Senior Play Draws Crowd

"The Romantic Age" is Story of a Girl Whose Unreal World Becomes Real.

Directed by L. Wine

Messamer, Peterson, Shirk, Viola and Leonard Lowe Take Leading Roles in Novel Play

"The Romantic Age" by A. A. Milne, was presented by the Senior Class last Friday evening in the college chapel. The play was effectively directed by Miss Leta Wine, a senior, assisted by Miss Della Lehman and Mrs. John D. Boitnott. Stage managers for the production were Ralph Shery and Wilbur Stearns.

"The Romantic Age" is a story of a young girl who has built up in her mind an unreal world which closely resembles that of the romantic age of the seventeenth century. She insists that her lover must be a knight and not a man dressed in the same clothes and having the same habits as every other young man. Melisande's parents, especially her mother, Mrs. Knowle, is very much interested in every man that might pay attention to her daughter.

The part of Melisande was taken by Lillian Peterson and those of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Knowle, the fond but not quite understanding mother and father, by Mr. and Mrs. Lowe. Jane Bagel, Mrs. Knowle's niece, was played by Leone Shirk. Jane was a girl who had more normal reactions to life than her cousin. She wanted to fall in love with some nice man, with the average ability to dress correctly and to act according to present day customs.

Bobby, a friend of the family, and a man who could not fit into Melisande's romantic world, was played by Archie Van Nortwick. Bobby first thought he was in love with Melisande but after two unsuccessful attempts at proposals he realized he was in love with practical Jane.

Gervase Mallory, who at first was mistakenly thought by Melisande to be a knight of the middle ages and, was really only lost on his way to a masquerade party, was portrayed by Merle Messamer. Gervase and Melisande quickly fall in love with each other. Although Melisande does not believe she is in love with him when he is dressed as any ordinary person that idea is soon overturned by a real love for him. In the end Melisande studies the cook book to learn how to make bread-sauce rather than read a poetry book of the romantic age.

The part of Ern, a country boy who was finally persuaded to bring Mallory some breakfast while he was in the woods, was well played by Ardy Hershey.

Master Susan was played by Lowell Hely. Master Susan appeared in the forest scene and gave valuable advice to Mallory.

Fourteen Candidates Run in Student Final Election Race

Primary election held last Thursday eliminated all but two candidates for those offices for which there were more than two nominees, leaving the following candidates to enter the final election: for President of the Student Council, Irwin Bentz and Dave Metzger; for Editor of the Quadrangle, Homer Kimmel and Otho Clark; for Business Manager of the Quadrangle, Kurtis Naylor and Emerson Chisholm; for Editor of the Spectator, Vernon Michael; for Business Manager of the Spectator, George Toland and Waldo Newberg; for Men's Cheer Leader, Harold Larsen; and for Ladies' Cheer Leader, La Vena High and Alleen Wine.

Results of the final election, which is being held this morning will be announced in next week's Spectator.

Wanda Hoover and Bertha Barthold went to Hillsboro Sunday evening with Hieberts.

Seniors Transact Important Business in Class Meeting

Several pieces of important business were discussed at the senior class meeting held on Monday, May 4.

It was decided that the senior play "The Romantic Age" will be given at the community building on May 20. This will be the third time the play has been presented for the public, including dress rehearsal.

Professor Dell, president of the Alumni Association, was present and gave an invitation to the seniors to be guests of honor at the annual Alumni Banquet which is to be held May 28.

Baccalaureate exercises were tentatively set to be held on May 24, to be given at 11 a. m. This is the Sunday before graduation.

Ballyhoo Speakers Praise Candidates

Great Show of Wit Mixed With Seriousness of Election.

It was the day of primary elections and ballyhooing in the chapel of McPherson College last Thursday morning. Indeed every man and woman inhabitant of that great community was there.

On the stage sat a great array of brilliant orators, lambasters and whatnots. It was the most outstanding group that had ever been gathered under that ancient roof.

Japan's representative Toshiro Tsubowaka was there in full force. Africa also had its representative in Corwin Bare, who most certainly was in top form in his brilliant and witty remarks. These were the only foreign representatives.

Pious Reverend Vernon Michael in low serious tones presented the merits of his candidate. Paul Heckman came through in great style, giving his "matter of fact" presentation.

Arkansas had its representative in Blanch Harris, who spoke in his good "hillbilly" guttural lingo. Willard Fleming, being rather frightened by the movements of Chief Paddler Johnston (the only Indian representative there) gave an eloquent and witty address.

Mike Vasquez gave a very deliberate and forceful address. The subject of Mr. Vasquez's address of the morning was on the subject of "Who." Inez Goughnour and Harold Mohler in their dual presentation were rudely interrupted by Chief Johnston, who rudely forced them to subside and return to their seats. (We suggest that fire water should be kept from the Indians after this in order to prevent future disturbances.)

Edward Jones spoke on the High, and elevating subject of "She's got that." Mr. Jones came forward in great leaps and bounds (perhaps with a hop, skip and jump) in the estimation of the enthusiastic audience. Alvin Lindgren talked on the subject of "Doulter Dams." We would urge that in the future all profane language be prohibited.) Irwin Bentz presented a revised funeral sermon of his predecessor Mark Anthony at Caesar's funeral. Marvin Riddell's talk was concerned primarily with "Swedes." John Bower burnt forth in great witty eloquence but was rudely interrupted by Chief Johnston, who seemed to be feeling the effects of a fresh drink of fire water.

"Wine and more wine" was Alberta Keller's address of the morning. (Mr. Jones' remark that wine doesn't mix with anything was possibly right in at least one sense. We should heretofore prohibit non-Prohibition speeches.) Harold Larsen in clarion tones forcefully lauded his candidate.

This great ballyhoo tournament finally came to close with loud cries and insane stomping of feet by the audience, who proved to be decidedly impolite and unruly throughout this great contest.

The students of the dormitories were served a semi-formal dinner last Thursday evening. The room was lighted by candles which made a very attractive scene.

Rev. Paul R. Reynolds

Reverend P. R. Reynolds Speaks in Chapel on "Youth of China"

A very interesting program was presented in chapel last Tuesday. After Margaret Fry's solo "The Answer" by Terry, Rev. Paul R. Reynolds of China, delivered an address stating the things that America learns from China and the things that China is learning from America. Rev. Reynolds stated that the interest of the youth of China lies in three main fields; first, that of athletics; second, that of rural service, such as teaching the farmers to read and write; and third, is the love of their country. The youth of China will die for their country.

World Cooperation Group Gives Play

"Gas," a Peace Drama, Will be Presented Tonight in Chapel

The World Cooperation Commission of the S. C. M. gave the first of a series of deputation peace programs last Monday night at Sparta schoolhouse. They gave a peace play, "Gas," which was directed by Margaret Messamer assisted by Miss Lehman. The scene of the play is laid in a private dining room in a hotel in New York City. The time is a day that will never come. The theme of the play centers around a future war in which gas is the most deadly weapon.

The characters of the play are Donald Petry, Mr. Bartin; Dorothy Miller, Mrs. Bartin; June McNamee, their daughter, Alice; Fred Nace, her fiance, Bob; Clayton Rock, their son; Edgar; and Opat Hoffman, a waitress.

Paul Miller gave a talk about the nature of the World Cooperation Commission and the need for immediate mobilization of peace forces. Sparta's rhythm band, made up children from the lower grades, played several numbers. The teachers at the school are Mr. and Mrs. Fred Rhine.

A similar program was given at the Monitor church Tuesday night. The play will be given in the college chapel tonight. The same group will present its program at the Christian church Sunday night. Emma Schmidt and David Metzger, co-chairmen of the World Cooperation Commission, are sponsoring these programs.

A varied program was given at C. E. Sunday night. The meeting opened with a song service after which Harriette Smith led devotions. Vera Heckman gave a reading. A quartet of high school girls sang. The quartet was made up of: Betty Schwalm, Elizabeth Mohler, Esther Shery and Ramona Fries.

CALENDAR FOR THE WEEK

Thursday, May 7—"Gas," a peace play, 8 p. m. in the College chapel.
Saturday, May 8—S. C. M. Cabinet retreat, 4 p. m.
Sunday, May 10—Music recital at 3 p. m. in the College chapel, C. E. at 7:15 p. m. at the College church.
Monday, May 11—Student Christian Movement, 11 a. m. in the Student Union room. Creative Leisure commission meets at 7 p. m. in Industrial arts room.
Tuesday, May 12—World Service in Y. W. room at 7 p. m.
Wednesday, May 13—Radium lecture and demonstration, chemistry lecture room, 8:15 p. m.

College Orchestra Presents Its Annual Concert Wednesday

Last night the McPherson College orchestra, under the direction of Miss Mattie Shay, presented its annual concert. Comment was exceptionally favorable for the entire program.

Numbers included on the program were: two movements of the "Unfinished Symphony," by Schubert; "Echoes From the Metropolitan," and "Overture to Merry Wives of Windsor," by Nicolol. Margaret Fry and Mr. Gilson took leading roles in soprano and flute, respectively, in "Lo, Hear the Gentle Lark," by Sir Henry Bishop.

The college string quartet, composed of Miss Shay, Franklin Hiebert, Lois Gnagy, and Hulse Barber, presented "Andante Contabile," by Tschaiskowsky.

"M" Club Exhibits Strange Costumes

Hitherto Unknown Traits Are Revealed in Athletics

"Shine, shine—anybody want a shine? Nickel—five cents." Did Corwin Bare really want some shining business? We think not. However, his successful effort at disguising himself and all must have been for some reason.

"Extra—extra—all about the big wipe out." This was the call of little "Ronny" in the white cap and knickers. His business was not so good. His extras were so blank. Yet he did not really misrepresent.

"How about a date tonight?" After all his bashfulness during these eight months of college, last Thursday Garnet Cornwell, adorned in red pants rolled to his knees and with a headdress of the conical style, propped to ask every girl he met for a date. He did have it. Nats in the cap maybe, or probably Miss Smith would say hyperthyroidism or one of those long psychological terms.

At last there came to our campus a person attired in garments catering to a fashion not yet shown in the "Esquire." Who dares to do this but Edgar Vaughn? His hemp skirt was in keeping with the hot-weather weather. Losing a fragment here and a fragment there Edgar's clothing was soon limited to his gray lingerie.

Dear Bobby Wiegand has been so mistreated at home. Cruel parents—they wouldn't let him roller skate or play with dolls and baby buggies so last Thursday we just let Bobby revert to his childhood. Bobby had to do so he pushed his little brother (little white-haired Fritzie) around in the buggy. Gosh, was he tickled.

Did you ever see a giant in a dress? There was one on our campus Thursday. Lawrence Boyer was so happy that he engendered the same contentment into the red rooster that he carried around all morning. Congratulations to the giant lady who possesses such serene temperament and offers such a pleasant smile regardless of the situation in which she finds herself.

Such are the memories to be held by the six fellows who were initiated into the "M" Club last Thursday. All of these men are football lettermen except Corwin Bare. He has earned his letter in tennis.

The initiation was concluded by a picnic at which everyone enjoyed ice cream and sandwiches and the privileged six received also some mud balls and some well directed spats from the older members of the club.

To Whom It May Concern

The senior class of McPherson College, due to difficulties which have arisen in past years from secret sneaks, wishes to announce that it will not sneak this year; but that on Tuesday, May 12, 1936, will abandon the campus for a brief retreat from all academic pursuits and will return Wednesday, May 13.

Signed,
Senior Class.

Sophomores Take Tests

Bright and Boitnott Conduct the Examinations Which Take Three Days

Topics Are General

Science, Culture, World History, Mathematics, and Contemporary Affairs Are Covered

Sophomore tests for the measurement of educational growth, under the auspices of the Committee on Educational Testing of the American Council of Education, are being given to all the Sophomores and a few of the Freshmen this week under the direction of Dr. Bright and Dr. Boitnott.

This is the first time these tests have been used in McPherson College. In 1922 the Committee on Educational Testing of the American Council of Education inaugurated the nation-wide College Sophomore Testing Program. While separate subject matter tests, such as English and foreign languages, have been used in this program from the beginning, the characteristic feature of the sophomore program has been the use of the general culture, general science, and general mathematics tests. Since 1923 another general test has been used, the test in contemporary affairs.

The dominant purpose of the Committee on Educational Testing in all these programs has been to promote constructive educational guidance and the individualization of education. As a means to this end the committee has sought to spread and increase knowledge of the values and limitations of comparable tests in guidance work, and has sought to stimulate and coordinate efforts to improve existing tests, to increase the constructive use of tests, and to discourage the misuse of tests of all types.

About 150 colleges participated in the initial sophomore testing program in 1922, while over 300 colleges participated in the initial physics program in 1924.

Tuesday afternoon the general science test was given. Yesterday forenoon the students took the general culture test, followed in the afternoon by the test on contemporary affairs. Today the tests are being continued with the general mathematics test, and with the world history test.

J. Bower is Tried in S. C. M. Monday

Defendant, Found Guilty, is Sentenced to 10 Days at Estes.

A new type of meeting was featured in the S. C. M. session last Monday morning. John Bower was tried for non-participation in the Christian activities on the campus. The plaintiff was the S. C. M. The Honorable Paul Booz presided as judge of the court. Prosecuting attorneys were Willard Fleming and Kenneth Weaver, and attorney for the defense were Alvin Lindgren and Paul Miller. Vernon Michael was clerk of the court, with Glenn Webb acting as bailiff.

Witnesses for the S. C. M. were Lucille Ellery, Gordon Bower, Paul Heckman, Dave Metzger, and Kurtis Naylor. Wanda Hoover and the defendant, John Bower, were the only witnesses for the defense.

The jury brought in a verdict of guilty. Mr. Bower's sentence was to spend the days in Estes Park at the Y. M. and Y. W. conference this summer, June 5 to June 15.

After the sentence was pronounced, the judge explained the significance of the sentence. He told of the advantages which the conference itself has to offer. The purpose was to present to the students and to advertise in a very effective manner the Estes Conference.

Virginia Propp has been ill for several days during the past week.

Creativity Brings One Back to Reality

FIND YOURSELF bored some Saturday nights? Perhaps not right now but you probably will next winter. We've a suggestion for possible activity on such occasions, either by yourself, with your best girl, or in a group for that matter. The activity is simplicity itself—simple in materials, simple in expense, simple in skill required, simple in energy expenditure. For results, however, few activities can afford so valuable results in point of technique. We refer to the delightful pastime of soap sculpture.

Designed for children originally, the idea of soap carving has spread until annual exhibits are held for amateurs and professionals. The tools are simple—a sharp paring knife for roughing out and several orange sticks for delicate work. The individual can shape the orange sticks to suit himself. Ivory soap seems to be quite adequate for the purpose of carving. No artistic ability is needed—only a picture, model, or diagram to serve as a starter and the willingness to set to.

Rough models can be turned out in a very short time, very delicate replicas may be produced with the expenditure of more care and time.

But whether the model is a finished product or not the desirable results are obtained. Nothing that man can do will give him the personal satisfaction and pleasure that he can find in creating something. Thus the very act of making a soap model, regardless of what it looks like, is creative, and as such brings the keen joy found in all creativity.

When you get discouraged, blue, disillusioned, or bored, try soap carving. If it doesn't bring you back to reality and give you a measure of self confidence, we will have missed our guess.—K. W.

What ho? Where Sleeps Our Athletic Spirit?

WHAT HAPPENS to a college's athletic spirit when football season ends? Surely it isn't lost so it must just be dormant. There is some type of athletics in procedure all the year. But when a stranger visits our campus, he must ask, "Do you have a track team?" or "Do you have a tennis squad?"

This is a rather silly thing, but it exists nevertheless. What makes it more strange is that Kansas schools are not so widely noted for their football as for their basketball and track. Only a small portion of the college students play football, not always because they don't want to, but almost every person in the school participates in tennis.

When one looks toward the track field during a contest with another college, it is impossible to tell that anything was going on for the lack of a crowd. More people go out to watch a football team in practice than have attended the recent track meets. Several persons don't even know our school has been holding tennis matches with others.

With these things in view, let's remember, the fellows on our spring athletic teams are fighting for M. C. as strongly as those on the football field in the fall. You students haven't lost your school loyalty? All right then, let's let these fellows know we are back of them one hundred per cent!

As It Seems To Me

Change in Attitude

Hasn't it ever seemed strange to you that the church has changed its attitude concerning war? In past years in many cases the church boasted of placing so many active men in service for war.

Today, especially since the World War, has an increased number of churches taken a positive stand against war. This has been brought about by our men with the keenest minds and most sensitive consciences.

The students today with keen minds and sensitive consciences are in turn following this same procedure. They are taking a positive stand against the thing that threatens our very civilization.

We need today all the people we can get to take a definite stand to keep this anti-war attitude as it is getting to be today and never allow it to go back to its former state of affairs.

This is going to call for a sacrifice on every one's part who wants to make a positive contribution to the world. Why not try it?—An Interested Observer.

Three Moundridge Musicians to Give a Recital at M. C. Sunday

Three talented young musicians from Moundridge will give a recital Sunday afternoon, May 10, at three o'clock, in the College chapel. Miss Anne Krehbiel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Krehbiel, will be presented in a piano recital. She will be assisted by Mr. Floyd Krehbiel, violinist, and Mr. Clayton Krehbiel, accompanist, sons of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Krehbiel.

Miss Krehbiel is a piano student of Miss Jessie Brown and Mr. Floyd Krehbiel is a violin student of Miss Mattie Shay. Mr. Clayton Krehbiel is also a student of Miss Brown.

The public is cordially invited to the recital.

It Can Be Done

By faith it can be done: A stadium built of favor won; A student social center room From small beginnings, large may loom. Campus improvements can be made. Painting done and pavements laid. Endowment raised in spite of fears Increased enrollment through the years.

Cooperation lifts the load Determination acts as goad Every victory shall be won By him who says: "It can be done"—Margaret Heckethorn

Farming is the chief vocation of parents of University of South Carolina students.

They're Climbing on the Upward Way

Merle Messamer is perhaps one of the most versatile players ever to have appeared in McPherson College dramatic productions. He acts with equal ardor the part of winning suitor, jilted lover, accused prisoner, in fact any part that may fall his lot. Merle did his freshman work at Los Angeles Junior College, Los Angeles, Calif., and his sophomore work at Visalia Junior College, Visalia, Calif. Merle has been a member of the Thespian Club both of his years here, and took leading parts in the plays, "Death Takes a Holiday" and "You and I." Merle played the leading man's role in the senior play, "Romantic Age," and has appeared in numerous other plays. Other accomplishments to his credit are participation in tennis, Spectator staff, Quadrangle staff, and music chairman of the Y. M. C. A. Merle's major field is English.

Gerald Meyers, the boy with the broad smile, may be seen quite often in the Science Hall for it is there that the home of his major is housed. Jerry was class officer as a freshman and held a position on the Y. M. C. A. He has leased a filling station and besides carrying his school work, he has full charge of that. His jovial personality and love of fun class him as a good fellow.

Lillian Peterson is outstanding among the seniors for her high quality of scholastic work. Consistently an honor-rating student, she still had time for Y. W. work, holding position of Program Chairman during the past year and for an active part in the student government in Arnold Hall. She had the lead in the senior play, "The Romantic Age." Lillian took her first two years at Hutchinson Junior College. Her dignity and poise have contributed a great deal to the class.

Harold "Hick" Reinecker is noted for his steady-going manner and stick-to-it-iveness, which can best be observed when he is competing in the two mile run. Harold has been a fighting Bulldog since his sophomore year when he played basketball. His junior and senior years "Hick" has been a football and track man, and a member of the M. Club. Reinecker is majoring in industrial arts and physical education.

The Gallery

Bertie Keller was as solemn as the Sphinx Sunday as she tripped down the aisle in her picturesque hat and taffeta gown. I still wonder if there might have been a smothered giggle all pent up behind those set lips.

If any of you Fannestock dwellers are color-blind and want to know what color your latest bedroom garments are, just ask the girls who sleep on the Arnold porch. Their view would really be more pleasant, boys, if you would pull the window-shades like all city-acquainted people do.

I can't think of anyone who could have stepped out to receive her flowers as graciously as Letta Wine did Friday night at the play. Her poise is worthy of study.

Either I'm prosaic or this jazz-age language is really smart. From current books such as It Can't Happen Here, If This Be Treason, Ayn Rand, Emile et les Detectives, and God and My Father, I have acquired the following vocabulary which I wager will stand up with that of Zook or Yount: dom-in-a-shum; the hell it can't; God damned burghouse; pig-head pacifist; Good God, this is revolution; ma fois; poor fool, your day is done; vous eta un drole de type. And from the SCM Court proceedings I discovered I can let loose with, "So help me, Schwalm."

A girl is cheating herself out of a lot of thrilling thoughts when she says that she wouldn't have pursued the action of Janet Gaylor when she accepted Robert Taylor's devastating invitation to ride in his smooth roadster. I have yet to see any girl who doesn't respond to a Bob with grey-blue eyes, black hair and a gleaming smile. It just seems to be the most delicious sort of weakness.

Contest and Treasure Hunt Climax Spec Staff's Year

Journalistic writing of the highest type is the goal of a contest among contributors to The Spectator starting with this issue. Vernon Michael, editor, is offering a copy of "I Cover the Waterfront" by Max Miller as the award for first place.

A unique plan for selecting the winner is being tried. Four persons on the regular mailing list, and one of the former editors of The Spectator are being asked each week to select the outstanding article of the week. The contributor having received the most votes over a period of three weeks will be the winner. In case of a tie or no decision, a committee of local judges will be chosen from among the faculty and student body to make the final choice.

Plans are also under way for a treasure hunt to be given soon for the members of the staff, including all of those who have served regularly either on the business staff, editorial staff, as reporters, or who have helped with wrapping the papers for mailing.

Taylor; also a criticism book "American Novel" by Van Doren.

The physical education books received are: "Lawn Tennis Made Easy" by B. Austin; "The Measurement of Athletic Power" by Charles McCloy; and the books in the field of science are: "Bulbs for Your Gardens" by A. H. Wood; "The Design of Residential Areas" by T. Adams.

In the field of commerce the following new books have been added; "America's Capacity to Produce" by E. G. Nourse and associates; "America's Capacity to Consume" by W. Leven and H. G. Moulton; "The Formation of Capital" by H. G. Moulton; "Income and Economic Progress" by H. G. Moulton.

"The Bible" translated by Smith and Goodspeed was presented to the library by Paul Booz.

Personal

Miss Faith Ketterman, graduate of McPherson College, who teaches at Lorraine, was a visitor on the campus last week end.

Miss Neva Root, '35, of Chase, visited on the campus over the week-end, attending the senior play Friday night.

Rev. and Mrs. Davis of Independence were in McPherson during the past week in order to find a residence. Rev. Davis, who has been elected to the college field force, will take up his duties here early in June.

Miss Margaret Oliver, who is teaching at Kip, visited friends in McPherson during the week end.

Una Ring of Kingsdown, former McPherson College student, spent the week end in McPherson visiting friends.

Elrod Van Dermark went to her home in Hutchison Saturday and Sunday for a visit with her parents.

Several of the girls who are taking foods this semester have been giving their dinners during the past few weeks. Some of the dormitory girls who have served dinners are Jean Allen, Helen Eaton, Mary Trostle, Margaret Messamer, Becky Ann Stauffer, Rilla Hubbard, and Jessal Miller.

Lawrence Strouse returned home Monday from a visit at Columbia and Boonville, Mo. While at Columbia he was a guest at the Zeta Beta Tau house and attended that fraternity party Saturday night. He also attended some of the high school journalism meetings held under the

Keller and Strickler Are United in Wedlock

The marriage of Miss Velma M. Keller, '35, to Mr. Dale A. Strickler, '24, took place at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the College church, Dr. V. F. Schwalm read the single ring service. Preceding the ceremony Miss Mattie Shay, violinist, and Miss Bernadine Ohmart, pianist; played a group of love melodies, as Mr. Ted Dell and Mr. Wilbur Yoder lighted the tapers.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, Mr. A. C. Keller of Minneola, Kansas. Miss Martha Hursk was maid of honor, and the bridesmaids were Alberta Keller, the bride's sister, and Miss Essie Kimball. Mr. Paul E. Sargent acted as best man, and Mr. Verle Ohmart was head groomsman. Other groomsman were the Messrs. John Harnly, Ted Dell, Wilbur Yoder, Leonard Wiggins, and Harold Rothrock. Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Vaniman and Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Wall received the wedding guests at the church door.

A reception was served in the church parlor following the ceremony. Hostesses were Mrs. Paul E. Sargent, Mrs. Delbert Kelly, and the Misses Edith Streed, Maxine Rinz, and Grace Green. Those assisting in serving were Rilla Hubbard, Aileen Wine, Becky Stauffer, Mary Trostle, and Carrie Alice Hanson.

Since her graduation Mrs. Strickler has been a case worker at the McPherson county Red Cross office. Mr. Strickler is associated with the People's State Bank and is secretary of the board of trustees of McPherson College.

COLLEGE DAZE . . .

(From "Gourds" Green's Diary)

Wed. 29.
Thurs. 30. Primary election today, and it went off all right cost most of my candidates got elected. Boy, there was a lot of good speeches, some of them like Bare and Keller showed real talent. That was better than chapel ever is, so I wish the faculty would take notice and pick some chapel speakers where there is some real talent, for the school of quality ought to give us the best. That time limit was sure a good idea, it would help a lot of politicians and preachers to have a man behind them with a stop watch and a paddle. The same goes for chapel speakers.

Fri. May 1. Mohler called me over to ask me about some flood-lighting he said had been going on from the north end of the dorm and I didn't know a thing about it. I wish the guys wouldn't forget to let me in on it when something happens. Guess I'll load my flashlight with new batteries. I told him about something else I thought he was going to ask me about, every time I open my mouth I get my foot in it.

Sat. 2. Worked for Forney today, he don't say much around me any more, he acts like he was afraid I'd tell it.

Sun. 3. Went to the wedding this afternoon. My— it was well, all flowery and beautiful and calm, and kind of sad. . . . May be I take things too seriously, but I always feel kind of like crying a little at a wedding. The groom didn't look as unnecessary and scared as they usually do. Crops are looking up at home with all this rain, maybe Henrietta and I . . . who knows?

Monday 4. Joined the S. C. M. today. They could put the organization over big if they put on that big membership drive for everybody. But hang it it wasn't right to get me up and tell all my weaknesses in public; make me admit what I ought to done and didn't, and not let me tell all the things I have had to do. I'll preach a formal or any other kind of sermon to that bunch any time they can get enough in one place long enough to hear it. The prosecution was so sure I wouldn't have gone to the conference at Newton if somebody hadn't paid my way that I hope they remember I don't see how I can go to Estes either. What America needs are more men like Chuck Hube, willing to give even the shirt off their backs to help a stranded brother, and less of the kind willing to take the shirt off a guy's back whenever they get him in a tight corner. I do hope they execute the sentence, cos I would sure like to go to Estes, I think it would help me find my way out of this religious fog which came from mixing boiling new ideas with colder old ones. I'm all up in the air maybe they could put me back on my course following the right road beam. I sure want to go. I wish Henrietta could go too, that would be such a nice place. . . and she has never been to the mountains. I don't like that, and I don't like the slur Jane Kent made in the paper about Henrietta not being a good inspiration, I betcha every inspired guy on the campus has got a Henrietta at home, I'll bet Jane herself has got Oscar sticking around somewhere. Why even the dean of women has got a guy which came clear down to Kansas City to see her Easter, and then it wasn't two weeks till she went up to Iowa to see him. I still think we would of won the trial if they hadn't beat us to it and fixed the jury, anyhow, so help me Forney, they can't say I'm not loyal to the Y, nobody else let himself be crucified for the benefit of the society. I'll feel my sacrifice wasted if more people don't decide to go along to Estes.

Tue. 5. Boy, we had a good chapel this morning, I'm glad I went and I change what I said about chapel speakers not being as good as students to include only faculty members.

Choir Presents Two Programs

The A Cappella Choir presented two programs during the last week. Friday, May 1, the choir sang at the State Sunday School Convention held at Salina. Last Sunday the choir sang at Marlon on the opening program of a music festival week being held in Marlon this week.

On Sunday, May 10, the choir will sing in the Presbyterian church of this city.

Teachers Should be Prettier Says Eastern Public School Director

Prettier teachers might increase the interest of pupils in their school work, Roland L. Eaton, director of public schools at Swarthmore, Pa., declared during the forty-second annual Schoolmen's week at the University of Pennsylvania.

"There is no reason why teachers should not be good to look at," Eaton told educators from Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Maryland and Delaware. "I do not blame some children for not wanting to go to school. Some of the teachers are rather difficult to look at."

"I think we have a right to look at the physical characteristics as well as the cultural aspirations of an applicant for teaching in the school system," he added.—College News Service.

Stage Is Set For McPherson Relays

Ten Schools Compete Here for Honors in Varied Events Queen of Relays Will Be Crowned.

The stage for the Second McPherson College Relays is set for the high-geared track teams who will be matching strides and strength for an assault on track records Friday. The teams participating include Bethany, Ottawa, Kansas Wesleyan, Baker College of Emporia, Sterling, Bethel, Southwestern, Friends University, and McPherson.

One hundred and sixty college and university athletes will be present at the Relays. Sterling college will have the largest delegation of men in the meet with 21 registered. Baker University, rated as the strongest contender, will bring a full team of 20 members.

A splendorous 17 inch suncold trophy has been added to the list of awards, as a gift from the McPherson Chamber of Commerce. This cup will be presented to the victorious track team.

Beautiful school trophies will be presented to the winning team in each relay event. Medals will be awarded the winners of first, second, and third places in the special events, and to the individual on each winning relay team.

The preliminaries are to begin at 2 p. m. and will consist of the following event in the order named: 100 yard dash; 120 high hurdles; pole vault; high jump; shot put; broad jump; discus throw; javelin throw; and hop, step and jump.

If more than six schools are entered in the 440 yard relay and 880 yard relay, the preliminaries will be run off in the afternoon. The two mile relay will be run at 4 p. m. for the only final of the afternoon session.

The night program will be held under the floodlights and will begin promptly at 7:30. It will consist of the crowning of the second McPherson College Relay's queen, with a short program in her honor, and the finals of the track and field events. In the running events the number of competitors will be reduced to six contestants for the final heat of each event. In the field events the number of competitors will be reduced to five. Four places will count points (5-3-2-1) in each of the fifteen events.

Sixteen McPherson College trackmen will be waiting the starting signal of the McPherson Relays.

In the field events the McPherson entrants are as follows: shotput—Meyer and Boyer; discus—Haun, Meyer, Zook and Wiegand; pole vault—Haun; broad jump—Haun; high jump—Switzer; javelin—Meyer and Haun; hop, step and jump—Haun.

In the special track events Toland, Haun, and Sink will contest in the 100 yard dash. Haun and Van Nortwick will participate in the 120 yard high hurdles.

Aspirants for the springs medley relay (440-220-220-880) will be chosen from the following five: Heckman, Toland, Sink, Reinecker, and Vaughn. The four chosen to represent McPherson in the two-mile relay are Heckman, Reinecker, Vaughn and Cornwell.

Contestants in the 449 yard relay (football lettermen) are Haun, Toland, Van Nortwick, and Reinecker. In the 880 yard relay Toland, Sink, Van Nortwick and Yount will carry the loads.

In the distance medley relay (440-880-1320-mile) the team will be selected from the following candidates: Allbright, Bower, Reinecker, Heckman and Yount.

Invitations have been sent to 100 senior classes of various high schools throughout the state. The seniors desiring to come will be given free passes to the entire program.

A tennis tournament will be held in connection with the relays beginning at 10 Friday morning. Each school will be limited to two entries in the singles and one doubles team. Awards shall be given for first and second places.

Sport Skits

Dissenger—Baker's star distance man, will be an outstanding threat in all relay events.

Brandt—dash man from Friends, will be a strong contender in the 100 yd. dash and in the short distance relays.

Yeigler—is Southwestern's big hope. He will be a probable entrant in the distance relays, shot put, and discus.

Morris—will carry the greater share of the burden for Kansas Wesleyan's rather weak team. Pole vault, broad jump, high jump, and the relays are his capabilities.

Lemon—Bethany's outstanding star who shows his influence in nearly all the relays and is a broad jumper of great ability.

Rock—M. C.'s nemesis on the basketball floor from C. of E. will live up to his title in the high hurdles, broad jump, and hop, step, and jump. He collected 17 points in a recent meet with Kansas Wesleyan.

Voth—Bethel's big contender in the sprints short distance relays, and broad jump.

Haun—McPherson's all-around track star will gather in his share of the points. Being limited to four events, he will be a probable entrant in the javelin, high hurdles, high jump, and pole vault.

Bethel won the annual meet of the Sunflower track league with 70 1-4 points, last Tuesday afternoon. Sterling was second with 51 points and Friends third with 41 3-4 points.

Tennis Tournament Will Be Held In Connection With M. C. Relays

A tennis tournament will be held in connection with the McPherson Relays. The meet starts at 10 a. m. Friday, and will continue throughout the day.

Each school entrant is restricted to two singles players and one doubles team. Donald Barngrover and either Charles Flowers or Corwin Bare will represent McPherson in the singles matches. Paul Miller and Merle Messamer will make up the doubles team.

There will be ten schools entered in the tournament, which will include Bethany, Ottawa, College of Emporia, Kansas Wesleyan, McPherson, Sterling, Friends University, Southwestern, Baker, and Bethel.

Inclusion of Jazz Ballads in Musical Curriculum Recommended

Dr. Harold G. Campbell, Superintendent of Schools of New York, has recommended that jazz ballads and other popular songs be included in the musical curriculum of the public schools.

"Music teachers should recognize that these popular songs are part of the folklore of the day," Dr. Campbell said. "They usually embody many wholesome sentiments. For example, they glorify such things as home, spring, and love. Among the composers whose work he commended for school use were Irving Berlin, George Gershwin, Jerome Kern, Rudolph Friml, Sigmund Romberg and Victor Herbert.—College News Service.

High Explosive From Corn Is Made by Iowa Professor

Discovery recently of a process by which commercial production of a new type of high explosive made from ordinary corn is possible was disclosed by Professor Edward Bartow, chairman of the University of Iowa chemistry department.

The new blasting agent is derived, he said, from a waste product—inositol—which is obtained from the water in which corn has been soaked, during the process of manufacturing cornstarch.

Dr. Bartow predicted that the new explosive would be found valuable in mine and tunnel work, for excavations and for other commercial uses.

The waste product, inositol, in itself a white, harmless, sugar-like substance and about as sweet as sugar to the average taste, is also being tried clinically as a possible sugar substitute in the diet of diabetics. The new explosive was developed by Professor Bartow in association with Dr. W. W. Welker, a graduate student.

Until now the corn-sugar substance was one of the rarest laboratory curiosities, only five pounds of it a year having been available for experimental purposes. The process of extraction was so difficult and costly that its price was $500 a pound. While its possibilities as an explosive were known, its costliness and rarity made it highly impracticable.

The new process, Professor Bartow reported, made it possible to extract as much as 1,000,000 pounds a year at a reasonable cost that brings the product within the realm of commercial manufacture. Explosive manufacturers here and in Germany, he revealed, have inquired about samples of the substance for experiments.

To rhubarb or not to rhubarb—that is the question which is confronting the food committee for the Law Day banquet. There have been several arguments against it, in fact, practically the entire law school is opposed to rhubarb, but the fact remains that one of the influential members has a soft and wooly weakness for this vegetable. Even he, however, can not determine when it should be placed on the menu—From University Daily Kansan, Lawrence.
