Several McPherson College students have volunteered an hour a day to work as Big Brothers or Big Sisters for the Youth Center of McPherson County, according to Prof. Robert Keim of the behavioral sciences department.

Students assist the Center by working with the youth on a one-to-one basis. Because the houseparents are not very far removed from the parent figure in the home, Big Brothers and Big Sisters are used. Because they are closer in age to the 12 to 17 year old youths, it is easier for youth to relate to volunteers.

New houseparents for the Center are McPherson College graduates, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Hendricks from Minneapolis, Minn. Mr. Hendricks commented on the program, "We enjoy the work. This is due partly to the good response we have had from the college students."

Responsibilities of the college students include taking the youth to various school, church and recreational activities, and tutoring. Prof. Keim is currently trying to find other ways in which to utilize sociology and psychology students.

Big Brothers and Big Sisters are used in a rotation system, as they far outnumber the youth at the Center. Since the Center opened its doors in April over 50 youths have been housed in Bittinger Hall.

Prof. Keim stressed that anyone can work as a Big Brother or Big Sister. Since the youth are encouraged not to stay for more than 30 days, volunteers will receive an opportunity to help quite frequently.

elect class leaders

by Pam Knotts

"I think the officers should keep a closer contact with the students for feedback and how they want the officers to perform," says the newly elected junior class president, John Holthus, Atwood.

John feels that in order for class officers to be effective, "the students have to take part. The role of the officer is to carry out the wishes of the other members in the class. It's not a dictatorship. It's what they think needs to be done."

He wants the class to take an active part in Homecoming, but "Our first responsibility is to make sure prom is a success." John also mentioned that the class officers would appreciate any suggestions from the junior class on what they want to happen in their class.

The next class meeting has not been scheduled but John would like to have meetings once a month or whenever one is necessary. "We're looking forward to a real successful year and I hope we can be effective as junior class leaders."

Vice-president, Stan Adams, Dayton, Ohio, will be in charge of the different committees and projects. "I want to create a unity which our class lacks," he commented. He will also help John lead class meetings.

Cyndi Agenbroad, Albuquerque, New Mexico, has been elected secretary for the junior class and Cherri Jestmore, Highland Park, is treasurer.

New freshmen class officers are Terry Horner, President, Hutchinson; Ricky Cooke, Vice-President, Lubbock, Texas; Jana Porter, Secretary, Quinter; and Marlene Wine, Treasurer, Wauneta, Neb.

Terry hopes to set up regular class meetings or "as they're needed" and to participate in the Homecoming festivities.

"We're going to succeed in everything we set out to do," Ricky states. "If students have suggestions to make our class a better class, I want them to talk to me. We'll probably be the best class!"

Suit filed against Kansas Tuition Grant

by Chris Cummings

Last fall, the Americans United for Separation of Church and State filed suit against Kansas on grounds that the Kansas Tuition Grant violated state law. This suit was denied hearing in Topeka and, subsequently, by the Kansas Supreme Court, which declared the grant to be a federal matter.

On August 20, 1973, the AU-SCS appealed to the Federal District Court. The suit will be heard in Wichita on October 10. Regardless of the outcome, however, the suit is expected to be appealed to the United States Supreme Court.

The Kansas Tuition Grant is designed to make available grants for those who wish to attend an accredited private college in Kansas. Some students attending McPherson College have received these grants.

Community ed. grows

An expanded program of continued education and community service courses is available this year to residents of the McPherson area at McPherson and Central Colleges in McPherson, Kansas.

The added feature of this year's program besides the increase in the number of courses available is that all of the courses offered are results of public demand.

Prof. Bob Green, co-directing the project with Dean Merlin Frantz, stressed that the courses were set after surveying requests of community people as compared to the past when the colleges offered courses and then the public decided if they would be interested.

Among the classes which have been scheduled at McPherson College campus are More Food "Cents," a course aimed at getting more nutrition for the dollar, Football for Wives and Other Interested Persons, explaining the fundamentals of football, Reading Improvement for Adults, Investments, Machine Tool Operation and two art classes.

Also included in this year's Community Service program is a schedule of seminars, the first of which, "Motivation and Communication for Secretaries," will be held at McPherson College.

About 200 secretaries are expected to come to Brown Auditorium on Oct. 9 to hear guest speaker David Schmidt, who is nationally known for his seminars in leadership, motivation and management.

Plans for other events of the Community Service project have not been announced at this date.

Banquet kicks off manhunt

Women will again be chasing the men of their choice as the annual Sadie Hawkins week opens Wednesday, October 3.

Heading the agenda will be a banquet dinner Wednesday evening from 5:00 to 6:15. Silent movies will be held in the basement of the Student Union from 9:30 to 11:00 the same evening.

The week's many activities will continue on Thursday with the faculty participating in various games, and later a tug-of-war will pit freshmen against upperclassmen.

Events on Friday's schedule include a movie, "The Fox," to be shown at 7:00 p.m. at Brown Auditorium. A hayride following the movie will close the evening.

Saturday there will be a block party at 1:30 p.m. The action continues as the Bulldogs meet Bethany at Mac at 7:30 p.m. A greased pig contest will be held during the half-time. Square dancing will follow the game and bring WPA (Women Pay All) week to a close of another year.

Enrollment figures steady

Enrollment figures for McPherson College remain at a steady 500 plus. A year ago, the student population totaled 505 compared to this year's 510. Females comprise 230 of this figure and men total 280.

According to tentative enrollment figures for all the ACCK colleges this fall, McPherson ranks fourth. Bethany leads with students numbering 736 and is followed respectively by Bethel with 562, Tabor with 540, McPherson with 510, Kansas Wesleyan with 486, and Sterling with 469.

An interesting aspect of McPherson's enrollment is the unusually large number of new students. The freshman class contributes 130 to the total. The registrar does not feel that the increase in tuition fee has affected enrollment in any way.

Urges voters to view issues

As most of you are probably well aware, McPherson College Community Council and Student Council elections are being held today. To some, this election may represent the chance to be heard in student government and the chance to make policy changes through MCCC. But the majority of you will probably smile, call the election a farce, cast your ballots by the recognition of names (if you cast them at all) and go on your merry way, saying "another year, another election. So what?"

We've all heard the arguments for voting — exercising our rights as citizens to determine our representatives to government. Most of us do exercise these rights — to some extent. But voting for someone because we recognize the name or think he/she is good-looking is not guaranteeing good representation.

I guess what I'm really trying to say is this. If you have not taken the time and trouble to find out what stand the person you voted for takes on issues, don't gripe when things don't go your way in Stuco and MCCC.

Perhaps our Stuco and MCCC are not the ideal student government and policy boards, but at the present time, they are all we have. So when you vote today, vote carefully. Consider the issues, not only the personalities.

Take Five

Take One

I heard that the cheerleaders were thinking of hiring a small ghost to help them out at the games. It seems we need a little school spirit.

Take Two

With each passing year in college, I become more nervous when people continue to ask me what I want to be when I grow up!

Take Three

If women followed Billy Jean King's example, and gave every chauvinistic man on this campus a little brown pig, we could have bacon for breakfast every day for the next ten years!

Take Four

Petitions for MCCC were due at noon yesterday, and elections are today. With timing like that, one wonders if MCCC might not stand for "McPherson College Calamity Council."

Thinking

Think I'll pack it up and leave tomorrow
The wind's so hard and I'm so cold.
I'll head south and try to thaw out
And if I like it, it'll be my home.

School won't miss me, since they don't know I'm here;
And I can call home after I'm on my way.

They'll say I'm a crazy kid again —
But if I let them know my plans they'll tell I should stay.

I'll find a job to pay the price of breathing,
Just enough bread to extend my life;
And the people I work with will be easy —
They'll laugh when I tell them of my flight.

And while I'm lying in the sun
Thinking of all I've said and done
And tying it all together;
I'll see myself outside myself and how I came to be myself
Out of Kansas weather.

When it's Spring I'll go back for awhile
To show them I'm okay,
And how much clearer I can see
Then those who felt I turned the wrong way.

And for a change I'll take it slow;
No pressure from within or out!
Oh God, it sounds so free and new,
I beg you — please don't stop me now.

Bill of Rights for Mac students

Passed by MCCC in May 1971, the Bill of Rights for the Students of McPherson College was accepted as a paper to be used "until a document can be prepared for the entire community, including students, faculty and administration". Milton Goering, Dean of Student Affairs, commented: "This document has served as a guide in a number of deliberations concerning policies on campus."

Preamble: There is a difference between the freedom to express ideas and the limits by which one can work for change. No society can grant an individual the freedom to act on any belief on his own initiative. The following Bill of Rights then proposes the freedom to advocate ideas and procedures (both formal and informal) by which a student may participate in the campus community in his most effective manner which will respect the freedom of decision of all students.

Speech and Press: I. All students, individually and in groups, shall be free to state and discuss their opinions openly, without censorship or prior approval. They may publish and distribute their own publications or any others representing their views.

Recognizing that public relations is an important aspect of the College affecting not only students, but other members of the College community, students are advised to consider articles for off-campus distribution carefully, making clear that their statement does not represent the official position of the College and has respect for the literary tastes of the community.

When statements are considered to be working against the College's best interest the matter should be brought to the MCCC or some other responsible body.

Assembly: Students shall have the right of peaceful assembly, the right of free association with other individuals or groups to organize and to hold meetings, and the right to choose to have or not to have a faculty adviser for their group. While no group shall be required to furnish lists of members or participants, the welfare of the community requires that the approved authorized persons know at all times who the responsible leaders are for all groups that use the College's facilities.

Beliefs: Each student shall be free to hold his own beliefs — religious, moral, and political.

Equality: No laws or rules shall be made or enforced which discriminate against social class, creed, race, color, age, or sex.

Privacy, security: Every student shall have, as defined by the College community, the right to privacy, the right to hold private conversation as privileged, the right to be secure in his person, the right of privacy in the handling of his personal search and seizure of his room and possessions. The people to whom access to students' records is granted and the procedures by which a room may be searched shall be clearly stated and published at the beginning of each academic year.

Due process: Each student shall have the right to due process, according to the procedures published no later than the beginning of the academic year in which the case is examined, and the right to face his accuser(s). He shall be considered innocent until judged guilty, shall be advised in writing of the accusations against him before his hearing, and shall not be required to testify against himself. The student also has the right to have a student, faculty, or administrative adviser of his own choosing to assist him in presenting his case and to guard his procedural rights.

No official action by the College, including but not limited to disciplinary probation, removal from dormitories, loss of campus privileges, etc., may be taken against a student because he has been convicted or charged by the civil authorities unless said person is declared to be a clear and present danger to the well-being, safety, academic and-or social objectives of the McPherson College community by the Campus Hearing Board.

Appeal: Any student member of the college community may bring charges before the Campus Hearing Board against any other community member for violating any of the above provisions.

The decision of the Campus Hearing Board shall be final, subject only to the student's right of appeal to the President, or ultimately to the governing Board of the College.

LeCour says costs not affecting quality

by Velma Bunch

"There are certain policies that schools and institutions use to keep food prices at a minimum all the time, even when food costs are not as high as they are now," says Bill LeCour, manager of the Food Service for McPherson College. LeCour plans to continue the same program as in past years and control waste in order to keep food costs down for the students.

"This program starts by buying the best product available for the money and insuring that the supplier will be able to give you the quality and the quantity you need week after week. Surveyors compare the prices of different suppliers in the same categories and then submit the price of the product, the quality and the distribution continuity."

"The amount of the portion served is controlled to make sure dollars aren't going down the drain. Labor schedules are set up so no time is wasted and no one is over-worked."

Costs are cut wherever it is possible. When LeCour came to McPherson College, over two years ago, the policy on seconds was to take the tray and dirty dishes to the conveyor belt and get clean dishes and tray for seconds. LeCour pointed out the cost of washing those extra dishes in terms of dollars and cents. That practice is now obsolete.

Another way of cutting costs is the card checking system. It is an objective checking system and is effective in keeping out persons who have not paid for food service. The system used now is a subjective checking system — one person must remember who has paid for food service and who has not. The card checking system will be in operation soon.

"The quality of the food served has not been affected except for a shortage of certain items, which include soybeans, eggs, wheat, chicken, sliced carrots, all canned fruits, and grapes and raisins."

Assistant manager Betty Byrd plays an important part in the handling of food service. Ms. Byrd has charge of the buying and the basic menu that is subject to change according to the prices of items. Ms. Byrd came to McPherson ten years ago as a cook, moved up to production manager and is now assistant manager of the food service.

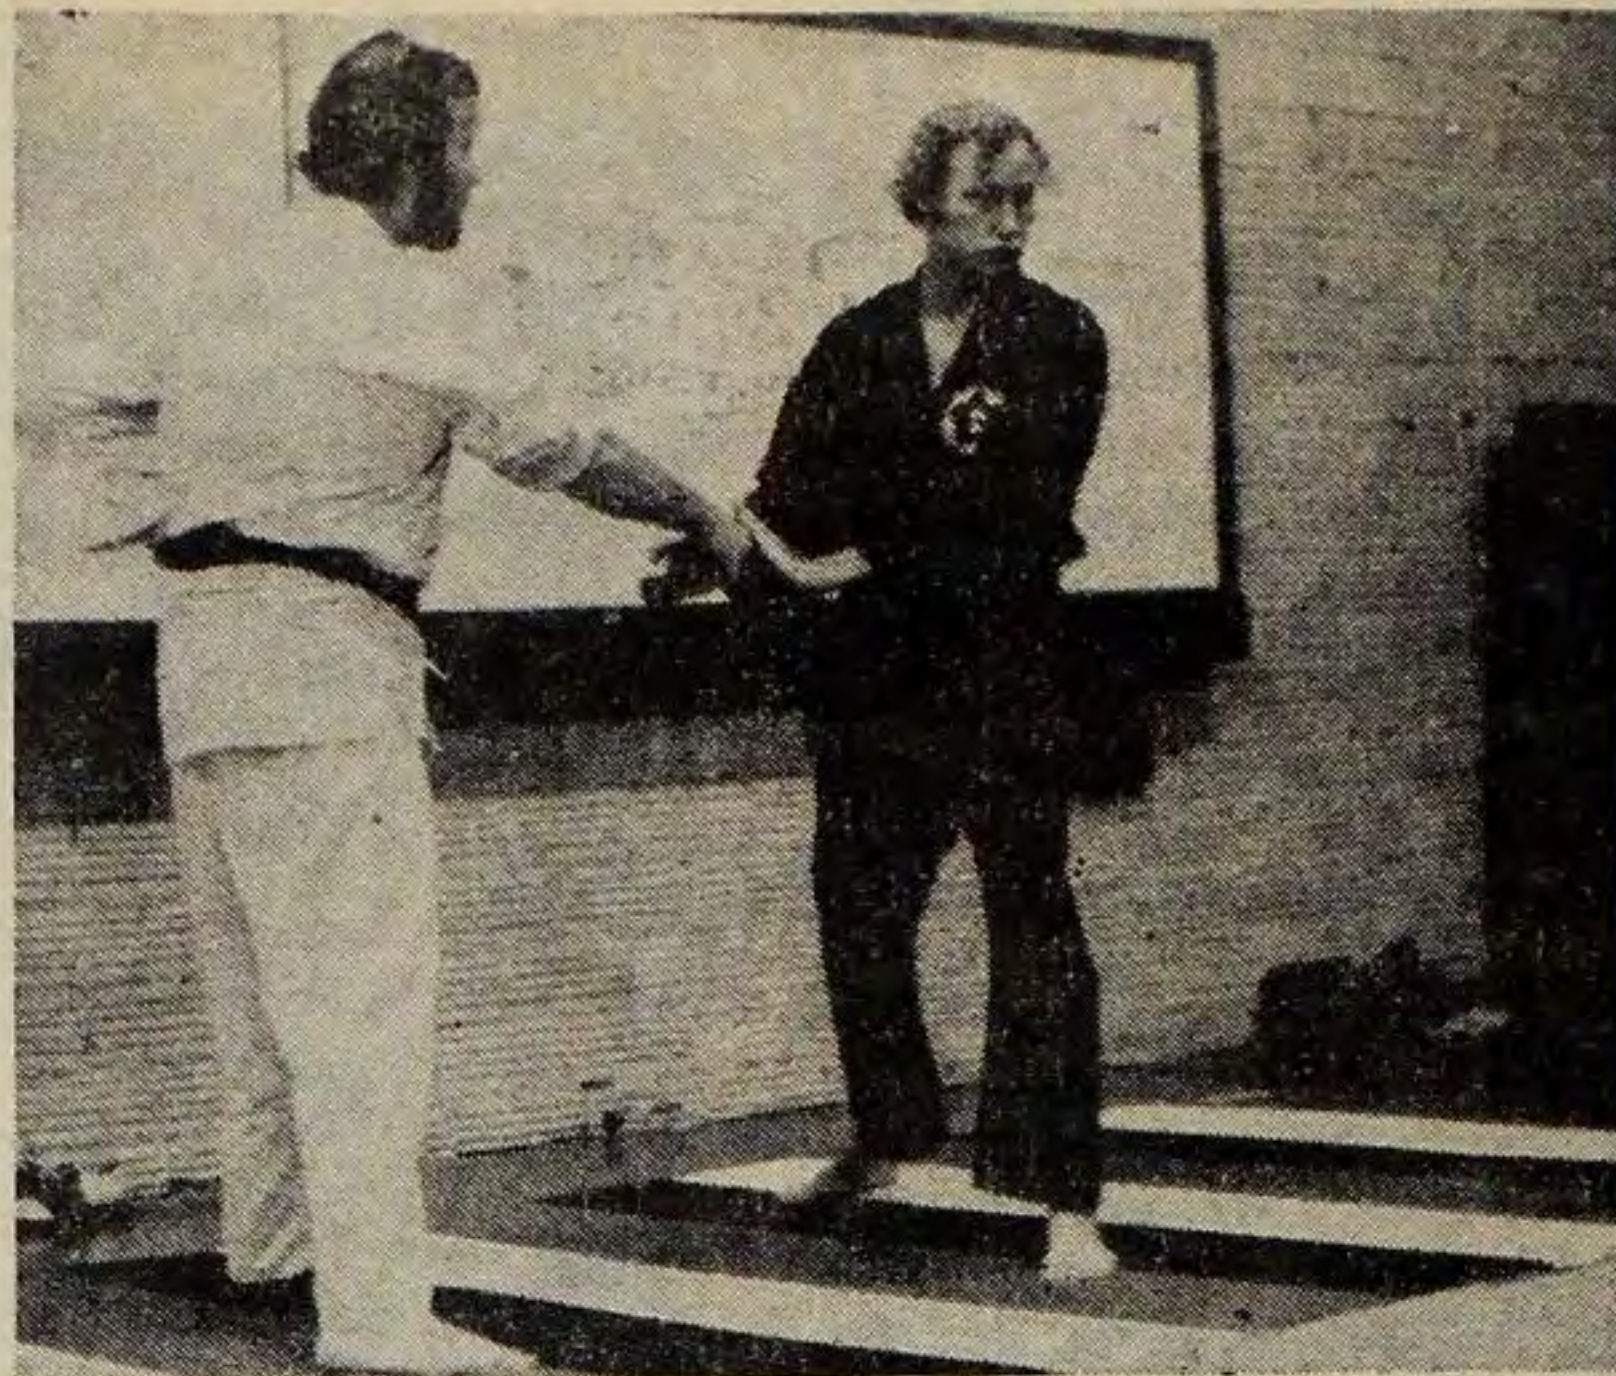

If students have any complaints about Food Service, they should contact Bill LeCour. In his own words, "Unless I know about a problem, I can't correct it."

Art Play set for Tues.

Contemporary and old master original graphic art will be on display at Friendship Hall Oct. 2 from 12 noon to 8 p.m.

Over 1,000 original etchings, woodcuts, and lithographs by artists such as Miro, Picasso, Chagall, Dali, Goya, Kollwitz, and Renoir will be included in the display.

Ferdinand Roten Galleries of Baltimore, Maryland is arranging this exhibition and sale. Prices begin at $5.00 with the majority of art priced under $100. A representative of Roten Galleries will be present to answer any questions regarding graphic art and printmaking.

Bob McCann and Tim Gillan instruct the class in jujitsu Mondays and Thursdays at 8 p.m.

Coeds rival on field

Are you ready, Big Eight? The competition will come when the McPherson College women take the field for their annual Powder Puff football game.

Next Monday at 8 p.m., the freshmen and sophomores will battle with the juniors and seniors at Mac College Stadium.

The rules of this game differ in some respects from men's football. A "tackle" is made by pulling one of the two flags from a girl's back pocket. The game sometimes becomes rough but the girls hold their own.

"The juniors and seniors are expected to win, but I think we'll give them a good fight like we did last year. It won't be a runaway," says Peggy Howard, soph., Brookville, Ohio.

Gregg Stockstill and George Harderson will coach the freshmen and sophomore team, while Tom Cope and Mike Spicer lead the juniors and seniors.

So far 45 women have signed up. "If they're interested," says Peggy Howard, "have them contact me to sign up."

'Dogs struggle, harass Tigers

by Stan Adams

In Colorado, the air is thinner than in Kansas, but this simple fact didn't affect the Colorado College passing game last Saturday. The ball spent more time in the air than Jonathan Livingston Seagull, and Colorado College soared to a 33-14 victory over McPherson.

Colorado gained a grand total of one yard rushing, but they shredded the Mac passing defense for 228 yards with 14 completions in 26 attempts.

The score was 21-14 after the first quarter. The Tigers scored a touchdown in the second quarter to make it 28-14 at the half. In the second half, the defenses stole the show. McPherson failed to score at all, and Colorado managed a mere safety in the third quarter and a field goal in the fourth.

Colorado's passing was indeed outstanding, but the running of Rich Potts was also impressive. Potts scored Mac's first touchdown on a 35 yard jaunt off-tackle with 7:14 left in the first

Soccer club kicks off

The McPherson College Soccer Club opened its season September 19 against Friends Bible College, losing by a score of 7-3. Luis Martinez, fr, Panama, had two goals and Jerry Serrador, jr, Mexico, had one goal in the losing effort.

It was the first time that the McPherson team had played together. For the new members it was a chance to gain some necessary experience, and it offered the veterans an opportunity to work with their new teammates.

On Saturday, September 22, the club played against Tabor. The game ended in a 1-1 tie. Jerry Serrador had McPherson's only tally. Al Sammis, soph, Cherry Hill, N. J., was outstanding as he stopped two direct penalty kicks from his goalie position.

McPherson's defense was much improved over the three-day period, and it was obvious that the team has started to work much better together.

quarter. The second and last touchdown was made when quarterback Elwood Scott connected on a six yard pass play to Jim Ulrich.

Four minutes later, Scott and Ulrich also paired on a touchdown that was called back. Altogether, Potts amassed 120 yards on 20 carries.

On defense, sophomore Steve Burkholder led with seven solo tackles, one assist and one interception. Junior Mark Melhorn contributed a fine effort with six solos and three assists. Steve Cameron also had one pass interception.

The Bulldogs take an 0-2 league record into tomorrow's encounter with St. Mary's of the Plains. St. Mary's beat Sterling College 16-7 last week.

Jog Dogs win opening meet

McPherson College outlasted three other schools to win the Sept. 22 meet at Rolling Acres, first cross country meet of the season.

Freshman Dwayne Jackson finished second with an excellent time of 15:56 for three miles. Jim Oches placed fifth, Ben Work sixth, Randy Porter ninth, and Mike Almstrom fourteenth.

The team will perform again tomorrow in the Mac Invitational Cross Country meet, seven miles north of McPherson across from the country club.

Coeds net gains

by Susan Burkholder

In their opening tennis meet of 1973, McPherson women got off to a smashing start as they triumphed over Tabor by accumulating 9 wins and no losses.

Team coach Dr. Doris Coppock remarked that she was pleased by the team's performance and felt that there had been an improvement over last year's team.

Wednesday the team met in an ACCK quadrangular meet at Sterling with tough competition coming from Bethany and Tabor as well as the home team. Today, they will travel to Great Bend for the Barton County Tennis Tournament.

Bulldog player races for goal line as Mac College game last Saturday. The final score was Colorado College 33, Mac 14.
