THE SPECTATOR
McPherson, Kansas

TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 23, 1924.

We read the other day that a college is known by the paper it edits. We hope everyone will help to make M. C. famous.

IN THE BEGINNING

It is with a consciousness of responsibility for the big work ahead and of our own inability to attain the ideals we have for the work that we take up the editorial duties for the year. To our predecessors in the work we wish to express our appreciation for the standard set and the patient training in the work. Of our co-workers we request your co-operation and support in order that the Spectator may serve its subscribers in the best manner possible.

Now that the frosh are supplied with football schedules and chapel seat tickets, they have made important strides in getting an education.

FOOTBALL IN M. C.

We would hate to imagine what college life today would be without the regular scheduled football games to look forward to each fall. Yet, perhaps very few of us realize that this popular sport has had a short history in our school. Just six years ago some husky, far-sighted, sports-loving students about this campus decided that they would take the initiatory step towards introducing football into M. C.'s athletic program. Like in many other things the beginning was small and seemingly unimportant. The games that year were played with near by high schools. Overall made up the suit equipment, and the team had no regular coach. Such was embryonic football in McPherson, but take a glance northward any day during the hours from 3:30 to 6:00 p. m. and you will be thoroughly convinced that those fellows back in 1919 started something—something that in four years developed last year's state championship team. A duplication of last year's record is the lowest aim of the squad that is so tirelessly going through workouts on the athletic field. There are a number of essentials for a winning team, some of the most important of which are a competent coaching staff, good material from which to build the team and a student body lacking the team one hundred per cent. We have the coaches—real ones—and an abundance of splendid material for another championship team. The whole-hearted support of the student body is the only remaining factor needed to spell success for the Bulldogs this year. Students, do we realize what it means to the team to know that the school is back of them? Only a few days until the Bulldogs meet their old rivals, Baker University. Talk football from now till

Friday. We can't all play, but we can talk. Talk to those who play. Let thy text be "Beat Baker." Another contribution we can make is to turn out to the game and root for the boys. Show that "old M. C. has the Pep". Remember we all have a share in "Beat Baker".

V. A. L.

TO THE MEN OF M. C.

It is indeed with pleasure that we welcome to our campus every man that has selected McPherson College as his school. And with this welcome comes the hope that every day spent with us may prove of great value. It costs to go to college, but it costs much more to stay at home. Real values can not be measured in terms of today, but must be thought of in terms of tomorrow. It is the lure of the immediate that ruins many lives. Your task is that of preparing for a larger and fuller life. It is the ambition of the College to place before you every possible means for growth, and it is our hope that you may enter the year's work with a determination to win regardless of how difficult the task. The acquiring of an education may be compared to leverage, the more one has the easier the lifting of the next burden.

We trust that every day spent in McPherson College may prove of real worth and that in future years you may look back upon the time spent here as the most profitable years of your entire life.

R. E. Mohler,
Dean of Men.

Y.W.C.A. Girls Gain Pep and Inspiration At Estes Conference

BY SELMA ENGSTROM

At the girls' summer conference at Estes Park this year there seemed to be a feeling that this conference was the best of its kind that had ever been held there. The attendance was not quite so large as usual, but the sentiment and spirit of the conference was so fine, so deep and sincere that the girls felt that this conference stood out from all others. Probably it was because we got down beneath the "outside things" and really studied the life and heart of Jesus. Somehow the technical seemed so superficial.

Here in the very heart of Colorado's beautiful Rockies, girls from Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Missouri, New Mexico, Nebraska and Kansas were gathered together for the one purpose of trying to find a way in which Jesus and His way of life could come to be a vital factor on our campuses. There was no emotionalism to goad us on to radical reasonings and impractical resolutions, but by serious and concentrated thought with hearts and minds open to the truth, the girls did arrive at some conclusions which we will no doubt hear about during the coming year.

The morning hours were taken up with a well-regulated schedule of Bible discussion groups and special emphasis groups in which such problems as campus life, student honor, international relationships and race prejudices were treated. In such groups girls were forced to face the problems squarely and to think things through for themselves. In many cases our former viewpoints crumbled away under the onslaughts of facts and truths which intensified study of the Sermon on the Mount revealed to us.

At Estes there is a wonderful feeling of friendliness prevailing among all girls; caste, rank, position, and even the color of one's skin is forgotten at Estes. Here all the girls mingled freely enjoying their common heritage of happy girlhood.

During the afternoons the hours were filled with the kinds of things that all girls like to do. There were tennis, hiking, horseback riding, and many other kinds of recreation, times in which the magnificent grandeur of Estes could be more fully appreciated. Somehow in the midst of all this, God's wonderful handiwork, His presence seemed just a little nearer and His friendship just a little dearer.

In the evenings there were rollicksome songs and games, sometimes impressive pageants and open forums. Campfire night was wonderful! The endless line of girls with lighted torches, singing "Follow the Gleam" is a sight never-to-be-forgotten. After the programs, girls linked arm-in-arm tramped home to their little cabins nestled among the firs and pines.

Dr. Bruce Curry's lectures were the outstanding features of the program. Those who heard him in his wonderful course on the New Testament felt that their trip to Estes was worth while for the benefit and inspiration they received from these alone. Among the other prominent leaders were: Miss Ball, international student secretary, and Miss Burner, traveling national secretary. Miss Rachel Dunway of Texas University, regional secretary, presided over the conference.

McPherson College was represented by Margaret Mikosell, Mary B. Swape and Selma Engstrom.

If father did the washing just once!

If every father did the family washing next Monday there would be an electric washing machine in every home before next Saturday night.

For fathers are used to figuring costs. They'd say: "The electricity for a week's washing costs less than a cake of soap. Human time and strength are too precious for work which a machine can do so cheaply and well."

You will live in a new age—an electrical age. Heavy tasks will be shifted from human shoulders to electric motors. Remember the letters "G.E." They are a symbol of service—the initials of a friend.

If you are interested to learn more about what electricity is doing, write for Reprint No. AR391 containing a complete set of these advertisements.

Among the Alumni

Classen Goes to Orient.
The following article from the August number of the Journal-World of the Lawrence, Kansas, refers to an alumnus of McPherson College. Dr. Classen, whose advancement is mentioned in the article, finished the normal course at M. C. in the year 1909. Since leaving K. U., Dr. Classen has been teaching in Cornell University, at Ithaca, New York.

"Dr. P. W. Classen, a graduate of the University of Kansas in 1913, has been appointed professor of the biological sciences by the Chinese government to organize the work in biology in Tsing Hua College in Peking, China. He will sail with Mrs. Classen and their children early in September to take up the work. Mrs. Classen is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Frank Strout.

"Dr. Classen was recommended for the position by the head of the department of entomology at Cornell, Dr. J. G. Needham, and has been given a leave of absence of one year from Cornell.

"Tsing Hua College is a government college founded by the Chinese government with funds derived from the Boxer Indemnity money. Its purpose is to train Chinese students for entrance to American universities. Its buildings are extensive, its equipment and buildings thoroughly modern. It operates so far as its work is concerned under the Rockefeller Foundation, which was instrumental in offering the position to Dr. Classen.

"The college expects to enlarge its work so that graduates may enter the graduate schools of universities in America, and Dr. Classen's work no doubt will be to reorganize and extend the work in biology as a guide for this and other Chinese colleges."

Social Events

Associations Hold Mixer.

The social calendar of McPherson College was opened Friday evening when the Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A. entertained successfully at their joint mixer. At 7:30 the students assembled in the Alumni Gymnasium where the first part of the evening's entertainment took place. Harold Barton was in charge of a short program consisting of talks, music and readings. Prof. R. E. Mohler, George Merkey, Clement Haldeman, Rozella White, Evelyn Kimmell and Bernice Peck most graciously contributed to the program. Following this the guests repaired to the lawn south of Sharp Administration Building where several interclass contests were carried on. After the contests, six large rings were formed, and everyone enjoyed the old games such as Dodge-ball and Three-Deep. The evening's enjoyment was topped by the serving of watermelon in abundance. About 10:30 the party broke up, all expressing their thanks to the organizations making it possible.

Faculty Entertains New Members.

The faculty entertained the new members of their group at an informal reception in Harby Hall, Saturday evening. Prof. C. S. Morris presided over a program in which President D. W. Kurtz gave a brief address of welcome, followed by responses from the incoming members. Light refreshments were served at the close of the evening.

With such a captain at their head the Bulldogs are assured a successful season.

Tribute To "Mish".

Note — The following poem was written by Mrs. R. E. Mohler and read at the M Club banquet last spring:

Coach Mishler came to us last September.

As most you fellows remember, Full of vigor, pep, and courage most pure

To guide with Colburn the victorious crew.

This announcement we are glad to make.

All hail to you football champs of the state.

For a full half year he gave coaching lessons

For your future use in busy sessions. In basketball too, Coach did assist, Landing you safe in the upper list.

There were intramural tournaments numbering two—

Each student to his class was loyal and true.

Games and wrestling proved a great big success

As thirty of you fellows are ready to confess.

There were volley ball games on most every night;

To the married men these were a great delight.

As a crowning point to his training

This spring he coached the fellows on the track So that future victories we will not lack. Some of you big fellows like the baseball best. And to the joy of the fans stood many a test.
