McPHERSON BULLDOGS VANQUISH FRIENDS IN FAST GAME SATURDAY

Bulldog Rally in Second Half Clinches Bulldog Victory

CAPT. CRUMPACKER STARS

Carlson Ties Crumpacker in Number of Points Garnered—Defense Is Smooth

The Bulldogs showed their true form Saturday night and defeated the Friends university quintette, in a fast game on the Wichita court by a seven point margin. The final score was 29-22. The Friends quintette led at the half 14-11. The Friends team was eager to avenge the recent defeat on the McPherson court and made the game an interesting one for the Bulldogs.

The teams seemed rather slow in getting started but once warmed up they played a game that was exciting and fast. At the opening of the second half the Bulldogs staged a rally that sent them into a 9 point lead. After they had the game safely tucked away they played a defensive game. Crumpacker and Barra played a smooth defensive game and Crumpacker tied for scoring honors with Carlson with 9 points. Hill and Blickenstaff played good games at the forward position, but their scoring was held down by the close guarding of the Quaker guards. "Pie" Carlson played one half the game at center and Ellwood played the other half. "Pie" shot three goals during the last half. Chapman, who substituted at forward, rung the basket once.

Salley, Quaker center, and Priddo, forward, led the Friends scoring machine but were unable to compete with Crumpacker and Carlson in hitting the ring. Weaver and Roehr, Quaker guards, played good ball in their positions and held down the (Continued on Page Four)

KURTZ GIVES LECTURES AT NORTH MANCHESTER

M. C. President Is Called Upon To Lecture Almost Every Week-end

During the week beginning February 14, Dr. D. W. Kurtz gave a series of lectures at North Manchester college, North Manchester, Ind. This series of lectures corresponds to the McPherson College Bible Institute. They have, however, only one man each year. Last year Sherwood Eddy lectured there and next year Dr. M. G. Brumbaugh, ex-governor of Pennsylvania, will give the lecture series.

Dr. Kurtz gave two lectures daily. In the mornings he gave a series of popular lectures in the Chapel. Doctrinal addresses took up the evening hour in the church. He was told that this year's course was the first one that had attracted the attention of the people of the vicinity outside the college and church.

The M. C. president is always on demand. Friday and Saturday he will address an Older Boy's Conference at Tulsa, Okla., and Sunday he gives a lecture to the Y. M. C. A. at Dallas, Texas.

SUCCESSFUL RECITAL IS GIVEN BY ART STUDENTS

A very successful recital was given by the students of the Fine Arts department of McPherson College Tuesday evening. The recital was under the direction of Miss Jessie Brown, head of the Piano department and selections were given by students in voice, piano and violin. The recital was well attended and was held in the College Chapel.

Those taking part in the recital were: Myrtle Myer, Elma Hoffman, Ruth Herbert, Vivian Harnly, Arlene Saylor, Herbert Eby, Francis

SPIRITUAL FORCES

Spiritual forces when manifested in a man exhibit a sequence, a succession of steps. It follows, therefore, that when a man at one period of his life has omitted to put his strength in a work which he knows to be in harmony with the divine order of things, there comes a time sooner or later, when a void will be perceived; when the fruits of this omitted action ought to have appeared, and do not; they are the missing links in the chain of consequences. The action of that void is the measure of his past inaction, and the man will never quite reach the same level of attainment that he might have touched, had the divinely energized his lost moments.

COYOTES AND BULLDOGS TO COMBAT IN FORENSICS

Will Probably Be The Critical Debate Of The Northern Division.

The Kansas Wesleyan university Coyotes and the McPherson College Bulldogs will meet in forensic combat Thursday evening, March 4.

The McPherson College negative team, which is composed of Kenneth Rock and Harvey Lehman will meet the Wesleyan affirmative team at eight o'clock in the college chapel. Charles Lengel and Ora Huston, the affirmative team, will journey to Salina to meet the Wesleyan negative team.

Kansas Wesleyan debaters at the present time lead the northern division of the Kansas Intercollegiate Debate League, having won from Bethany college by a 6-0 decision. McPherson, however, hold a very close second position, having defeated Sterling college 5-1.

Coach Hess remarks, "At present it looks as if this debate is the critical one of the division. The boys are working hard and are going good. I would like to have every student of McPherson College hear the debate Thursday night."

Bethel college debaters are leading the southern division with a 6-0 win from Friends. Southwestern and Fairmount colleges divided their series and are tied for second place while Friends are in last place for the first time in many years.

MOUNDRIE TEAM IS COUNTY CHAMPION FOR TWO SUCCESSIVE YEARS

Wins Championship From Lindsborg In Close Game 26-23

FIRST ROUND SLOW

Marquette and Lindsborg Show Strength—Galva Plays Good Ball

Moundridge won the High School County Basketball Tournament and a second leg on the County Cup by defeating Lindsborg 26-23 in the final game Saturday night. The game was a hard and even fight all the way. For only about thirty seconds were the teams as much as three points apart in the first half. With less than a minute to play and Moundridge three points ahead, Lindsborg made desperate efforts to score. Forsberg shot twice from past center and Eberhart once from the shadow of the other goal, all three flicking the rim but bouncing off. Rogier, All County forward, led the Moundridge attack, but his teammates approaching him more closely in speed and skill, did not stand out so conspicuously as last year.

With one exception the first games were played by badly matched teams. Still, all were stubbornly fought and showed noticeable reversals of form. Canton, showing much better form than in previous games, held Lindsborg down 9-22 in the opener. Windom fought hard, but before the superior teamwork of Marquette, lost 22-12.

Roxbury was distinctly "off" in the game with Moundridge and failed to display the type of game which twice won for them from Galva earlier this season. The Moundridge team did not extend itself to win 27-5.

THE FARM

The most joyful thing I know is the peace, the silence, that one enjoys in the woods or in the tilled lands. One sees a poor heavily laden creature with a bundle of faggots advancing from a narrow path in the fields. The manner in which this figure comes suddenly before one is a momentary reminder of the fundamental condition of human life, toil. On the tilled land around, one watches figures hoeing and digging. One sees how this or that one rises and wipes away sweat with the back of his hand. "In the sweat of thy face shalt thou eat bread." Is that merry, enlivening work? And yet it is here that I find the true humanity, the great poetry.

GOLDEN GATE COMPANY GIVES NOVEL PROGRAM

Present Last Number of Local Lyceum—Use String Instruments

The Golden Gate Quintette from the Redpath Horner Lyceum Bureau presented the last number of the local lyceum course of this year on Friday evening, February 26, at the Baptist church. The entertainment was of the musical novelty type and featured the playing of banjos, guitars, and ukuleles. The members of the company were particularly adept with these instruments and a wide variety of program calculated to gratify every fancy was rendered. Popular music, grand opera, Hawaiian love songs, and military marches all came within the range of these versatile entertainers.

Possibly the most surprising number on the program was a ukulele rendition of "Miserere" from Ill Trovatore which demonstrated that the instrument in question should be regarded as more than a toy. Two soprano solos sung in Spanish costume added to the variety. An overture, "Light Cavalry," was resplendent in its force and brilliancy. A novel demonstration of different styles of execution of the same piece of music deserves mention. Two pianologues, "Foolish Questions," and "Katy Did," furnished considerable amusement. Several numbers were designed especially for children and a medley of old time songs was arranged for the older people of the audience. Miss Alma Warner, guitar, soloist, gave a pleasing rendition of "The Seattette" from Lucia. The attitude of the company towards their work won their hearers from the start and their efforts to please were commendable.

BULLDOGS WIN CLOSE GAME FROM STERLING AT BARRELMAKER CAMP

Bulldogs Fail To Show Form Shown Against Friends And Emporia

CARLSON LEADS SCORING

Carlson Piles Score and Hill Hugs Basket For Bulldog Victory—Blickenstaff Hugs Four

After playing slow basketball practically the whole game and with 17 seconds to go the Bulldogs then trailing by three points came from behind to win the game from the Sterling Barrelnakers by a two point margin. The closing moments of the game starred Carlson and Hill. Carlson shot a goal, a personal being called on his opponent at the same time. He made the goal good and was given two free throws. He made the first one and missed the second. The ball was then in play and was tipped into the basket by Hill, leaving the Bulldogs a lead of two points at the final whistle. The final score was 24-22.

The Bulldogs did not show the form that they showed against the Emporia Teachers and Friends when the teams played at McPherson. Carlson was high point man for the Bulldogs closely followed by Hill, who slipped in four baskets. Carlson failed to score his usual amount but succeeded in annexing three. He played a good game however and he shared equal honors with the other players in winning the game. Blickenstaff probably was the most consistent player.

The two guards, Barra and Crumpacker, seemed to be "off" and were unable to stop the weak Sterling offense. The score at the half stood 19-17 in favor of the Bulldogs. Luck and a personal foul seemed to be all that kept the Bulldogs from defeat. The Sterling team was fighting hard (Continued on Page 4)

NININGER IS ENJOYING HIS WINTER IN TEXAS

Studying Bird and Animal Life On Large Branch In Sunny South

A letter from Professor H. H. Nininger, head of the Department of Biology, who is away on leave of absence, studying bird life in Texas and working on his Ph. D. degree shows that he is having some interesting times. The following is an extract from his letter:

"We spent four days and nights in a wilderness of live oak and mesquite in the midst of a ranch about the size of McPherson County, where almost every hour of daylight furnished us with the rare privilege of watching wild turkey and wild deer in their natural haunts. More than a hundred deer were seen and twice as many turkey."

"There are few more inspiring sights for a naturalist than a flock of large, beautifully plumed turkeys gathered on their trysting ground in a small opening in the forest, the large gobblers strutting about to attract their ladies' attention, their gorgeous plumage glistening in the morning sun and the forest echoing and re-echoing the challenging calls from the males and the love notes from the hens."

"Why cannot Kansas import some of these stately birds from where they are abundant and again stock her woodlands by allowing them to multiply unhindered for a period of years? The eggs can be obtained in Texas through the Game department. This is a matter for the McPherson County Fish and Game Association to look into. We have had great experience."

Prepare for Elections; Read This and Know What the Editor Does

Perhaps you want to know what it takes to be an editor of a college paper, because the election of a Spectator editor for 1926-27 is soon to be held. It is important that the students know the qualifications a candidate must have, and some of the things the candidate, if elected, will have to face.

In the first place don't think for a minute that it is an honor to edit a college paper. At least, if it is the editor never becomes aware of it. Nobody ever sends him bouquets, and no one sends him appreciation notes on Saint Valentine's day.

The editor works about twenty-five hours each week putting out the Spectator. He does this besides carrying a regular college course of about fifteen hours. How he does it only he and his shadow knows! He gets to see his girl, if he has one, not more than once each week, and he sees not more than two shows during the school year.

Since he is considered a prominent student, he is expected to set an example of manhood and morality, whatever those are. He must go to Sunday School, regardless of the fact that he must work late on Saturday nights. He must belong to the Y. M. C. A. and spend some of his time for the advancement of the teachings of the School of Discipleship. He must not smoke, chew, drink, swear nor frown. Let him give the institution a bad name.

He is sentenced, for the term of his editorship, to boost, boost, boost! At least the various organizations and the college itself expect him to. His duties don't matter, his conscience doesn't matter; it is all for the Alma Mater, for world peace and for God. If he thinks the world court is a piece of war machinery, that doesn't matter; he is duty bound to support it with all his might.

And after he is in, he is in to stay—usually. The authorities might kick him out, or he might get peeved and resign. But if he resigns, he is a quitter; he can't hold his job. The truth is if he quits it means that he can't write what others want to read; he can't think like the majority or the all powerful minority thinks; he can't subdue his conscience. Your candidate must be a bog for punishment that doesn't know how to say "enough."

An editor's job on a college paper is mostly work. If you think it is a privilege to do what the editor does, it is a bad omen. He spends his leisure time wondering why he took the job anyway. If he gets any joy out of life he has to smuggle it.

Didn't somebody say one time, "I would rather be right than be editor?"

CHAPELS

We hear no more of the agitation against attending chapel that we heard last year and the first of this year. Chapel this year have been different and that difference has changed the attitude of the student body regarding chapel attendance.

Chapel is no longer a period of announcements, a repetition of the Lord's Prayer, and dismissal. The McPherson College student who misses chapel exercises today knows that he is missing something. The standard of chapel addresses has been decidedly higher this year than in former years. The chapel leader of this year shows preparation and he knows before he gets up to speak what he is going to say. The chapel leaders have chosen material that is appropriate and the dignity of the services are much better than they were under the old system. The new rally which provides for three chapel services each week has proved a decided improvement over the old system of daily chapel. Today we have something to look forward to, whereas under the old system, we went because we were compelled to go.

The Chapel Committee is to be congratulated upon its careful planning of each chapel service and the speakers are to be thanked for the selection of material that lends dignity and interest to the chapel service.

DAY DREAMING?

"Revery is the Sunday of thought; but who knows which is the more important and fruitful for man, the laborious tension of the week, or the life-giving repose of the Sabbath?"

This question from Amiel's Journal is one upon which all college students should think. Does it pay to build air castles or must we always live that concrete, practical life and never dream of what might be? Must we always live in the present and never dream of the future? Does it pay, once in awhile to live for awhile in the abstract; to paint pictures of life, the ideal, the full, the consummation and fulfillment of all that is good and true and beautiful? Does it pay to look at the beautiful mosaic of life, which we each have stored away, to see whether we are following the pattern as we should be doing?

Revery does have a place in every life. It is helpful to any person to compare the facets in the mosaic of life he is living with the beautiful, richly colored facets of his ideal life; the life where there is eternal happiness, and where the fog of sorrow never penetrates. It strengthens one and spurs him to greater effort to make his life more like his ideal life, that life where joy is unconfined. Day dreaming puts the artistry of the soul into life. Day dreaming is one of the greatest influences that leads us on to the best that life affords.

But, no matter how pleasant day dreaming may be, we cannot always live in the land of our dreams. In fact we must strive if we are to reach that land. When we are day dreaming we are merely looking through a telescope and viewing the land of our dreams from a distance. After viewing that land from a distance we must struggle in order to reach the land where happiness is eternal and where joy is unconfined. Life is hard work and it is only by hard work that we can reach out and grasp the good things that life has for us. It is easy to view but hard to attain. A glimpse of what we have in store does much to urge us on so we must dream awhile and do our best to make our dreams come true.

Let us so shape the mosaic of our lives that it may be a thing of beauty to ourselves and to others; one which we need not be ashamed.

A student at Hays recently wrote a student opinion article deploring the fact that the school cooks always mashed the potatoes. There are always a few things that are not ideal in every school.

We suggest an intra-mural "Hot-hands" tournament, with a silver loving cup for the person who exhibits the most calloused hands at the end of three weeks. We suggest that the Student Council sponsor and chaperon the tournament.

STUDENT ELECTIONS

The students of McPherson College will have an opportunity next Friday morning of giving expression to their sentiments as to who shall control some of the various activities, organizations, and publications of the school for the year of 1926-27. These people will be chosen by the students themselves in an election in which every student has the privilege to vote. Not only is it the privilege of the students to elect these officers, but it is also their duty. Every regularly enrolled student is entitled to one vote and not to vote is to fail to respond to a trust which is placed in you.

This is not a matter to be treated lightly. These people may hold in their grasp the future policies of the school. We should give these candidates our deepest consideration. All likes and dislikes should be laid aside and votes cast for the man who will be most likely to handle the positions in the most efficient manner. Too often these elections are nothing more nor less than popularity contests in which the man who has the most friends secures the most votes. Students have been heard to exclaim: "He's a good fellow. Let's all vote for him." Although this is a friendly attitude toward our fellow students it is not one to give us the best material with which to fill our offices.

Let us in this instance lay aside all prejudices and cast our votes for those who will in the most effective and efficient manner fill the positions. It is not a personal matter but one on which the good of the group is concerned. For the good of our alma mater let us demand not only the good but the best.

VALUE OF HEALTH IS PORTRAYED BY W. A. A.

Play At Chapel Hour features Value And Methods Of Health
As their part in promoting National Health Week, the College W. A. A. presented a graphic program at the chapel hour Friday, following devotions lead by Laura Hamman, a short three act play was given in which the virtues of correct eating, exercise and regular hours were plainly portrayed. Goldie Makers representing the girl who thought health rules a nuisance and could not understand why girls go out for athletics was converted after a serious breakdown. Lois Myers as her roommate and the very exponent of good health and efficiency was enthusiastic in her praise of W. A. A. and athletics. The part of other girls representing both of these conflicting views were played by Anna Mae Edrecomb, Mattie King, Laura Hamman, Mary R. Swope, Elsie McConkey, Anna Mae Strickler, and Nellie McGaffey.

Bertha Urub represented the mother who was grieved at the illness of her daughter. Considerable local color was added and the play was made especially applicable to dormitory life. Following the play several songs were sung by the other members of the local W. A. A. in juvenile costume. These lauded the virtues of careful habits, attention to prophylaxis and hygiene, and sufficient exercise.

Wilbur's mother took him into his first sun parlor.
"Geel!" Wilbur exclaimed. "It's a sedan porch, ain't it?"—Life.

Lest you forget,
Before I've finished with the thing,
That this is it.

This will not be a lively lay
Of birds and bees;
I do not have a thing to say
About the trees.

The sky is cloudless all about
It seems to me;
But on this day that this comes out
It may not be.

So if you read this when the snow
Is gaily flying,
You can not say that it is so
That I am lying.

And if a blizzard comes tonight,
I can't prevent it
Because today the sun is bright—
I don't regret it—

MOUNTAINS AND LIFE ARE COMPARED BY HESS

"Let us learn a lesson from the mountains," said Professor M. A. Hess in conducting the chapel services Monday, February 16. Professor Hess spoke of his travels through the mountains of the West while on his vacation last summer. He mentioned the grandeur, the calm and the dignity of these silent testimonials to the Creative Power. "Life may be compared to the mountains," said Professor Hess, "since life too has its peaks and its valleys, its canyons and its divides, one may learn from the mountains the lessons of quiet and steadfastness of purpose, of dignity and of calm. Let us be like the mountains."

BAKER AND BETHEL TO MEET M. C. BULLDOGS

Bethel Game Will Close Season For Bulldogs—Baker Team Strong

This week the Bulldogs will play Baker university and Bethel college, journeying to Baldwin Friday and meeting the Bethel team on the home floor Thursday.

Baker has been showing wonderful form in spite of difficulties. After the loss of the captain, which it was thought might cripple the team, or at least throw it off its stride, the team was able to beat C. of E. 38-18, and downed St. Benedict's by a substantial margin. It is reported from Emporia that C. of E. displayed about the same type of game as won for her 39-33 against McPherson.

Bethel got off for a bad start at the first of the season, but soon rallied and has been winning her recent games. These recent victories have raised the standing of the Bethel team slightly above the halfway mark. The Bulldogs are eager to avenge the defeat which they suffered at the hands of the Newton crew last week.

The Bethel game will mark the last game of the season and a large delegation of Newton fans as well as real supporters are expected to attend. It is hoped by McPherson fans that the Bulldogs will be "on" better than they were last week when they met the Mennonites at Newton.

Create an Estate TODAY FOR TOMORROW HOW?

By the use of a definite, well planned thrift program. Everyone knows that it is not what is earned, but what is saved which measures the difference between success and failure. This is a difference so slight, from day to day, as to seem unimportant and of no consequence, but in even a few years it aggregates a sum of great importance.

The ability to save is based entirely upon self-control. This capacity is the main element of character. It passes over at once into the realm of good citizenship.

This thrift program is made possible by insurance. Insurance is the modern method by which men make the uncertain certain and the unequal equal. It is the means by which success is almost guaranteed.

Every policy is a declaration of independence, a charter of economic freedom. He who holds one has overcome adversity. WHY? BECAUSE. It is a part charity and part business, but all common sense.

Through its operation, the strong contributes to the support of the weak, and the weak secure, not by favor but by right, duly paid for, the support of the strong.

The principle upon which this proceeds is all very plain. It has its foundation in thrift.

By so doing we are safeguarding our possessions as well as those of our dependents.

MENNONITES WIN FROM BULLDOG BASKETEERS IN WEDNESDAY'S GAME

Game Slow and Featured By Long Shots By Bethel Offense

BULLDOGS IN POOR FORM

Carlson High Point Man For M. C. Quintette—Buller Stars For Bethel

The Bulldog basketeers met defeat at the hands of the Mennonite team Wednesday night by a score of 46-21. The Bulldogs were not going good and the Newton team was "hot." The Newtonites seemed to be able to make baskets from any angle and from almost any position on the floor, and the work of the Bulldogs seemed rather stale, especially when it came to hitting the baskets.

Carlson, McPherson center, was high point man for the Bulldogs and Buller of the Mennonites was high point man of the game with 16 points. Barre and Crumpacker played good games but were unable to stem the tide of scoring by the Bethel team. Chapman missed in three baskets in the half that he played and Blickestaff rung up one.

The Mennonites held the lead at half, the score being 17-11, and steadily widened the gap between the two teams during the second half. Long shots by Enns, Struemy and Buller was largely responsible for the Bethel score. The Bethel team had a style of offense that was hard for the Bulldogs to solve.

The Bulldogs seemed sadly off in form, Carlson being the only one who showed his usual form. The large court also probably contributed toward the downfall of the Bulldogs.

MacTavish, proprietor of a corner confectionery, was the proud owner of a new cash register. One day, when an old friend came into the shop and bought a five cent clear, the customer noticed that MacTavish pocketed the money instead of putting it into the drawer.

"Why not ring it up?" he asked. "You'll forget it." "Oh, I'll not forget it," replied the wary Scot. "Ye ken I keep track in mah head until I get a dollar, an then I ring it up. It saves the wear and tear on the machine."—Legion Weekly.

COUNTY TOURNAMENT

The McPherson-Inman contest Friday night was the real contest of the first round. Inman, handicapped by the loss of a forward and a guard. All County men of last year, put up a good fight and seemed individually to outplay the McPherson men. Only swift team work won for the McPherson Reserves 26-18.

Galva (bye) and Lindsborg met in the first game of the second round. The Lindsborg machine got in action slowly. Galva struck quickly and in the first quarter led 6-1. In the last three quarters Lindsborg came back, and in spite of stiff resistance piled up a score of 41-19 in their favor.

Next in interest to the final was the Moundridge-Marquette game. After a fast even start, Moundridge drew ahead and was overhauled by Marquette. The score saw-sawed thus for several times. There were no slack moments in this game and Marquette never ceased to threaten. Moundridge won 26-21.

The McPherson Seconds, outclassed and outplayed, lost to Lindsborg 44-21 in the second game of the afternoon.

Victory, next year would give Moundridge permanent possession of the County Cup.

One of the power amplifier stages of this world's first super-power transmitter

The World's Loudest Voice

On the rolling plains of South Schenectady, in several scattered buildings, is a vast laboratory for studying radio broadcasting problems. Gathered here are many kinds and sizes of transmitters, from the short-wave and low-power sets to the giant super-power unit with a 50- to 250-kilowatt voice.

Super-power and simultaneous broadcasting on several wave lengths from the same station are among the startling later-day developments in radio. And even with hundreds of broadcasting stations daily on the air throughout the land, these latest developments stand for still better service to millions of listeners.

Only five years old, yet radio broadcasting has developed from a laboratory experiment into a mighty industry. And alert, keen young men have reaped the rewards.

But history repeats itself. Other electrical developments will continue to appear. And it will be the college man, with broad vision and trained mind, who will be ready to serve and succeed.

From the studio of WGY in Schenectady, six miles from the developmental station, there may be controlled a great number of transmitters, one of which is the first super-power transmitter in the world.
WGY, together with its associates, KOA of Denver and KGO of Oakland, is the General Electric Company's assurance to the American public that radio broadcasting shall be maintained upon the highest standards.
A new series of G-E advertisements showing what electricity is doing in many fields will be sent on request. Ask for booklet GER-1.
