Souvenirs

Webster's Seventh New Collegiate Dictionary has defined "souvenir" as something that serves as a reminder. To a college student, a souvenir would be that very favorite old-tee-shirt and faded blue jeans (tattered, no doubt!), the script from his first play, flowers from her first date. These and more serve to remind us of the times spent in college.

Times like when it was so frustrating that you felt like pulling out all your hair (and others' too!). There were also happy times when a special friend helped to make it a special occasion. The list of souvenirs can be endless as everybody makes up his own definition of souvenir.

Souvenirs are made for memories. Memories help us to get by in life as we learn from our mistakes and appreciate them. We get to understand more of ourselves and are able to improve ourselves as the time goes by.

Upper right, Aaron Gragg finds the snack bar a good place to grab a morning "pick-me-up." Above, lots of fans turned out to support the girls basketball team. Some were a little stranger than others though, as Mark Swick, Joe Fortney and Tim Gribben display. Right, Janice Elbert, Celeste LeWallen, and Dawn Gaeddert were among the many hula dancers who performed at men's night.

Above, the horrible things the winter ice storms did to trees weren't good, but it was a pretty sight when the sun shone. Left, Suzie Morales and Patty Helmer decide to chat in the streets.

Above, even though they had to sing, Mac Singers still got to have some ice cream with everyone else. Right, the very popular park became a winter wonderland after an ice storm.

Memories

Souvenirs are made from memories. There have been inspirational moments, for instance, when we saw the seniors on the stage during graduation. With the memories of our first day as freshmen, we are able to relate to the incoming freshmen and help them fit into the lifestyle here.

Photographs help to preserve these memories. They can capture those special moments that took place and remind us of those times every time we look at them. We hope this year's Quadrangle will bring memories and be a souvenir through time for you.

Life At McPherson College

Being a 'student' on the McPherson College campus is more than being just a student. As freshmen arrive they are involved with orientation, moving in, getting involved, and making lots of new friends. Sophomores arrive for a second time and begin moving in, greeting old friends, making new ones, start checking on club details, and catching up on all the news. Juniors greet old friends, make new ones, and head off to get their duties going for the year. Reminiscing begins ... Remember that raid on Also evaluation begins over what has been accomplished and what needs to be done.

Seniors move in quickly and then get with friends to talk over the past three years and plan for this year's treats. They also begin preparing their resumes, filling out job applications, and having interviews. Many times it is a long and tiring job and sometimes not very rewarding. But they strive on.

Student life — people doing more than being students, people involved with their surroundings, caring about their neighbor but most of all people caring about and planning their futures and going on with life.

Homecoming Souvenirs

This year's Homecoming theme was "Souvenirs Through Time." The week preceding had a variety of events taking place. Dotour planned items for everyday, which included the wearing of pj's to breakfast, Clash Day (wearing the worst combinations), Overall Day and the traditional wearing of Red and White.

Scheduled events began on Friday, Oct. 17, with dinner in the cafeteria; entertainment was the McPherson College Singers. "Stop the World — I Want To Get Off" was presented following the dinner and on Saturday evening. A Coffee House featuring both student and alumni performers was held that evening. Saturday's activities included the Homecoming Fair and Coronation of the Homecoming Queen.

The fair was fun because there was something for everyone. A dunking booth, a donut booth, a fruit booth — all of which helped a group raise money. Auto Restoration gave rides in restored cars and for a price Fanny would make your favorite person (or least favorite) a pie face, but you had to be careful or you would end up a pie face. The Music Department delivered singing telegrams and also performed.

Saturday's activities also included lunches for four classes and lots of reminiscing. Also on Saturday there was a cross country run beginning shortly before game time. The game was against Friends University. Ending the day's activities was a dance with music by Storm. On Sunday afternoon, the choir presented a concert.

Homecoming — the return of a group of people on a special occasion to a place formerly frequented.

Upper left, Saturday morning turned out to be quite chilly. Waiting for their entrance cue, the homecoming candidates huddled between Friendship Hall and Mohler trying to find some warmth. Upper right, for the cheerleaders, the work for homecoming began Sunday with the making of posters for the S.U. and game. Left, competition between the different club's booths was held at the fair. The cheerleaders took first place with their booth of memories, buttons, and the traditional mums. Above, Homecoming is a time for old friends, students and family to return. Former student Denise Wolfe Weaver was one of the many.

Right, for the second year in a row, the sophomore class had a dunking booth at the homecoming fair. As John Colvin touches the icy water, he's probably wishing he wouldn't have volunteered to help. Lower left, during homecoming week, every day was special. Tuesday was backwards day as some girls on Dotzour old 2nd show. Center, Dr. Rothrock is assisted in a clean-up effected by Scott Carpenter after being hit with a pie. Upper right, Dr. Ikenberry joins Rick Tyler in presenting the homecoming candidates. Lower right, the J.V. cheerleaders were rudely awakened Friday morning during homecoming week by the varsity squad. The girls didn't appreciate going to the donut shop in their night clothes, but did like the free donuts.

Becoming a child again can be fun, but having to go through the pains of growing up again may not be what it is cracked up to be. For Geranium, six actors portrayed the pains, joys, and even the bewilderment of children. Ida Yarborough directed the play as a student project. Much work and last minute rehearsing went into the production, but after performances were done everyone agreed it had been an enjoyable time.

Children never do seem to take prayer seriously, especially at school.

Stop The World

Jennifer Willes makes an announcement as Pattie Lusk tries to avoid Jeff Frazier.

The action of the "play within a play" evolves around Littlechap, played by sophomore Jeff Frazier, a typically English young man aspiring to become a typically English Lord with all the rights and the prestige thereof.

His climb to success is facilitated by his position as an executive, membership in the elitist Snobbs Club and the bestowment of a title. Blinded by success, he destroys his relationship with his wife, played by junior Pattie Lusk, while seeing other women he meets on business trips.

The realization of the emptiness of his life encroaches upon him only after Evie is dead and he has missed the opportunity to communicate to her how much he truly loves and needs her. The show ends on a positive note as Littlechap begins anew his struggle for fulfillment.

Tempers and emotions flare during one scene from "Stop the World; I Want To Get Off."

Christmas Carol

The classic tale of "A Christmas Carol" was presented in December with a cast of 44 people. Puffs of smoke and flashes of light engulfed the audience into the worlds of Past, Present, and Future. Directed by Rick Tyler, the play was his first production of the year. With all the hard work and effort put into it, one can surely heed, "God bless ye everyone!"

At discovering he is not yet dead, Scrooge, Jeff Frazier, jumps for everlasting joy.

A family meeting becomes a touchy situation for Gene Garrison, Bruce Spitzer.

"I Never Sang For My Father" tells of Gene Garrison who was always trying to please his father, to win his love and respect and yet his father was never really receptive to the fact. The traumas of old age conflicting with youthful ideas created a most intense drama. Directed as a student project by Pam Moore, sophomore, the play was filled with amazing lighting and set design, that enthralled the audience into the action of the play.

Rainmaker

"The Rainmaker" was the Senior Project in Theatre of Lisa Annette Irle and Jeff Gumm. They portrayed Lizzie, the farmer's daughter, and Starbuck, the stranger who promised rain.

The cast, directed by Karlene Morphew Tyler, also included Rick Tyler as H.C., Russell Carswell as Jim, Lindall Cox as the Sheriff, and Kevin Carman as File.

West Side Story

"Maria," "One Hand, One Heart," "Tonight"—these and other well-known songs came to campus with Alpha Psi Omega and the McPherson Theatre Guild's production of "West Side Story" on May 1 and 2.

The production involved many teams working together. Rick Tyler was the director, assisted by Lisa Annette Irle. The choreographer was Rosemarie Mistretta; vocal director, Stephanie Graber; and orchestra director, Larry Kitzel.

Jeff Gumm portrayed the lead role of Tony, and McPherson High School student Sherry Payne played opposite him as Maria.

The production was also given to the Rotary Convention one week before its public debut.

Commencement

The 93rd commencement ceremony of McPherson College was held Sunday, May 24, at 2:30 p.m. in Brown Auditorium. Eighty-nine seniors heard Dr. Raymond Flory, retiring professor of history, give the commencement address, "Where From Here?"

Diane Miller, senior class president, gave the senior statement, and the McPherson College Choir sang "Cantate Domino" and "Beautiful Savior."

Following the ceremony, the traditional reception honoring the graduates was held in the Quadrangle area.

Football

The Battling Bulldogs of 1981 fielded a 70-member squad and finished the season with a 2-6 record. The team was coached by Lee Dobyns, with coaches Cripe, Latimer, and Wright assisting. Co-captains were Keith Hunter, the lone senior, and Carlton Williams. Many players are expected to return, although Coach Dobyns resigned in May.

Whether on offense or defense, in a game or practice session, the Dogs strove for intensity.

Volleyball

Mac Soccer Club

The McPherson College soccer club has shown spiritful and physical cooperation and a lot of improvement in the 1980-81 year.

The officers were Charles Ogwang (jr., Uganda), captain; Stuart Knoll (soph., Norton), co-captain; Diana Shenefelt (fr., Council Bluffs, Iowa), manager; and Susan Reiswig (sr., McPherson), assistant manager.

Student Council played its part in recognizing the soccer club and finding funds for the team, and more support from Stuco is expected next year.

In the fall season, the team scored 49 goals with 19 against them. In the spring, they scored 34 against 30. In the fall, the club was second in their division, but they were moved to a tougher division during the spring season.

More participants are expected in years to come, as the club will be recruiting both men and women.

Women Tie For Conference Title

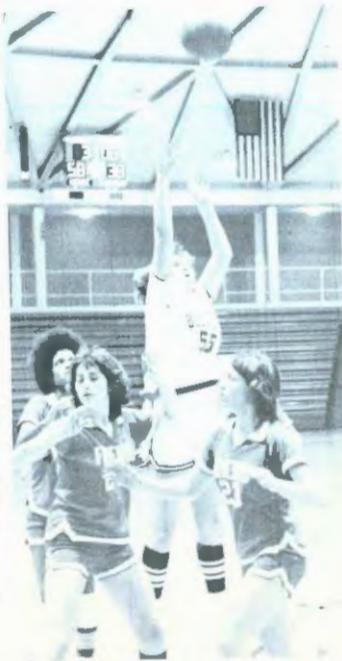

The women Bulldogs turned things around in 1980-81, finishing with a 19-9 record after going 3-22 the year before. The team tied St. Mary's for co-championship of the KCAC, and represented the league in the regional tournament. With no seniors, the team and Dr. Paul Graber, who was named Coach of the Year, are looking to next year.

Emporia State defenders try in vain to stop Valecia Kelly, who puts it up for two in the regional tournament.

ORGANIZATIONS

Music

Greg Kausling, Sandra Stump, Galen Reeves and David Franklin enjoy being part of a human conveyor belt.

Choir

Selling grapefruit and oranges was the major fund raiser for the music department to support the Concert Choir tour in the spring.

Members sold over 500 boxes of fruit, then took care of unloading and delivery when it arrived.

The 75 member choir rehearsed during the spring term in preparation for their 10 day tour on which they sang for 12 churches and six schools in Oklahoma, Missouri, and Kansas, then a final concert here at McPherson.

Choir members question the music. Is this where we are? How does this go? Am I on the right pitch? Am I on the right page? Do I have to sing this?

Fall Concert Choir

Pictured in the bottom photo, the Fall Concert Choir was the larger of the two. They gave the traditional Fall and Christmas concerts and also performed with the McPherson Community Symphony Orchestra. In November they also had the opportunity to work with Vincent Persichetti, a prominent contemporary American composer.

Spring Concert Choir

McPherson College Singers

The McPherson College Singers are a select vocal ensemble who perform for various campus activities as well as across the community and state. This versatile group is an important facet of McPherson College's music department, and spreads an abundance of music and goodwill through their concerts.

Christmas time finds the choir spreading Christmas cheer.

Choir Tour

"Unique . . . very unusual . . . being the only one of its kind" was the definition Aaron Gragg gave to this year's choir tour. Choir members survived the spring tour despite the many hours of travel and the flu bug which was passed around. But all choir members thought it was worthwhile when they did perform.

Band

During the fall semester, the McPherson College Band was loud and amusing at sports activities and forceful and soothing for their scheduled concerts. This November they had the opportunity of rehearsing and presenting a concert with the composer/conductor Vincent Persichetti, who is a prominent contemporary American composer. He directed the band on his two selections, "Psalm for Band, Opus 53" and "Serenade for Band, Opus 85." The band also presented a Christmas concert.

Pep band was organized to support the football and basketball teams. For football the band marched one game with their "hose-horns," thoroughly enjoying the reactions from the crowd. Basketball season had its louds and quiets, as it was uncertain just when the hand could play and what the band could do, without breaking rules. One of the perils of basketball season is watching out for balls and players, when playing or preparing to play, so one doesn't end up with a basketball face.

Jazz Ensemble

Jazz Ensemble only performed two concerts last spring (the only term Jazz Ensemble is held) because most of the members were involved in some aspect of the spring musical. The Ensemble's two performances were for Convo and the Stuco-sponsored Jazz Ice Cream Social held in May. Music from different jazz periods, numbers ranging from "The Dancing Puppet" to "TSOP" were performed. This ensemble is directed by Professor Larry Kitzel and is another asset to the McPherson College Music Department.

Above, Carol Swank wonders if she's going to knock her hat off and if she's on the right beat. Below, Jazz Ensemble members rehearse for the upcoming performances. Here everyone looks thrilled with their music.

Thank You!

The 1981 Quadrangle was completed with the help of Karin Stiggins, business manager, and the following people who worked on layouts, copy and photography: Angie Henson, Cindy Dell, Mik Hoffman, Susan Reiswig, Deb Rettie, Della wan Sidek, Carol Coffman, Linda Schewpke, Janet Sheaffer, Trudy Christy and Sherral Russell.

There was a time for yesterday, a time of memories both sad and gay. There is a time for today. Life is for living — it's yours to enjoy. There will be a time for tomorrow — a time to follow your dreams and find all those things in your life that mean happiness to you. There's a time to remember. A time to say good-bye.
