McPherson College Featured In Wichita Eagle Magazine

McPherson College is the subject of a series of Sunday newspaper articles appearing in the Wichita Eagle magazine section. The Eagle has featured several other Kansas colleges of special interest to the newspaper reading public.

The articles will probably appear in three or four installments. Each of the articles shall contain different topics which include: the ownership by McPherson of the world's largest diamond, the fossil collection donated by Dr. Gilbert McPherson to the state museum, and possibly the program of rural life emphasis here at McPherson.

The first story should cover the making of the world's largest synthetic diamond. The story behind diamonds is one of the most interesting of current interest in view of the recent General Electric interest in the process.

Two films and scientific records of the diamond laboratory conditions and the progress of the research are being made by Dr. Gilbert McPherson. These films, an documents are the property of McPherson College.

Popular Science newswreals have been shown all over the nation, portraying the excellent work done by Dr. Hershey.

The second of the stories will incorporate the idea of the collection of rare fossils donated by an alumni, a Dr. Gilbert McPherson has in his museum, the only Grand Slam in any of the ### Mansion To Be Fine Arts Center For McPherson College!

President Bittinger

The large and beautiful three-story Vanman home at 1130 East Euclid is to become a fine arts center for the Vanman heirs.

In making this gift they have sought to make a permanent statement in the life-long service given to McPherson community and to McPherson College by both Mrs. and Mrs. F. A. Vanman. The gift will stand as a memorial to their lives and life purposes.

The Vanman home is one of the most commodious and beautiful homes in McPherson. It is a brick construction, built in 1921 and the family moved into it the fall of that year. It is of brick construction, built in 1921 and the family moved into it the fall of that year. It is of brick construction, built in 1921 and the family moved into it the fall of that year.

The land for the home, extending from Euclid to Kansas Avenue, was purchased from the parents of Edna Price Dotzour, who now the wife of Royer Dotzour. Mr. and Mrs. Dotzour later were the owners of the beautiful gate dormitory, Dotzour Hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Vanman came to Scott County, Iowa, from Illinois in 1887. They were homesteaded, lived in a dugout, and taught school for a few years before being born in Scott County. They moved to McPherson County in 1889, where they have since lived.

The move to McPherson brought them near to McPherson College. Mr. Vanman completed the business course at the college, and later served as its business manager. He was member of its Board of Trustees for many years and served on the Executive Committee.

Mr. Vanman, likewise, took college courses at the college and in many ways. She studied art with Binger Sandzen and her paintings attest her interest and ability in this field.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Vanman were interested in the McPherson community and contributed to it in many ways. Their interests were shared throughout their lives in civic, church, and college affairs. The Church of the Brethren and its welfare was always a major interest.

College students were always a delight to them; students lived with them in their home. It was continuously since it was completed it is fitting that this home should be used for the best and used by college students.

Present plans are forming in the direction of having the home used as a fine arts center, perhaps for the use of the McPherson College program with that.

Mr. Vanman departed this life in 1955. He was followed him in 1955. A son, Wilbur Francis, died in 1926.

The heirs who have made the home available to the college are Grace and Roscoe Ingalls, Albin Reed, Wichita, Kansas; Rowena and Paul Sargent, McPherson; and Charles, Nevin, San Dimas, California.

Students Discuss Standards At Mac

Study hours, dorm supervision, student "hangouts," and activities were the main topics discussed by a panel of students at the faculty meeting Feb. 16.

This discussion grew out of the faculty's question, "What about scholastic standards at McPherson College?" and the desire to get the students viewpoint.

Norman Long, student council president, was asked to arrange for a panel of students to give their views of the faculty.

The panel selected was George Lewis, moderator; Loyal Shover, Marlene Motts, Lois Knackstedt, Royce Roesch, Betty Holloway and Jerry Sanders. Betty Holloway had conducted a survey in Dettovar Hall on these questions, the results of which were briefly summarized.

Extremes of opinion were very evident; for example the student who thought the professors "pile it on too much" to the attitude "They don't assign and require enough."

It was rather apparent that students feel there is too much variation from class to class as to the amount of work required.

According to Prof. J. Hayes, faculty chairman, "It was a mutually good experience for the faculty to get the students viewpoint and for the students to know that the faculty is working to make the school more effective."

The above panel of pictures depicts the progress of the work in canning eight beef to be used by work campers in International work camps of Europe this summer. Phil Pulliam arranged the above photo.

Pondering With The President

Suggestion Box Reveals Thought

"For the past several weeks, a suggestion box has been attached to the bulletin board in Sharp Hall. The college administration has been eager to receive suggestions from the student body for the administration to consider and for them to share with the trustees in their annual meeting.

The trustees of McPherson College are a group of 86 men who come from the entire area, stretching from North Dakota to Louisiana and Texas and from Idaho to the Mississippi River.

They are pastors, farmers, and businessmen who themselves have attended McPherson College or had children attending school here. They are the policy-making body for McPherson College, and its present welfare and future development depends on a major way upon them.

The administration has been pleased with the suggestions which have come through the question box. When it was put up, it was assumed that there would be a number of "crank notes" appearing in the box. It was assumed that some of them probably would not be very respectful to either the administration or the trustees.

As president of the college, I would like to say a "thank you" to the students for the respectful way in which the suggestions have been made. Most of them have been carefully thought through and are carefully written. Some of them have been signed though this was not a requirement.

The suggestions have pointed out places where the students believe the college might be improved, and in some cases they have expressed appreciation for improvements which have been made or which are in process of being made.

Already some of the suggestions have been passed on to the individual staff and departments involved; and insofar as the administration has been able, it has tried to follow through even before the trustees arrived on suggestions which could be handled without the consultation of the trustees.

Other suggestions which need the attention of the trustees during their meeting.

The suggestions appearing in the suggestion box have indicated ways in which the thinking of the students and the thinking of the faculty is similar. Practically every suggestion made by students had previously been a matter of consideration and discussion by the faculty. Some of the terms have been in the consideration of the faculty for some time.

I am certain that the trustees will be glad to discuss something at once about every suggestion made. When in their estimation a suggestion is in the right direction, in some cases it may take a little longer to work out the changes than seems necessary to the student. This may be true because of finances or because of a desire to safeguard personality values.

The college administration invites the students and faculty to make suggestions freely and at any time, about the life of our college.

One of the ways that some of you who are now making suggestions to the trustees will be the trustees. We hope that the students then will make suggestions to you and that you will receive them as graciously and consider them as they trustees have received and considered your suggestions.

The Brethren churches of McPherson and Monitor also purchased three pigs and the women of the churches canned 102 two-pound cans of pork which will be sent to New Windsor on the BVS truck at the same time the beef is sent. This shipment will consist of 1800 cans of meat from this area.

Over 3,200 pounds of beef were processed in 11 hours by a group of nearly 50 persons. Workers included men and women from the ages 21 to 76 years old.

Sharp Facts

Did you know that the popular slogan of the McPherson Campus in the late 1800's was "A penny for a bribe?" The meaning of this meant the future of our present day Sharp Hall.

The original plans for Sharp Hall specified a four story structure. When the building process was begun just prior to the turn of the century, a depression hit our nation and the officials of McPherson Academy, as it was then known, could get together only enough funds for two stories and tar roof.

Where the business offices are now located, many exciting basketball games were played. This was McPherson's first gymnasium.

Some of the earlier students remember that tubes and buckets were used to catch the dripping water, which came through the tar paper roof during rainy weather.
