STUDENTS VOTE DOWN WAR IN PEACE POLL

Fifty Per Cent of Students Taking Poll Would Not Fight

An O' part of a peace program that is to be extended to many of the colleges of the state at Kansas, the students at McPherson college took a poll yesterday to vote their attitude toward war.

In the student poll the proposition was given the student. Out of those who voted were attached and the other is not war which the student considered offensive or dangerous. Of the 113 students who voted, 56 per cent stated that they would not fight under any conditions, 6 per cent stated that they would not fight unless it was a defensive war, 23 per cent stated that they would take up arms if drafted, 12 per cent stated that they would not fight unless the reason for the attack was to destroy the world, 2 per cent stated that they would not fight unless the reason for the attack was to destroy the world.

It is expected that this poll will be carried out in other colleges of the state to determine the student attitude toward war.

WORLD PEACE

-- In order that students may have the idea of peace uppermost in their minds, in order that the hallowed memories of college life may be associated with the ideals of amity and good will among peoples, the cause of world peace, in a world indifferent to the needs of our generation -- in need of the idealism of youth -- the idea of world peace has been maintained in this book.

To Dr. J. D. Bright, whose genial and inspiring personality, whose active co-operation in student affairs, has made him loved and respected by all, the 1935 Quadrangle is dedicated.

.. This dedication is more than timely. His classwork in history leaves no doubt of his world-wide sympathies. The International Relations Club and the Y. M. C. A. have prospered under him.

The Faculty Drops Formal Role

President, Deans and Professors Draw for Positions in 1935 Quadrangle

For three weeks the Quadrangle staff labored to decide upon a scheme for the arrangement of the faculty section. The only feature of placement that could be agreed upon was that Dr. Schwalm should head the list. Beyond the fact that the three deans should follow the "Prexy," no definite pattern seemed forthcoming. There arose questions as to who really were the faculty heads, who were the most important members of the teaching staff, and where the dividing line should come between teachers and administrators. Finally someone hit upon a scheme of arrangement according to age, but here again the staff failed of success because no one could determine the exact number of Miss Lehman's years. And besides, if this plan were used, many of the students would be placed ahead of some of the faculty members.

Just before the editors had come to the point of throwing out the whole faculty section and printing the book without this august body, someone hit upon a plan. Professor Bohling and his hat were temporarily confiscated to solve the problem. The faculty names were juggled in the hat and Professor Bohling was asked to draw them out one at a time, determining a position for each person on the faculty.

If there are complaints to be made as to the final order that has been adopted see Professor Bohling or the person who suggested the plan.

The first name out of the hat was that of Professor Voran, whose ability as voice instructor is well known both at home and in other schools of the state. The widely acclaimed success of his A Cappella Choir is a tribute to his accomplishments as a musical director. Though he is a very busy man "Cheesie" always has time to enjoy a joke or bit of humor with the students.

Dean Replogle believes in a modern education for a modern civilization. His wide range of experience as an educator is reflected in his keen understanding of the educational problems of today. His youthfulness and congeniality of character have helped to make him a popular figure among the students on the campus.

spring of 1933 as field secretary. He has influenced many students in coming to the College and has been influential in securing jobs for those who needed them. He was one of the men who was largely responsible for the College successfully completing its $10,000 campaign in the spring of 1934. Mr. Doty has now moved to Topeka where he is in the insurance business. It will be difficult to find another person to succeed him.

Miss Wilcox has developed an orchestra of which M. C. can well be proud.

ing the health and welfare of her "boarders," acts as assistant librarian to Miss Heckethorn.

Mrs. Brunk, as chief cook for the dormitories, does her best to satisfy the "hungry mouths" of the students. She explains the daily appearance of carrots on our menu by pointing out the fact that some worthy student is paying his board by barter. Mrs. Brunk goes about her work patiently and faithfully. Those students who work under her have learned to know her personally and to love her.

Miss Heckethorn, efficient librarian, should be prevailed upon to write a book on "The Tactics of Cupid"—or some such thing. Having served as librarian for eleven years, she feels that she has had sufficient opportunity to make rather accurate observations upon the matter, since the library seems to be the Mecca of all "Bulldogian" partners in romance. Her congenial help has made heavy research problems a bit easier for many a student.

"Talking gets a job, but working holds it," is one of the many favorites of Professor Dell, who enjoys the hobby of collecting mottos and bright sayings. As Professor of Industrial Arts, Mr. Dell has come to be admired not only for skill in his profession but also for his understanding of young people's problems.

For twenty-four years Professor Blair, head of the Department of Education, has been on the faculty of McPherson College. His characteristic mannerisms and idiosyncracies have become almost a part of the College itself and they will be missed next year when Professor Blair is busy superintending the county schools.

Dr. Schwalm, amiable and absent minded, is more than just "Prexy" about the campus. He is keen and straightforward as a professor and sympathetic and understanding as a friend to students. Chapel services would be one degree duller were it not for the amusement President Schwalm's facial expressions afford to the drowsy "eds" and "co-eds."

Dean Mohler's interests extend even as far as to the number of microbes on the under side of a hair, as it were. His consistently pleasant attitude makes his classes popular among the students, and even though they deny it, the girls enjoy his teasing. The Biology Department is one of the places on the campus where everyone works hard but has his share of fun at the same time.

At the time of his resignation last year from active teaching duties, Dr. Harnly had been with the College forty-two years as Professor of Physiology and Geology. He is known to all students for his optimistic and friendly attitude toward life. At the present time, he is Professor Emeritus of Biology and curator of the College Museum.

Youthful Miss Moore has conducted the girls' physical education department this year in a very efficient manner. She was responsible for introducing archery to the girls' athletic program at the college. The students in her classes found her to be a well-informed instructor and an agreeable companion.

Any student of history at M. C. will tell you that Dr. Bright is "up on the times"—past and present. He knows his "Parley vous," too. His consistent attitude of outward calm is an inspiration to many students and faculty members. Clever chapel speeches are a particular forte with him.

Miss Lingenfelter not only gets results from advanced students in piano, but she has also produced several elementary contest winners. Her patience with and understanding of small children were witnessed by the smoothness with which her spring recital, "Father Time's Party," was presented.

The charm which Miss Stutzman lends to the business office makes even that rather formidable realm of finance a pleasant place in which to settle accounts. "Maurine," as she is called by faculty and students alike, plays a double role as instructor in shorthand and effi-

THE OLDEST

Grads Believe Contacts Made Possible in Church College Are Invaluable as a Part of their Education.

We, the Oldest, are proud to be graduating from McPherson College. Church colleges offer a type of education that is hard to equal. Our associations have been many and rich. We have known all students, and have learned to know our professors through our interesting and helpful contacts with them—contacts which have contributed much toward our education.

During our four years of college life we have had many outstanding speakers on the campus. Men of international renown have appeared in our chapel programs. Dr. Palmer of Chicago Theological Seminary and Dr. Pauck of Chicago University, in commenting on our school, observed that our faculty was wide awake and that the student body seemed alert. Douglas Booth, of England, an international traveler, said, "I classify all schools I visit as barbaric or civilized. I consider McPherson College highly civilized." Bruce Curry, in speaking of young men and women, threw a little different light on us. After saying that we are all a fine group of young people, he challenged our ambitions and asked us if we were content with the world as it is.

These four years at McPherson have set a standard that will long be remembered. The private talks we have had with professors have helped us to find ourselves. These friendly chats we heartily recommend to students. They help to clear misunderstandings and to see the human side of the faculty. Through them we have gotten a better understanding of contemporary problems by information gained from careful study and experience.

Nevertheless, if we look through all the heroic fortunes of mankind, we shall find this same entanglement of something mean and trivial with whatever is noblest in joy or sorrow. Life is made up of marble and mud. What is called poetic insight is the gift of discovering, in this sphere of strangely mingled elements, the beauty and majesty which are compelled to assume a garb so sordid.

—Hawthorne's House of Seven Gables.

Yet love with dream and faith will trust.
(Since he who knows our need is just)
That somehow, somewhere, meet we must.

Alas, for him who never sees
The stars shine through his Cypress trees!

Who, hopeless, lays his dead away.
Nor looks to see the breaking day
Across the mournful marbles play!
Who hath not learned in hours of faith,
The truth to flesh and sense unknown,
That life is ever lord of Death
And love can never lose its own!

—Whittier's Snowbound.

Capacity Crowd Sees Senior Play

"The Youngest" by Philip Barry, was presented by the senior class on the evening of March 25 in the College chapel.

The setting of the play is in the home of a wealthy family in a small New York town. Richard Winslow, the youngest son in the family, has aspirations for becoming an author but his every attempt is thwarted and ridiculed by the other members of the family. Finally, because of a clause in the father's will and because of the influence of Nancy Blake, guest of the Winslow home, Richard gains the upper hand and properly asserts his rights. In the process of winning the respect of his family he loses his old sense of inferiority and, as the play ends, finds that even Nancy considers him her equal.

Harry Frantz, as Richard, delighted the audience with the naturalness with which he played his part. Neva Root, as Nancy Blake, gave the usual excellent interpretation which characterizes all her stage appearances. Elizabeth Wagoner did well as the easily-influenced mother. Dave Duncanson portrayed the domineering, overbearing older brother. Galen Ogden appeared as the second son who has an abundance of ego. Faithe Ketterman added comedy to the play in her part as the sister with the unusual sense of humor. Iva Walker appeared as the cynical older sister and John Kauffman as her young husband, who acts as the family lawyer. Mary Miller appeared as the Irish maid. Donald Evans directed the play with the assistance of Miss Lehman.

The armament trade is an international racket, fattening on the blood of youth.

"Sneak Day" Outstanding in Senior Memories

The Class of '35 has much to remember of its sojourn of four years at M. C. Many and varied events fill the minds of the seniors as they leave the folds of M. C. for the last time. Parties, picnics, conferences, friendships, and last but not least 'sneaks' remind the Seniors of the days spent in college.

It was amid flying eggs and troublesome underclassmen that the Class of '35 quietly sneaked (to the knowledge of everyone) away from the campus in the spring of 1934. By different routes the gang finally arrived at Twin Mounds to spend a cool night trying to sleep. The boys slept by the river on the sand, with clothes draped over bushes and trees. The girls tried to get in a huddle in the other end of the park, some of the more fortunate ones slept. A delicious breakfast of bacon, eggs, buns, oranges and coffee warmed the gang up. The chefs tried to cook bacon and eggs together but found that the eggs cooked faster than bacon, so the first sandwiches were served as scrambled eggs and raw bacon. The coffee can had more holes than the expected hole at the top—we could serve ourselves by catching the little stream of coffee as it ran from the bottom over the stove and finally to the ground. After numerous hikes exploring the surrounding regions, baseball and other games occupied the time of the group. Then they motored to Salina where a delicious meal of baked beans, potato salad, sandwiches and fruit was served. A Wiener Roast satisfied ravenous appetites after a windy afternoon of boating and swimming. In the evening a show topped off the program of the day. Tired, but happy, the group found its way home only to find rooms and sleeping quarters greatly

Beginning hazily and far away
Finds his dim thoughts brought brusquely up to date.
His bridge from Dreamland cannot reach Today.
Four years are ended—years of bitter-sweet—
Oh, far more sweet than bitter, looking back.
The once-so-sloppy senior, now so neat,
Commemorates their death by wearing black.
But what is so rare as a day in June?
Then (if ever) the careless rough
To a rather lugubrious tune
Plods to get what has cost enough.
Soon he'll hear (and he'll have to listen)
That an A. B. shoe shine has a very brief glisten.

It was many and many a year ago—
Or at least it seems to be—
That a wide-eyed lad, whom you may know,
For the lad was you (and me)
Came from high school whole, with no other goal
Than this School of Quality.
He was a child (yes, you were a child)
But willing to learn, and he Came to M. C., and plunged in the spree
Of the year of Jubilee.
He battled the sophs, but shrunk from the profs
And managed to go minus three.
And none cried "What ho!" without getting to know
How lusty an echo could be.
And nobody drowsed, for he'd likely get soured
By a waterbag flung cleverly.
And the whole freshman year—though things weren't quite clear—
Made him know mighty well that he relished it there
In this strange College,
McPherson College.

I will arise now, and go to sophomore chem,
But first a breakfast by me of flaky waffles made.
Nine minutes will I spend there; to get there will take ten,
After I find where my socks have been laid.
But I shall have some peace first, before I go to lab,
For there is time to lie here and sort of muse on things.
There's lotsa time . . . sure . . . lossa . . . The student starts to nod
The room is filled with shrill alarm clock's rings.
I will arise now, and get myself to class.
I hear the whistle blow—I must get up without fail.
Ugh! Here goes! Lord, the morning minutes pass!
Just have time to grab a buttered snail.

"Under yonder beech-tree, single on the greensward, Couched with her arms behind her golden head . . ."

So the junior murmurs, musing as he watches

A blue-eyed co-ed, reading in the shade.

"Had I the heart to step into the open,

Walking straight up to her, saying rather low,

'Aren't you in my Psych class?' Would she smile and answer

Or would she freeze me? Golly, I don't know!"

Bracing up his courage, boldly speaks the junior.

"Studying?" The blue-eyed lass looks up. "Oh, yes,

I like to study outside. Isn't the day lovely?"

"Less than you!" he thinks, but says, "What a pretty dress!"

O, the maiden freshness of her comely figure!

Such a tender bosom—such a dainty waist!

Yellow oat-stems quiver in the twilight breezes.

O, the golden tresses nodding interlaced!

Darker grows the valley, stars begin to twinkle,

Sitting close together, and within close bounds,

The girl and the junior become quite well acquainted.

Softly, the annoying whistle sounds.

Arm in arm they wander, homeward to the campus,

Dimly silhouetted against the raying West.

Another college romance. Yet if he but knew it,

Sweet is the co-ed, but sweeter unpossessed.

I have known schoolmates, all were dear companions.

Sophs, and I a freshman, left now I'm a senior.

All, all are gone, the old familiar faces.

I have been laughing, I have been carousing,

But now vacantly the windows stare out at me

All, all are gone, the old, familiar places.

I loved a girl once, golden-haired and blue-eyed.

Now that is over, I can't get another—

All, all are gone, the old, familiar graces.

Now if I flunk anything, I shall have to come back

In the fall, those last ones, members of my own class

All will be gone, the old, familiar faces.

Senior, rest, you toil no more.

Sleep, oh soundly, not awaking

Till the dull address is o'er

Which the Prexy has been making.

Here in these enchanted halls

Mellow'd are the things thou learnest,

Dawn is harsh outside the walls,

Life is real and Life is earnest.

Senior, rest, school troubles o'er

Dream of fooling profs no more.

Warmly sleep. When Dawn is breaking

It will be quite cold, awaking.

CLASS OF 1938

Freshman Ambition to Win Annual Soph Tilt Success Means No More Green Caps For The Underclassmen

Green caps, belt lines, upperclassmen, more belt lines, more upperclassmen—but you can't dampen the spirits of the exuberant "freshies." You can make them line the football field and decorate goal-posts till the referee blows his whistle, but they always show up with grins on their faces. You can lay them over beds and apply paddles and belts till you're weary, but the freshmen can take it. They're here to!

But it's not all drudgery and abuse for the freshman, even as the proverbial dog has his day. In the annual freshman-sophomore gridiron battle the downtrodden "freshies" have an opportunity to prove their mettle. If they succeed in vanquishing their opponents then the much despised green caps may be discarded and the freshman may once more feel himself to be a normal human being. In this annual classic, the freshmen are given loud but loyal support by the "freshie" girls who flock en masse to the field of action and cheer madly for their heroes 'till the bitter end.

Bewildered they wandered about the campus for the first week. Would they ever find their classrooms? The directions said Harnly and Sharp halls and they didn't know which was which and to ask an upper classman was out of the question. The professors looked so "stiff" and the poor "freshies" shook with fear. Studying seemed impossible, home never seemed so dear, and heads went down in pools of tears.

Oh, the excitement of getting settled! "How do you like your roommate?" was a typical dormitory question. Next came the "Get Acquainted Party." Of all the strange looking fellow students, hailing from everywhere! Soon, with the aid of the watermelon feed, they all became mixed up and everyone knew almost everyone.

As a group they all gathered in "Rep's" Orientation class which met on Monday at 8 o'clock, of all times! The only thing that could keep these newcomers awake was the jokes that only this professor can tell.

Frschman Creed

Make no endeavor to pay your tuition. If you have some extra after extracting all your entertainment expenses you might drop into the business office with a few pennies.

Come into class late and make a grand entry. If you don't do something to let your fellow students and teachers know you're in class, they'll probably not realize you are there since you should never have your lesson worth reciting.

When you have time to loaf, go to the library and help others study by banging chairs and giggling—after all the librarian would rather have you come in and pep things up, since the juniors, seniors, and maybe the sophomores study so deeply and quietly.

At the time of your enrollment, tell your faculty advisors what a "big shot" you were in high school, because they probably won't know it otherwise.

In the dining hall you are not even expected to use good manners. Eat just as fast as you can, one can never tell how fast the food may go and you must get your share though someone else starves.

As for dress, wear whatever is the loudest in color since this will be the only way of attracting attention.

Converse on a subject freely regardless of how little you know and if the conversation lags, tell your listeners all about yourself and keep the floor until you have finished. My! how the crowd will increase and how popular you will become in a few minutes time.

Boys, see what a record you can make in dating the first two weeks—a different girl every night. And girls, do your "darnedest" to flirt and get a new man every night. If you can't make any headway, up and ask him, next year is Leap Year.

Don't ever wear those traditional green caps, the upper classmen are just trying to rob it in and make a little extra profit. You must not let them lord it over you.

If you have a car, even though you're alone and going their way, don't pick them up. They're walking to town for their health.

On finding some little fault in anyone tell all so they'll be sure to find it too.

Make all the noise you can in the dormitories. Just consider it a place for recreation and entertainment. The matrons will surely appreciate your cooperation in their endeavor to make you feel perfectly at home.

Oh, yes, for a hint in getting your laundry done at a very low cost. Just some quick thinking and talking each week will work wonders. Each week pass your towels, etc., around. Smile and say you'd like to have one towel washed, but on looking for it you find several other things which will be needed.

The night is still young at ten, so linger together until at least midnight. Your studies can easily wait until another day.

Student Government

Council Is Spokesman For Student Body

The Student Council of McPherson College is organized with the purpose of promoting the general welfare of the student body, in co-operation with the faculty, management and Board of Trustees, for the best interests of the school.

It is composed of a president and treasurer, elected by the student body, a man and woman representative from each of the four classes, one representative from the "M" Club, W. A. A. and Department of Fine Arts, and two faculty advisors.

Debate, oratory, the Spectator, the Quadrangle, certain musical organizations and dramatic productions and tennis are sponsored and financed by the Student Council. The organization also provides students with activity tickets which admit them to all athletic contests and other activities sponsored by the group.

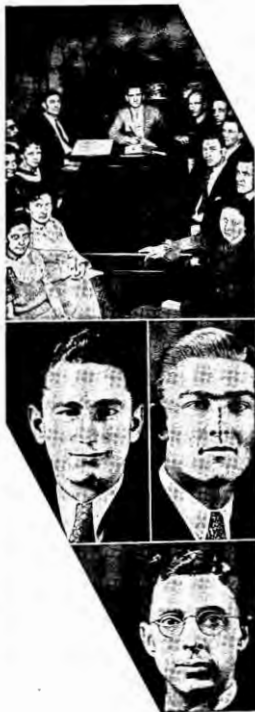

Awards this year were presented to the members of the ladies' trio, the male octette, ladies' and men's debate teams, editors and business managers of the Spectator and Quadrangle, cheer leaders, and the president and treasurer of the Student Council.

This year the organization made extensive improvements on the tennis courts, practically rebuilding them and putting them into condition for playing.

Permission was secured from the Board of Trustees to build a student recreation parlor which will be started as soon as sufficient funds are secured. Extensive estimates have been made and plans studied, but owing to the reduced budget under which the Council was forced to operate, the project was not realized. The fine co-operation of the Administration has been one of the greatest factors in the promising success of this project.

This year has been especially marked by a splendid co-operation between faculty and Student Council, a spirit which has led to a much greater realization of the purpose of the organization.

Politics, Promotion and Power

Self Government Is Introduced In Arnold

A new self-governing body was organized in the girls' dormitory this year in keeping with the increasing sentiment in favor of student government. Under the supervision of Miss McGaffey and Mother Emmert, the girls of Arnold Hall worked out an efficient system of rules and regulations. Experience, of course, has made necessary a number of revisions in these rules, but on the whole the girls have shown a willingness to cooperate in conforming to the "government" which they themselves drew up and formally adopted.

The first step in the organization was the appointment of a committee to draw up the constitution. This committee was composed of Neva Root, Mary Miller, Bernice Keedy, Modena Kauffman and Pauline Abuhl. The constitution as submitted by the committee was accepted with only a few amendments and additional rules, and by the beginning of the second nine weeks of the first semester officers had been elected and the new project was well under way.

The plan operates on a demerit system with the controlling officers, president, vice-president, secretary-treasurer, and three proctors, organized into a student consultory body, or executive council. The purpose of this body is to consider any problem that comes up in carrying out the student government and to make suggestions to the girls for their approval or rejection.

For the first semester the executive officers were: president, Mary Miller; vice-president, Leta Wine; and secretary-treasurer, Leola Mohler. The election of officers for the second semester named Faihe Ketterman, president; Lillian Peterson, vice-president; and Muriel Manning, secretary-treasurer.

Student Government. Group Assembled. Faihe Ketterman, president second semester; Mary Miller, president first semester; Leta Wine, vice president first semester; Lillian Peterson, vice president second semester; Leola Mohler, secretary - treasurer first semester; and Muriel Manning, secretary-treasurer second semester.

WATERMELON

Y. M. and Y. W. Sponsor Many and Varied Programs Games and Watermelons Help Students Get Acquainted

The watermelon feed sponsored jointly by the Y. M. and Y. W. is featured soon after the completion of enrollment. The whole student body meets on the campus for an evening spent in playing games, getting acquainted, and eating watermelon. This is the time for the fellows to look over the new crop of girls and make their choices. New students take heed! The old adage, "The early bird gets the worm" still holds.

The Y. M. C. A. has the foremost place in providing the outlet of religious activity for the men of McPherson College. Not only does it sponsor a wide variety of activities to attract students to a more satisfying spiritual existence, but it also attempts to develop the qualities of leadership in certain individuals who seem to have reached a higher plane of religious thinking. The provision for this outlet has been extended to a broader basis of activity than for some years past. The contact of the Y with individuals upon the local campus has been supplemented by contacts with student groups from other colleges and universities. The exchange programs of the year brought to our campus groups from Friends University, Kansas Wesleyan University, Sterling College, Bethel College, and Bethany College. In turn various McPherson College people aided in carrying a definitely religious message to the people of those schools.

Perhaps the greatest contribution to local interest in the search for "life" was the contact with other schools and leaders in the intercollegiate conference of the Student Christian Movement. The Y. W. C. A. and Y. M. C. A. co-operated to bring this conference, with its varied representation, to McPherson College.

In looking over the past year, the presence of leaders of the calibre of Harold Colvin, Barbara Lutz, Dr. Wilhelm Pauck and Dr. Bruce Curry loom large in the contributions to the local program.

The coordination of these phases of the program with the exclusively local activities has made the year an outstanding one from the view of the spiritual and religious interests of the campus.

"Hold always to your goal until you find a higher one, but keep searching. Work diligently at your method until you see a better one, but keep looking. Improve your skills with all the understanding, intelligence, and information available."

Y. W. C. A.

To help the college girl to seek out and hold the richer values of life, the Y. W. C. A. of McPherson College provides a retreat from the routine of regular college life as well as opportunity for cultural and spiritual achievement.

In order to balance the campus activities, the Y. W. C. A. offers participation in the Watermelon feed, campus Sister Project, Candle-lighting Service, Silver Tea, Christmas Party for poor children, Heart Sister week, and Sun-rise services.

Effort has been made this year to unify the work of the Y. M. and Y. W. Through their co-operation, joint meetings have been held, programs exchanged with other colleges, and arrangements made for a foreign student to enroll in McPherson College next year.

An outstanding feature of the Y. W. C. A. and Y. M. C. A. organizations this year has been the coming of the state religious conference to our campus. Dr. Bruce Curry, leader of the conference, stimulated the religious consciousness of the two hundred college youth who attended to a fuller realization of social responsibility.

The Y. W. C. A. cabinet in their weekly meetings have gained such insight into student problems that their leadership is a vital factor in the success of the Y. W. C. A.

Chemistry Club offers Intensified Study - - Movies and Magic

Interesting and colorful programs await students who attend the Chemistry Club. Under the able guidance of Dr. Hershey, many outstanding events have been presented.

The outstanding presentation of the year was the Chemical Magic Show given by the advanced students in October. Many people from nearby schools came to see the weird sights. So popular was this program that it was presented by request at one of the high schools in Wichita.

Other interesting events included the showing of motion pictures taken of work actually done in College chemistry laboratory. One film, "The Compounds of the Atmosphere and their Relation to Life," illustrated some of the research work done by Dr. Hershey in the field of synthetic atmospheres. Another recorded the process of making synthetic diamonds. Dr. Hershey's lecture on radium was greatly enjoyed.

In the spring, the Chemistry students took their annual trip to Hutchinson where they visited several of the industrial plants of that city. The highest point of interest on this trip was probably the visit down into the salt mines, but the most intriguing of all was the candy factory.

The outstanding social function of the year was the pleasant reception given by Dr. and Mrs. Hershey.

World Service Provides Experience and Fellowship through its Deputation Teams

The World Service Group unites all students who want to grow spiritually, work in practical church situations or get experience in any type of activity serving the spiritual needs of others. World Service holds a unique place on the campus in fusing the best scholarship with dynamic religious experience. The result is a genuine Christian approach to life's problems.

The year 1934-35 saw a change in the World Service deputation policy. Instead of a few extensive trips made by a few people, deputations of small groups of students were sent to churches close by. This policy resulted in broader contact with church situations as more students were enabled to participate.

Group meetings have been especially fruitful this year. Problems dealing with the Christian approach to life were discussed; and religious literature skillfully interpreted, had its place in the programs. Missions, book reviews, discussions on Japan, and other topics were blended into a worth-while series of programs. Special devotional meetings held at intervals proved to inspire members with a deeper sense of religious truth and experience.

In keeping with the World Service policy of serving a larger number of students than are reached by its weekly programs, this organization cooperated with the Y. M. and Y. W. in a number of projects. A notable instance was the sponsoring of a series of addresses by Dr. Pauck of Chicago Theological Seminary.

A small number of social events and vesper services served to lend balance to the activities of the World Service Group this year.

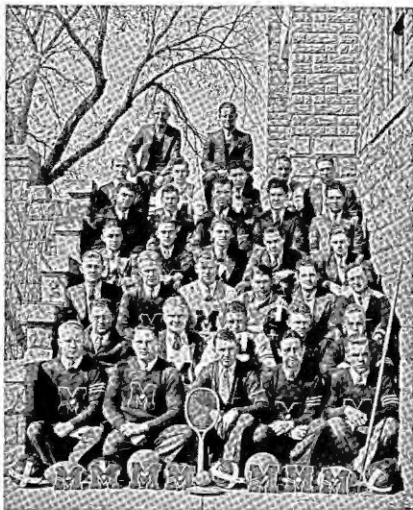

Those in positions of responsibility in World Service are exceedingly grate-

Athletes Make Up "M" Club

The "M Club" is an organization composed of all college athletic men who have made letters. This club has worked very effectively in helping to bring new students to school. During the summer prospective athletes are contacted with the idea of getting them interested in McPherson College and sports. The club has a reputation for clean sports and high ideals in athletics, and it encourages men to come to McPherson and to remain here for four years.

The "M Club" sells green caps to Freshmen at the opening of school, it sponsors picnics, initiations and a formal banquet at the close of the school year. It applies the paddle sparingly and wisely.

Initiations take place at least twice a year; at this time all new members are properly brought into the club. Each new member is asked to contribute to a day of fun usually at his own expense. The day is closed with a picnic.

The formal banquet which was held at the Hotel Hawley Roof Garden was represented by both past and present members, with their wives and lady friends. More than 125 guests were present. Jack Lehman, a former McPherson College student who is in law school at Kansas University, was Toastmaster. He was assisted by Harold Binford, President of the 1935 Club, Moffat Eakes, Kenneth Rock, Coach Melvin Binford

DEBATE and ORATORY

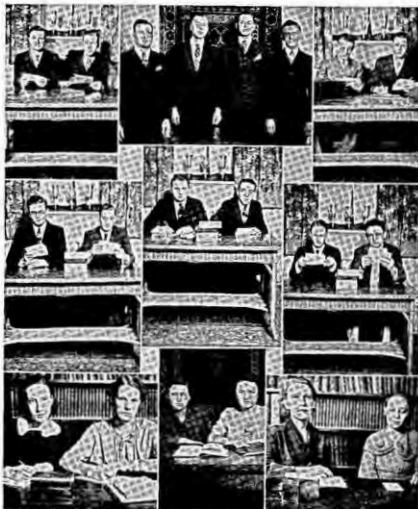

Men's Varsity Takes State Championship for Seventh Time in Fourteen Years

Although prospects at the first of the year were not particularly favorable, the 1934-35 debate season turned out quite successfully. In two respects the year was eventful—an all time high of 145 debates was established and for the seventh time in fourteen years M. C. captured state championship. The question this year was, "Resolved that the nations should agree to prevent the international shipment of arms and munitions."

McPherson College boasted eight debate teams this year, of which she loses only three members by graduation. Thus there is left a nucleus for a number of strong teams next year and a promise of some good high school material in next year's Freshman Class.

Men's Varsity: Elmer Staats and John Goering, seniors, have both debated four years for M. C., Staats three years

College Life and Activity Portrayed Weekly by Spectator

The Spectator, the representative "vox populi," has been instrumental this year in recording in a concise, journalistic manner the events and activities of college life as portrayed on the local campus. True, the "Spec" is not a newspaper of metropolitan measure, nor does it intend to be.

Royal Frantz edited the first seven issues of the paper. After his departure from school, a complete reorganization of the staff was made with Margaret Oliver taking over the Editorship.

Miss Oliver is to be complimented for splendid work. Her leadership was shown by the cooperation from the staff. Editing a newspaper is a job that only a few people can do. Miss Oliver proved to be a valuable and very capable editor.

Miss Alice Gill and her Journalism class had charge of news writing and editing. Miss Gill is known for her willingness to help and for her fine spirit. She knows how to edit papers and was one of the few who worked every Wednesday night at the Republican office. Her help and advice has been a jewel to the Spectator staff.

Elmer Staats has served as assistant editor and has had full charge of the editorial columns. This he has handled in his usual intelligent and capable style.

Robert Booz, the business manager, has succeeded in making the paper one of the greatest financial successes of recent years—a worthy achievement.

Orval Eddy has most efficiently handled all of the sports news that has found its way to the fourth page of each edition.

Vernon Michael and Donald Brumbaugh, both experienced men in their field, have been well qualified to do the make-up work.

The bits of social news have been cared for by Velma Watkins. A very

In the words of Dr. J. D. Bright "Every good book has fifty mistakes." The staff of "35" is not hesitant in qualifying this book as a good one.

One of the things that makes work pleasant for an editor is to have a loyal staff. I am indebted to many students, both on and off the staff, for their fine cooperation and help. I wish to thank everyone for the work they have done and for their contributions which have made this book possible.

John Friesen as Business Manager had the toughest job on the Staff, but proved himself a capable business man. He contacted students, organizations and business men, both local and by mail. He had charge of a sales squad on the campus which sold books and collected the money long before the "Quads" were distributed. He has been a very likable chap and pleasant to work with. Johnny was assisted by Orval Eddy, who deserves a lot of credit in selling Quadrangles and advertising.

contributed more to the book than any other member of the staff. Lois is responsible for the largest representation of the student body. She organized the Freshman class, and as a result the largest percentage of individual pictures from this Class is being shown. She has taken her work seriously and has spent many hours working on the "Quad." Her jobs have been many and varied; she has helped plan and organize the book, she has acted as stenographer and chief literary head, and has served as spokesman for the staff.

For Student Editor Glen Webb made his job stand out. His business was to contact students, make dates to have pictures taken, help take pictures, run errands, and even write copy. He has

International Relations Club

Douglas Booth Brought to Campus By Carnegie Endowment and Local Club

The International Relations Club with its purpose to stimulate intelligent discussion on topics of international affairs among college students is, perhaps, the organization which most completely represents the Quadrangle's theme of "World Peace."

The solution of current problems in the minds of the members of the club with world peace as the end in view has been held uppermost in the program of the organization. Topics such as "The Influence of the Munitions Maker in World Affairs," "The Far Eastern Situation," and "The Problem of Naval Equality" provided material for the bi-monthly meetings.

In addition the club gave an exchange program with Kansas Wesleyan University in January. The McPherson team spoke on "The Saar Basin" and the visiting team on "Problems of International Organization."

One of the highlights of the year was the presentation of an Armistice Day Pageant in the College Church in which nearly thirty students participated.

This organization is under the auspices of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace which this year made available Mr. C. Douglas Booth, of the Royal Institute of International Affairs of London. Also this organization makes available for its members twelve books each year on current international topics, as well as the Fortnightly Summary of International Affairs.

Officers in this year's club were Elmer Staats and John Goering, co-presidents; Emma Schmidt, secretary; and Dr. J. D. Pright, faculty sponsor.

Orchestra Praised for Quality of Programs Presented

The Orchestra, under the direction of Miss Lois Wilcox, made its debut in a formal program March 19, in the Chapel. This program represented the efforts of the group since the beginning of school, and was justly characterized by one of the members of the audience who said, "The orchestra gave one of the best concerts held in this town for many years." Miss Wilcox has done splendid work with the orchestra; she has spent a lot of time, and the students have worked hard under her direction. They presented numerous programs in Chapel, churches and nearby towns, and a small ensemble furnished special music for plays and the Booster Banquet.

One of the unique features of the orchestra's season was the presentation of a young soloist accompanied in a piano concerto by the orchestra. The difficult task of keeping the orchestra with the soloist was capably handled by the director, and the number received hearty applause from the audience.

"If we fail utterly to curb the munitions industry, let us resign ourselves to continued programs of arming boys with guns to defend the country against foes our industrialists have armed with like guns, with gas masks to defend themselves against the gases our munitions makers have made and sold to other lands, with steel helmets to protect the heads of boys against shrapnel and shell our profit-hungry manufacturers have sold to our possible foes."—Senator Gerald P. Nye.

The McPherson College A Cappella Choir is one of the most active and most prominent organizations of the college. The choir has been organized for three years, and its phenomenal rise to such prominence and influence is unprecedented in the history of the college. Professor Alvin C. Voran is the director of this choir; and it was through the depth of his musical ability, the keenness of his foresight, and the strength of his personality as leader and teacher that the choir was able to attain the standards of excellence and quality which it has achieved.

Musical excellence is the goal of the choir. It enters the field of musical pioneering and attempts to do something new in the way of choral expression and interpretation. Each year a formal concert is given, in which every effort is bent toward presenting the choir in the most cultured and artistic way possible. The community as well as the college recognizes this, and the annual concert of the A Cappella Choir is regarded as an important and musically significant event.

This season's repertoire covered a wide range of musical numbers from seventeenth century compositions to the most modern choral works, including Russian, Irish, and Spanish folk songs; a Catalonian Christmas melody; Greek Liturgy; negro spirituals; a German motet; and beautiful sacred numbers from several periods. In the repertoire is to be found music by such composers as Rachmaninoff, Brahms, Schubert, Tchaikowsky, and among the more modern ones such as Dudley Buck, Aschenbrenner, Cain, Friedel, Lucas and others.

Musicianship alone, no matter how good, is not sufficient to complete a satisfactory group. There must be community of spirit and group unity. The admirable achievement which the choir has made along this line is one of its most distinctive and singular qualities. When singing, the choir is not a collection of individuals, but is, for the time being, a fusion of personalities into one rich, full personality with common thought and purpose, in which the richness of the unity springs from and is founded upon the very severality of the individual contributors. Such intersocial relationships constitute socialized living of the highest type, and the experience is valuable to both those who participate and those who witness. These associations do more for the individual members than provide pleasant reminiscences for a rainy day. They will be powerful conditioning factors in shaping future association, and therefore constitute an inestimably valuable part of the education.

For the first time, the choir made a tour of about ten days' duration. The trip covered approximately seventeen hundred miles, and concerts were given in Kansas, Missouri, Iowa, and Nebraska.

How The M. C. Team Became The Bulldogs

McPherson College was nicknamed the "Bulldogs" in 1917 by sports writers and others over the state who then saw in the college a rising athletic team that would secure high rank among the denominational schools of Kansas.

It was a 60-pound white English bulldog, "Ben" by name, from which the college received its title of Bulldogs. "Ben" was not an ordinary dog. He was never grouchy and was a friend of everybody. On the basketball court between halves at games he would perform and romp with his master and the team and his fame as a mascot soon spread over the state. He went to all the games, no matter whether the game was at home or on foreign courts.

"Ben's" master was E. D. Verink, secretary of the McPherson Y. M. C. A. and also basketball coach at McPherson College. Verink is now a missionary in China and has been in the foreign field since leaving this city.

One of the common sights on East Euclid street when "Ben" was "going to college" was Verink on his bicycle. He always rode a bicycle back and forth from the college, with the big bulldog in a harness pulling him. "Ben" seemed delighted in pulling his master. Verink was seldom seen on his bicycle with "Ben" not pulling him.

McPherson College didn't have a football team in 1917. It was not until the school year of 1919 and 1920 that the first football team was organized. Another Y. M. C. A. secretary was the first coach, W. E. Daniels. He coached the Bulldogs for two seasons and in the fall of 1921 the first regular and full time coach was obtained. "Dutch" Lomborg, now head basketball coach of Northwestern, was the first regular coach.

McPherson's colors of red and white were chosen shortly after the College was formed nearly 55 years ago. The colors have remained the same throughout the years, and are even incorporated in the college songs.

Harold Burress—Fullback. Burress was an indispensable asset to the team. He was a triple threat man, being able to pass, punt and carry the ball equally well. His blocking was vicious and caused much favorable comment. Burress

A squad of forty-five men responded to the first call for football candidates at the opening of school. A goodly number were lettermen, and many of the Freshmen were outstanding players in their respective high schools. With this wealth of material Coaches Binford and Selves turned out another of their winning teams.

The first team to oppose the Bulldogs was the Chillico Indians. They came to McPherson with a team of veteran players. The Indians were determing two years left. He is a graduate of Blackwell, Okla., High School.

Captain Leonard Wiggins—End. At left end, Wiggins could be depended upon to stop the plays that were directed his way by the opponents. He was often called on to punt and pass. This was Wiggins' fourth and last year with the Bulldogs. He was honored at the end of the year by being placed on the all conference team. Wiggins is a Geneseo, Kansas, product.

Mike Vasquez—Guard. Mike always played the game hard. He charged fast and low and was a great blocker and a vicious tackler. This is his second year with the team. At the end of the season he was placed on the second all conference team. Mike hails from Lyons High School.

Clayton Rock—Center. Rock came through his first year of varsity competition in a manner that won for him many admirers among the Bulldog fans. His remaining two years should be highly successful ones in the realm of football. Rock is a graduate of Hope Kwait High School, Navarre, Kansas.

Orral Eddy has been a regular player on the Bulldog team for the past three years. During last season he played as tackle. With his great weight, Eddy was a powerful man on offense as well as defense. He is noted among his teammates as a man with the "never give up" spirit. Eddy is a senior and will be missed greatly next year. He hails from Lewiston, Minnesota.

ined to get revenge for the 34 to 0 defeat handed to them by McPherson a year ago. Most of the game was loosely played. The Bulldogs could gain at will in mid field but could not score. Finally, in the last quarter, Carpenter threw a 10 yard pass to Pauls, who made a sensational catch with Indian players all around him, to score the lone touchdown of the game. The try for point was wide and the game ended with McPherson on the long end of a 6 to 0 score. McPherson gained 228 yards from scrimmage to Chilocco's 45. The first downs were 13 for the Canines and one for Chilocco.

On the evening of Sept. 28 the Beth-el Graymarooners came to McPherson determined to turn back the formidable aggregation of Bulldogs. An all day's rain had soaked the playing field and it

Delbert Crabb—Quarterback. Crabb was another freshman quarterback that proved to be a capable field general. He has three more years to play for the Bulldogs. Crabb is a graduate of McPherson High School.

Russell Carpenter—Halfback. "Carp" was always in the game. He was the man that could gain ground on off and inside tackle plays. Carpenter finished his college career on Thanksgiving day by making the lone touchdown that gave McPherson a victory over Ottawa. "Carp" was placed on the all conference team at a halfback position. He hails from Sabetha, Kansas.

Merideth Sperline—Center. Sperline could get his man when playing on the offense and was an equally good line backer. He has two years of competition left, and they should be good ones. Sperline is a graduate of Sabetha, Kansas, High School.

Chester Colwell—Tackle. "Chet" was a dependable man in the line. His fight and determination made him a valuable man. He is a graduate of McPherson High School.

Dwight Barngruber—Guard. Just out of high school, "Barney" came through remarkably well. At the end of the season he was considered one of our very best guards. "Barney" is one of Koptek's products of McPherson High.

was a mud battle from start to finish. Bethel boasted of one of the best teams in the history of the institution, having a heavy line and a fast, shifty backfield. Because of the mud both teams played very conservative ball and resorted to punting for the most part. The early part of the game was played on fairly equal terms with both teams having possession of the ball many times. Late in the second quarter a McPherson man recovered a fumbled punt on the Bethel 16 yard line. On the first play Haun took the ball and made a very spectacular run off left tackle for the only score of the game. During the entire second half Bethel tried in vain to score. McPherson punted on the first and second downs and kept the Graymarooners in their own territory. McPherson made 45 yards from

Robert Strutman—Quarterback. "Bob" comes from Geneseo, Kansas. He is a valuable man and was given many chances to show his ability in varsity competition. Bob handles the team well and is a good broken field runner. His remaining three years should be very successful ones.

Walter Pauls—End. "Foot" finished his fourth year of football with the Bulldogs this season. Pauls could always be depended upon to come through in the pinches and catch those impossible passes. He was chosen as captain of the second all conference team. Pauls is the pride of Inman, Kansas, High School having starred there prior to entering McPherson.

Harold Zuhars—Halfback. Zuhars is a freshman and hails from Peabody, Kansas. He showed up well during the season and climaxed it by starring in the Thanksgiving Day game. He is a great broken field runner and is equally efficient at blocking. Many great things should be said of Zuhars during his remaining three years.

Harold Reinecker—Tackle. "Hick" is a Junior this year, and comes to us from Quinter, Kansas. Reinecker could hold his own with the best of the opponents when sent into the game.

Walter Weddle—Tackle. "Walt" enjoyed his best year of ball this season. When given a chance he always delivered. Weddle is a Senior and comes from Bloom, Kansas.

scrimmage to 73 for Bethel. The first downs were 4 for McPherson and 1 for Bethel.

The following week the team traveled to Wichita where they met and conquered the Friends University eleven by a 14 to 0 score. This game was featured by the fast, hard charging offense of the Bulldogs. Carpenter scored the first touchdown in the second quarter on an off tackle play. Late in the last quarter

John Mitchell—End. "Mitch" was a good man although he did not have many opportunities to prove it. He can stop plays that are being pushed around his end of the line. He is an exceptionally fine punter. His remaining three years should be eventful ones. "Mitch" comes to us from Shepherd High School, Michigan.

Harold Binford—Quarterback. Harold directed the team from the quarterback post this season. He was level-headed and could be depended upon to call the right plays in the pinches. His blocking was an outstanding feature of his play. Binford was placed on the second all-conference team. He is a graduate of Pratt, Kansas, High School.

Don Barngrover—Tackle. Don is another freshman lad that comes to us as a product of McPherson High School. "Barney" proved that he could play the game in the Westeyan encounter. Don has three wonderful years ahead of him in which to star for the Bulldogs.

Lawrence Moore—Guard. Moore enjoyed a very successful freshman season on the squad. He played a stellar brand of ball and was a regular before the season ended. Lawrence is a graduate of Caldwell, Kansas, High School.

Marvin Poland—Guard. Poland enjoyed a very successful season. He set himself to the task of acquainting himself with the college game and accomplished that feat in a remarkable manner. He could be depended upon when given an opportunity. Poland comes from Lyons, Kansas, High School.

Richard Hendren. Dick's weight and drive that he developed as a fullback in high school made him a tower of strength on defense in the center of the Bulldog line. He was used as a reserve center and next year will undoubtedly hold a regular berth. Dick comes from Portland, Oregon.

Cagers Place Five On

Captain Walter Pauls, 2nd All Conference forward. "Toot" was the one man that could always be depended upon to come through with some sensational baskets. He was a hard man to guard and caused his opponents plenty of trouble during his four years of competition. He captained the team through a very successful season this year.

Anton Meyer, All Conference Center. "Tony" had plenty of height and this year played an improved brand of ball. He usually got the tip. No center could consistently out jump him. "Tony" is a Sophomore, and has two years of competition left.

This year's basket ball team enjoyed a very successful season. They won all but one of their home games and only lost four away from home. The team won eleven out of sixteen starts, and placed all regulars on the two conference teams at the close of the season.

They started their season on January 5 when they defeated the Bethel College quintet on the home court by a 32 to 21 score. Pauls scored heavily for the Bulldogs in this encounter.

The next victim of the Bulldogs was C. of E. They came to McPherson on Jan. 11 and were turned back by another 32 to 21 score. The C. of E. aggregation were never in the lead. Pauls again led his team in the scoring by garnering 13 points.

Jan. 15 the Bulldogs traveled to Lindsborg to battle the Bethany Swedes.

This was a slow and uninteresting game. The Bulldogs won easily by a 37 to 16 score. Meyer was outstanding with eleven points to his credit.

On Jan. 18 the team met Kansas Wesleyan on the Salina court. They were determined to get revenge for the 35 to 34 defeat handed them a year ago by the Coyotes.

The Bulldogs played good ball for the most part and just before the game ended they were leading by six points. Then Snyder, Wesleyan forward, got hot with some nice long shots. The score was tied at the end of the regular playing period at 29 all.

In the overtime period the Coyotes accumulated six points to the Bulldogs' 5. This left the score exactly the same as the last year's game at Salina, 35 to 34. Pauls led the attack with 13 points and

Conference Teams

Harold Binford, 2nd. All Conference Guard. Binford was the man that broke up the opponents' plays by intercepting many passes. He got more than his share of rebounds and usually figured in the scoring. This was Harold's last year with the team.

Harold Johnston, All Conference Guard. Having lots of fight and speed, "Johnnie" was indispensable to the team. He was an uncanny shot from the corners of the court. His drive and speed often put him in position to score under the basket. Harold will be with the team again next year.

tied with Snyder of Wesleyan for high point honors.

The following night the team suffered their second defeat at the hands of the Hays Teachers at Hays. The Bulldogs were tired as a result of their hard game the night before and were unable to get going. The score was 45 to 37.

The team continued their trip to Hastings, Nebr., where they met the Hastings Teachers. This time they had a day's rest between games and were able to conquer their formidable foe by a 38 to 30 score. Pauls looked especially good in this game.

On Feb. 1 the Baker Orangemen came to McPherson to contest the Bulldogs. This proved to be the most exciting home game of the year. During the first half the Bulldogs were always in the lead, but often Baker was only one or two points behind. The half time score was 32 to 25 for the Bulldogs.

With the beginning of the second half Heine and Schrey began to sink some uncanny shots for the Wildcats and a few minutes before the game ended Baker tied the score at 41 all and then went into the lead. The Canines soon overcame the slight lead and the locals were on the long end of a 49 to 48 score when the game ended. Herrold of McPherson and Heine of Baker garnered 14 points each to tie for high point honors.

Feb. 5 the team went to Sterling and came home with a 29 to 16 victory to their credit. This game was featured by very ragged playing on the part of both teams.

The formidable Emporia Teachers faced the Bulldogs on the home court on Feb. 7. The McPherson team led, throughout the entire game only to have a last minute rally by the Teachers defeat them. The score was 47 to 42. Meyer held Carroll, rated one of the best college centers in the nation, on even terms. Carroll scored ten points to Meyer's 9.

Next the McPhersonites traveled to the eastern part of the state to tangle with the Baker Orangemen and the Ottawa Braves. The night of Feb. 15 they met and defeated the Bakerites by a 38 to 30 score. McPherson led through the entire game. Meyer controlled the tip and was high point man with six field goals to his credit.

The following evening the Ottawa Braves and McPherson met in a very crucial contest. Ottawa was leading the conference and the Bulldogs were in second place. Herrold, crack McPherson forward, sustained a sprained ankle in the Baker game and was not able to play. This greatly weakened the team.

Joyce Herrold, 2nd. All Conference Forward. Herrold had one year of college competition with Pittsburg Teachers before coming to McPherson. He played a good floor game and always counted heavily in the scoring. He has two year left in which to star for the Bulldogs.

Merwin Haggood—Forward. "Happy" broke into all of the games and was a scoring threat. His one handed shots from well out in the court were very hard to cover. Merwin is a Freshman this year.

Leonard Wiggins—Guard. Breaking into most of the games, "Wiggs" showed some real playing. He could be depended upon to do his part. This is Leonard's fourth and last year with the squad.

In spite of the fact that they did not have their first team intact, the Canines held the fast Ottawa team to a 33 to 30 score.

The next game was again with Ottawa. This time the McPherson team was in perfect condition and romped on the Braves, on the McPherson court, to the tune of 42 to 17. Herrold and Binford each accounted for eleven of the Bulldogs' points.

The following Wednesday Bethany came to McPherson to play their return Delbert Crabb—Guard. Crabb stepped right into college basketball and came to the front rapidly. He was very fast and quick. This made him a valuable asset to the team.

Harold Zubars—Guard. Zubars was used in most of the games. His aggressiveness and fighting spirit was characteristic of his playing. Harold has three years of college competition ahead of him.

John Mitchell—Center. "Mitch" was always a dangerous man from the pivot post. His height gave him an advantage over his opponents. John is a Freshman this year, and should develop into a great player during his remaining three years.

engagement. The Swedes showed an improved brand of ball but came out on the short end of a 37 to 17 score. Johnston was high point man with eleven points.

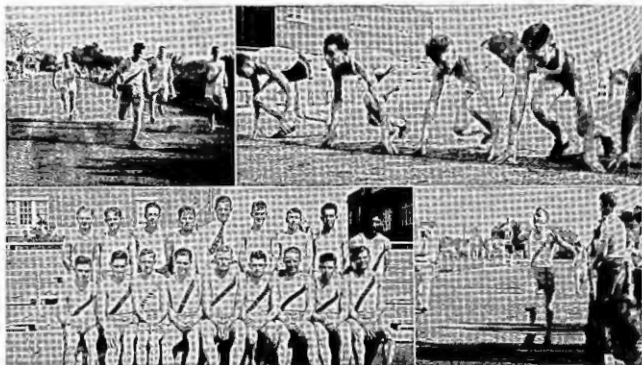

On March 1 the team went to Emporia to play C. of E. The Bulldogs needed this game to gain a tie for the conference championship with the Ottawa club. However, the team was not up to par and lost by a score of 33 to 28. Pauls and Meyer were outstanding for McPherson.

On March 5 the team got sweet revenge by completely submerging the Wesleyan team. The Coyotes were unable to check the unwieldy onslaught of the Bulldogs and went down to a 50 to 21 defeat. The entire McPherson squad was used and the scoring was well distributed.

The team closed its season by downing Bethel College at Newton by a 40 to 33 score. This was a non-conference game.

The final conference standings saw McPherson in second place. Ottawa was in first place as they only lost two conference tilts while McPherson lost three.

The team was greatly honored at the close of the season by placing every one of the regulars on the official all conference selections. Meyer and Johnston were placed on the first team while Herrold, Pauls and Binford were represented on the second mythical selection.

Track Team Continues With Athletic Record

The McPherson track team, maintaining the standard of the football and basketball records, has proved itself a formidable factor in contests of the past two years. Last year the Bulldog team won four of their six engagements. Victories were rolled up in triangular meets with Bethel and Hutchinson, and Sterling and Bethel. Dual victories were won against Bethel and Sterling.

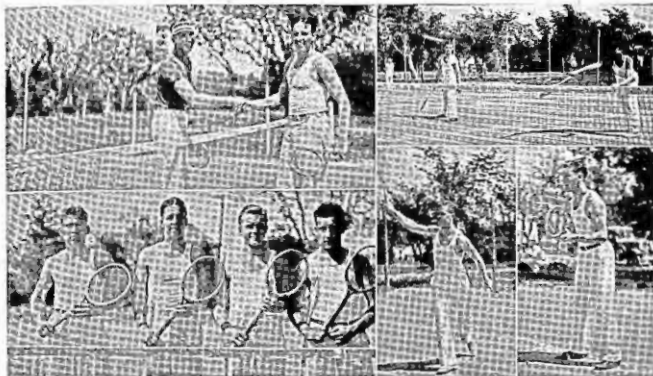

A narrow margin gave Friends the top score at a triangular meet which included Bethel College. In the Kansas conference meet at Ottawa, four members of the McPherson team entered giving the Bulldogs fourth place of six col-

Tennis Team Tops 1933-34 Season

McPherson's best athletic record in 1933-34 was made by the tennis teams. The teams made a strong beginning by taking all honors at Sterling College. During the next few meets the tennis men won ten of the thirteen matches engaged in. The Bulldogs broke even with the highly-touted Swede team which showed that a strong bid was being made on the local campus for the Conference championship. Just preceding the Conference tournament which was held at Ottawa the racketeers captured all honors from Friends University. At Ottawa the men's doubles team composed of Binford and Tice maintained their three year record, of no defeats, by taking first place. In singles Binford and Tice came in third and fourth.

Women's Athletic Association Encourages Sports for Coeds

Insignias, Numerals, Letters and Pins Awarded for Participation In Athletic Events

The Women's Athletic Association has as its goal the increasing interest in various sports which will promote greater physical efficiency, fellowship, scholarship, and sportsmanship. The program of the year includes soccer, baseball, basketball, volleyball, horseshoe, ping pong, tennis, hiking, bicycling, and health training rules.

At the beginning of the year the W. A. A. sponsored a hike and hamburger fry, which acquainted the new girls with the organization and served to interest them in the sports program. The girls learned to know each other here while they helped butter buns and slice pickles.

The initiation proved to be a strenuous ordeal, but it was bravely endured, and the weary victims were finally rewarded with refreshments.

The banquet featuring "Highways" was the main social event of the year proving that the girls are interested in good times other than sports. This event is looked forward to with great anticipation by all members since on this occasion the girls are privileged to choose their own escort—often with much embarrassment. After all the evening was much enjoyed by both the girls and their guests.

At the end of the year, insignias, numerals, letters, and pins are awarded those girls who have taken part in the sports.

Glover plunged over from the three yard line for the second and final score. Haun's try for both points after touchdowns were good. The first downs were 17 for McPherson and 4 for Friends. Friends gained 79 yards from scrimmage to McPherson's 277.

The first Kansas Conference game to be played by the Bulldogs was on the night of Oct. 22. Their opponent was the strong Kansas Wesleyan team. A year ago the Bulldogs nosed out the Wesleyan team by a lone touchdown and they were out to repeat the victory if possible.

The Bulldog-Coyote game was the most exciting and thrilling game of the entire season. Wesleyan, coached by A. B. Mackie, outweighed the Bulldogs by 10 pounds to the man. They were not cocky but were confident that they would win. The Bulldogs ran the ball all over the field for the most part of the game, but time after time, when they were in the shadow of the Wesleyan goal, the Coyotes held them short of a touchdown. With about five minutes of play remaining in the last quarter, Wesleyan blocked a McPherson punt and recovered on the Bulldog 30 yard line. A pass was good for 15 yards, and on the next play, Endsley, fleet footed Wesleyan back, evaded the Bulldog tacklers and carried the ball over for a touchdown. The try for point was wide and, with less than three minutes to go, the score was 6 to 0. The Bulldogs received and returned to the 30 yard line. A pass, Burress to Haun, netted seven yards. Two plays failed to gain, and with fourth down and ten yards to go Furruss dropped back and tossed a pass sixty yards to Pauls who made a beautiful catch on the Wesleyan 20 yard line and raced to a touchdown. Haun's educated toe placed the ball squarely between the uprights to win the game. A few plays later the game ended, and McPherson had won the first reality hard

State-Wide Recognition Given Intramural Program

Basketball Tournament Holds Highest Interest During Winter Season

The intramural department of the college has won wide recognition throughout the state. The fact that a very large percentage of the boys enrolled in school participate makes intramurals one of the outstanding physical education departments. Throughout the year students are divided into teams and a tournament is held to decide which is the school champion. Various sports such as baseball, basketball, volleyball, and track are included in sports for the boys. Archery, soccer, basketball, and baseball are the sports in which the girls participate.

During the past year, a triple round robin tournament was held among 10 teams in basketball. There were two different leagues, each composed of five teams. Competition was so keen in these contests that one league ended with two of its teams tied for first place. Likewise in the other league the last game of the tournament broke with a tie between the two leading contenders. Great interest was taken in these games and it was not an uncommon sight to see a group of students come out and cheer for their favorite team.

There has been much favorable comment on the intramural department among newspapers of the state. The main purpose is to get every student out and "doing something" to keep physically fit. The fact that most students do participate is evidence that the department has succeeded in its purpose. This extensive program was started by Coach Binford and it is his purpose to enlarge it as much as possible every year.

All For One - Fun For All

Mock Wedding by Freshman Class

Sophomore Chapel

View of Chapel

Chapel Programs Provide Tri-Weekly Diversions from Routine

With the nearly inaudible strains of a processional, students amble into chapel greeting classmates, munching candy bars hunting their seats, and adding to the commotion in general. The higher powers having ordained that the alphabetical system of seating is suitable for chapel, each class is accordingly arranged. Incidentally, though, this arrangement doesn't seem to bother couples. Romance knoweth no A, B, C's. Seniors occupy the front seats, while the freshmen crane their necks from the rear of the auditorium.

Upon the stage we are confronted by the august body, whose chief occupation during the entire program seems to be the display of feet and shining faces.

Having found seats students proceed to divide attention between next hour's lesson and the chapel program. A hymn opens the ceremony after which a volley of new hymnals are dropped into place, there to remain until the opening hymn of the next chapel hour. Prayer generally follows but from there on the procedure varies all the way from addresses by members of the faculty to mock weddings by the freshman class. Special numbers by the A Cappella choir, orchestra, octette, trio, and soloists add variety.

During the year each of the four classes present an original chapel program. The juniors and seniors presented devotional programs, while the sophomore and freshman acts were more or less entertaining. The sophomores presented the negro trio and the Harry Lauder impersonation (picture above).

A mock wedding (also shown) constituted the freshman contribution to chapel hour.

Along with the entertainment and devotionals, there comes the announcements; and it might be appropriate to add—that anyone desiring to have a questionnaire answered needs to present it at this time.

As the whistle blows for the close of chapel, a recessional is played and the weary underclassmen stand waiting while the seniors file out.

Thespians Strive for Perfection in Drama

Eleven years ago a group of students, interested in the production and presentation of drama formed the Thespian Club, named after Thespis, a Greek who originated impersonation and developed tragedy. The club stands for more than mere giving of plays. The members of the club strive for perfection and choose the most artistic type of drama. With the able assistance of Miss Lehman, as sponsor, this has in a measure been realized.

Two tryouts were held this year, one at the beginning of the year and one when the play was chosen. More than thirty-five students were present for the tryouts.

Activities of the club were culminated this year by the presentation of "Death Takes a Holiday," given during commencement week. It was a very difficult production and its successful presentation speaks well for the club.

Under the leadership of its officers, the club has become an outstanding organization on the campus. Blanch Harris was elected president in the middle of the year, upon the resignation of Donald Evans. Geraldine Burdett was chosen treasurer and Paul Booz, secretary.

Thirty Charter Members in Pep Club

The Pep Club was organized in the fall of 1934, starting with 30 members elected by the separate classes as follows:

Seniors: Neva Root, Russel Carpenter, Orval Eddy, Harry Frantz, Galen Ogden, Margaret Oliver, Maxine Ring, Martha Hursh, and Camilla Moore.

Juniors: Dorothy Matson, Archie Van Nortwick, Paul Heckman, Harold Johnston, Eldred Mathes.

Sophomores: Emerson Chisholm, Betty Lou Cameron, Viola Harris, Loyal Miles, Robert Booz, Leola Mohler, Velma Watkins, and Homer Kimmel.

Freshmen: Evelyn High, Pauline Abuhl, Opal Bennett, Wendell Doll, Glennon Minear, Oliver Andrews, and Willard Crabb.

The Pep Club sponsored many interesting and varied pep chapels. Do you remember the paper bus with umbrella wheels and tin can motor that left Ottawa by the wayside and carried the Bulldogs to victory? Yes, and the Pajama parade and the Swede funeral, both annual gala affairs in which nearly every student takes an active part. The pep club also sponsored street demonstrations and automobile parades before the major athletic contests.

The football banquet, pictured below, is an annual affair, sponsored by lettermen and coaches, with wives and lady friends as guests.

As caretakers of the men's dormitory "Pop" and "Mom" Voran have proved themselves to be thoughtful and considerate in dealing wisely with the many problems which confront them. They stand ever ready to offer encouragement and sympathetic understanding to discouraged and homesick students. Though sometimes forgetful and noisy, the men soon learn to appreciate their spirit of helpfulness and cooperation.

Professor Hess has, for many years, been sole master over the nether regions of Sharp Hall. From the vicinity of his classroom may be heard issuing forth (at almost any hour of the day or night) an "enchanted flow of eloquence" exuding from the vocal department of some aspiring orator's anatomy. Thanks to his precision and perseverance, Professor Hess's debaters and orators have brought many honors to their Alma Mater.

Dr. Hershey's achievements as a chemist are matters of international fame. He has made a real name for himself and for McPherson College through his efforts in the realm of chemistry. Unassuming and mild of manner, he has not allowed his success to make him less human and understanding of student problems.

In four years of work at McPherson, Mr. Binford has proved his worth as a coach and athletic director. He believes in putting more emphasis on character building and physical development than on winning. He has built up an intramural program that has gained state wide recognition. During the last two seasons he has produced one co-championship basketball team and one runner-up in the same sport. His efforts in football have been rewarded with two league runner-up teams.

Mrs. Emmert's existence. She is matron in Arnold Hall—in other words, the girls' dormitory. However, in spite of all the annoyances she has to endure, she is a considerate and understanding house mother.

Frank W. Forney has the official title of Superintendent of Buildings and Grounds. Under his careful and appreciative supervision, the students enjoy the privileges of light, power, water, and heat. However trying his problems (and he has many of them), "Dr." Forney always meets them with a smile.

"Guardian of the Vaults," or as he is more commonly known to us, Business Manager J. Howard Fries is interested in the welfare of the student as well as that of the College. He relieves us of our money but he makes us like it by assuring us that we are spending it for our own "cultural" development—and of course that is what we are all working for eventually.

Miss Brown, head of the department of music, makes a definite contribution to the life of the College. In a most unassuming manner, she presents in programs and recitals, piano students who owe much of their skill and knowledge of music to their instructor. The Fine Arts recitals which are given at intervals throughout the year under Miss Brown's supervision have much cultural value.

Miss Gill has won the respect and admiration of all who have made her acquaintance. The extent of her wisdom and learning is amazing in a person so small and young. To the students enrolled in her classes Miss Gill seems more like a kindred soul than a faculty member.

The art studio on third floor of Harnly Hall is the rendezvous of campus artists. Miss Colline, instructor in art, chooses to conduct the work there very informally. Under her supervision, many students have produced pieces of art worthy of consideration in various exhibits. Miss Colline, herself, is an artist of note.

Professor Bowman, through his deep insight, has the ability to explain the most difficult mathematical problem so that anyone can understand it. Although a man of few words, he makes each word a vital factor of his explanations. Professor Bowman is always ready to help any of his students through difficult problems.

"To put it in everyday English, it is of vital significance because of the very nature of its ultimate ends in hypothetical relation to the cosmic element of reality." Or in other words, Dr. Petry takes his philosophy and religion very seriously. His intellectual prowess and unique sense of humor have brought him the respect and good-will of all his students.

Reverend Zook, who has been pastor of the College church for only two months, has won the admiration and friendship of most of the students. Reverend Zook is noted for his challenging sermons which he presents to the students and local church members each Sunday.

Dr. Bright: "The wool-sack is what the Lord Chancellor of England sits on."

Dr. Schwalm: "Where can you read about Andrew Carnegie?" Hitbert: "Library!"

Miss Gill, displaying spot on dress: "I'll bet you can't guess what that is."

Student: "What?"

Miss Gill: "It's a banana split."

Dr. Bright: "If you were to join a political party in England which party would you join?" Suttle: "Do you mean under my present condition?"

And this one came from Government class. Dr. Schwalm asked Joe E. a question. Answered Joe, "I don't know." Dr. Schwalm: "What is it that you don't know?" Joe: "I don't know."

Dr. Bright: "What can I do?"

Martha Jane: "You can be the man who gives them candy and peanuts."

been the all around man on the staff; whenever students were slow in getting their work in or in having pictures made, "Kernel" would be the man to get this work completed. He knew how to do it.

Otho Clark, Joe E. Brown (Kim-mell) and Leone Shirk were the Photo Editors. Pictures give life to the book and these three editors have really put snap in the snap-shots. Clark has contributed to more than just the snap shot section. He has helped take pictures for the feature section, and when Clark gets an assignment you can count on the job getting his prompt attention and its being done just as specified.

Elmer Staats as Theme Editor has been especially helpful because of his ability to write and his knowledge of World Peace. He was Editor of the Spectator during his Junior year and has served the staff this year. His knowledge o copy has been very helpful.

Dorothy Matson, Humor Editor, carried her note book with her; she furnished puns that actually happened. While professors and students were contributing to this section, Dorothy was busy writing, and what she wrote will bring memories to those who would possibly like to wring her neck.

This job of publishing a book has been interesting. We have taken a lot of pictures—uninvited; whenever we were told that we couldn't take a picture we just grinned and acted as if we couldn't hear, but always taking great care to thank our subjects for posing.

We had all kinds of suggestions on how to publish a Quadrangle, and what colors we should use in the opening section and on the covers; some of these suggestions were terrible, but we thanked them, said we would consider the matter, and did as we pleased. So if you don't like our book, speak to some of those people who gave us suggestions, and tell them they got us off on the wrong foot.

All who made the trip will carry pleasant memories of it with them throughout their lives.

Transportation was provided by one bus and two cars. The company left McPherson Friday, March 29, at about 8:15 A. M. bound for Kansas University, where a concert was given in the afternoon. The choir sang in Kansas City that evening, and Saturday morning a broadcast was given over WDAF. In the evening a concert was given at the Missouri State Teachers College at Warrensburg, Missouri.

Sunday and Monday were two of the hardest days of the trip. Three concerts were given Sunday in the Rockingham and Plattsburg churches in northern Missouri, and at Morrill, Kansas, Sunday night. This covered some two hundred miles. Monday the group left at 7:30 A. M. for a three hundred mile drive to South English, Iowa, where they were to sing at 8:00 P. M. The bus arrived fifteen minutes late. During the rest of the week concerts were given at Marshalltown, Grundy Center, Waterloo, Dallas Center, and Panora, Iowa.

The choir sang at Lincoln, Nebraska, Sunday afternoon, April 7, and the final concert of the tour was given that night at Holmesville, Nebraska. As this concert started, the realization came rather sadly to the group that it was to be the last concert of the trip. The desire to put the very best into every note unloosed new reservoirs of power and skill that had heretofore been unknown. Each concert had been closed with "Nunc Dimittis," a number which ends with the climactic finale of a fourfold amen. As the song began, on this final concert, the very souls of the singers were poured into the words "Now lettest thou Thy servant depart, O Lord, according to Thy word in peace," and the final amens rang out with a clarity and precision which ended the series of concerts with a forceful and thrilling climax.

game of the year. McPherson accumulated 214 yards from scrimmage to 105 for Wesleyan, and the Bulldogs made 10 first downs to the Coyotes' 5.

The following week the Bulldogs traveled to Baldwin to play the Baker Wildcats. The team suffered their first defeat in this game. The score was 13 to 7.

Early in the game a Baker fumble on their five yard line was recovered by McPherson. On the next play a perfect path was cleared for a touchdown only to have the ball lugged fumble, and Baker recovered and punted out of danger. A few minutes later Baker started a drive from near mid field that was not stopped short of the goal line. The try for extra point was good. A little later Baker punted to Carpenter who returned the ball 55 yards, behind perfect interference, to a touchdown. Haun's try for point was good, and the score was tied at seven all. Later in the second quarter

Carpenter passed to Pauls over the goal line, but the umpire ruled that Pauls had stepped out of bounds in catching the ball and did not allow the score.

The second half was played on equal terms. Both teams were tiring under the terrific heat, and it was a battle for breaks. Baker got the deciding break just two minutes before the game ended. Wiggins was back to punt on the Bulldog 35 yard line. A Baker tackle blocked the kick, and it bounced and rolled the 35 yards to the Bulldog goal line where a Baker man recovered for the winning touchdown. Baker held a slight edge in yardage gained from scrimmage and made one more first down than did the Bulldogs.

No game was scheduled for the week following the Baker game. This gave the team a chance to recover from all injuries and to be in the best of condition for the Homecoming battle with the Bethany Swedes.

The Swedes came to McPherson on the night of Nov. 1 with a team that had won but one game. From the very start the outcome was evident. McPherson scored three times in the first half and once in the last. The final score was 26 to 0. Zuhars, Crabb, Pauls and Haun all scored touchdowns. The Swedes were outcharged but were fighters to the last play. McPherson outgained Bethany and made 19 first downs to the Swedes' one.

The following week the team went to Emporia where they battled the C. of E. aggregation to a scoreless tie. The first downs and yards gained were about equally divided. The Bulldogs made several goal line stances when poor punting put them in a bad hole. A pass was missed early in the game by a McPherson end that should have netted a touchdown. This conference tie kept McPherson out of a tie with Wesleyan and Baker for first place honors.

The next foe to face the Bulldogs was the Bison of Oklahoma Baptist University. They came to McPherson with a group of heavy weight men that outweighed the Bulldogs by nearly 15 pounds to the man. The Baptists were confident of an easy victory and for the most part played a very ragged brand of ball. The Canines were fighting desperately against the great odds and managed to hold the Baptists to a 7 to 0 score. The Bison scored in the second quarter on a 4 yard plunge by King. The line play of the Bulldogs was outstanding. The deadly passing attack of the Baptists kept McPherson backed in her own territory all afternoon. The coaches were very well pleased with the showing that the team made against this strong team. O. B. U. played all of the better teams of Oklahoma including Oklahoma University and Oklahoma A. & M. They were state champions of the Oklahoma Conference.

The final game of the season was with Ottawa University on Thanksgiving day. The McPherson Athletic Park field was so muddy that a new field was laid in a sod pasture just west of town. Carpenter scored early in the game and Haun kicked the extra point. All during the remainder of the game the Bulldogs kept driving to within a few yards of the Braves' goal only to have the line tighten and hold them out. Zuhars, freshman back, got loose for many nice runs including one sixty yard gain down the

Have you seen Professor Bohling work out the great Economic problems of the day while the rest of the professors waste their time in chapel by watching or lecturing to the already busy students.

John Friesen tried to collect an overdue note given by Robert Booz for a Quad. Glen Webb acted as the attorney and appealed to Booz to pay his obligation or his future financial standing would be impaired. After 30 minutes of negative results Webb suggested they give him the third degree. The last we heard Booz still had his $3 50 and Johnny still had the note.

Merle M.: What's the difference between a sewing machine and a kiss?

Neva: I know they are different but you tell me.

Merle: One sews seams nice and the other seems so nice.

WHAT IS A KISS?

A kiss is an anatomical juxtaposition of two orbicular muscles in a state of contraction.

A kiss is singular because there is nothing else like it.

It is plural because one leads to another.

It is a verb because it shows action.

It is a conjunction because it connects two things.

It is an exclamation because it expresses feeling.

Experiments show that kissing is a healthful activity because it stimulates heart action.

The team's record of six wins, one tie and two losses was nearly as impressive as the last year's record of seven wins and two losses. It was one of the most successful seasons in the history of McPherson College football.

varsity and one year second team, and Goering two years each. M. C. is losing valuable men by their graduation.

Kenneth Weaver and Paul Booz will both be back next year. Weaver has had two years' experience on the varsity squad, and Booz one year varsity and two years junior team. This team has had a particularly successful year being undefeated at both the Salina and Friends tournaments, and losing only three of its twenty-three debates.

Women's Varsity: Gladys Riddell and Ruth Spilman started the year together, but because of illness the latter's place was taken in the Wichita and Pi Kappa Delta tournaments by Lela Siebert, who filled the gap efficiently. Miss Riddell graduates this spring after three successful years on the women's varsity squad. Here again M. C. loses a valuable debater.

Helen Anderson and Virginia Quiring both debated their first year for M. C. They give distinct promise of successful debaters in future years.

Men's Second Teams: Willard Flaming and Alvin Lindgren did nice work this year as alternates for the men's varsity. Flaming improved his excellent work of the year before on second team. Lindgren entered as a Class B high school champion, and easily justified his selection for this team. These boys held the distinct honor of being undefeated at the Hutchinson tournament.

Fred Doyle with Paul Miller on one team and Lamar Bollinger with Kurtis Naylor on the other formed the regular men's junior teams. Although doing their first college debating, they showed considerable improvement in technique by the end of the season.

Women's Second Team: Alberta

Keller, with four years of high school experience, teamed very nicely with several partners this year. Paired first with Betty Lou Cameron and later with Emma Schmidt, who was forced to withdraw because of work after the Winfield tournament, she ended the junior team season with Lela Siebert, who had some experience in M. H. S. Miss Siebert later joined the varsity women's squad.

No account of debate season would be complete without giving full credit to Debate Coach Maurice A. Hess, whose helpful advice and untiring efforts have made possible M. C.'s victories this year.

The debate season in retrospect was as follows:

1934

Dec. 4—Non-decision dual tournament with Hutchinson Junior College at M. C. (men and women varsity).

Dec. 7 & 8—Seven-state tournament at Winfield (varsity and second teams). Both men's varsity teams stayed through the seventh round.

Poor grades were being discussed in educational measurements class. Duncanson said:

Mrs. Brunk: "I don't see why, all the students seem to like my cooking."

Prof. Fries: "That's the trouble, they all want a second helping."

Dr. Schwalm (meekly): "Pretty, isn't it?"

All right boys, take heed now and bring the girl friends in time. From now on running out of gas or having flat tires will cost you (or rather your girl friend) to the tune of points, points, and more points. If you are late just 10 minutes, that's only $\frac{1}{2}$ point; 20 minutes, a whole point, and a half hour, 3 points. Believe us, you'll have to cram a lot in those last few minutes to make them worth while. And if, by chance, you happen to stay out the full half hour, you might just as well go ahead and make a night of it, because it won't cost you any more. ("Oh yeah?" I hear some one say.)

Dec. 14—Non-decision dual tournament with Friends (women).

1935

Jan. 12—Pentangular tournament at Lindsborg. Junior teams from M. C., Manhattan, Wesleyan, Bethany, and Bethel. M. C. tied for second place.

Feb. 1 & 2—Tournament at Hutchinson. Seventeen schools sent junior teams. M. C. took 5th place winning 19 out of 30 debates.

Feb. 8—Triangular tournament at Salina—M. C., Bethany and Wesleyan (varsity men and women). M. C. tied for first with Bethany.

Mar. 2—Kansas Intercollegiate Debating League tournament at Friends with varsity men and women from M. C., Southwestern, Bethel, Friends, Bethany, Wesleyan, and Sterling. M. C. men took first, winning 10 out of 12 debates. M. C. women tied for second. This is tantamount to state championship for the men, an honor which has been held by

M. C. at least once every student generation since 1920.

Mar. 8—Triangular tournament at M. C. with M. C., St. John, and Hutchinson junior teams competing. M. C. took first in debate and Paul Miller captured first place in extemporaneous speaking.

April 4, 5, & 6—Pi Kappa Delta provincial tournament at Winfield with fifteen schools represented (varsity men and women). The last M. C. team to be eliminated (Booz and Weaver) went out in the semi-finals leaving only two teams in the running. (Southwestern and Emporia T.)

In addition to the above tournaments there were four debates engaged in at community centers for the experience of audience contact.

ORATORY

State Anti-Tobacco—Elmer Staats took second place, winning $25.00.

Peace—Paul Booz won local contest and a $7.50 award. Later at Bethel he took second place in the state contest, winning the $30.00 award.

Why The Quadrangle?

Many people have asked why the yearbook is called "The Quadrangle" and if it has always been called by that name.

In 1911 the yearbook was called "Dandelion." In 1917 the name was changed to "M. C. Spirit." It was changed again to "Life and Light" in 1929.

During the year of 1920 Dr. D. W. Kurtz, president, desired to rebuild McPherson College, so he engaged a landscape architect from Chicago to lay out the plan. This architect decided that the new buildings should be placed in the form of a quadrangle, as is shown in the present campus, with the streets shaping the quadrangle.

The student body voted April 2, 1921, to change the name of the yearbook to "The Quadrangle," a name which has continued until now.
