KEITH HAYES TO HEAD NEW CAMPUS ORGANIZATION FOR PURPOSE OF STUDYING INTERNATIONAL PROBLEMS

To Hold Meetings Twice A Month—Lillian Carlson Secretary And Treasurer—Herbert Eby To Direct Programs Sponsored By World Politics Class

FIRST PROGRAM FEBRUARY 16

Attempting To Affiliate With National Organization—May Be Held In Chapel

Mon., Feb. 2—A new organization, the International club, made its appearance on the College campus today, as a result of plans that have been formulating for some time. Keith Hayes, senior, was elected as its first president, with Lillian Carlson as secretary and treasurer and Herbert Eby as chairman of the program committee.

It is the purpose of the new organization to study current international topics of the day. Meetings are to be held twice each month. A number of students will deliver talks on certain definite problems of international scope and then the president of the organization or its sponsor, Dr. J. D. Bright, will lead an open forum for an open discussion. It is probable that the meetings will be held in the College chapel auditorium.

It is conclusive that all members of the World Politics class of Dr. Bright will be required to be present for all meetings, as the organization is a phase of the class work. All other history students, and other students interested in international problems, are privileged to attend all of the meetings.

According to plans at the present time the first meeting will be held Monday night, Feb. 16, in the College chapel. The general topic for the first meeting will be "Representations."

Attempts are to be made to affiliate the McPherson organization with the national organizations.

VISITORS APPEAR ON FRI. CHAPEL PROGRAM

Fri., Jan. 30—Two prominent visitors, one a music professor from the University of Missouri, Claude Newcomb, and the other a professor in the Theological Seminary in Philadelphia, W. R. McNutt, sang and spoke respectively in chapel this morning.

Professor Newcomb sang a group of three selections, his first one being, "Birds Song at Eventide," followed by "Cargo" and "The Bitterness of Love." As an encore number the Professor sang "Sweet Little Woman of Mine."

The key note of Professor McNutt's talk was the fact that life and growth go hand in hand.

G. N. BOONE GRANTED LEAVE OF ABSENCE BY THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES WHO HAVE BEEN IN SESSION

To Complete For Doctor's Degree in California University—Given One Year Leave—Nobody Has Yet Been Secured To Take His Place

MAY LEAVE IN JUNE

Trustees May Secure Sargent Again To Head Endowment Campaign

Tues., Feb. 3—It was announced by the administration today that Prof. G. N. Boone, head of the Industrial Arts department of the College had been granted a leave of absence for the next school year of 1931-32. The leave of absence was granted by the board of trustees who were in session here yesterday.

The endowment campaign of the College was discussed by the trustees in their annual meeting and it was decided to ease up on the drive for the present and then if economic conditions are improved to continue it in the summer and during the fall. Plans are being made and it is altogether probable that Frank N. Sargent, who assisted in the endowment campaign during the fall, will be secured to head the campaign.

It is the plan of Professor Boone to continue his work for his doctor's degree in some university in California. He is now making plans to secure fellowship to Leland Stanford university, however, nothing is as yet definite along this line. Professor Boone will take his doctor's degree in Personal and Guidance work, and he is of the opinion that it may take him a year and a half to complete his work.

Professor Boone will leave with his family soon after school is out in the spring for California to take up his schooling. As yet no man has been secured to take the position made vacancy by Professor Boone.

The loss of students, however, was considerably less than expected by officials of the College, and less than a year ago.

Present figures show that the freshman class in still the largest with a grand total of 89 students, with the sophomores second with 57. PROGRESS AND COOPERATION

The United States is the foremost nation of the world in the everyday use of science they tell us. Yet our pseudo-statesmen still cling to that Eighteenth Century slogan "Beware of Entangling Alliances."

There is not a major war since our existence, even as colonies which has not vitally effected us, and today our foreign loans and investments, national needs for rubber, and export of steel bind us to every corner of the world by threads of rubber, gold and steel, and yet like an ostrich with its head in the sand we practice so-called isolation.

Having more interest outside of our domestic boundaries than any other nation we refuse to join the World Court, the only international agency to settle international disputes of a legal nature.

Having more military power, latent or developed, than any other single unit in the world, spending more money daily for armaments than any other nation, we still lend only a cold shoulder to disarmament conferences. Hugh Gibson, head of ministers abroad, stated at the Preparatory conference of 1931, that he was there to lend a great deal of silence. His consistent opposition of a great many humane and constructive measures proved he was no liar, tho certainly a short sighted nationalist.

The actions of our government are like those of a balky horse with a load of construction material. Can he be reformed, or will we make of Jackass, the corpse of the American public?—Submitted.

CLARA BOW

"Remember who is the defendant in this case," the judge told Miss De Voe, Clara Bow's erstwhile secretary now being tried for appropriating $30,000 of Clara's income for herself and her "boy friends."

The public would do well to remember who is the defendant in the case too, a public which has bestowed hundreds of thousands of dollars on persons of Clara's type.

Here is a case made to order for the caustic pen of our erstwhile critic, Mr. Menken. A silly, immature young woman, still flapperish in her behaviour altho long past the flapper age, one who orders expensive drinks at her front door and thinks she is in love with four men at once, is featured in all our newspapers, overwhelmed with fan letters, and generally made into a national idol. She has neither brains nor good sense, neither refinement nor education, and yet the public adores her.

It would do well to ask itself, on just what basis does it form its judgments of individuals, on reason or on ridiculous hysteria.—Daily Kansan.

ANARCHY IN THE UNITED STATES

Anarchy is a social condition (some say it isn't social) which without government permits every individual to have the fullest self expression that he can secure for himself. This is the ultimate of "Individualism" as we now conceive it.

The organized society begins when the group starts legislating and restraining for the benefits of all members, finding its completion in a socialistic or purely communistic state.

The upper class in America are the most Anarchistic group in the world at present, for in practice they are limited by nothing. Their money, power, and political contact, in courts or at large nullifies all law for the good of the masses, and leaves them unhampered to pursue the fullest expression they can plan for themselves by simply maneuvering their money and "pull."

It matters not whether it is economic strangulation, sex orgies, or physical, mental, social, or recreational starvation which their acts promulgate, so long as they have money they are limited only by their ability to maneuver it for their ends.

You may say that the upper class cooperate. Yes, they cooperate but in the interest of greater anarchy. You say they donate to charity and are benevolent, but it is simply one form of their maneuvering in order to subjugate the masses for greater expression thru anarchy.—Submitted.

CHAPEL MUSIC

The music department furnishes music of high quality as preludes and recessions in chapel programs. This music represents work and expense on the part of each performer, but is given to the student body free of all charges. Students listen or not as it pleases them, talk and laugh without care for the selection or the person playing. At the close half a dozen people will applaud, another half dozen give one clap, thereby drawing the failure out painfully. If students really enjoy the music, why not make it known by a good round of hearty applause; if not, why make it so evident by half-hearted applause.—Ennuye Satirist.

Science tells us that if there were a small hole in your electric light bulb so that a million molecules of air could enter each second, it would require a hundred million years to fill the bulb with air. We're from Missouri, so will have to be shown, and anyway, we would like to see some of our congressmen try it for it might keep them busy for a while, at least.

"One Missouri paper called it the Lickersham report, and the editor, noticing the error, said that he didn't think it was such a bad mistake after all.

Good food, good habits, good digestion contribute to good judgment. And good judgment is the raw material of success.

We all claim to love the truth, but many of us only trifle with it.

"To dare" is the secret of success in literature as it is in revolution—and in love.

Humans are much alike and when the meek inherit the earth they'll probably turn it into cash and buy swell cars.

SPECULATIONS of a SPECULATOR

We "Spec" there was more than one anxious party at the feed on first floor Saturday night when she found it was to be a surprise announcement party.

"I had a fine lap supper last night at the restaurant."

"At the restaurant? How come?"

"Well, I was sitting kind of with my back to a man at the next table who was tipping back in his chair in a dangerous fashion. He lost his balance and as he fell backward to my right, he threw out his arms to catch his balance and knocked my bowl of soup into my lap. That was the hottest lap supper I ever did have."

We "Spec" that since old father groundhog saw his shadow on Monday, that some of us will feel better satisfied that we bought winter coats this year.

In the Family Class they had just about run ragged the question of whether monogamy and polygamy were types of marriage or of families, Mack got inspired and tried to settle it by the following logic:

"When a man marries a woman who has never been married before, that would be a type of marriage. But if he married a widow with six children—that's family."

Girls, it is all right for you to try to hold your youth, but not while he is at the steering wheel.

Father to young man who has been sent home after the first semester: "Congratulations, my boy."

Son: "But you don't understand, I flunked out in medical school."

Father: "But think of the lives you have saved."

"What was going on upstairs last night?"

"Two of us girls were having a little water fight."

"Didn't you hear Matron ring the bell?"

"Sure, we're not deaf."

"Then, why didn't you stop?"

"Well, I was still wetter than she was."

THE HARNLY'S ENTERTAIN

Sat. Jan. 23—Dr. and Mrs. H. J. Harnly entertained to a breakfast this morning at their home on East Euclid a number of friends. HOT SHOTS from the Days' Weekly NEWS

There is only one thing that we are afraid of with this nice spring-like weather holding out so long when we should be enjoying real winter weather—and that is—that students will start those "long strolls on moonlight nights," and forsake their "studies," and think of "June" instead of February, when such terminations should not come for at least two or three months at the least. We might give you a little hint—don't stroll too far on these evenings for you might get caught in a blizzard—meaning of course the weather.

With the first semester grades sent to anxious parents, students are waiting in suspense and some are not so over-anxious to see the mail-man come—for he may have a letter from Dad or Mother, wanting to know if P meant "fair" work, or if D was some adjective instructors used in dealing out justice to those who were high ranking "students."

Blast it all anyway. It is going to take us another week to learn our new second semester schedule after all our efforts last week.

Last Saturday afternoon the Quad photographer was taking field pictures of the fair W. A. A. athletes when in the middle of an indoor football game the young ladies went into a huddle in the center of the diamond. The photographer snapped his camera and said: "Now we'll caption that picture as 'Time Out For Another Explanation From The Empire.'"

The test for a good radio is whether or not it has good reception for "Amos 'n Andy."

And the committee went into another huddle as they attempt to select the seniors annual play.

There is only one way to get along with others in this world and that is to get along with yourself. Yeah! And how is one going to get along with himself if his neighbor is continually rapping about hard times every time he comes over to borrow your best fiction magazine just when you are getting to the interesting part of your favorite story.

They are still harping about that Austin chassis that turned over when it ran over a cigarette stub, but we have yet to hear of the Austin that turned over while chasing a golf ball on the 18th green of a miniature golf course.

The next thing we hear of will be that hell-hops are now using the midger Austin in the reception rooms of some of our large hotels.

The trustees and ministers are here this week so we are in for a week of new stories, both tame and raw. And how.

MISSIONARY STUDENT'S SON DOESN'T THINK VERY MUCH OF AMERICAN VOCAL TALENT

Son of J. S. Rice Heard Nothing But African Music Until Coming To America—Rice Taught in Industrial School in Natal, South Africa—American Tobacco Companies Sell Cigarettes To The Natives

By EDNA NYQUIST

Speaking of provincialism there is, at least one student in McPherson college who has a world-wide vision and that man is Mr. J. S. Rice, who has been on the African mission field for seventeen years. You'll notice him around the campus, perhaps, not because he tires to make himself conspicuous but because he is conspicuously kind in his attitude.

Mr. Rice decided to be a missionary 25 years ago as a representative of the Free Methodist church—so he went to the Mechanics Institute of New York and after studying there he journeyed to England and thence to the beautiful foothills of the Inzale mountains in Natal, South Africa. Here he taught in an industrial school for boys which was established and maintained by the Free Methodist church. The school gave these black-skinned boys training in tanning, carpentry, tailoring, blacksmithing, motor-mechanics, wagon-making, and leather work.

The boys he taught were of the Zulu tribe of Africans. Mr. Rice said that they were quick and willing to learn and were no more difficult to discipline than the same number of white boys in America. They are as a rule honest about everything with the one exception of the cigarette-smokers, however, they will lie almost every time if they think it will help them. (The fact that the American tobacco companies are putting cigarettes on sale in such places of the world isn't a fact for America to be proud of).

The boys are Christians and this largely accounts for their usual good conduct. But there are heathens all around them. Mr. Rice's next door neighbor had ten wives—Mr. Rice smiled when he told this. "The neighbor must have been wealthy for even one wife means that a man is rich for he pays ten head of cattle for her besides the heavy wedding expenses and forty head of cattle if she is a chief's daughter.

Mr. Rice was asked if he had any trouble with the heathens or if he was sever in danger because of them. He answered, "No, they usually leave us alone." He added that there might have been danger for him if he had gone near them when they were on their "beer drinks." They make beer out of corn, their mainstay in food, sometimes nearly 1000 of them drink to the dangerous point of killing one another.

So much for their bad customs and now for their good customs. Mr. Rice said they loved bright colors and put designs on the blankets which they wear, on pottery, and on their wooden spoons. Even their round thatched-roofed sod houses are decorated sometimes by these heathens who particularly long for self-expression. "And most interesting of all," Mr. Rice said, "I have never seen a native African who wasn't a good singer." They sing folk songs accompanied by stringed instruments of their own crude construction. Mr. Rice laughed good-naturedly when he told what his son said when he heard the first Americans sing when he came to America. The son had heard only African singing and his remark wasn't complimentary to American singing.

In closing the interview Mr. Rice stated that since he has been a missionary he has come to have a conception of humanity as one, with no superior races, and that the negro has all the possibilities that we as Americans do, if he is just given a chance by the whites.

Eugenia Dawson, Helen Eberly, Dale Strickler, and Rush Holloway, visited with friends at Ramona Sunday.

Russell, Elliott of Waldo visited friends in McPherson last week end.

Mildred Swenson, '30, attending school this year at the University of Kansas, visited a few minutes one day last week with friends on the campus.

LIBRARY INCREASES 1,020 IN ONE YEAR

Thurs., Jan. 29—Since Jan. 8, 1930, the College library has increased by 1,020 volumes of books which make a grand total of 10,520 books. This is the largest increase in a single year that has ever been made in the College library. The number of volumes added and the value of the books as reference material is the result of a library campaign launched by Miss Margaret Heckethorn, librarian of the library. Several books on coaching have been added recently which include Football for coaches by Warner; Coaching Football by Zuppke; and the Science of Basket Ball by Maxwell.

The latest large gift to the Library is the gift of Dr. H. J. Harnly which includes chiefly source material in the field of biology and economics. Other classic works have been added in the history fields. A book which will be used in the course being taught in The Family by C. A. Spaulding's Twenty-Four Views of Marriage.

The Library is also in possession of a gift copy from the author, David Phillipson of his book Reform Movement in Judaism.

FORMER DEAN WRITES VOLUME ON RELIGION

Book Of Dr. A. J. Culler Now In The Library

Fri., Jan. 30—"Creative Religious Literature" by Dr. A. J. Culler has recently been added to the library. This book will be of interest not only because of its content but also because of the author's former connection with the local college. Dr. Culler was associated with McPherson college from 1914-21 as Dean of the Divinity School and as the College pastor. From 1921-30 he was Dean of Professor of Biblical Literature at Hirma college, Ohio. In the spring of 1930 he went to Cleveland as pastor of the Heights Christian church.

In this book, which is the outgrowth of personal experience and an educational experiment combined, the study of biblical literature combines two methods. The first is a study of literature by types such as folk-songs and early ballads, short stories, ables, parables and allegories, lyric poetry, dramatic and epic forms, visions and symbols, and such prose forms as biography, history, and the essay. The second feature of the method is the comparison of the biblical material with other literature of the same type or theme.

The aim of Dr. Culler's book is to present the Bible as literature, so that it may be associated with and thought of as a part of the literary inheritance. The method of the book is meant to be inductive. This book is the result of lectures given with increasing interest at various places to widely differing audiences and should appeal to both popular readers and scholars.

DR. SCHWALM TELLS OF EASTERN CONFERENCE

Life And Art Are Simple Speaker Asserts

Wed., Jan. 28—In chapel this morning Dr. V. F. Schwalm, who has just recently returned from a convention of the Association of American colleges at Indianapolis, related a few of his personal reactions from the meetings.

"One of the most outstanding speakers at the Indianapolis meeting," Dr. Schwalm stated, "was Lauro Taft, the sculptor. His address came from overflowing heart of an old man. The people of this age need someone to direct, teach and instill in them the beauty that is around them."

After all, the speaker asserted, life is simple and art is simple if you make it so. Everything depends on the individual. In closing Dr. Schwalm said, "If you want to live life the highest devote your life to the fullest."

Freshmen-Sophomore Classes Enjoy Evening In Church Parlors

Fri., Jan. 30—Sixty-three members of the College freshman-sophomore Sunday school classes enjoyed a party this evening in the parlor of the Brethren church. Mrs. V. F. Schwalm and Dean R. E. Mohler, teachers of the two classes, were assisted by Mary Lou Williams and Fern Shoemaker in entertaining their guests.

The program for the evening followed the theme of Kansas Day observance. The guests were divided into four groups representing Wichita, Kansas City, Topeka, and McPherson, which carried out a number of contests and games. After refreshments were served Mrs. Schwalm led several well known songs before dismissal.

BULLDOGS LOSE TO WESLEYAN QUINTET

After An Early Lead The Binford Men Falter—Play Three New Men

WESLEYAN 32, McPHERSON 21

Suran, And Williams, Wesleyan, Each Chalk Up 10 Points

Fri., Jan. 30—Coach Melvin J. Binford, playing three men he had never before used in any varsity game because of the loss of Anderson and King on account of low grades, lost to the Kansas Wesleyan Coyotes to-night 21 to 32, in a Conference game.

The Bulldogs took an early lead and held it throughout the first half until the last minute when Wesleyan sunk a long shot to place them two points ahead with the score at 10 to 8 for the visitors. The second half opened with the Coyotes again accounting for goals and the Bulldogs faded out of the scoring side of the game with Suran, Williams, of the visitors caging baskets consistently. Five points was the closest McPherson came with in trying with their opponents any time during the second period.

Kansas Wesleyan made all of their charity shots count and McPherson accounted for 11 free shots, 9 of which were in the last period. Suran, Kinnamon and Williams, Wesleyan, all chalked up 10 points each to tie for high point honors of the game. For McPherson, Hill and Jamison, each accounted for 7 points for high scorers. The three new men that Coach Binford was compelled to use were Ohmart, Bartels, and Vogel.

"No, I didn't know it," replied the farmer. "But did you know you are listening to the biggest liar in the country.—Ottawa Campus.

McPHERSON TO MEET BAKER FEBRUARY 10

Baker Has Not Won Any Conference Games This Season

The next home game for the McPherson college Bulldog cagers will be with Baker university Tuesday night, Feb. 10, on the Convention hall court of this city.

The Baker Wildcats have not won any Conference games this season but they are doped to be strong competition for the Bulldogs who have lost 3 Conference games and won but one. Baker has played 4 and lost all of them. It is thought the Binford men will be in better condition for their next game than they were when they played the Bethany Swedes last night. The shifting and adding of new men to the varsity squad has been a hindrance in the steady development of team work and machine-like efficiency.
