BULLDOGS LOSE TO SWEDES

Swedes Held The Lead Throughout The Whole Game Until The Score Was Tied 25 to 25 As The Gun Was Fired.

BULLDOGS 26, SWEDES 29

Captain Nonken was the Outstanding Player of the Game

Last night the Bulldogs lost their final Kansas conference game in an extra period to the Bethany Swedes by the score of 29-26, this being the first game lost on the home floor in the last two years and the last home game of the season for the Canines. From the start the Bulldogs were outplayed in every department of the game and seemed to have fallen into a slump similar to the one they experienced a couple weeks ago when they barely came through for the conference title. The game was rough with plenty of fouls being called on each side. The game was slow and very unspectacular.

Blickenstaff started the game off with a free throw and Rump followed up with a tip-in. Vanek, Larson and Lindahl each add a point from the charity line. Larson gets a field goal and Miller adds a pair from the free throw line. Larson gets a free throw on Rump's foul and Lindahl makes a counter. Crumpacker gets two set-ups in a row then Ecklund and Larson each add to the Swede score and the half is over with the score 9-13 in favor of the visitors.

The second period started off in a hurry as Larson drops in a pretty one from the court and Lindahl adds from the free throw line. Crumpacker and Miller take turns adding two field goals and Larson gets a tip-in. Nonken gets a free toss. "Crummy" gets a nice one, but Larson comes back with a nicer pair of baskets. Miller adds one more. Tarrant goes in for Ecklund and Holloway for Rump. Tarrant gets a basket. Holloway gets a nice one and Miller drops a beauty from the side just in time to tie the score as the final gun is fired with the score 25 all.

The extra period started off in a bitter fight on the part of both teams. Crumpacker gets a charity one and the score is 26-25 for us, but Miller fouls Larson at center and goes out on personals. Rock goes in. Ecklund gets in for a set-up and before long he has another and the final gun goes off with the Bulldogs holding the short end of a 26-29 score, but they are Conference champions nevertheless.

Captain Nonken was the outstanding player of the game. His teamwork with Blickenstaff was by far the best display seen here for a long time. Larson, the ungainly Scandinavian center was high point man of the game due in no small measure to the advantage of his excessive height. Little Elmer Crumpacker played a stellar game last night, but was unable to hit his stride which was developed in the Henry game last week when the Canines swamped the V. A. U. champs with a terrible one-back. Vanek played an outstanding game for the visitors.

BULLDOG DEBATERS WIN

The affirmative debate team, Keith Hayes and Phillip Spohn, defeated their opponents, Vernon Shaban and Beverly Wilkerson from Kansas Wesleyan, here in the chapel Friday evening. The other half of the debate was not held then because of conflicting arrangements in Salina.

Dr. P. W. Maxwell from Washburn College, the critic judge, complimented McPherson upon the size of the audience at the debate. He expressed pleasure at being able to listen to more mature minds, after having judged a number of high school debates and declared that the McPherson-Salina debate was an intelligent discussion of an acute problem.

In his opinion the affirmative countered an argument that is deeply set in the traditions of the American people, that is, that trial by judge is a guard of personal rights for which there is no substitute. The system of commercial arbitration, proposed by the affirmative, has become quite widely and successfully used in the settlement of contract cases will never, Dr. Maxwell believes, replace trial by jury in criminal cases. The judge stated that a complete acceptance of the proposal of the affirmative would necessitate an amendment of the constitution.

BULLDOGS DEFEAT MO. VALLEY A. A. U. CHAMPS

The Henry Clothiers Were Defeated for the Second Time By The Bulldogs

BULLDOGS 36, HENRY'S 29

Henry's Are Defeated On A Lack of Endurance

The McPherson College cagers handed the Missouri Valley A. A. U. League Champions, the Henry Clothiers' of Wichita a 29-36 defeat on the Wichita floor last Friday evening before an enthusiastic group of spectators.

Although they got off to a slow start the Bulldogs built up a ton-point lead before their hosts got started. Henry's tied the score and from early in the game until the end of the first period it was a game of seesaw with each team displaying about the same kind of game. The half ended with Henry's in the lead 14-14.

In the second period the Wichitans gradually pulled away from the Canines in such a way that the Bulldogs were trailing 17-27 with but five minutes to play. Captain Nonken took time out and pulled his team together and after play was resumed the Bulldogs began to settle down to the game with their usual determination to win. A shower of baskets

SWAIN WINS FELLOWSHIP

At a meeting of the faculty last Friday morning, Miss Dorothy Swain was elected to receive the fellowship to Kansas University. The qualities considered necessary for a candidate to possess are scholarship, leadership, and the ability to do research work.

Miss Swain has made a consistent record of good grades and has held a number of positions in extra-curricular activities, including Y. W. C. A. vice-president and cellist in the McPherson Salon orchestra and in the chapel orchestra and a member of the Thespians Club. Although her major is French, Miss Swain will continue her work in Latin. She also stated that she plans to teach following her graduate work.

The fellowship award carries with it a stipulation of four hundred dollars.

Y. W. C. A.

Reports of the students conference held at Wichita Saturday were given at the Young Women's Christian Association meeting last Tuesday morning under the supervision of Miss Ruth Blickenstaff. Miss Margaret Devillies reported on the conference speakers and Miss Dorothy Swain told of the fellowship banquet held Saturday evening.

McPherson College had the largest representation at the conference. At the next meeting further reports of the conference will be given.

All freshmen women at Ohio State University will be required to live in university owned dormitories.

BULLDOGS DEFEAT THE MIAMI A. C. CAGERS

The Florida Team is the Champion Team of the Southern United States

BULLDOGS 45, MIAMI 39

Miller and Alexander were High Point Men

The Bulldogs downed the fast travelling Miami (Florida) A. C. basket ball boys to the count of 39-45 on the local court last Tuesday evening, before a large house of enthusiastic Bulldog supporters. From the start the Canines seemed to possess a lot of self-confidence in facing their opponents from the South-east with an enviable record of two losses in the past two seasons, with a strong Bulldog determination to add to the lost column of the visitors. Miami displayed a fine style of basketball which was marked by rapid passing and accurate shooting, but in face of the almost impenetrable defense our boys afforded they had to resort to long shots.

The game started off in a hurry with Alexander, giant Miami center, looping in a long one. Crumpacker gets a counter, then Miller. Gradually Miami adds on to her score that led for some time until Miller and Crumpacker take turns adding points enough to tie the count at 10. Two goals by Miller and Miami calls for time-out with the score 10-14 against them. Miller then Rump, then Blickenstaff. Then Miami begins a rally. With the visitors trailing 19-20 the Bulldogs call time out, but in spite of their defensive efforts Alexander dropped in a pretty one from center giving Miami a 21-20 lead at the half period.

The second half opened with added vim and fire on the part of each team. At first Miami starter to score dangerously and things looked bad for the local boys until the Canine defense began an enormous rally. Crumpacker is fouled in his attempt to shoot. The goal is good and he makes both free throw shots. Miller adds a goal and so does Crumpacker and Rump and the Miamians call for time with the count 25-30 against them, a lead held by the Bulldogs everafter. When play was resumed Crumpacker added two more points and Miller dropped two nice long ones. Rump slugged one in. Miller again. Wiry added two points for the visitors. Miller got a charity toss and made it good, then Rump annexed another one from the field. The score was 41-27 for the Bulldogs with ten minutes to go. The Canine reserves were almost ready to go in when Miami started an offensive attack that caused the Bulldogs to call for time out with the score standing 39-43 and two minutes to play. Play was resumed and Blickenstaff annexed his third contribution to the McPherson score after which the Bulldogs played a very successful stall game until the final gun cracked with the score reading 39-45 against Miami.

The Miami basketballers played their slow deliberate brand of basketball, at which they are artists, but it amounted to almost nothing in comparison to the way the Canines led the game. The Bulldogs had all their usual punch and fire and played the game their way at a dizzy speed which would have spelled defeat to any independent team.

With the bravado characteristic of tip-off from his giant opponent and led the scoring with nineteen points. Alexander led the opponents with sixteen points and Elmer Crumpacker showed up better in this game than in any for a long time. He got a dozen points.

When summarized the game looks

CONFESSIONS OF A CO-ED

I really don't have anything criminal to confess but then again these confessions won't be the true story type either.

In the first place many people wonder what co-eds are. Well, co-eds are girls who tell fellows they have been on dates with what good times they had, then they go up stairs and tell the other girls what an awfully ancient egg he was. Co-eds are gold-diggers. They never like to spend their own money but they fix themselves up cute and pretty and enslave some poor collegiate boy's heart then help him spend his dad's hard earned shiekies. Co-eds are fixturers put in a college for the purpose of making boys have heart trouble and place obstacles in the serious path of obtaining an education. All above definitions of co-eds were originated by boys who have been given the air, mitten, or what have you?

I think co-eds are real good American girls who desire an education on the side. All girls like to have good times. We girls can't help it if all the boys fall in love with us. It just must be natural, but one can acquire many dates if she knows how—and how.

This is supposed to be a confession . . . When I first came to school I had a serious ambition to be a credit to the Good, the True, and the Beautiful. I had heard lots about M. C. and I thought, "Now there is a place where I can learn something. I can have a good time. I was popular in high school and made passing grades. I am considered good looking and dress well enough so I should be popular in college".

So I came to M. C. with my brand new wardrobe trunk and the inevitable hat box and dressing case. When I started out I dressed as collegiate as I knew how. I wore a tailored suit and a polka-dotted necktie. I tied a scarf in a smashing bow under my dimpled chin and used my tried and true Kiss-Proof Lipstick once more. Dick said I looked sweet enough to kiss but he didn't sweet my mama was there.

I arrived at M. C. and thought sure there would be someone to meet me but no one was there but the taxi man. He said, "Are you going to the Hill?" I said, "No, I want to go to McPherson College". When I first saw the Ad building from the outside I didn't see the inside till the next night; there were various sensations which I entertained, too numerous to analyze.

I went to my room, met my roommate, and found she wasn't nearly as bad as I expected. We went down to the dining room. Here I was disappointed. I thought we were supposed to wear evening gowns to dinner and that the boys wore Tuxedos but I found they all dressed and acted like my brothers, rather ill-mannered. I expected to hear mother say, "Johnnie, behave!"

That night was what they called a "get-acquainted" party. I don't see what they called it that for, I never got acquainted with anyone. It was dark and I couldn't see faces (I mean the party was on the lawn) and I can't remember names anyhow. One boy wanted to know he had been to K. U. last year and I said, "No, I have never been out of the United States".

The next day I took a set of exercises they called matriculation. I emerged at sundown with a dizzy head, a schedule card which said I was supposed to be enrolled in chemistry and other heathenish courses, and minus about two hundred dollars. I think they used hypnotic suggestions on me. I wanted to take dancing, public speaking, Hebrew, and Journalism but it seemed I was judged rather missing when it came to selecting what I was to do.

I dressed my sweetest the next day to go to class at the unearthly hour of eight a. m. The cutest boy sat across the aisle from me and so I gave him the so-called "glad eye" and he surprised me by asking to take me to the show.

That night, after getting what I never had before, a permit, I was ready. When we got outside I asked him where the taxi was. "Taxi," he howled, "we walk". And we did. I never was so tired in my life. When I got back to the dorm I had acquired two bunions, sixteen corns, and ingrained resolve never to date that boy again. That was the first time I ever walked at the beginning of a date.

I resolved to turn into a book worm and study which I did for the rest of the term. I would not have done so but I had to until my bunions and corns healed up. The only walking I did was from the dorm to the library. Still that can be made interesting quite often.

I went home at the end of the year and mother said I had worse manners than when I left. Dad said, "Young lady, I got writers' cramp from answering overdraw notices". Ever time a boy called for a date I asked if he had a car. All in all college was a great success.

STUDENT ELECTIONS

With the coming Y elections student officers for next year are being chosen. Following these elections come those in other organizations and student offices. The choice of the people for these positions demands that every one exercise his or her unbiased judgment and endeavor to choose the best fitted for the respective place. School life in general and the success of the undertaking the new officers are to sponsor depends much on the competence of those elected to the positions. The choices are warful of thought and consideration above personal prejudice and hastily drawn conclusions.

McPHERSON DESIRABLE SIZE

Recent moves in large universities have been to divide each one into several small schools where more individual help and supervision can be given each student. The value of the personal contact with instructors and the advantage of doing work in less crowded conditions is becoming more and more recognized. Stopping occasionally to think that such a condition exists in a college the size of McPherson increases our appreciation of the advantages that present themselves in such a situation. The rank of an institution depends largely on the class of work required there. The rank of this institution is likewise dependent for its standing on the work accomplished. With conditions that are recognized as among the best as to size and organization it becomes evident that the way to make the best of the situation is to start in and use to the best, faculty and equipment as we find them here in the best way we possibly know.

BULLDOG FORENSICS

The attendance at the college debates has been noticeably better this year than previous. Such a change is gratifying and indicates interest in our debaters. An audience, it would seem, would be much easier to present a convincing argument to than rows of empty chairs. Even with this increase of attendance there are yet plenty of seats in the chapel for others to attend our debates. It seems fair to expect that those men who have been spending hours every week working that they may do their best for M. C. would merit an interest in the student body that is manifested by its attendance at these forensic battles. Outstanding work in debate and oratory has been done by McPherson in past years. Let the platform men know we expect history to repeat itself.

Y. M. C. A.

The program at Y. M. last Tuesday consisted of a report of the Wichita Conference. It was presented by four of the men who attended the conference on Saturday and Sunday. Warren Staler, Professor H. J. Heckman, Harold Crist, and Roy Peebler gave some brief impressions which they received.

The nature of the programs was that of group thinking on world relations. Three aspects were emphasized: Information, Fellowship, and Application.

The race question was especially considered. There were members of various races and nationalities present and it was reported that among Christians of each of them there was a feeling of comradeship.

There was a suggestion that Americans do not understand the people of other races and countries as they do us.

CABINET MEETING

The Y. M. C. A. cabinet met Wednesday evening for the consideration of business connected with the coming election of officers, and the satisfactory conclusion if the current year's business. The thirteenth chapter of I Corinthians was used for the devotional period, and as a basis for many of the remarks which followed. After the selection of a nomination committee, the period was turned over to Dr. V. F. Schwalm, who was present for an intimate talk with the men on the coming year's work and possibilities, and of aims and emphasis which might more fully enable the Y. M. C. A. to meet the needs of the M. C. men. The session ended with prayer.

A three-course menu of fruit cocktail topped with a green cherry, roast chicken, stuffed dressing, creamed dried corn, potato chips, pickles, cranberry salad, buttered rolls, grape jelly, banana sandwiches, chocolate and white layer cake, and opera sticks was served by the Misses Mildred Hude and Myrtle Ainsworth.

FORMER BULLDOG STUDENT NOW IN LITERARY WORK

The following is an account from the McPherson Daily Republican concerning a former Bulldog student and a Spectator contributor:

The many friends of Wendell (Jack) Johnson, son of A. R. Johnson of this city, will be greatly interested in learning that he is making a steady advancement in the development of his life's work, and is receiving many coveted honors at the University of Iowa, which he is attending.

Recently, Johnson, whose literary ability was recognized during his high school and college days in Mc-

Pherson, was made chief editor of Hawk Wings, a literary magazine of high quality, published quarterly by the students of the university, in which selected articles by Johnson are attracting special notice.

Just a couple of weeks ago Mr. Johnson was made assistant to the director of Adult Education at the university and he will take up these duties next season. This position carries a splendid salary and allows him to carry some of his studies and continue his work toward his doctor's degree.

Election to the Phi Beta Kappa Society, national honorary scholastic organization, is another of the honors recently conferred upon this McPherson young man. Friends of "Jack" are glad to learn of the splendid progress he is making and hoping that he keeps right on in his advancement toward the goal he has set for himself.

FILM TO BE SHOWN

The chemistry department is securing the following films to be shown in the chapel Friday evening at seven-thirty:

"The Story of Sulphur" (2 reels). This shows the mining of sulphur from deposits at a depth of 1,000 feet by means of compressed air which forces up sulphur that has been liquified by superheated water pumped down from the surface.

"The Story of Heat Treatment of Steel" (2 reels). This film shows laboratory experiments with steel heat-treating methods, and effect of different treatments. Tempering and tests for proper hardness and strength are illustrated.

The last picture to be shown is "Through the Oil Fields of Mexico." This picture shows the method of oil production in Mexico.

FROSH-SOPH. PARTY

With the bravado characteristic of college students the members of the freshman-sophomore men's Sunday school class accepted the "challenge" of the freshman-sophomore girls' class to attend a party in the basement of the college church last Saturday evening.

At seven thirty o'clock about eighty gathered in the church basement for an evening of fun.

Stunts and contests furnished a great deal of amusement and old-fashioned games such as "She eackles" and "How do you like your neighbor" caused much merriment.

That the feminine members of the party realized that men have hearty appetites and had therefore made provisions to appease the hunger of their guests became obvious when at a late hour refreshments were served.

The menu consisted of sandwiches, salad, wafers, and coffee. After the men had given a number of dolls to show their hostesses their appreciation for the evening's entertainment, the party dispersed.

COSMOS CLUB ENTERTAINS

An unusual and interesting entertainment entitled "Fair Women" was presented by the Cosmos Club in the college chapel last Monday night at 7 o'clock before the college women and the Dames Club. The play was based on Tennyson's "Fair Women". Various characters from history, literature, and fairyland were impersonated by the Cosmos members, thus portraying the supposed dream of the reader, Miss Della Lehman. The entertainment was directed by Mrs. Alberta Vaniman Reed.

After the program the guests were invited to the Y. W. room where they met the women of all periods of history and of all varying types. Dolly Madison, assisted by Topsy served brick ice cream and chocolate cake.

The personnel of the group was as follows: Alice in Wonderland..... Marietta Byerly Mother Goose..... Mrs. Rothrock Chinese Mother.....

BRAIN power, not horsepower, is the chief operating requirement of the electrical industry.

This requirement must be continuously anticipated to provide leaders for the future. Accordingly, each year, more than 400 picked college graduates come to the General Electric Company for a post-graduate course in electrical science.

With a faculty including inventors and engineers of international distinction, something more than electrical knowledge is imparted to these young men. Here they also find inspiration which prepares them for leadership in this electrical age.

BULLDOGS DEFEAT A. A. U. CHAMPS

by Miller, Crumpacker and Rump gave the visitors a three point advantage. Then Jerry Spohn dropped in one cutting the Bulldog lead to 29-26. Crumpacker soon connected with the goal again giving the Canines another three point lead. With but forty-five seconds to go Miller made a lightning pass to Crumpacker under the basket and two more points were added to the score. The ball went up at center. Miller got the tip, made a spectacular shot at the goal and just as it went through the hoop the final gun cracked, the score 29-36 for McPherson.

Crumpacker, left handed McPherson forward was high point man of the game with sixteen points to his credit. Spohn led the Henrys with fourteen points, Miller, the man the Henrys said wrecked them the first time the two teams met, got twelve points in spite of the fact that the main part of the Henry defense was centered on him. A Wichita player after the game congratulated our fellows saying that we have the best team in one respect and that is that our fellows never give up the fight until the final gong is sounded.

The Bulldogs played a fast clean game and played around their opponents a large share of the time, finally defeating them on account of their lack of endurance, a thing which most independent teams are short on.

BETHEL GAME

McPherson College easily defeated the Bethel College quintet 17-24 on the Newton court last Thursday evening. Except for a few minutes at the start the Bulldogs always had a safe margin and led at the half 17-6. McPherson easily worked its way through the Bethel defense and in turn put up a stone wall like defense that found the Mennulites almost helpless to penetrate it for close-up shots. Most of the Bethel shots were from long range. Miller led the scorers with thirteen points for the Canines.

The box score was like this:

McPherson (24)	fg.	ft.	P.
Crumpacker, f.	3	1	0
