Extempore speeches by the various college representatives were on the general subject of the labor situation in the United States. Nathan Jones;

Literary Criticism By Naumann Published

Dr. Walter A. Naumann, professor of modern languages at McPherson College, has written an article in German to be published in the near future in the "Modern Language Journal."

The article is a criticism of French literature of the 19th century. Dr. Naumann criticizes the works of Leon-Paul Fargne, a contemporary French poet of the 19th century. Fargne's works are typical of that period; he is especially noted for his "prose poem" type of literature.

The "Modern Language Journal," in which the article is to appear, may be found in the college library.

Dr. Naumann has written a great deal of literary criticism.

To Discuss Views On "A Lasting Peace"

Four faculty members, Dr. Francis F. Wayland, Dr. Oscar A. Olson, Dr. Desmond W. Bittinger, and Prof. Maurice A. Hess have consented to air their views concerning the basis of lasting world peace before the International Relations Club today. This is a question that stands paramount in the minds of those who are looking beyond the present crisis.

At the last meeting Wayne Crist gave a review of the Pan American Conference held at Rio de Janeiro during the month of January. The discussion revealed that the Western Hemisphere is gradually tending towards more complete solidarity, but so far nothing definite has been accomplished.

Lehman Interprets Play

Miss Della Lehman, speech director of Macollege, presented her interpretation of Edmond Rostrand's romantic play, "Cyrano de Bergerac," in chapel last Friday morning.

This romantic play, which took place in the 18th century, was frequented by humor, instigated by Cyrano's experiences with his extremely long nose.

Correction: Student Enrollment Drop Only Seven Percent

Student enrollment, contrary to the statement in the Spectator on January 30, has no large drop. Figures given at that time were incomplete, and final enrollments have a total of 337 students this semester as compared to 337 of last semester. These figures are not comparable, however, in that twenty-six of these are extension students. This brings the figures to 337 students of last semester, as compared to 311 students for this semester, a drop of slightly over seven percent.

Advises Yearly Physical Exam., Lists Symptoms

In the first of a series of Monday chapel periods devoted to health programs, Dr. Trueheart, a cancer specialist of Sterling, Kansas, presented information about cancer by means of a short talk and a moving picture.

The Kansas mortality rate caused by cancer had been gradually climbing until just two years ago. Since that time there has been a decline in deaths until at present most people with cancer can be cured if the disease is caught in its early stages, according to Dr. Trueheart. It may be cured by surgery or radiation.

The movie, "Choose to Live," embodied the idea that one need not fear cancer if he takes regular physical examinations and visits his doctor as soon as he notices anything which might possibly be a symptom of the disease.

Trueheart listed six symptoms of cancer:

- (1) any sore that does not heal in a reasonable length of time,
- (2) any thick lump in any part of the body,
- (3) persistent indigestion, particularly aversion for meat,
- (4) any sudden change in the size of a wart or mole,
- (5) any unnatural discharge from any part of the body, and
- (6) continued hoarseness.

Valentine's Day Tomorrow Marks Age-Old Tradition of Sentiment

Valentine's—A sweetheart chosen on St. Valentine's Day! also, a letter or missive of a sentimental character sent, usually anonymously, on St. Valentine's Day.—Webster's New International Dictionary.

Valentine's Day has come to denote in American life a withdrawal from stern reality, a one day flight into sentimental fantasy. Schools and clubs all over the country enter into the spirit of the day with enthusiasm and fervor. Names are drawn and favors sent, adding to the general atmosphere of animated celebration.

Among older folk, Valentine's Day is observed less overtly than in younger circles, but certainly with no less enthusiasm. Valentine boxes of candy special Valentine's Day bouquets and corsages, little remembrances of various kinds, all are sent on Valentine's Day.

Valentine's Day has behind it centuries of tradition. During the feast of Lupercal, celebrated in honor of Juno, it was customary for Roman youths to draw tablets from an urn. On each tablet was inscribed the name of a maiden to whom he was supposed to devote himself for a year. This system was continued

Blough, Orr To Present Joint Vocal Recital

To Be Given Thursday Evening, February 19 In College Auditorium

Lucy Blough, Contralto, and Ronald Orr, Baritone, both students of Professor Fisher, will present a joint recital in the Chapel-auditorium next Thursday evening, February 19.

Miss Blough is a Sophomore whose home is at South Waterloo, Iowa. She had a year and a half of voice study before coming to McPherson College. She is serving her second year in both the A Capella Choir and the Women's Quartette. She has appeared frequently as a soloist at the College and has sung solos in most of the churches and clubs of the city. Featured on her part of the program will be the standard contralto song, "The Cry of Rachel", "The House by the Side of the Road" by McDonald, and the modern song, "The Second Minute", by Maurice Besly.

Orr is a college Senior; he is a native of Beatrice, Nebraska. He has had three and a half years of voice study at McPherson College and one year at the University of Nebraska. He has sung for three years in the A Capella Choir and is singing for his second year in the College Male Quartette. Orr appeared here in a joint recital with Miss Millicent Nordling in 1940 and with Miss Virginia Kerlin in 1941. Featured on his part of the program will be the famous aria, "It Is Enough," from Mendelssohn's oratorio, "Elijah".

Two songs from Schubert, the popular "Yeoman's Wedding Song" by Prince Poniatowski, and the humorous selection, "The Little Irish Girl".

Miss Blough and Mr. Orr will end their joint recital with the celebrated duet by Alice M. Smith, "O That We Two Were Maying". They will be accompanied by their teacher.

Boitnott, and Miss Shockley will be honored at the underclass party of Saturday evening.

As is the custom the president of each class will be in the receiving line to greet the formally attired guests. Ralph Nicholson and Ronald Orr are the upper class presidents and Dave Albright and Wayne Geisert are presidents of the freshmen and sophomore classes, respectively.

Refreshments for the dessert party are being planned and prepared by a committee which is headed by Arlene Flory and Lenora Shoemaker.

These spring formals for the respective classes are an annual highlight on Macollege's social calendar. In general charge of Miss Shockley, the social committee is composed of Mildred Fries, Twila Peck, Kurtz Ebert, and Roy McAuley.

Boitnott Speaks On "Where Is Your Faith?"

Dr. J. W. Boitnott led the devotional period of Wednesday's chapel, the theme for which was "Where is your faith?"

It was suggested that all Macollegians place their faith in some ideal in which they firmly believe and make their sacrifices for this ideal. Such sacrifices may prove one's faith in God, country, or cause, for sacrifice takes many forms.

"I am not advocating that we sacrifice our lives and talents uselessly, but that we find a cause or an ideal, in which we can have faith and sacrifice will take care of itself," stated Dr. Boitnott in his address.

His address was concluded with this thought: "Your problem is to find value. The one who doesn't find value can't have faith and will have little value or influence in the world."

The Job Boom: Good and Bad

University-trained men and women are encountering "the greatest demand for their services in our generation," Robert F. Moore, secretary of appointments at Columbia university, declares in his annual report. The emergency that made necessary the national youth administration as a relief measure for students has passed, Mr. Moore adds. "It is my opinion that the allotment of NYA funds for college students may well be withdrawn and used to much better advantage for purposes of national defense," he says. "There are ample opportunities through private sources for a student to work his way."

During the last year the salary at which students began to work averaged 10 per cent above the starting salaries of the previous year, according to Mr. Moore. "Furthermore, it was not unusual for seniors, after they had accepted a job at one salary, to receive word that they had been given a raise, even before reporting for work."

"From a period of historic unemployment, the situation changed overnight to a seller's market where there were more jobs than men."

"In the face of this active employment market, college women came into their own, for employers suddenly remembered that there are many positions that women can handle as well as men."

"Under other circumstances the harvest of opportunities would be an occasion for rejoicing, and indeed we are proud of the record; but we cannot overlook the fact that many positions that college graduates took this year are as unsound as quicksand, based, as so many of them are, on the artificial economy of a war boom. Our graduates were warned of this situation and cautioned to take full advantage of their opportunities to build into themselves the kind of experience that will be useful in the period of post-war reconstruction."

"Volumes could be written of the lessons learned from the late unlamented depression, yet it is said that 'wisdom after the fact, is no wisdom at all.' The predicament we now find ourselves in as a nation is a lesson we should never forget, for we have learned it the hard way. That is the lesson that self-preservation of a state and the individual must be accomplished by self-preservation through continuous, unrelenting training for the work of the world in all of its ramifications."

"During the depression training programs in industry, with but few notable exceptions, came to a standstill. Colleges continued training in the liberal arts but in most instances neglected the most important art of 'earning a living.'"

"Based upon my experience of the last half dozen years, I am convinced that the ideal preparation for life is education on a broad cultural base, tempered with practical specialized or professional training and sharpened by actual experience under fire."

"Educational institutions and industry have a great opportunity, in fact, a mutual responsibility, to co-operate in preparing youth for the world's work and, of course we all know of many examples where co-operation between the two has existed effectively for many years. My plea is for an enlargement of this idea toward the end that business, industrial and government institutions will make it possible for every college man and woman to serve an internship or apprenticeship in his chosen field as a prerequisite to a position." (Associated Collegiate Press).

Should Colleges Require Courses?

Certain college courses are required before a student can graduate from McPherson College. This is different from other colleges only in that the courses required vary slightly. The fact that colleges all over the United States are doing it does not necessarily justify its being done. Oftentimes students are heard to give criticism of the school or its curriculum because they are being required to take some course that they do not like, or have decided not to like. They maintain that with the course's being required, a student goes into the classroom only with the idea of getting through so he can get out.

The argument is given that the average college student, after being required to take certain subjects out of his field entirely has gained nothing. He has taken the required subjects, received a passing grade, and promptly began to forget what little he did learn in class. Such required subjects are possibly the cause of a large majority of failing grades received by college students, especially the upper-classmen.

In dealing with such a problem as to the desirability of certain subjects being required, the curriculum committee deals with what is supposedly the average college student. Probably in a few specific cases, the course would not have been necessary, but dealing with a class of students as a whole, these required courses are needed, whether the individual student realized it or not.

I had a high school teacher once who told me, "I went through high school, college, and graduate school, and all during that time, in spite of their knowing that I planned to superintend a high school, not one school required me to take a bookkeeping course, and today I must rely on another's keeping my books so that they are auditable."

In due time, with a bit of serious thought, a student will probably decide that whether he likes it or not, required courses are necessary evils of education, and must be taken with determination to get the most possible out of them.

Peters Formally Inaugurated February 21

Wickey Guest Speaker, To Be Held In Brethren Church, Dinner Follows

The formal inauguration of Dr. W. W. Peters as president of McPherson college will be held Saturday morning, February 21, at the First Church of the Brethren, it was announced today by the committee in charge.

The guest speaker will be Dr. Gould Wickey, Washington, D. C., general secretary of the National Conference of Church-Related Colleges. His address will be followed by the inaugural address by President Peters.

Dr. Peters will be inducted into office by Dr. D. W. Kurtz, representative of the education board of the Church of the Brethren. Dr. Kurtz for 13 years was president of McPherson college and is well known in McPherson.

Immediately following the inauguration the inaugural dinner will be served in the parlors of the church, starting at 12:30 o'clock. The inauguration program will begin at 10:30 o'clock.

In the afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock a reception will be given in honor of President and Mrs. Peters at the Student Union room in the Administration building.

Dr. Peters has succeeded Dr. V. F. Schwalm as president of McPherson college and took over the duties last summer. Dr. Schwalm, who served as president from 1927 to 1941, is now president of Manchester college, North Manchester, Ind. Dr. Peters came to McPherson from the Manchester college faculty.

Heart Sisters To Have Party Today

This afternoon in the student Union Room at 4:30 all girls who have been participating this week in the Heart Sister event are invited to a Valentine party.

Entertainment has been planned by members of the Women's Council. During the course of the afternoon names of each heart sister will be revealed and refreshments will be served.

local freshman, also advanced to the final round in this division of the tourney. Betty Burger's third-ranking original oration concerned National Defense.

MacCollege teams entered in the debate tourney each won three out of their five scheduled matches in the division which debated the world federation question.

In the labor division of the Juco tournament Harry Reeves and Edsel Johnson McPherson debaters, were the high-ranking team, winning four out of five debates.

McPherson College will be represented at the invitational tourney at Nebraska University, Lincoln, February 27-28. The final tournament for the local varsity squad will be the annual state meet which is scheduled this year for March 7 at Friends University, Wichita.

Heard On The Party Line

There once was a hearty named Ballantyne,
Who signed his name to a valentine,
He sent it by mail
To his love small and frail,
And now he—hang it all! I can't think of a word that rhymes with valentine. Valentine sentiments fly thick and fast these days. "Be mine" is carved on every other billboard and written on every other washroom wall.

Jean Oberst doubtless got one from Tip Schapansky that read something like "To Lucasta, on Going to the Wars."

"So it's come to this, has it, Philip?" Ralph Schlicht is about to follow the example set by his erstwhile roommate, Eisenbise. In short, he is within two weeks of the step than which there is no greater. Less than a fortnight separates him from marriage. Of such is the kingdom of heaven!

At precisely 7:40 a. m. Wednesday morning, a drama was beautifully portrayed near McPherson College. The cast was made up of home talent, and included such characters as Della and the cop. The title of this thespian masterpiece was naturally, "Jiggers, Della, the Cop," or "One should always stop, look, and listen before attempting to drive on the straight and narrow."

If anyone happens to ask you, Antioch was a ba-a-ad city. Horrors! Pauline Life and Literature students can furnish particulars. It is also rumored that ba-a-ad people lived there. Disgusting, isn't it?

On the "must see" list for the second semester is the senior play, "A Family Portrait." The cast for the family of Jesus is well chosen and rehearsals are already moving forward with precision. (This item included at the enforced suggestion of twenty-five seniors armed with guns, knives, and swords, threatening me with blood, sweat, and tears if I did not print it.)

Roy McAuley was seen the other night eating brick chili—raw! Between mouthfuls he invited various lookers-on to partake of this belly warming feast. Strangely enough, they demurred for one reason or another, explaining that food at bed-time kept them awake. "I only regret that I have but one throat to give for my stomach," said one.

Sailor games have been the order of evening entertainment at Fahnestock during the past few weeks. They are called sailor games because there are fifty-two to the deck. It is rumored that Willy Linville has memorized the race, color, and condition of previous servitude of every ace. Therefore he sometimes wins from the boys ("sometimes" indicating 98 percent of the time.)

Nathan Jones, freshman debater, was "told on" at Hutchinson the other night. During the intermission in the preliminary rounds of the contest, when the debaters were out for supper, satisfying the inner man, so to speak, Jones' past was disclosed. Into the restaurant where the McPherson delegation was seated swept a lady and her party. "Hello, Nathan," she cooed. "My, how you've changed. You used to be such a chubby little rascal." Since then, much to Jones' chargin, he is referred to as "Chub" by the debaters.

Lena Belle Olwin is a good sport. She likes to be kidded about practically everything—including influenza, spring fever, etc. everything, in fact except her date with Tony Myers. Aye, there's the rub.

Idaho breeds mountains, timber, and—men. Herbert Ronk, campus Idahoan, has such an attraction for the opposite sex that some of them leave church fifteen minutes after it starts, just to meet him. Don't you, Gertie? However, Ronk is not entirely indifferent, we are told; in fact, it seems that Herbie has bestowed upon Gertie his cherished FFA pin. If you think FFA stands for Future Farmers of America, it does.

Jean McNicol, who is what she is because she was scared by a swim while young, last week-end was taken for a ride by Lena Belle Olwin's above-mentioned blonde. This hearty incidentally went twenty miles out of his way to deposit our Jeanie at Lost Springs. Jean was kept so busy dodging digits that she didn't leave her glasses in the car, so she didn't get them this week through the mail.

Submit Six Outlines For Church Parties

Raymond R. Peters, national director of young people's work for the Church of the Brethren, has asked the McPherson College Recreational Council to make out and submit to the church head office at Elgin, Illinois, six programs for church parties Professor S. M. Dell announced this week.

It was about five years ago that the Recreational Council was organized with the purpose in mind to find the good things in party recreation and relate them to the church program. The council studied the theory, purpose, need, and types of recreation, and as a result a program was built up for parties to include games, stunts, refreshments, and devotions.

Last year for the first time Raymond Peters asked the Recreational Council for an outline for one party; this year he is asking for six such outlines.

The party programs are to be coordinated with the topics in the young people's papers. McPherson is asked to furnish a program for each of six months, and it is thought that LaVerne College, is furnishing the other six.

The six party outlines to be furnished by McPherson are on the subjects of "Americans All," "Conservation as a Way of Life," "Christmas for Christians," "Church History," "Christian Homes in a Democracy," and "When Life Gets Difficult".

Gleaned From The Teeming Brain

Of Ye Scribe.

Oh joy, oh glee, oh happiness supreme—Valentine's Day is just around the corner and at last I shall discover my secret hearts—I hope!

But fickleness, ah fickleness—the last heart I placed confidence in was in the anatomy lab—and then she got pickled. Oh woe, she was faithful to the last meow.

Perhaps I had better enlist the help of one, Dan Cupid. My hopes soared the last time I saw that gleam in my lass's eyes; Cupid had at last found the mark with his little dart. But I later discovered it was only the tacks falling out of the girl's dorm furniture.

A fellow around Macampus with-out a girl must feel like a Republican at a Georgia clambake.

I was 20 years old before I discovered the real significance of co-education and since that time weekly trips have been made home to tell my mamma that all the things she said were true.

But to return to Cupid, I don't see why he is always so thinly clad. Perhaps the Red Cross could be persuaded to donate a pair of red flannels in order that he might keep up the work the year 'round.

Of course there are always kind souls who are willing to help a friend in need. The last time I attempted to patch up a quarrel I ended up with a confidential talk with the papa, two loads of buckshot, and a $40 equity in an engagement ring.

But this guy Dan Cupid was no Freshman when it came to wooing. I often wondered if he did all his work at 30 paces with a bow and arrow in his hand and a gleam in his eyes.

Well, so long everybody and here's to a most revealing and happy Valentine's Day for you all.

Bulldogs Win Overtime Game From C. of E.

Emporia, Feb. 12—Junior French led the way for a 43 to 34 overtime Kansas Conference victory for the McPherson college Bulldogs last night over the College of Emporia Presbys in as thrilling a game as the local fans have seen this season. French scored 22 points.

The first half was rather one-sided in favor of Emporia but early in the last half Coach Tom Hayden's team from McPherson started to cut down the Presbys lead. At one time in the first half Emporia held a 14 to 4 lead and Emporia was ahead 21 to 16 at the end of the first half.

Soon after the second half started the margin started to narrow. Emporia was ahead 26 to 24 and then a few minutes later McPherson tied the score at 28-all. From then on to the end of the regular game the score was tied most of the time. The score was tied at 30-all, 32-all and the game ended 34-all.

In the overtime the Bulldogs were never threatened. French led the assault as he garnered nine points in the five minute overtime. The Bulldogs held the Presbys scoreless in the overtime.

French's 22 points made him high scorer of the game and brought to 43 points his scoring in two nights of Kansas Conference play. Against Ottawa the night before French accounted for 21 points.

"Hot Shot" Braves Beat Scrappy Dogs

French High Pointer With 21 Points, No Close Seconds

Two new recruits playing their first game with the Braves gave Ottawa university a 49 to 39 Kansas Conference victory over the McPherson college Bulldogs.

The recruits were Frank, who made 15 points, and Wylie, 11 points, and they were two of the hottest cagers the Bulldogs have faced all season. Wylie last year was all-state high school forward and the leading scorer in Kansas. The two men have greatly enhanced the strength of the Braves.

Junior French, however, was on the go all evening but he alone could not offset the heavy scoring of the Braves. French scored seven field goals and seven charity shots for a total of 21 points. This equals the scoring French did earlier in the season against Wesleyan.

The first half was rather close with Ottawa holding only a 24 to 20 advantage at half time.

To the average spectator almost every basketball game looks about alike. But in analyzing different teams a person can notice a wide variation in systems. For example McPherson High School uses a zone defense while the Bulldogs use a straight man-for-man defense. This is typical of the difference between high school and college basketball. A large majority of all high school teams use a zone defense while almost every college team uses a man-for-man defense.

Offenses also differ. In this conference we have a marked contrast between two teams, namely Kansas Wesleyan and Baker. The Coyotes, as every one knows, plays the fire department type of basketball. They do not try to outguess their opponents or do not attempt to use any set floor plays, but they rely on sheer speed and height for their baskets. On the other hand, Baker is not the spectacular team that Wesleyan is because of the type of basketball they play. It is slower and much more deliberate. If their fast break doesn't work, they bring the ball back out to the guards and start their floor plays which they work with deadly precision, relying on smooth passing to work the ball in for close shots.

In football there are a few basic offensive systems such as the single wing back, the short punt, the Notre Dame system, the Warner system, etc. But in basketball there is no such system credited to any one coach and the successful coach usually combines the offenses of several systems when shaping up the offense for his team.
