Heard In Chapel

"Nation Has Eyes Focused On Youth"

"The Youth Problem and the World Crisis" was discussed by Dale Stucky, president of the Student Council, in chapel Friday.

He stated that according to the views of certain individuals, youth could not be separated from the rest of the people of the earth as a special class. "The eyes of the nation are focused on youth of today," it was stated. "It appears to be a fixed stare."

Of the speakers that talk of youth, there are two general classes: those who find youth lacking, and those who find youth superior to preceding generations; but both speakers end in the same way. They challenge youth. They exhort them to the upward toll.

Stucky spoke of the world as being an oyster which is being offered to youth of today, but added that it is perhaps the smallest ever handed to any generation. He said that youth is accepting the oyster without complaint, refuses to be stamped upon by our predecessors have done.

He closed by saying that regardless of what happened, youth of today, when they become adults, can write articles on the youth problem.

Wayland Makes Comparative Study Of Napoleon, Hitler

A comparative study of Adolf Hitler and Napoleon Bonaparte was made by Dr. F. F. Wayland in chapel Monday. "How future historians will evaluate the two conquerors cannot be decided now," he stated.

Several points of similarity can be found between the two men. Both Hitler and Napoleon were dreamers, opportunists, were unscrupulous, had no fear of God or man, and both were masters of lying and deception.

Some of the points of difference were as follows. Hitler has ordinary mental power. Napoleon had extraordinary mental power. Napoleon was far superior to Hitler as a military leader. The so-called "blitzkrieg" is a Napoleonic invention.

Hitler is waging a war of revenge; Napoleon did not. Hitler is a destroyer of human rights; Napoleon created human rights. Napoleon made important contributions to education. Hitler has detracted education and has neglected cultural subjects.

Wayland closed by saying that Napoleon at one time contemplated an invasion of England, but found England's sea power a strong opponent, and today, perhaps, Hitler may meet his Waterloo in England.

"There Are Saints In Caesar's Household"

Dr. Martin Harvey, national director of youth of the Methodist Episcopal Church of Zion, talked in chapel Wednesday on the subject of "Christians in a Pagan World." "Even Caesar's household contained Christians," Dr. Harvey stated.

"We must recognize that which is not permanent. We live too much in the headlines. We do not realize which of these things are permanent. We live too much in the headlines. We do not realize which of these things are permanent and which are merely passing ideas."

"It is usually stated that a person has an idea. It would be more nearly correct to say that an idea has a person. An idea uses a person rather than a person uses an idea. We must examine ourselves and decide what ideas are using us."

"If we look about us at people who are living Christian lives, we discover that it is a small group, but that this small group has a strong power. You and I will find ourselves a small group in a pagan world."

"There is an old Chinese proverb that states, 'It is better to light one candle in the darkness than to stand around and curse the darkness.' It is up to us to light one candle in this world of darkness, rather than stand around and curse the darkness, for all of the saints salute you, especially those in Caesar's Household."

Kerlin Picks Bowker For Photo Editor

Bowker Gained Valuable Experience Last Year; Slifer Is Copy Editor

Jack Bowker, Quadrangle photographer of last year, was made photography editor of this year's Quadrangle, announced Virginia Kerlin, editor of the Quadrangle. Bowker was chosen because of his last year's experience, Kerlin stated.

Working under him are Harold Bowman, Wilmer Brubaker, and John Trostle, the other Quadrangle photographers. Although snapshots will probably be accepted from other sources, the four photographers will account for most of the miscellaneous photography of the 1941 Quadrangle.

Raymond Slifer, sophomore here, was chosen copy editor by Miss Kerlin. Slifer will be in charge of Quadrangle copy, which includes all write-ups of the various organizations and the other miscellaneous stories essential to an annual. He will assign stories and see that the assignments are carried out.

Other writers and able assistants will probably be drafted into the work of the Quadrangle later, although as yet there has not been much work for anyone on the editorial staff except the editor.

Wheeler Talks On Non-Violent Direct Action

Henry A. Wheeler, field secretary for the American Friends Service Committee in the Rocky Mountain region, spoke to the members of all S. C. M. commissions last Tuesday morning upon the subject "Non-violent Direct Action."

Wheeler pointed out that the policy of non-resistance is not a passive program, but calls for action. It does not involve cooperation with the enemy in case a country is invaded, but does mean disrupting the enemy's action by such methods as cutting telephone wires and eliminating transportation facilities. A short forum was conducted by Wheeler following his talk.

Masked Frolic Is At Gym Tomorrow Night

Macampusans Will Masquerade Mirthfully At All-School Party

Attired in a variety of assorted colors and fashions, the student body will frolic in gay Halloween mirth tomorrow night in the Physical Education and Health Building, where the annual all-school masquerade will begin at 8:00.

Sponsored this year as always by the Student Christian Movement, the masquerade will contain several feature events. It was explained yesterday by Elizabeth Mohler, co-chairman with Donald Davidson of the social committee of the S. C. M. Included among the high spots of the night's entertainment will be a costume contest in which everyone may enter, explain officials.

The masqueraded Macampusans will participate in a grand march to the merry tunes of the Pep Band under leadership of Pascal Davis, and the judges will award the prize to the most unusual, unique, funny, or entertaining masque.

Another highlight of the night's entertainment will be the stunts presented by the S. C. M., the "M" Club, the W. A. A., the Pep Band, and the four classes.

"Refreshments will be served—for a nickel," stated Elizabeth Mohler. She went on to explain, when asked, that Prof. O. A. Olson, Prof. Ralph Stutzman, and Miss Esther Atkinson will judge the costume contest.

Mrs. Wall Donates Books, Clippings

Mrs. Ernest A. Wall, former student of McPherson college, has donated some books and mounted clippings to the college library. Included with the books were McPherson college pillows and pennants, which the student council is preparing for use in the student union room.

Among the numerous books donated by Mrs. Wall are such interesting ones as "How the Other Half Lives" by Jacob A. Riis, "Poems of the Great War" as selected by J. W. Cunliffe, "A Treasury of War Poetry" edited by George Herbert Clarke, and "Elbert Hubbard's Scrap Book" by Elbert Hubbard. She also gave a large collection of clippings which she herself has classified and mounted in folders.

Such worthy donations as these are truly appreciated by students and faculty of McPherson college.

Education Is Great Staff

"University of Maryland sophomores rounded up several hundred freshmen and bade them 'pray for rain.' A rainstorm struck the campus a few hours later." This higher education is really great stuff, ain't it, folks? (ACP)

Freshmen Upset Debate Dope, Defeat Sophs

Maxine Ruehlen, Wayne Geisert, Meet Veteran Seniors Next Tuesday

Scoring an upset in the usually staid interclass debate tournament, Maxine Ruehlen and Wayne Geisert, debaters for the freshman class, defeated the sophomore debaters, Ernest Peterson and Raymond Slifer. Opposing the affirmative side of the varsity debate question, the freshmen successfully stated the negative case.

Next Tuesday evening at 6:30 the freshmen will oppose the veteran seniors for the interclass debate championship of the school. Last year Dale Stucky and Don Newkirk, then the junior debaters, won the school championship. This year the freshman team of Ruehlen and Geisert will tangle with the winners of last year's tourney to determine this year's champions.

Sponsored by the Forensic Club, the interclass debates are also held to prepare students for the debate tryouts, which will be held November 5 for the men and November 6 for the women. The Pi Kappa Delta question is used throughout the year. "Resolved, that the nations of the Western Hemisphere form a permanent union."

Since McPherson has had fierce debating this early in the season, indications would point toward a highly successful season in debate this year. Supplementing the veteran debaters of Peterson, Stucky, and Newkirk, several promising newcomers will probably gain ranks on the McPherson college debate teams.

Male Quartet Sings In Iowa

Invited to sing at a large celebration at the Ivester church, a large rural church near Grundy Center, Iowa, the McPherson college male quartet is spending the weekend in Iowa. The Rev. Earl Franke, president of the board of trustees of the college, is the pastor of the Ivester church.

Detrick, Johnson to Head Select Thespian Play Cast

"You Can't Take It With You" Is Outstanding Contemporary Drama

John Detrick, senior Thespian Club member, was cast as the lead and will play opposite Donna Jean Johnson, also a senior Thespian, in the Broadway play "You Can't Take It With You."

Thumb, Fun, Eh, Kid

Thumb Fun, eh, kid? Dick Johnson, University of Nebraska student, hitchhikes nine miles every morning to attend classes and work at a bank in town. And Keyes Carson, Texas A. & M. student, holds an unofficial record for hitch-hiking from New York to California in four days.—(ACP)

W.A.A. Plans Play Day For High Schools

Invites Eighty-Four Schools To Annual Association Affair

The third annual High School Play Day will be held on McPherson college campus, Saturday, November 23. Eighty-four high schools within a radius of fifty miles were invited and invitations were sent out this Monday. Five students and a sponsor were invited from each school. All girls will register in the gymnasium by color teams into games of softball, volleyball, basketball, and soccer.

A large number of schools were invited so as to bring about fellowship among the high schools and to give the girls a chance to spend a day on the college campus.

General chairmen in charge are Miss Warner, instructor in physical education, and Doris Voshell, W.A.A. president. The program for the day will be planned by a committee of Ruby Peterson, chairman, Flora Mae Brokus, and Ramona Fries.

Registration and hostesses for the day will be Gladys Wiggins, Lucile Harris, Lillian Fulkerson, and Mildred Fries. Luncheon will be in charge of Jean Oberst, Mildred Miller, Donna Jean Johnson, and Vera Flory. Invitations were sent to the different schools by Helen Davis, Mildred Fries, and Harriet Pratt.

In charge of the awards will be Edith Spengler and Juanita Weaver. Equipment will be handled by Lois Lawson, Elizabeth Hungerford, Maxine Ruehlen, and Maurine Blair.

Detrick, Thespian Club president, will play the part of Grandpa Martin Vanderhof, while Donna Jean Johnson will be Penelope Sycamore, it was announced late last night after the tryouts which took place yesterday afternoon.

Jean Oberst and Clifford Schapanisky were cast as the juvenile leads and will make love to each other as Alice Sycamore and Tony Kirby. "You Can't Take It With You" is at present a popular choice of school dramatic groups, because of its successful run on Broadway and the film success of the same name.

Prof. Ralph Stutzman will direct the Thespian play, which will be presented in McPherson November 25, and will be aided by Donna Jean Johnson, student director. Many characters were needed for the play, but the tryouts were, nevertheless, quite stiff.

Paul Dannelley will be Paul Sycamore, Penelope's husband who makes firecrackers. Margaret Davis will be Essie, aspirant ballet dancer. Ed, a xylophone player, will be played by Pascal Davis.

James Mason will play the part of a colored boy named Danoid, and Doris Voshell will play the part of Rhea, a colored lady. Boris Kolonkoff, a mad Russian ballet teacher, will be played by Wayne Geisert. Raymond Slifer will act as Mr. de Pinna, an ice man who helps Paul make firecrackers.

Jean McNeil is to be Gay Wellington, a drunken woman. Mr. Kirby, Tony's father, will be played by Forrest Stern, and Mrs. Kirby by Betty Clark. Virginia Kerlin will play the part of Olga, a grandduchess.

"You Can't Take It With You" is a contemporary play by two outstanding playwrights, G. S. Kaufman and Moss Hart. Acting as judges for the tryouts were Prof. Ralph Stutzman, sponsor and faculty director of the Thespian Club, Miss Della Lehman, head of the English department, and Mrs. Roland Jones, a former Thespian who has had considerable experience in dramatic work in McPherson.

Students Must Be Humble, Tolerant

Dr. Harvey Says To Meet Problems Primarily As Christians

Dr. Martin Harvey, well-known negro speaker, who visited this campus once last year, spoke at a specially called S. C. M. meeting on Tuesday evening. In his address Dr. Harvey considered the present world crisis and its implications for college students.

After telling of the various reactions of the average American citizen to the world crisis, Dr. Harvey made clear the positions that the Christian people of this country should take. He emphasized particularly that the students of this country must be aware of the present day needs.

Youth must buttress our democracy at home, must develop a world-mindedness, must express their convictions with humility and tolerance, and must help our people to understand the problem as Christians instead of as Americans. "We must approach our public problems primarily as Christians and secondarily as Americans."

Detrick Heads Play Committee

John Detrick was chosen chairman of the senior play committee. It was announced yesterday by Donald Newkirk, president of the senior class, Donna Jean Johnson, James Crill, Dale Stucky, and Maurine Anderson are other members of the committee.

As part of their duties, the committee will choose the play and its director for the annual senior class dramatic presentation, which will be given late in the school year. Dr. D. W. Bittinger class sponsor, and Don Newkirk are ex-officio members of the committee.

College Students Are Not Atheistic

Kent, Ohio.—(ACP)—Contradicting the popular idea that college people are atheistic because they do not attend church, Dr. John F. Cuber, professor of sociology at Kent State university, points out that students who do not attend church manifest many traditional doctrinal and moral views of the church.

Army, Navy Don't Have Monopoly On Beans, Say Those Who Eat In Dormitory

"The army and the navy have a monopoly on beans, and the army has most of the navy's" is not wholly true, in spite of the fact that it was stated in an after-dinner speech in the dining hall recently. Students residing in Arnold Hall and in Fahnestock Hall are beginning to doubt the veracity of the humorous statement.

Students residing in Arnold Hall and Fahnestock Hall have the fortune (or the misfortune) of eating in the college dining hall. As one student stated, "Macollege life would not be normal, if there wasn't the dorm food to gripe about." Be that as it may, many students "gripe" and want their "gripes" to be heard.

Students are not given much choice in the matter of dormitory food. They reside in the dormitory largely for social purposes of college life. After the initial semester payment is made, a college student must eat his money up if he wants to get his money's worth.

As a rule students do not object to this principle, but they do not like the idea of eating one really good meal, then eating leftovers and "stuff" the rest of the week. Possibly that is stretching the point a bit, and it should be admitted that the dining hall does serve about five good meals a week, in the opinion of the students who eat there. The average meal does not arouse much complaint in itself. But when the general does not improve from breakfast to breakfast, or supper to supper, then students begin to discuss the situation quite vehemently.

While the meal discussions do not accomplish much, since they are not heard by the people who can do something about it, they are a good indication of student opinion. One student said, "I wish Miss A. (the one most often blamed for the quality of the meals) would come and eat in the dining hall for a week or three," in the hope that she would then improve the meals.

Again, it is illuminating that many students come here and gain weight, despite the objections they voice concerning the meals. But the objections as usually stated do not concern the nutritional value (sour milk has great nutritional value), but they object to eating things which taste or smell sour. And scientists say that a great proportion of our sense of taste is in our sense of smell.

To Be Conducive To Study, A College Library Need Not Subdue All Conversation

"A library should be conducive to study" is an axiom accepted by all McPherson college students. Just what is meant by that axiom is disputed by several.

Few students think that a college library should be a place of absolute quiet, as some city libraries are. On the other hand most students think that a little, low conversation should not disturb the concentration of persons studying. Oftentimes a short voiced question is the quickest way to find out a point at issue.

If a college library attempts to subdue all conversation—and it seems that our college library does—it is not wholly conducive to study. A student will find studying in the library less beneficial than study where he can ask questions and will study elsewhere than the library if at all possible. This is not all hair-brained theory, but it has too often proved the case for students here, else we would not want to harp on the subject.

After a reprimand for talking in the library, a student is not going to feel, "I'm sorry I made too much noise," but will probably say to himself, "O-kay, o-kay, I didn't want to study in your d..... library anyway."

On the other hand we do not think that the library should be a social center, such as it has been at various times in the past. We merely object to being reprimanded for conversation in an attempt to study faster.

Dorm Food Heads List of Pet Peeves Of Students; Library Also Mentioned

If you were a "licorice-eater," would it interest you to know that there is at least one person on Macampus who classifies you as one of his "Pet Peeves"? In fact, if you were a "teacher's pet," a "cockey boy," or a "flirt," you would find those who object to you.

Various and sundry objects on the campus were mentioned by those who were asked to name their pet peeves in registering at Fahnestock Hall's Open House. As could be expected, "dorm food" headed the list. Then followed "people who throw bread at the table," "breaking things in chemistry," "7:50 class" and "school."

"The library" was mentioned more times as a pet peeve than any other thing. Beware, girls, of falling to exhibit any pep, because one handsome gentleman answered simply "dead dames"! Another boy listed "finger nail polish," but failed to show any special hatred for particularly vivid shades. The freshman will find themselves in a spot because they must not be "cockey freshmen", "disfigured freshmen" or even just "freshmen".

One girl listed "Figaro". Last year "Figaro" a Model A Ford, and the president's daughter were very good friends. Professor Hess would appreciate the fact that one student particularly dislikes the word "ain't", while the whole faculty would nod in approval of the lady who wrote "Jazz". Evidently one lonely heart exists at Mac, for "a telephone that never rings" was disliked by one girl. One person, not even from Arkansas, answered "someone telling me to hurry".

It was surprising that few people listed anything pertaining to politics—"Roosevelt", "Wilkie", and "Democrats" were the only three pees mentioned, and these only once in each case.

Another warning should be issued to students because one faculty member listed "coming to class late".

Clearcut, Friendly Harvey Loves To Work With Youth

"When I am attending some particularly boring social function, or when I am traveling from one college to another, I use the time to develop my speeches." This is the way in which Martin Harvey prepares his interesting talks such as those heard by students on Macampus this week.

Harvey doesn't like to use his talks over and over again because he feels that he loses the inspiration in them and is unable to affect other people. When an idea attracts his attention, he jots it down to be developed in his leisure time.

A man of keen intellectual insight, outstanding personality, and a sparkling sense of humor, Harvey, through his contact with college students does much to break down racial discriminations which so often exist. Harvey loves to work with young people. He gave up his studies as a pre-med at New York University so that he might spend his time working with young people.

At the present time Harvey is the national director of young people in the African Methodist Episcopal Zion church. But aside from this he is much in demand as a speaker in colleges and conferences throughout the nation. In the past few years he has attended international peace conferences in Scotland, India, Holland.

Launching upon a prolonged tour last April, Mr. Harvey has traveled in the West, in Honolulu, and now, by way of conferences in the southern states, he hopes to be able to return to his home in January. Possessing untiring energy, this youth leader finds time not only to teach in youth camps, address college assemblies, meet the official duties in his church, but even to keep in touch with unending list of correspondents.

Although a black person, Harvey does not feel any sense of inferiority. Rather he feels himself a Christian brother, equal to all other men. It does not bother him to be refused admittance into a cafe, because he thinks that the white people simply do not understand him.

Although officially he is engaged in work with the negro youth, he finds himself more in contact with the white people. It is his clear-cut, practicable philosophy which makes him a favorite with the youth in all parts of the world.

Henry Speaks For I.R.C.

By Thomas Doeppner

Discuss Minority Problem

Today at 4 o'clock, Robert Nance will lead a discussion on the minority problem, which has been the topic of the I. R. C. for the last three weeks. Today's discussion will be the last program of the I. R. C. on this question. Next Friday at 4 o'clock, the topic will be the Japanese problem.

Wayne Parris, a promising freshman boy, will give a talk on the problem. Every member of the club should be prepared for the talk and the following discussion by reading the study material available on the I-shelf of the library.

The World At Large

By Jean Oberst

The Far East has taken the spotlight this week as Britain reopened the Burma Road. England had promised Japan to close the road for three months; now that the time has expired the road is again being used for Chinese supplies. Japan asserts that it will be bombed and destroyed. Such may be the case; at any rate the British have not been bright enough into keeping the road closed to trade. It would seem, as Japan evidently fears, that Britain is rather sure of the support of the United States in the Far East.

Meanwhile Germany's continued withdrawal of non-combatants to areas outside the bombing targets of the British indicates that pilots of the R. A. F. have caused a number of casualties although they have "failed" to damage seriously military objectives.

From occupied France have come reverberations of unrest. More and more comes bits of news of boys whistling the "Marseilles" as a group of goose-stepping German soldiers passes or news of punishment of farmers for failing to plant crops as ordered. This news is especially welcome to the British.

Back in the United States the election is less than two weeks away, and Wilkie continues his speech-making tour; the President again makes reviews of the national defense activities. Gallup polls and private estimates meanwhile predict a victory for the President as both parties campaign feverishly.

Kampus Kapers—

By Isabel Crumpacker

Professor Mohler staunchly declares that the overturned canoe in his back yard is not one of his possessions. Incidentally, the vessel's name is "Pitso III". Judging by the looks of this one, we wonder what the first two looked like.

The other day we found Ted Washburn scratching beneath the seat in the back of his car with the dust flying.

"Goodness no, I'm just hunting my books. I don't know how they got into this predicament!"

Lillis Berg looks "tight smart" playing tennis. He swats the balls about like he swats flies—waits until they come to a standstill. Seriously though, Lillis plays a fair game of tennis—if you watch him.

Talking about flies, all flies had better beware of venturing too close to Darwin Culver in chapel. The only reason Darwin comes triweekly to the assembly is to catch flies—and he never fouls either!

If you see a lot of bags and trunks leaving the dorms, don't think that someone is moving away. It's just probably the laundry going home to be washed. My, my, what is home without a mutter?

The whole school is for the team tonight so do your best, boys. Those Swedes are going to get beaten so badly that they will lie down and weep like a woman on her thirtieth birthday.

Oh thrills and heart throbs! When the Bell Telephone Company was here Monday to present its demonstration, Bryce Breneman was the object of their experiments. While listening to his heart beat through an amplifying system, it sounded smooth and steady—that is, until Lillian Fulkerson was called to hold his hand. It then sounded like a score of tom toms in an Indian ceremonial dance.

With tests coming up, remember this quotation of the week—Birds of a feather flunk together.

Chem Club Hears Interesting Lecture

Lecturers Bring Equipment From Kansas City For Demonstration

"Backstage in Telephone Research," a story of the telephone laboratories was the subject of a very interesting demonstrated lecture presented to the Chemistry Club last Monday afternoon.

Albert Butcher, manager of the McPherson branch of the Bell Telephone Co., was instrumental in bringing the demonstration to the campus. He introduced Floyd Roberts and J. A. Elliott, who presented the lecture. Roberts operated the equipment, while Elliott was the lecturer. Both of these men are employees of the Bell Telephone Co. at Kansas City and they spend their time traveling about giving lectures of this nature.

A large crowd was present, and the demonstration was thoroughly enjoyed by everyone as it was uniquely presented. Many phases of the telephone industry were presented that the average person knows nothing about.

Wesleyan Still Tops Conference

McPherson Is In Tie For Second Place With Baker, Bethany

Kansas Wesleyan is still on top of the conference with Baker, Bethany, and McPherson tied for second place. Bethel and College of Emporia are in the cellar with no conference wins.

In a hard fought game Kansas Wesleyan and Ottawa battled to a 6 to 6 tie. The game was featured by outstanding play on both sides. Smith and Dupree were outstanding for Wesleyan, while Dryden and Ramsey were outstanding for the Braves. This is the second successive year Wesleyan has held Ottawa to a tie. Last year the score was 0 to 0.

In the game at Emporia last Friday night Baker beat College of Emporia 9 to 0. This game ran true to form, and Baker's margin of supremacy was more than the score indicates.

In the only non-conference game Bethany invaded Nebraska to play the Doane college Tigers. They came out of the game on the short end of a 25 to 6 score. The Tigers were superior to the Swedes in every department of the game.

Alumni News

Among those alumni who were on the campus for the homecoming were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lengle and family from Salina Mr. and Mrs. Harold Crist from Enterprise, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Kaufman from Buhler, Mr. and Mrs. LaVerne York and Mr. Ivan Herr from Abilene, Dave McGill from Halstead, and Mr. and Mrs. Guy Hayes from Chapman.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Kirk of Scott City, Kansas, announce the arrival of a son. Mrs. Kirk is the former Elsie McConkey, c'27.

Miss Alice N. Vogt, c'17, is conducting a speech clinic in Davenport, Iowa.

Word has been received that Kenneth Rock, c'27, is coaching debate at Abilene high school this year.

Prof. Dell attended the Four State Industrial Arts Conference in Pittsburg October 11 and 12. While there he saw Curtis Ruthrauff of Endora, Harry Franz of Atchison, and Ralph Bowers of Ottawa, all McPherson college alumni.

Wedding bells were rung recently for two McPherson college alumni, Martin Seidel, c'38, and Hester Regler, a former M. C. student, were married October 12 at the home of the bride's parents in McPherson. Mr. and Mrs. Seidel are making their home on a farm southwest of McPherson.

Paul Sherry, c'34, and Esther Pile, a graduate of Manchester college, were married October 16 at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Ray Shivers, in Salina. Mr. and Mrs. John Sherry, parents of the groom, held open house last Sunday in honor of the newly married couple.

Cobina Informs Frosh

Froshman: "Say, I hear that there is to be a formal dinner given by the Men and Women's Councils for all students."

Cobina: "Yes, that is true, freshman."

Froshman: "Just what is meant by a formal dinner? Does it mean we have to sit straight, wear long faces, and drink coffee without cream or sugar?"

Cobina: "Ha, your ideas are a bit mixed, my dear. Your coffee idea is right, but goodness me, I always manage to have a very pleasant time, even if I happen to drop my spoon or fork. "Formal" means ceremonial; hence a formal dinner is the most ceremonious social function that exists."

Froshman: "Should we wear our best 'Sunday-go-to-meetin'' dresses and suits?"

Cobina: "Oh my, no, freshman. This is another one of those rare opportunities for the girls to wear their most elaborate evening gowns and the gentlemen to wear their long tails. However, few college men are fortunate enough to have such an outfit; consequently it is quite permissible to attend in a dark dress suit."

Froshman: "Must one have a date in order to attend?"

Cobina: "No, not necessarily, because dinner partners are drawn before the dinner. Each gentleman will be given a card on which is written his partner's name. Then, too, the butler will meet you at the door and announce you to the first member of the receiving line."

Froshman: "How will you know when to go to dinner?"

Cobina: "The butler will announce dinner to the hostess, who, with her partner, will lead the way into the dining room. Then you and your partner will follow them in like manner. Place cards on the tables will help you to find your places."

Froshman: "Well, it doesn't sound too bad. I guess I'll be able to manage. Be seen? you. And thanks for the information."

Freshmen Annually Guard Macampus Against Swede Menace Before Game

One event that every freshman looks forward to is the guarding of the campus against the Swede menace prior to the annual gridiron battle between the Towheads and the Bulldogs. For the past two nights forty boys under the able frosh proxy, Alvin (I-Catch-Em-Up-Shaw-Em) Klott, have been doing their best to keep Macampus free of these semi-albino marauders.

The watch began at 9:00 P. M. Wednesday night and continued, running in three-hour shifts until 6:00 A. M. Thursday morning. A like watch was kept Thursday night. Guards were placed at the stadium, at the gym, by the gas houses, and in front of the administration building.

In times past the watch has been relaxed and this usually resulted in the painting of part of the campus by the "Light Heads." Last year a pair of freshmen stepped over to a well-known den of iniquity to partake of a bit of refreshment. Upon their return to the field "Swedes '39" was painted in beautiful brown paint on the north end of the stadium. A trip through the belt line on hands and knees impressed on these freshmen the importance of sticking to the post.

But the Bulldogs are not without glory. Not so many years ago a bratry (used liberally) Swede gave birth to a wonderful idea. He reasoned that if the highway was blocked no autos from M. C. could enter Swedeburg; therefore there need be only one watch at the edge of town.

At the same time a group of bratry (used liberally) Canines decided to pay the Bethanyites a visit. It was a simple thing to follow a transport past the barrier, and once past the boys went about their work unmolested. When the hapless guardians discovered their error they lay for the "decorators", but again the barrier had to be lowered to make way for a transport—and again the enemy auto followed and came back to Macampus without even a good chase. The Swede campus has been garded in the regular manner since that time.

Off-Campus Off-Beat

Bernard Nordling, who has been a patient at McPherson hospital, is seen once more on Macampus. But, one need not be told that he is back. He could tell this by the happy, relieved gleam on Virginia's face. Well, anyway, "Bernie", welcome back!

You've heard the old saying, "I'll bring the milk in when I come home." Lois Lawson goes to a more extreme and brings the milkman in too. (Confidentially, though, she says he is just about her brother-in-law.) That at least makes a good story.

By the way, did you know that Dorothy Gross won second place in the Idaho state ping-pong tournament?

When Leta Beckner, Homecoming Queen, threw the football to "Dutch" Goering, she threw it perfectly. Lots of the students have been wondering if she practiced before hand.

Fanny Blows Off Or Chafes At The Mouth

Well, muss my hair and call me Wilkie! Here I am in print again! That was kinda' messy, wasn't it? Oh well—

A week ago this homely hostel extended a hospitable hand to a horde of happy homecomers. I was plastered with posters pronouncing pleasant welcomes all the returning alumni and much merriment prevailed within me. Seemed mighty nice to see all the guys and gals again.

Since my inmates had their little dorm meeting 'o'her day it has been so quiet in old Fanny that you can almost hear yourself think! Guess it took Beau Brummell Naylor to put it across. You know Naylor, the guy that taps around after the gal

Student Council Minutes

Considering itself the popular representation of the student body, the student council approved the idea that its minutes, or proceedings of its meetings, should be published for the benefit of the students. The council, chosen by the student body to legislate for it, holds secret meetings, but proves itself democratic by regular publication of its proceedings.

In the October 16 meeting of the student council several important homecoming questions were discussed. The meetings of the student council will be held as in previous years and not open to the public. A reporter was appointed by the president to summarize each week's business for the Spectator.

Bulldogs Try For Third Conference Win

Meet Bethany Swedes Tonight To Knock Off Conference Contender

With another victory tucked under their belts, the Bulldogs travel to Lindsborg tonight to tangle with the Bethany College Swedes, their traditional rivals. The game should prove to be a more vital game than it has been for several years as the two teams are deadlocked in second place behind the conference leading Kansas Wesleyan Coyotes.

The winner of tonight's contest will bounce into the thick of the conference race, which is closer than it has been for several years. Each team is credited with two wins and one loss so far this season and from all indications it will be one of the closest games in Kansas tonight.

Last year's game between the two teams ended in a 0 to 0 deadlock, with both teams threatening during the evening on various occasions. The year before the Bulldogs were downed by the Swedes to the tune of 12 to 0.

Because of the traditional rivalry which has existed between the neighboring colleges for years, the Bethany game is one of the highlights of every season. A large McPherson following is expected to go to Lindsborg this evening for the affair. So far this season Bethany has lost her only conference game to Kansas Wesleyan, and she holds victories over Baker and College of Emporia. The win over Baker was by a one-point margin.

The Bulldogs continued their drive upward in the standings last week with a 5 to 0 win over a fighting Bethel eleven. The starting lineup for this evening's contest is not expected to differ greatly from that of last week, as it seemed to function well at that time. The ends who will probably start for the Bulldogs are Rollin Wanamaker, three-year letterman, and Junior French. At the tackle positions Russell Reinecker and Merlin "Slag" Myers are expected to start. Raymond "Dutch" Goering, veteran guard who played an excellent game against Bethel, and Bob Cook, another stellar guard, will be starting guards.

At center will be the veteran Raymond "Squack" Meyer. In the backfield will probably be Dick Callen, who scored the winning touchdown last week, and Bobby Brust, who played a great defensive game, at the two half-back spots. At quarterback will be the star backfield performer, Jack Vetter, and in the fullback position will be the hard playing, line-busting Calvin Jones.

Rollin Wanamaker, outstanding athlete who has starred in football, basketball, and track here at McPherson college since his entrance, will captain the Bulldogs in this evening's game. "Wanny" is a three-year letterman end.

McPherson Beats Bethel, 9-6

Local Squad Plays Smart, Heads-Up Ball Against Graymaroons

Playing a quick, smart game of football throughout the evening, Coach Tom Hayden's Bulldogs defeated the Bethel college Graymaroons in a hard-fought battle last Friday night. The final score was 9 to 6.

The Bulldogs scored first on a safety in the second period when Junior French, Bulldog end, blocked a Bethel kick and the ball rolled over the goal line and outside in the end zone. This put the Canines in front by a score of 2 to 0 and that from time on they were never headed.

Pulling off quick kicks and many trick plays throughout the ball game, the Bulldogs held the Graymaroons safely at bay for the most part of the evening. Reinecker blocked another Graymaroon punt in the third period of the game, and French recovered on the 12 yard stripe, but this scoring chance faded as the Bulldogs lost the ball on downs.

However, later in the third period, the local squad executed a beautiful reverse play with Callen going over from the 5-yard line. Previous to

KCAC Race Has Five Contenders

Bethel, Now In Conference Cellar, Is Greatly Underrated

By Robert Burkholder

With the passing of every week the conference race becomes closer. Five teams are still in the running for the title. The games last week did not change the conference standings much except to shove College of Emporia and Bethel deeper in the cellar.

In the feature game of the week, the McPherson college Bulldogs invade Lindsborg to meet the Swedes in their annual struggle. Both teams have won two and lost one in conference competition, and the winner of this game has an excellent chance of winning the title. The Bulldogs beat a much underrated Bethel team last week, while Bethany journeyed to Nebraska to play Doane in a non-conference game. Bethany was on the short end of a 25 to 6 score. This will be a very close game, but we believe the Bulldogs have the power and spirit to win this one.

In another important conference game Baker invades Newton. Bethel has been beaten three times because they did not have a scoring punch when needed. Baker is tied with Bethany and McPherson for second place with two wins and one loss and will need to win this game to stay in the running. Although Baker will be favored to win this game, we'll call this game about a tossup with Bethel having a good chance of getting in the win column.

In the other conference game College of Emporia invades Salina to play Kansas Wesleyan. The College of Emporia lost to Baker last week while Kansas Wesleyan was tying Ottawa. This game should be won easily by the Coyotes who are setting on top of the conference. College of Emporia has not won a game this year and is still looking for its first conference victory.

In a non-conference game Ottawa journeys to Alton, Illinois, to play Shurtleff college. There is not much known of Shurtleff college, so we'll let you pick this one.

that the ball had been carried to within scoring distance by the efforts of Vetter and Jones. "Dutch" Goering kicked the extra point and the score stood 9 to 0.

Bethel scored her touchdown in the fourth quarter with Bartel scoring on a well executed play from the 19-yard line. The try for the extra point failed.

The Graymaroons threatened shortly before the game ended as a result of a series of passes and penalties. However, the drive was stopped a safe distance away from the goal line, and McPherson again had possession of the ball as the final whistle sounded.

Let Bulldogs Bark

By Dean Stucky, Sports Editor

From the McPherson standpoint, that tie last week was the best thing that could have happened in the Wesleyan-Ottawa contest. As it now stands the Bulldogs can take the championship by taking their remaining three games, and the only other team which could possibly share in it would be Baker. If Ottawa would have won she could also share in it. If Wesleyan would have won (and we still are supposing that Mac wins her next three games) she would not have a tie against her and consequently the Bulldogs might have a chance to knock her out of the race.

Bethel Graymaroons should have no difficulty in getting used to homecoming celebrations. Beginning with last week's game with McPherson they have four homecoming games in a row, today's being with Baker at Baldwin.

Westerners in the Graymaroons can take more punishment and come up grinning than any one else which we have seen this year. There has been quite a lot of discussion about the safety last week. With the ball going out of the end zone as it did with Bethel kicking, the only possible thing which it could have been counted is a safety, regardless of who fell on the ball after it went outside.

W-A-A- Hoo Athletes Play

Lawson Heads Outing Club

The W. A. A. stunt at the All-School Halloween party tomorrow night is in charge of Harriet Pratt, Jean McNichol and Maxine Ruehler will be her helpers.

Lois Lawson was elected by the W. A. A. cabinet to head the Outing Club. She reports that many interesting events are being planned. The first outing will be next Sunday, when the club will go on an all-day hike, seven miles from town.

Women Have Tennis Tourney

The Recreational Club, led by Ramona Fries, has started their tennis tournament. This is the only women's tennis tournament that will be held this year. Because there were so many in the tournament it was felt that there would only be time to play one set each match rather than the usual two out of three. This is an elimination tournament with consolation matches. Results of the tournament are on the bulletin board in the Physical Education Building.

In the first round so far, Maurine Blair and Ruby Peterson won from Juanita Weaver and Edith Spengler 5-1. Lois Lawson and Rachel Hamm trounced Betty Burger and Eunice Swank 6-0. Donna Jean Johnson and Twila Peck defeated Mary Stucky and Geneva Schlehuber 5-1.

Virginia Ritchie and Frances Peterson won from Mary Herr and Barbara Hamm 5-0. Doris Voshell and Ramona Fries beat Helen Davis and Lucille Harris 6-2.

Yet to play the first round are three matches. Maxine Ruehler and Marilyn Sandy oppose Lois Kreitzer and Maxine Gage. Alta Gross and Dorothy Gross will play Mildred Miller and Elizabeth Mohler. Anna Mae Niskey and Lillian Fulkerson will play Lucille Wade and Vena Flory.
