

Indian Scholar Will Speak Sunday

Dr. Amiya Chakravarty, lecturer, author, scholar, and native of India, will speak at the McPherson Church of the Brethren, Sunday, March 9, at 7:30 p. m., and in the college chapel, Monday, March 10. The subject title Sunday evening is "India's Role in the East-West Power Conflict."

Dr. Amiya Chakravarty

Dr. Chakravarty, who was educated in India and at Oxford, is now lecturing at Kansas University. Previously he has lectured at Selly Oak College in England, and at Howard, Yale, and Princeton; taught English at Forman Christian College and at Calcutta; and taught Shakespeare in England and the U. S.

He was intimately acquainted with Gandhi, and served as his counsellor and international advisor, as well as advisor for the Indian delegation to the UN.

Dr. Chakravarty is the author of many books, and has traveled extensively in the Far East and in Europe. The past summer was spent in Germany, under the auspices of the American Friends Service Committee, studying the present situation in religious and education centers, with special reference to the East-West conflict, and the problem of war and peace.

The lectures and forum are free of charge to the public life. A free will offering will be taken for the work of the American Friends Service Committee.

Dr. Chakravarty is appearing under the auspices of the Church of the Brethren, McPherson College, and the Institute of International Relations of the American Friends Service Committee.

A Cappella Choir Presents Varied Music

To Over-Capacity Crowd

MacCollage A Cappella Choir presented a varied musical program to an over-capacity crowd Friday night, Feb. 29. The concert, under the direction of Prof. Don Frederick, varied in its content from the majestic "Preludes to Eternity," a choral arrangement of Liszt's "Les Preludes" to the gay, light folk tunes.

With guitar accompaniment, by Professor Frederick, the presentation of folk tunes lent a different air to the A Cappella concert. The ladies of the choir sang "River, River." Then the men appeared and gave their rendition of "Cool Water."

Native instruments of Trinidad added a folk atmosphere to the rhythmic, "Cahguane's Burning." Don West and Curtis Leicht accompanied at the drums; Keith Allison played the moroccos; Donald Waggoner the claves, and Professor Frederick the guitar.

The "Echo Song" featured a quartet comprised of Donna Waggoner, Elsie Kindley, Keith Allison, and Don West as the "echo" for the choir.

Another feature of the concert included the romantic, melodic Sigmund Romberg selections in "A Tribute to Romberg."

"Were You There?" as arranged by the director, was also included in the program. This arrangement shows much feeling; beginning with sorrowful lamentation, embolism and coming to a dramatic climax in the joyous resurrection.

This was the 19th annual concert of the MacCollage A Cappella Choir.

Chakravarty, Wood Are Chapel Speakers

Dr. Amiya Chakravarty, India, will speak in chapel March 10.

The Rev. Ross Wood of the McPherson Baptist Church will speak March 12.

Alexander Wins Peace Contest

Shirley Alexander placed first in the local peace oratorical tryouts Sunday evening, winning $7.50 and the right to represent MacCollage in the women's division of the state contest on March 15.

Robert Mikesell, second-place winner will represent MacCollage in the men's division of the state contest. He received $5 in prize money.

Third place winner, Walter Blough, was awarded $2.50.

Faculty Studies Qualities Of Christian Colleges

Faculty of MacCollage are now working on a survey to answer the question, "What is a Christian college?", with particular reference to the nature and role of the Christian college in mid-Twentieth Century America.

A study of forty universities and colleges was made last year. This year Mac has been chosen as one of the colleges to be studied.

The committee chosen to do the research here is Pres. D. W. Bittner, Prof. S. M. Dell, Dr. Mary Fee, Prof. Raymond Flory, Prof. Guy Hayes and Dr. R. E. Mohler.

After the committee has considered problems pertaining to students, faculty, administration, particularly off-campus relationships and campus life in the light of Christian ethics, MacCollage will be compared to the other colleges participating. An attempt will then be made to define a Christian college.

Lehman Goes East

Miss Delta Lehman, who is on leave of absence from the English Department this semester, left the first part of this week from Chicago and the East.

The grand jury, on which Miss Lehman has been serving in Topeka, was recessed until April. While in Topeka, Miss Lehman stayed in the home of Dr. and Mrs. J. D. Bright. Dr. and Mrs. Bright are former MacCollage professors.

West Offers Challenge To Face The World

"How will you face this world?" was the question asked by the Rev. Guy West in chapel March 5. He stated there are three ways of facing the world in its crises. First, with fear and anxiety—the cowardly way; second, with indulgence and dissatisfaction—drowning the sorrows; and third, with courage and intelligent consecration—walking with God.

With guitar accompaniment, by Professor Frederick, the presentation of folk tunes lent a different air to the A Cappella concert. The ladies of the choir sang "River, River." Then the men appeared and gave their rendition of "Cool Water."

Native instruments of Trinidad added a folk atmosphere to the rhythmic, "Cahguane's Burning." Don West and Curtis Leicht accompanied at the drums; Keith Allison played the moroccos; Donald Waggoner the claves, and Professor Frederick the guitar.

The "Echo Song" featured a quartet comprised of Donna Waggoner, Elsie Kindley, Keith Allison, and Don West as the "echo" for the choir.

Another feature of the concert included the romantic, melodic Sigmund Romberg selections in "A Tribute to Romberg."

"Were You There?" as arranged by the director, was also included in the program. This arrangement shows much feeling; beginning with sorrowful lamentation, embolism and coming to a dramatic climax in the joyous resurrection.

This was the 19th annual concert of the MacCollage A Cappella Choir.

Chakravarty, Wood Are Chapel Speakers

Dr. Amiya Chakravarty, India, will speak in chapel March 10.

The Rev. Ross Wood of the McPherson Baptist Church will speak March 12.

She Cut Off Their Heads With A Butcher Knife

Murder was committed on the north side of Hessey Tuesday when Mrs. Jack Kough's food class received practical experience in killing chickens. The blood of eight chickens was spilled on the snow when their heads were chopped off with a butcher knife.

Unaware that they were being observed by Miss Vancil's editing class and Miss Siek's clothing class, the girls went about their bloody business. It didn't seem to bother anyone, with the exception of Carl Hoffman and the editing class.

Chief executioner was Donna Burgin who chopped off the heads of five chickens.

Met Presents Verdi's Aida

Verdi's opera, Aida, will be presented by the Metropolitan Opera Company Saturday afternoon, March 8.

This will be the 368th presentation of Aida by the Metropolitan. Puccini's La Boheme is the nearest competitor with 304 performances.

Aida is a four-act opera in which hate, power, and jealousy are mingled with love, trust, and loyalty. Aida, an Ethiopian captured by the Egyptians, loves Radames, the leader of the Egyptian army. Her love for Radames conflicts with her love for her father, Amneris, king of Ethiopia.

Radame's love for Aida causes him to commit treason. The Princess Amneris, who loves Radames also, becomes jealous of her servant, Aida.

Players Begin Plans For Spring Production

The Player's Club is beginning plans for its spring production. At the recent costume party Doris Mohler and Esther Mohler were elected to work with Prof. Roy E. McAuley, dramatics coach, in finding a play to present.

Winners of the costume and prop donation contest at that party were Esther Ikenberry and Maxine Hanley. Esther came outfitted in an 18th century costume, and Maxine donned a typical "flapper" coat.

A movie, "Mutiny on the Bounty," starring Charles Laughton, was shown to the players at this party.

Sten's Error Gives West Subject For Speech

"They Hopped In The Lord," a typographical error, for "They Hopped In The Lord," may be more truthful today than we realize, according to the Rev. Guy West. He stated that in this world of rushing thither and yon little time is taken for quietude with God.

Rev. West spoke in chapel March 4. He is the pastor of the Church of the Brethren in Uniontown, Pa.

During the past week he has been holding the Religious Emphasis services at the McPherson Brethren Church.

When I left Jaffa, I went to Amman, the capital of Jordan, in which my family is living. There I attended Hossain College for my second, third and fourth secondary years. Following that I was sent to the Jordanian local Matriculation in 1951.

Because I passed the mentioned examination brilliantly, I was selected for a scholarship to Iraq a neighboring Arab country. At the same time I was selected for a scholarship to McPherson College. I preferred the latter because in America I could live among English-speaking people and my language would become better.

My family preferred my going to Iraq because it is an Arab country, and nearer to them. But I wanted to prove the news which I heard about the Americans of being a generous and able race.

I had been told that I must leave Beirut, the capital, and harbor of the Lebanon Republic, on the 14th or 15th of Dec., 1951, so I left Amman on the 13th. Because of the lateness of the ship, I remained nine days in Beirut, dur-

Snow Storm Hits McPherson

"The north wind doth blow, and we shall have snow. What will poor robin do then, poor thing?"

The early robins weren't the only beings in distress when a storm struck McPherson College Sunday night and Monday.

African students were experiencing a new, white phenomenon, called snow, as they inched their way to classes through the slippery, unstable stuff.

All day Monday, custodians bent their weight against snow shovels to clear the sidewalks only to have the walks closed again by the drifting snow. Those fortunate to have automobiles were not thinking of their fortunes as they pushed their cars out of snow-bound drive ways and parking lots.

Coeds, who had been eager for spring, hung sleeveless blouses and lightweight jackets back in the closet and brought forth sweaters, heavy coats and boots.

Yes, north winds made MacCollage Campus a "winter wonderland" the first part of this week; but because of the unpredictable temperament of Kansas weather, it will probably be sunny and warm with a hint of spring when this article is delivered to readers.

Four-College Conference To Be At Wesleyan

Kansas Wesleyan will host to the four college conference, March 15. The entire faculty of MacCollage is planning to attend. The conference is held each year at one of the four colleges—Bethel, Bethany, Kansas Wesleyan, and McPherson—and each year a different college is responsible for the program.

Dean Lawson of the College of Arts and Sciences of KU will be guest speaker.

The purpose of the annual affair is to acquaint the faculties of the colleges and to talk over the problems and accomplishments of the year.

MacCollage was host to the conference in 1950, Bethany in 1951, Kansas Wesleyan this year, 1952 and Bethel will be in 1953.

ing which I visited some places. One of the most interesting was the American University.

The American University of Beirut is built on a hill protruding to the sea. It has gardens full of flowers; the basketball court is surrounded by flowers. This university has a very good program, and most of the Arab students graduate from it, or from the Syrian or Egyptian Universities.

I left Beirut Dec. 22 on the Norwegian ship, the Elm Horn. I spent three weeks at sea during which I was tired and sea-sick because of the violent movement of the ship.

First we went to Al-Jazeh, the Syrian harbor. We stayed there two days, after which we sailed directly to Charleston, South Carolina.

Our journey was a mixture of terror and sickness, because the sea was very much agitated, and because we heard the bad news of the sinking of the American ship, Enterprise, in a storm.

Returning to my country, I would like to state something about it. Jordan is a country on the eastern bank of the Jordan river, while Palestine is on the western bank of it. Jordan is a mountainous country. Its main products are: corn, sheep, and grapes.

Jordan is famous for its historical relics; such as the amphitheater of Pharaoh, the king of Egypt, in the old centuries. This amphitheater is made as a circle of 300 feet radius, and has about 100 steps on which the spectators sat. About 50 steps high is the room of Pharaoh.

If one went to Jordan, he could see all the Roman castles along the way from Jordan to Palestine. And if one went to the museum in Amman, he would find interesting things, such as stone instruments and tools.

When I reached Charleston after my tiring journey, I began my trip on the Greyhound bus, which was two days and two nights. I reached McPherson on Wednesday, March 16, 1952.

Being interested in mathematics, I am planning to major in electrical engineering. I am studying lessons which will prepare me for specialization in that field.

West Speaks About The Problem Of Churches

Religious Emphasis week was inaugurated Sunday by Rev. Guy West in two sermons, one in the morning and one in the evening.

"Work Together with God," his main points were (1) to be successful in the work of the Lord, we must work at it; (2) to work efficiently, we have to cooperate with each other; (3) we also need to work in a divine partnership with God. He pointed out that in all areas of life, work is required. In Christian living it is also required. Though the Church is divine it can not function without the help of man. The work of the church must agree with God; without this agreement the church is just another human institution.

"If God is with us, who can be against us. Even the gates of Hell can not prevail against us."

His evening message was on "The Problem of the Church." He spoke in terms of the church, not any one denomination. He pointed out that there is one and only one basic problem in the Church. Other problems are of minor importance. Financial problems, attendance problems, trying to get people working in the church are only symptoms of the main problem. He said that they were like a headache. The doctor does not come and examine a patient thoroughly and say the disease is a headache.

He knows the headache is merely a symptom. When the disease is cured the headache will be gone.

Why are people inconsistent in their church attendance, in their living every day, in their giving, and in their Christian service? Why? Because of the one, basic problem of the church today! People Christians fail to give themselves completely to God. They hold back some of their love for themselves, for money, and fame. They are members of the church and do not support it fully in walking for the world to see that they are not full-fledged members of Christ! We must support the church with all our heart, with all our mind, and with all our strength!!

If one went to Jordan, he could see all the Roman castles along the way from Jordan to Palestine.

And if one went to the museum in Amman, he would find interesting things, such as stone instruments and tools.

When I reached Charleston after my tiring journey, I began my trip on the Greyhound bus, which was two days and two nights. I reached McPherson on Wednesday, March 16, 1952.

Lyla Whitham and Mary Louise Hutcherson, and Joe Kennedy and Gene Bechtel will participate in the tournament. Prof. Roy E. McAuley, debate coach, will accompany the two teams on the trip.

This tournament is one of the larger junior college tournaments in this part of the country.

Congratulations, "Shorty"

My history teacher once told me the Mason-Dixon line, if extended west, would be between the states of Kansas and Oklahoma. I have seen Mason-Dixon lines several hundred miles north of the line my teacher told me about.

I grew up approximately 10 miles from this "so called" Mason-Dixon line, where race tensions are often times as strong as those below this line. I have seen my high school alma-mater change from a strictly-white school to a school where Negro students could attend. Then I saw another change. Negro students were allowed to participate in athletics. This shows the line can be wiped out.

I have now spent a greater part of four years in the city of McPherson. I have seen our Negro students travel to Hutchinson to get their hair cut. Then, as before, I saw another change. I saw a barber in the city of McPherson open his doors, to cut "Negroes" hair. This barber was "Shorty" Brazell. He owns and operates "Shorty's" barber shop at 115 East Kansas.

I think it should be pointed out that our Negro students are not the only ones who have had trouble in getting a hair cut, but also some of our international exchange students.

"Shorty" has lost some of his business. He has also gained some business of students and professional men, but it seems that he has lost more than he has gained. It is, therefore, our business as world citizens, as Christian brothers, and as friends not to let this lag continue.

GOD'S Living Letters

By Kirby Page

Who was the greatest American woman? The name most frequently found on numerous lists is that of Jane Addams of Hull House. What made her great was her capacity for friendship, the degree to which she poured her life into other people, the improvement in living conditions she was able to achieve, and the worldwide influence she wielded through her articles, books and public addresses.

In 1889 she moved into the old Hull House on South Halstead street in Chicago in order to become a good neighbor to the immigrant families crowded into that section. She gathered about her a notable group of residents, including Jelia Lathrop, Florence Kelley, Alice Hamilton, Edith Abbott, and Grace Abbott. They went about the community doing good. They established the first public playground in Chicago and brought children into Hull House for all kinds of activities. They struggled for improved sanitary conditions, and Jane Addams for a time became official garbage inspector at a salary of $1,000 per year for the city. An art school and a music school were established. A continuous campaign was conducted for protective legislation for women and children. Soon Miss Addams was looked upon as a radical. Some went so far as to say "she should be hung to the nearest lamp-post."

She was active in the woman suffrage movement and the world peace movement. Her pacifist attitude during the First World War brought much opposition and public abuse. Many considered her a "menace" and a "traitor." In 1931, however, she was awarded the Nobel Peace Prize. Fourteen universities bestowed upon her honorary degrees and she was awarded numerous prizes for public service. Theodore Roosevelt called her "the most useful citizen," and a distinguished journalist said that "if Christ came to Chicago" he would stay at Hull House.

Thinking With The President

TWO TALL MEN

We have just come through the month of February which has been designated across our nation as Brotherhood month.

February is a good month to designate as Brotherhood month. During February we celebrate the birthdays of two of our tallest Americans.

The first of these, Abraham Lincoln, stood six feet four inches, or thereabouts, in his stocking feet. He was lean and muscular.

It probably was not his physical height or build alone, however, which causes us to think of him as tall. It was that his ideas also stood out head and shoulders above those who surrounded him. In every way he towered above the men of his time. In many respects he towers above the men who lead our affairs a hundred years after his time.

One of the outstanding convictions which controlled him was the centrality of brotherhood. Race was unimportant to him. Wealth and social position were likewise insignificant. He thought of men as men. His favorite poem, which he spoke was, "O Why Should the Spirit of Mortal be Proud?"

The name of Abraham Lincoln and equality and brotherhood are synonymous.

In his immortal Gettysburg Address he ended on the note that was closest to his heart: "of the people, by the people, for the people." In his pronunciation of the word "people" he probably underscored it and capitalized it. The PEOPLE to him were significant. It mattered little concerning their size, backgrounds, social position, wealth, color; those were only details. People were central.

A little later in the month of February we celebrated another birthday.

George Washington, also, was a tall man. He, like Lincoln, reached upward over six feet.

The dominant note in his thinking was also brotherhood and the value of the individual. He was willing to stake his life and his sacred honor" to establish the idea of the equal right of all men to govern themselves. He left the rolling slopes of Mt. Vernon and his pleasant associations those there to pray in the snows of Valley Forge and to suffer hardships with his men in order that this great freedom might be established.

February is a good month to lift up the ideals of brotherhood. It would be too bad, now that February is ended, if we were to forget the principles of brotherhood. Perhaps no other principle is as badly needed in our world today.

May the spirit of brotherhood, which is engendered in Brotherhood month, prevail in every month. — May the spirit of brotherhood which grows in the international student relationships of McPherson College, continue to grow and widen till "men shall brothers be the wide world o'er."

Bethany Seminary is predominantly Brethren with an enrollment of 49 out of 235 being of other denominations.

None of the colleges have more Brethren students than interdenominational students.

Bridgewater College tends to be more Brethren of the colleges. It boasts 225 Brethren and 261 of other faiths.

Macklege is the second most Brethren college with 111 more interdenominational students than Brethren.

Juniata is close with a difference of 126.

Others are Manchester 210, Elizabethtown 261, and Juniata 457.

Hence Bridgewater is more Brethren and Juniata is less Brethren of the colleges.

Again, Juniata is less Brethren represented in its faculty and it has the most members.

Juniata has 53 faculty members and only 19 are Brethren.

MacCollage boasts the fact that its faculty is more Brethren than all the other colleges. Mac. has 29 Brethren and 15 interdenominational faculty members.

Manchester is second with the most Brethren faculty. It has 31 Brethren out of 50 faculty members.

LaVerne is third with 5 more Brethren than interdenominational; and Bridgewater fourth with 21 Brethren out of 39 faculty members.

Elizabethtown has 2 more Brethren faculty members than members of other denominations.

At Bethany 101 of the total enrollment 25 are Brethren ministers and 10 are ministers of other denominations.

Three Brethren colleges have more Brethren ministers than those from other denominations. They are, Manchester with a total of 36 Brethren and 7 others; Bridgewater with 25 Brethren and 14 nonbrethren; and MacCollage with 25 Brethren and 6 ministers of other denominations.

The remaining colleges have more student ministers from other denominations than from the Brethren Church.

There is a certain number of students not affiliated with any church in each college.

Manchester is highest with 76 and Juniata is lowest with 4 students not a member of any church.

MacCollage has 17 such students on its campus.

Have You Noticed

Anything Strange Lately?

This evening as I worked in the Spec office I heard a noise, a heavy thud and a lot of tittering.

Being of a curious nature I walked out of the office and looked down by Professor Hess's room.

What do you suppose I saw? Why, there were two girls, doing front and back bends and other bends that I don't think have been named yet.

I watched for awhile, then couldn't hold my laughter any longer.

I went back to my work and let Margaret Daggett do her homework for Doris Cockopp's class in RHYTHMIC INTERPRETATION, or RHEUMATIC as Margaret put it, while Veila Wagoner showed Margaret that she didn't take the class for she already excelled in doing the bends.

Strange Things Happen In Colleges

What is going on in other colleges across the United States?

At Michigan State University, the girls organized a football team to prove that the "weaker sex" is an inaccurate title. Then they challenged last year's intra-mural champions. The score: men 13, women 12.

UCLA recently recorded their worst traffic jam in years. About eighty cars were parked illegally in aisles and red zones on campus. Exits were blocked; through traffic was clogged, fenders were bashed and words were bandied.

The Beacon University of Rhode Island asked in a recent poll: "What do you think of studying in the library?" And among the answers:

"I go there because I like to meet people, and you never can tell who you will find underneath the tables."

"The heavy reference books make good pants pressers."

"After studying for fifteen years, it is too hard to concentrate with no noise."

We like them whether they're seedy, Whether they're tailored, smooth or tweed.

What matter the, Whether at five o'clock or eight. They rush in early or stroll in late.

Just so they're men. (Cedar Crest College)

Students Work In Many Churches

Many Macollage students are active in church work—in their home churches and in McPherson City churches.

On Sunday, February 17, Joe Johns and Don Beach participated in the services of the Church of the Brethren in Beatrice, Nebraska.

Enroute to Washington, D. C., Loren Frantz stopped over at the South Beatrice Church of the Brethren and gave the morning message. That evening Miss Yolanda Cerero gave a short address.

Max McAuley directs the choir at the McPherson Congregational Church. Keith Allison directs the Presbyterian Church choir.

Many of the music students often present special music at various churches.

Students who participate in the church services at the McPherson Church of the Brethren are too numerous to name. Many of them are members of the choir. Others act as ushers, work in the nursery, teach classes, play the organ, and direct music.

Three student ministers are doing pastoral work. They are Don Ford, Leland Wilson, Edward Zook.

Parking Conditions Endanger Cars, Campus Lawn

By D. A. Crist

Parking behind the dormitories at McPherson College is getting to be a difficult job. Recently one automobile evidently could find no place to park thus jumped the curb and found a safe place at the foot of Arnold Hall steps.

Many times the cars parked along the curb are pinned in by cars behind them, and the only way out is across the curb and across the campus to the south. This is frowned upon very much by the administration.

The automobile population on Macampus has increased the last few years and continues to increase. Not many years ago one could find not more than four or five autos, while now there are many times that number.

Last week, at the annual trustee meeting, this situation was discussed. The trustees decided something should be done.

The plans are to level the present parking lot and gravel it. It will then be divided into stalls so each car can have a safe place to park. This will keep many fenders from being scratched and will stop the wheel marks across the lawn in front of the boys' dorm.

Leadership

"A leader is best When people hardly know he exists, Not so good when people acclaim him. Worse when they despise him. Fall to honor people."

They will fail to honor you, But of a good leader, who talks little When his work is done, his aim is fulfilled. They will all say, "we did this ourselves."

—Lao-tse, Chinese philosopher.

My Kingdom For A Raft

"A raft, a raft, my $5 for a raft."

As practices on the one-act play, "Minor Miracle" progressed, Prof. Roy McAuley and the four boys began to feel the need of a real life-raft in which to practice rather than a table turned upside-down.

Bryce Miller was appointed to scout around for one on a trip to Wichita.

After searching the village with a fine-toothed comb, he at last found one raft of questionable condition in a junk heap behind a war-surplus store. The owner offered to sell it for $15. Bryce re-trained from buying.

Professor McAuley and the boys continued to inquire for the desired article. They succeeded in finding several people who remembered having seen one before.

Jack Harter was dispatched to Wichita to check again on the raft in the junk heap, with the instructions not to exceed the price of $10. After seeing that the price had risen to $25, Jack offered the man $5. After considerable bargaining he finally lowered to the original $15. Jack returned raftless.

By this time the cast was getting desperate.

On the Sunday before the plays were to be given, Professor McAuley and Bryce went again to Wichita for a final check on the junk-heap raft. The owner offered to sell it for $15. Bryce re-trained from buying.

As a last frantic resort, Professor McAuley made a pass in chapel for information on the whereabouts of a life-raft. The boys were resigning themselves to having to give the play in an upturned table.

As a result of the announcement, a number of people were able to suggest someone who might have one. When these people were contacted, they in turn were able to suggest other people.

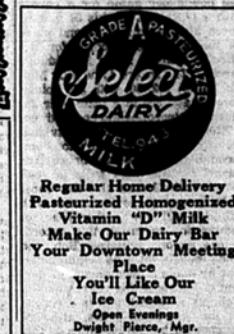

At length and at last the sought-after raft was brought to light at the San Ore Construction Company in McPherson.

And the play did go on!

Bulldogs Complete Successful Season

McPherson has just completed its most successful season since 1945. With a season's record of 16 wins and 6 losses, this year's team needs to be ranked among McPherson's all-time teams. The Bulldogs came in second in the Kansas Conference for the best placing the Bulldogs had since 1946 when they won the conference.

This year's team was strong at all spots. Three players Loren Blickenstaff, Frank Hanagarne, and Wayne Blickenstaff scored over 200 points, and three other players—Bob Bechtel, Gene Smith, and Dale Carpenter—added over 100 points apiece.

McPherson, as is true of most teams, had a better record at home than on the road. "Woody's" team won seven and lost two at home and won nine and lost four on the road.

Although this year's version of the Bulldogs was the most offensive minded ever to play at McPherson College, other Kansas Conference teams remember it more for its superb defense. McPherson, with its defensive average of 54.2, ranks among the best of the small colleges of the nation. Its conference defensive average of 56 points a game was the best in the conference. Twice this year McPherson held their opponents to less than 40 points.

Statistically the Bulldogs rewrote the record book compiled two years ago by Dean Coughenour. The team started out to break records in the first game of the year against Phillips University when they made 25 free throws to break the old record of 21.

1952-53 Prospects

The careers of four McPherson players end with this season. Loren Blickenstaff, Bill Moore, Dale Carpenter, and Duane Jamison, all graduate this spring. The loss of these four players will be noticed immensely on the team next year.

In Loren and Bill, McPherson loses their two best rebounders on the team. Besides this Loren has been the team's leading scorer for the past three seasons. Dale Carpenter, while starting very few games, has helped the team when they were in tight spots with his five points a game average. Duane Jamison has not seen too much action, but his reserve strength was available when the other two centers fouled out, as in the Bethany game. He helped the team considerably in several games.

The team next year, while having these several spots to fill, should be able to present a strong team. At center, Bob Bechtel and Carl Metzker will be back. Bechtel turned in the best shot percentage of the team this year, and in Carl Metzker "Woody" has a player with a good hook shot.

Probably the weakest spot on the team will be at forward. Only "Chief" Hanagarne will be returning from this year's first team. Several of this year's sophomores will be trying for the other forward spot. Eddie Ball, Glen Gayer, and Bob Pele all have a good chance to move up to the first team next year. Of course there is always the possibility that "Woody" will move one of this year's regulars into the other forward spot.

At guard "Woody's" worries are at a minimum. The two regulars, Gene Smith and Wayne Blickenstaff, will be back along with Tommy O'Dell, Kansas City's dribbling ace, and Bernard Whirley, the long shot marksmen this year. Most of these players are subject to the draft, and the army could possibly

A medal of some kind or other should probably go to Frank Hanagarne for his accuracy at the free throw line with 73 percent of his free throws going in. This, like Bechtel's shot percentage, wasn't tabulated until the last three years, but it is the highest for those three.

The scores of all the games for the season follows. The "H" designates home games.
