

Workday brings S.U. fund to $16,300

by Brent Peterson

While the campus was covered with high school music students, some 60 Mac College students were working at various jobs throughout the community. Their goal was to earn money for the Student Union renovation fund.

The project was sponsored by Student Council. Thirty-one jobs were secured by advertising in The McPherson Sentinel, announcements over the radio, and by mailing out requests. Some 60 students participated, and fifteen additional students have promised to donate the day's earnings from their regular jobs.

At 4:00 o'clock last Monday afternoon, Stuco President, Donald Hoover, said that $857.20 had been received from the workday. He estimated that the final tally for the project would be around $900.

W. G. Duguid paid the highest hourly wages to David Krall and Ted Hammarlund. They received $6 per hour for a total of $100. J. E. Chisholm was also very generous. He paid $3.50 an hour to each of Steve Burkholder, Rick Doll, Russ Hunt, and Kent Trimmell. Their total for the day was again $100.

President Hoover went on to say that the estimated cost of the renovation project is $20,000. To date the renovation fund stands at about $16,300. This includes the estimated earnings from the workday and matching funds from the school.

All money that has been contributed by students to the renovation project has been matched by the school with $5 for every dollar contributed by the students. The matching of funds is what has made it possible for the fund to reach its present level of $16,300.

The students who worked last Friday may not have anything to show for their efforts, but their reward is coming sometime next week. They will be receiving a free steak dinner in the college cafeteria.

Coach resigns position, values 'Mac association'

by Beth Wilhide

"My associations with faculty and students will last for a lifetime," said Coach Don Widrig when asked about his resignation from McPherson College.

Widrig, a 1959 graduate of McPherson College, came to Mac after teaching at Beloit, Kansas, where he was head track coach and assistant football and basketball coach. While at Mac, he was first made assistant coach of all sports under Sid Smith. In 1964 he was appointed head track coach and two years later he became head basketball coach.

The close contact with basketball and the close association that a coach has with his players are two things that Widrig said he will miss.

Along with the players, he has grown very fond of his Student Basketball Assistants and expresses his gratitude to Larry Morlan, Gary Lydic, Dennis Feagler, and George Harderson for their help and support.

Widrig feels his greatest accomplishment was at Mac in 1970-71 when his basketball team won the Northern Division of the Conference. He owes their success to the team's strict discipline.

A greater accomplishment for Widrig was the upholding of a belief. "In a small college, education for the basketball player is as important as winning. The education of a player comes first, even if it lessens the chances of winning," Widrig respected this belief throughout his 14 years of teaching and coaching at McPherson College.

"I didn't want to be a coach all my life," smiled Widrig, "so when the opportunity arose for a new challenging job. I decided this was a good time to make the switch. Also, with our sons about to participate in sports, this new job will provide me with the free time I need to see them in competition."

Widrig's new job is with a private company located in McPherson where he will be manager of an underground storage.

Mr. and Mrs. Widrig and their two sons will continue to reside in McPherson.

Jaffi Daya and Judy Kimmel rehearse for the one-act "When the Horns Blow" to be presented tonight at 7:30 p.m. at Brown Auditorium.

Drama department presents finale of 73 - 74 year

Four one-act plays which are taking place in Brown Auditorium this weekend, constitute the final production of McPherson College's drama department. The plays, "When the Horns Blow," directed by Una Yoder; "Next," directed by Warren Schoming; "Antic Spring," directed by Vickie Heisey; and "Shut and Bar the Door" directed by DeeDee Yoder, are being presented Thursday and Friday, April 25 and 26, at 7:30 p.m. and Saturday, April 27, at 2:30 p.m. Admission is free.

Dr. Merlin Frantz, Dean of Academic Affairs, urges all students to complete an ACCK Questionnaire which will be distributed to all 8 a.m. and 9 a.m. classes Monday, April 29. The data collected will give needed information for institutional research.

Faculty with 8 a.m. and 9 a.m. classes may pick up the questionnaire from the Office of Academic Dean before Monday.

ACCK to sponsor Preservation Hall at Presser Hall

The 70- and 80-year old Dixieland Band musicians of Preservation Hall are coming direct from New Orleans for a performance of traditional jazz. This group, one of the main attractions in Old New Orleans, will be playing the music that gave birth to all later jazz forms.

Preservation Hall is being sponsored by the ACCK Colleges. They will be entertaining in Presser Hall on the Bethany College Campus, Saturday, April 27. Show time is 8:00 p.m. and general admission tickets will be $3.50. McPherson College students may purchase tickets ahead of time in the Business Office for $2.25.

Coach Widrig has resigned his position as an athletic instructor at McPherson College.

"Spring Fling" set May 1-4

Spring Fling Week is in the final stages of planning by Social Committee. The activities will begin Wednesday, May 1 and will run through Saturday May 4.

picnic in the park with volleyball following. Also tentatively planned is a free roller skating party, May 3, co-sponsored by Metzler and Bittinger Halls.

Saturday, May 4, has been scheduled with the afternoon activities consisting of games and contests, such as a sack race, a frisbee contest and a water fight around the flag pole. If anyone has any further ideas for the afternoon, he or she may contact Diane Townsend or any member of the social committee.

Butch Sinclair and Co. to play at Jr. - Sr. Prom

Butch Sinclair and Company will be the band playing at the Jr.-Sr. Prom, May 10. The dance will begin at 10:00 p.m. and run until 1 a.m. at the Elks Club in Salina.

The banquet will be served from 8:00-10:00 preceding the dance. Dress is to be semi-formal and cost will be $3.50.

A list will be posted in the cafeteria where everyone planning to attend is asked to sign-up.

Workday project termed a "success"

Student Council should be commended for coming up with Workday, a fund raising project which made a significant contribution towards our S.U. renovation. Stuco President, Don Hoover, announced that more than $900 was turned in to him on Workday and a total of 60 students contributed their time to this project. Since the school has volunteered to multiply student earnings times five, Workday made a nice contribution towards our goal.

Faculty are also to be commended for fully and unhesitatingly co-operating by supplying jobs for many students. All in all, Workday was a success not only because of the monetary gain towards S.U. renovation, but because it once again proved the dedication the staff has towards the students and the college.

This college community effort should be applauded and classified as one of the more beneficial projects students have had the opportunity to take part in this year.

Visitor brings Christ's word

Dear Editor:

I felt so good tonight that I wanted to shout it to the whole world. Finally, right here at McPherson College, it was reaffirmed for me the true message of the Christian faith. Life is good, life is positive. Life is Y-E-S. Life is do; not don't. Life is joyous. Life is precious. Life is love. Love is uniting, love is fulfilling. Love is responsible. Love is sexual. It is tender and respectful. Love is open.

Christ's message finally came through; love others as you love yourself. But you know what's really sad about this? This reaffirmation came to me from someone visiting campus. This particular someone was Bob Faus who spoke at the Human Sexuality Workshop.

We have been here three years, and I can count on one hand the number of times I've felt the joy, communion and love of the Christian community; and three out of five of those times it has come from someone visiting campus.

It seems to me that that fact alone explains a great deal about McPherson College and why it can't hang onto students!

Amen,
Beckie Wagner

Five Hutchinson policemen attend Mac, "need more knowledge to do jobs well"

by Diane Tharrington

You may have heard of plain clothes cops, but these are not the type of policemen that are attending classes here on campus. These men are members of the Hutch police force and are taking classes here at Mac associated with police work.

These men were encouraged to return to school through a program called "LEEP", which was started by the federal government in 1969 to help upgrade the police departments around the nation by giving financial assistance to the men already in uniform. Through this program funds are provided for colleges that have a large number of students to participate in the program. With this program the men in uniform have a chance to go back to school and get a degree in correction, courts, teaching areas, or police work.

The five "plain clothes" policemen on campus are Larry Cook, sr. and a corporal in the department; Earl Baxer, sr., and a patrolman; Bob Miller, jr., and a sargent in the department; Larry Shaw, jr., and a patrolman; Arthur Ariaz, a patrolman. All of these men are from Hutchinson and have graduated from Hutch Juco with an administrative and justice degree. "After Hutch Juco we were planning on attending WSU, where the 'LEEP' program is in use, but with the gas situation and milage being lowered we decided to go somewhere within a closer range. We decided on McPherson because of the personalized training and individual instruction," explained Larry Sharp.

McPherson College had the "LEEP" program in 1969 - 1970, but due to lack of interest and participation it was taken away from the college. This past winter Mr. Cooper of Financial Aids has re-applied for the program and funds, showing the need we have here at the college. McPherson will have a total of 50 students under this program if the government approves the request.

Bob Miller, a Sargent stated, "It's a really good program that we all need, since we deal with people more and more each day. I've been in the force 10 years, and as the years go by I need more and more knowledge to do my job well. When I started working on the force I had two weeks training and I was out on the streets! Now the young policemen coming into the force have to have more training and education than ever before, because a policeman's job just isn't picking up criminals any more!"

Sherri Anderson and Marty Nolan work for S.U. Renovation Fund Drive on the Workday Dr. Dayton Rothrock to earn money for the set up by Student Council.

Stuco officials express feelings; plan paths to further involve students

by Diane Tharrington

The signs and slogans, speeches and final elections are over and now the hard year's work lies ahead of new Stuco officers. Each of these officers was asked to comment on his other new job and any ideas for the coming year.

Dave Wine, jr, new Stuco president from Wauneta, Nebraska, feels "that there was a need for a wider scope of focusing in on the college's needs." I feel that people are beginning to understand that if the college is to remain viable, a wider variety of needs must be met. I tried to come to grips with a number of items in my platform that covered a wide range of issues and ideas. I feel that we have moved further away from the self-concern that seemed to possess many of us in my first two years at Mac. Now there seems to be a return to the conviction that as students, our concerns must go beyond self and incorporate others and areas that maybe even don't directly involve ourselves yet may involve some in the community of which we are a part."

trend manifesting itself throughout the college community. For example, MCCC a year ago passed a resolution calling for them as a council to "broaden the scope of concerns to the entire community. . . as how to improve curriculum, faculty-student relations, town and student relations, convocations, financial affairs, campus-wide planning, all school events, moral climate, political issues and service to others. This change in emphasis and focus seems to be a new feeling that I, as Stuco president, hope to tune in to, not ever forgetting our personal concerns, but working to develop participation of a greater community setting."

Stan Adams, jr, Vice President from Dayton, Ohio thought that "next year looks to be a very progressive, and more involved year in many ways. I hope especially for student government. I just hope students realize that the four years spent in college are the most rewarding and exciting years of their lives and they should make the most of them by getting involved."

Eileen Snyder, jr, past and present Secretary from St. John, whose job also includes being Chairman of the Election Committee, said "I feel there is a large degree of apathy on campus. This is shown by the small number of interested students in this past election. Most offices had one person, some of whom had to be talked into running. Some offices had no one running. I did not feel it was my duty to run people down and make them run for these offices. But there was a need for more competition for these offices. I enjoyed my job this year because it was a new experience for me; and now that I know what is expected of me, I hope to be able to do a better job."

Linda Garland, fr, Treasurer from Cortez, Colorado thinks that "it is a good opportunity to get some experience working with financial management since my major is business. Also I would like to get involved with student government. I felt bad that more people didn't take the interest to run for the office for the benefit of getting involved in student life at Mac and for the experience."

"It's the good days that keep you going"

New situations face student teachers

by Holly Grone

The role change from student to teacher may seem sudden and hectic to the unprepared college student; it may be totally rewarding or totally discouraging; or it may leave the student confused and questioning about his chosen profession. Whether the future teacher is prepared, or unprepared the time comes when he must face the challenge of putting his newly-learned teaching skills into practice. Under the supervision of Dayton Rothrock and Monroe Hughbanks, 24 McPherson College students took their places on the other side of the desk on April 1. Reactions varied from person to person.

Debbie Weightman, Washington, Elementary School, 1st grade. "It's really discouraging that you try to help the kids, but you only have them for six hours a day, five days a week; then they go home to the same miserable situation. You feel like you're fighting a losing battle."

Dawn Forry, McPherson High School, Home-Ec; "My ideas about the profession haven't changed, although teaching is different than I thought it would be. My situation is different than the other student teachers' because there is another student teacher working under the same supervising teacher. It lightens the load for both of us."

Rick Tyler, Buhler High School, Drama; "I really enjoy it. . . it's confirmed my idea that I want to be a teacher, although discipline is more of a problem than I thought it would be."

mentary School, 3rd grade; "Teaching is different than you really get into it. . . I really like it. . . I haven't had any real problems in the classroom."

Ann Tamnreuther, Wickersham Elementary School, kindergarten; "Some days it's a rewarding experience, and some days are really bad. It's the good days that keep you going."

Gregg Stockstill, McPherson High School, Economics; and typing; "It's a good experience, but if you get stuck in a bad class, it can turn you off quickly."

Lois Pierson, Buhler High School, Speech and Drama; "I have an ideal teaching situation because my co-operating teacher has a good relationship with the kids which helps them accept me."

Barb Skaggs, Buhler High School, Vocational Home Economics; "It's impossible to really know what it's like to teach when the kids are actually under the jurisdiction of the supervising teacher. The kids will get by with all they can under a student teacher."

Generally speaking, most student-teachers, with the statement, "It really keeps you busy." Said one, "It makes you appreciate weekends." Students who think highly of their supervising teacher generally gave a favorable report of their teaching experiences. "A good co-operating teacher can make the difference," commented one.
