POSEY JAMISON ON THE MYTHICAL TEAM

Leslie Edmonds Selects Binns, Kepner, Larson, Williams And Jamison

RUMP GETS HON. MENTION

Sports Writer Commends McPherson Guard On Good Sportsmanship

Leslie E. Edmonds' All-Conference Selection First Team Forwards: Binns, Ottawa, and Kepner, Ottawa; Center: Larsen, Bethany; Guards: Williams, Kansas Wesleyan (captain), and Jamison, McPherson.

Second Team Forwards: Colona, St. Mary's, and Suran, Kansas Wesleyan; Center: Wogan, Baker (captain); Guards: Toews, Bethany, and Crilly, Ottawa. Honorable Mention Klueck, St. Mary's; Lindahl, Bethany; Zimmerman, Bethany; Rump, McPherson and Dyck, Kansas Wesleyan.

Posey Jamison, junior at McPherson, has been selected by Leslie E. Edmonds, eminent sports writer and sports critic, as guard on the mythical All-Kansas conference team for 1931, and Irvin Rump, senior, was given a position in the list of those receiving honorable mention.

In selecting Jamison Mr. Edmonds stated: "Jamison is a high scorer but he can defend also as many an opponent can testify who has watched him break up a shot already on the way to the basket. Because of his timing and space appreciation he is unusually good retrieving about the basket. One would pay less than the tribute due Jamison were he to omit to chronicle that the former is as fine a sportsman as ever a coach or a official had to handle."

Jamison is a graduate of the Quinter, Kan., high school and played one year at LaVerne college, LaVerne, California, before coming to McPherson. In the Kansas conference Jamison has made a total of 52 points, playing a guards position all of the time.

This is the third year that Rump has played for the Bulldogs, being out during his junior year during the basketball season. Rump displayed his greatest ability in defensive work.

GOOD SPORTSMANSHIP

College students on the whole are good sports, some better than others. The best tests of sportsmanship, however, are not always one's ability to cheer a losing team or fight in the face of defeat. That is merely the popular thing to do. Even going through a long belt line is not the surest test of one's good sportsmanship, for when one has the eyes of society on him, it isn't hard to be a martyr.

A real test for sportsmanship was put up to some of the college fellows recently. Imagine being dressed in good clothes, on a strange road in foggy darkness, with mud of the stickiest variety known rolled up on the car wheels until they would not turn, having had no supper, all this at the time they were to be at an important appointment and with no chance of getting any help. Then imagine these fellows, with their hands and their best shoes muddy, mud splashed on their new overcoat or hat, laughing, singing, telling jokes and making wise-cracks to keep the girls in the party in good spirits, and no grumbling at all. Good sports? McPherson should be proud to own such.

TO HELL WITH RELIGION MENCKEN SAYS

"Religion is a serious scourge; it has been a curse to mankind." "Why should any rational man accept the prohibition law?" "Liberty is not worth anything unless it includes the right to be foolish." "A drunkard is the most completely happy man in the world." "Prohibition is essentially a struggle between civilized people of the cities and uncivilized yodels of the country." "If New York wants to be wet, why should Kansas object?" "Why those of the Christian species should run this country is more than I can make out, for they make a mess of everything they touch, including religion." "To hell with them and their archaic religious fee-to-faw-fums." "I believe that all religions are false, and no trumpeting of falsehood, however virtuous in intent, can be anything but vicious."—These, the above quotations, are utterances from the lips of Henry L. Mencken, editor of the American Mercury magazine and author of twenty notable books.

Mencken, America's most bitter critic of things American, is one of the leading spokesmen of the wets who has no religion and believes and hopes there is no hereafter. Condemning religion as a serious scourge and a curse to mankind Mencken is repulsing the heart of the nation that is now recognized as the leading nation in the world today. He is condemning the principles of the government—he is a slopping wet—he places no limit to liberty—he brands the church as being false. Should it be said—to hell with Mencken.

WET PLATFORMS, BRAIDED HAIR FEATURE W. A. A.

Thurs., Feb. 26—Wet platforms, strange dresses, peanuts, and tight braids of hair were all a part of the W.A.A. initiation held this evening.

Each pledge was given definite things to do and was told to appear on the campus at a definite time in their regalia. There was a mixture of cries such as "O, How I miss you tonight," "Wash While you Wait," and "It's about time to feed the baby." The bibbed and shining faced girls went to the dining hall during the meal hour. Later in the Y.W. room the final part of the initiation started, with each girl being brought before the members of the organization. A short talk on some deep subject was given, with the girls standing on a wet platform. (A tub containing ice cold water). Ethel Jamison, president, gave the pledge to the 18 new members. Refreshments were served.

SPECULATIONS OF A SPECULATOR

We "Spec" things have come to a "perky pass" when a man hangs around the girls' dorm all night. Shocking? Yes! But not so bad as it sounds.

ODE TO RADIATORS

(With special reference to cranky ones.)
Sing a song of radiators,
Lot of corked-up noise,
Sing a song of irritators,
Breaking up our joys.

When it's cold they're not so hot—
Always need them what they're not.
On fall blast you'll soon be yearning
For cold air and you'll be turning
Off the heat three-quarters around.
Then comes a percolating sound,
You can't bear it. Turned round
half-way

It will sizzle all the day.
Thumping, percolating, pounding,
Bolling, dripping, always sounding.

Sing a song of radiators,
Lot of corked-up noise,
Sing a song of irritators,
Breaking up our joys.

"Here, Goofy. Pay attention,
Where's your train of thought?"
"Well, I have a single-track mind
and my train of thought had a wreck."

Dr. J. J. Yoder, in teaching "The Family" was dwelling on the early attitude of Christians toward the position of women. "Women were to be kept subservient. They were not allowed to make themselves beautiful and attractive, but were to hide any beauty they had. That's St. Paul's idea. But if St. Paul were to come back these days, it would be mighty hard on him,"—yes, and what more wouldn't you hate to wake up a 100 years from now.

Miss Della Lehman, in lecturing in her experiences in London, informed her listeners that the English of-ten combine two kinds of meat. They stuff the necks of their chickens and turkeys with sausage, and she says, "That gives the sausage a real 'foul' flavor." We shouldn't wonder at that!

A plague of Black Leg broke out Thursday night when a few would-be W.A.A.-ers neglected to follow directions in full.

We "Spec" we would get out of Chapel sooner, if we would put the faculty back in their rightful places. Not one of them has failed to mention it and enlarge upon it when addressing the student body.

COLLEGE TITLE OF "BULLDOG" ORIGINATED FROM A COACHE'S PET DOG IN EARLY DAYS OF 1916

The 90 Pound Canine Used To Pull His Master To The Hill From Town With His Master Riding A Bicycle— "Ted," The Dog's Name, Would Get "Sore" (Physically) From Chasing Rabbits

BY EDNA NYQUIST

Still the Bulldog hangs on! There is a story and an interesting one about the naming of our McPherson warriors, so lets pull up the old comfortable chair by the flickering flames and have it.

Back in '16 and '17 a man named Verink was Y.M.C.A. secretary in McPherson. Now, you interrupt and ask what he has to do with the christening of the Bulldogs. Well, its like this we continue, the man owned a bulldog. Not just an ordinary canine of that species, but an eighty or ninety pounder with a white coat and a frolicsome disposition. Now Mr. Verink used to ride a bicycle from town out to the college to coach the College basket-ball team. And as the bicycle came so came the dog for he loved to play with the men out here, and they loved to play with him.

Now, we suppose as some people are more human than others some dogs must be more doggish than others. This earliest bulldog was at least edger to play, so eager in fact that he led the coach a merry chase if he attempted to keep up with him on the way out here. So Verink conceived of an idea. He put Mr. Bulldog on the end of a ten foot rope and the bicycle on the other end and the man and the bicycle found themselves rapidly towed out to the college.

Now this was all told to us by the Dean of the college, Prof. R. E. Mohler, so pull your chairs a little closer and we'll tell you some more about the original Bulldog. Once on a Saturday Mr. Verink set out with his dog for little hunting. Now Ted, the dog, saw lots of rabbits and since he was such a "doggish" dog he chased them all. And the next morning, oh! dear! it was so hard to move! When Verink called down the cellar steps to his pet that morning all he heard was a whine.

Again you interrupt to say, "well after all this, how did the Bulldogs happen to be called Bulldogs?" Then we say, "if you'll just be patient we'll tell you." M. C. had been playing some games with other schools and had been dubbed "the dunkards" by Leslie E. Edmonds in some sport write-ups. That didn't seem fitting and proper out here, so someone proposed that the pseudonym should be the Bulldogs.

Now according to Dean Mohler the men fell for the name at once. Why shouldn't they? Think of their good natured friend from up town. But every one didn't see it that way. Some said the name lacked dignity, others even said it needed refinement.

Then there was one chapel talk on the "hanging on" characteristics of the bulldog. Yes, hadn't friend Ted proved that already in his rabbit-chasing and bicycle-pulling?

And the name bulldogs hung in the air and to prove its stick-to-it-iveness—it still hangs on!

GOVERNOR WOODRING TO BE THE MAIN SPEAKER

NO INVITATION HIGH MEET IN THE SPRING

College To Abandon Track And Field Meet At Annual Festival

FOLLOW OTHER SCHOOLS

Is Recommendation Of The North
Central Association Of Colleges

It has recently been announced by the administration of the College that the College would not sponsor a state elimination high school track and field meet this spring in accordance with the recommendations of the North Central Association of Colleges.

McPherson has followed the example of Washburn, Southwestern and the University of Kansas in abandoning the practice of inviting high school athletics to compete for the state meet. The North Central association has not entirely prohibited such meets but they are attempting to eliminate them all together.

The motive of the Association to abolish high school invitation meets among colleges and universities to attempt to keep the high school and college sports on a strictly amateur basis. It is that that some colleges and universities hold such meets in order to "spot" outstanding athletes and endeavor to bring them to their institution. It is also believed that such a move might do away with such a practice.

The track and field meet has been held each year for the last nine years along with the high school festival at McPherson. The festival will continue to be a feature of the spring activities. It has been recommended by members of the administration to continue to have the tennis tournament, however, that matter has not as yet been settled. It is planned to have a high school music contest, the nature of which is yet to be announced, in conjunction with the festival. In the evening a banquet will be given to all the visiting high school seniors.
