Joe Pate, "M" Club president, and Dale Carpenter, secretary-treasurer, will direct proceedings. The proceeds from this event will go toward the purchase of "M" blankets. ## Bittering Reports Draft Decisions

Dr. D. W. Bittering spoke to a group of Student Ministers and other interested fellows concerning the draft situation, Tuesday evening, Jan. 16. He reported decisions made by college presidents of the United States in an Atlantic City meeting.

Dr. Bittering explained that the classification system was an outgrowth of the democratic way of life. He urged that everyone should be tolerant of those who have a different opinion or classification than their own. "When we push each other around," he said, "we are destroying democracy."

The college presidents asked Washington officials to defer college students who are in the upper half of their class. They felt that an arrangement could be worked out in which college students who classified as I-A or I-AO could take basic training during the summer months, being ready for active duty when they are graduated from school, if necessary.

Dr. Bittering stated that the McPherson College faculty members are glad to answer any questions or discuss any problems which students have in connection with the draft.

New Rule Allows Choice Of Service

A recent change in draft rules will allow students now on postponement of induction a choice of branch of service by enlisting.

This choice must be made, however, before the end of the present school term, since most postponements end in late May or early June.

Macollege administrators have adopted a policy of granting credit to students who volunteer before the term is ended.

Students faced with draft induction in the spring and students subject to call by reserve units may, with the dean's permission, take tests on a many hour trip if they have attended weeks in this semester. Passing grades on these tests will mean credit in the courses covered.

Records of incomplete courses will not be kept.

Dean Berkeley made it known that, though the college is willing to help in any way it can, the college will not be taken advantage of.

Kough Lectures On Japan Trip

An illustrated lecture by Prof. Jack Kough was the feature of the Macollege Assembly, Jan. 22. "Jack" showed colored slides which he took on his recent trip to Japan. He explained some of the customs and sights which he observed.

Mrs. Kough assisted her husband with the program.

Educator Claims Decrease In Supply Of Engineers

Palo Alto, Calif. (I. P.)—There is no surplus of young engineers, and there isn't going to be for many years. In fact there is going to be a great shortage. This was the warning given recently by Dr. Hugh H. Skilling, head of the Stanford University electrical engineering department.

Dr. Skilling said that widely heard and erroneous word that engineering is an over-crowded field is responsible for the situation, which he described as already damaging to the nation and threatening to become a critical problem if engineering students are drafted.

"I have a bit of bad news for those who are looking forward to employing young engineers; there aren't going to be enough to go around. Taking the average size of last June's graduating class as 100, he pointed out that this year's class will be only 70, or about 30 percent less. "The following year, 1952, will be 30—down 50 percent. In 1953, the number will be only 40, actually 60 percent off."

"These are not guesses; these are facts. There are the boys now in college, all over the country. Nothing whatever can increase the numbers, for engineering is a four-year course. Those boys who have not now started on an engineering program simply cannot be graduated by 1953, or by 1954 either. These classes cannot get bigger, but they can get smaller. If engineering students are taken in the draft, for instance, anything could happen."

Faculty Eats Chili At Friday Fiesta

Last Friday night the college Faculty met in the cafeteria for a chili supper. Forty of the faculty members were present. Miss Doris Coppel with the aid of Miss Sarah May Vancil, decorated the tables for the affair.

At intervals along the tables were placed reminders of various famous men who were born in January. A number of stories symbolized Stonewall Jackson, and the play, Twelfth Night, represented Robert E. Lee.

All present were asked to guess the names of the men from the symbols. The January flower, the carnation, was also used in the decorating.

Dr. R. E. Mohler showed pictures of some of his interesting travels.

Dr. Kenneth Bechtel, who is chairman of the faculty Social Committee, was in charge of the affair.

Mohler Named President Of Knife And Fork Club

Dr. R. E. Mohler was recently elected president of the McPherson Knife and Fork Club for 1951. The Knife and Fork Club is simply a dinner club which meets once a month for dinner down town.

Lecturers on different topics are brought in at each meeting. The meeting will be held Jan. 30, when Sidney R. Montague will lecture on "Arctic Adventures."

Debaters Win Half Of Missouri Bouts

Two teams of Macollege debaters won four of eight debates at William Jewell's annual Blizzard Debate Tournament at Liberty, Missouri, on Jan. 13.

Donovan Speaker and Joe Kennedy won three out of their four debates. They won over Washburn and Missouri State but lost to St. Louis. They also defeated a Kansas University which was otherwise unbeaten.

Wayne Zeigler and Gene Bechtel gained one favorable decision and lost the other three. One of these defeats was given to them by a woman's team from Ada, Oklahoma which shared "undefeated" honors with Zeigler and Bechtel and another team at the McPherson Economy Tourney recently.

This tournament was not one of McPherson's regularly scheduled tournaments.

career. He also has enjoyed playing with orchestras. "There is a certain excitement in playing with an orchestra," he said, "like Ben Hur riding a chariot."

Mr. Battista finds that concert tours involve a rugged life, but he considers it a great thing to take music to all sections of the country. "One gets to know the country upside down," he remarked. He has discovered that audience response varies according to the amount of music the people have heard.

In December, 1950, Battista gave the first radio performance of a new Concerto by Gian-Carlo Menotti, a composer whose musicals are now scoring successes on Broadway. The Concerto was played with the Oklahoma Symphony.

Battista's present tour includes 40 concerts before March. He is scheduled to play with the Boston Symphony in April.

The pianist loves all of the composers, "especially the one I'm playing at the moment."

Battista believes that popular music has improved in the last 25 years. "Everything from Boogy Woogy to the Kansas Jump—oh, brother!"

He stated that personality is very important to the concert pianist. "People expect more than a skittle technician," he said. He cited Paderewski as a fine example of a musician with a great personality; "he was a diplomat. He was always wise-cracking."

Sunday, Jan. 14, was the artist's 33rd birthday. He spent the day travelling to McPherson.

Mr. Battista is married; his wife accompanies him on the tours whenever possible. She is a former violinist with the Denver Symphony. They enjoy chamber music in their home. They play sonatas and trios—music in leisure time "like a bus man's holiday."

Battista loves sports. His specialty is badminton. He is also an amateur magician.

Well, Don't Be Hanged

Once a man was granted a pardon just when the rope that was to hang him slipped over his head.
The guy was so happy about being set free that he got drunk and shot his mother-in-law. So they hanged him anyway, only they were sorry they hadn't done it sooner.
This is the way it is with the student. He gets a chance to improve at the semester; and, if he doesn't he gets lopped off at the end of the year. And the administration wishes it had happened sooner.

Some guy dumped his eighth wife the other day. This may not be a record, but it should make a pretty good average.

The inventor of the hamburger took his own life by falling four stories from a Paris hotel. Hardly fitting, he should have been smothered with catsup.

Remember what David Harum said, "I'll go a long way on a man's character; and I'll go a longer way on a man's collateral." But if a man's got both character and collateral, I'll give him half of what he wants, 'cause that's all anybody needs."

"Gerald McBoing-Boing"

It is a rarity, indeed, to see a good movie anymore; and when one does appear, it should be praised.

The following story is what I remember of a comedy, one of the best I have ever seen, named "Gerald McBoing-Boing."

The comedy was on at the Manor theater last Sunday, Monday, and Tuesday was unique, entirely novel, and completely entertaining.

It was the story of "Gerald McBoing-Boing", the name of a little boy who could not speak English.

One day when Gerald was small, he tried to talk and all that came out was "Boing, Boing". Gerald's folks were alarmed, so they called the doctor.

The doctor came, had Gerald open his mouth, and took a look inside. Gerald tried to tell them what was the matter, but all he could say was, "Boing, boing".

"I can do nothing," said the doctor, and he immediately left the house.

Gerald grew to a fine sized young lad; and one day, he stood before his father as if to speak. He opened his mouth and a loud "B-O-O-O-M," like the sound of a great explosion came out. His father was so frightened that he leaped for the chandelier.

Mother and Father got together and decided that Gerald should be sent to school. So they bundled him up and off he went.

None of the other children wanted to play with Gerald, for instead of speaking, he would go "Boing, boing" or "Honk, honk" or "Uhooga" like an old Ford horn.

Gerald was lonesome. He tried to tell father and a great, loud "Uhooga" came out. His father scorned him.

Gerald went upstairs to his room and cried. Then he decided to run away. So he wrapped his belongings in a bandana, tied a sheet to the bed post and lowered himself by it to the ground beneath his window.

When Gerald got outside, it was snowing and the wind was cold. But Gerald was sad and, worst of all, lonesome.

Gerald went down to the railroad yards where a large red train was speeding by at a terrific rate.

Gerald calculated carefully so that he would time his jump right. Then he jumped.

The train went by and the tracks were clear but Gerald just hung in mid-air.

He looked up and saw a great, big "Southern Colonel"-looking character who said he owned a radio station and wanted Gerald to work for him.

Gerald became famous overnight as the mysterious rider on the radio.

"Twenty-two outlaws are in that bar, and somebody's got to get them."

"But who can outdraw twenty-two men?"

Over in the corner, Gerald drew his private microphone close, opened his mouth and "Cloppy, Cloppy, clop" the sound of the steed of Mysterious rider.

Gerald spoke again and the sound of boots against a wooden porch came out.

Then the squeek of the saloon doors.

Then the sound of shots.

The horse galloping off over the desert, and Gerald McBoing-boing had triumphed again.

The radio audience went wild wherever Gerald went people cheered and Gerald, sitting between his proud parents, Gerald waved and said simply, "Boing, boing."—Don Shultz

Placement Bureau Requests Teachers Enroll Soon

MacCollege Placement Bureau made public a notice that seniors and students qualifying for the 60 hour certificate for teaching should have their credentials in soon if they wish the help of the bureau in securing jobs.

The bulletin reads, "Notification of teacher vacancies are already coming in for the school year '50-'51. It will not be long until school superintendents will be coming in to see our listings. Your chances of graduating with a contract in hand are better now than if you wait 'till May 27."

The bulletin continued that anyone wishing any kind of a job should have credentials made of college record, activities, and personal references.

Persons wishing to enroll with the placement bureau are instructed to see Cosette Warren at the Alumni Office, Room 24, Sharp Hall.

Jewish Society Presents Books To MC Library

McPherson College Library has received a gift of nine books from the Jewish Chautauqua Society. Jews in Germany is the theme of three of the books. Four trace the development of Jewish religion and culture. One is a religious novel about rabbis, and another presents the present day story of Zionism in Palestine.

For the Sake of Heaven by Martin Buber was translated from German by Ludwig Lewishohn. It is a religious novel concerning the basic rabbinic and treats such problems of religious life as, May men use evil to accomplish good? The setting of the novel is in the Napoleonic wars in southeastern Europe, Poland, and Hungary.

Martin Buber is Professor of Social Philosophy at the Hebrew University in Jerusalem.

The Hebrew Scriptures in the Making by Max L. Margolis is a treatise on the Old Testament as understood and taught by the Jewish faith. The collection of the writings and the growing importance of the Scriptures, are traced, and the attitudes toward the Scriptures are discussed.

Germany's Stepchildren by Solomon Liptzin tells the story of heroes and martyrs among the Jews in Germany in the nineteenth and twentieth century. These men tried to reconcile Germanism with their Jewish ideas or to keep the two separate, but these German Jews are among the outstanding contributors to Germany's and the world's culture.

The book is not another story of German persecution of Jews but is an interpretation of the problem of culture conflicts when a minority group lives with a majority and tries to adjust its culture to that of the majority.

Students of contemporary literature will find helpful Dr. Liptzin's essays of literary criticism on such authors as Stefan Zweig, Franz Werfel, Heinrich Heine, Theodor Lessing, Richard Beer-Hofmann, and Martin Buber.

Harvest in the Desert by Maurice Samuel tells the story of Zionism and the implications of that movement in Palestine.

Hellenism by Norman Bentwich treats the interaction of Judaism and Hellenistic culture in the pre-Christian era as one of the fundamental epochs in the development of civilization.

The Messianic Idea in Jewish History by Julius H. Greenstone traces the development of the Jewish idea of the Messiah from its early origin to the present day.

Student, Scholars, and Saints by Louis Ginzberg aims to give the reader some insight into the cultural life of the Jew by introducing the scholars of Judaism and by showing how the ideal of the talmudic scholar dominates education from elementary school on.

What Do You Think?

The opinions expressed in this column are those of the contributors and not necessarily those of either McPherson College or The Spectator.

The question for this week is "Do you think that semester examinations are worthwhile?" Note: Due to the reluctance of some students to use their names in this column, all names will be omitted.

No, I think that semester exams are a waste of time because people cram the night before the test, and forget the material the night after it.

No, I think that the way the instructor feels when he is grading the tests, and the way the student feels when he is taking the test influences the grade for the course.

Yes, I think that giving examinations forces some people to study at least one night a semester.

No, a person has to review too much useless material. Generally the instructor omits the important work and hits the trivial points.

Yes, tests are valuable if they are good, well-centered tests that cover material covered in class, and in this way catches the class loafers.

Yes, if the material in the test corresponds to the material covered in the semester study. In this way you can find out what you actually learned that is of some value.

Yes, Tests are helpful if the questions are covered after the test is graded so the student can see his mistakes.

Yes, if the instructor tests on material covered in the course and does not go off the track.

Yes, on the whole it shows what has been learned by the student during the course.

Yes, it is a good review, and it puts facts in mind that were forgotten during the daily lessons.

No, I do not think that the tests prove anything except what has been learned by rote and not what he has actually learned through thinking for himself.

Yes, it gives the student a chance to find out what he knows and has learned. Otherwise they would not get this chance.

If it raises his grade, yes; otherwise, no. Yes we learn as much from tests as from the rest of the course combined.

It's A Great Life . . .

By Lowell Hoch

The Snow is all gone. Moans, groans, and howls of glee. The Vet boys just could not resist the temptation of those nice little white balls that are so easy to make. Glenn Nicklison found out that much to his woe as he ventured towards Apt. 24 about 11 o'clock one night.

The Lorraine Kid went home last weekend. A quiet week!

Several changes have been made in our little group. Merlin Miller moved to the Fanny. Ace Bane to the Horner house, and Paul Hodson has moved into Vet. 23.

We hope that Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Keim enjoyed the quiet and tranquillity associated with the Vets. Bob Bean came over the other night and wanted someone to come visit him. Couldn't study—too quiet.

Evans applied for his first class steepelack license over the semester tests period. Kenny scaled the 280 foot KNEX radio tower and replaced two light bulbs. He wasn't worried in the least. He had on his new "light fall" suit. Oh! You think it was easy. Well, six of us watched him and it took him an hour. The crazy things some people will do to attract attention! He tried to tell us it was for that "green" stuff.

The Vet Housing boys met Tuesday night to plan for the pep assembly which they will put on next Tuesday before the Bethel Game. Many important stories were related throughout the session. Ample protectors were worn by several. The committee in charge of the program will purchase tickets to points east before 9:50, Tuesday. Lyle Klamm, our head resident, is sporting a different auto.

Notice to all cars entering the Vet 20's-30's area: A small charge of 25 cents an hour is charged for space after 10 o'clock. Please pay Dwight McSpadden. . . Bernard Ehnert, left for K C and his physical Wednesday morning.

Tuesday night, Sharp, Evans, Pauls, and Hoch had home-made banana ice-cream over in 34. All the others received invitations!!!

HA!

Vet 34 papered their walls again. Bob Kerr took up singing last week. Some new song about "Put Your Shoes On."

The Triple P's, the official intra-mural representative for Vets are still unbeaten.

Pendergast and the Chump, I mean champ, are still competing for the free for all champions'p.

Art, Crafts Are Featured In New Books

Leathercraft Techniques and Designs by John W. Dean contains an analysis of the technique of creating designs and producing them in leather. It is not intended to cover the fundamentals of the craft but to give techniques of a master craftsman.

Suggestions are given for simplifying pattern layout, making cutting dies, and achieving short cuts in the actual tooling, carving, and stamping operation.

Thirty-two lacing stitches are described and illustrated.

A Treasury of Early American Homes by Richard Pratt has 250 full-color photographs of exteriors and interiors of America's historic homes.

Richard Pratt, architectural editor of the Ladies' Home Journal, not only gives the reader glimpses of how the early Americans lived, but provides a fascinating picture of early architecture and interior decorating at its best.

The colors and artistic photograph make this book one of the rare beautiful books being published today.

The pictures of houses from the early salt boxes and Cape Cod cottages in Massachusetts to the mansions of Natchez are accompanied by an interesting explanatory text.

Careers in the Arts by Elizabeth McCausland is a comprehensive survey of the whole art field, fine and applied alike.

It is a guide to help the beginning artist learn where in the wide and varied field of art he can best apply his talents and satisfy his own needs and desires.

In the appendix of this volume are lists of the art schools and colleges by states and cities and a list of schools offering architectural courses.

Garden Flowers - In Color by Daniel J. Foley shows 350 garden flowers in accurately colored photographs. It is a guide book for the beginner and a reference book for the advanced gardener.

This book identifies each plant by both common and botanical names. It includes annuals, perennials, many outstanding flowering trees and shrubs, vines, bulbs, and roses.

A special section tells about soils, fertilizers, and various cultural practices with sketches of many garden operations.

Scenery Design for the Amateur Stage by Willard J. Friereich and John H. Fraser was written to help non-professional theatrical producers in creating good sets for their plays.

The book grew out of a syllabus used when there was a need for a good text for a course in scenery design.

Principles of good design are shown in their relation to the stage set. The discussion is supplemented with photographs of actual stage sets.

Krehbiel Goes To Tea, Stays All Night

As absent-minded as a college professor is the trite expression according to freshman English instructors, but Miss Anne Krehbiel, assistant professor of piano, is laughing about her latest demonstration of the truth of the saying.

Miss Krehbiel says she is as bad as the "man who came to dinner," for she was invited to the apartment of Miss Doris Coppock and Miss Sarah May Vanell for refreshments after the Joseph Battista concert Monday, Jan. 15, and stayed all night.

In changing purses for the evening Miss Krehbiel had left her apartment key at home. After she returned to her apartment and discovered that she did not have her key, she found to her dismay that the Bittinger family are such sound sleepers that they do not hear the doorknob.

After trying all possible means of gaining entrance to the house, Miss Krehbiel returned to Miss Coppock and Miss Vanell's apartment, aroused them, and asked for some place to spend the rest of the night.

Bulldogs March On, Meet Swedes Next

In the next eight days the McPherson College Bulldogs must face the Bethany College Swedes twice and the Bethel College Gray-maroons once.

If the Bulldogs can get through this critical part of the schedule, they will be well up in the standings and there to stay. But should they lose one or more of the up-coming games they will have lost any hope that they may now have of sharing in the conference crown.

Tonight the Bulldogs will go on their giant killing ways again as they meet the Bethany College Swedes at 8:00 p. m. The Swedes (3-1), currently tied for the loop lead with Ottawa will constitute a real threat to the Bulldogs upward ways.

The Swedes, on the basis of comparative scores, rate slightly above the young Bulldogs. Bethany, in their game with Kansas Wesleyan Coyotes, snapped the 17 game winning streak of the former champions to the tune of 66-53 and the Bulldogs promptly followed their lead to dump the Coyotes 57-47. Monday night, Bethany holds a 17 point win over College of Emporia while the best the Bulldogs could do against the Presbies was 54-49.

Ottawa holds wins over both McPherson and Bethany, beating the Bulldogs in the final seconds 59-66 and grabbing the lead in the final quarter to beat the Swedes 59-52.

Coach Ray Hahn, of the Swedes, has three men who are capable of breaking up an otherwise even game with their scoring spree. Bill Carlson started off the season at a torrid pace of 32 points per game, but has cooled off of late. Dave Anderson is currently leading the Swedes. He has 31 points in the Swedes four conference outings. Dick Hahn, son of Coach Ray Hahn, gave notice that he has to be watched as he split the nets for 27 counters in the Bethel contest.

Reed and Sanderson, the other Swede starters, can score on occasion but are not consistent. Reed garnered 17 points in the C. of E. game.

After meeting the Swedes tonight the Bulldogs must face the Bethel College Gray-maroons Tuesday night on the local high school hardwoods.

Bethel, 1-2 in the conference, has a win over Baker and has lost to Bethany and Wesleyan.

Coach Rudy Enns can boast of the only returns from the all-conference first team of a year ago in big Lanoy Loganbill. Coach Enns could put on all veteran team on the floor, but has elected to start a newcomer Don Harder at one of the forward spots. The other Gray-maroon starters are Fred Schroeder, Dick Siemens, and Duane Kaufman.

K.W.U. Falters Braves, Swedes Take Over

Monday night the McPherson College Bulldogs dumped the Kansas Wesleyan Coyotes from first place in the Kansas Conference with a stunning 57-47 victory.

The Bulldogs jumped off to a lead in the opening minutes of play and were never headed. The Bulldogs kept building and by half time held a 12 point lead 32-21.

The Coyotes and Bulldogs fought on even terms through the third quarter, each team scoring 16 points in that period. However the Bulldogs held a 17 point lead at one time in the third quarter, before the Coyotes closed the gap to the eight point margin at the start of the final stanza.

Loren Blickenstaff led the scoring for the Bulldogs. His 15 points made him high for the game. Hanagarne and Smith followed in the Bulldogs scoring with 9 points each, and Bechtel had 8.

Dale Horton was high scorer for the Coyotes with 17. Anderson followed with 12.

The Bulldogs hit a good 31.1 percent of their shots, but the Coyotes found the basket very elusive as they could only cash in on 21.5 percent of their shots. Many of Wesleyans shots were of the desperation variety as they tried in vain to catch the high flying Bulldogs, who maintained a ten point lead throughout most of the game.

Canines Rally, C. of E. 54-49

The McPherson College Bulldogs won their first league basketball game of the season from the College of Emporia Presbys Saturday night, Jan. 20, at the Municipal Auditorium of Emporia.

The Bulldogs were far from impressive for they were forced to come from behind in the last six minutes to win.

The Bulldogs led until the last minutes of the first frame when C of E pulled up and led 18-17 at the buzzer. The Presbys held the Dogs down and what shots they took just couldn't find the range. C of E scored 16 points to McPherson's 6 and held a ten point lead at half-time, 33-23.

The Bulldogs pulled back up in the game and closed the gap to a single point, 38-37 but C of E forged ahead again to hold a 44-38 third period advantage. They maintained that advantage until there was but six minutes left in the game when Bob Bechtel sank a bucket to tie it up at 45-45. Hanagarne hit again to put the Bulldogs in the lead and the Bulldogs were never headed as they went on to win 54-49.

Williams led the Presby attack with 16 followed by Burke with 15. Loren Blickenstaff hit 15 and Bob Bechtel got 11 for McPherson. The box score: McPHERSON (54) FG FT F T Pts. ## Dogs Humble Down Ravens

The McPherson College Bulldogs made it their second win of the season over the St. Benedict's Ravens here in a thrilling game that saw the Bulldogs come from behind to win 48-47. It was by one point that the Bulldogs beat the Ravens at Atchison last December 12. The score was 55-54 in that game.

Early in the game, the score see-sawed back and forth with first one team and then the other taking the lead. The Ravens finally pulled ahead and held a 7 point advantage at half-time. Early in the third period, the Ravens stretched their lead to 9 points, but then the Bulldogs started clicking.

By the end of the third quarter, the St. Benedict's team was only four points ahead, holding a 40-36 lead. The Bulldogs fought to within one point, 41-42 but the Ravens fought back and widened the gap to 47-43.

Smith Scores Against Ravens

Then, with about two minutes to go in the game, the Bulldogs tied it up when Wayne Blickenstaff hit from the field to make it 47-41. Loren Blickenstaff was fouled by Peters, the Raven center and made the free throw.

The Bulldogs held their slim margin after O'Dell's charity shot was no good. They took the ball out of bounds on two other violations and retained the possession of the roundball until the final buzzer.

Schmiedeler, Raven guard, led the scoring with 15. Loren Blickenstaff led the victors with a close 14. The box score:

Kansas Conference

K.W.U. Slips, Canines Climb

The past week has seen great changes in the Kansas Conference standings.

Kansas Wesleyan, who only a week ago were securely in first place and seemed to be on the way to another championship, have now slipped down to third in the standings. The Bethany Swedes proved to be the downfall of the Coyotes as they put the clamps on the defending champs 66-53 last Thursday night on the Coyotes home court.

Monday night the Bulldogs took the cue from the Swedes and handed the Coyotes their second setback in conference play 57-47, to knock them out of the championship picture for the present at least.

Bethany, third a week ago, and moved into a tie for first place Ottawa second last week, have with 3-1 records.

The McPherson Bulldogs who were lodged in seventh last week, have found new life and moved into fourth spot with wins over C. of E. 54-49 and Wesleyan.

Bethel and Baker are tied for fifth spot with 1-2 records. Bethel holds a win over Baker, and has lost to Bethany and Wesleyan. Baker has beaten C. of E. and lost to Bethel and Ottawa.

College of Emporia has a firm grip on the seventh spot with four losses and no wins.

Four teams still have a chance to share in the crown, Bethany and Ottawa, of course have the best chances, but Wesleyan and McPherson still have a fighting chance to finish on top.

Bethany will lay her claim to the top spot on the line as she plays host to the McPherson Bulldogs tonight. This game will determine which of these two teams has the stuff to finish on top. The Swedes with a win in this one would be considered the favorite to cop the crown. Although they would not be the favorite with a win over the Swedes, the Bulldogs would have an even chance at finishing on top.

Next week will find a conference team in action on every night. Monday night Wesleyan will travel to Ft. Hays for a non-loop tilt. Bethel comes to McPherson on Tuesday night. Wednesday night Bethany will entertain Baker, Thursday night C. of E. goes to Ottawa, and Friday night will find McPherson meeting Bethany in a return match at McPherson. Baker plays host to Wesleyan on Friday night of next week also.

Three Unbeaten In Intra-Murals

Wednesday night, Jan. 17 saw several exciting games in Intra-mural activity as the JoFo's bottled the Imps of Satan and beat them 49-46 to drop the Imps out of the Unbeaten column. The Internationals won their first of the season over the Indians, 23-22, and the Pendergast Boys dumped the mighty Faculty team, 40-38. The Gals Gays had little trouble in beating the Leftovers, 45-20.

Thursday night, the JoFo's nipped the High Flyers, 39-35, the Preying 8 edged the Cornhuskers, 41-35 and the Gals Gays beat the Pendergast Boys, 41-23. The Skinks forfeited to the Indians in the final game. Three teams remain unbeaten as yet in the league. The JoFo's, the Gals Gays and the Triple P's lead Smith of the Imps of Satan with the scoring with 81 points in 4 games. Don Stevens of the JoFo's has 65 and Dick Wareham of the Faculty has 55.
