McPHERSON COLLEGE, McPHERSON, KANSAS, THURSDAY, JAN. 17, 1935

NUMBER 16

REGIONAL CONFERENCE PLANS ARE COMPLETED

Leaders Include Dr. A. W. Palmer, Dr. R. H. Miller, and Dan West

TO CONVENE FEB. 17-22

Dr. Palmer Will Open Meeting With Sunday Morning Address, "Four Levels of Faith"

Complete announcement has been made recently of the program for the Central West Regional Conference of the Church of the Brethren which is to be held at McPherson College from February 17-22. The five day program stresses ministerial problems, problems of Christian education, with special emphasis upon Young People's work, and addresses on topics of interest to those in the field of Christian education.

The leaders for this year's conference are especially strong. Dr. A. W. Palmer, Dr. R. H. Miller, and Dan West are all well known in their fields. Dr. Palmer, president of the Chicago Theological Seminary, a graduate of the University of California and the Yale Divinity School, has held pastorates at Oakland, Cal., Honolulu, and Oak Park, Ill. Now president and professor of practical theology at Chicago Theological Seminary, he has a broad background of experience from travel in Europe, Palestine, and the Far East. He was engaged in Y. M. C. A. service in Siberia in 1919. Dr. Palmer is the author of several books among which are "The Human Side of Hallelujah" and "Path to the Presence of God." His experience as pastor and teacher of pastors prepares him to speak with effectiveness, and his broad training and experience will help him to speak understandingly to students and the general public. Dr. Palmer is one of the most outstanding men brought to the conference.

Dr. Miller is Professor of Religion and Philosophy at Manchester College. He was a student in the College in which he now teaches and has taken his theological training in the Garrett Biblical School and has taken work at the Divinity School of the University of Chicago. His pastorates from 1917 to 1929 include such cities as Los Angeles, LaVerne, Cal., and North Manchester, Indiana. He has traveled in Europe. Dr. Miller has written two books, "The Lord's Prayer" and recently "The Sermon on the Mount." He is a man of unusual insight and is considered a forceful speaker.

Dan West is director of Young People's work of the Church of the Brethren. He has wide experience, having been called to camp during the war, and having traveled widely here and abroad "directing" young people's camps. He is considered one of the most successful leaders of young people's conferences available. Music will be in charge of Prof. A. C. Voran, head of the music department of the College. He will also give an address, "Music in the Church."

Others on this year's program who will either give speeches or lead conference groups are W. H. Yoder, D. C. Gnagy, F. A. Replogle, Ray Pitter, Hylton Harmon, Robert Sink, C. E. Davis, V. F. Schwalm, J. J. Yoder, X. L. Coppock, Ray Zook, Earl Frantz, James Elrod, Paul Longenecker, and Herbert Ruthrauff.

The program for the opening day Sunday, Feb. 17, will begin at 10:45 o'clock with a sermon by Dr. Palmer on the "Four Levels of Faith." A special program will be presented by the college Christian Endeavor Society at 6:30 and the evening services again will be conducted by Dr. Palmer, who will speak on "The Inevitable God and the God We Choose."

The number of college students in the United States has increased approximately 900 per cent since 1900, while the population of the country has increased only 63 per cent.

GRETTA WILMA GRIFFIS HONORED AT CHICAGO U.

Friends of Gretta Wilma Griffis, a graduate of McPherson College with the Class of 1933, will be glad to learn of an honor that has been bestowed upon her recently. Miss Griffis was one of the two girls chosen from the Department of Education of the University of Chicago to the Pi Lambda Theta fraternity. The basis of membership in this honor society is scholarship and excellence in work. Miss Griffis was recommended by members of the faculty for affiliation with the fraternity.

Miss Griffis received her A. B. degree in history in 1932, graduating with honors. Throughout her two years here, she maintained a high scholastic record.

Y CLUBS PLAN BOOK SALE

An exchange of used textbooks for second semester courses will be conducted during the week of enrollment by the Y. M. and Y. W. Harriette Smith, representing the Y. W., and Harold Mohler, of the Y. M., will have charge of the exchange.

A list of texts which will be available for second-hand use is being compiled and will be posted on the bulletin board. Students who have books to sell are asked to bring them to the committee. The Y organizations sell the books for a commission of ten per cent.

PEACE POLL RESULTS WATCHED WITH INTEREST

The Literary Digest and the Association of College Editors has instituted a peace poll in one hundred and fifty colleges of the United States in an effort to determine the sentiment of college students on several momentous questions of importance. Over 200,000 ballots have been mailed out and returns are pouring back to be counted. The 300,000 students to whom the ballots were sent are well scattered over the entire United States. Kansas has only three colleges represented in the poll. They are the University of Kansas, Kansas State College, and College of Emporia.

"The Daily Illini, student newspaper of the University of Illinois, explains the purpose of the peace poll: "The survey is not being conducted to secure expert opinion on world affairs. It is being made to determine whether students think and what they do think. The primary purpose of the survey is to stimulate student opinion on a subject of real consideration today."

DRAMATIC ART CLASS WILL GIVE READING

Groups Will Read "The Passing of the Third Floor Back" At Vesper Service

The dramatic art class under the instruction of Miss Della Lehman, will give a reading of Jerome K. Jerome's three-act play, "The Passing of the Third Floor Back" at the vesper service of the Congregational Church Sunday, January 20, at 5:00 o'clock. No action is to be included; all of the interpretation is to be done by vocal and facial expression, with only the necessary explanations read by the interpreter. The production will last about an hour and a half.

The play is an interesting study of the effect of a pure soul and an exalted insight upon hearts given over to jealousy, pride, envy, greed, anger, ignorance, and vanity. In the prologue of the play, all of the dwellers in Mrs. Sharpe's boarding-house are as disagreeable as possible. Then a new lodger, the Stranger, comes, and seems to expect the best of everyone. Gradually the whole atmosphere changes, and in the epilogue the characters are a congenial group of people living together quite happily.

The cast includes Joey Wright, a retired bookmaker, played by Archie Lindholm; Christopher Penny, a young painter, Galen Ogden; Major Tompkins, retired, Donald Brum-Suttle; Harry Larkem, his jackal, a wife, Maxine Rinz; Vivian, his daughter whom he is trying to marry to Joey Wright, Neva Root; Jane Samuels, a scheming Jew, Bernard Suttle; Harry Larkem, his packal, Paul Booz; Miss Kite, an old maid of forty who tries to appear eighteen, Jo Wagener; Mrs. Percival de Hooley, who claims to be a cousin to Sir George Tweedie, Falth Ketterman; Stasia, the slave, Modena Kauffmann; Mrs. Sharpe, the landlady, Dorothy Matson; the Stranger, Donald Evans; and the interpreter, Mildred Gordon.

Virginia Yankee is the student director of the production.

BETHEL DEBATERS WIN IN BETHANY TOURNAMENT

Bethel College was victor in a five school tournament held at Bethany College, Lindsborg, last Saturday. This position was gained by winning six of their eight debates. McPherson and Bethany each won five of their ten debates. Wesleyan won two out of four and Kansas State two out of eight debates.

On Feb. 8 a varsity tournament is scheduled between Kansas Wesleyan, Bethany, and McPherson. Both men and women will participate in this meet.

McPHERSON YOUTH COUNCIL NEARS COMPLETION STAGE

Young People of Six Churches Are United to Combat Undesirable Local Conditions

The organization of the McPherson Youth Council was almost completed at its meeting on last Monday evening. All but one of six churches which are united together in this youth movement have chosen their three representatives. Reports indicate that the election will be completed before the next meeting on February 4, so that the officers of the Council may be selected.

Further plans are being made to hold a mass meeting on February 4, so that the officers of the Council may be selected.

Further plans are being made to hold a mass meeting of the Youth of McPherson on February 11. This meeting will be called to submit a constitution which will be adopted or amended by the young people which it represents.

The policy of the organization is as yet undetermined. It is known, however, that it intends as a united group to combat those conditions in McPherson which are undesirable in the eyes of the group. Dean Replogle has been chosen as counselor for the group.

BOOZ ENTERTAINS CABINET

Paul Booz entertained the members of the Y. M. C. A. cabinet at his home, 730 North Elm street, Saturday evening. Students who were present include David Metzger, David Duncanson, Vic Moorman, Elmer Staats, Harry Frantz, Galen Ogden, Kenneth Weaver, Paul Heckman, Willard Fleming and Harold Mohler. Dr. J. D. Bright, sponsor, was also present.

RECENT JOINT Y MEETING HAS "PRAYER" AS THEME

The Y. M. and Y. W. met in a joint session yesterday morning at 10 a. m. in the Y. W. room. Maudene Sondergard played the processional. Curtis Frisbie, accompanied at the piano by Margaret Polster, sang "An Evening Prayer." The theme of the meeting was prayer. Leta Wine read and discussed a child's prayer; Theresa Strom based her remarks on a mother's prayer; "Recessional," the prayer of a nation, was read by Margaret Oliver. Harriette Smith explained the Lord's Prayer, after which the group repeated this perfect prayer and benediction.

RAY E. ZOOK OF IOWA TO ASSUME PASTORATE

Ministerial Committee Chooses Minister to Fill Vacancy Left by Rev. Richards

TO START SECOND SEMESTER

An Enthusiastic Minister With Especial Interest in Young Peoples' Work

Announcement has been made recently of the appointment of Ray E. Zook of Ekhart, Iowa, to the pastorate of the College Church, which was left vacant five months ago by the moving of Rev. H. F. Richards to Indiana. After long consideration of many candidates, the ministerial committee, with the assenting vote of the church, has called Rev. Zook to the local church. He will assume his duties as pastor with the beginning of the second semester, the last of this month.

Rev. Zook comes to McPherson highly recommended by the people of his previous pastorates. He is an enthusiastic minister who has an especial interest in young people and young people's work. During the past year, he has been lined up rather extensively with district and state B. Y. P. D. work in Iowa.

Rev. Zook holds an A. B. degree and has had considerable theological training at Bethany Biblical Seminary at Chicago. He has been in the ministry for about ten years, his previous pastorates having been Middle Indiana, where he served 2 years; Preston, Minn., where he served 5 years; and Ekhart, Iowa, where he has been for the last 3 years.

Mrs. Zook is also very active in the work of the church and Sunday school. In her college work and in more recent years she has specialized in children's work. As a director in this field she has had considerable experience.

CHEM CLUB ENTERTAINS WITH MOTION PICTURE

The Chemistry Club was entertained with a free movie last Thursday at 4:30 p. m. in the chemistry lecture room.

The two reels on "Drinking Health" and two on "Bakelite" proved to be very interesting and educational.

There were about fifty chemistry students present. This was the last meeting for the first semester of the year '34-'35.

JUNIORS CONDUCT CHAPEL

"To cooperate with other people; to help something better to become real," is one of the reasons for living, according to Donald Evans, who spoke in a chapel program Friday morning given by the Junior class. "Is the pursuit of happiness a sufficient reason for living? How does one find the reason for living?" These questions were discussed by Mr. Evans.

Other members of the Junior Class who participated in the program were Dorothy Matson, who read "A Temple of Music," a parable by Mary Kendall; and Margaret Polster, who presented a piano solo, "The Fauns," by Chaminade.

Clarence Sink, president of the class, was chairman of the program. Chris Johansen had charge of the music.

SPECIAL PROGRAM PRESENTED AT FORENSIC MEETING MONDAY

A special program was given at the Forensic Club meeting Monday night. The traditional debates were excluded. Mary Miller gave a reading, after which Paul Turner played a saxophone solo. Falth Ketterman gave two dialect readings, followed by a violin solo by Franklin Hoberg. The program was concluded with a reading by Miss Lehman.

There are two sides to every question—the wrong side and our side.

The Literary Digest Poll

Famed for its experiments with various polls throughout the past in order to determine public sentiment on pertinent problems, the Literary Digest is offering the latest test on the opinions of college students on questions involving the peace of our country. Over three hundred thousand students will be asked to answer the following five questions:

1. Do you believe the United States could stay out of another great war?
- a. If the borders of the United States were invaded, would you bear arms in defense of your country?
- b. Would you bear arms for the United States in the invasion of the borders of another country?
2. Do you believe that a national policy of an American navy and air force second to none is a sound method of insuring us against being drawn into another great war?
3. Do you advocate government control of the armament and munitions industries?
4. In alignment of our historic procedure, in drafting man power in time of war, would you advocate the principle of universal conscription of all resources of capital and labor in order to control all profits in time of war?
5. Should the United States enter the League of Nations?

Commenting on the response to the poll among colleges the Literary Digest states: "College newspapers have launched an editorial drive to insure large and representative returns. College editors have threshed out every question included on the ballot. Faculty members and undergraduate leaders have expressed opinions in articles and interviews in the drive to stimulate discussion on the poll."

"This is an effort to learn the extent of the sentiment in American colleges against jingoism, against war as an instrument of diplomacy, against arrogant nationalism. Long groping, wandering, warring 'peace movements' have begun to seek crystallizations, direction."

"The anti-war sentiment in the United States has made the most headway in schools and colleges; it is a part of the growing evidence that the American college generation has begun to think more and more about current social and economic trends here and in the world at large."

To these comments the well informed student of today will add his assurance that the outcome of the poll is already a foregone conclusion. College students are definitely on the side of peace today. A poll among several Kansas colleges last year indicated that approximately fifty per cent of the students in denominational colleges answered the first part of question number one in the negative. And unless college students can convince our governors that peace policies should be adopted the attitude of students will become increasingly radical in the future.

Solving the Unemployment Problem

Studying the chances ahead for youth in an uncertain world a college president, a dean, a business man, a psychiatrist, and the educational director of the C. C. C. camps recently held a group discussion under the sponsorship of the Child Study Association.

The group was generally agreed upon the point that a college education helps even today toward a job and toward emotional balance in the ## face of disappointment.

"College education even under present conditions means something like a 50 per cent chance of finding a place in the world's work, which is a great deal better than the non-college graduate has," according to Dean McCann of Lehigh University.

"For those young people who have the requisite intellectual capacities we can still say that college is good. A college course no longer virtually guarantees employment at graduation, as it once did; but it still greatly augments the chance of employment; and it appears also to enhance the intellectual and moral capacities needed to carry on and find ways out in periods of unemployment."

College students have realized for some time that he cannot insure himself of a position by merely earning a college degree. Still too few, however, realize the other beneficial results derived from an education in our higher institutions, hence too few are making adequate preparation in college for these benefits which he can hope to acquire.

The Intellectual Hermit

In this day and age we find very few hermits who are actually living far off in the forests by themselves, or even living in seclusion, totally independent, in any place. As a history class recently expressed it, a hermit is a man who has no use for a newspaper, radio, automobile, telephone or door-bell. Did you ever know people who had no use for a door-bell? No use for it because no one ever came to see them, not even book-agents? All in all, a hermit is about as useful in our world today as a factory that manufactures bug-whips.

Yet there are millions of hermits walking the streets at this moment in every large city, yes, and in small ones, too. They may have door-bells all right, to let you into their houses, but you could never get an idea into their head though you tried a can-opener or a sledge-hammer.

Hermits, people who know it all and go on their way rejoicing! Hermits, the individuals who accept conditions as they are without attempting to do a little improving! The danger of stagnation in thinking is far more serious than many body ailments about which one hurries to the doctor.

People get disgusted with you; give you a cold shoulder and walk away. Your friends won't tell you either, because they don't know how to do it or because you haven't any. It's like a spot on your back, you can't see it without a mirror, and few of us will go to the mirror of good sound thinking to see if we are hermits or not. One might spend two hours in some foolish diversion, but seldom spend two minutes to brush up our culture, dust out cobwebs, and give ourselves an active healthy mind.

Ph. of R.

A philosophy of religion is something far more than just an unnecessary frill of the mind. The eminent psychologist C. G. Jung in his book "Modern Man in Search of a Soul" makes the following statement: "Among all my patients in the second half of life, that is to say, over thirty-five—there has not been one whose problem in the last resort was not that of finding a religious outlook on life." Religious outlook, as Jung uses it, does not mean a stiff, cold, hard, artificial attitude

Spec-Yu-La-Shun's

What should a girl do when an ex-boy friend rushes her? Now take the case of the pretty blonde from down town, for instance—four dates in 6 days is a lot, you know!

Have you heard about how high-toned Hoyer is getting of late? You know, usually such people have the type of car in which the chauffeur rides up front and the passenger behind. Well, Ogden's "Sary" is just such a car—the driver sits up front and the passenger behind (because there's no seat up front). Now we are told that Hoyer has borrowed Ogden's car for a date—Boy what a date!

How do we account for the beer bottle sitting in Sink and Kauffman's window? And after that speech in chapel by Dr. Schwalm—Tak, tak.

A week from Friday night is the night of nights for the first semester—no matter how many points the lady friend has, you can keep her out till midnight or 1 o'clock if you wish and no penalty—you see, that's the last night of the semester. We hear of plans for some wild parties that night.

We also hear that a certain young damsel whose name we do not deign to repeat is desperately in love—with Bollinger's green sweater. Notice, we said the sweater.

Last Friday night as the basketball game we saw just lots and lots of cannon fodder for scandal columns. To be exact there were no less than 10 new dates—and oh what dates! There's no need of rehashing them because they've already been hashed up one end and down the other. You know who we mean. Now for instance there were a couple of librarians who seem to click pretty well both in and out of the library. And then there's the case of the preacher's young son who keeps the young lady out so late that she gets 5 points. We hear he got tired of talking about the weather, so he asked her if she minded . . .

Prize dumbjohn of the week—"Who's on the college oxtette?" No kidding—this was actually asked of some one.

What new forward on our basketball squad has recently taken up with a young Iowa co-ed?

What pious young lady is so good that it is rumored that she had to beg for demerits in order to be in the red with the rest of the girls?

that many of us as children connected with the word religion. It means accepting all the facts of life and correlating them in unity. It means looking at the entire universe with objectivity where objectivity is needed, with subjectivity where subjectivity is needed, with a stable, sympathetic, intelligent understanding always. It means correlating the biological impulses and emotions with the intellectual possibilities in that fine and beautiful harmony which consummates the highest sort of life.

Advice to the Crammer
All previous advice to students not to cram before final exams have failed we take this opportunity to offer advice to that student engaged in "night before cramming":

1. Don't try to hit the high points of the year's course. Thorough cramming requires that the student know all the minute details of the course.
2. In the cramming process be certain to have plenty of classmates around you. Perhaps you have forgotten an idea.
3. You can add to your ability to express yourself by staying up nearly the whole night previous to the exam. To be able to relax from the strain is detrimental to the mental make-up.
4. After the test is over be certain to forget the fundamentals of the course, providing you have passed the exam.

STUDENT OPINION

The ideals cherished by this Christian college are vast in scope and eternal in duration; but these ideals, lofty though they may be, can rise no higher than the minds of us who interpret them to the world.

We are here because this is a college, where we can become more concentrated in our purpose of right thinking and Christian living.

The ideals of the college must of necessity be the ideals of us all. If there are a number of descendants who will not accept these ideals, then we cannot accomplish our purpose, which becomes shattered to bits and it would be far better that our college not even existed.

—A Student.

FROM OFF THE CAMPUS

By College News Service
Professors at the University of Michigan recently instituted a faculty-wide survey and compiled a list of 15 ways to keep students awake in class. Despite the time and effort involved in this survey, none of the methods outlined in the list are guaranteed to work under all circumstances.

Only one co-ed in 400 named matrimony as a possible post-graduate goal, according to a survey made at Northwestern University. And in the case of the one exception, matrimony was her second choice, those in charge of the survey reported.

A survey of the senior class at Boston University, however, indicates that matrimony there finds favor as an undergraduate project, inasmuch as it was found that four of the six highest ranking seniors are married.

A survey—technically known as an "inventory"—made of library books at Washington and Lee disclosed the fact that a book loaned to a student 23 years ago has been returned. The borrower's identity was not established, so accumulated fines were not collected.

A survey of numerous athletic events at the University of Kansas resulted in an order requiring students to obtain identification photographs for presentation at the gate with their official passbooks at all games and events.

In Other Schools

At the University of California at Los Angeles, four students were reinstated after having been expelled for "promoting radical activities" at Baltimore and anti-war meeting was thrown into a riot when one student charged that the meeting was sponsored by Communists.

Dr. Estelle Cross, international correspondent for the London Times, said that lectures on free love supervised lessons in academic subjects at the University of California at Los Angeles.

No—that's not supposed to be funny—it really happened.

Along the same line is a summary of the apparently increased ill feeling between radicals and conservatives in colleges last fall, made by the Purdue Exponent, which says that one of the latest of these was the expelling of 21 students and the disciplining of sixteen others for demonstrations during a visit of a city college of New York City.

In a calmer mood, students and faculty members at Nassau College revealed their political faiths via questionnaire. Twelve per cent of radicals, while only 9 per cent of the seniors, 5 per cent of the freshmen, and 3 per cent of the juniors and sophomores thought themselves so.

Dress well, but don't appear well-dressed, say Royal A. Roberts, professor of marketing at the University of California, if you want to stand a good chance of landing a job after you get out of college.

He suggests that collegians learn to dress well in college, but to avoid that "Sunday suit" appearance.

Evening of Opera Enjoyed by Cosmos Members and Guests

The night was foggy and damp, but even the inclement weather was apparently no hindrance to the steady arrival of shiny black limousines which drew up to the curb by twos and threes yielding sabled and jeweled passengers to the attentive care of waiting footmen. A swishing parade up the long canopied "promenade," thick carpets, soft lights, and—an opera! No, not an opera—two operas.

Seldom are the women of McPherson privileged to enjoy the beauty and grandeur of the opera within the limits of their own small city. Last Tuesday evening, however, all obstacles were overcome and more than sixty women revelled in the oft-coveted atmosphere of tonal artistry and drama. Boxes were no object for everyone was permitted the honor of such reservations.

Under the able direction of the operatic manager, Miss Edith McGaffey, and members of the College Fine Arts department not only one, but two operas, "Rigoletto," by Verdi, and "Madam Butterfly," by Puccini, were beautifully presented for the enjoyment of Cosmos members and their guests at the home of Mrs. F. A. Vaniman.

Miss Lois Ganay reviewed briefly but clearly the intricate story of both operas and Miss Fern Lingenfelter played recorded selections from each production. Miss Lois W. Cox added color to the presentation of "Rigoletto" by her vivacious violin interpretation of the beautiful "La Donna E Mobile." The Prelude to the second act of "Madam Butterfly" was feebly played as a piano solo by Miss Jessie Brown, and the touching solo, "One Fair Day," from the same opera was sung by Miss Esther Dahlinger. Miss Daflinger sang in costume and was accompanied by Miss Lingenfelter.

Hudson.

Adult Education Program Sponsored at Utica, N. Y.

According to the January 12, 1935 issue of the "School and Society," a series of ten lectures on social science is being given in Utica, New York, this winter before an adult audience by ten members of the faculty of Colgate University.

The scope of this Social Science Survey is a study of social change as shown in some of the more important economic, educational, political, and societal institutions in our modern social order.

Tickets are sold at nominal fees to defray expenses, and the number of attendants is limited to 130 so that after the lecture a general discussion can be carried on.

Mr. Asap,

McPherson, Kansas.

Dear Asap:

It was with a great deal of interest I read your article in today's Spectator. For a long while we have been confronted with this great problem and we appreciate your earnest desire to be of assistance in this economic, social, and personal matter. The dire necessity of obtaining relief upon the question is being felt by the entire student body. There is but one criticism we would make with your efforts—we are still eating ole!

Very truly yours,
Theo. Farr Farcerl.

Dear Asap:

Why must you take so active a part in problems of a Far Country College? Why not consider the problems of our own campus. Do you think we like eating ole any more than they do? Please see what you can do for us.

Obligingly yours,
Will H. Olesick, Student.

(I can see the editor about it. Will that help?—Asap.)

NEWSBOY IS STARGAZER

by College News Service
Columbia, S. C.—Robert Albert Lewis, 17-year-old newsboy of Columbia, first became interested in stars a few years ago when he read of life on other worlds in weird magazines.

He built himself a telescope out of odds and ends, and kept in his room where he could point it out at night and gaze at the heavens. From his savings he bought a star map and rented books on astronomy. But this fall a cherry tree in his back yard pushed its branches across the sky in front of Robert's window.

Robert walked home from his paper deliveries on the night of December 20 and planned how he would enter the University of Virginia on a possible scholarship. He looked into the heavens and noticed a star between Vega and Beta Praecoria he had never seen before. He rushed to his telescope, but the tree obscured his vision.

When, next evening, he identified it as a new star (Nova Herculis) and wrote a letter to the observatory at the University of Virginia, he found he was a day late. An astronomer in England had beat him to it.

BULLDOGS TO BATTLE WESLEYAN TOMORROW

Defeat Handed M. C. by Coyotes Last Year Hoped To Be Avenged in Tilt at Salina.

Who doesn't remember that the Bulldogs of McPherson College tied for the Kansas Conference championship of last year? According to the this year's Conference basketball schedule, the Bulldogs are slated to tangle with the very cause of that tie of last year when they meet the strong Kansas Wesleyan Coyotes at Salina tomorrow evening.

With the memory of that one-point defeat of last year handed to the Bulldogs by the Wesleyan five, the Canine quintet is ready to move to avenge the humiliation of last year.

The Coyotes from all reports have a very formidable aggregation and are still among the undefeated teams in the Conference; however, they haven't been called on to show their strength in the conference circuit as yet.

Coach Mackie lost some of last year's veteran team, including Mortimer, all-conference guard, while the Bulldogs have a veteran team ready to put on the court.

The game promises to be a battle, but if no unforeseen dangers appear, the Bulldogs seem to be favored for victory.

BULLDOGS BEAT SWEDES IN CONFERENCE CONTEST

Local Quintet Leads Bethany Throughout Game to Win By a 37-16 Margin

A 37 to 16 victory over the "Terrible Swedes" by the Bulldogs Tuesday evening at Lindsborg gave M. C. another conference game to her credit. The game was played largely on the Swedes' half of the court. The Canine quintet scored first and maintained an ever-increasing lead throughout the game. The score stood 18 to 4 at the half. Coach Binford started substituting, using in all, fourteen men in the game. The opponents added 12 points to their score in the second half.

"Tony" Meyer, the Bulldog center, tallied the greatest score for M. C. by dropping in five field goals and one free throw. Lemon, Bethany guard, was high point man for his team with one field goal and four free shots.

All but three of the 37 points made by the Bulldogs were scored by the starting lineup. Mitchell was the only substitute to score, having one field goal and one free shot to his credit.

The lineup for the game was:

BULLDOGS DOWN C. OF E.

Binford and Herrold Play Good Offensive Game for M. C. Squad

The Bulldogs tucked their first conference game under their belts by downing C. of E. with a score of 32 to 21. The Canines proved too much for the Emporians throughout the game. The score was lop-sided but it was a thrilling game. In the first eight minutes of the game the score was tied 6-6. But from then on the Canines took the lead and never gave it up, with Pauls and Herrold leading the scoring for the Bulldogs. The gun ended the tilt with the score 15-7.

The second half the Bulldogs kept their same old stride, and when the gun finished the game the score was 32-21. Captain Pauls led the scoring for the Canines with 13 points while Klausman led C. of E. with 3 baskets. Binford and Herrold played a good offensive game for the Bulldogs, while Lee and Rock were outstanding players for C. of E. Every man on the squad was used by Coach Binford.

GEORGE PIERCE BAKER, FAMED DRAMATIST, DEAD

By College News Service
New York. — Professor George Pierce Baker of the Yale University Drama School, who perhaps has started more playwrights on the road to success than any other man, was dead this week at the age of 68.

Professor Baker made revolutionary changes and contributions to modern drama yet never was seen over the footlights or in the marquee.

The work that made him famous the world over was the trading of budding playwrights and producers who registered as his students for "English 47" at Harvard University or "Drama 47" at Yale University.

From his "47" showshops came: Eugene O'Neill, three times winner of the Pulitzer prize in drama, author of "Emperor Jones," "Strange Interlude" and "Mourning Becomes Electra."

Sidney Howard, whose "They Knew What They Wanted" won the Pulitzer prize in 1925.

Walter Pritchard Eaton, playwright and critic, who succeeded Professor Baker as teacher of "Drama 47" at Yale.

Lee Simonson, scenic designer and director for the Theater Guild, and Robert Edmund Jones, who designed the costumes and sets for O'Neill's "Mourning Becomes Electra."

Professor Baker's teachings were based on an idea that drama could be taught in classes and should be taught through practical work in mechanics of the stage.

He became director of the "47" workshop at Harvard, assistant professor of English in 1895, and full professor in 1905. After 36 years as a member of the Harvard faculty, he went to Yale in 1935 as chairman of the department of drama and director of the new Yale University Theater. There he taught until his retirement on July 1, 1933.

SPORT LIGHTS

The Bulldogs' seconds were defeated in a thrilling game, Saturday night, when Sterling College nosed out ahead by a single point, in the last minute of the game. It was the night off for the Canines for they couldn't get going. Every player was used with the exception of the first five. Kauffman and Crabb were the outstanding players for the Canines.

Orval Eddy has recently been appointed by Coach Binford as head manager of the Intramurals. He is to be in charge of the Intramural tournament which is now going on. Eddy, a prominent member of the Senior class who is taking a major in physical education, promises to make the Intramurals interesting for those who are interested in them.

The Bulldogs won their Kansas Conference curtain raiser from the strong C. of E. team by a healthy margin. C. of E. is considered as one of the strongest teams in the loop and is listed among the favorites for championship contenders.

Not once during the entire game Friday night was the C. of E. aggregation in the lead. A couple of times during the first half the score was tied, but the Canines held a comfortable lead throughout the second half.

"Whittle" Pauls led the scoring and was playing his usual stellar brand of ball. "Tony" Myer looked exceptionally good and easily controlled the tip. Joyce Herrold played a good floor game, but was unable to score as he had in previous games. The various guard combinations, used by Coach Binford, were all good but as yet they have not shown the polish that has been exhibited in the forward line.

The C. of E. boys were full of admiration for the Bulldog machine after the game. One junior member of their quintet said that it was the best team that he had ever played against.

And Tuesday evening the Bulldogs took the measure of the Swedes at Lindsborg. Not once was the Viking squad in the lead. After the first few minutes of play there was no doubt as to the outcome of the game.

Fourteen fellows were used by Coach Binford in the Swede game. The third string held their own with the opponents.

The Bulldogs are now leading the conference race. If they can hurdle Wesleyan Friday night, the team will be well on the road to championship.

Coach A. B. Mackie of Kansas Wesleyan is a loyal supporter of the Bulldogs. At least, he's been presch-ent at the last two games. Perhaps the Bulldog-Kansas Wesleyan game at Salina tomorrow night has something to do with Mackie's sudden, intense interest in the team.

CALLED BY ILLNESS OF FATHER

Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Doty and Junior left last evening for Idaho, where they will visit Mr. Doty's father, who is critically ill. A telegram was received last evening and arrangements were made for them to leave immediately.
