SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA OF M. C. BROADCASTS FROM WICHITA STATION

Orchestra Of Thirty Pieces Directed By Prof. G. Lewis Doll

RECEIVED GREAT RESPONSE

Whistling Jy Howard "Whistling" Snyder Is Popular Feature Of Pleasing Program

"The best radio program ever heard from Wichita," was the verdict of a great many of the large radio audience who listened in on the program broadcasted by the McPherson College Symphony Orchestra, directed by Prof. G. Lewis Doll, head of the violin department of McPherson College, from station KPH, the Hotel Lassen, Wichita, Kan., Saturday night, March 20, between the hours of 10:00 and 11:00 o'clock.

The orchestra received a multitude of telephone calls and telegrams from various parts of the country complimenting them upon the program and in many cases requesting other selections. Some enthusiasts went so far as to say it was the best radio program they ever heard from any station.

One of the features of the program was the remarkable mimicry of Howard "Whistling" Snyder whose representation of the whistles of birds, trains, engines and other interesting phenomena attracted considerable comment among the great radio audiences. Mr. Snyder also gave a selection, "The Birds and the Brook," by Stultz, in conjunction with the orchestra.

The program of the orchestra was composed of eleven numbers. Schubert's "Song of Love" from "Blossom Time" was one of the most popular numbers. The orchestra played such selections as "Kiki," by Savino, "Toulaouwa," a Hopi Indian Dance by Grunn, "The Swallows," a Mexican waltz arranged by Lake, and "Spring Blossoms," by Hersem.

CHALLENGE OF MINISTRY BROUGHT BY FREEMAN

Methodist Pastor Presents Ministry As A Challenge To Save World From Ruin

The large number of men who attended the Y. M. C. A. assembly Tuesday morning were privileged to hear Rev. Freeman, Methodist pastor present, "The Challenge of the Ministry."

He showed how ministers all through the ages have been makers of history.

He explained the close kinship between the preacher and the teacher. He showed that the ministry was for service, not money, and that the minister deals in eternal values which money cannot buy and with which money cannot compare. He brought out the fact that the salvation of souls was the business of the minister and that it was a business that brings both earthly and eternal happiness. Salvation he portrayed as the goal of the preacher in his work in society.

"The minister," he said, "has held the keys of the future all through the ages and still holds them today." He showed how the educational institutions, Harvard, Yale, Princeton, Dartmouth, K. R. A. C., Baker, and McPherson were founded by ministers of the gospel and linked up the entire educational system with the work of the preacher.

He explained where the chief progress of the ages has been due to men of God. He showed that ministers are usually the ones to first inaugurate advance and that they generally have basis for their ideas, and that the Church wins eventually because it is built upon eternal truth.

INTER-CLASS MEET IS SCHEDULED FOR TODAY

Classes Urged To Support Large Number Of Entries In Meet

The annual inter-class track meet will be held this afternoon and competition promises to be unusually keen. The freshmen and the sophomores have some men that promise to be fast in the races and who are strong in the field events. The junior classes have some men who have taken place in many track meets and whose prowess is sure to add points to the records of their classes. The meet will begin about 2:30 and the Maccoeds will be on the job to give the tracksters their encouragement. The meet is expected to serve as a sort of index as to what the team will do in the meet at Friends university in about two weeks.

At the meeting last week, Theodore Robb was chosen captain of the senior team, Charles Lengel of the Junior, Vogel of the Sophomore, and Hartell of the freshman.

Practically all the events of a regular track meet will be scheduled as the Coach wishes to get a "line" on the qualifications of the men who will be eligible to compete in track this year. The classes are urged to get behind their respective teams and to furnish as many entries as possible.

YODER LEADS CHAPEL

Professor J. J. Yoder led the chapel services Friday morning by reading and commenting on the first Psalm. He portrayed the two attitudes of life, the righteous and the wicked, commenting upon the fact that there is no middle ground. He urged students to live such lives that they might be sure that they had the right attitude of righteousness.

TENNIS TOURNAMENT PLANNED

A tennis tournament has been planned for the women of McPherson College and several women have already signed up for competition. The tournament will be an elimination match.

Sometimes we wonder what life is all about after all.

SPRING

CHAMPIONSHIP DEBATE WILL BE FRIDAY NIGHT

Debate Coach M. A. Hess has arranged with the coach of the Bethel debate team to have the debate for State championship Friday night in the McPherson College Chapel. Rock and Lehman will contend with the Bethelites on the home floor while Lengel and Huston will go to Bethel. This will be the biggest debate of the year as McPherson and Bethel are division champions. Admission will be thirty-five cents. Back the Bulldog debaters.

STERLING ORATOR WINS FIRST IN ANTI-TOBACCO CONTEST FRIDAY NIGHT

McPherson Association is Host To Delegates From Other Colleges

HUSTON WINS SECOND

Four Interesting Lectures Given Before Delegates At Afternoon Program

First place and a prize of thirty-five dollars was won by Mildred Cecil of Sterling, in the State Anti-tobacco Oratorical contests held here Saturday night, to which six Kansas colleges sent representatives. Her oration, "America's Gift to Humanity," dealt with the effect of the tobacco plant, America's gift, on human happiness, health, and welfare. Ora Huston, of McPherson, won second place and a prize of twenty-five dollars. His oration, "The Fruit of the Plant," shows tobacco as one of the plants which develop poisons as a protection against animals. He also outlined the fruits of its use by men.

"The Serpent's Sting," the oration of Sarah Schellberg, of Tabor, is built about a striking legend from Mohammedan mythology. The good prophet, having warned a frozen serpent was stung by it, sucked the wound and spat upon the ground. From the spot sprang the plant having the soothing nature of the prophet, and, the (Continued on Page 4.)

NEW EPOCH IN DEBATE TO BE MARKED THURSDAY

Women's Debate With Friends To Be First Women's Inter-collegiate Debate Of M. C.

A new epoch in McPherson College debating circles will be opened Thursday evening, March 26 when the women's teams of McPherson College and Friends university meet in a dual debate. The child labor question will be the issue of contention. The McPherson negative team composed of Eunice Wray and Floye Brown will go to Wichita and the affirmative team, Anna Lengel and Mary Waas will defend the issue on the home platform. The single critic judge system will be followed. Professor Martin F. Holcomb of Bethany College will award the decision at McPherson. This is the first formal woman's debate in the history of the College," says Professor M. A. Hess, local debate coach. The teams are hard at work and "going good." Regular hours of practice have been instituted and the women have spent many hours in preparation for the event. They are planning to make the first inter-collegiate women's debate at McPherson College one that their successors will strive to emulate.

McGAFFRY READS POEMS IN CHAPEL WEDNESDAY

The chapel services Wednesday morning were led by Miss Edith McGaffry, who read several poems relating to the approaching season of spring and to the special subject of trees. Mrs. Carl Wilson Baker's "Good Company," Joyce Kilmer's "Trees," and A. E. Houseman's "Love-Liest of Trees" were read by Miss McGaffry with the comment that they so well portrayed what beauty trees and spring lend to our world.

The McPherson College Orchestra played two selections in closing.

SUMMER TRIP FREE PRIZE

A free trip to Europe next summer is the prize to be awarded the student of the University of Texas who sells the largest number of copies of the yearbook. A second prize of a trip to New York is also to be awarded.

Hear the championship debate Friday night.

COACH HESS' FORENSIC STARS ARE CHAMPIONS OF NORTHERN DIVISION

Sterling Victory Pushes Kansas Wesleyan Into Discard

TO DEBATE FOR TITLE

Intensive Practice For Crucial Contest Has Set In—Hess And Team Optimistic

Sterling college by a 4-2 victory over Kansas Wesleyan university Thursday night crushed the championship hopes of the Ballina team and clinched the title of the McPherson College debate team as champions of the northern division of the Kansas Intercollegiate Debate League. Coach Hess' debaters will debate Bethel College, of Newton, for the championship title of the league. The time for the debate has been definitely set for Friday. The Bulldogs have been trailing the Wesleyan team most of the season by one or two judges decisions, but in percentages the McPherson team has held the advantage. The Sterling victory gives the Bulldogs a substantial lead over Kansas Wesleyan, the nearest opposition. The Kansas Wesleyan team were league title holders last year.

The Bulldogs and Coach Hess are working hard in preparation for the crucial test with Bethel college. Speeches are being polished, new material gathered, and the College Chapel responds to the oratory and logic of Huston, Lengel, Lehman, and Rock. Coach Hess is unusually optimistic and both he, and the debaters are putting forth their most strenuous efforts to bring the title to McPherson.

The debate team has a record of five judges' decisions won and six lost. The team won from Sterling 5-1, with decisions 3-3 with Kansas Wesleyan, and beat the Swedes 4-2. The Wesleyan team has a record of eleven decisions won and seven lost.

MISS FLORENCE KLINE IN GRADUATION RECITAL

Graduation Recital Of Miss Kline Is First Recital Of Year—Appreciated By Audience

Miss Florence Kline's piano recital, the first graduation recital of the season, was presented in the College Chapel, Wednesday night. Miss Kline will receive a Bachelor of Music degree this spring. Miss Lucena Quantile, reader, and the McPherson College String Quartet, composed of Prof. G. Lewis Doll, Autumn Lindbloom, Carl Freesburg, and Professor W. B. Kinsner, assisted Miss Kline. Miss Kline showed exceptional power and finish in her opening number, three movements from Beethoven's Sonata Op. 27, No. 25.

Miss Quantile followed with a charming and sympathetic interpretation of "At the Dim Gates," by Jordan, which treats of the mutual relationship of grown daughter and aged and infirm mother.

Miss Kline next played, Prelude Op. 28, No. 23, by Chopin, and his prelude Op. 28, No. 6, and Polonaise C sharp minor. Her organ musicianship of a very high order was displayed though perhaps not quite equal to that of the opening number.

The quartet pleased the audience with their rendition of Mozart's Allegro from Trio in D, and Prayer and Rhondo, by A. E. Harris.

The closing number was the descriptive composition by Schubert-Liszt, Hark! Hark! The Lark.

As Miss Kline left the platform she knelt to receive a double armful of flowers carried by young Master Harlan Hershey, and for a considerable time the north hall of the Administration Building was crowded with friends congratulating her on her achievement.

Marrs Discovered Reading Book Entitled, "How to Use Your Mind"

The man who got one vote for the Spectator editorship for next year, because of the influence he exerted through his office of sergeant of arms at the election, is preparing to take McPherson College by storm. This man is Pat Marrs.

Pat Marrs came to this school last fall and has passed several months in our midst almost unnoticed. He was on the football squad, posing as Mars, God of War, on his throne at the sidelines. When he got in the game, the crowd knew it but that was all. The crowd knew he could take care of himself; they didn't know who he was; they didn't know what to expect of him; Pat Marrs was only Pat Marrs, N. M. N. L. (no more, no less.)

Around the campus he has been only "that sandy-haired Irishman." He has been regarded as somewhat of a friendly tame bear. Physical force stands out on his every freckle and whisker, and it has been thought best to let the slumbering giant go his un molested way.

But lately Marrs has taken a liking to politics. During the student elections he made it his job to carry a club and to see that everything was conducted according to Emily Post. He took a day off to care for the polls, and when evening came he had seen every ballot counted and duly recorded to the best of his knowledge, so help him God, this day of our Lord, you know the rest.

When a football player begins to swing a club at an election, there are things to be thought of. When the player is an Irishman, and weighs heavily, some attention is due him. When he is six feet tall and has pale blue eyes, the interest becomes more intense. And the fact that he has been practically unknown previous to his political club juggling makes him more difficult to analyze.

We request that Pat Marrs make a statement of his intentions. We have been brought to this action by the fact that last week, we came upon him in the Library and found him reading a book entitled, "How to Use Your Mind!"

Pat knows how to do everything else. If he finds out how to use his mind, and then discovers that he has a mind, it will be too late! We demand a public statement of the political (and otherwise) aspirations of Pat Marrs.

Signed and Sealed, Sworn to and Affirmed.

—The Editors.

The Spectator has for its purpose to record accurately the current history of McPherson College, giving publicity to all its activities in due proportion, and to forward the best interests and uphold the ideals of the Alma Mater.

Address all correspondence to THE SPECTATOR McPherson, Kansas

TUESDAY, MARCH 23, 1926

Since white pages must be blank pages, we opine that it was a Spee editor, weary and rebellious of the continued wailing of his brain for "copy" who wrote: And now to keep her pages white Will be our purpose strong.

THE ADVENTURE OF FAITH

We are all borrowers and appropriators, and only to a small extent discoverers. Our personal contribution to the sum of human knowledge is at most infinitesimal and insignificant, compared to the great mass of knowledge which is our heritage. We accept by faith the findings and theories of the discoverers. Even in science courses where the phenomena are most easily checked, we retrace the steps of the discoverer and verify his findings in only a small part of the material presented. True, every discovery is investigated and checked by eagle-eyed contemporaries, but the common man accepts the word of authority. Every student takes for granted and uses constantly hundreds of facts which he has not verified.

Thus we are all adventurers of faith. Before trying it, we accept tentatively the pronouncement of the specialist, because he has spent his life in the field, and should know whereof he speaks. We try in our own lives the principles propounded, and if we fail at first to secure the anticipated results we blame, not the principle, but our own course of action.

The unfortunate thing is that there are students of science (not to be sure the eminent men in its various fields) who refuse only in the field of religion to venture in faith. But in this field we also have the discoverer and the teacher, the prophet and the priest, and their achievements testify to the reality of their religious experience. We have also the statements, which is attested by those we most respect and love, who have lived successful and victorious Christian lives, that "he that will do it, shall know..." Surely there is no one to whom it isn't worth trying.

Help the women beat Friends.

WALKING

Your personality stands out in the way you walk. When you walk it is like a man pushing a wheel barrow; the wheel barrow sways as the man allows it to sway. Your body sags and drags as you allow it to.

Some men have a slow, deliberate carriage. Others are sluggish. Some legs dangle along, like pendulums with hinges. Frivolity, vanity, pride, sincerity, power, courage—all human traits—are discernible in the manners in which people walk.

It will be pretty hard to walk like a king when you are only a subject; but if you are a king it will be just as hard to walk like a subject. If you can't walk with personality, the only remedy is to develop the personality. The point is that your stride shows you up like a spot light. Watch it.

Winter must be at least half over since new spring "bonnets" are beginning to appear.

BUTLER'S PRINCIPLE

General S. D. Butler, late public safety director of Philadelphia, and now commandant of the marine base in San Diego was recently ostracized from the polite society of San Diego. He was ostracized because he preferred charges against Colonel Alexander Williams, because he was intoxicated while entertaining Butler at his hotel. Colonel Williams was his predecessor and is still in the service. The rules of the service state that no man in the United States Navy can get drunk and not pay the penalty. General Butler merely enforced the rule which he was pledged to enforce; he merely did his duty, yet he was ostracized by the socially supreme of San Diego because he did his duty and sought to uphold the laws of the United States Navy to the best of his ability. It had been possible under the old regime for any soldier to get drunk and not pay the penalty.

General Butler is the type of man that is invaluable to society, one who does not wink at violation and who has more regard for duty than for petty social prestige. He saw as his first duty the service, and he was for the service first, self afterward. He sacrificed for the good of the cause, he had the spirit of team play. He saw the government in the light of society and he sacrificed himself for the good of society. Such men are needed in all lines of endeavor and it is such men that colleges and institutions are wanting to graduate, that parents are proud of, and that leaders of society and industry are hunting for to take up their work when they are gone. Men with devotion to a cause to the exclusion of self are the type that McPherson College endeavors to develop. Men with principles are needed in any line of work and are bound to succeed just as General Butler is succeeding.

The Kansas Teachers Magazine says McPherson College is building a new $60,000 dormitory for men. Now that is some real news.

Twenty-three women in England make a living by cleaning chimneys. Quite a strain on their make-up.

THE VINDICATION OF YOUTH

(The Daily Illini) The legislative committee of the National Congress of Teachers and Parents recently presented a report to the convention of the National Educational Association in which was contained the statement that the present lawlessness is not due to the generation of youth, but "to the fact that we are in a transition period from the small town era, to the era of big cities—the automobile, and the widened area of human activity." We might ask what solution for the crime wave the writers of this report anticipate when the so-called era of big cities and automobiles arrives. If as much crime as now exists is fostered by a period of transition, what may be the extent of crime when the great centers of humanity finally do occupy the center of the national stage? Because after all what is more conducive to crime than large cities and automobiles, and furthermore, do not these big cities exist and revel in crime at the present time?

M. C.

The catalog of North Manchester College urges that parents and students deposit their spending money with the college treasurer and call upon him whenever any is wanted, relying upon his judgment as to the expediency of the expenditure. Can you see yourself begging J. J. Yoder for five cents to buy a "Cake Baker"? Also try to imagine the excuses he would give.

It wasn't Latimer at the stake, Miss Jones, it was Walter Raleigh who first brought tobacco to England who said, "We have this day lighted such a fire as, by God's grace, shall never be put out."

TRANSFER ATHLETES

To stop student athletes from going from school to school only to play, the University of Pennsylvania has passed a rule that no student who has represented any other school in a particular sport may represent them in the same sport.

Barks and Wags

By Wendell Johnson

Campus Katy dripped in the other day with a cup full of inspiration. "Ray," she shouted, "why don't you write a detective story?"

AND HEKE IT IS

Dick Dubblebarrel, the Defective Detective by Harry and Terry and Ho

Pasha sat looking philosophically at the wrinkles in his breakfast prunes. Suddenly he leveled his revolver at his wife, and a naive smile swam across his map. He smacked his purple lips, and his new false teeth gleamed gorgeously under the influence of a stray sunbeam. (His false teeth were lying on a chair in the sleeping porch.)

"But dear Pasha," she screamed and didn't tear her hair, "you might miss me!"

"That's so," he replied shaking his head to and fro, and he slipped the gun into his sock. Then he hung his sock up by the chimney, for it was the ten thousandth night before Christmas.

That night Santa Claus didn't come down the chimney. Old Pasha paced slowly up and down the fire escape. Still Santa didn't come. Old Pasha had been a good boy; he was sure of that. He hadn't cut down his father's cherry tree, for his father had no cherry tree. Surely, he was safe on that score. He hadn't destroyed his dad's income tax reports, because his dad was a college professor and had no income tax reports.

Pasha looked at his watch. It was time now any time. Still Santa didn't come. About four o'clock in the morning a little fairy came to Pasha. Pasha was an old man now, and his beard was like a bib. He was sitting in the moonlight on the fire escape reading "To a Waterfowl."

(The waterfowl was a duck that had left his bunk to see what was up.) "Hey!" began the fairy. "I am Paul Revere! Santa Claus ain't coming. You might as well go knock off some wink, because you're just wasting time reciting poetry to a duck!"

"Why ain't Santa coming?" asked the hoary old gentleman. "Is this a new theory you young fellows has got up to take all the joy out of life!"

"Santa is married to Mary Christmas, and the old woman won't let him come. She's got him where he can't get away."

"Where is he?" the old man asked as he emptied a tin of new tears into a wine glass that stood by handy.

"The old woman has got him in court on a charge of indecency and is suing him for a divorce!" She's made because he goes into everybody's houses after night, and puts stuff in their stockings. He ain't got no alibi either. So after this Santa Claus will probably come on the Fourth of July or the tenth of April or sometime, because Mary Christmas is suing him for divorce. See?"

Old Pasha studied on the case for years, but it is still a mystery.

Mysteriously—Jack

LIBRARY NOTES

Several new books have been added to the McPherson College Library booklist. Among these is the new book, "Russia in Upheaval" by A. E. Ross, professor of sociology in the University of Wisconsin. Mr. Ross brings an amazing account of how the working class made itself master of Russia to the entire exclusion of the property-holding class. Professor Ross had a trained eye and he saw and pictured in his vivid style, to the great benefit of contemporary history. Professor Ross traveled 20,000 miles in Russia interviewing men of the working classes securing their ideas of present conditions.

"The Real Boy and the New School," by A. E. Hamilton has been ordered by Prof. Hoff. Mr. Hamilton has achieved an insight into the lives and characters of the most difficult boys. The hyper-sensitive, the precocious, the plodding; he understands them all. He displays interesting things in the boy's inner life that prove fascinating.

The Personalist, a quarterly journal of philosophy, theology, and literature, has in it this quarter an interesting article by the editor entitled, "My Idea of God." The librarian recommends that all students in theology classes read it.

The December 17, 1925 issue of the "Christian Century" magazine has been lost and Miss Heckethorne wishes anyone who has a personal copy which is not needed, donate it to the library.

SOPHIS ATTEND BANQUET

Members of the sophomore class at Columbia University went to their class banquet in moving vans, in order to escape the freshmen raiding parties.

CONDEMN PETTING PARTIES

Resolutions condemning petting and drinking were passed last Saturday at a conference of associated women students held in Ft. Collins, Colorado. Co-eds from nine Rocky Mountain universities and colleges drew up the resolutions in which petting parties were termed as "cheap."

The conference passed up mention of smoking among women students, having decided that the smoking was "not serious enough" in that regard to warrant any definite action.

COLLEGE BRED WIFE

Many essays were turned in in a recent contest held at California Tech. The subject was "To have or not to have a college bred wife?" A portion of the winning essay was as follows: "Consequently, when I marry, I shall choose a college woman because I believe that she will (1) be a true companion to every field of endeavor, (2) be well fitted to face the social problems of life, (3) be able to help me decide important matters concerning our well-being, and (4) be a conscientious and capable founder of our family home."

THE STUFF THAT COUNTS

The test of a man is the fight he makes.
The grit that he daily shows.
The way he stands on his feet and takes Fate's numerous bumps and blows.
A coward can smile when there's naught to fear,
When nothing his progress bars,
But it takes a man to stand up and cheer,
While some other fellow stars.
It isn't the victory, after all,
But the fight that brother makes,
The man, who, driven against the wall,
Still stands up erect and takes
The blows of fate with his head held high,
Bleeding, and bruised, and pale,
Is the man who'll win in the by and by
For he isn't afraid to fall.
It's the bumps you get, and the jolts you get,
And the shock that your courage stands,
The hours of sorrow and ruin retrace,
The prize that escapes your hands,
That test your mettle and prove your worth,
It isn't the blows you deal,
But the blows you take on the good-old earth,
That shows if your stuff is real.

ANTI-TOBACCO CONTEST

 tobacco. Miss Schellenberg won third place and a prize of fifteen dollars. The contest was close and every school was creditably represented. Wilma Jones, of Breese, presented "The Slavery of Tobacco." This is Breese's first entry in the contest. Dorothy Dunbar, of Miltonvale, gave "God and America's Destroyer." Bertha Flesher, with "America's Deadly Foe," represented Central College. Miss Flesher would have placed higher on account of her pleasing delivery but for a difficulty of memory.

The orations had been judged on diction and composition by E. C. Hubler, of K. U., J. H. Lawrence, of C. of E., and W. H. Yoder, of Heaton, and were judged on delivery by Principal O. O. Smith, of Chapman, and Professors Foltz and Briggs of Kansas Wesleyan university. The judges, delayed by bad roads, did not arrive until 9:30 and the program extemporaneously arranged while waiting was interesting. Richard Travers, of Central College, gave a negro reading, and clever silent interpretations of a man sewing, and a concert pianist. A quartet from Central college sang. Esther Wilber gave a reading, Arlene Saylor playing a piano solo, and Paul Diek played "Home Sweet Home" as given by different performers. John Whiteneck read, "Just Think," and George Merkey gave "Cohen's Wedding."

Each officer of the State Anti-tobacco Association is elected by one school, the order changing in rotation. The school, which elects the secretary-treasurer is the scene of the contest for that year. Tabor College has not yet reported her choice for president. John Whiteneck, winner of the State Contest last year, is next year's vice-president. A. B. Smith, of Miltonvale, was elected secretary-treasurer.

The afternoon meeting of the association commenced at 2:30 and the delegates and students were privileged to hear four lectures on various phases of the tobacco.

Dr. H. J. Harnly, vice president of McPherson College, who has always been active in the fight against the tobacco evil talked on, "Physical Effects of Tobacco." He presented facts to prove that tobacco lessens physical efficiency in the average smoker fifteen percent. The usual pep and energy of the human body is wasted and dissipated by the use of tobacco, and once tobacco gets a hold on the body the user becomes a slave to it.

Dean B. E. Muhler presented tobacco from the angle of its influence upon the offspring of the individual, his subject being, "Tobacco and Its Possible Biological Effect on Race Betterment." He stressed the value of concrete evidence that has been proved and urged members of the association never to make statements regarding the tobacco habit that they did not have absolute proof of.

The third speaker of the afternoon was Rev. Lawrence Ashley, pastor of the McPherson Christian Church, who spoke upon the "Religious Aspects of Tobacco." He presented religion as an entirety, a unit of life. He included all the acts of life as religion, making it plain that a person who is religious, is religious at all times. Since tobacco also affects many sides of life and hinders religious growth, it should not be used. Rev. Ashley showed that the religious aspect and influence of the weed was negative.

Dr. J. W. Fields, one of the founders of the Anti-Tobacco Association, was the last speaker of the afternoon with his stereopticon lecture, showing many interesting pictures and presenting many vital facts with relation to the tobacco evil as it is today and as it was yesterday. He stressed the facts he has observed about tobacco in his career as a doctor. He told how the citizens of McPherson during the years of 1917-18 paid a little over $21,500 for the education of their children and $60,000 for tobacco during the same time.

 Their last number was "College Echoes", a fantasia on popular college songs by Rollinson. Mr. Arthur Linnell, violinist, accompanied by Mrs. George Gilson, presented two pleasing violin numbers in a way that was greatly appreciated by the great radio audience.

A cloud of smoke pours out of the chimney of the new church these mornings, and within, the clatter of hammers, the rasp of saws and planes, the scrape of towels, and the hiss of the blow-torch resound constantly.

Mr. N. S. Rhodes, superintendent of construction, reports that the work has been consistently ahead of schedule and, but for a ten-day delay on millwork, would have been two weeks ahead. The basement is complete except for a little painting, and could be used for a banquet inside of two weeks. Delivery of lighting fixtures and furniture has been promised at an early date, and within two weeks the internal scaffolding on the main floor will come down. Everything points to completion a good while before commencement.

The soft lighting on cream-colored surfaces, the glory of stained glass, and the sweep of the open spaces, now only faintly suggested through the present lumbering scaffolding, promise McPherson College the finest and most beautiful church in the community.

Secretary of Outlaw Fraternity Implicated 11 Others in Issuing Obscene Paper at Baker

Twelve members of the Theta Nu Epsilon fraternity, an outlaw organization on the Baker University campus, received their walking papers from that institution recently. A special committee on discipline composed of faculty members and students handling the case of the student accused of sponsoring the publication of "The Rod," a filthy sheet delivered surreptitiously some time ago.

Several of the accused students were present when the discipline committee met but offered nothing in their own behalf and calmly accepted expulsion. Included in the list of expelled is Dalton, captain of Baker's basketball team and Elliott, captain elect of next fall's grid eleven.

Joseph Myler, secretary of the outlaw fraternity and editor of the obscene publication, pled guilty to the charges of criminal libel in district court at Lawrence a week ago today. A fine of $100 and costs was imposed upon the defendant.

"No purpose would be served by a prison sentence other than serving as a warning to others and I hope that warning already is sufficiently plain," said Judge Means, who imposed the fine.

Myler told the court that the 11 other students arrested in connection with the case were implicated to about the same extent as himself, and that he now realized that the students had engaged in a highly improper enterprise. The other defendants will be tried in the May term of court and Myler's appearance bond as a witness against them was fixed at $200.

Y. M. President and Debate Coach Have
"Little Game" ????

Said the Debate Coach in low tones to the Y. M. C. A. president, "What do you say to a little game tonight?" "All right, all O. K.," replied the President.

There are games and games and we can only wonder and surmise which game the players had in mind. Might it possibly have been a game of chance or was it a game of skill? Would their conscience permit them to play dominoes or might they descend to that realm where rules the blackie bird, "Rook." Perhaps they were arranging a golf duet or maybe they intended to play bridge. Again they might have played "Ant" or "Penny Ante." "Tiddledy Winks" is a rather strenuous game for such sportsmen but they may have played it once.

Well, at any rate, the game is over and the Discipline Committee has as yet failed to record the score. Private investigations are being made by students and faculty, in regard to this matter and it is hoped that some concrete or "bone" evidence may soon be found. The bringing to justice of two such personages would be a feather in anyone's cap and the ones who "break into the game" should exercise care and use the utmost discretion as these two characters are known by their enemies and some of their friends to be desperate men. It was only by fear that they are able to hold the offices which are now theirs.

Let us hope that this deep, dark mystery may soon be cleared and that the students and faculty of McPherson College may soon breathe tranquilly once more. In the mean time anyone who possesses any evidence should present it to the Discipline Committee.

The percentages, however, show quite a wide margin between the two teams.

The debate for the league title is creating a great deal of comment and the contest will be held Friday. The school stands solidly back of the debaters and their optimism and that of the coach bids fair to be justified.
