In the main speech of the "M" Club banquet in the church parlors, tonight, Coach Lance emphasized physical fitness, and sportsmanship, of spectators and athletes. Coach Lance, stated that, although winning meant a lot to the coach, it is more important that the team is continually improving, rather than that they are continually winning.

Prof. J. A. Blair was toastmaster of the banquet. The McPherson College Male Quartet of 1929 sang several numbers. Ernest Betts, president of the "M" Club during the past year, gave the toast of welcome. Ross Curtis sang a solo, after which Charles Smith played a saxophone solo. Coach Melvin Binford gave a toast. The parlors were beautifully decorated with red and white. The banquet brought "M" Club members of former years together with those of the present, making the occasion a very enjoyable one.

DR. SCHWALM DIVIDES PEOPLE FOUR GROUPS

Only People Who Love What Is Right Are Happy

Mon., April 13—Dr. V. F. Schwalm said in chapel this morning that in regard to righteousness and iniquity, people could be divided into four groups:

1. Those who sin and enjoy it; eat, drink and be merry; step on the gas, nothing matters.

2. Those who love right, but due to ignorance or weakness they do wrong. These people are unhappy. They need resoluteness of life and strength of will. They need the strength of a vital religious experience.

3. Those whose external conduct is right, but in their hearts they have evil thoughts. This person is never happy.

4. Those who love righteousness and do it. Only the person who loves the right and does it is supremely happy.

Flying sparks for a time threatened the town's business district but firemen were successful in preventing the spread.

THE SENIOR CLASS OF 1931 HAS BEEN ORIGINAL IN MANY WAYS IN THE LAST FOUR YEARS

Only 11 Of The Freshmen Class Of 1927 Are Now Seniors—Enter Into Many New Ventures—Disregard Tradition And Custom—What Next, Writer Asks

Some call it radicalism—some hint at a degree of stubbornness. Radicalism is a decided change in ideas and principles in either a peaceful or revolutionary measure. One might call stubbornness down-right impudence, as a small child might refuse to submit to having his ears washed.

Four years ago a group of students entered McPherson college who were dubbed freshmen. From the very start they had ideas contrary to custom. Their activities were questioned and criticized by both students and faculty. New ideas seemed to come as freely to them as freckles on a bright day.

In the fall of 1927 eighty freshmen enrolled in the college. Three years have passed and forty seniors have weathered the storms, and forty are to receive their diplomas. Only eleven of the original eighty in the freshmen class of 1927 are now members of the senior class this year.

The senior class of 1931 has not been "radical" or has it been "stubborn." It is a question what one might use in classifying them in the ranks of classes. They have been original in many ways, and this originality has often brought a burst of criticism, the kind that always eases after others have had time to think it over thoroughly, and to weigh the circumstances.

The unique ventures of the senior class were most noticeable last year. The senior class, juniors last year, entered into a realm of activity, now altogether foreign to McPherson college, but something that no other class has ever done. It has always been the tradition or custom of the juniors and seniors to each spring sneak off from the rest of the student body for a day of merriment in some shady nook in central Kansas. Last year the juniors "went one better," they left the night before on their spring sneak, and stayed. Some of those who stayed at home were shocked at such a venture—but the juniors had a good time.

Then when the spring election came around last April the juniors were hunting for a man to elect as president of their class for this year. It was understood that Keith Hayes was returning for his senior year, so they elected him. He was not in school the year he was elected—he was teaching in the schools of Burton.

This year came around and the seniors and still up to their old tricks. The greatest surprise of them all was the announcement that the seniors would not give a class play this year. This is the first time for "ever so long" that a senior class has not presented a drama production during the last week of school.

Again they diverted from the customary channel of senior tradition when they planted their Chinese elm. Practically all the ivy that now clings to the walls of the building was planted by senior classes in the past. But the 1931 seniors had a better idea. They would plant something that would grow fast and make a mark in this world—so they planted a tree—instead of the traditional ivy.

W. S. G. DISCUSSES SOME OF THE CAMPUS PROBLEMS

Advocates A Uniformity of Standards In Giving Grades.

Thurs., April 9.—At the World Service Group meeting on Thursday evening, Ralph Keedy led the continued discussion of "What is the matter with McPherson College?" The leading topic of discussion was the tendency of instructors to give high marks in the college. It was agreed that, although McPherson College is a "School of Quality", the large percentage of "A's" and "B's" given would indicate that close to half the student body was doing superior work. The group advocated, on the part of the faculty, a uniformity of standards in giving marks and on the part of the students, a desire to learn rather than to make grades.

McPHERSON EXPENSES ARE ABOUT AVERAGE

Fries Talks On Money Problems In Y.M. Meeting

Tues., April 14.—Prof. J. H. Fries talked in the Y.M.C.A. meeting this morning, on "The College Man and the Money Problem." Special music was furnished by Lois Edwards, who sang a solo. Lillian Gottmann led devotions.

BOWMAN GIVES HIS FIRST CHAPEL TALK

Tells of the Value and Proposed Changes in the Present Calendar.

Fri., April 10.—Prof. J. L. Bowman, head of the mathematics department of the College, spoke in chapel this morning for the first time this year. Professor Bowman told of the value of calendars, how they have been changed in the past years, and of the proposal that is before the countries of the world at the present time.

The change that is being considered is to have each month have 28 days and then have thirteen months in a year. This will be an advantage to all businesses and industries in keeping their books and files.

KEPNER BACK IN SCHOOL

Ottawa Basketball Star Returns to Ottawa to Finish Last Year

Ottawa, Kan., April 11.—(Special)—Frank Kepner, Ottawa university basketball star who suffered a broken right leg in the last game of his collegiate career at McPherson, March 3, was able to return to his school duties this week. He is able to walk with a cane. He has been at his home in Wichita, recuperating. About two weeks ago he suffered an attack of gall stones from which he has recovered. Kepner is a senior.

— DRIPPINGS — from THE DOPE BUCKET

McPherson missed two athletes last week in the Triangular tennis, track, and field meet. "Jack" Lehman, the only letterman in tennis to return this year, was away at a debate tournament. He would have made a valuable asset to the tennis teams. Ward Williams, the distance runner, was at the same tournament. Both of these men will be in for the rest of the season and they should make a good showing.

Lilburn Gottmann, sophomore, played his first intercollegiate tennis in the Triangular meet and made a remarkable showing. With Flaming as a partner he went to the finals only to lose to Hutchinson and in the singles he was defeated in the finals by Hays. Gottmann played close to 100 games during the afternoon and before he quit in the evening he was so tired that it was beginning to tell upon him. If Gottmann keeps this pace up through the season he is going to make his letter.

General Electric Contributions to Health

at Play

COLLEGE TRAINED electrical engineers cooperated with the medical profession in developing G-E products that safeguard health. Notable among these are the x-ray tube, the G-E refrigerator, and the G-E Sunlamp. Of these three, the Sunlamp is the latest development, but it has already been acclaimed for its service in helping build that vitality which maintains the happiness of good health.

At Cornell University, members of "cold-prevention classes" (under daily, brief, ultra-violet-ray lamp treatments) reported 40 per cent less colds than were reported by classmates in a group without this treatment. Beyond home and college, the use of Sunlamps has extended to swimming pools and indoor golf courses. In the future, you may enjoy the Sunlamp as a standard fixture in offices, trains, clubs, and many other places where people gather.

And you may continue to expect new, unusual, and useful developments from G-E engineering and research. Among such products, there will doubtless be further contributions to personal health, comfort, and convenience, as well as to the promotion of industrial efficiency.
