We Take It For Granted

We Take It For Granted We are prone to take for granted our freedom. We and the deep freeze without much thought. Our religious freedom is generally accepted the same way. Do we ever ask ourselves why we are so fortunate? The start staturday. We were anxiously wait-ing for the football game to begin, when, as tradition stands the Macollege Pep Band let go on the notes of "The Star Spangled Banner." What happened? Everyone, man, woman, child and football player, referee and coach came to attention facing the American Flaz. What were we thinking about as we stood there, sing the strains of our national anthem? Were we thinking the football game and wondering who was going to win, or were we thinking that at that very moment our boys were fighting in Korea? About that same time not so very far away, prepara-tions were being made to take "Heartbreak Hill"—an im-bout and the hands of the Reds. Mode division was thrown against this one little hill. The group was soon reduced to batallion strength and the hill was in the hands of the Reds. D. T. F.

Congratulations But—

The officers and members of the Macollege "M" Club ought to be congratulated, on the fact that this fall their annual traditional "New member" initiation was held on a Tuesday and not on a chapel or assembly day. In years past we remember when an assembly pro-gram or chapel worship service was interrupted with the clatter of baby carriages and the sound of "high heels." We have to admit that this does not add to but rather sub-tracts from the meaning that chapel or assembly periods should have for adults.

We have to admit that this does not add to but rather sub-tracts from the meaning that chapel or assembly periods should have for adults. We hesitate to say further that there is something con-cerning the recent "M" Club initiation which is not to be commended, but rather criticized. However, as in all of life, we must face the bad as well as the good, if we are to grow to be stalwart and stable adults. We are inclined to believe that initiations need not be an ordeal, instead they could be creative. In a large eastern university (Indiana, I believe) di-rectly following the last war, a new era was developed in the initiation program of that institution. The returning GI's, back from brushes with death, were disgusted by the mumbo-jumbo of initiation rites. An initiate was drowned while being "dunked" in the school pond. A returned soldier was the president of the student body and since he saw little use in pulling all kinds of em-barrassing stunts, and causing "accidental deaths", he decided to seek for something creative in initiation exer-cises.

decided to seek for something creative in initiation exer-cises. The GI, after getting the faculty's consent took the initiates of an organization to a local school building. There they cleaned off old paint and repainted the building. Here was a creative gesture; and though it was work, the initiates loved it. Soon all the societies took hold of the idea. Now, the president of the student body is kept busy receiving calls about possible projects for initiates. The university president says that the school organizations are all on a hierer level now.

receiving calls about possible projects for interact university president says that the school organizations are all on a higher level now. It has come to our attention that there are lettermen on Macampus who are eligible for membership in the "M" Club, but because of the type of initiation practices these persons refuse to join. Not only is this true now, but this has been the case for a number of years. Some highly successful and prominent men would would have joined the club—if the tactics were creative instead of destructive. We know it is in the heart of all men on Macampus to be able to join the "M" Club and we are sure they are not "sissies" for they have earned the letters. It is a shame that these eligible persons will not be able to join the club. When a society executes a plan whereby a human personality is degraded with lewd and vulgar acts, we come to think that we are not living as Christians but non-Christians, that we are not living as an executes an initia-tion which is clearly aimed at upsetting a chapel program or a worship speaker, embarrassing an initiate or a mem-ber of the fairer sex, or degrading one's own personality, it is time for us to remind ourselves that we are now adults living in a grown-up world. # Concordia Teachers Here Tonight

Tonight will find the McPher-son College Bulldogs playing host to Concordia Teachers College of Seward, Nebraska. Game time is scheduled for $:00. Heading the coaching staff for the team from the cornhusker state is Herbert Meyer, who is now serving his tenth year as head football coach, at Concordia. The school colors are blue and white. The Concordia Teachers also have the nickname of Bulldogs. Coach Herbert Meyer has a nuc-leus of fourteen letterme around

Coach Herbert Meyer mas a nuc-leus of fourteen lettermen around which he has built his 1951 grid-fron team. The Bulldogs have been fielding powerful teams the last two seasons. This year they provide the sear they in the sear they are again making it clear that they won't be push overs. In the Bulldogs opener last weekend, they waltzed to a 46 to 0 victory over Sterling College.

Heading the list of returning backs are lettermen Herbert Pet-er, Larry Keiser, and John "Sid" Seevers. Peter and Kelser were two of last year's team leading ground gainers averaging better than six yards per carry.

Seevers will play the role of quarterback and will also handle a large share of the passing duties for the team from Nebraska to-night. The other backfield letter-man is Gordon Wendling.

At the end positions Meyer has five experienced performers. Mar-lin Zobel, last year's leading scor-er, and Dick Waither will handle mostly offensive duty while Paul Koehnke and Harry Brockberg will take charge defensively.

Will take charge defensively. The Bulldogs greatest weakness seems to be in the center of the line. They are very short of exper-ienced hands at this spot. Big Gene Octting, a workhorse from last year's team, and Paul Walther head the list of tackles.

The guard spots will be held down by Don Firbhaver and Rob-ert Gaede. The overall squad is lighter than last year's team, but this Concordia squad should give Coach "Woody" Woodard Buil-dogs a good battle Friday night.

dogs a good battle Friday night. Coach Woodard's Canines show-ed a great deal of power at times in last weeks encounter with Beth-el. The Macollege Buildogs have a great deal of reserve strength this year, and it showed up very strong. ly in the last half when Woody did a great deal of substituting. The Bulldogs reserves pushed over a touchdown and held the Graymaroons from scoring.

oons from scoring. Who will start for Coach "Woody" Woodard's Buildogs against Concordia Teachers this Friday will depend on the flip of the coin, and how many members of the squad will be fit to play. This week several of the players are down with the flu, and it is not known if they will be ready to go at game time.

Has 50-50 Season

Coach Gordon Yoder's 1951 Macollege tennis team had nearly a 50-50 season as far as wins and losses were concerned. The team improved consistently during the lonses were consistently during the season. Dick Horning, a five-foot-eight-inch shorty from Larned, was the team's No. 1 player during the season. He was a semi-finalist in the Kangas Conference tourna-ment. Another short player, Lloyd Hummer, Booker, Texas, and lanky Bill Frantz, McPherson, alternat-din the No. 2 and No. 3 assign-ments, with Frantz getting the nod late in the season. Don West, Pampa, Texas, was the team's No. 4 man. The team won and lost six matches during the season, beat-ing the College of Emporia, Beth-el College and Tabor College twice each and losing two each to South-each and losing two each to South-South essanon, McPherson singles play showed a record of 28 wins and 27 losses, and a 50-50 record in 28 doubles matches. An oddity occured in doubles play as the team won and lost the same number of matches, sets and games. In singles play, Frantz won

In singles play, Frantz won seven and lost five; West won five and lost two; Hummer won five and lost nine; and Horning won seven and lost nine.
