McPHERSON COLLEGE ENTERTAINS OVER THREE HUNDRED HIGH SCHOOL SENIORS AT FESTIVAL

Banquet in Church Basement is Feature of Day—Bright Acts as Toastmaster—Home Economics Department Has Charge of Serving

TENNIS TOURNAMENT HELD

Twenty-five Schools Attend Annual Event Given on Saturday

A program of sports, music, and speeches entertained over 300 seniors of nearby high schools Saturday at the annual high school festival held on the college campus.

The program in which seniors of twenty-five high schools were represented consisted of a tennis tournament in the afternoon and a banquet in the basement of the college church Saturday evening.

The day culminated in the banquet given by the college, the home economics class being in charge. The church basement was prettily decorated in red and white. The meal was served by sixteen college students. Dr. J. D. Bright was toastmaster.

At the banquet the male quartet gave two numbers. Dr. V. F. Schwalm in talk on "College Intrinsics" spoke of the necessities of a college. "College Entrance" was the subject of Dean F. A. Repligole's speech.

Dean R. E. Mohler introduced the representatives of the various schools, following which Warner Nettleton gave a vocal solo. A play entitled "The Chinese Waterwheel" was presented by the dramatic art department.

Several schools who entered in the tennis tournament were not present at the banquet.

Gulah Hoover led in the opening singing. Then Edith Bechtelheimer led in devotionals and Warner Nettleton sang a solo accompanied by Bernice Dresher.

Mrs. Mohler said that many of the people of the mountains are eager for education, although many are too lazy even to sell what products they have.

CHOIR GIVES PROGRAM

A Capella Sings at Wimond Thursday Night

Last Thursday evening, the Capella Choir gave an hour's program in the high school auditorium at Wimond. The program consisted of numbers by the choir, ladies' trio, and male quartet. Scattered in the audience were several McPherson students. As soon as the program was over, the quartet went on to Mitchell to sing there for half an hour.

SECOND HONOR RATING GIVEN TO SPECTATOR

Critical Service Scores Publication—Total of 739 Papers Judged

This year's Spectator achieved Second Class Honor Rating or Good by the score of the National Scholastic Press Association.

The Spectators which are issued before Christmas were the only ones entered this year in the thirteenth All-American Newspaper Critical Service conducted by the National Scholastic Press Association in the Department of Journalism, University of Minnesota. A total of 739 papers were judged.

The scorebook was received recently which rates the newspapers according to news values and sources, news writing and editing, editorials and entertainment matter, and headlines, typography, and make-up. This twenty-four page booklet contains valuable criticisms and is full of helpful suggestions for improvement.

The honor ratings which are given are All-American Honor Rating—Superior; First Class Honor Rating—Excellent; Second Class Honor Rating—Good; Third Class Honor Rating—Fair; and Fourth Class Honor Rating—Below Average—No Honors.

There are few institutions the size of McPherson College putting out a newspaper as large or as often as the Spectator. It is considered an honor to achieve this year's score. The same rating was obtained last year. Two years ago the paper was not entered in the critical service, but before that a Third Class Honor Rating was achieved.

An interesting speech on "The Power of a Vocational Motive in Education" was given by Professor M. S. Dell during the chapel period Monday, May 1.

He spoke on the need for vocational training and the motives of parents, students, and institutions in offering and obtaining education for the learning of a vocation.

The parent wants an education for his child in order that the child might not have to work as hard as it was necessary for the parent to do; that the son might become a great man; that he might carry on an established business; or that he might be trained for awaiting positions.

A stage has been built northwest of the library and seats placed for the audience. Vernon Rhoades, the senior class president, will crown Clarice Evans who was chosen by the school as May Queen. Audrey Groves, the physical education instructor, who is in charge of the program, has been working hard and promises an interesting program.

TO ATTEND MEETING

On Saturday and Sunday, May 6 and 7, a Y. W. C. A. cabinet training convention will be held at Bethel College, Newton.

This meeting is being held for all the colleges this district and seven local cabinet members are planning to attend unless too many conflicting activities arise. The program and plans will be discussed in a cabinet meeting this evening.

COMING EVENTS

Wed., May 3—May Fete at 2:30 on college campus.

Educational films in college chapel at 7:00.

Tennis match with Bethany at Lindsborg.

Fri., May 5—Pentangular meet here.

Tues., May 9—Regular Y. M. and Y. W. C. A. meetings.

CHEMISTRY STUDENTS INSPECT HUTCHINSON

Visit Salt Mines, Flour Mills, and Factories

TRIP TAKEN ANNUALLY

About Forty Go on Excursion—All Meet at Paper Mill

Dr. J. Willard Hershey took his first year Chemistry class on its annual trip to Hutchinson last Friday. The eight cars carrying about forty students met first in Hutchinson at the paper mill. Following this, Dr. Hershey led the way to the flour mill and then to the Carey Salt Mine.

After coming back to the surface from the mine, the class went through the Carey Salt Plant, receiving its due share of sample in bath, table, and rabbit salt. Each car then went its own way in search of lunch. At 1:30 the group congregated at the Morton Salt Plant where two guides explained the methods of procedure.

In the Reformatory, which was next visited, the class saw the rug-making, printing, carpentry, mechanical, and electric departments. The students were taken through the kitchen to cell house No. 4 and then to the chapel where an officer explained disciplinary problems and punishments of the Reformatory.

The bakery was very interesting. Although it was not time for the loaves to be automatically sliced and wrapped, an obliging guide showed these operations on a few loaves.

Those students who wished to, next went to the foundry, following which they either remained by carloads in Hutchinson or returned home.

DELL SPEAKS ABOUT VOCATIONAL MOTIVE

Schools Should Help Find Vocations and Develop Character

An interesting speech on "The Power of a Vocational Motive in Education" was given by Professor M. S. Dell during the chapel period Monday, May 1.

He spoke on the need for vocational training and the motives of parents, students, and institutions in offering and obtaining education for the learning of a vocation.

The parent wants an education for his child in order that the child might not have to work as hard as it was necessary for the parent to do; that the son might become a great man; that he might carry on an established business; or that he might be trained for awaiting positions.

The student's desire for an education might be to prepare for a specific vocation or it might be caused by the fact that a friend has achieved something worthwhile by obtaining an education.

It is a school's wish to help a student find a vocation, to develop his character, to prepare him for service that he might give more than he gets, or to develop his personality.

A most true and worthwhile statement made by Professor Dell was that "A man who does not teach his son some trade prepares him for a robber."

Rosie: "Aren't you getting Johnnie and Bill confused?"

Mary: "Yes, I get Johnnie confused one night and Bill the next."

Miss Vetter is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Vetter of Moundridge and the sister of Ronald Vetter. She is a sophomore in the Moundridge high school.

BOHLING READS PAPER ON BANKING SITUATION

Professor Bohling, economics instructor, read last Friday in chapel a paper on the present banking situation in the United States.

The history of the banking system was reviewed as a background for present conditions. The causes of the breakdown, Professor Bohling attributes first to the failure of banks to stick to commercial banking. That is the banks rather than making only short term loans which were self-liquidating extended their business to long-term loans. Secondly, breakdown was due to the mismanagement and lack of capital.

In order to remedy the present factors which have caused the banking deadlock Professor Bohling suggested that all banks be brought into one system, that the law require minimum capital investments, that provision be made for chartering new banks, that there be some use of branch banking, and that there be strict regulation of loans with license to operate banks being only to men of experience and character.

WILL GO TO CONFERENCE

Wichita to Be Scene of Y. M. C. A. Meeting

At Wichita on Saturday and Sunday of this week a number of the members of the Y. M. C. A. cabinet plan to attend the cabinet training conference. This will be somewhat similar to the Y. W. conference which will be held at Bethel at the same time.

Those who are making plans to attend are Lester Pote, Carol Whitaker, Dr. J. D. Bright, Royal Prant, Everett Fasnacht, Clarence Sink, and Ward Williams.

Work on next year's Quadrangle has been in progress since early last spring and when school is out this year, practically everything will have been done that can possibly be accomplished. When it was learned last fall that it would be impossible to publish an annual this year because of financial reasons, the Quadrangle staff began work on the two year book which will be published next year and will include activities of this year and next.

When the two year book was planned it called for a rearrangement of the dummy and this has all been worked out. All campus scenes and plates for these scenes are ready for the engraver. Most of the pictures of the faculty members have been taken and these plates are also ready. This year's seniors have had their pictures taken and the write-up of their individual activities which will accompany their pictures has also been prepared. This year's cheer leaders have had their pictures taken and they will have a space in the annual as well as next year's leaders.

The football squad picture and the individual pictures of the lettermen of last fall have all been taken. Some action pictures of games last fall are also ready and will be featured along with the story of the season. The basketball squad and individual pictures have been taken and the story of the season has been written. Track pictures of last spring, both individual and action, are ready to be used. Some good tennis pictures were taken last spring and the individual pictures of the lettermen will be used in the annual.

Approximately two hundred snap shots have been taken of students in their everyday life on the campus and many more will be taken next year in order to make an interesting feature section in the Quadrangle.

Economy is being sought on all sides in publishing this book, but the staff is not allowing economy to interfere with the beauty of the book. Price is being kept down wherever possible and any saving that the staff can make will be passed on to the students in purchasing their "Quads". The price of the book will have to be somewhat higher than it has been in the past. In previous years the book has had only the activities of one year and next year's Quadrangle will include two years, but it is thought now that the cost will not be much more.

Seniors and others who will not be in school next fall should get in touch with the business manager and give him their tentative addresses for next year and make some arrangements for paying for their Quadrangle. It is thought that because the price will be but little more than in former years and will include much more material that the sales will be greatly increased. Most students buy books each year and undoubtedly the ones that do not get an annual every year will buy one of the Quadrangles that come out next year because it will contain two year's activities.

Delbert Kelly is editor of the book for this year and Wilbur Yoder is the business manager. Everett Fasnacht has been elected editor for next year. Yoder will continue as business manager next year and Kelly, the present editor, will graduate this spring. Vernon Rhoades has been serving on the staff this year as an associate editor.

THE SO-CALLED "KICK"

Have you ever heard someone say he does something because he gets a "kick" out of it? You're probably heard some such remark a number of times and maybe you've even included it in your own conversation. If called upon, could you explain just what you mean and why you express it thus? What kind of a kick is it? It's rather an odd expression when you consider the words in it. But it seems to be in the English language even if it is not entirely grammatical and as long as no one is noticeably hurt by it we might as well not try to eliminate it.

The meaning of said expression need not be discussed. Put in other words, the "kick" referred to is nothing more nor less than a thrill. More important questions than this would be: "What do you get a kick out of?" and "Can you enjoy something that does not give you a kick?" A man engaged in the fascinating job of newspaper reporting once remarked that "Getting drunk is the only thing I can get a kick out of." The one who heard him was puzzled to know whether he should pity the poor creature or put him out of his misery. A woman once admitted that she could get a kick from nothing but swearing. Boys sometimes give as their sole reason for smoking the fact that they get a kick out of it. The same excuse is given at times for dancing and other activities. The trouble is that some people are unable to get a kick out of anything but a few questionable activities and cannot enjoy anything that does not give them a so-called kick. Few such people are ever found in college but if one should be he should certainly not find it hard to get out of his pitiable condition. In college a student can find innumerable healthful and constructive activities from which to get his thrills. And he should learn to enjoy other things which give a deeper and more permanent satisfaction than a mere thrill or "kick"—R. P.

FILLING IN A NEED

Several months ago it was practically impossible for anyone of the school to obtain orchestral music for a program. The college lacked this musical organization.

Pascal Davis, a new student of the second semester and a freshman at that, has organized a small but efficient orchestra. There was a lot of stray talent around the college, but little of it was utilized. The members have spent many hours in laborious practice. While it is naturally beneficial to themselves, it is something which takes time and a drive of its own. They receive no college credit, yet they fill a need of the institution. They furnished music for the Booster Banquet and for the Thespian Play.

If more students would show initiative of this sort, they would improve not only themselves but the college.

TIME

The somewhat insignificant writer who once said "Life to be lived at all must be condensed," might have had in mind the life of a college student.

Not that college students are or should be dissatisfied with their life, but they certainly must condense it. Studies, pleasures, meetings, classes, work, and hill entertainments are crowded into each day. Only now and then do spare moments give a fellow a little time to stop and think just by himself.

In many respects a busy condensed life teaches the student to do his work quickly and as thoroughly as his conscience may demand. The pity is that it has taught him to permit many opportunities, for fun and for gain, to escape, simply by saying "I haven't time."—University Daily Kansan.

THE FREEDOM OF GERMAN STUDENTS

The dictatorship of the Nazi in Germany has led to strict censorship and rigorous control of every phase of life. Prominent Jews, both students and professors, have been persecuted.

The question of natural consequence is the effect such action will have upon the freedom of German students. Will the traditional freedom of student inquiry be destroyed?

When the student is guided in his thinking and his freedom of thought is infringed upon one of the foundations of education will be destroyed.

BOOST FOR M. C.!

Vacation days will soon be here. Most of the students will return home. To make it a successful summer boost for our college in your community. The college administration is working vigorously on a program to help McPherson College next season.

Congratulate our college for a bigger and better M. C. next year.

HOLD MEMORIAL SERVICE

Colorado Church Motion Picture, Inc.
Hugh Heckman

On Sunday night, April 23, the Brethren Church at Fruta, Colorado, held a fitting and impressive memorial service in honor of Prof. J. H. Heckman, Professor Heckman was the pastor of this church for three years before coming to McPherson and was loved and respected by all in the church.

The program consisted of special music and talks from some who had worked with him. Among those on the program were Clarence Brown and Glen Austin, former students of McPherson College.

The following is from a report by Richard R. Price of the University of Minnesota to the group on adult education at the Minneapolis meeting:

Adult education is a continuation of education which has its beginnings in the grades. It is difficult to distinguish the beginnings of adulthood from endings of adolescence. Chronological adulthood should be distinguished from mental adulthood.

Education from the cradle to the grave should recognize in a practical way the most potent psychological force in education: namely maturation. Mental development is most rapid before the teens and by the end of the teens, it has been nearly completed. The period of mental prime is most likely the age span from twenty to forty.

Outside of native mental capacity, adult intelligence depends on exercises and education. Adults who do not maintain the study habits acquired in school will suffer mental atrophy from disease. On the other hand, adults who study systematically learn more in terms of their abilities than do high school students. The unexercised adult mind tends to congeal into an inflexible unit.

The productivity of men of scholarly pursuits shows that middle age is a very productive period of life. Many popular notions to the contrary are poorly founded.

In view of the nature of abilities from infancy to senescence, it appears that we are distributing our educational hours over the life span very unwisely. Many more hours should be devoted to learning during adulthood when ability is at its maximum and when the learned facts are used. Adult education should serve to complete the structure that has had its foundation laid during the pre-adult years.

An English lesson was being given in a foreign school, and the mistress asked if any pupil could make up a sentence containing the words "defense," "defeat" and "detail." The sentence she got was as follows:

"Ven a cat jump over defense detail goes over in front of detail!"

A Hot Idea

"Willie," said the Sunday school teacher, severely, "you shouldn't talk like that to your playmate. Had you ever thought of heaping coals of fire on his head?"

"No, ma'am, I hadn't, but it's a peach of an idea!"

SALT MINES IN HUTCHINSON PROVE SOURCE OF VALUABLE INFORMATION

Tour of Inspection Furnishes Interesting Data to Students and Friends

Friday, six bells! Oh, how we dreaded to get up, but the chemistry trip to Hutchinson started at seven. On the way we had the extreme pleasure of passing Webb's Bluff, only to be forced to give way to Sweetland and his gang. We wondered if Marjorie Brown was having a bad case of the jitters as he was doing at least 75. Although our chaperon, Ardis Hershey, "forgot" to go with us, we arrived at the Hutchinson straw board factory at 8:15. Of course, we had to wait on three of our passengers, because they were raiding the Hutchinson stores for cracker jack. Although we wished for clothespins for our noses, we managed to get through the straw board factory without being asphyxiated.

Our next destination was the Kelly Mills, followed by the Carey salt mine. We went in groups of fifteen down into the mine in a monkey-ease elevator. It took us exactly one minute and twenty seconds to reach the underworld (645 feet below). Benchy Lichty was our chief information bureau. What he couldn't think to ask the guide wasn't worth fading out. By this time we were so hungry we almost stole one of the workmen's dinner pails, but we resisted the temptation by supposing it contained a spinach sandwich. Samples of salt were given us at the Carey salt plant. Ruth Tice said she got enough samples to start housekeeping. Boys take notice.

Noon! How we ate! We know two girls who each ate one toasted chicken salad sandwich, potato salad, an orangeade, and a fresh strawberry sundae. No danger of their reducing. What was that blue streak whizzing down Main Street? Doppel-Oberholz driving Dr. Hershey's Whippet. Overholz testifies that the car does 50 when Dr. Hershey drives and that it has no brakes. Lo and behold, what was it doing when Don had it at noon?

We predict a new supply of jewelry, cosmetics, and what have you for the M. C. girls. All the females made a pilgrimage to Woolworth's and Kress' at noon.

The Morton salt plant was visited after lunch. They gave us each a blotter; won't the pros be glad to see a decided decrease in blurred papers?

We visited the reformatory, but somehow we failed to leave any of our M. C. lads. Guess they have been on better behavior the last few weeks. A talk by one of the officials in the reformatory chapel gave Don Overholz and Dr. Hershey a good chance for a nap.

Our trip was almost ruined when we heard we couldn't go through the candy factory. At first we supposed they wouldn't let us in because Harry Frantz got away with so much candy last year. We were soon informed that the reason was that the factory was not operating Friday.

Our inspection tour ended with the Bond Bakery and the iron foundry.

Again Benchy got mixed up in things—this time 'twas bread dough. He also got away with some cinnamon rolls, though how we don't know. At the bakery Custer and Etta each wished for a pair of stilts to see over the mob.

Several cars returned home before dark; however Elsie Carlson refused to tell when she got in. The other students stayed to see the stage show of 25 chorus girls (so-called dark-skinned—otherwise plain Negro). Take note that it was mostly boys who stayed for this. Did we hear someone regretting the fact that we missed chapel? Not much! We had it on the way home when we sang everything from college songs to "This Is My Father's World" accompanied by our symphony orchestra (shoe taps, whistling, barking, and general jingling). We had our physical ed. too, when two of our number exercised their feet out of the windows.

Saturday. Oh, what makes us so tired and stiff! We hear that Phyllis Barrngrover has an extremely sore toe because she failed to wrap up her pet corn. Oh yes, she wrapped up a toe, but it was the wrong one. Tired? Yes, but we did have a good time.

COLLEGE REPEATS THAT TAUGHT IN HIGH SCHOOL

Dean F. A. Repligio has found somewhat startlingly that many of the college courses are a mere repetition of what a student has learned before he enters the higher institution of learning.

22.8 per cent of the history taught in college repeats exactly that taught in high school; 29 per cent of the science courses is repetition; and 36 per cent of social science subjects gives that which was taught in high school.

Yes, I'll get to that roof if you'll just give me time. But the wind hasn't blown all the dust off yet, there, that's much better. Here goes. One, two, three-e-e-e, jump. That was fun. I believe I'll just try—Why this brick's wiggling. Oh, I fall through. I wonder where I'll land. Kerplunk! Ooo-oop-oop! I just haven't enough strength to tell you any more, except that whatever it was I landed on wasn't a bit soft, and it knocked the wind clear out of me.

and a salesman from Hutchinson showed samples of drapes which can be used for a cyclorama.

Speaking of that miniature stage set—it has the cutest fixtures and furniture. The chandelier is made out of a watch chain, glue, an overall button, and pearl beads. You can even prop up the top of the grand piano. The side lights by the fire place are painted match heads. It's all so realistic.

We have all been lamenting because we have such stable ankles. It looked as if it would be a lot of fun when Ann Heckman was gallantly carried up the steps of the dorm—clear up to her room—by two obliging males. We guess we shall just be doomed to a sturdy life.

Professor Hess doesn't know what he has been missing in the way of debaters. Jane McLain and Elsie Lindholm entertained the child psychologists yesterday with an interesting and emphatic debate on child punishment. One would never know they were inexperienced debaters. But they are inexperienced no longer.

ADVISES: "THE EXCELLENT BECOMES THE PERMANENT"

Bookworm Gives Review of Interesting Book

"In selecting for publication these memorial addresses from a portfolio containing notes and manuscripts of many such, delivered at various times during a long residence in Chicago, I am conscious of at least two motives. The first is to make a reply, if only to myself, that oft-repeated magazine questionnaire and to the queries of others by word of mouth and by letter as to 'What do you believe?' 'What is your attitude toward the future life?' It is possible that an honest answer to such questions may be found through the recorded reactions in those first black days of sorrow, following the death of a dear friend."

"I was once summoned to a Chicago hospital by a woman who, twenty-four hours before, had lost her children in a hideous fire. She herself had been badly burned and could see nothing of her face but two gleaming eyes at the bottom of a well of bandages and distorted lips through which came in husky whispers, 'Do you believe in immortality? Please be sincere with me. I cannot endure any more empty words.' As I visited my new-found friend through the days of her convalescence when I often found her devotedly reading her worn Prayer Book and her Bible, she seemed to me a living demonstration of the refusal to be content with a mere mechanism of escape from reality, which she suspected to have been made to the order of man's desires."

"The second motive for the publication of this little book is a desire to preserve, in a more permanent form than fugitive addresses offer, something of the personalities of a few people in various ways identified with the early efforts at Hull House. It has seemed barely possible that assembling the records of these illustrious comrades, so diverse in their interests and yet so united in a devotion to the newer social ethic, might freshly reveal ultimate purposes to us, the survivors, if we remember that they are dead but contrariwise that they have lived: that here, by the brotherly force and flow of their action and work may be carried over the gulf of death and made immortal in the life which they worthily had and used."

"Unlike one another in many ways, certainly the subjects of the ten chapters exemplify the old statement that, though all else may be temporary in human affairs, the excellent must become the permanent."

These statements were taken from the introduction to Jane Addams' "The Excellent Becomes the Permanent." The chapters are short personality sketches of a few individuals who have been connected with the Hull House; among them are: Jeanie Dow Harvey, who founded and conducted the first kindergarten at the Hull House; Alice Kellogg Tyler, who was the first of the Chicago artists who have given their services to the Hull House; and Samuel A. Barnet, who was the founder of Toyne Hall, and who was also the originator of the settlement method.—Bookworm.

PRACTICE TEACHING TAKES GAS AND SHOES

Truly there is no rest for the wicked. Trials and tribulations dog the heels of that vast army of the young who faithfully, and one might say prayerfully, make their daily pilgrimage to do their part in keeping the candle of knowledge steadily glowing. Great sacrifices are laid up in this altar dedicated to the public schools of McPherson, Kansas.

In the first place, if the amount of gasoline or perhaps shoe leather required to carry some twenty teachers to town and back every day, five days a week was estimated, it would run into a considerable sum. And to this the ten shakels extra they are taxed for this privilege of teaching the young.

In spite of everything the whole experience is fun—in retrospect. Why just the last rainy spell caused more excitement than should be attributed to the most inclement of weather. Professor Blair was forced to provide a small portion of his little brood with transportation because that heaven-sent water was too much for a certain green Ford. Part of that contingent taxied back, the rest pulling in a couple of hours late. Perhaps some of you notice Agnes McLain's disconcerted expression when she arrived in Old Testament Literature just in time to be excused.

One sight that would probably do Chet Johnston's old heart good is that of Esther Pote making the rounds of the playground with urchins clustered around her six deep on every side.

Future school masters might take a lesson in evasion from Milton Early. When one of his bright American History students ask him a question he comes back with "You asking me?"

And then there is that Flora boy who stayed up all night to do some practice teaching work. Well, sometimes it is almost necessary or else the practice teacher is forced to go unprepared and be embarrassed. Even that isn't as bad as having Johnny get up and tell all about seeing "you in a ratty old Ford with writing on the back of it."

There are many more experiences that may be recounted but the hour grows late and I must retire and dream this in tomorrow's Spectator for errors.

McPHERSON COLLEGE DEFEATS BETHEL 67 TO 64 IN FIRST TRACK AND FIELD MEET OF SEASON

Bethel Wins Nine Firsts and Bulldogs Take Only Six, but McPherson Gets Number of Seconds and Thirds

In its first dual track and field meet of the season McPherson College defeated Bethel College on the local track and field. The final score of the meet was 67-64.

Early lost the 100 yard dash to Bergen of Bethel, but came back in the 220 to win over his rival by a fairly good margin. In the discus, shot put, and javelin McPherson excelled, winning all three of these events and taking all three places in the shot put.

CUSTER BREAKS RECORD

Rock Wins Javelin with Throw of 172 Feet—Some Races Close

Yesterday afternoon at Salina McPherson lost a dual track and field meet by a 37-94 count. The feature event for McPherson was Custer's five foot nine and a half inch high jump which broke the McPherson College high jump record which was established last year at 5 feet, 8 1/4 inches by Wiggins and Moore. Rock's throw of the Javelin to 172 feet, 9 inches was another feature for the McPherson team and although it is five feet short of the present school record which he holds it was 20 feet further than the throw of his nearest competitor, Hards, Robinson, and Boxberger were the outstanding men for the Salina team. Hards took first in the mile and two mile runs as well as the 880 yard dash. Robinson finished first in the 100 and 220 yard dashes and won first in the broad jump. Boxberger won in the shot put, discus and took second in the broad jump and third in the javelin. These three men accounted for 44 points of Salina's 94 count.

While the score of this meet looks like Salina held a tremendous advantage still many of the events were very close and decisions differed even among Salina men. Fasnacht coming from behind in the close of the two mile to nab second place shows that the McPherson team is developing rapidly and should make a good showing in the pentangular meet to be held in McPherson next Friday.

Summary of events:

High hurdles: first, Suran of Wesleyan; second, Pummer of Wesleyan; third, C. Johnston of McPherson; time, 16.8 seconds.

Mile run: first, Hards of Wesleyan; second, Reinecker of McPherson; third, Canfield of Wesleyan; time, 4 minutes and 52 seconds.

440-yard dash: first, Kassner, Wesleyan; second, Suran, Wesleyan; third, Williams, McPherson. Time, 53 seconds.

Shot put: first, Boxberger, Wesleyan; second, Zinn, McPherson; third, Rock, McPherson, Distance, 42 feet, 1 inch.

100-yard dash: first, Robinson, Wesleyan; second, Sanderson, Wesleyan; third, Hayes, McPherson. Time, 10 seconds.

High jump: first, Custer, McPherson; second, Higgs, Wesleyan; third, Wiggins, McPherson. Height, 5 feet, 9 1/4 inches.

880-yard run: first, Hards, Wesleyan; second, Williams, McPherson; third, Kassner, Wesleyan. Time, 2 minutes, 7 seconds.

Discus: first, Boxberger, Wesleyan; second, Zinn, McPherson; third, Rock, McPherson, Distance, 125 ft., 11 inches.

220-yard dash: first, Robinson, Wesleyan; second, Sanderson, Wesleyan; third, Hayes, McPherson. Time, 22.8 seconds.

Pole vault: first, Eckart, Wesleyan; second, Pummer and Miller of Wesleyan tied for second with Custer and Wiggins of McPherson. Height, 11 feet, 1 inch.

Javelin: first, Rock, McPherson; second, Dyck, Wesleyan; third, Boxberger, Wesleyan, Distance, 172 feet, 9 inches.

2-mile run: first, Hards, Wesleyan; first, second, Fasnacht, McPherson; third, Pote, McPherson. Time, 10 minutes, 57 seconds.

Low hurdles: first, Milton of Wesleyan; second, Suran, Wesleyan; third, Early, McPherson. Time, 26.2 seconds.

Broad jump: first, Robinson, Wesleyan; second, Boxberger, Wesleyan; third, Custer, McPherson. Distance, 20 feet, 9 1/2 inches.

Mile relay: Won by Wesleyan—Suran, Canfield, Kassner, Robinson. Time, 3 minutes 35 seconds.

PENTANGULAR TO BE HERE FRIDAY, MAY 5

Wesleyan May Not Come—
Others Are Bethel, Bethany,
Friends, and McPherson

Friday, May 5th, the local college will be host to the annual Pentangular track and field meet. At the present time it looks as though the meet will probably be a Quadrangular because of the possibility of Kansas Wesleyan not coming. The Coyotes have a track meet with Hays on Thursday and are not planning to come here on Friday.

If Kansas Wesleyan does not come here for the meet, the four schools entered will be Bethel, Bethany, Friends, and McPherson. None of these schools have exceptionally strong all-around teams, but all of them have a few outstanding men.

Probably the strongest threat for Friends is Reynolds who runs the dashes. Bethany's strength in track meet by a 37-94 count. The feature event for McPherson was Custer's five foot nine and a half inch high jump which broke the McPherson College high jump record which was established last year at 5 feet, 8 1/4 inches by Wiggins and Moore. Rock's throw of the Javelin to 172 feet, 9 inches was another feature for the McPherson team and although it is five feet short of the present school record which he holds it was 20 feet further than the throw of his nearest competitor, Hards, Robinson, and Boxberger were the outstanding men for the Salina team. Hards took first in the mile and two mile runs as well as the 880 yard dash. Robinson finished first in the 100 and 220 yard dashes and won first in the broad jump. Boxberger won in the shot put, discus and took second in the broad jump and third in the javelin. These three men accounted for 44 points of Salina's 94 count.

This will undoubtedly be a pretty fast meet and if the weather is nice some good marks should be set up. The four schools in this meet seem to be very well matched and a good meet will probably be in store for McPherson sports fans.

BULLDOGS WIN TENNIS MATCHES FROM BETHEL

McPherson Takes Every Set—
All to Get Letters

The Bulldogs won every tennis match against Bethel in the matches played on the college courts last Thursday. McPherson's net men were masters over their opponents and never allowed the Mennonites to win a set. All the McPherson men won their letters against Bethel.

In the singles Gottmann won over Ricker, 6-3, 6-1. Kelly defeated Sparrow in straight sets 6-2, 7-5. Austin won over Penner by scores of 6-0, 6-1. Tice won the other singles match from Kroy with scores of 6-2, 6-6.

In the doubles Kelly and Austin defeated Kry and Penner in straight sets 6-2, 6-2. Gottmann and Tice won from Ricker and Sparrow by scores of 6-1, 6-0.

In response to a petition sent by the International Relations Club on April 26 to Senator Arthur Capper from this state, Miss Gretta Wilma Griffis, president of the organization, has received the following letter:

"I have received a petition signed by the students of McPherson protesting against the bill calling for thirty new battleships at a cost of $20 million dollars. I am in hearty sympathy with your appeal and shall vigorously oppose any such program. I am more interested in promoting a disarmament program than in building more big battleships. I will be glad if you can inform the students of my attitude in this matter.

Sincerely yours,
Arthur Capper.
