

Juniors Lead In Activity Participation

Average Junior Has 3.9 Extra-Curricular Duties; MacCollege Is Busy Place

Things are being done on Macampus and the Juniors are doing them. At least that is what figures released by Dean of Men Dell are interpreted as showing. According to a student survey conducted by the personnel department of the college, juniors are more active than members of any other class.

The poll, showing participation in extra-curricular activities, reveal that the average junior engages in 3.95 activities. Seniors who discourage the end spur theory are coasting out. Last year they were the most active members of the campus community. This year they trail the Juniors with an average of 3.42 activities apiece.

Sophomores linger behind with an average of 2.45, and they are followed by third freshmen who have an average participation in only 1.82 activities apiece. The two lower classes have the largest group, which helps to explain the figure.

One lone Junior has no activity. Five seniors, nine sophomores, and eighteen freshmen are without any extra-curricular activities. Much of this can be explained that many of these students are kept busy with out-of-school work.

Fifteen seniors, fifteen Juniors, fifteen sophomores, and seven freshmen might be classified as over-loaded, for they participate in five or more different activities.

MacCollege provides a large variety of activities to fit a large range of interests. Everything from a Hiking Club to a World Service group may be found on the campus. There is a total of thirty-one distinctly different campus activities, not counting the sub-divisions such as SCM commissions. Rolls on these activities, not counting the sub-divisions such as SCM commissions. Rolls on these activities number 839.

In addition to these, MacCollege engage in twenty-two off-campus activities. Ninety-nine people engage in these foreign affairs.

McPherson college has an average of one activity to each ten students bettering the North Central Association's recommendation of approximately one activity to fifteen students.

Twenty campus activities meet once a week or more. Many of these are open only to a limited amount of students.

Only in a small college such as McPherson is this activity on the part of most of the students possible. Individual improvement is stressed and each student is enabled to expand his interests and grow.

Crawford, Fisher Give Recital in Winfield

To Play Also At State Music Teachers Convention In March

As their first out of town appearance of the year, Prof. Nevin W. Fisher, pianist, and Prof. Loren Crawford, violinist, will play a recital of sonatas before the Philharmonic club of Winfield on Saturday, January 21.

The program is one of a series sponsored by the Winfield Philharmonic club and will mark the first appearance of the local sonata team in the city of Winfield. Sonatas by Haydn, Brahms, and Grieg will be played and explanatory remarks will be made concerning the style and form of the music.

The program will be one of several programs played by the local musicians in other communities. They have been invited to play on the program of the State Music Teachers convention in March and plan other appearances. A program was played in El Dorado last spring.

Flaming's Protesges Win

Coached by Willard Flaming, class of '37, the Canton high school debate team defeated Bucklin in the finals of the annual College of Emporia debate tournament for Class C schools last week. Seventy-one debaters from 13 schools were represented.

Flaming was an outstanding debater while he attended school here and is now an instructor in the Canton high school.

Included among the numbers on the recital are two of his own compositions composed while a student at Southwestern college. The program includes a range of numbers from early classical compositions, of Bach to the more modern school of writing.

Besides serving on the music faculty of McPherson college Mr. Stutzman holds the position of organist at the Congregational church of this city. He is an accomplished artist and teacher and has gained considerable commendation as a performer of organ music.

Second Creation Practice

Director Nevin Fisher announces that the second practice of the vocalists Joseph Haydn's "Creation" will be held next Thursday night at 8:30 p. m. at the Baptist church.

Note the change in place. The rehearsals will be distributed over the different churches of the city.

Since M. C. students will not then be preparing lessons because of the inter-semester breathing spell, Fisher argues that all attend the rehearsal. At the last meeting Clarence Burkholder was re-elected president of the organization. Loren Crawford of McPherson college's music department is director of the orchestra.

Dr. Schwalm Warns Small Colleges

Says Students Are Not Conscious Of National Social Conditions

Dr. V. F. Schwalm, just back from a Board of Education conference, addressed chapel last Monday. "In the conference I heard democracy challenged," said Dr. Schwalm. "There seems to be a widespread questioning concerning the value of a democracy. But it was pointed out that colleges should stress the essentials and superior values of a democracy.

"At the conference there were two schools of thought. One held that colleges should be utilitarian, have short vocational courses designed only to aid the student to get a job. The other held that colleges should be cultural, should teach the fine art, literature, history, science, and philosophy.

"Another fact brought out at the conference was that the students at the small colleges seemed to be less socially conscious than the students at large universities. Students of small colleges seem to be asleep as to social issues of the day.

"Many speakers also pointed out that a faculty member should be a cultural force in his community," Dr. Schwalm concluded.

Noted Reader To Appear Wednesday

Dorothy Crawford Here In Second Of The McPherson Co-op Concert Series

Dorothy Crawford, in her own character sketches, will appear in McPherson the evening of Wednesday, January 25, as the second number of the McPherson Cooperative Concert Association series.

Miss Crawford, a native of Portland, Oregon, and later of San Francisco, is a one-woman theatre. She reads original sketches and is assisted by Morgan Keen at the piano. This is Miss Crawford's third country-wide tour. In March she will appear on Broadway. Later she will go to London for performances.

Her repertoire here will include a scene in a cafe in Paris, a sketch depicting three witnesses and a woman on trial for her life, a scene of the fishermen's war at San Francisco, and studio scenes.

Miss Crawford's program will be presented in the auditorium of the Community Building. The program will start at 8 o'clock. Doors will open at 7:30 o'clock.

Charles Turck paid his tuition at Washington University with four bags of silver dollars.

Dr. V. F. Schwalm, president of McPherson college, who just recently returned from an educational convention in Louisville, Ky., to warn students of their failure to become social conscious.

Dr. Bright Gives Sermon On Love

Vigorously Points Out That Love Is Necessary

Dr. J. Daniel Bright delivered the evening sermon for the Sunday Night Club in the College Church, after a very appropriate solo was sung by Miss Luella Wade.

The subject of the sermon was the "Excellency of Love" with the thirteenth chapter of I Corinthians providing the basis for development.

The illustration that Mrs. Einstein doesn't understand Einstein's theory although she does understand Einstein was used in regard to many who, not understanding the many mysteries of God, take the all-or-none attitude toward the Christian religion.

Love of God, it was pointed out, is undoubtedly superficial in man's life when contemporary conditions are allowed to exist in the social, economic, and other realms of human life, for "you can't put a man in a ditch and keep him there unless you stay there with him."

In conclusion, it was suggested that we follow the divine commission of our Lord and allow His love to permeate our lives.

Alumnus Railway Head

Earl Brown, McPherson college field secretary, announced recently that Kerby W. Elter, class of '30, is now one of the vice-presidents of the Santa Fe railway system. Mr. Elter has his offices in Chicago. He is one of the many graduates of McPherson's business department who have succeeded to find a responsible place in industry.

Swap Spec For Tests

Hobbed by their weekly new-organ next week, students will find little consolation in its substitute, examinations.

Because of the semester final tests, which begin next Monday and continue until Wednesday, and because of registration Thursday and Friday, the Spectator will not go to press next week.

But it will resume its weekly appearances next semester.

Public Suffers Malignant Suckeritis

Prof. Mohler Reveals Fallacy Of Advertising Claims

"Malignant Suckeritis" was the topic of Professor R. E. Mohler's talk in chapel last Friday morning. Mr. Mohler brought out how lavishly people devoured the advertisement found in magazines and newspapers, particularly those of tooth-pastes, shaving creams, cold creams, and so on.

To show how much people really believe and swallow advertisements he spoke about buying on the installment plan. He made a statement of much interest to people of this town. "Eighty-five per cent of the automobiles in this town are bought on the installment plan."

Then Professor Mohler found his way into the field of health. One of his concluding remarks was, "Eighty-six out of every one hundred of the 3,000 in the Veterans Hospital are there because of venereal disease."

A Cappella Choir Formal Concert Soon

Well-Known Group Will Appear In City Auditorium February 22

The well-known a cappella choir of McPherson college is making plans for its annual formal concert which will be held Wednesday evening, February 22, at the City Auditorium.

Although no definite arrangements have yet been completed, plans are in the making for an outstanding concert. New music will be used but the same general idea that has been used for several years will again be followed this season.

Prof. Nevin W. Fisher, head of the voice department of McPherson college, will again direct the a cappella choir. This choir was organized several years ago by Prof. Alvin C. Varan, then head of the voice department. Since then the choir and concert has continued to grow.

The choir is now made up of 31 voices. The voices are picked from the best singers among the students of the school.

Rehearsals are now being held twice weekly but following final first semester examinations next week the director hopes to hold three rehearsals weekly.

The choir is also making plans for another spring concert tour. This year the tour probably will be in the southeast part of Kansas and part of Oklahoma. More definite plans concerning the tour will be announced later.

"As Others See Us" Is Subject of Charm Chat

Friday noon another Charm Chat was presented by the Womens Council to a small group of girls. An open discussion on the topic "As Others See You" was directed by Elma Minnick and Ramona Pries.

The discussion opened by a short talk on charm, a desire of every girl. Charm begins with the feet and so the proper position of feet was discussed. Also discussed were posture, dress, color scheme, general appearance, facial expression, and actions in public, all of which help to cultivate charm if properly used. A girl desires to cultivate charm not only for her own group of friends but also for her acquaintances.

Other Charm Chats will be presented at the regular time each week.

BYPD Plans Panel Discussion, Forum

For next Sunday night the program committee of the BYPD has planned an exceptionally interesting program dealing with the adjustment of college young people to their home communities.

"This will be expressed in the form of a panel discussion followed by an open forum for the group as a whole.

Last Sunday evening the program of the BYPD was given by seventeen college girls who participated in a candle lighting service using as the theme of worship: "Ring out the old, ring in the new."

The program was divided into four parts, the first section dealing with the "Upward look to God". In this part the leader, Esther Sherry, stressed the thought of communion with God. "Give unto the Lord the glory due his name; worship the Lord in the beauty of holiness."

The second part dealing with the "Backward Look to the Past", had as its theme: "Let us kindle the light of appreciation for the heritage of the past as we stand tonight at a crossroads of time."

Part three was comprised of a "Near Look to the Present" in which the leader with the audience reading responsively, emphasized the value of confession and intercession. Part four, consisting of "A Far Look to the Future" consisted of the lighting of twelve candles for the twelve months. Each candle represented the ideal of one month, some of which were: the candle of hope, of beauty, of harvest, of peace, of christian homes, of grace and contentment and of gratitude.

Faculty Trio In Down-Town Appearance

Professors Loren Crawford, violinist, Ralph Stutzman, violoncellist, and Nevin Fisher, pianist, were presented in a recital of chamber music by the Baptist Young People at 5:00 p. m. on Sunday, January 15.

The program was as follows: Edward Grieg Sonata, Op. 45, in C minor

For Violin and Piano Allegro Molto ed appassionato Allegretto espressivo all Romanza Joseph Haydn Trio II, in F sharp minor

After the program the young people remained for a brief reception in honor of the artists.

Last Sunday's performance marked the debut of the McPherson College faculty trio in McPherson.

Within Appears In S. C. M. Meeting

E. C. Within Daptist pastor, was the guest speaker for the S. C. M. yesterday.

In his talk, Rev. Within compared religion to three moods of Emerson, the indicative, the subjunctive, and the imperative.

There is a great need for imperative religion in school life. Each student should willingly feel the urge to enter actively into religious life.

Rev. A. Within suggested that "He is not so much in things as we achieve, but in things that we attempt."

In closing, Rev. Within quoted a poem. It was a nightly prayer that on a grave might be found "More than was born and died, but in between, I lived."

A brass trio made up of Pascal Davis, a cornet teacher in McPherson, and Lawrence Blair and Vincent Allison, students in high school.

$4,000,000 expansion program has been announced by Cornell University authorities.

Treasurers Urge Payment Of Dues

The treasurers of the four classes urge immediate payment of class dues in order to avoid a repetition of the delay that occurred last year in the distribution of the Quadrangle.

Seniors should be glad to pay their treasurer, Gerald Deany, for this will be their last payment.

S. G. Hoover will not find it hard to collect freshman dues because they pay willingly in sheer relief that their dues are so much smaller than those of the upperclassmen.

In Arnold Hall—

There often be a law again it—research exams, term papers, ends of studying, 'n such by gas! Too busy staying to make news, and thus the reporter gets gray hairs.

Oh my! must we finger-press Mother Emmert, too? Better confession, "mom," cause we know you look that sink-stopper!

The Floritians were in surprised last Friday night that their eyes bulged for fifteen minutes and they had to be told to close their gaping mouths.

You who are not often remembered by the postman and do not get many letters, might ask Benny to share hers. They have become public property, it seems, for those who are less fortunate than she.

Skinned knees and bruises, elsewhere, are the results of those who have been resorting to childhood days. My advice to skaters is: skate on the roller skates, wear knee pads, and, for convalescers, carry a pillow.

Some roush here last week and what! Engaged and those willing to-be. Quite a display of sparklers! Eagan's said she was eager to see California—and Bro. A Hadver may live in California, too, but Willey is interested in the one from Missouri!

One is a common occurrence around here, but this time she came to do some typing for Gordon. (With someone would do mine.) And the Widow Shank wasn't a widow for a couple days.

I don't often cavendrop, but when a couple were passing overhead, a snatch of conversation just kinda floated to my ear. Kinzie: "Oh, Jim, not here!" (How's that, Sabree?)

I mentioned the pulpit last week. It must have been the power of suggestion, because they are becoming more useful every day. After meals they are especially crowded. Heck—no privacy there!

Onions! Yum-yum! But oh! the after effects! A slimy, dark green taste the next morning. We make a plea to the cooks—skip the onions. They are disagreeable to the eaters, and more so to those who don't eat them!

Come, come, proctor Morrison! Tell Mother Emmert so she can laugh (go. "Pit" yourself under the bed next time.

I have at last found the solution to my problem. "How to be the center of attraction." It's all in the knowing how. A gray colored housecoat and floppy bedroom slippers work very successfully. Try it some time.

Lights Out! The radio program seems to leave ill-effects, that's why all the blood-curdling yells on Wednesday nights. A group of girls wouldn't have been caught hiding in the shower last week if clumsy Wilkins hadn't fallen over that chair.

But it's not Lights Out for the "Putter-offers." The end of the semester is at hand, and the majority of us have become "Catcher-uppers."

From early morning till the wee hours the steady pounding of typewriters can be heard. Rooms are stacked with magazines, books and paper. Ho-hum! Let's turn out the lights and go to sleep!

A mural depicting the early use of anesthesia has been hung in the New York University college of dentistry.

Within These Walls—

You know, it's funny how people can fool you. Take for instance the case of John Miller. Everybody thought him a very modern person until the other evening. He suddenly became very excited and shouted, "Boy, this is great, just like you read in the movies." And now everyone hates to break the news to him that these "new-fangled" talking machines are used in picture shows now.

Even if this semester has accomplished nothing else, Lawrence Hawkins has acquired a girl friend, Lenora Kana! has established quite a hair-dressing establishment, and Jesse Mee-somer has mastered the intricacies of a three-point landing from Sharp steps.

Add to your list of students who are really working hard to amount to something the name of Santos Juarez.

While glancing over the backs of people's heads in chapel, have you ever noticed some of the hair-dos? You might call Hazel Boardine's "interesting"; Margery Anderson's "quaint"; Edna Mae Russell's—well, words fail me there; Miss Koerber's "just around"; and J. Henry Dasebrook's "the forward sweep!"

At the formal party last Friday night Lillian Pauls made a charming hostess.

Isn't it surprising how industrious everyone has grown in the library during this past week? However, social life didn't cease entirely. One night Jake Kramer escorted Margaret Wagner near after closing hours. Snafu said.

Who was the freshman girl who seemingly overlooked the Mohler family in her eagerness to get some dessert? Let's see Owen was with Mary Ellen Blood last Sunday. I was talking to someone a few days ago who thought the latter was Sara Jane O'Brien's brother.

Harold Larson expressed a wish a few days ago. And a simple wish it was. He hoped that Dr. Hershey would hurry his diamond-making process so that diamonds would be cheaper. Maybe she'd be satisfied with a five-and-ten-cent one if you explain it to her, Harold.

In Chemistry Dr. Hershey asked Freddy Kearsberry where Benjamin Franklin lived. To this question our bright Freddy answered "Tombigvania" and everything would have gone well had not Raymond Elog added in his most scholarly fashion "Why, I thought he lived in the East!" My, Thelma Rowland is proud of him!

How that Stump girl does rate! First it's Kenneth Thompson, then Dasebrook, and then Andrew Colburn. How many more she has, we don't know.

Calvin Allen is really strutting his stuff this week. He had his picture taken for the Quad. Believe it or not, it's rumored that the lad actually looks like Clark Gable. Wiggins' picture was very good, too, but no for the rest of us—GRR!

At last the students have the last laugh on the faculty. (Or is it last with grades coming out in a couple of weeks?) Anyhow, the photo-grapher had to be kept one day longer than was planned, because some of the faculty members had neglected to get their pictures taken!

Formal Party Held At Heaton Home

Another formal party was held held last Friday evening at the Dr. W. C. Heaton home when Lillian Pauls and La Rue Owen acted as hostess and had in guest guests who arrived at eight o'clock.

Card games were played at progressive tables.

Latter Dianna Jean Johnson read "As Others See Us," and Luella Wade played a collection of popular numbers using the theme "The Waltz You Saved For Me."

As the hostess poured coffee, quality refreshments were served to the following guests: Misses Ida Shockley, Evelyn Amos, Donna Jean Johnson, Mildred Miller, Arda Metz, Elizabeth Mohler, Gladys Shank, and Yvonne Flary, and Messrs. Glen Mincey, S. G. Hoover, Don Nowicki, Carroll Crause, Stephen Stover, Willbur Lawdahl, Henry Dasebrook, Harold Bowman, and Lyda Albright.

Murray Wins Gregg Typing Award

Lulu Murray, second year typist, received a gold pin from the Gregg Publishing Co., of Chicago, Illinois, for having satisfactorily qualified as an honor typist by writing 53 words a minute for ten minutes.

Miss Murray typed new material furnished by the company through the instructor, Mrs. Alpe Martin, and made only three errors on the entire composition. A grading of at least fifty words a minute for ten minutes with no more than five errors on new material must be attained by a student before he is eligible for the gold pin.

Other typing students will take the test in the near future, and some of those who enter the typing II class later, who enter the Typing II class are working on this project.

This is the first year that the McPherson college typing department has cooperated in this manner with the award system of the Gregg Company.

Bulldogs Lose Close Battle To Ravens 39-38

Field Goal Snatches Apparent Win From Fighting Managers

A final split-second field goal decided the McPherson Bulldogs of what seemed to be a well-earned victory as the St. Benedict's Ravens barely missed out the fighting Canine cagers 39-38 in an inter-conference struggle last night.

After maintaining a suitable lead for most of the second period, the charges of Coach "Buck" Attie became the victims of circumstances provided by Novias, sharpshooting forward for the visitors. McPherson was trailing only 18-14 at the half time.

Both squads alternated in scoring throughout the first half and McPherson controlled nineteen minutes of the final period in a hard-fought battle, in which Cramer, Holmes, Voshell, and McGill were outstanding. "Tommygo" Torrey, paced by Harold Bedford, former Bulldog star, the Barker team lashed the Bulldog reserves 48-36 in the opening contest. The visitors held a 31-16 lead at the intermission. This was the first defeat for the "B" squad members in regular season games.

Cagers Soon Seek Revenge From Bethany

Canines-Swedes Renew Rivalry Tomorrow On Convention Hall Court

Attempts to break from the leash by which the Bethany Swedes have held them since last year, the McPherson college Bulldogs tomorrow night at 9-30 o'clock will clash on the Convention Hall court in an important clash. The respective reserve teams will meet in the preliminary at 8 o'clock.

One year ago the rivals of the north began a jinx which has controlled the Canines in one basketball game, one football game, and two tournament struggles this season. McPherson players believe the jinx is ripe for an upset of the highly-touted Swedes.

Reports drifting down from the Scandinavian have indicated that Ireland and his team have won each night of a conference championship. That far in the season, the Hawks have defeated College of Emporia, Kansas Wesleyan and Sterling while losing to Phillips 46, Hastings, and Friends in contrast to the "swing system", they chant "Swing and sway the Bethany way."

Outstanding players among the visitors are Harry Peterson, Donald Olson, and Alden Tillberg forwards; Luigi John Grleros and Bethamot Boove, centers; Ernest Monroe Ireland, Cotton Norberg, and Lawrence Carlson, guards.

Time Out For Scoops—

Dr. Flory, a sports enthusiast, is using his own style of the famous "bulldog" "swing system"—in his dreams! He takes delight in recalling a dream of swinging a beautiful girl beneath a fruit tree full of pink blossoms. Instead of pushing her from behind, Dr. Flory stands in front of her, pushes her far back, then grabs her in his arms, and kisses the maiden.

It appears an accident, but it was planned so far as dreams are concerned. In swing, a college professor's fancy turns too!

Not to be outdone by Dr. Flory, Freddy Wendell, sports editor of the Hutchinson News, says he is familiar with the squeeze and seat portion of the quizzical-sport-defender-editor's one: He's married, though.

Bill Henrich, who will appear on the local court many times this season as an official, will be the referee tomorrow night for the Bethany game. . . . Passing thought: How did Latham McCloud, former Newton High star, escape the close attention of college coaches? He is a member of the Breaker Motors club. . . . In answer to several queries, Harold Young, promising Mat High player last year, is attending Wichita!

Mark Porter, former cinder shuster, is still seeking a girls' basketball contest on a Saturday night. . . . Steve Owen, Bulldog athlete, advanced to the finals of the Class B section in the recent Golden Gloves boxing tournament at Hutchinson. He won the last bout with a knockout. . . . Pat Maloney met a stiff contender in the second round and was eliminated from further competition. Although laurels are inactive at the present, it is hoped that a basketball schedule soon will be arranged. . . . Wayne Albright and R.H. Hubbard should arrange a table tennis match to decide the t. t. champ of the campus.

Martin Seidel, assistant grid coach, is completing his college career this semester and is now seeking a job. . . . Matt has been a friend to all who know him and has been a loyal booster for McPherson college. . . . As a friend, we wish him good luck in his future endeavors.

Contrary to a few rumors, Coach "Buck" Attie did not make a trip into Wyoming for immediate possibilities in the coaching field. . . . There exists a vacancy at Laramie, but the McPherson mentor says he is satisfied with his position here and enjoys the relationship as a coach. The successor to Dutch White will not be selected until later in the year. Alert for advancement in his profession, Attie naturally accepted the invitation of the Wyoming athletic board to appear for consideration.

In the meantime, the Bulldogs hope to prove to the Swedes that McPherson is still in the conference. . . . After a victory over Florida, the Hawks have taken it easy this week and are not worried about what may occur tomorrow night. . . . They hold two triumphs over the Canine basketball and believe they are masters of the "swing system."

Peterson, Olson, Peterson, Ireland, Norberg, Boove, and Co. may soon jolly discover that McPherson's swing-seat men are no pushovers.

Changes are frequently made in the personnel of the two cage squads. . . . In fact, several players alternate as members of the varsity and reserve groups. . . . However, a boy shifted to the "B" squad may gain more actual playing experience than as a varsity substitute. . . . A poor performance one night does not eliminate the career from gaining the more "honorable" berths through competition. . . . Both teams represent the college and deserve the support of students.

Joe hockey is claiming the attention of several fans from the college this season as the fast game resembles entertainment on winter nights in the Alaskan Palace at Wichita. . . . Add ping-pong team: Wesley DeCary and Wayne Albright, finalists in the boys' tournament, are both first timers in the capella choir, which may indicate something.

Tonight at Emporia the Coyotes will continue conference competition against the College of Emporia, Friday. . . . Tomorrow night at Hays, St. Benedict's Ravens will meet Port Hays State's Tigers. . . . Four loop contests are on next week's racket as Bethany meets Bethel at Lindsay, Monday; Bethel at Emporia, Tuesday; C. of E. attempts to upset Ottawa in the latter city, Friday; and Kansas Wesleyan celebrates Bethel, one week from Monday.

novel stunt attracted the attention of the crowd and everyone laughed at the peculiar sight.

The starters, Cramer, Holmes, Wannemaker, McGill, and Voshell, were accustomed to the head gear as Canine gridsters last fall. Wesleyan's all-over-court, all-over-man defense upheld the expectations in an alternately hot and cold game.

W. A. A. Notes—

Who said that Macco-eds aren't energetic? Fourteen ladies braved the chilly, northern, rain-drenched gales last Friday morning for a brief hike. True it was rather brief but if the fact is known that it was early enough in the morning to see Prof. Hess departing for Sharp Hall, then surely this is enough reason for its brevity.

Verda and Marjorie stayed at home to create that delicious aroma of bacon on eggs which greeted the bikers upon their return. Eating in the "Hashation" (in Kline) was a rarity for some. Yum. That innately juicy was surely good! Better luck on the weather next time, girls, and let's see more bikers out from Arnold besides those Olwin sisters.

Thespian Club Selects "Berkeley Square"

"Berkeley Square" by John L. Rederstrom has been selected as the Thespian club play for the year 1938. The play will be produced early in March.

Tryouts for the play will be next Thursday afternoon between 2 and 4 o'clock. Each contestant will have the privilege of trying out for two parts. The judges of the tryouts will be: Miss Ida Brockley, head of the psychology department; Miss Della Lehman, head of the dramatics department and sponsor of the organization; and Dr. Claude Flory, head of the English department.

Bulldogs Travel To Emporia State, Bethel

Match Powerful Opponents Next Wednesday, Thursday

Following the semester exams next week, the McPherson College Bulldogs will travel to Emporia Wednesday night to meet the strong Emporia State Hornets in an inter-conference battle. Only the first string will compete.

Playing the real brand of basketball this year, Coach Heine Kamin's quietist has become a major threat to Southwestern's leadership in the Central conference. Thus far in the season, they have defeated Washburn, Kansas State, Fort Hays State, and St. Benedict's, the latter by a tremendous margin.

It is expected the Hornets will be one of the strongest aggressions yet to face the Bulldogs. Last year the Emporia State split a pair of contests with McPherson and the Canine basketballers hope to upset the highly-touted Central Conference giant.

Eight lettermen are included on the squad this year, but the major performers are diminutive Jack Emrich, southpaw sharpshooter; Junior Forney, flash forward from Newton; and Jack Goss, lowering center with an eye for the basket.

In another important away-from-home tilt, the Bulldogs journey to Newton next Thursday night for a return engagement with the potent Bethel Graysmores in Lindsay Hall. The reserves will meet the Bethel "B" team in the preliminary.

Early in the season the Graymores conquered McPherson 41-28 and revenge will be in the hearts of the Bulldogs as they invade the Monmouth domain. Conference honors again will be at stake with Roy Hoff, Bethel ace, bring a thorn in the defensive flesh of the Canines. . . . This distinctive high scorer piled up 17 points against the prowess of Coach "Buck" Attie and will be guarded closely all evening. Perhaps the games two nights previous against College of Emporia and Bethany will set down Hoff.

On Thursday, February 2, one day before the next issue of the Spectator is published, the "swing-seat" boys will entertain the Baker Wildcats in another conference conflict. Last year the "swing system" held a jinx over Coach E. B. Linton's Graysmores in two victories and the Bulldogs hope to repeat the performance next month.

Jitterbugs Versus Swing

Emporia State has definitely gone "jitterbug"—from the ballroom to the basketball court.

A few weeks ago, a student questionnaire sponsored by the Emporia State yearbook asked the question, "Are you a jitterbug?" The answer was an overpowering "yes".

When the Emporia State basketball team played in the Oklahoma City tournament, sports writers there, after observing the style of basketball as taught by Hornet-instructor Paul Kainick, called the Emporia State team the "jitterbugs."

"Our staff gives the other team the 'jitters,'" was the comment of the Hornet basketballers, who have won six out of their seven games this season and expect to subdue the "swing system."

LESTER HUBER

"IKE" EMRICH

Izac Emrich (left) and Lester Huber (right) are small senior members of the Emporia State basketball team, which will entertain the McPherson Bulldogs next Wednesday evening in an inter-conference battle.

Emrich is noted throughout the state as a southpaw sharpshooter and caused the Canine basketballers plenty of trouble last year. He has hit his stride in scoring and must be watched next week.

McPherson is the only Kansas conference team to oppose the Hornets this season.

Coyotes Overpower Canines; Reserves Win Prelim

Kansas Wesleyan's "fire department" brand of basketball overwhelmed the McPherson "swing system" 54-37 in a shiny exhibition at Salina Wednesday night. With the defeat, McPherson retains unaltered possession of the conference cellar.

Gene Johnson's Coyotes held a 26-15 lead at the half. For the first ten minutes of play, the Bulldogs kept an even terms with the winners, but Kansas Wesleyan built up a tremendous lead which was never relinquished.

Shaw, Coyote forward, was high scorer with 21 points, followed by Jones and Deiker with 11 apiece. "Duke" Holmes carried the Canine scoring burden with nine points.

In the preliminary contest, the Bulldog reserves continued their winning methods by downing the Kansas Wesleyan "B" team 37-25 in a clinic, fought battle. The winners held a 25-17 advantage at the intermission.

Marrin Fox and Bernard Nordling, each with 10 point, led the scoring for McPherson while Everhart accumulated 10 tallies for the Coyote reserves. Vetter, Hartzoff, Funk, Burkholder, Naylor, Nienchinger, Leonard, Owen, Brust, and Weible participated in the affair.

If you read the Spectator, you should patronize its advertisers. They are boosters of McPherson College and the students need to boost McPherson.

Reserves At Salina Tonight

Tonight at Salina the Bulldog reserves will meet the Brown-Macfie Business College cagers in a return engagement. The opponents, who are coached by Amos Morris, former Wesleyan athlete, dropped a close 31-30 decision here in a recent opening game.

Regular "B" squad members and others who did not see action last night against St. Benedict's will be used by Clayton Stock, the coach.
