Mac's quota 106 pints

by Velma Bunch

The Wichita Regional Red Cross Center's Bloodmobile will be at McPherson College on Tuesday, Nov. 6. The bloodmobile will be set up in the basement of the Church of the Brethren from 1 a.m. until 2:30 p.m. The Blood Center's supply of blood is totally dependent on their volunteer system, and a quota of 106 donors from McPherson College has been set.

According to the Red Cross, only 2 per cent of all Americans able to give blood are donating. Many paid donors sell their blood in order to support drug habits; the quality of this blood is poor and can readily transmit diseases. The supply of volunteered blood decreases incidences of diseases because volunteers are less likely to lie about their medical history. This quality of blood can only be maintained if donors are available.

"I urge all students to seriously consider giving a pint of blood at the Bloodmobile. We don't always have the time or money to help people in need, but a pint of blood is one thing we can give and it may save the life of another person," said Floy Ditmars, jr., Nicksen, who is in charge of the blood drive.

Donating one pint of blood takes 15 minutes. In order to rest and rebuild their strength, donors should schedule a time to donate when they have an hour's time. All donors should eat a good breakfast; college students have a tendency to pass out after giving blood because of improper diets. The Home Ec Club will be serving a free meal to all donors in the basement of the Church of the Brethren.

Students, faculty and staff who can schedule a time for donations before next Tuesday are urged to do so.

The bloodmobile is operating under the office of Dean Goering with the local chapter of the Red Cross. A doctor, nurse and staff will be present to handle donations and student volunteers will check donors from time to time to make sure everything is running smoothly.

Floy Ditmars and Eric Anderson, fr., Midwest City, Okla., attended the College Conference of Bloodmobiles in Wichita Sept. 22, where they were trained in organizing and running a blood drive.

Tutors offer academic aid

Didn't feel like studying? It seemed like a good excuse then, but maybe now you've discovered that mid-term has passed but you haven't. For the first time a structured tutoring system has been developed at McPherson College and is available to all students.

The tutoring is part of a larger program known at the Academic Support System. Prof. Bob Green is coordinator for the tutoring and this is the first time that faculty time has been allocated strictly for this purpose.

Prof. Green said he receives one to two requests per day for assistance in various academic areas. From now until the end of the semester is the crucial time and tutors are needed more frequently.

As faculty coordinator, Prof. Green explains his job. "I work at getting the tutor and the student who needs assistance together. I also get those people who are willing and able to help tutor."

When a tutor is not available for a specific class, a student may enroll in the College Reading Skills Laboratory. The student may enroll in this course at any time during the semester to receive aid in various studying techniques.

In some cases tutoring can earn a credit in education classes and although a pay scale may be worked out, volunteers are badly needed. Anyone in need of assistance or wishing to work as a tutor should contact Prof. Green.

League urges amnesty for all

Mirror, mirror on the wall who is the most patriotic of all? War heroes or deserters, hawks or draft evaders?

We may have no magic mirror to respond to our question, but students who interacted with two men on the McPherson College campus last week may be closer to making their own decision.

The two men, Igal Roodenko and Bob Mayer, represent the War Resisters League who advocate nonviolent resistance for creating a democratic society free of war, racism and human exploitation.

Mr. Roodenko and Mr. Mayer met in small groups throughout the day of Oct. 24 to discuss the issues of amnesty, disarmament and other pacifist related issues.

WRL's chief campaign at the present is the issue of amnesty. Mr. Roodenko, past chairman,

Share group welcomes all

Iris Jackson, sr., Norcat, praises the McPherson College Share Group as "a fellowship where people can share their fears, hopes, and joys in a Christian atmosphere."

On Wednesdays at 9:30 p.m. in the Quiet Room, the Share Group holds fellowships which open with prayer and song. Iris pointed out that "the group comes together to discuss their problems and help each other through one thing they all have in common — Jesus Christ." All believers are welcome to attend, and participate or watch, as the group is non-denominational.

explained the League's stand calls for unconditional amnesty for all of the half million men who deserted, resisted the draft or were released with a "less than honorable" discharge. The League advocates unconditional amnesty on the basis that resisters who stood up for their beliefs about an unjust war should be penalized no more than those who legally avoided the draft.

Mr. Roodenko, who faced the problem of war resistance in World War II has dedicated his life to studying and resisting America's military policies. He summed up his beliefs with the statement that the United States has always "reached for our weapons before our wits. We must explore new options besides war."

Bob Mayer, Plains States Midwest regional coordinator for WRL urged for beginnings on the campus and local levels. He said, "College hasn't adjusted from the snobby intellectual institution of the past to the common part of life that it has become."

"College could be a real, live learning process. It's our fault if we don't express to administrators and faculty that we don't want professors to just tell us something, but that we want to experience it."

Mr. Roodenko said that in expressing ideas and persuading, one cannot "isolate yourself from people with opposite viewpoints by excluding them. Rather, we must find new things to include."

He added that "Change is not immediately foreseeable but we can prepare the ground for change so that when the time is right, change will be easier."

Union offers black identity

by James Ilori

Valerie Prince, president of the Black Student Union, says that B.S.U. is an organization that provides a home away from home for black students where the majority of students are white.

The B.S.U. offers black students a channel for projecting their identity and a way to be heard. Moreover, it provides opportunities for black students to meet people with whom they can relate and identify.

"The B.S.U. at McPherson College interacts with B.S.U.'s in all the ACCK colleges and in KU and WSU," Val commented. She said that finance is their major obstacle and that they operate on only small dues paid by members. Asked if all black students on campus are members of the B.S.U., she said, "You can't expect 100 per cent participation in any organization; the fact is that B.S.U. is open to everyone — we even welcome white students in our meetings."

Enrollment continues

Final interterm enrollment and pre-enrollment for spring term will continue through November 23.

Each student will receive a packet which will contain all the needed cards from his advisor. Students may make an appointment to see their advisors to begin enrollment and pre-enrollment. Completed packets may be checked at the Registrar's Office.

Student directs 'The Tempest'

"The Tempest" is a romantic Shakespearian comedy about the banished Duke of Milan (Prospero), and his struggle to regain his dukedom from his brother, Alonso.

The setting of the play is a Mediterranean island, where live Prospero — Bruce Blocher, fr., Lincoln, Neb.; and his daughter Miranda — Vickie Heisey, fr., Indianola, Ia. Spirits and jesters lighten the play with chants and quips when Prospero, with his magical powers, causes his usurping brother's ship to be wrecked near the island.

As in all good Shakespearian comedies, Alonso's son Ferdinand — Paul Keim, fr., McPherson, and Prospero's daughter Miranda fall in love.

Tables, benches, stools, and platforms make up the set for "The Tempest," to be presented Nov. 15-18 in the Little Theatre. Due to limited seating, all seats will be reserved. Convocation credit is being given for the production.

Carol Kussart, sr., McPherson, is directing the play, and Lois Pierson, sr., Hardin, Mo., is the stage manager. Cast members include Russ Hunt, soph., Brush, Colo.; Brad Wille, sr., Manhattan; Bill Callaway, jr., Ft. Lupton, Colo.; Rick Tyler, sr., Waterloo, Ia.; Brent Peterson, sr., Wichita; Keith Goering, fr., Nampa, Idaho; Chuck Baker, jr., Wellsville; Terry Herner, fr., Hutchinson; Rande Short, soph., Siebert, Colo.; Tim Hoffert, soph., Des Moines; Gayle Appel, soph., Curlew, Ia.; Thea Boeckner, fr., Genosea; Christy Young, soph., McPherson; and Lynn Marcuson, fr., Oberlin.

"It's a romantic comedy," says Una Yoder, drama department professor. "It's a nice experience to show the play four times so that more people can see it."

Grad students lead seminar

Do your plots have no depths? Your settings no realism? Are your dialogues too stiff? Suffering from a chronic case of characteritis?

Bring your latest manuscript to the Creative Writing Seminar next Thursday at 1 p.m. in Mohler 204. Funded by the ACCK, two Wichita State University students will be featured at each of the six colleges.

Two graduate students with master of Fine Arts courses at WSU will lead the seminar Thursday afternoon. Both are published authors and plan a career of professional writing.

Prof. Bob Green, English, stressed that McPherson College students would have an opportunity to confer with the graduate students on a one-to-one basis. He added that students were encouraged to bring any material they had previously written for help or criticism.

This is the fourth year for the program in the ACCK. A banquet is scheduled at the Sterling campus as a follow-up to the seminars.

Attitude shifts

The campus seems unusually quiet this fall. There have been no confrontations with administration, no big issues, no outstanding scandals.

Administrators breathe a sigh of relief and hope the quiet will continue. Professors remark on how studious the students are this year. The library seems more crowded. All is peaceful, calm — and boring.

I am neither completely praising or criticizing this change in attitude — it has both positive and negative aspects.

Perhaps the largest plus for our quieter atmosphere is that students seem to be learning and studying more. Certainly, academically, this is great.

However, the new attitude seems to have created something that I view very negatively — apathy. The majority of the students this year are unwilling to commit themselves to anything that calls for time and effort unless they are receiving credit or being paid.

This was especially evident at homecoming, when organizations either refused to participate in the parade, or had trouble getting volunteers to work on floats. It is true for the drama department, where actors have to be drafted for roles and then refuse to show up for rehearsals. It is even true for this paper, when reporters don't turn in their stories on time, or don't turn them in at all. And I'm sure the apathy exists in many other areas.

We've done a lot of complaining about the quality of things here, ranging from the Spectator to homecoming to drama to social activities. But until more students are willing to put forth some time and effort to improve campus life, this is the way things are going to be.

Supporter praises victory

Dear Editor,

Approximately 4:15 p.m., October 20th the chapel bells tolled on the campus of McPherson College, McPherson, Kansas, not because of the firing and abolition of the prosecution task force and the accepting of the resignation of the Attorney General of our United States, but also because the walls of the locker rooms could not contain the shouts of victory of our McPherson Bulldogs, which provided the alumni officers and coaches and boosters of McPherson College a perfect homecoming.

As for myself, I was repaid 100 fold for the times the bells did not toll and I accompanied our battling Bulldogs to the locker rooms for a comforting and encouraging pat on the back and "let's look forward to next week." Players on this squad are our "Businessmen of Tomorrow." They deserve our support all the way.

Former student thanks college

Dear Editor,

I returned to my office in Nigeria after my recent study visit of the United States and Canada to receive a copy of the 1973 "MC Telethon" — "The Spirit of McPherson College" which had been sent to me and which contains your inspiring account of the progress of McPherson College.

Personally, I witnessed during my last visit to all of you in McPherson College, the tremendous steps which you people have taken to innovate the college both in its academic programs and its structure. I am indeed proud of your efforts and also grateful to all men and women whose material sacrifices, devoted services and prayers have resulted to the college wearing the proud, inspiring new look and image which it wears now.

When in 1942 the faculty of McPherson College through the leadership and encouragements of the then President, Dr. D.W. Bittering opened doors of McPherson College to some of us from rural Nigeria and other parts of the world; the institution was pioneering a great experiment in international friendship and peace through human understanding and sharing. This McPherson experiment was soon imitated by many other institutions both in the United States and other parts of the world.

Though McPherson College made a lot of sacrifice in initiating the experiment, I am assuring you that it has become a great success. For through it many of us from Africa and other countries who otherwise would have remained totally in darkness, have been able to see the "light."

But how shall we who have benefitted so much from this experiment repay for all that we have received?

I shall here report to you that though international monetary exchange seems to limit our ability to transfer money to McPherson College to demonstrate our gratitude, yet here in our various countries and communities, in spite of the changing world situations, we are sincerely committed to the "The Spirit of McPherson" which is a spirit of service to humanity through the "Love of Christ."

I sincerely believe also that as time progresses we shall be in positions to thank McPherson in more concrete terms for investing so highly in us.

McPherson has meant a lot not only to you people there in McPherson College, Kansas or Midwest but to all of us all over the world.

God bless you who have kept the light of love, peace and truth ever burning for emancipation of suffering humanity and for glory of God through the love of Jesus Christ.

Your brother in Christ,
Dr. E. O. Odokara

Take Five

Take One

It's autumn, and I am making like a leaf. I'm going out of my tree!

Take Two

The other morning at breakfast I saw some U.F.O's — unidentified frying objects!

Take Three

The home team at the last football game wasn't very hospitable. Now we know what it means to have "fair weather Friends."

Take Four

The freshmen seem to have their "hidden talents" so well hidden that nobody can find them!

Take Five

All full-time students are required to attend seven convocations. Commuting students will be expected to attend the convocations scheduled at the times they would ordinarily be in class.

There are seven convocations scheduled for the hours between 9 a.m. and 2 p.m. MThF. Waiver of the attendance requirement for commuting students will be granted in cases where the student would not ordinarily be on campus during the hour of the scheduled convocation.

Certain students, due to failure to meet all convocation attendance requirements during the last academic year, will be required to attend one additional convocation this semester. A list of students in this category is posted at M-209. If you are on this list, it is your responsibility to attend eight convocations this semester.

Club Corner

by Barb Moore

McPherson College clubs are active and participating in various projects. Sponsored by Dr. Wesley DeCoursey, the Math and Science club is giving a program called "The Science of Sound" Nov. 7 at 7 p.m. in Harnly Hall Room 101.

Club officers are Cindy Hoover, sr., McPherson, president; Sue Smith, sr., Rocky Ford, Colo., vice-president; Mary McIntyre, jr., McPherson, secretary; and Eileen Snyder, jr., St. John, treasurer.

Several Student Education Association (SEA) members will travel to Wichita Nov. 1 and 2 for a KNEA convention to be held in Century II. Sponsored by Dayton Rothrock, professor of education, the club will also meet Dec. 1 in Lindsborg for Brag Day, a conference at which professors will discuss current teaching trends.

Officers include president Mary Lou Peterson, sr., Independence; secretary Pam Knotts, sr., Bettendorf, Ia.; and treasurer Carol Stone, jr., Arkansas City.

Art Club

Sponsored by Mary Ann Robinson, associate professor of art, the art club will hold an open house for various art studios later in the semester.

Terry Ingram, jr., Dayton, Ohio; is the president. Other officers are Virginia Reyes, fr., Hutchinson; and Karla Garrison, fr., Hugo, Colo.

G-Clef

G-Clef is a new club on campus, advised by Larry Kitzel. The club has had several fund-raising projects to renovate parts of Beeghly Hall. Plans are to paint and soundproof a practice room, and put carpet in the bandroom.

Ruth Ann Rowland, soph., Hagerstown, Md.; Stan Clark, sr., Stamford, Conn.; and Ellen Shoemaker, sr., Plattsburg, Mo. are the officers.

Home Ec

A fund-raising chili supper in November and assisting with the bloodmobile are keeping the Home Ec club busy. Sponsored by Biffiel Glenn, the officers include president Sheri Egle, jr., Imperial, Neb.; vice-president Sharon Dautremont, sr., McPherson; secretary Gail Wineaker, sr., Pittstown, N.J.; and treasurer Ethel Herbst, soph., La Verne, Calif.

Convo features jazz combo

Two remarkable musicians, classical jazz pianist Cecil Lytle and percussionist Jim Latimer will combine their talents to present an evening of music Monday, Nov. 5 at 8 p.m. in Brown Auditorium.

Lytle, who was a finalist in the National Young Artist Competition and received first prize at the Franz Liszt International Competition, is noted for his chamber music concerts and lecture-recitals in both jazz and classical music throughout the state of Wisconsin. He has appeared with Arthur Prysock, Sarah Vaughn, and James Brown as a jazz pianist and with the Madison Summer Symphony and the Boston Symphony Orchestra as a classical pianist.

Latimer has performed with the Boston Symphony, Boston Pops, Madison Symphony, Milwaukee Symphony and Ice Capades in addition to his position as Head of the Percussion Department at the University of Wisconsin School of Music. He has also made recordings and television appearances.

The appearance of this jazz combo is part of the regular convocation program and will count as convo credit for students. The concert is also open to the general public for an admission charge of $1.50.

Rick puts talents to good use

by Bruce Clary

Charles "Rick" Cooke is a person with style and talent who puts these qualities to good use.

Rick, a freshman actuary science major, is best known around campus for his exceptional ability as a drummer. Rick, who has been playing for five years now, has played in discotheques with local celebrities in the Lubbock, Texas area and also has an Ice - Capade show to his credit.

Despite such success, drumming is not foremost in Rick's mind. "I don't have any aspiration to become a professional drummer but if I had the opportunity to do so I'd probably take it."

The first several weeks at McPherson have been a real challenge for Rick. "Since I've been here it has been a real adjustment. I came from a town of 200,000 (Lubbock) and coming to a town of 11,000 is a big change."

Rick is not sure of his feelings towards the slower life style at McPherson. "Right now I can't say because I haven't been here long enough to see the things I might do and to form any opinions."

It was McPherson's scholastic standards and particularly its actuary science program that lured Rick to Kansas. Scholarship is important to Rick, a National Honor Society member, and grades take precedence over extra-curricular activities at the present. "I can't do anything now. When I get through first semester Calculus I'll start doing other things," he quipped.

"I really like the student-faculty relationship here because the teachers are so willing to help. In my case I need to take advantage of this as much as possible," said Rick.

Recently elected as Vice-President of the freshman class Rick said he didn't know exactly how he got the job and that "I don't make promises. I've got a job to do and I will do it." He also stated that lack of school spirit was one area he would like to work on.

Among Rick Cooke's many talents is his ability as a percussionist. Rick is shown here at a Bulldog football game where he takes an active part in the pep band.

Believers Speak, interpret tongues

'Way Ministry' comes to Mac

by Chris Cummings

Ten people sit quietly, hands folded, eyes closed, in a small apartment. The leader asks a young man to speak in tongues and interpret. He responds with what seems to be meaningless babbling and ends with an interpretation (in English) which is supposedly a message or revelation from God. The young man is Bill Landman, a student of Hutchinson Junior College, who is a "saint" of the Way Ministry.

November 2, 1973

The Way Ministry is an international fellowship of Christian believers organized by Dr. Victor Paul Wierwille whose headquarters are in New Knoxville, Ohio. Dr. Wierwille spent thirty years studying, researching, and retranslating the Bible using the ancient Greek and Aramaic texts. He teaches the accuracy of the Bible to thousands of people — Christians and non-Christians, believers, doubters and skeptics — across the United States and elsewhere around the world in a videotaped class called "The Power of Abundant Living."

Bill Landman attended this class in Hutchinson and was taught to speak in tongues and interpret tongues. Mr. Landman says that "there is much confusion and misunderstanding concerning speaking in tongues because there has been so little Biblical teaching about the wonderful blessing of the Holy Spirit. Indeed most people have no idea as to the great value of its manifestation or even know that speaking in tongues is possible for today's Christian."

The ability to speak and interpret in tongues was first made available to Jesus' disciples at Pentecost in Acts 2:4 which says "And they (the disciples) were all filled with the Holy Ghost and began to speak in tongues as the Spirit gave them utterance." Mr. Landman points out that many Christians believe that speaking in tongues was available only to the disciples. In Mark 16:17, however, Jesus said that believers in His name "... shall speak with new tongues."

Mr. Landman is now preparing to organize a fellowship in McPherson for believers who wish to learn how to receive the manifestations of the Holy Spirit.

Bulldogs stun Falcons in 17-14 upset

by Stan Adams

The taste of victory was sweet for the Bulldogs last Saturday as they stunned the Friends University Falcons 17-14 in one of the biggest KCAC upsets of the year.

Victory was especially sweet for head coach Don Rominger, who stated, "We made the big defensive play, the key one being the pass interception by Mark Goodheart, which gave us our momentum. Really, the defense played their best game of the season Saturday."

"Steve Burkholder played his best game ever at Mac. Glen Anderson played a terrific game, and gets better each week. I really can't say enough about the whole team."

"Our offensive line of Gibbs, Lynch, Dozier, Thomas and Rudy Anderson worked extra hard, and pass blocked as well as they have all season. Scott Robinson gave us a super effort," he continued; "with six pass receptions and Elwood Scott should take the conference lead in passing offense. And a lot has to be said about Bill Callaway, who gave us the offensive spark we needed."

Mac trailed 14-0 before Gunter Stehr kicked a 28 yard field goal midway into the second quarter, and that was how the score stood at halftime.

In the third quarter, it was all McPherson. Goodheart picked off a pass at the Friends' 25 yard line and returned it to the one yard stripe. One play through the middle was all that was needed to reach paydirt, and the score stood 14 - 9, Friends.

A driving interception by sophomore Steve Burkholder set up the final scoring drive that marched 85 yards in seven plays. During that drive, Scott Robinson caught two passes, one of them a diving grasp that immediately preceded the fifteen yard touchdown run by Callaway. Harold Rose also collected two tosses of 17 and 20 yards. Callaway hauled in the two point conversion pass from Scott to provide the final three point margin.

In the fourth quarter, Friends struggled for one first down and never managed to cross their own 45 yard line, indicative of the hardnosed defense the Dogs displayed.

The McPherson College football team turned in one of their finest performances Saturday. Tomorrow the Bulldogs try for their third straight win against the Bethel Threshers, here at 7:30 p.m.

Elwood Scott demonstrates his toughness and speed as he breaks through several opponents, aided by excellent blocking from his teammates.

'Dogs to host KCAC meet

McPherson College will host the annual KCAC Cross Country Meet this Saturday, November 3, at The Rolling Hills Golf Course. The meet will be run at 11 a.m. and will feature teams from Bethany, Bethel, Friends, Southwestern and McPherson.

Southwestern is favored to take the title this year, but the defending champion Bulldogs appear to have a good shot again at the title.

The Rolling Hills Golf Course is located six miles north and one-half mile east of McPherson.

Proclaims education week

Governor Robert Docking has proclaimed next week, November 4-10, as Higher Education Week in Kansas. The idea of a week honoring higher education began at KU when students decided that something should be done to help the image of universities and colleges across the state of Kansas.

Activities at KU include a speech by Docking, a letter writing campaign, public relations films at theatres and on television, a recognition ceremony at the KU-Colorado game, and a banquet.

Here at Mac, an interview of administration personnel is scheduled for the Mac Action program aired on cable television. No other definite action has been taken at this time.

Women compete at Ottawa

by Jan Foley

For the first time in college history, McPherson women are running as a cross country team.

Five Mac coeds participated Saturday in the college division of the Women's Invitation Cross-Country Meet sponsored by the Ottawa University Track Club.

The course covered two miles of steep, hilly terrain: Sandy Loshbaugh, soph., Hopewell, N. J., set the pace for the McPherson harriers finishing sixth in a field of 22 competitors.

Her time was 14:47 as compared with the winning time of under 13 minutes.

Other team members include Marie Kimmel, jr., Bean Station, Tenn.; Lorraine Shoop, soph., Thatcher, Colo.; Iris Jackson, sr., Norcatur; and Judy Ward, soph., La Porte City, Ia. These runners finished eleventh, thirteenth, fifteenth and sixteenth respectively.

Kansas University, Kansas State University and Benedictine were the other colleges represented at the meet.
