

"Bulldogs" Clash With Phillips U. Saturday

Rapidly limbering up the shooting arms, Coach "Woody" Woodard is shaping up his 1951-52 Bulldog edition to the basketball hoop world with their opener as tomorrow night, Saturday, Dec. 8. The Bulldogs will flex their muscles on the home high school maples against Phillips University. Tip-off time is 8:15 p. m. with the B-squad game starting at 6:45.

Very little is known about the Phillips University cagers and how they are going to shape up against the Bulldogs. Last season the Canines defeated the Phillips team at the beginning of the season at Conway Springs, Kans.

The ring leader of the Phillips squad is Coach Holl. Last year the university played a variety of single and double combinations, and it is possible that they will work the same combinations again this year.

Tomorrow night when the Bulldog cagers gather around the center circle for the tip-off, the fans of Macollege will probably find Gene Smith, former McPherson High cage star, starting as one of the guards. His running mate will be Wayne Blickenstaff, all-state selection from Idaho. Both of these boys are sophomores and are veterans of one season of varsity competition.

Holding down the swivel position will probably be big Bill Moore of Chicago, Ill. Bill is a senior and a great rebounder. He has a variety of shots on which he is dead. Moore is a strong and agile man who can wheel and deal off the post with a lot of finesse.

Another local boy that is giving Moore a race for the center position is "Beck" Bechtel. "Beck" is a letterman from last year's squad and a great rebounder. "Beck" can hit, and many times last season he pulled the game out of the fire for the Bulldogs when he would dump a pair of timely buckets.

With Moore and Bechtel alternating at the post position, Coach Woodard's headaches should be at a minimum, for these boys have shown in practice that they are capable of playing with the best of them.

Leading the forward parade are Loren "Blick" Blickenstaff, all-conference last year, and Frank "Chief" Hanagan, "Big Injun" from New Mexico.

Loren Blickenstaff is a scoring threat from any place on the court. Loren has blinding speed and a very fast reaction timing; for his size he can jump like a kangaroo. "Blick" is only six feet, but he got a greater percentage of the rebounds last year, showing his ability to jump and handle himself.

"Chief" Hanagan, who has recovered from a cheek injury suffered early in the football season, is the type of fellow that has learned his fundamentals exceptionally well and also has the instinctive ability to do everything the easiest and smoothest way. "Chief" was used a great deal last year in the relief role since he was able to go in and play any position on the court. "Chief" is a great defensive man and doesn't get panicky when the going gets rough.

Housing Unit Seeks Parlor

Boys of the veterans housing have expressed to the Student Council the need for a parlor and recreation room in which to entertain their guests.

The boys would like to have a vacant room now used for storage converted into the needed parlor and recreation room.

Many Leads In Christmas Oratorio

"The Christmas Oratorio" by Camil Van Hulst which will be presented in the college church Dec. 16 is written in seven parts. The first part, Prologue, creates a mood of despair and hopelessness. Prof. Raymond L. Flory is the narrator.

Part II is Prophecies with Clifford Ikenberry as soloist and the chorus. III is "Hope with Max McAuley, Earle Lapp, Anita Rogers, Prof. Flory, and chorus.

IV is Expectations with Earle Lapp, Claudia Jo Stump, Florene Hale and the chorus. V. is Fulfillment with Claudia Jo Stump, Children's Choir, and Chorus.

VI is Adoration—with Max McAuley, Beryl McCann, Keith Allison, Anita Rogers, Gordon Fishburn, Children's Chorus and the chorus. VII is Joy to the World—with the Children's Choir, and the Chorus.

"Stars Over Bethlehem" is one of the most beautiful numbers in the oratorio. In this number the organist uses the chimes. The oriental number of the men's chorus and the unaccompanied chorale are two of the more unusual numbers.

The oratorio is directed by Prof. Donald R. Frederick. Mrs. Lloyd Larsen is the organist, and Mrs. Elvin Wolf is the pianist.

All I Want For Christmas Is My Three Front Teeth

By Frances Hall

What is this world coming to? It seems as though a large percent of McPherson College students are missing some of their molars. For instance, one of the students was attending a show last Sunday night. It was a very sad picture and amid her sobs, she accidentally entangled her hankie in three of her front teeth and removed them from her plate.

This was a very embarrassing situation. On Sunday there were

Ann Carpenter, McSpadden Reign As Queen, King

Ann Carpenter and Dwight McSpadden were crowned King and Queen by M-Club president, Loren Blickenstaff, at the annual M-Club Carnival held at the College Gymnasium Saturday evening, December 1.

Following the coronation a program was given. Shirley Alexander and Kathy Russell sang a duet accompanied by Shirley playing her uke. Their number was "We Want To Be Bad, We're Tired Of Bein' Good" and they sang "A Man Without a Woman" as the encore.

Curtis Leicht played a cornet solo, and Carol Snyder sang "That Lucky Old Sun" and "White Christmas."

The evening was spent by those present entering various games, contests, and cake walks. The prizes for the Bean Guessing Contest were awarded at the close of the evening. First prize of a card table went to Janet Ruehien. Second prize of thirty pounds of frozen cherries went to Kaye Yoder.

Approximately $240 was taken in at the Carnival. This money will be used in purchasing M-Club Blankets for graduating M-Club members.

Miss Doris Coppock, Macollege professor, will accompany the debaters.

UNESCO Is To Make Toys

Unesco has undertaken a Christmas project of making toys for underprivileged children.

It was suggested by La Verne Burger that they use pieces of scrap wood, and other articles which would be inexpensive. The patterns selected for use should develop the child mentally and physically, as well as to entertain them.

It was decided that the work would be done in the Industrial Arts Building. Art Thralls was put in charge of getting the patterns for the toys, and starting the members on the individual projects.

Velva Wagner was put in charge of finding a place where the toys were most needed.

The work was begun Friday night, Nov. 30, at 6:30 p. m. in the Industrial Arts Building. Unesco urges all members to participate.

Don Thralls, Macollege sophomore, has received honorable mention in the national peace oratorical contest.

Africans Paint Bridegroom Red

James Craig, freshman from Nigeria, Africa, contrasts present marriage customs among the Hausa Moslems of Africa with our present day customs.

A boy marries two or three years after he has finished reciting sixty chapters of the Koran in Arabic. At this time he is probably fifteen to seventeen years of age.

His parents choose his bride from a nearby family, unless his family is "modern" whereby he chooses his own wife. His bride will be fourteen or fifteen years of age.

When the actual marriage day arrives, the bridegroom clad in his best attire, usually a long flowing gown richly designed and embroidered, and wearing slippers on his feet, together with his best man, his family, and the girl's family except for the girl herself, and witnesses, all go along to the mosque or to the chief native judge.

The husband swears that he will take his wife as long as they can tolerate each other; not as long as they both shall live! No ring is given because the wife is not present.

Feasting then begins early in the evening, and this lasts for about a week to ten days. The bridegroom provides for all the entertainment and meals and refreshments for the duration of the feast. Drumming and dancing go on all night, and merriment is continued.

On the last day of the feast when the wife is to be brought to her husband's house, her attendants accompanied by elderly women carry her belongings from her home to that of the husband, singing along the way to the accompaniment of drums and other musical instruments. She wears a long veil which covers her entire face and upper body, and when she arrives in her husband's house, she is led into the innermost room.

The women now remain in the room waiting for the husband to come in so that they can get their "compensation fees" from him. Usually he sends his best man in to be caught by the women and to pay the compensation fee.

When the fee is paid either in money or in goods, the women leave the wife in her room, and the husband is then allowed to go in to his wife whom he had married and had not seen for the past week or so.

Everybody then breaks away and goes to his or her home marking the end of the feast.

The religion allows a man four wives. The woman is regarded as one-quarter of a man, so he must marry four to make one complete whole to fulfill religious obligations.

Girls who are dissatisfied with their husbands usually run away to their parents' homes, and a delegation has to be sent by the husband to the parents of his wife to plead his case. This is very common.

There is no possibility yet of the average Hausa man to marry one wife or to practice monogamy, unless he becomes a Christian, or the whole tribe becomes Christian.

Let Us Go Forward

Tomorrow night is the first basketball game of the 1951-52 season. The fellows have been practicing hard every evening. They will meet hard teams during the season.

Let us look back over the history of McPherson College basketball. We have had good teams, and we have also had some poor teams, but we have never had a team that did not try hard to win for their Alma Mater. Other basketball teams representing McPherson College have lost games they should have won, while still others have given teams considerable trouble, and have often "upset" the opposing team.

Last year McPherson had a successful basketball season. This year McPherson will have a successful season if the students are willing to sacrifice a little to make it so. McPherson College has good cheerleaders, and McPherson students have plenty to yell about. This season there will be "B" squad games before the regular games. They are often exciting, and afford your support. If we do our part yelling in the stands, the boys will do their part on the floor.

LET US MAKE THIS YEAR A GREAT BASKETBALL YEAR FOR McPHERSON COLLEGE.—G. A. N.

Remember Pearl Harbor?

By Ruth Papa

Just ten years ago today, on December 7, 1941, Pearl Harbor was attacked by Japan.

They struck without warning. Two and one-half hours after this attack, the Japanese declared war on the United States and Great Britain.

The Japanese attack blacked out the last great area of peace in the world. At one stroke, it turned the entire Pacific Ocean into a vast battle zone.

At the signing of the peace treaty with Japan on Sept. 2, 1945, it was hoped that there would be no more wars.

Today, ten years since Pearl Harbor, our troops are at war in Korea. Our enemies are our allies of World War II, communist Russia.

The cause for war is not sufficient. The God-fearing and righteous people of the world must strive to save humanity.

A world war has never been fought on our own homeland soil, but we have seen many broken homes and families appear from this ever-dreadful massacre of human lives.

People everywhere face their future in a world horribly ravaged by war.

Only through the courage and trust of the divine Father, and through the united efforts of our churches, can we see world peace again and forever.

Students Burn Midnight Oil

Term papers and projects are soon due and students have been doing the usual amount of "burning the midnight oil."

The top record for the males was set by one boy who stayed up all night. One male student said that he would estimate that 40 percent of the boys in the boys dorm, studied after 11:00 p. m.

The girls, not being quite as foolish, set a record of studying until 4:20 a. m. The poor girl who did this slept through her 8:55 class the following day. She says it really doesn't pay to rob yourself of much needed sleep.

It is not uncommon to hear the patter of feet and typewriters clicking at various unearthy hours.

Dr. Hess has the most votes for him as the cause for studying in the wee hours, according to many students. Extra curricular activities receives the next highest vote.

Flory Gives Early Exam

Students have often wished they could see their examinations before the crucial hour. That's just the opportunity students do have in Prof. Raymond Flory's government class. Semester examinations were passed out to students last week and answers are not due until exam week in January.

It's not as simple as that, students point out. Forty discussion questions were printed on that sheet passed out last week. Only five questions, to be answered in maximum time of an hour and half, will be chosen for the actual examination. The number of questions and time allotted was determined by vote of class members.

The test may be employed as a study guide for future class discussions. It also has the advantage of letting the students know what not to study for the exam. But one student remarked, "I might as well memorize the text."

Oltman Has Many Experiences

Dale Oltman, who graduated from MacCollege in May, 1951, is now in Brethren Volunteer Service. The first three months of his training were spent at Elgin, Ill., instead of New Windsor, Md.

Recently Dale wrote a letter to the Spectator about some of his experiences at Elgin in the mental institution.

"As I sit here in the Veterans' Diagnostic Building on ward 7 this Sunday morning about 2:30 a. m., my thoughts have drifted back a few months to the activities of a busy college campus and have compared them to those of an attendant in a state mental institution.

"Sometimes in school the burden of some assignments made me think I would end up in such an institution, but I never thought I would work in one.

"After the first week of lectures and touring, we began ward work. I began working the vets' hospital ward and have worked the vets' wards since. After taking psychology, you begin to understand the terms in your book a little more.

"I saw the effects of the modern shock treatments, the old style of pain derived by shots of sulphur and oil. I worked wards where you see, hear, and tell nothing.

Hardened attendants seem to think brutality is a necessary evil. At times, with the shortage of help, that is all that can be done; but I think it is carried to extremes most of the time.

"They have about 6000 patients in a place which can handle only 4,000. I was amazed at the system of patients working for their own good. They have a farm, laundry, store, anything you would find in a small town. A person sees parole patients strolling around the grounds, in the library, or 'hanging' out in their commissary just as we used the Doghouse at school.

Ottawa Students Fined For Missing Classes

Students at Ottawa University, Ottawa, Kans., are fined three dollars for each class missed on the days before and after vacations.

The policy of stiff penalties for pre and post vacation cuts was enacted last year.

"Underneath this busy atmosphere something is lacking. There is even a smell that hangs over the grounds to warn you of the unwholesomeness and depraved beings inside.

"I don't want to discourage anyone from working in mental institutions. They need help badly, and higher wages are needed to induce a better class of workers.

"I wouldn't trade the experience of these three months for anything. I have a better appreciation for the work being done for the mentally ill. On the other hand, you can see the effects of our modern civilization on human nature unable to cope with such a hopped up pace.

"On the whole Brethren groups have established a worthwhile record. The only thing wrong is that we aren't here long enough to get out of the rut of the established system and try some of our own ideas.

"I've put down a rather disintegrated and sketchy picture, but by use of rationalization, I'll say no one can think so early in the morning. Right now all I can say is, 'my kingdom for a bed.'

More Students Are Using Library

Typing can be done in the cubicles in the library stack room now, says Miss Harris, making it easier for students in writing their term papers.

During the last part of Oct. and all of Nov. there has been a decided increase in the use of the library, she stated. Oct. 27 one hundred and fifty-two books were checked out during the day.

One hundred and three people had books due Nov. 30. More books were due on this day than any other day since school has been in session.

Nov. 12 seventy-three magazines were checked out and Nov. 17 seventy-two pamphlets were checked out. This was probably due to the panel group discussions assigned in Miss Lehman's three speech classes.

There has been a noticeable increase in library attendance over the past two weeks, Miss Harris said. (This has been since the new chairs came.)

On Nov. 26, 27 and 28 there was an average attendance of two hundred people, mostly using reference books, she said.

Nov. 28 and 29 close to 30 Central College English students visited the library to use various reference books their library does not contain.

Prayer For Peace

A prayer for peace was recently sent out by church and interfaith groups to educational, political and business leaders and was broadcast by a nationally-known radio team. The response was amazing. Hundreds of thousands are now using this daily prayer:

From the point of Light within the Mind of God. Let Light stream forth into the minds of men. Let Light descend on Earth.

From the point of Love within the Heart of God. Let Love stream forth into the hearts of men. May Christ return to Earth.

From the center where the Will of God is known Let purpose guide the little wills of men—The purpose which the Master knows and serves.

From the center which we call the race of men Let the Plan of Love and Light work out. And may it seal the door where evil dwells. Let Light and Love and Power restore the Plan on Earth.

Bulldogs Meet Graymaroons Wednesday At Moundridge

The Challenge Trophy, probably the largest trophy ever offered for a Central Kansas event, has been around to all the participating colleges and is now waiting for the winner of the first annual Central Kansas Collegiate Tournament to claim it. Games will be played Dec. 12 and 13 at Moundridge.

The drawings held for the tournament last Tuesday evening put the McPherson Bulldogs against the Bethel Graymaroons on Wednesday, Dec. 12, at 7:30. The Graymaroons are under the new generalship of Don Unruh, a former coach at Tabor College.

At nine o'clock the same evening the Bethel Swedes will challenge Tabor College of Hillsboro. The Tabor squad is also going into battle with a new captain at the helm. He is Ray Hostetter of Greenville, Ill. He took his master's in physical education at Penn State, and this is his first year as coach.

Tabor
The Tabor team, revolving around Co-Captains Delmar Reimer, Buhler, and Bob Vogt, Corn, Okla., are looking forward to a bright and prosperous basketball season.

Bob Vogt has consistently been the high scorer for Tabor during the past two seasons and was especially outstanding in the Kansas A. A. U. Tournament at Wichita two years ago when Tabor finished second with the same players they have now.

Bethel College
Newton fans believe that the Graymaroons under Coach Dau Unruh are building up what may be a conference title contender. Unruh has three returning lettermen, five former squadmen, and several promising freshmen.

The squadmen returning are tall lads—Gordon Dyck, 6-6; Jim Heldbrecht, 6-5; and Clarence Schroeder, 6-3. Some of the promising freshmen are three former Mid-Kansas League stars and a former Newton High stalwart, including Marian Ratzlaff of Pretty Prairie, Johnny Selmens and Malvin Siemens, Buhler, and Marlo Reimer, Newton.

Not since the war has Bethel had a winning team in any sport in the Kansas Conference, but Bethel fans feel Coach Unruh might introduce a new era in Bethel basketball.

Bethany
Not much has been heard from the Bethany Swede camp, and this does not make for good news, for "the old fox" Coach Ray Hahn usually has something cooking on the fire that spells headaches for the unfortunate opposition.

Hahn has a group of lettermen around whom to build his squad. The big cogs in the basketball wheels of the Bethany squad are all-conference football players Bill Carlson and Coach Hahn's son.

Meinen Speaks At MCAC

The McPherson College Agricultural Club was entertained last Tuesday evening by Stanley Meinen, who is now the 4-H agent of McPherson county. Stanley was an exchange agricultural student in 4-H work seven years ago. He did his exchange work in Switzerland. Stanley gave the Ag club a new insight to the working of Switzerland.

Mays Attends Alumni Council

Bob Mays, Alumni secretary, attended the annual District VI Conference of the American Alumni Council in Lincoln, Nebraska, December 2-5. The conference was held in conjunction with that of District VIII of the American College Public Relations Association. Over a hundred persons professionally engaged in alumni and public relations work at colleges and universities in a seven-state area were in attendance. The conference program included workshops and panel discussions, exhibits, and talks on various phases of alumni and public-relations work.

The national president of the American Alumni Council, Mr. Charles P. McCurdy, Jr., of the College of William and Mary, Williamsburg, Virginia, gave one of the principal addresses.

Other speakers included Edward P. Vander Haar, of Xavier University, Cincinnati, Ohio, president-elect of the American College Public Relations Association; Dr. B. G. Rosenior, President of the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools; and President Carl C. Bracy of Nebraska Wesleyan University.

A special feature of the conference was the publications, clinic and professional consultation service by O. M. Forkert of Chicago, nationally famous expert in graphic arts, layout, and typography.

Mr. Mays participated in the conference program as a member of the panel on Effective Fund Campaign.

MC Meets PU

floor man. Tommy has improved his shooting ability greatly since last season and should be a constant threat to the opposition.

Dale Carpenter, the track star at Macollege, is a great defensive man. Dale is a senior and will be looking for his fourth monogram in the hoop sport.

"The Mayor of Quinter," Duane Jamison, a senior, is also a letterman from the 1950-51 varsity squad. Duane is a six-two boy who can really hit the bucket, but is a little weak on defense and changing from offense to defense.

The only freshman making the varsity squad this year so far is Bernard Whirley, a local McPherson High lad. Whirley is a boy who has played the game of basketball since he was knee-high to a grasshopper.

Bernard has the quality of leadership and a deadly combination of shots that will match anyone on the squad to make him a better than the average guard. He will be playing a great deal of basketball for the Bulldogs before the season is over.

Another boy that is showing great promise is Carl Metsker, a sophomore on last year's B-squad. Carl was going great when he hurt his ankle in the middle of the season last year and was benched for the remainder of the season.

Coach Woodard is very well satisfied with the way Carl is developing, and he will give the boys on the varsity a bit of Metsker competition before the season is too old.

What the season holds for the Bulldogs will be answered only in the future. But with the ability of the squad and the seasoning that they got last year and with the great combination of coaches in Woodard and Dick Wareham, the Bulldogs should have a great 1951-52 hoop season beginning tomorrow night.

Alumni Chapter Has Meeting

Thirty-seven alumni of the McPherson College Alumni Chapter attended an alumni meeting at the Church of the Brethren in Kansas City, Missouri, Saturday evening, Nov. 17. Among those attending the meeting was Mrs. Mary Klipinger, who graduated from McPherson College in 1891. The banquet was served by the women of the church. The tables were decorated in the Thanksgiving motif. At the close of the banquet a business meeting was held and new officers were elected.

Ira Milton Hoover '39, was elected president; Russell Carpenter, '35, vice president; and Mrs. Joe Tuck was re-elected secretary. It was decided to have a picnic this coming spring.

The college male quartet gave a musical program for the group. For an encore they sang "Dry Bones."

After the musical program, Bob Mays gave a short talk on the college—what had been done this year and what is being planned for the remainder of the year.

Trio Presents Chapel Program

Macollege Ladies' Trio presented a program in assembly Dec. 3. The trio is composed of Anta Rogers, Mt. Etna, Iowa; Donna Wagoner, Adel, Iowa; Marilee Groves, South English, Iowa; and Berwyn Oltman, accompanist, Ender, Nebr.

The girls sang "The Blue Tail Fly," a medley of Stephen Foster's songs, "Some Enchanted Evening," "Jingle Bells," "Cantique Noel," "The Sleigh," and "The Sophomoric Philosophy."

The trio is unique in that all the girls are from Iowa.
