TELLING THE STORY WITH PICTU

ANNUAL STUDENT PUBLICATION OF McPHERSON COL

RES IN THE . . .

LEGE, McPHERSON, KANSAS

Foreword

We have tried to tell the story of life on McPherson College Campus with pictures as they appear through the camera lens. What better way is there to relive those golden moments of college days than to gaze with fond memories on the snaps that portray life here on the college campus! These snaps should serve as a criteria for calling up memories of joyous occasions.

If you are compelled to pick up this book again and again to leaf through it's pages, then we have reached our goal and this "Quad" was worthy of coming off the press.

It is not every year that an annual editor has a staff like the staff of this year's Quadrangle. To show appreciation for the suggestions and willingness to forego an evening of pleasure to work on the "Quad", this yearbook is dedicated to the staff of the 1948-1949 Quadrangle.

To each and everyone of the staff, sincere gratitude and thanks is expressed for the fine part you have played in sending this "Quad" to press.

President W. W. Peters

President Peters, combining vigorous support of McPherson College's extension program with the thousand and one duties of his office, has done his part to make this past year a memorable one. With Dr. Peter's capable direction, the college has moved steadily toward the goals of peacetime readjustment and growth. Despite all the duties of his position, our administrator is never too busy to exhibit a genuine interest in the personal student problems with which he is confronted.—Interested in all education extremely concerned with the role of Christian education, ambitious for the future of Macollege—that's Dr. Peters.

What is the economic value of the flashlight. Hornbaker and Johnson in Kline Hall. Open House is eminent. Loafing in the S.U.R. Is this Bowman, do you think? Geisert in his natural habitat. Stine in the Sadie Hawkins chase. Garvey on Fanny's front porch. Burger surveys the situation. Our dining hall in use. Roommates at bed time. Carruth and Kern pose. Gina Munda at the Frantz home.

Dean Luther E. Warren

While serving his first year on the administrative staff of McPherson college, Dr. Luther Warren, our "smiling dean," merited for himself the respect of students and faculty alike. Four years of counseling experience with the Veterans Administration has especially qualified our new dean for his position. Dr. Warren takes a unique personal interest in each of the students. His expert guidance and assistance in both educational and personal problems is received enthusiastically by the students who have learned to respect his sound advice.

Dean of Men and Dean of Women

In addition to teaching Education and Industrial Arts classes, the Dean of Women and Dean of Men capably fulfill the duties of their offices as counsellors of McPherson college students. They are always willing to lend an ear and a hand with advice and support. Sincere, friendly, and cooperative, our deans have established themselves on the campus.

DOCTOR FEE Dean of Women

It is a rare day when Dr. Mary Fee cannot be found on the first floor of Sharp, for it is here that she has both class room and office. In the former, she gives light to future teachers in education classes; in the latter, advice to the women of whom she is dean.

DEAN DELL Dean of Men

Dean Dell frequently leaves his shop and office work to go out among the men of Macollege and cement good relations between the men and their dean. Genuine, friendly interest helps Prof. Dell to assist the friendship of both on and off the campus.

Improvement has been the pass word of this year's student council. Besides the regular duties of administering and regulating student finance, supervising student publications, supervising general elections, coordinating extra-curricular activities, and supervising the S. U. R. and the Dog House, the active council has provided new lamps, a refinished floor, and a newly painted ceiling in the S. U. R. Improvement in the Dog House has meant hot soups, cold "Cokes", and "canned" music. All of these improvements have come through the cooperative action of an energetic council led by Russel Reinecker.

Women's Council

A godmother to the new women students, sponsor of Heart Sister Week and other social activities, the Women's Council adds much to the sociability and friendliness of Mac campus. Mary Jane Freeburg has piloted the council through its regular duties and the construction of the campus fireplace—a monument to the work of this year's council.

Men's Council

Throughout the year here at Mac there has been a group of men working quietly behind the scenes in an effort to help the men of the college play their roles in college life. Besides this full-time job, the council, with Duane Ramsey as president, entertained the new college men at a dinner this fall.

Standing: Watkins, Duszewski, Keim, Burkholder.

Marie Miller, Quad Editor

Quad Staff

Behind this year's Quad are hours of work and many headaches for a lot of people. Marie Miller, the editor-in-chief, undoubtedly had more than her share of both. Bill Daggett did all the odd jobs which fall to the assistant editor. Marion Frantz and his assistant, Dean Cotton, wracked their brains over the business end of the Quad; while Byron Frantz, assisted by Frank Lutz, took care of the snapshots. Don Guthals worked as sports editor, and Colleen Doyle's artistic genius made her a good arts editor. Clayton Bell struggled with mounting, and Avis and Ardys Albright did the copy writing. Jeane Baldwin, Arlene Mohler, and Eula Witmore worked at any and every thing from mounting to typing. Hats off to our editor, who took the hodge-podge of copy, pictures, and ideas and turned out a Quadangle, and to our business manager who kept the books out of the red.

Spec. Staff

"The night has a thousand eyes." But it does not see much more than the Spec staff which has less than fifty. This year the staff of the Spec-tator has done a commendable amount of improvement on the official newspaper of McPherson College. New columns, better news coverage, and superior editorials have been the desirable goals which have been attained by the paper's staff.

John Firestone and Max McAuley, editors in chief.

The Spec has not only recorded the news, however. It has also helped to make it by being among the first organizations to sponsor all school entertainment. For praise worthy attainment, hats off to John Firestone and Max McAuley, who have shared the Editor-in-Chief honors, and a hearty, "Well done," to the entire staff.

Betty Redinger, campus editor; Miriam Keim, columnist; Barbara Carruth, columnist; Van Dunsho, feature editor; LeRoy Doty, managing editor; Buster West, sports editor; Leona Flory, society editor; Lorene Marshall, writer; Claudia Stamp, writer; Lorene Clark, writer; Lloyd Huns and Dan Ford, circulation managers; E. Recreational Council Shutter Bugs

The Recreational Council consists of those interested in the role of recreation in life. In the weekly meetings they share with one another their favorite forms and theories of recreation. The recreation work shop is the brain child of this busy group.

Brand new and flashing is the "Shutter Bugs" Club, which meets twice each month to discuss problems of taking, developing and printing pictures. To aid better photography on campus, the "Shutter Bugs" has sponsored all school entertainments and set up a dark room.

C. B. Y. F.

Carrying on the work of Brethren Youth here in college as a group is the organized college CBYF. Like the youth of any church, they gather together each Sunday evening to worship in the local church. Their work is an asset to the church and college alike.

The musically inclined men of Macampus have spent hours of work and fun together as they prepared for and participated in the various musical programs of the college. Under the leadership of Professor Frederick, they have done some commendable work this past year.

A Cappella

The highlight of the musical year of McPherson College is the annual concert by the A Cappella Choir. Every year hundreds of students and friends of the college look forward to hearing the superb music of the chosen voices which compose the A Cappella Choir.

The repertoire of this distinguished choir includes all types and styles of compositions from well-loved hymns to spirituals and folk songs. Under the baton of Professor Frederick, many hours of practice and study combine with well written words and music to merit the reputation which the A Cappella has both on campus and wherever it is heard.

The traditional spring tour of this choir carries the beauty of music and the good will of the college into churches and schools throughout the Western Region. The strains of Franz's Dedication, the sight of the familiar tuxedo robes, and the unique blend of thirty-six voices under one baton distinguishes the A Cappella Choir.

Orchestra

The orchestra is the one organization on the campus that is a definite cooperative movement between the college and the city. The personnel of this distinguished group of "music makers" comes from both the college and interested persons of the city. Even though the orchestra is a comparatively new organization, it has already taken its place high among the favorite entertainment features offered by McPherson College.

Late last fall the orchestra presented an enthusiastically received concert. The crowd from the entire community reflected the interest of the townspeople in this worthy enterprise.

This new era in the musical life of the college and community has come to be because of the combined efforts of the participants and the capable conductor, who, to a large measure, has been responsible for its success—Professor Eugene Crabb.

Great and becoming greater—The McPherson College-Civic Orchestra.

Pi Kappa Delta

Membership limited to those debaters who have participated in three or more judged debates restricts the personnel of Pi Kappa Delta to those people who have a genuine interest in forensic work. Waging their battles of words and ideas from McPherson to Peoria, the members of this honorary fraternity have proved their abilities in the fields of debate and public speaking and have made their college proud of them.

Sound reasoning, glib tongues, and much practice have combined to create effective and persuasive debaters in this group of speakers.

The leadership of Miss Esther Sherfy (now Mrs. Marion Porter) and Professor Raymond Flory, who have served as debate coaches this year, plus the interest and guidance of Professor Maurice Hess have given the incentive and guidance which are necessary for excellence and achievement in the forensic field.

McPherson College Players

McPherson College Players is an active and contributive organization on the campus. Membership is open to all those who share an interest in dramatic acting and in dramatic production. The efforts and interests of the members combine with a unique enthusiasm which has made their work a real success and assist in the program of the college. Their meetings during the past year have combined entertainment and real stimulation for the responsibilities of dramatic entertainers to make a well-rounded and enthusiastic program of fun and work.

This year's productions have been available to all students by admission of student activity tickets.

With a zest, interest and cooperation not to be found in many organizations, the players club has completed a busy and successful year of work and fun, entertaining the students and people of this community.

The official dramatics club of the college—the McPherson College Players—has delighted capacity audiences in the Little Theater this past year with a number of outstanding performances. The fall production of "Hasty Heart" won the hearts of all who saw it. Its tender story of pathos and love brought tears and sighs—and laughs as it was unfolded by the talent of the club members.

An evening of entertainment in three one-act plays was presented in November. The three plays included comedy in "The Little Prison" and "Jass and Minuet" and stark tragedy in "Jacob Comes Home".

The fall production was directed by Miss Esther Sherfy (now Mrs. Marion Porter.) The three one-act plays had student directors. The spring production of "Blithe Spirit" was directed by Mrs. Noyes, who took Miss Sherfy's place on the faculty.

W. A. A.

The underlying purpose of the Women's Athletic Association is to develop a fellowship of cooperative sportsmanship among the women on the campus. Every girl who participates in any of the many activities of the association hopes, one day, to be wearing the chenille letter or the gold pin that distinguishes veteran members of the W.A.A.

The total year's program of the W.A.A. includes three seasons each with four active sports clubs. Softball, outing, swimming, skating, tennis, and individual sports are some of the several separate clubs included in the entire program. The association is open to all interested women on the campus.

The climax of the year is the spring formal. This gala occasion is always the high point in a busy program that includes selling concessions during the football season and an inter collegiate play day, which the women plan every spring. On this occasion, women from several of the neighboring colleges journey to McPherson for an entire day of wholesome recreation and sports.

Our hats go off to this fine organization which gives every woman an opportunity to participate in the sports which interest her. Through the median of cooperative sportsmanship, the Women's Athletic Association is promoting a high standard of fellowship of which we are justly proud.

This is the He-Man organization of McPherson College . . . made of the men, who in years past, present, and future, have worn and fought for the red and white . . . men who through hours of strenuous exercise, long practice and work have won recognition which they so well deserve . . . men who have been battered, scratched, and bruised to proclaim Bulldog victories and snub defeats. This year Verlyn Fisher is president of the club, Carrol Tillman playing vice president, and Bob Odle fills the secretary-treasurer position. The activities include the annual spring banquet attended by M-Club members and their guests, interesting initiations of new members, and sponsoring jointly annual parties with the W.A.A. In connection with Homecoming activities the M-Club sponsored an M-Club luncheon for all M-Clubbers who had returned for Homecoming.

Football

As one crosses the campus heading toward the gym, one's heart begins to quicken its beat as you hear the shouting, laughing, and the rattle and tinkle of the sixty boys who answered the first call for football practice. As you venture closer, you recognize Salty Tillman and Fisher, and a whole host of other boys which, since it is the first of school, you have not come to know.

The season opened with the Bulldogs scenting a trail toward Sterling. They found the prey a bit bitey and warily drug home overpowered by the Sterlingites. Our first home game, though the Paps had sharpened their teeth, they were overrun by a consistently larger and heavier Baker team. After a week of brushing up, the boys traveled to Emporia to meet the Presbiter. Here the Bulldogs fell to a vicious Emporia attack which thrashed the Bulldog defense.

The climax of Mac's Homecoming festivities was the gridiron classic between Kansas Wesleyan and Mac. In a real north breeze a very tricky Cozore offensive caught the Bulldogs off their guard. Elvin Wolfe covered a Wesleyan kick which landed behind their goal for a safety, the only Mac score of the game. It was a sad ending to a glorious Homecoming.

On a scarp hunting trip to Ottawa, the Bulldogs returned with these words in their bark, "Heap big Indian." At the Bethel Graymarns in Newton, we played the part of a charming fox at their homecoming. Hard fought for sixty minutes, the game proved to be the best man-quest of the season for the Paps. Long complete passes for the Bulldogs kept the crowd in stitches; several Mac touchdowns were called back; but finally the Bulldogs succeeded in crossing over into pay dirt. Don Barton was the touchdown-catcher several long passes for substantial gains.

Injuries were the greatest plague of the Bulldogs during the whole season. Injuries kept several starting players out of the season. Bulldog fans for several games. Freshman talent showed up good. Watch out next year, opponents!

The boys lettering in football were: Hutchinson, Fisher, Hoffa, Tillman, Arnold, Anderson, Pyle, Carpenter, Wolfe, Weyer, Scull, Smith, van, Heckerling, Webb, Colyn, Stevens, and Pritch-

First Row: Odle, Blickenstaff, Harders, Bruns, Pyle.

Basketball

Swish! another basket for the Bulldogs. The crowd goes wild! The cheer leaders bounce out on the floor to lead a yell, cheering for a Bulldog victory.

From the beginning of the season the Bulldogs were at an uncorrectable disadvantage, that of height. Consistently the Bulldogs were overshadowed by taller teams. Though in return, speed and accurate shooting kept the Bulldogs in the running. Team spirit was terrific, while student body backing was the best since pre-war days.

This year it would be difficult to say just who was the big gun on the team: they were all good. Each showed good teamwork and sportsmanship, taking the bitter with the sweet. Every team generally has one player who takes the scoring honors for his team, but this year it would be rather difficult to say which deserved the honor. According to the score book tallying, scoring was equally divided between the five regular players—Peters, Bruns, Fisher, Goering, and Odle.

Perhaps, the most exciting game of the season was the Swede game during the Regional Conference in which the Bulldogs took the Swedes to defeat to the tune of 48 to 44. With a four point lead the Bulldogs stalled for two minutes against an over-anxious Swede team. Exciting! I guess.

Basketball B Squad

These boys are looking forward to the time when they will be playing the varsity games for Mac College. This squad, all freshmen, have played the preliminary games before the varsity games. Some place little emphasis on this game but it is very important to the future success of McPherson's basketball team.

These boys have played hard, trying to better their techniques of the game. All in all, the season has not been very successful as far as victories are concerned. Several losses were by one point margins.

Intramurals

Intramurals play a very important role in the athletic program of McPherson College. Through them it has been made possible for students not participating in athletics to have a part in some sort of sports.

In the past year we have gone a step farther in our intramural program by including volleyball as an intramural sport. Eight teams made up of four girls and four boys each organized a league. Much enthusiasm and enjoyment was gotten from the games.

Of the intramurals sports, basketball was the main attraction. Ten teams were organized, each having a roster of eight players. The teams were as follows: Smokers, I. P. T., Ministers B, T, K, B., Ministers A, Liears's Lodge, Preying Eight, Bowrey Boys, Deforpeh, and Dunkard Tech.

The season started off with a bang. Interest and participation was excellent. Competition stiff. Excitement great.

After several games the competition grew stiffer; each team was full of fight and scratch. When the smoke all cleared there was a two way tie between the Bowrey Boys and Deforpeh. In a playoff game Deforpeh won the league.

Intramurals is your program. Each of you can make them what you want. You have done an excellent job and your cooperation has been splendid. Next year, let's take up where we left off with our intramural program.

Baseball

Last spring found 10 lettermen along with a number of other fellows signed up to play America's sport, baseball. After several weeks of practice on catching and batting the boys were set for the season which consisted of a schedule of nine games.

Since baseball is a non-conference sport, Mac competed with Sterling, Friends, Emporia, Bethel, Bethany, and Kansas Wesleyan.

The Bulldogs averaged .265 as a team, at the bat, with an average of eight runs per game. Ramsey proved to be a menace to opposing batters from his position on the mound and at the same time shook a heavy bat for a .417 batting average. Richardson had an eye for the fly balls in deep left field making some sensational catches.

The season wound up with Mac having a record of 7 victories and 2 defeats. Interest in baseball gained momentum as the season progressed and prospects for next year are brighter.
