When we are children, the world seems large. Whoever we meet overshadows our small frame.

We see a lost pup and pick it up and cuddle its shivering body with tender twig like arms . . .

Gently erasing the fear the pup holds. We soon let the pup down to scurry into its own giant world.

Gradually we age into a world that seems to become smaller with every new day.

We greet a friend only to see that friend wander off like the frightened pup.

Through our life . . .

we explore, we compete,

we smile,
we love,

we hurt,

and we reminisce.

A menagerie of thoughts ramble through our mind. Methodically we recall our joys and sorrows. Slowly but steadily we begin to re-experience our childhood. Unexpectedly our thoughts become jumbled and hazy as if time refuses to let us recall.

Then without reason or explanation we ask ourselves

IS THE MEANING GONE?

Girls chase guys, guys chase pig

Rolling into the 1973-74 school year McPherson College greeted her new and returning students.

Enrollment as usual was the initiation many freshman and transfer students had to struggle through. Long lines, expenses and purchase of books confiscated most of the students' time.

As the year progressed Sadie Hawkins Week arrived at the college, the time of year when every girl could chase down her favorite man. Hayrack rides, square dancing and a faculty contest highlighted the week. Then as the final adieu to the week the ever popular greased pig chase was conducted at half time of the college football game.

“Those Were the Day’s . . .

“Those Were the Day’s” at McPherson College as Homecoming made its sparkling appearance. Class reunions brought old friends together. For the first time trustees met, not only in spring, but at Homecoming. Most glamorous of all was the Homecoming Queen coronation. Anxiously the crowd and nervous candidates awaited the disclosure of the new Queen for 1973.

Sherry Anderson, junior, Lafayette, Colorado, was McPherson’s new queen. Susan Rusk, soph., Westcliffe, Colo., and Marlene Wine, fresh., Wauneta, Neb., were Sherry’s court.

Reigning over the homecoming game Sherry and the many who attended watched as the college team collected a 17-14 victory.

Fifties dance gains popularity

During the school year a number of dances contributed to the college schedule. The traditional Queen's Ball at Homecoming and the Christmas dance added entertainment to the fall semester. Not so traditional was the Fifties dance which brought back memories of those songs and dances. Students turned out in bobby socks and mid-calf-length skirts, tight, short pants and loafers.

Second semester began with the Sweetheart Ball, which was more informal than in previous years. A free concert was given in the S.U. and was sponsored by local merchants. During Youth Conference Blue Earth provided the music for a dance from which the proceeds went to the S.U. renovation fund.

Belaunde-Terry speaks at convo

New this year in convocations was a Latin American series second semester. Varied speakers discussed the situation of our southern neighbors. Also included in the series were films and even a one-act Latin American play.

The Right Honorable Fernando Belaunde-Terry, a former president of Peru, spoke about the economical status of South America. One of the possibilities for improvement was the extension of the great waterways in South America so one could travel and ship goods all the way across the continent via the rivers.

Senator Robert Dole also visited our campus. After his speech, he answered the many questions of students and faculty. Another outstanding speaker was Jim Davis who shocked his McPherson College audience with his views on black-white relations.

with 16 scripts.

The drama department kicked off the season with an "evening of one acts". "This Property is Condemned", "The Cop and the Anthem", and "The Love Life of Herbert Pakenstacker" provided comedy and drama for the audience. Tennessee Williams' play THE GLASS MENAGERIE became the first major production of the year. Directed by Una Yoder, the play was presented for Homecoming. THE TEMPEST, directed by Carol Kussart, brought Shakespearian humor into focus. In December, the annual children's play was performed. "Turn About Night at the Zoo", directed by Judy Kimmel, enlivened the spirits of many youngsters.

McPherson's second drama tour traveled through a five state region playing at churches and schools. The end of interims saw the performance of BLACK COMEDY, directed by Lois Pierson. Rick Tyler and Karlene Morphew brought dance and music to the stage by directing CARNIVAL. Involving one of the largest casts the college has seen, the play was billed a success and "one of the best productions ever". Capping the year was another evening of one acts. "Antic Spring", "Next", "Shut and Bar the Door", and "When the Horns Blow".

All night party now annual event

Dotzour Hall threw an all night party on March 2 to which all students and faculty were invited. Several events were scheduled throughout the night to keep the party-goers busy and active. First on the agenda was volleyball. Nets and balls were provided at the gymnasium for all takers-on. An outdoor snack consisting of hotdogs and other picnic foods followed at the cafeteria. Later the crowd tried its feet at roller skating and then its hands at bowling. Swimming at the YMCA was the last major event of the morning.

As in the past, Dotzour's party was a huge success. Many people came and went as the party progressed, either to do something they knew they enjoyed doing, or to try something they weren't so sure about. Even an early breakfast was provided for those who had enough spunk left to eat instead of sleep.

In a move to celebrate the beginning of spring and the end of the school year, a spring fling was planned again this year. Activities were scheduled for each night of the May 1-4 "holiday" and a huge water tank full of the cold, wet stuff decorated our campus. Scores of students moved about the campus searching for victims to throw into the tank.

The fling began with a roller skating party on Wednesday with refreshments following. Thursday evening the food service toted a picnic dinner down to the park and served any student or faculty member who wished to take advantage of the beautiful spring weather. Softball and other games and activities ensued. A hayrack ride out to a barn dance supplied Friday night's activity and included hot-dogs, marshmallows, and apple cider supplied by Slaters. On Saturday, the afternoon was filled with frizbee-throwing contests and other games. A free showing of MY FAIR LADY closed the celebration.

New school year sparked by $340,000 commitment

Projects to alleviate the financial woes of McPherson College progressed throughout the '73-'74 school year gaining momentum as well as funds. The ball began rolling last summer as an eleven man committee met to decide the fate of the college. As a sign of their faith in the worthiness of McPherson College the committee made pledges which sparked a commitment of $340,000 over a three year period from trustees and college associates.

The committee pledges and the word that the college had received five more years of accreditation started the school year off optimistically.

Continuing education and community service programs received much more attention this year in the office of the Dean of Academic Affairs. Various statewide conferences held on campus also kept McPherson in the public eye.

The possibility of the college offering a degree in Broadcasting was aroused with the installation of a cable TV channel in the Media Center of Miller Library.

There was a steady growth of ACK involvement and interchange according to Dean of Students Affairs, Milton Goering, who was chairman of the ACK Deans.

President Snell continued to make speaking appearances in Brethren Churches in the area and communicated his hopes to the college community at convocations. His opening convo on "Being Bound to be Free" was published in the Church of the Brethren magazine, THE MESSENGER.

"Wonder is the beginning of both knowledge and faith."

Home Ec majors cook up new room

Interdisciplinary approach was introduced by the Home Economics department to several of its classes. Prof. Biffel Glenn and Prof. John Cameron from the Economics department combined to teach a class on consumer economics. Four interior design majors entered into the industrial arts department for classes in drafting.

Nine Home Ec. majors from the Home Management class completely renovated a lecture hall and office in Harnley Hall. They ambitiously painted, antiqued and upholstered the furniture in the hall and office area.

New adjustments in the Physical Education department brought to McPherson College a new Director of Athletics and a coach of the year.

Art Ray returned to the college staff, after a one year absence, to take the position of the Director of Athletics. He also received national honors as Coach of the Year in the NAIA District 10. His honor was in track where he was head coach.

After serving 14 years as instructor and head basketball coach Prof. Widrig resigned his position to enter into private business.

McPherson hosts Education Fair

McPherson College's teacher certification program received its first state accreditation review during the spring semester. In April McPherson College hosted the first State Education Fair that hosted more than 500 teachers from Kansas and Nebraska. New concepts in education were displayed and talks given.

During Interterm Dr. Monroe Hughbanks placed several students in intercultural field positions. Ten ACCK students served in Indian Mission Schools in New Mexico.

Two part-time instructors added to the course offerings of the Education Department. Evelyn Nelson, director of special education for the ACCK, and Earl Zehr of Bethel, taught special education classes.

Students make sharp # hall

Beeghly Hall dispersed an increased amount of musical activity during the '73-'74 school year. The music building was improved with the addition of lockers for instruments and the efforts of music students who painted and carpeted one practice room.

Under the direction of Nelson Stump, who became a part-time member of the McPherson College faculty, the choir performed in seven major concerts and toured three states in April. Larry Kitzel headed various instrumental groups including a woodwind trio, trombone quintet, brass quintet and a brass choir that played in nearby churches and schools.

In March the drama and music departments combined to produce the first musical in many years at McPherson College.

Studios new to art

Changes made in Arnold Hall during the school year provided for the further enrichment of the 14 art majors. The opening of third floor for the first time to serve as studios was a major decision effecting the outcome of the department's efforts for quality education. Installation of a movie screen and dividing wall further modified the Art Department.

The instruction of Salvador Estrada, an artist-in-residence also made it possible for added instruction in the field of art education.

Ten Religion and Philosophy students broadened their knowledge of their inspired majors by enrolling in classes in the surrounding ACCK colleges.

Coordinating the convocation series, Dr. Dale Goldsmith emphasized the Latin American problems. Using keynote speakers including former president of Peru, Dr. Goldsmith presented the border neighbor's plight in life.

Students broadcast

English students found new outlets for their creativity when McPherson's first Cable TV channel was set up in the Media Center of Miller Library. Prof. Tucker's media classes produced periodic news broadcasts and students in creative writing prepared programs to be aired.

Prof. Green kept busy with the continuing education program enrolled local businessmen in the course "Improving Business English."

Speech and Drama flourished with 15 majors, more than any previous time.

Ag dept. gets boost

The biology and agriculture departments combined this year to form the department of Biological Sciences. The change in organizational structure was an attempt to provide enriching opportunities for study and preparation for a career in biology and related fields. It helped redirect the agricultural program headed by N. A. Dutrow, a new addition to the college faculty.

The Biological Sciences department cooperated with other science departments to continue developing the Environmental Science major which graduated its first two majors this year.

The department continued its pre-health arts program preparing students to enter medicine, dentistry, nursing, medical technology and veterinary medicine.

To permit students to meet the requirements for becoming a Certified Public Accountant, the Accounting Department cut down on the hours for some courses, allowing more to be offered. Now the program enables the student to be eligible to earn the CPA degree without doing graduate work.

Prof. Emma Hofer's students took advantage of the Cable-TV and produced regular programs dealing with the stock market. Prof. John Cameron's Marketing students created commercials for local businesses and conducted a live research project. Another highlight of the year included the forming of a Business Club.

History students to Washington

A trip to the nation's capitol and an innovative independent study project highlighted the activities of the History and Political Science department.

Taking a one week visit to Washington D.C. in early April students of the History department saw first hand the proceedings of the nation's government.

The Women's Christian Temperance Union of McPherson County was the topic of a paper submitted by Mike Nichols as his independent study project.

Many hours of research occupied the time of Dr. Raymond Flory, who was gathering material for a Historical Atlas of McPherson County. Funded by the National Endowment for the Humanities Dr. Lengel attended a seminar at the University of Illinois during the summer.

Labs aid students in social sciences

The Behavioral Science Department moved toward a program of "learning through doing" as several labs were set up on the fourth floor of Harnly Hall to aid students in special research. The Youth Center also offered students an opportunity to become actively involved in social work.

Students traveled to nearby towns to work in the penal system and social rehabilitation projects. The biggest department, Sociology, also had the biggest Interterm class as the "Seminar in the City" involved a trip to New Orleans.

The Psychology Department got a new professor, John Burden, from Western Kentucky University. The Department also participated in the ACCK Career Orientation Workshop at Bethel College. Information was gained in job availability.

Spring Concert-On-The-Lawn ends year for instrumental music department

Powerful lungs, nimble fingers and years of hard work characterized the students of the McPherson College Instrumental Department.

Starting the year by playing at all of the home football games the Pep Band showed the dedication and ability that generated from the music department. Following the end of the football season they then joined the regular stage band.

The highlight of the year was when the Music and Drama departments combined to present the first musical the college had seen in many years.

Capping off a fine year of performances the band, in front of their formidable fortress Beeghtly Hall, presented a Concert-On-The-Lawn.

Owens speaks for M-Club banquet

Steve Owens, a former Heisman Trophy winner and active professional football player, was the guest speaker for the M-Club's annual spring banquet.

Relating his past encounters to the athletes, parents and supporters of the Athletic Department, Mr. Owens, star running back for the Detroit Lions of the National Football League, honored the M-Club with his appearance at the annual dinner.

Senior lettermen were recognized at the banquet for their participation in college athletics by receiving a gold watch.

Antics aid squad

Pretty faces as well as original cheers and enthusiasm infiltrated the varsity and junior varsity cheerleading squads during football season. The ten women cheerleaders combined their efforts during the homecoming game which added to the excitement of the victory over Southwestern.

Cold weather and basketball season brought a male escort to the varsity cheering squad. Bill Callaway and Russ Hunt added many an amusing antic to the sometimes tension-filled basketball games. Varsity cheerleaders Kris Layton, Gayle Appel, Diane Tharrington, Denisse Lewallen, and Beth Wilhide kept the spirit building during the games with a variety of sideline chants.

Junior varsity cheerleaders Janell Schrock, Mary Grove, Linda Garland, Corina Dean, and Barb Swank were among the most constant supporters of the early B-team basketball games.

Sports

TGP Off and running are the 1973 Mac squad and the alumni in the annual cross country meet during Homecoming.

Inexperience and gutty performances haunt CC squad

A second place finish in the KCAC Conference was the highlight of the '73 Cross Country team.

The team, weak only in experience, relied on the leadership of Ben Work, jr. Even the support from DeWayne Jackson, fresh., and Jim Ochse, soph., could not supplement the necessary edge for a championship team.

Pacing the squad with surprising performances was DeWayne Jackson who, along with Work, Ochse, Mike Almstrom, soph., and Randy Porter, jr., posed numerous threats to their opponents.

CENTER Randy Porter is puffing his way to the finish line. BOTTOM 1973 CROSS COUNTRY TEAM DeWayne Jackson, Mike Almstrom, Ben Work, Jim Ochse and Randy Porter.

Stone to nationals

Talents varied in sports for the women of McPherson College. A program of tennis, basketball, volleyball, softball and track involved more than twenty women.

A squad of raw recruits dominated the women's basketball team as the squad could not repeat performances of past years.

Relying heavily on the sprinting of Corina Dean, jr., and the throwing of Carol Stone, jr., the squad won the Women's ACCK Track Meet. Carol Stone then represented the Maas squad in the Women's Nationals.

Soccer team wins their own tourney

Experience, quickness and stubbornness were the key characteristics of the 1973-74 Soccer Club.

Jerry Serrador paced the scoring of the squad by booting in 12 goals. This, along with the work of the remaining team members, helped the club collect a 6-1-1 seasonal mark. Their lone loss was to Big-8 Conference team Kansas State.

Hosting their first tournament the Mac club was rude as they walked away with the first place honors.

TOP: Jerry Serrador sets up to pass the ball to one of his teammates. BOTTOM: Al Sammis cratches to grab a shot from bouncing into the Mac goal.

Gridders spark . . . upset Friends

Assisted by Art Ray, Don Widrig and student assistant Mike Spicer first-year coach Don Rominger and the Battling Bulldogs provided many exciting moments for Mac fans. McPherson's 1973 team finished the season with a 2-6 conference and a 2-8 overall season mark.

Rominger brought Mac a wide-open offense which featured the passing of conference leading quarterback Elwood Scott. Elwood's favorite receiver was freshman Scott Robinson, a KCAC Honorable Mention at wide receiver. All-conference defensive end Glenn "Oap" Anderson led the Bulldogs' defensive charge.

Highlights of the season were the 17-14 Homecoming victory over Southwestern College and the major upset over conference contender Friends University. A questionable field goal against Bethel College robbed the Bulldogs of three straight victories and a chance to end the conference season on a winning note.

McPherson's squad ended the season with an overnight trip to San Antonio, Texas, to play a hard hitting game with Trinity University, an NCAA Division II team.

Breaks didn't come

Starting five seniors Don Widrig took his round-ballers into the 1973-74 basketball season with hopes of establishing a strong finish in the top of the conference.

However the dream was not to be fulfilled. Beginning the season in an impressive fashion the team soon faltered and lost seven out of their last eleven games to finish sixth in the conference with an 8-9 conference tally and a 9-11 over-all record.

Bright spots did occur Russell Clifton was voted unanimously to the all-conference team and took the conference scoring honors with an 18 plus point average. Larry Doll, the quiet floor general, was selected to the honorable mention team of the conference.

Kamla best — records fall

History seemed to have repeated itself for the 1974 McPherson College Track squad, as they finished second at the KCAC Conference meet, failing to gain first place by only two points. However, the Mac Squad did win the ACCK Track Meet, the third time in four years.

Roger Kamla added national recognition by consistently leading the NAIA in throwing the discus, his farthest throw being 188' 8". Roger, Ben Work, and Jim Oelise represented the Mac team at the NAIA nationals in June.

New track records were established, the oldest being in the discus event. Al Peffer contributed two school records in the 400 yard dash and 400 yard intermediate hurdles.

'Who's Who?' Seven Seniors Receive Honor

Miss Janelle Morgan was chairman of the Honors Committee that named Deberah Coopridger, Bev Geyer, Don Hoover, Iris Jackson, Brent Peterson, Pam Smith and Rich Tyler to the annual "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges." Full time faculty and administrators with tenure of at least two years judged the students on leadership, scholarship and character. Each college is permitted to nominate up to eight percent of their graduating seniors.

Zavala, Cecilia H. 64, 85, 120

... suddenly we find ourselves standing next to the president of the college receiving our diploma

... the pain, anguish, frustration, pranks and the many other elements of a college education
... just a nightmare that is gone the minute we wake up

... a hand shake and pat on the back we are guided into a world which we have never seen

... we meet new faces and friends we once knew soon occupy the depths of our memories

... on spiral of realization into our minds

... acquaintances and most of all a different role in the ever growing tape of life

... we contributed our energy to this massive form we recall the days we spent with old

... remember the happy and the sad times we experienced

... pulled and thought no one knew about until we realized that every one was

... the disillusionment that she was no Raquel

... frustration because they were the only ones responsible — they just didn't

... but because the food was not worth eating

... every minute we spent in college was spent learning not nec-

... because now the old bones just can't keep the pace they
... and soon realize that whatever it was we did was

The Meaning Is Not Gone
