Charles Hess Receives Research Award of $25

Mr. Charles Hess is one of the two students in Kansas colleges and universities who have been granted research awards by the Kansas Academy of Science this year.

These awards are granted to students whose research projects show promise of becoming outstanding contributions to science.

Charles is a senior at McPherson College this year. He has been admitted to the University of Maryland School of Medicine for the fall term next year.

Mr. Hess's $25-award is to be applied for special equipment for the investigation he is making of the antibiotic properties of native Kansas plants. This is his project for the course entitled Independent Study in Chemistry.

Such outstanding drugs as penicillin and streptomycin are obtained from special equipment for the investigation. Mr. Hess is trying to find if flowering plants also contain these types of materials. Herbs and shrubs have been used for ages for medicinal purposes.

Reports of medicinal plants used in old settlers' and Indian remedies and medicines are sought by Mr. Hess so that he may use these for testing purposes.

The other research award was granted to Herman D. Smith, a Kansas State College graduate student, for his investigations in the field of poultry husbandry.

Marie Delaplain Has Poem Printed In Poetry Volume

A poem written by Marie Delaplain, an alumna of McPherson College, has been accepted for publication in the Annual Anthology of College Poetry.

Miss Delaplain, who is teaching in the elementary school at Butler, Kansas, this year, graduated from McPherson College last spring.

"Our Kansas Buccaneer," which is the title of the poem, was composed by Marie in a creative writing class last year under the direction of Miss Sarah May Vancliff.

The Anthology mentioned above is a compilation of the finest poetry written by the college men and women of America, representing every section of the country. Selections were made from thousands of poems submitted.

The following is a copy of the poem composed by Miss Marie Delaplain, as printed in the Annual Anthology of College Poetry.

Our Kansas Buccaneer
He's swaggering and gay,
He mumbles not in honey tones
The words that lesser breezes toy.

He's not the timid, shrinking type
Who whispers, "Let me pass,"
I'll breathe a song that's sweet
And only faintly stir the grass."

Not our buccaneering wind
Who strides across the plains!
With head held high to rain and sun
He sings his rollicking refrain.

And ever as they hear his songs,
The trees bow down and wave,
In greeting to this buccaneer
Who swaggers by so bold and brave.

Preparedness For War Is Wrong Says Kirby Page

"Those of you who believe in preparedness of war need to be converted," declared Kirby Page at the dinner meeting Friday evening at the Church of the Brethren.

The topic of his dinner address was "Can Military Weapons Save Us?" Dr. Page stated that no two ways are farther apart than the way of Christ and preparedness for war. He said that although we have scientific weapons, we are not safe because we have no means for defense, just weapons for slaughter.

Dr. Page spoke on "What Does God Want Us To Do About Russia?" at the 8 o'clock meeting following the dinner. He made the startling statement that we have no defense from atomic barrier, and if it is ever used on a large scale, the human race will become extinct.

Mr. Page advocates a policy of helpfulness and understanding of Russia. The last point he brought out in his speech was that the Americans should send evangelists and relief in order to help the Russians build a higher type of life.

Gad! Was I A Sucker! or I Lost My Lollipop by a kid

Last Saturday night as I was wandering idly around the campus I noticed the astounding sounds that were coming from the gym. At first, I did not know whether to be frightened or curious. Naturally, my curiosity won the argument. So, I began advancing toward the gym.

Gad! Upon arriving, I wished I had decided to be frightened. I was surely dreaming or delirious or something, because a large percentage of the population of McPherson College had changed into children! After looking around, I discovered that they were all freshmen and seniors, and for awhile they even pretended they were in a class room with John Sheets as their teacher.

They played too-deep and flying dutchman and had many contests.

Lorene Clark and Bob Augsburg were seemed to hold the attention of everyone. I must admit, they did look charming. Lorene wore a white eyelet dress with a ribbon in her hair. Bob wore short pants with a white shirt and bow tie.

When everyone started eating fudge bars and ice cream bars and when I saw what I decided to be Eula Broyles felt past, I decided I was really losing my mind; so I went home and went to bed.

Much to my disgust I discovered later that I was not becoming insane at all. It was the freshman-senior kid party, and Lorene and Bob were chosen "best dressed."

Apply Your Knowledge . . .

Knowledge is an immense thing—it has infinite possibilities for application to daily life. And we here in school are building up a treasure of information. The real question facing us is what we intend to do with it. Shall we just accumulate this vast store and put it away in mothballs? Or should we find practical application for it?

The wealthy who gather their riches to no end other than to stock them away in bank vaults are defeating themselves, for money has no usefulness in a fine cellar. Likewise, our building intellectual wealth will all go for naught unless we find the means to utilize it.

We're not learning philosophy, religion, history, etc., just to be learning. As future purveyors of the American way of life, we shall be called upon to defend right principles, to elect just leaders, to educate our children and to attack falsehood and injustice. How may we heed this call if we haven't applied ourselves while learning or haven't kept informed of contemporary events?

For there is not only the freedom to learn, but also the duty, and with it the responsibility for finding practical application for our complete education, not just a part of it. Our education shall not be complete unless we keep informed both in and out of school and apply the knowledge gained from both toward right and responsible living.—ACP

Are You A Builder?

The popular conception of what college will do for a person is becoming more exaggerated. The general belief is that spending four years in an institution of higher learning qualifies a person for membership in that select class—the intelligentsia.

If students would stop and analyze themselves, they would realize the fallacy therein. The process of becoming educated never ends, because the educated person knows he has much yet to learn. He keeps striving for more knowledge.

Holders of college degrees should understand that the university helps them to build a solid foundation, but they alone must construct the rest of the house. Continuous study and life's experiences combine to build mental and moral powers. College is the stimulus which serves to awaken these latent powers.—ACP

Shall Democracy Be Commercialized?

Charges frequently have been made that the American radio has fallen short in presenting ideas of democracy to millions of radio listeners. The critics explain that the intent is there but the methods chase listeners away.

Although radio men will agree that a 30-second singing commercial is better than a 15-minute sales talk, these same men put on the air long, windy dramas praising tolerance and are greeted by nation-wide dial twirling. A sound remedy for this inadequacy was voiced recently in the New Republic. It was suggested that radio should "get Fred Allen to blacken the KKK with his satire, the Lone Ranger to sell tolerance around a campfire and Dick Tracy to plug for the United Nations."

The intellectuals may not listen, but millions will. You can't talk tolerance and liberalism to people if you preach over their heads.—ACP

University of Maryland Offers Education Aboard

One of the more encouraging signs that American students desire to obtain at least a part of their education abroad is the interest and participation in the Foreign Study Programs for graduate students sponsored by the University of Maryland. Centers in Paris and Zurich were first established by the Maryland institution in the fall of 1947. This is composed of 22 men and women. The membership of the Zurich group totals 39.

The program provides majors in Linguistics, comparative French and German Literature, and history. Minors are offered in nearly all fields with the exception of the sciences.

Admission to the program of the Foreign Study Centers is dependent upon admission to the Graduate School of the University of Maryland. It requires that the applicant hold a bachelor's degree from an accredited institution and has at least two years of undergraduate work in the language spoken at the respective Center.

Two kinds of awards are offered. A Master of Foreign Study is given after the completion of 24 semester hours, plus six hours for a thesis in the major field of the student, and a final examination. A Certificate is awarded for the successful completion of semester hours.

For the 1949/50 academic year the University of Maryland plans to establish a third Foreign Study Center. The city of Basel was chosen because of its excellent university, its cultural advantages, and the fact that it has been found necessary to find a second city offering facilities in the German language.

Further information concerning the Graduate Program Aboard may be obtained from the Foreign Study Office, University of Maryland, College Park, Maryland.

Drama Class Stages "Why The Chimes Rang"

Money, beauty, power, and authority would not please the Christ Child as would gifts of love, kindness, and sharing. This is illustrated by the play "Why The Chimes Rang."

The first play given in several years at the Church of the Brethren, it will be sponsored by the Religious Drama Class Dec. 16.

The play dramatizes the familiar story of two young boys who wished to attend the Christmas festivities at the great cathedral. But because of a sick and tired old woman who stumbled to their door, one of the boys chose to stay to care for her, while the other attended the cathedral alone.

A vision of the cathedral activities comes to the boy at home. And in this vision he sees all the rich people bring forth their elaborate gifts of wealth, and he hears the voices of the people lift heavenward in song and rejoicing.

The people meet every Christmas and bring gifts hoping that the chimes will ring. But the chimes have not rung for many years, for the chimes cannot be rung by manual power, only by the will of God.

Tonight the chimes do ring, and the people learn God's true meaning of Christmas when the mystery of the chimes is revealed.

"Why The Chimes Rang" is produced under the student direction of Mary Ellen Metzler and faculty direction of Miss Esther Sherry and with the aid of the Religious Drama Class members.

The cast of characters includes:

Uncle—Roland Plasterer.

Old Woman—Marianna Stinette.

Nephew—Gene Bechtel.

Nephew—David Miller.

Pantomime characters are Mr. Wilbur Yoder, Mrs. John Wall, Dr. DeWitt Miller, Miss Delma Cline, and Mr. J. L. Galle.

Dean Neher is stage manager. Esther Mohler and Harry Knapp have charge of lights. Sarah Mae Williams is costume manager, and Joann Lehman and Donna Johnson have charge of properties.

The chapel choir will provide musical scores for the play.

We Want Ch'a To Meet

Miriam Keim
Vivacious, clever, and cute, we want ch'a to meet, Miriam Keim. Born on May 25, which is her mother's birthday, Miriam has lived in Nampa, Idaho, where she attended school.

In high school Miriam was active in the Spitz, which is the pep club, G.A.A., Home Economics club and Spanish Club. She was Football Queen Attendant.

In college she is active in Pop club, W.A.A. S.C.A., and the Chapel choir.

When asked why she came to McPherson, Miriam said it was to meet people, partially because her father, uncles, and gobs of other relatives have gone here, but the main reason is to get an education.

Her main interest is eating, and her favorite pastimes consist of dancing, being in large groups, and swimming.

Her ambition is to get married, but she would also like to have some nurse's training.

Miriam enjoys spending her summers in southern California visiting friends and places, and her pet peeve is people who agree with people and things just to be agreeable.

Kenny Newport
He likes football and dancing. We want ch'a to meet... Kenneth Newport.

Born in El Dorado, Kansas, Kenny soon moved to Chase where he attended school. In high school he was student council president and senior class president; Kenneth was active in football, basketball, and baseball.

In college Kenny was on the football team.

Kenny is studying geology in college preparing to be a petroleum engineer. However, his secret ambition is to play professional football.

Kenny explains that he chose McPherson because his parents recently moved here. In the way of improvements he thinks Mac could use more school spirit.

His pastime is going to shows or dancing, and his pet peeve is talkative girls.

Born August 24, 1930... 5', 6"... 162 lbs... brown wavy hair... blue eyes... athletic and friendly... we want ch'a to meet... Kenny Newport.

Radio Station Will Go On Air From McPherson

For the first time in the history of the city, McPherson is going to have her own radio station. The new broadcasting station will operate under the call letters of KNEW and KNEY-FM.

The station will be south of McPherson on Highway US-81, just north of the Derby terminal.

Equipment for the station has been purchased and most of it already has been shipped to McPherson. Remodeling of the broadcasting studios is underway.

Dan Bellus of Colby, Kansas, was announced last week as the manager of the McPherson radio stations. Bellus is in McPherson now, starting plans for operation of the twin stations. The two outlets, both AM and FM will be on the air as soon as possible.

The station is to have 250 watts of power and will broadcast on 1540 kilocycles on the AM dial and 103.3 megacycles on the FM dial.

It is owned by the McPherson Broadcasting Company, Inc. The AM station is authorized for daytime service only.

At present Bellus is forming a staff for the station and planning programs and policies for the radio outlets for McPherson and the surrounding area.

Grantland Rice—All American Team

Grantland Rice, dean of American sports writers, has been the acknowledged official selector of the All-American teams since the death of Walter Camp, the originator of the All-America idea.

Involved in the selection of All-American players was the free substitution rule or sometimes called the two-platoon system. Criticism of this system has been:

- (1) Coaches with limited material cannot use it.
- (2) It confuses them.
- (3) It irritates sports announcers.

On the other hand here are some of the advantages:

- (1) Gives each player twice as much coaching.
- (2) Players can specialize more in their respective talents which gives a more spectacular performance.
- (3) It gives more players a chance to play.

All Americans must be able to do everything. In fact one of the truly great all-around players of football history graces this 1948 All-America. He is Ewell Doak Walker, the Southern Methodist backfield ace. He is the finest player the Southwest has ever produced. He does it all—run, pass, kick, receive, block, tackle and call plays. He has played all four backfield positions. He is cool and a complete stranger to pressure.

In the other backfield position we have Sikko of Notre Dame, who just barely edged out Charlie Justice of North Carolina.

Rauch, Georgia's super T quarterback was the best here.

Jackie Jensen was the ranking California fullback.

The line is big and hefty. It averages 214 lbs. At the end positions are Michigan's 197 lb. Dick Riffenblurg and North Carolina's 212 lb. Art Weiner. At guards are Army's 190 lb. Joe Henry and Georgia Tech's 219 lb. Bill Healy. At tackles are Minnesota's 248 lb. Leo Nomellian and Notre Dame's 29 year old, 223 pound Leon Hart. And at the center is Pennsylvania's pivot man Chuck Hednorik who could play outstandingly at any of the eleven positions.

American Express Forms Education Travel Division

The establishment of a new "Educational Travel Division" by the American Express Company, to aid faculty members and students who contemplate traveling abroad to study in universities in foreign countries, has been announced by Ralph T. Reed, company president. The new division of the company, under the guidance of Dr. B. W. Van Riper, scholar and world-traveler, was established to aid thousands traveling abroad each year for foreign study.

The new division gives advice on scholastic requirements and fees, academic calendar and dormitory space, and answers a host of other questions on student activities in universities in 36 countries throughout the world. The new division further aids the traveling student by giving helpful advice on when and how best to go, what to wear and what to take along for life in another country.

In addition, students who travel abroad during their vacations can receive from the new "Educational Travel Division" valuable aid on where their most educational trip lies, whether in London, the Shakespeare Country and Glasgow, Paris and Versailles and the provinces of France, or the many other spots of historic significance in western Europe, including the occupational zones of Britain, France and the U. S. A. in Germany, even India, Australia, Latin America and Africa.

The vast fund of scholastic and travel information prepared by the "Educational Travel Division" of American Express was gathered in cooperation with the Institute of International Education, the Veterans Administration, consulates, information bureaus of foreign governments, and executive officers of more than 200 foreign universities.

In connection with specialized travel service, American Express has prepared a brochure, "To Study Abroad", which is available at any office of the company.

Legionnaires Cheat Santa Of Customary Duties

An Indianapolis American Legion post has hit on a novel idea of raising funds for its welfare activities on behalf of needy children by offering Santa Claus for purchase under this plan parents can arrange to have a full-blown live Santa Claus call at their home on Christmas afternoon or evening to deliver the family gifts to the youngsters. The fee will be $5.00. If Old Nick is desired for a full hour, the fee will be $10.00.

Meanwhile, the post has opened a training school for Santas. It will hire any number of elderly men that may be needed and put them through a basic course of instruction. The post will furnish the traditional red uniforms and beard.

Officials of the post said their plan was flexible enough to take care, if necessary, up to 10,000 calls on Yule Day.—American Legion News Service.

Gina Munda Gives Talks At Three Meetings

December 1 was quite a busy day for Miss Gina Munda, Italian student on Mac College campus. Miss Munda spoke at three meetings during the day and attended an informal tea in the afternoon.

Miss Munda traveled to Hutchinson in the forenoon in order to speak to the Southwest District women's rally. The women had chosen for their project the Cararra Unit of BSC, and they were finishing their campaign on the gathering of clothes and soap.

At three o'clock in the afternoon Miss Munda spoke to the Future Homemakers of America at the Junior high, in McPherson. In the evening she spoke to the Men's Club of the Methodist Church. The speaking engagements were broken in the afternoon by a tea given in the Home Economics department.

At the end of the day Miss Munda asked some of the members of the party if December 1 were some kind of a holiday. She was reassured that it was not.
