McPHERSON COLLEGE, McPHERSON KANSAS, FRIDAY, JANUARY 10, 1941

NUMBER FOURTEEN

They Tell Me—

Probably every one has already heard about the two men who showed up at the Sugar Bowl football game at New Orleans with tickets to the Rose Bowl game at Pasadena. Realizing the mistake, one of the men said to the other, "I told you we got on the wrong train."

So, instead of seeing Stanford trick Nebraska with the T-formation, they saw Boston college come from behind to beat Tennessee, on account of the generosity of the Sugar Bowl officials.

Jim Burger, recent addition to the sports staff of The Spectator, suffered a sudden attack of appendicitis last Sunday morning, while at home near Wiley, Colorado. He was taken into Wiley and operated on Sunday morning.

His sudden illness dampening the holiday spirits of many of his friends, Jim Burger also is missed by the sports staff, who were attempting to rebuild the sports section of the Spectator.

Reliable reports have it that the famed Tom Harmon of the University of Michigan, spent several days of his Christmas vacation in McPherson with relatives. Supposedly coming for peace, rest and quiet, he was unheralded by any sports writers during his visit here.

Easily chosen All-American, Tom Harmon is regarded by many sports fans as the nation's best gridster and has received significant trophies in this regard. In the 1940 football season, Harmon excelled the all-time scoring record formerly held by Harold "Red" Grange, the "Galloping Ghost", who played for Illinois U.

Rollin Watanakor, star senior Bulldog athlete, slipped a ring on the third finger of Kitty Mohler's left hand during Christmas vacation. Kitty Mohler was quite popular during her two years at McPherson college and gained various honors here.

She was the queen of the 1939 Quadrangle, was a varsity debater last year, and engaged in many activities here. She obtained a 60-hour teacher's certificate here last June and has been teaching in a country school near Warrensburg, Missouri, this year.

Another Tom Harmon seems to be coming into prominence. The student council of Bethel college elected

Sports Day Has Robin Hood Motif

Twelve Colleges Are Invited To Women's Volleyball Meet

Robin Hood motif will be the theme of the annual volleyball Sports Day, sponsored by the Women's Athletic Association of McPherson college for co-eds who attend nearby colleges. The day of fun will take place Saturday, January 18, on Macampus.

Twelve colleges have been invited to participate. Mildred Fries and Maxine Ruehlin, co-chairmen of the sports day of volley ball and other entertainment, have worked out a planned schedule for the day, which will include registration, welcome, and introduction, a social mixer, organization of teams, and the actual playing of volley ball.

Presentation of awards and the farewell will climax the event. The awards, color bands, and favors will be carried out in Robin Hood motif. ## Fahnestock Hall, 1887—?

Fahnestock Hall was begun and McPherson college was officially organized in 1887. Fahnestock Hall, as shown above has been yearly to this day and of late has been thought to have served its time.

There has been an extensive campaign carried on for the building of a new men's dormitory and many people have donated large sums of money for the cause. The board of trustees will determine ultimately when and what sort of a building will be built. They will meet next month.

The picture above was taken from a woodcut made for Prof. S. M. Dell by Bill Hobbs, former student here, who is teaching school this year at Fairview, Kansas.

Plan Big Stunt Night To Award Cash Prizes

Pralines, Colonial Mansions Intrigue Visitors in French New Orleans

Leaving the campus the last day of school before Christmas vacation, Miss Della Lehman, professor of English literature, Miss Esther Atkinson, professor of home economics, and Miss Lilyan Warner, instructor in physical education, drove to New Orleans for their vacation trip. They were accompanied by Miss Abigail Bisby and Miss Mary Cooley, both of McPherson.

In an enjoyable trip with no trouble at all, the group stopped at Tulsa, Memphis, and Natchez, Mississippi on the way, and came back by way of Memphis and Kansas City. Driving the war were its owners, Mary Cooley, and Miss Warner.

The old colonial mansions in Natchez, Mississippi, with their pillared porches and colonial furniture, delighted the group. They stayed overnight at Stanton Hall, and their beds were the tall, huge four-posters with canopies.

Many of the late Huey P. Long's haunts were visited in Baton Rouge, the state capital of Louisiana. The group enjoyed coffee at the home of Dr. Dallas Dickey, professor of speech at the University of Louisiana and a former student of both Dr. Schwalm and Miss Lehman at Manchester college.

They stayed a week at Hotel Monte Leone, a hotel on the edge of the French quarter in New Orleans. New Orleans, Quebec, and Victoria are said to be the three cities in North America which have distinctly foreign atmospheres. The narrow streets of the French quarter, the colorful patios, wrought-iron galleries extending all around the second and third floors of some of the buildings, and the many poinsettias intrigued the visitors. Cobblestones usually formed the paving of the French streets.

They visited many of the haunts of Andrew Jackson and also of Jean LaFitte, a pirate. (The movie, "The Buccaneer", was about Jean LaFitte.)

Miss Atkinson, Miss Warner, and Miss Lehman spent Christmas Eve watching the crowds in the French quarter, then attended a midnight mass at the St. Louis Cathedral.

In the old French market cafe an Hait (coffee and milk) and crullers were served, but Miss Warner and Miss Atkinson were coffee toppers, who longed for the northern coffee without the chicory, the essential ingredient of southern coffee which makes it very strong and bitter. But an enjoyable pastime for all was the tasting of new foods and attempting to pronounce the French words. Aided by the French waitresses, they were enabled to order food for themselves.

Some of the delectable dishes they tried were antoules, arnards, galatines, pompano paillette, oyster a la Rockefeller, crepe suzettes, and Creole gumbo. All the group went to New Orleans with the avowed intention of losing weight, but because of the pralines (Creole pecan candies) they gained, reported Miss Lehman.

Heard In Chapel

Students Continue In Same Direction After College

"Ninety-six percent of the students leaving college continue to live in the direction followed during their college career," was one of the sobering statements made by Pres. V. F. Schwalm in his chapel address Wednesday morning.

Citing statements made by contemporaries in memory of the late Chancellor Lindley of the Kansas University, Dr. Schwalm presented the aim and importance of the liberal arts college, recognizing also the place of vocational and technical institutions. The aim of the liberal arts college, as Dr. Schwalm pointed out, is to produce men and women with a liberal point of view and to help develop them to their highest potentialities.

"College is not an interlude in life!" The important question to be considered, therefore, is, "What am I becoming during my four years in college?"

The curricula of the liberal arts colleges is frequently revised in order that a broad vision of life may be obtained through such courses as literature, philosophy, religion, art and music. One authority suggests that more important than the pupil's intellectual capacity in furthering the aim of the college, is the pupil's emotional harmony with the program of the college. Only then can the college attain its aim and aid in constructing men and women whom others may ultimately congratulate as having developed broad vision, self-control, friendliness, scholarship, poise of character, poise! A few of the girls practiced qualities of character for which the late Dr. Lindley is known.

We Should Get Clear Understanding Of Crisis

Dr. J. W. Boitnott, registrar and dean of the college, talked on "The Present Crisis", making an analysis of the problem that confronts us today, and the attitude that the college student should take toward the whole affair. "There are several important things that we can do about the present world crisis," Dr. Boitnott stated.

There are, at the present time, three main plans that are suggested for America. Briefly, they are: 1. President Roosevelt will do whatever

About Twenty Schools Compete Here Tomorrow

Underclass Debaters To Participate In Year's Largest Meet

Present reports indicate that between 50 and 60 teams will participate in the annual McPherson Invitational Debate Tournament which will be held on Macampus tomorrow. More than 150 visitors from three states, Nebraska, Kansas, and Oklahoma, representing about twenty different schools in the tournament, will be here.

The debate meet will consist of five rounds. They are scheduled for 9:10 o'clock, 10:30 o'clock, 1:30 o'clock, 2:40 o'clock, and 4:00 o'clock. Approximately thirty debates will be occurring at the same time during each round.

They will be staged in Harnly Hall and Sharp Hall, and are open to students and to the general public if they wish to attend any debate. A schedule of the opposing teams, room in which the debate will take place, and round of the tournament will be placed on the bulletin board for the benefit of those who are interested.

Since the tournament is for the benefit of junior college debaters, only underclassmen or upperclass debaters who have not previously participated in intercollegiate debating are eligible for registration. Thus, McPherson college will be able to enter nine teams in the tournament.

Teams from the following colleges have made known their intention of entering the tournament: Arkansas City junior college, Kansas Wesleyan University of Salina, Kansas City, Kansas, Junior college, Tabor college of Hillsboro, College of Emporia, Emporia Teachers college, Hutchinson junior college, Hastings college of Hastings, Nebraska, Hayes Teachers college, Bethany college of Lindsborg, Chamico junior college, Friends university of Wichita, Bethel college of Newton, Dodge City Junior college, Eldorado junior college, and Southwestern college of Winfield.

These colleges will probably be represented: Ottawa university, Sterling college, Chadron Teachers college of Chadron, Nebraska, and Tonkawa college of Tonkawa, Oklahoma.

Started in 1938 by Professor Maurice A. Hess, this annual McPherson Invitational Debate Tourney is always the largest meet of the year for underclass debaters.

Orators Should Begin Preparation Now

Peace, Anti-Tobacco Contests Offer Prizes to Winners

First on the list of oratorical contests will be held Tuesday, March 4. In this contest at least three local contestants must enter, in order for one to qualify for the state contest, to be held at Tabor college, March 14. Anti-tobacco orations must not contain more than 1800 words, not more than 250 of which may be quoted.

The local peace oratorical contest will be held in the college church, Sunday evening, March 30. The peace orations must not exceed 1700 words, and not over ten percent of them may be quoted. Again three must participate in the local contest to qualify the entry of one in the state contest at Winfield, Friday, April 18.

Those wishing to be candidates for either of these contests should report to Prof. M. A. Hess in Sharp Hall. The state prizes in the anti-tobacco contest are $35 for first, $25 for second, and $15 for third.

Three prizes are to be given in the local peace contest, $7.50, $5, and $2.50. In the state contest $50 is given for first, $30 for second, and $20 for third. The winner of the state peace contest qualifies for the national contest with additional prizes of $60 and $40.

The Spectator Sees---

Most Patriotic Slogans Are Propaganda To Inspire Citizens

More than a year ago, articles appeared in the leading magazines outlining the supposed details of the government mobilization program. The American Magazine, (December, 1939) published an article warning Americans of the rapid approach of M-day, and pointed out the bold details of the governmental program.

Surprisingly, many of the details announced then have been carried out to a "T". At that time the article was intended to startle its readers by its bold facts, and it did some. But most people read the article or similar ones, shuddered, and said, "Hope we never get that near war."

Just this week, President Roosevelt announced the formal establishment of a new four-man office of production management, in the intention of speeding up the production of war materials for both Great Britain and the United States. This production management board is to have broad authority, including the power to take over any industrial plants considered non-cooperative or recalcitrant in any way.

A year ago, these powers were considered too dictatorial for the American people and various methods were suggested which would probably have to be used to enforce the defense restrictions and regulations. But because of all the added business given most business men, no objection has been voiced by them. There have been controversies in the senate about our position in this war, but these debates have seemingly failed to change or slow down our break-neck preparations to arm to the teeth.

Probably many people would like to voice their opposition to the program, but with all the war and patriotism hysteria they have decided to wait while and straighten out their much-muddled thinking. Popular songs, dramatic programs, appeals for aid to friendly nations, the speed of the belligerent nations in conquering new territories, and disturbing events at home, such as the draft, have all contributed to the muddled thinking.

Propaganda in many forms has been circulating everywhere. Many daily newspapers have been asked to use the word "selectees" and not "conscripts" in speaking about those drafted into the army. Administration supporters, and probably many administration opponents, have aided in befuddling the thinking of many by patriotic slogans, largely meaningless. One of the best examples of a meaningless slogan is one concerning the word "Americanism." Everybody has his own definition of Americanism, and many people's definitions strikingly remind one of Nazism, except that Americanism considers America supreme and worthy of forced sacrifice, while Nazism holds the same views about Germany.

Most patriotic slogans are propaganda intended to inspire citizens to "do their duty" for the country in which they happen to be born. Citizens are asked to sacrifice to stave off greater evils in the future, real or imaginary.

Feeling that not many collegians have made themselves heard concerning much of the defense program, the editor invites campus comment about any feature of the program.

Does McPherson College Really Want a Weekly News Organ?

Too often certain statements are accepted as axioms when they are not always true. Macollegians are inclined to think that the value of a weekly newspaper is axiomatic. But yet many of the students here do not realize exactly what service a newspaper should perform.

As in the case of all newspapers, presumably the primary service of a collegiate news organ is to gather news from various sources and keep its readers well informed concerning campus events. The information-giving service of newspapers is too often underestimated, since news from the papers is usually more compact, exact, detailed, and better outlined than haphazard bulletins otherwise necessary.

Other valuable services are performed by college newspapers. Some start crusades to change conditions, others take definite political stands in an attempt to influence others, and almost all serve as a voice of the student body by columns for campus comment.

Many of the larger schools have semi-weekly, or even daily newspapers, but smaller schools like McPherson college, have quite a struggle if they attempt to put out a weekly newspaper. Many of the Kansas Conference schools put out a newspaper every other week, or even less often than that.

Schools strong in journalism can put out better newspapers easier than other schools, but McPherson college, without a semblance of a journalism class, still endeavors to have the "best newspaper in the Kansas Conference." Just how this is accomplished is hard to see, since McPherson college does not even give the staff heads of the publications scholarships on their tuition, but the slogan was derived from the apparent superiority of the Spectator in journalistic style and news coverage.

Newspapers printed every other week have a much better chance of making money than weeklies, because the expenses are much less and the total advertising remains approximately the same. However, college newspapers are not run with the idea of making money. Only when a student council has to pay a deficit is such a set-up changed.

Probably every student on the campus would prefer a weekly newspaper to one issued bi-weekly. A weekly is more serviceable to the school, and students alike. But putting out a weekly is necessarily a much bigger job than printing a bi-weekly newspaper. An able journalist can edit and write most of the copy of a bi-weekly during a week end.

But a weekly news organ incurs a weekly cycle of work. The work can't be done on a weekend, for publication is each Friday, much of the news isn't then even tangible, and staff workers want to rest a little from the issue just printed. Therefore time must be taken from the school week, often more than can justifiably be taken from studies and scholarly pursuits.

Many journalists of ability need to be attracted to the staff of a paper, if it is expected to remain an extra-curricular activity and secondary to academic activities. When students don't cooperate and combine, too much of the load falls on one or two students, usually the editor.

To prevent this, steps should be taken to attract students to the job of working on a newspaper. Experience is most often relied upon as a sufficient incentive. But seemingly students do not want to spend their time in learning some skill which will probably never be either their vocation or avocation. And students are still supreme—and they should be—in deciding to what they want to devote their time.

Obviously then, a school should prepare students for newspaper work and thus make printing a newspaper easier or they should make the jobs sufficiently attractive to students to entice them to undertake the jobs in their leisure time. It has been several years since McPherson college has offered a class in journalism—despite its yearly advertisement in the college catalog.

What many of the staff heads have asked for—and all are unanimous in thinking that they deserve it—is a scholarship on tuition as large as an honor scholarship or larger. Other Kansas Conference schools have been known to give tuition cuts of one-half; even all—the tuition was paid, it was learned, in one Kansas conference school. Staff heads have repeatedly stated that they give a college more than the recipients of other honor scholarships, of ministerial scholarships or of scholarships given to children of ministers. As yet, staff heads carry on their struggle and consider their jobs as truly thankless jobs.

Articles printed in the editorial columns of the Spectator are not to be construed as reflecting the opinion of the student body, the Spectator staff, the school administration, or the faculty advisor of the Spectator. The editor takes full responsibility for anything stated in this column.

In spite of the apparent independence of the editor in the editorial column, campus comment is invited on any editorial, article, or feature printed in the Spectator. Only then can the Spectator truly be considered the newspaper of the student body.—The Editor.

To The Editor

Some Co-eds Feel Slighted

Dear Editor: Are the males around this place men or mice?

Oh yes, they had a wonderful time while home. The much-looked-up-to college boys went home and gave all the hometown girls a terrific rush to give the impression that at college they had "the way with the women". But that was vacation!

We girls thought we were attending a co-educational college but the efforts expended by the fellows to increase the palpitations of our maiden hearts are obviously lacking. We may as well be attending an exclusive girls school. Make a note at the next party. Just watch the fellows come in, in their usual stag line, that is, except for a few stadies. The fellows move to a far corner where they converse among themselves and observe critically the long line of girls just now coming in the door. Not that we girls don't enjoy our own company, but as ye old sage says, "variety is the spice of life".

Leap year dates are coming up soon and to attend the annual party it is necessary to have a date. Wouldn't the boys be grieved if the girls refused to ask them, but who are they going to ask? The stadies will be there but there is nothing unusual for them. Ask a fellow you've gone with before, he thinks you are running after him; ask a new fellow, he thinks you are dying to go with him. What is the solution for this befuddled mess?

We are sure that all the boys who are part of the stag line do not have steady girl friends back home. We suppose "limited circumstances" is the convenient excuse for many of the fellows, but it occurs to us that there are games, parties, recitals, and similar activities that cost little or nothing and would brighten many a damsel's sad and lonely heart. Various organizations of Macampus' social life are wondering how large a charge of dynamite it will take to blast the invisible barrier that stands between the fellows and the co-eds. —Signed

Fireside Chat To 50,000,000 People

President F. D. Roosevelt Speaks On National Defense

President Roosevelt's reputation as a radio performer grew greater on December 29, when he gave his special fireside chat on national security. Fifty million persons in the United States alone heard his speech, according to a survey made for the Columbia Broadcasting System by the research firm of C. E. Hooper, Inc.

The Hooper rating for the fireside chat was 59, the largest audience ever reported by the firm. Based on this rating, it was estimated that 16,500,000 families, or about 50,000,000 persons in the United States listened to the President's talk. Millions of others throughout the world heard his address via the short-wave facilities of the Columbia Broadcasting System and other networks.

League Has Interesting Speaker From China

Young People's League of the Methodist Church will have an interesting program for all college students Sunday evening at 6:30 o'clock at the local church.

Dr. John Green, who has spent seven years in China, will be the special speaker of the evening. The mixed quartette of Central College will furnish the special music.

All college students are cordially invited to attend the Methodist League Sunday evening at 6:30 o'clock.

Women's Ping-Pong Begins Next Week

The Recreational Club of the W. A. A. is sponsoring a women's ping-pong singles tournament beginning next week. This tournament is open to all women of the college whether active in W. A. A. or not.

There is on this campus a state champion of ping-pong so this should be a challenge to the women of Macollege to try to beat her at her game. There will be a champion and a consolation winner.

Emotional Upset Is Main Cause Of Failure

Family Troubles Are More Disturbing Than Love Affairs

Terre Haute, Ind.—(ACP)—Emotional upset causes more student failure in college than either academic incompetence or laziness in learning subject matter.

That is the opinion of Dr. Gwylim Isaac, dean of the department of philosophy and student counselor at Indiana State Teachers college.

Students are more disturbed by family troubles than by any other worries, including their own love affairs, and the grades of many good students have nose-dived when their

The third biggest worry is over money matters, Dr. Isaac has discovered.

Five More Cagers Take Their Bows

Thornton McDaniels—That's his name. Just call him Red, however, and he'll come to you. Red is six feet, three inches in height, hails from Morrill, Kansas, and is a freshman here in school. Red doesn't seem to have any noticeable weakness as yet, but when he does, we'll let you know. Red is cage center.

Vernon Holmes

Vernon Holmes—that's Duke. His home town is Galva, and he is six feet two inches tall. Duke will really be a valuable addition to our team next semester and has been working out since the first of the season so as to be ready and in shape. Duke has lettered one year.

Lee Unruh

Lee Unruh—nicknamed "Benny"—starred in high school at Lehigh, and is six feet, two and one-half—don't forget the half—inches tall. Lee is a freshman and was the chief checker-outer of equipment for the football squad. Lee doesn't have any potential weakness now. Lee plays forward.

Junior French

Junior French—has no real nickname although it would be easy to make one for him. Junior was the basketball star of dear old McPherson High. Is six feet, one inch tall, and plays forward. It seems like Junior spends quite a bit of his spare (?) moments at the Helstrom—eh, Junior?

Russell Reinecker

Russell Reinecker is known as "Buck". He is six feet, three inches tall, plays guard, and is a sophomore. Buck's weakness isn't anymore.

"City Desk" Shows Worries, Thrills Of Newspaper Men

A new radio program, dramatizing the stories that flow across the city desk of a metropolitan newspaper every day, starts on the CBS network January 2. The program, "City Desk," stars Chester Stratton and Gertrude Warner, one of radio's prettiest actresses.

Written by a newspaperman, Frank Gould, a graduate of the Columbia University School of Journalism and a veteran reporter of New York dailies, the series is expected to give an authentic picture of the worries and thrills of newspaper men and women.

The stories in the series will be complete on each program, while the main characters continue from one installment to the next. The program will be heard on Thursdays at 7:30 p. m., CST.

When asked if he knew any news, Eugene Lichty asserted that he didn't think that the "Spec" should come out the first week in the year since there wasn't anything happening and no one did anything during the vacation but eat, sleep, and stay at home being good, anyway. Miss Neher thinks that half the fun of coming back from vacation is seeing the new array of shoes, blouses, and hats that the students are sporting.

A minority group in this country at this time, consists of those people without the flu or appendicitis. Jim Berker seems to be one who has succumbed to the latter. Kirk Naylor is making good use of his practice teaching by taking the place of his brother who is recovering from an appendectomy.

Byron Dell was exposed to mumps recently and since his return, he has been roaming around prodding his neck—slightly below the ears—and thinks that he can feel them coming. Miss Neher should give him some pills that would do wonders for the imagination.

Russel Stern didn't heed Dr. Schwalm's advice to not wear the car the minute he got home. He and his brother used the car so much that their dad refused to let them have it after the first week. This incident reminds me of an article which occurred in a Kansas paper, "Hearing of a boy who uttered 613 words in 57 seconds, a local paper concludes: 'No doubt his dad gave up and let him have the car.'" All of which brings about the definition of a pedestrian—"A man with only one car and a son in college."

At a New Year's Eve party at the college church, several college pedagogues, namely Professor Fisher and Coach Hayden, really enjoyed themselves. After participating in a game, they had to take the "consequences." Fisher and a partner fed each other bananas while blindfolded. Nev W. finished feeding the fruit first and waved the skin in the air with one hand, declaring himself to be the winner, and with the other hand, busily mopped his face with the blindfold. Last, but not least, Coach Hayden was called upon the stage and made to pat his head and rub his stomach at the same time for his stunt. He performed it so well that skeptics were inclined to believe that he had been practicing.

It is rumored that "Wanny" Wamamaker dug deep in his pocket to buy a ring, "Third Finger, Left Hand," for Kitty Mohler, a former McPherson coed cutie. Soon they will be trucking down the aisle to the strains of Mendelssohn to live happily ever after—"The Same Old Story!" During the holidays, Dr. and Mrs. Schwalm announced that they would give their one and only to a former student, Kimmel, whom a majority of students remember. Every time Bob's name is mentioned, Betty's face lights up like a hitch-hiker's at the sound of a brake squeal, and her eyes take on an animated dance. Love—thou must be a jewel!

Saying of the week—"Romeo, my Romeo. Where art thou Romeo?" "In the balcony; it's cheaper!"

The World At Large

By Hubert Shelley.

Letting our thoughts roam among the nations of the warring world, our attention is first caught by Rome, Italy, as a war partner of Germany, is likely to prove too costly. Some authorities have gone so far as to suggest that Germany should take over the government of Italy in order to make the Rome-Berlin axis function efficiently. The new slogan of the Greeks has now become "On to Rome," but nevertheless, the struggle in Albania is nothing less than decided. Speaking of the fall of Bardia is indeed something for the birds to rave about.

Berlin's other accomplice, Japan, is not having outstanding success in her war with China. Recent rumors have it that Japan is seeking peace with China at most reasonable terms. However, this peace would in all likelihood be merely a truce, enabling Japan to grab the Dutch East Indies and to help Germany in return for what appears an extremely doubtful prize.

President Roosevelt gave to Congress what the British term the most outstanding address of his career, calling upon Johnny Q. Public to sacrifice to give "all out" aid to Britain. The isolationists claim that the President will lead America into war "within a year." However, they claimed the same thing a year ago. Time will tell whether they are right this time.

Eden Men's Chorus To Sing In Church Sunday

The men's chorus of the Eden Memorial church, located south of McPherson, will sing in the college church next Sunday evening at 7:15. Some of the numbers that they will use are: "Let all Give Thanks to Thee"; "The Lord My Shepherd Ere Shall Be"; "My God and I"; "Lead Kindly Light"; "Wonderful Peace" and "A Song of Peace".

These men are received quite enthusiastically. Last fall they presented a full Sunday evening program in the local First Methodist church.

Maccollegians Have Varied New Year's Resolutions; Some Have None

Christmas has gone and the new year is ten days old. With the opening of the new year, some conscientious students make new year resolutions and promise themselves faithfully that they will not break them no matter what happens. Time will tell how faithful these students are to themselves.

Virginia Kerlin, this year's editor of the Quadrangle, definitely states that her main objective is to finish the Quad.

Gladys Wiggins promises to write everybody she knows. (Who knows who may be next!)

Raymond "Dutch" Goering's Crew says "No more 'rot gut'." (For further information see Bob Brust, Raymond Goering or Thales Maupin.)

Betty Clark has "more study" at the top of her list of resolutions. Orvell Long and Mary Jo Holzemer both plan to go on diets, or at least eat less.

Darwin Culver resolves he will quit using the same old excuse, that his car is out of gas.

Edna Goering and Ardis Sawyer plan to be on time more often to history and English class, respectively.

Maurine Blair resolved not to make another new year resolution. She says she has had too much experience with other ones.

Sylvan "Doc" Hoover, Maurine Anderson, Dick Callen, Jimmie Gannon, and Dick Prentice are among the many on Macampus who never make resolutions to break.

Kline Chimes In— With A Klinitte Reporting

Ho-hum! Here we are back to school again. Why couldn't vacation have lasted forever? I didn't know if V. R., F. P., Maurine and Ruth would ever get back for all the baggage that they carried on the train. Next time Avis will take a trailer to get them to the station. My! what a lot of bags.

The railroad company reports that they appreciated having Maurine's tea kettle along.

All of our girls were glad to get back to Kline, especially one who was tired of being a little lady at home, so she says.

Well, so long, till the next week.

family car has been given back to the family, our Christmas ties have been traded off or cast off, as the case may be, our Christmas jewelry has made its tell-tale yellow mark, we have recuperated from celebrating the birth of baby 1941, and our new year's resolutions have been broken, we now begin to settle down into the same comfortable old rut, or is my philosophy too melancholy to blend with the proverbial gay, carefree, let-Pappy-pay-the-bills, college atmosphere?

Speaking of settling down, Bob Kimmel, an ex-Maccollegian, and Betty Schwalm must have believed that stuff they have been telling each other. My agents tell me that they are really taking this settling-down question seriously. Oh well, so it goes. Maybe it is better that we don't have more vacations. It seems that a few of the students fall by the wayside each vacation.

Perhaps Dick Burger, the Lord's gift to the heathen, plans to apprehend the crook who fished Forney's auto with that heavy artillery that he brought back with him. It is rumored that the rabbits grow so large in Iowa from eating that famous Iowa corn that nothing less than a small cannon will phase them. Maybe that had something to do with it.

The shells are so expensive for the mighty weapon that Dick had to mortgage the farm to buy one carton of the deadly missiles. The idea is this. Don't miss with the missiles! Indeed any gun that would shoot through three floors of the dorm and make a report so loud that the Greeks thought it was a signal to charge must have been no pop gun.

Another week gone, another egg laid. What a life! What a life!

Tackle Friends Cagers Tonight At Wichita

Bulldogs To Try To Revenge Two-Point Loss Of Last Week

Tonight the Bulldogs invade the Friends University basketball camp for their seventh non-conference basketball game of the season. It will be the second cage affair in which the Canines face the Quakers, for in the tournament at Bethany the Quakers nosed out the Bulldogs by a two-point margin.

With only one conference game behind them, and with their strength increasing with each encounter, the Bulldogs end their non-conference play tonight in preparing for a tough Kansas Conference schedule. They begin next Wednesday when they meet the strong Bethany college Swedes at Lindsborg.

At Bethany during the vacation they led the Quakers for the biggest share of the game, only to be beaten in the last few minutes of play. The final score was 35-33. The Bulldogs are out seeking revenge for this defeat tonight.

Several McPherson cagers made good showings at the Bethany tourney, and two of them were placed on the all-tourney team, another on the second team. Schubert, letterman guard of the Bulldogs, was red hot and totaled 31 points in the tourney, followed closely by Junior French, forward, who dropped in a total of 30 points. Both were placed on the all-tourney team. Bobby Brust, another Canine who scored a total of 19 points, gained a position on the second all-tourney team.

Coach Hayden is expected to start many of the same men this evening which he has used for the largest part of the season thus far. French will probably start at one of the forward positions. Art Schubert, who has recently been shifted to the forward position, will probably be the other forward starter.

"Thornton" "Red" McDaniels or "Donny" Unruh will probably get the call at the pivot position, and the starting guards will probably be selected from Rollin Wanamaker, Bobby Brust, and Raymond "Squeak" Meyer.

Bethany Beats Mac To Win Tourney

Friends Ranks Second, MC Third, Bethel Fourth In Holiday Cage Meet

The Bethany college Swedes defeated McPherson college 27 to 24 in the final game to win the Bethany College Invitational Basketball tournament held last week at Lindsborg.

Friends university, Wichita, was second by defeating Bethel college 23 to 22 in a close game. Bethany defeated Friends, Bethel and McPherson with the Bulldogs finishing in third place.

The final game was a close contest from start to finish. The score was tied many times and Bethany was never more than two points ahead of the Bulldogs until in the closing seconds of the game. McPherson played good ball throughout the game. The Swedes gained a final three-point margin over McPherson when Unruh fouled Peterson who made two points from the free throw line.

Bobby Brust, McPherson guard, was the high scorer of the game with nine points while Tilberg, forward, led his team with eight points.

Win From Bethel In First Game

Bulldogs Open Holiday Tourney With Win; Lose To Friends

McPherson college defeated Bethel but lost to Friends university in the first day of play in the Bethany College tournament played on New Years Day and night. The Bulldogs romped over the Bethel cagers 40 to 34 in the afternoon affair only to lose a thriller to the Quakers by a two-point margin, 33 to 35.

Leading the Bulldog attack against the Bethelites was Art Schubert, crack guard of the Bulldogs, who looped in seven field goals and three charity tosses for high-point honors with 17 points to his credit. Junior French, flashy freshman forward, was the other star of the McPherson offensive with a total of 12 points to his credit. "Squeak" Meyer injured his knee early in the contest and could not continue play.

The Bulldogs held a healthy lead over the Graynrooms at the half when they led 18 to 13. The box score:

Friends Noses Out Bulldogs In Late Rally

McPherson's scoring was not as accurate in the evening game with Friends, however, the Bulldogs led 18 to 17 at the end of the half. It was not until the latter part of the last half that the Quakers took the lead and went ahead to win 35 to 33.

To Whom It May Concern—

By Glen Funk

Here are rumblings and ramblings from the Bethany tournament. Congratulations to Coach Hayden and the fellows for their showing. A lot of things happened that the score, even though close, doesn't indicate.

Congratulations to Schubert and French for making the first All-Tournament team and to Brust for making the second.

Mac To Finish In Top Three

I may be sticking my neck out worse than I did in the last issue, but here goes. When the final scores are counted, McPherson will be one of the first three—either at the top, betwixt or behind two others in the conference ratings.

Our neighbors to the north, namely Gene Johnson and Company, didn't seem to do so good over vacation—about this Hunt boy, though, it seems as if he can't be held down.

Ottawa Starts on Top

Ottawa can at least say she was at the top to begin with. Better start reaching for higher rungs on that ladder, however, or they will be coming down for more chalk.

Stu Dunbar surely had to buy that hat real soon—the reason—Baker 39, Kansas Wesleyan 38.

W-A-A- Hoo Athletes Play

Those on the boys' volley ball teams should be prepared for a tough struggle any day next week—when they play their volleyball game with the W-a-a hoo athletes of the Volley Ball Club.

Doris Voshell and Alta Gross, captain of the two teams and Edith Spengler is at the head of the club. Each Monday and Tuesday evening the girls meet to learn and practice the technique of the game. Competition is expected to ride high when the battle rages next week.

Ping-pong, ping-pong, ping-pong! Recreation Club is continuing ping-pong? A few of the girls practiced over the vacation to reach a step higher toward becoming "pro's!" The results of the practice will be uncovered in the girls' ping-pong tournament, which is now in effect.

Plans are maturing rapidly for the W. A. A. Volley Ball Sports Day. More is said about it on front page of this issue.

Wednesday the Tumbling Club met and took the first step in organizing the club. Letta Beckner has been chosen to head this club.

Although plans are still not definite, the Outing Club is planning to be hostesses to members of the W. A. A. and men of Macampus, on a Moonlight Hike, soon.

after McPherson made a desperate rally to win in the closing seconds of the game. French, McPherson forward, was high scorer of the game with 13 points while Taylor, center, led Friends with 11 points. The box score:

Profs Compute Poker Probabilities

Profs Use Homely Happenings In Higher Mathematics

The player's chance of being dealt a straight flush in a poker game is only one in 64,974 times (if the deck ain't stacked).

And the chance of getting 13 spades in one hand in bridge is but one in 700 trillion times, however many that is.

So figures an Eastern New Mexico college Ph. D. professor in mathematics, following a Dartmouth professor's use in his class of chances in a craps-shooting session.

Intrigued by the utilization of homely happenings in higher mathematics, the ENMC professor fascinated his students with problems dealing with bridge, poker, and slot machines, with the slot machines for once coming out at the losing end.

For students found that the slot machine offers a sure chance to lose money.

Slot machines usually afford one chance in eight of winning on any given play, but because human beings like to gamble and ordinarily continue to play their winnings back, they apparently have only about one chance in 100 of coming out ahead, said the professor.

There are 84,480,000,000,000 possible combinations in a regular 52-card deck, the zoggle-eyed students learned.

In poker there is but one chance in 4,165 deals of getting four of a kind, one in 694 of getting a full house, one in 509 of getting a flush, one in 47 of getting three of a kind.

What started it all was the Dartmouth professor's problem in craps-shooting: The caster rolls two dice and wins if (a) the sum be 7 or 11; (b) if the sum be 4, 5, 6, 8, 9 or 10 and if this same sum reappears before seven is ever seen. To obviate the odds against the caster, a dishonest caster employs two dice, one true and the other loaded so that a certain number always appears at the top. What should this number be in order to give him the maximum advantage?—(ACP).

Foresters, Journalists Put Out Newspaper

Syracuse U. Has Pulp, Paper Laboratory

Syracuse, N. Y.—(ACP)—Forestry and journalism students cooperated in producing a recent issue of the Daily Orange, undergraduate newspaper at Syracuse university.

The paper stock was made in the laboratory of the pulp and paper department from red pine trees planted 25 years ago by students of the New York State Ranger school, a branch of the college of forestry.

Starting with the tree planting, production of the ground wood required the cooperation of more than 200 students. Thinnings from the 2,300-acre forest maintained at the ranger school were felled and peeled by the class of 1940 of the school and shipped to the pulp and paper lab. The only one of its size and kind maintained by an educational institution in the country, the pulp and paper laboratory is actually a small-scale paper mill.
