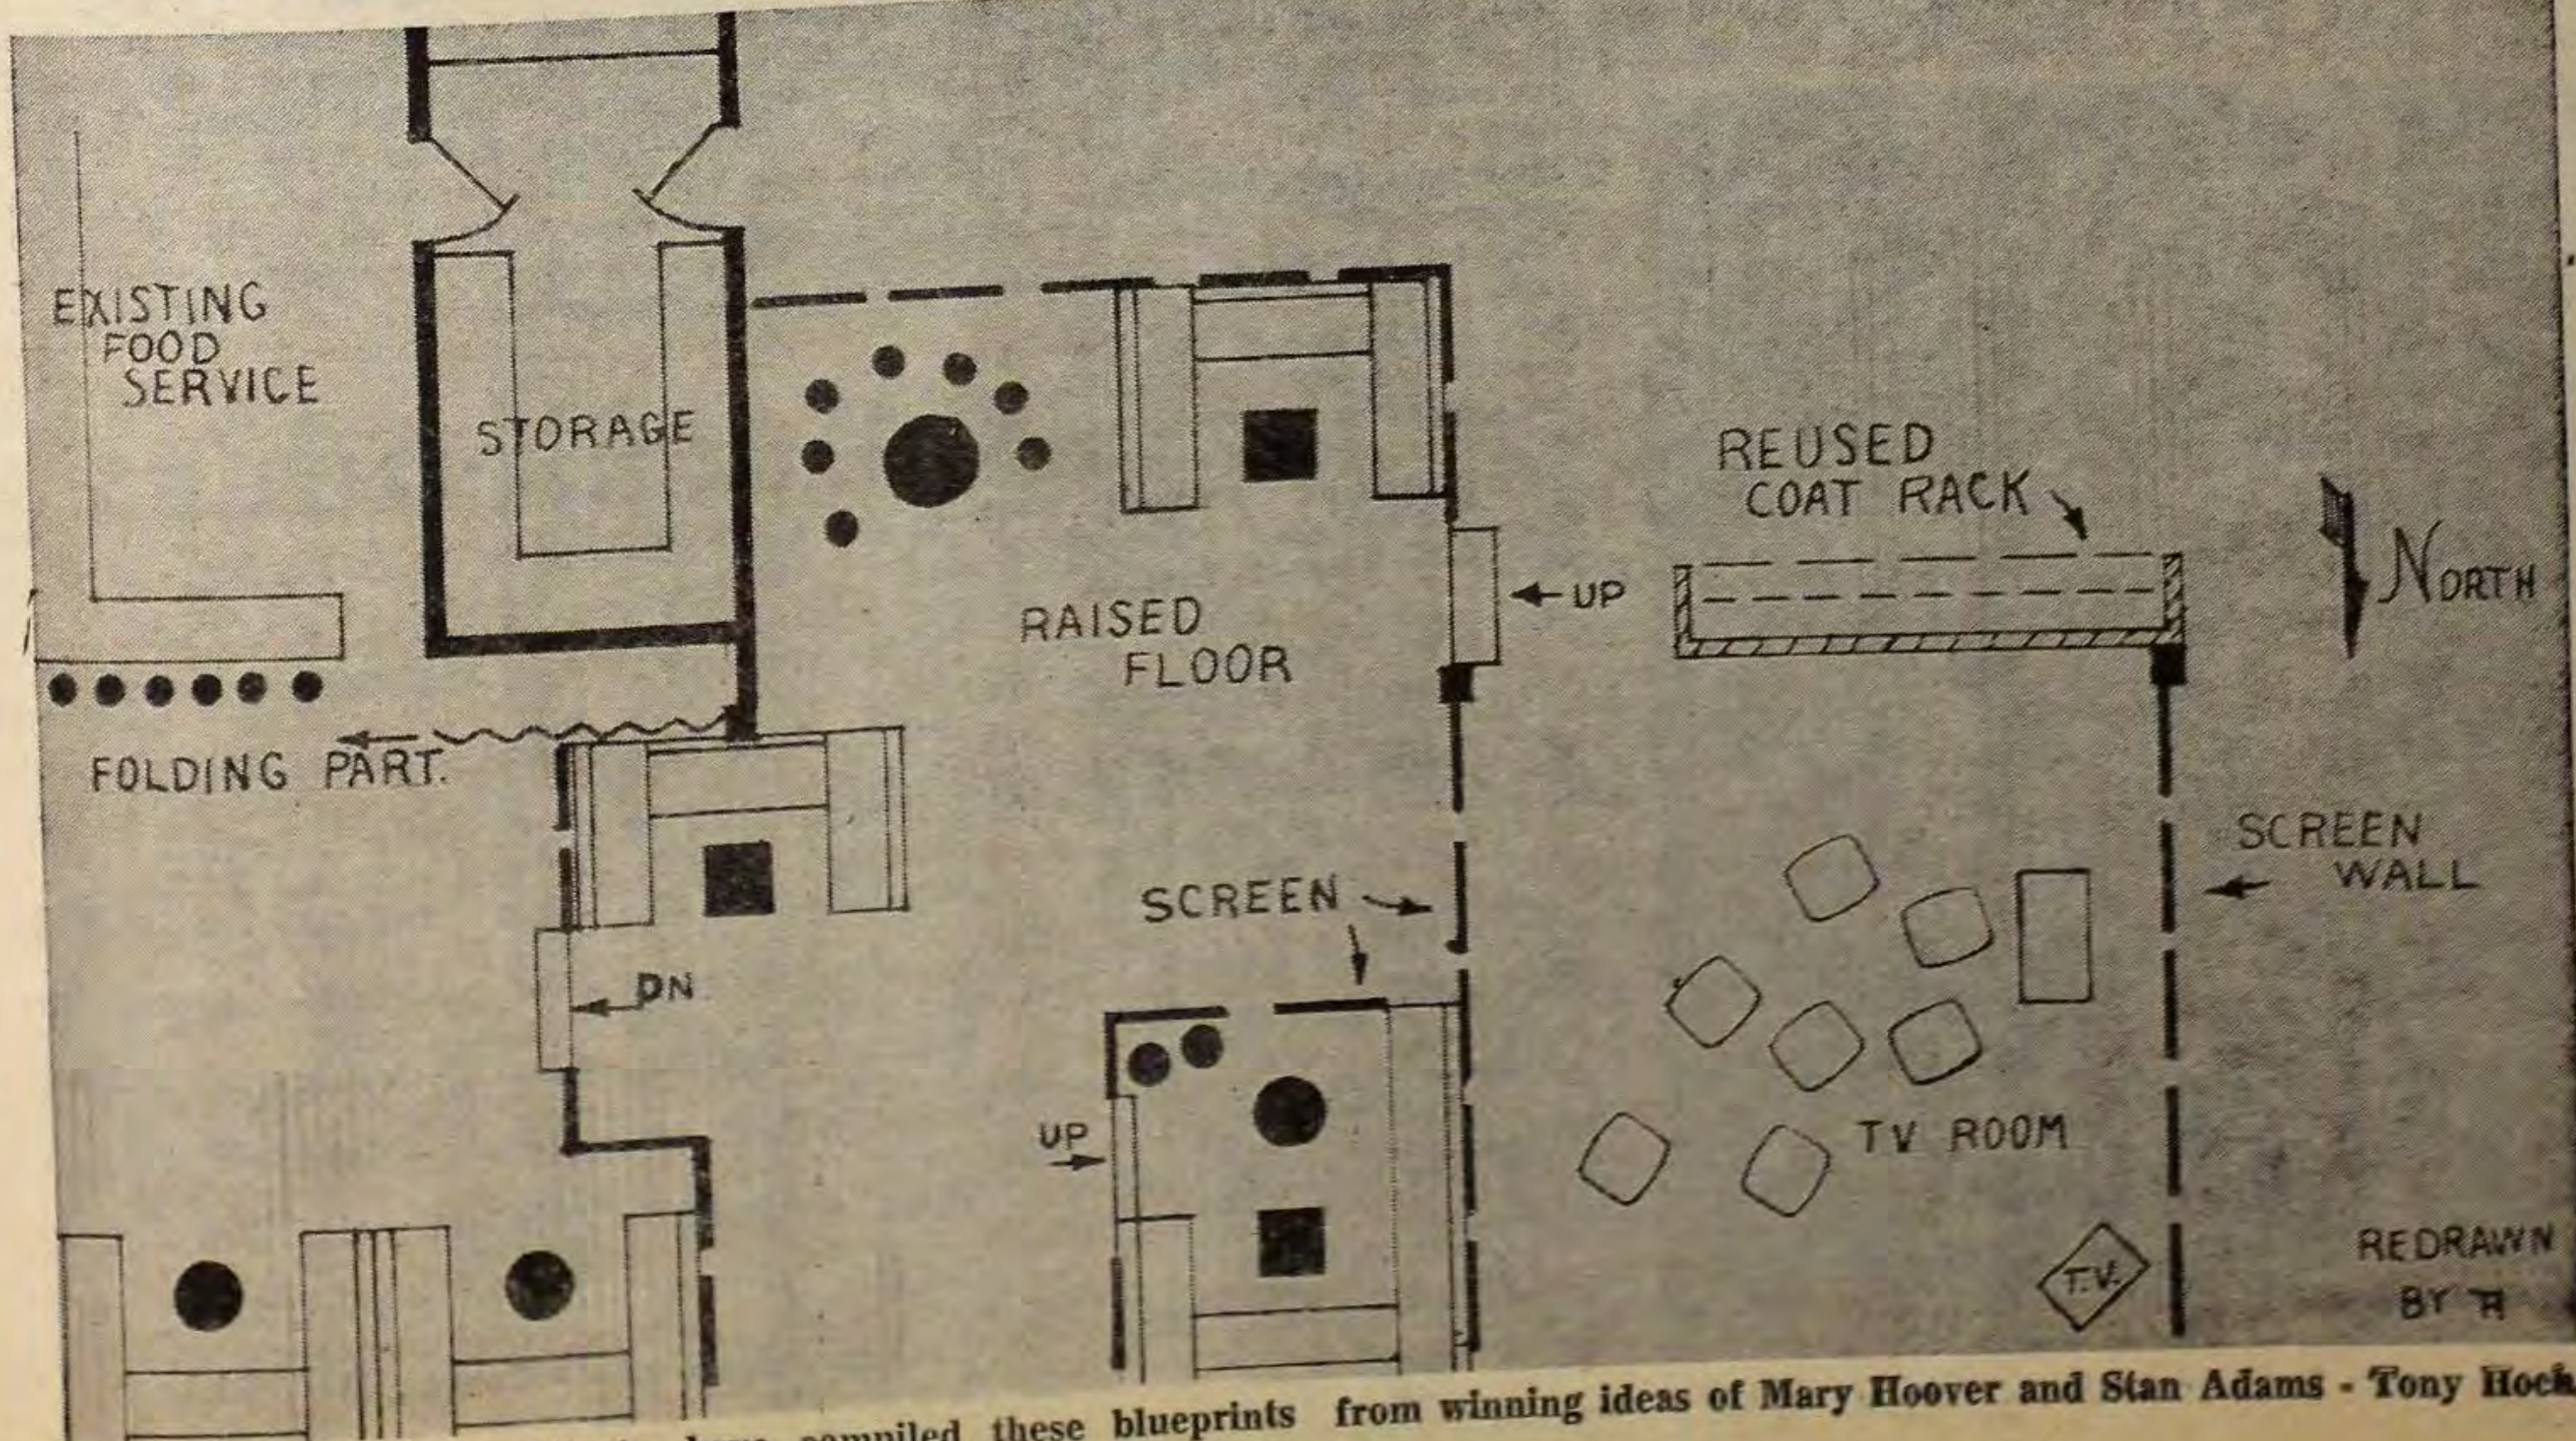

Last year the price of rooms in Bittinger Hall was cut $40. This was done because with the Youth Center occupying the first floor, the residents would no longer have the use of the lounge. Prices are going up $25 because it is apparent that the lack of lounge has not detracted from the desirability of living there. Also, the administration feels there should be a difference between the cost of Metzler Hall and Bittinger.

Plans Prom

May 1 is the deadline for all students who plan to attend the Junior-Senior Prom to notify the Junior Class. Students may do this by signing the sheet in the Student Union or talking to a Junior Class officer.

Although not all the plans have been made, the Junior Class has decided to have the banquet and dance at the Elks Club in Salina. The evening will consist of a banquet from 7-9:30 p.m. and dancing from 9:30 p.m. - 1 a.m.

The banquet will include a $ oz. filet, baked potato, salad and dessert. All Juniors and Seniors may attend free of charge. Sophomores and Freshman are welcome to attend, but the cost to them will be $3.50 per person.

Mann and Company, architects, have compiled these blueprints from winning ideas of Mary Hoover and Stan Adams - Tony Hoch. Plans redrawn from the original by Tony Hoch.

STUCO elections handled badly

I was totally unimpressed with the manner in which Stuco elections were handled. The time element between the deadline for petitions and election day did not provide candidates the proper amount of campaign time or students the proper amount of time they needed to assess the candidates.

Next year the elections should be over before spring break, giving students who run time to give the rest of the student body a more explicit idea of what they can do. Five minute speeches and a three day poster campaign do not tell much about a candidate.

With petitions being made available just before spring break and everyone leaving for a week followed by a three and a half day Easter Vacation, we had little time to consider each candidate's qualifications objectively. This was especially true this year since petitions for President and Vice President were not turned in until the beginning of last week.

Dinner termed success, extends thanks

Dear Editor,

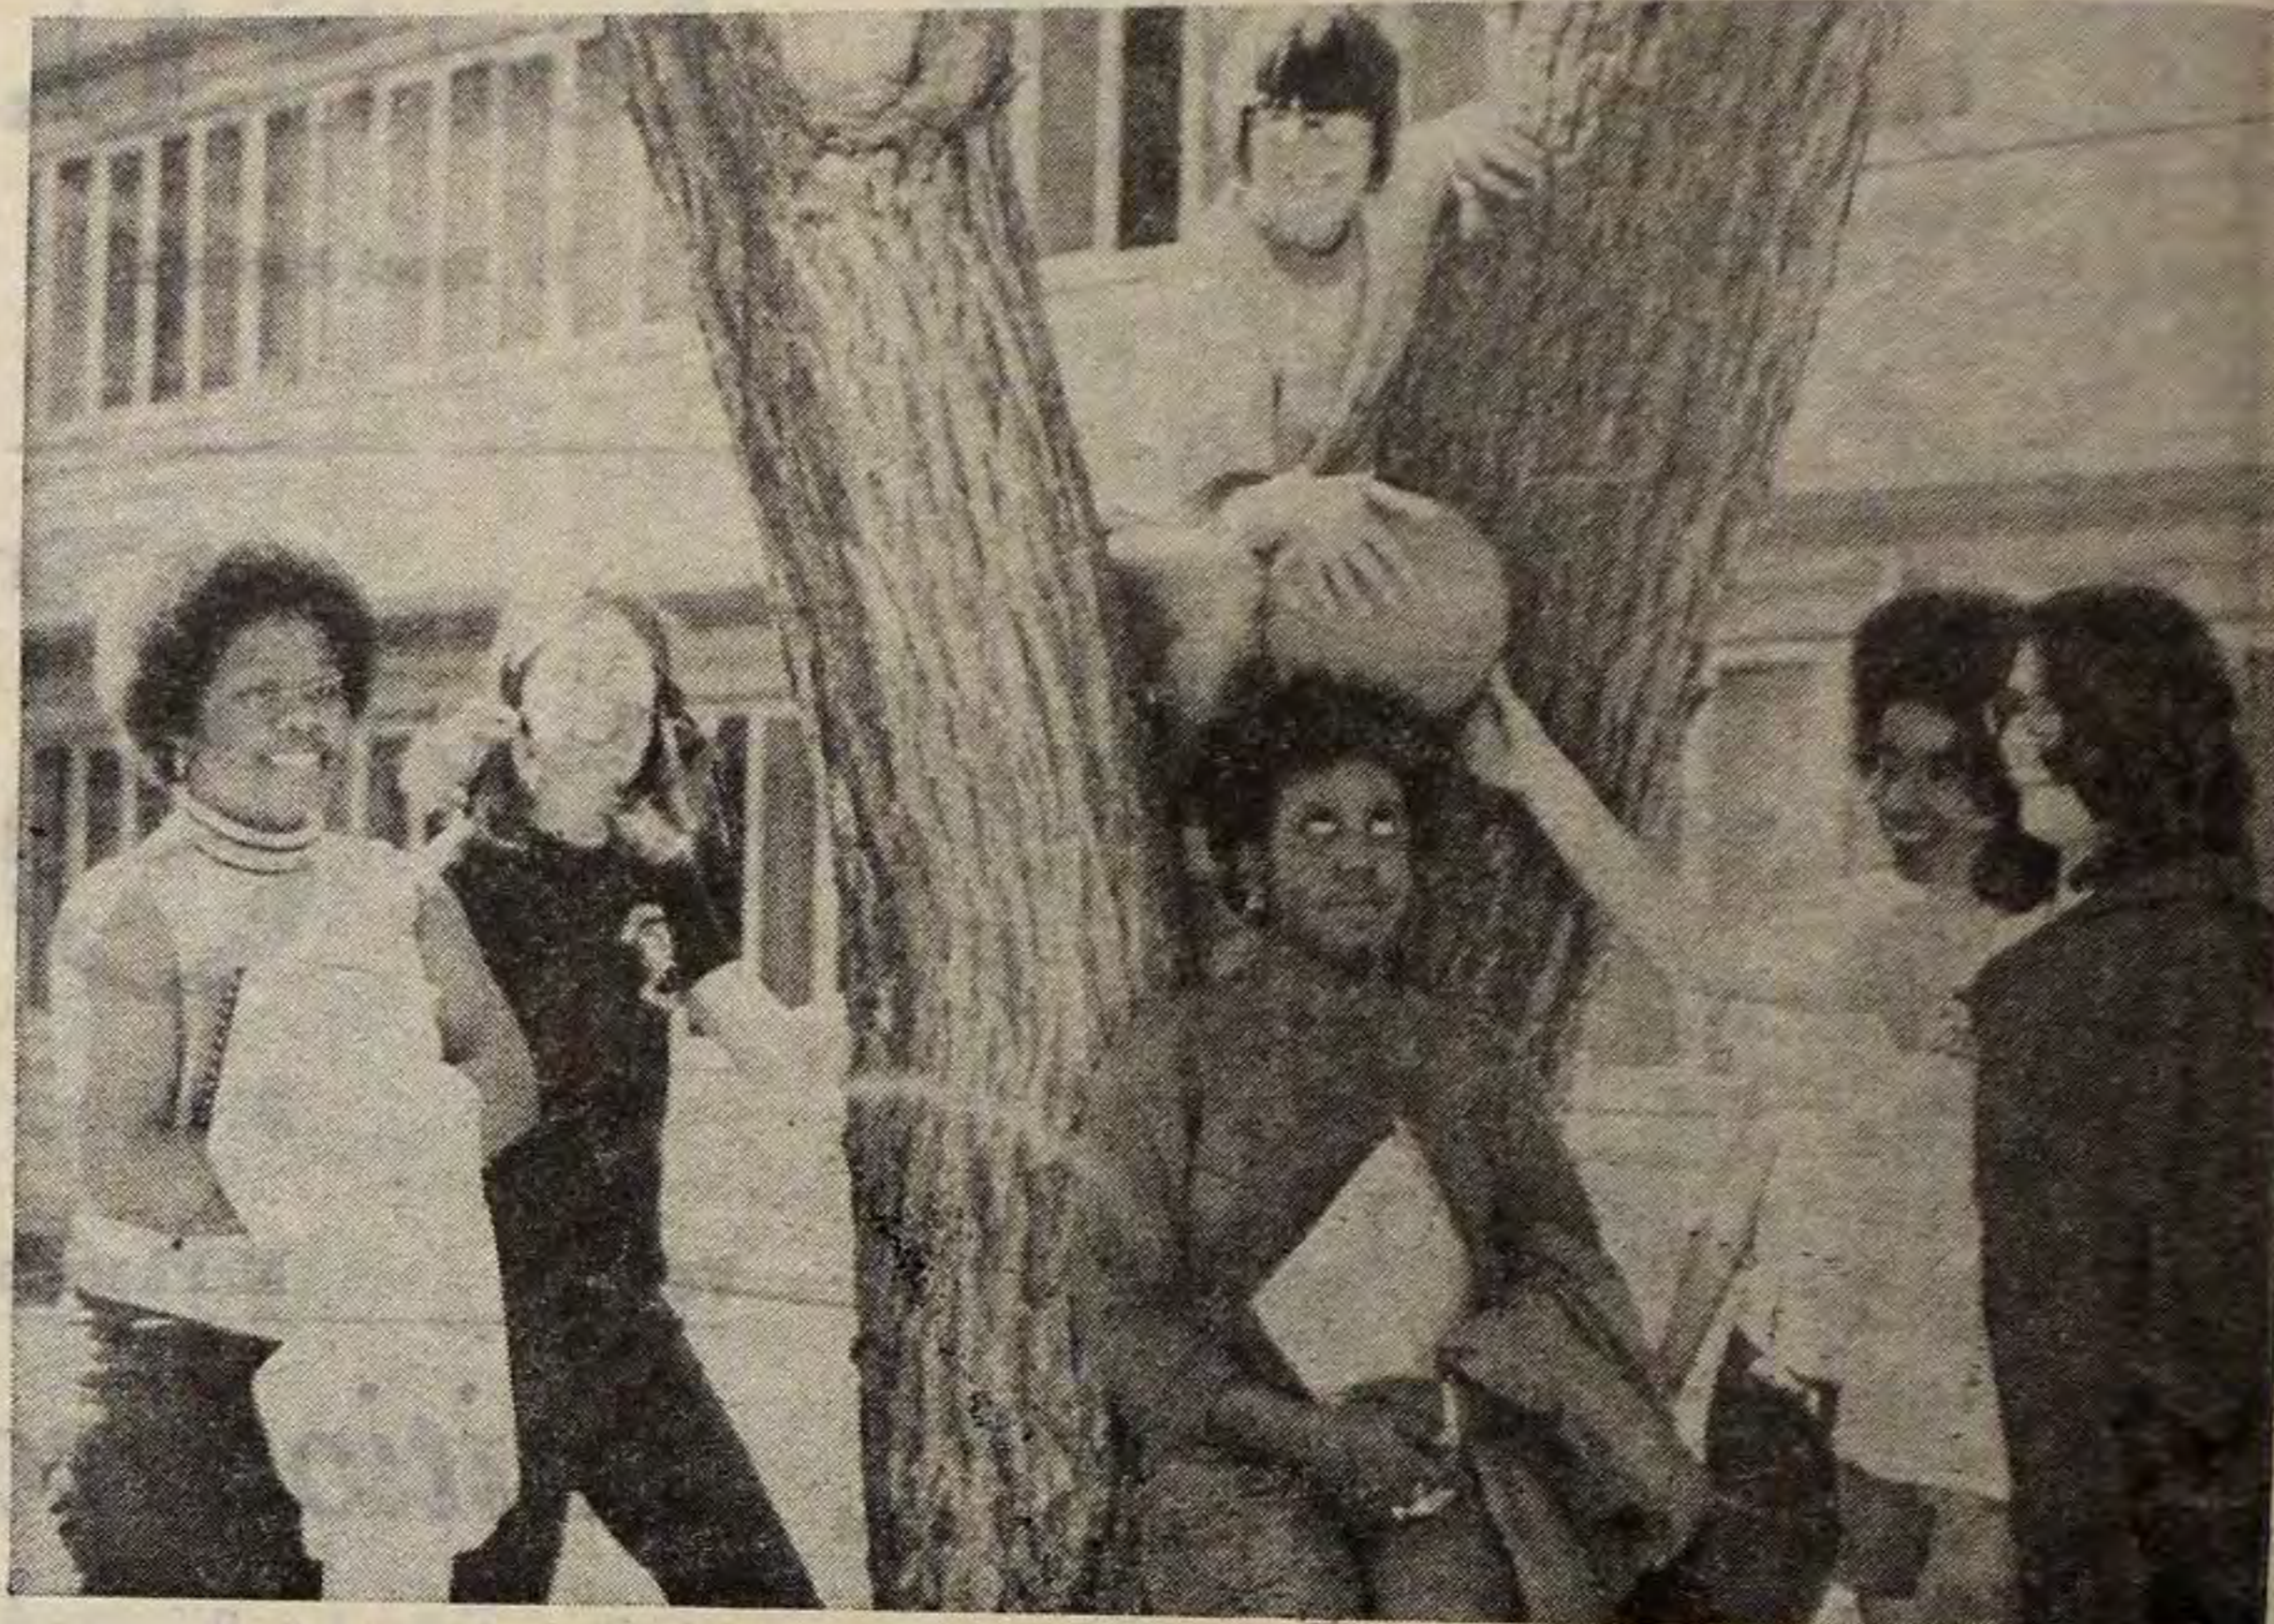

I feel many thanks are in store for the few people who helped to make the Juniors' spaghetti dinner a success. An additional $200 was raised for the Junior-Senior Prom. Cyndi Agenbroad should especially be commended for her help in organizing and the 15 hours of time she donated on the day of the dinner. Thanks also to Byran Crouse, Jan Foley, Sandy

Hamm, Ann Thomas, Carol Stone, Tony Hoch, Pam Barkdoll, Patty Wood, Sherry Anderson, Karlene Morphew, Eileen Snyder, Al Sammis, Beth Wilhide, Yvonne Franklin, Cherri Jestmore, Cece Zavala, Randy Porter, Dave Peterson, all ticket sales personnel, and Bill LeCour and Betty Byrd. It was a lot of work, and your help was greatly appreciated and needed. Thanks to the members of the faculty, the community, and those students who supported the junior class by coming to our dinner.

My only regret was that out of about 120 junior class members, only a handful were willing to work hard and long. To those handful, I can say, "We did it, thanks to you!"

Sincerely,
Debbie Hartell

Mac graduate calls acting world tough

by Warren Schomig

Nearly three years ago Gene Vladimir Czaplinski, an English major and graduate of McPherson College, grew bored with teaching school at Greensburg, Kansas and decided that he was going to seek out a golf course he knew of in Chicago — with the possibility of turning pro. Today the tall, blond-haired alumni is America's most sought-after male model.

When asked to speak to the seminar in theatre class Gene declared he had developed a bad case of stage fright. "I'm really scared to speak to this class — I'm not a teacher anymore — I'm an actor."

Family Immigrates to Mac

Born in Russia, his family moved to America and settled in McPherson, Kansas where Gene graduated from McPherson High School and McPherson College. After his short teaching career in Greensburg Gene decided that "I just wanted to go somewhere and live; and, while out on the golf course, this dude asked me if I ever thought about modeling. My life has been a whole new ballgame ever since."

His first modeling job was modeling blazers for Spiegel's of Chicago. "This," said Gene, "was the first time the camera man ever shot a person before. He had been shooting bed mattresses!" He asked the cameraman what he should do, and he told him to pretend he was talking to his girl friend. Gene replied, "Well, how do you pretend to talk to your girl friend with 700 degrees of lights beaming at you and a suit that's pinned on you and everytime you move a pin stabs you somewhere?"

Discourages Professional Acting

Although models make $40 an hour in Chicago and $60 an hour in New York, Gene discourages anyone from getting into the modeling and acting world. "It's tough — I'm a totally different person now compared to what I was while living a simple life in Kansas. You see things on a completely different level in professional acting than you do in college drama or community theatre — really great acting takes years to accomplish, and I've only begun."

Una Yoder, McPherson drama professor never expected Gene to get into the profession that he did. "I really can't remember him as being anything special although he was a good student."

Gene likes McPherson because "I'm basically a private person, and I'm not too sure what I want out of life. There are so many directions I can go. I'm waiting for my feelings to tell me what to do. That's what is nice about McPherson — peace and quiet. Hopefully, I can work everything out here before I go back home to New York. I need to spend a lot of time alone — you just can't think in New York."

"Probably the biggest thing that ever happened to me was to receive the lead role in the film "Bonner," said Gene. "However, the film went broke and we had to stop shooting... and that's hard to take because that could have been the gate to the big time."

Appears in, "The Sting."

Gene appeared in "The Sting," starring Robert Redford and Paul Newman. "I think Redford is just a star — as a person he has no depth." On the ad bill for "The Sting" the body thought to be Paul Newman's is really Gene's.

Gene Czaplinski, a McPherson College graduate is now residing in New York and is in the acting and modeling world.

Four one acts slated for April 25-27

A very loving couple that gets into a ridiculous argument about who will shut and bar the door is the subject of the melodrama "Shut and Bar the Door." Directed by DeeDee Yoder, soph., Hungryhorse, Mont., this is one of the four one-act plays to be presented on April 25, 26, and 27 by the drama department. The couple, John and Lenore is portrayed by Cecil Shoen jr, McPherson and Judy Kimmel, jr, McClouth; the Princess by Donna Miller, fr. Wichita; the Prince by Bruce Blocher, fr, Lincoln, Neb.; and the thieves by Kenton Bradwisch N.D., and Sharon Switzer, fr., Wichita. "All the people in the play have got their characters, and I think they'll do a good job," commented DeeDee.

"Antic Spring," directed by Vickie Heisey, fr, Des Moines, Ia.. The adventures of six high-school teenagers as they go on a picnic are enacted by Lois Pierson, sr., Middleton, Michigan, as Ginger, Brent Peterson sr., Wichita, as Robert, John Philpott, jr., Denver, Colo., as Sam, Denis Miller, fr., Wichita, as Gwendolyn, Bruce Blocher, fr., Lincoln, Neb., as Elbert, and Margaret Cussen, fr., Hutchinson, as Blossom.

"Next," directed by Warren Schoming, jr., McPherson shows the frustrations of a middle-aged man who has been forced to report for his army physical. Brad Wille, sr., Manhattan plays the part of Marion, and Jan Shrock, fr., Harmony, Minn., plays an army nurse, Sargent Tech.

In contrast to the thirteenth-century England setting of the melodrama, small-town USA in the fifties is the setting for

A fourth one-act "When the Horns Blow," will be directed by Una Yoder and be composed of students in her acting class.

Margaret Cussen and Brent Peterson rehearse a scene from "Antic Spring," a one act to be presented April 25-27.

Professor Richard Shaull to talk of religious faith

by Bruce Clary

As a part of Religion Emphasis Week McPherson College will be presenting a series of four lectures featuring Professor Richard Shaull.

Shaull is now Professor of Ecumenics at Princeton Theological Seminary after returning from 20 years in South America serving as a missionary, seminary professor and university administrator.

He is a graduate of Elizabethtown College and holds Bachelor of Theology and Doctor of Theology degrees from Princeton Seminary. He is author of "Encounter with Revolution" and co-author of "Containment and Change." He has written four volumes in Portuguese on Christian faith and social problems, as well as numerous articles and chapters in various publications.

Professor Shaull's four discourses will all be related to Christian faith and the threat to the personality presented by the social and cultural disintegration of today.

The schedule for Prof. Shaull's series is as follows:

Wed., Ap., 24 - 8:00 p.m. Brown Aud., Convo. credit.
Thurs. Ap. 25 - 9:00 a.m., Brown Aud., Convo credit.
Thurs., Ap. 25 - 7:30 p.m., Brethren Church.
Fri., Ap. 26 - 10:00 a.m. Brown Aud.

A spokesman for the administration said that the lecture series was instigated to provide some religious activity on campus for the students.

Prof. Shaull will be available for discussion to all interested persons and groups during his stay in McPherson.

Club plants trees after ice storms

Aesthetics and environmental concerns are a part of everyday life and thus are of concern to everyone. When trees around campus were plagued by Dutch Elm disease and the winter ice storms took their toll on the trees around campus, Science Club decided to help out.

The members have recently planted two new trees on campus. Vice-president Sue Smith said the new tree in front of Beeghly Hall is a sycamore, and the new one between the Student Union and Friendship Hall is an ornamental pear tree.

She also expressed the hope that this would be a continuing project of the Science Club in future years.

MCCC to conduct poll concerning grad school

MCCC, at an April 10 meeting, voted down an off-campus housing proposal and approved a graduate school study.

Almost a year ago, Steve Quackenbush, Kris Goering, and Carol White brought the issue of off-campus living before MCCC as a suggested discussion item.

The item stated:

(1) Since it is a reality at McPherson that many students desire not to eat on the food service and or not to live in college housing, and

(2) since it is the ardent desire of many of these students to live in off-campus housing, and

(3) since the leadership of the college sees the college as a residence college at which all students, or as many as possible, should live in and participate in the college community, and

(4) since, in view of the philosophy expressed in (3) above, the college has invested a great deal of money in building housing adequate for an anticipated student body much larger than the one now in attendance, and

(5) since the students desire to move off-campus and the faculty-administration desire to maintain a residence college cause a great deal of conflict, hard feelings and waste of time.

Therefore it is reasonable to expect a discussion of these problems which will attempt to compromise or resolve the difficulties. We request that the MCCC promote such a discussion. (Submitted by Steve Quackenbush, Kris Goering and Carol White.)

Don Hoover, sr., McPherson, stated at the April 10 meeting "The discussion which followed brought several school policies into light. It is my recommendation that MCCC again discuss on-campus and off-campus housing and that MCCC consider a policy recommendation which would allow seniors to live off of school grounds."

Don Hoover also suggested a Graduate School Survey. Don said, "on February 28 four students and three faculty met with the Education Committee of the Board of Trustees. One of the items discussed was the lack of knowledge of how many graduates from McPherson go on to graduate schools, law schools, or medical schools. It was felt that if these statistics were made available to the students it would be of positive benefit. Therefore, I recommend that MCCC conduct a poll of the seniors to find how many seniors at McPherson intend to go to graduate schools, and how many of these individuals have been accepted."

Net men bomb Sterling

Mac's tennis team dropped its season record to 3-5 last Monday with a narrow 5-4 loss to Southwestern College. Steve Burkholder and Mark Melhorn won their singles matches and Melhorn-Burkholder and Larry Doll-Russ Hunt won their doubles matches. In the previous week, the Mac netmen destroyed Sterling College 5-4 and then got bombed by Tabor College 8-1. Burkholder, Melhorn and L. Doll won their singles matches and Mel-horn-Burkholder and Kent Trimmel-Doug Grothe were successful in the doubles competition against SC. Melhorn was the only MC victor against Tabor. This Saturday the Bulldogs travel to Sterling for the ACCK tennis meet.

Soccer club storms Derby

by Rande Short

The gloomy weather forecast for Sunday, April 7, turned out to be a dire prediction for the Derby Soccer Club as Mac College stormed them 6-0. The outcome of the skirmish was never in doubt as Mac dominated both ends of the field and turned it into a defeat for the hapless Derby team.

Mac's opponents goal was an ample abyss as the offense thundered in two goals in the first half and four in the second. Gerardo Serrador and Luis Quevedo each scored twice. Marty Nolan and Gunter Stehr, added to the coup de grace with one goal apiece.

The pugnacious defense scored its first shut-out of the season. The team's record is now 4-1-1. The club's next game is Sunday, April 21.

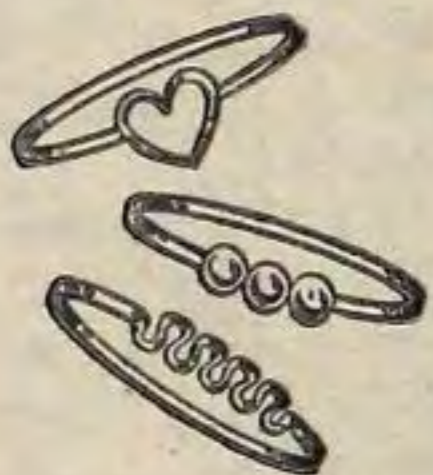

Jan Foley stretches for the five foot mark as she high jumps during track practice.
