

Six Are Selected For Who's Who

Six Maccollege seniors have been elected to Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities. A look at the records of these six students will tell one that they are among the busiest students on Macampus. Those elected to this high honor are Wayne Blickenstaff, George Keim, Don Fike, Berwyn Oltman, Dean Neher, and Elsie Marie Kindley.

Selection to this honor is based on scholarship, personality, service contribution to the college, and potential contribution to society after graduation.

Nominations to the Who's Who were made early in October by the faculty Personnel and Counseling Committee here on the campus. This committee selects candidates and presents them to the faculty for approval. Each candidate must be recommended further by at least three faculty members. Candidates for presentation to the Who's Who Selections Committee are chosen by secret ballot. The ballots pass through the Office of the Dean to the Who's Who Selection Committee.

George Keim

George Keim, Maccollege senior and Rural Life major, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Keim of Nampa, Id. George is presently president of the Student Council here at Maccollege.

During his freshman year here, he was vice president of his class, and earned his first letter in football.

In his sophomore year, George was also vice president of his class. As a junior, he began to draw many critics attention in the football game. In that year, he was selected to the All-Conference team in the Kansas Conference. As a junior, George was also president of the Maccollege Agricultural Club and treasurer of the Recreational Council. It was in his junior year that George made the All-Conference Football Team in both defense and offense, and also won the Honorable Mention to Little All-American.

This year, George is president of the Student Council, the highest position a student can hold here at Maccollege. He is also a member of the Men's Council. George has lettered three years in football, and has been a member of the M-Club since his freshman year.

He is married to the former Joan Painter of Nampa, Id., and one daughter, Rebecca. George plans on going into the teaching field or into business with his father when he graduates next June.

Elsie Marie Kindley

During the past summer, Elsie has traveled some 25,000 miles into 17 states with the Ladies' Quartet of MacPherson College. She was also Music and Recreation Director with the BVS September Unit at New Windsor, Md.

Also during the summer, Elsie worked as Recreation Instructor at the 4-H Leadership training school, and was judge for recreation for the county and region in the 4-H work.

Elsie is chairman of the Recreation Committee of the National BYC with wife, Mrs. Anderson, Indiana, August of next year.

Elsie plans to be married to Von Hall, Maccollege sophomore, in December, and will plan on going into the teaching field when she graduates next June. Elsie will teach while Von finishes his education here at Maccollege.

Berwyn Oltman, Religion and Philosophy major, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Oltman of Enders, Neb. Berwyn is a student minister and has been pastor of the church at Darlow, Kan., for the past two years. Berwyn is also assistant to Dr. Burton Metzler in the Religion and Philosophy Department.

As a freshman at Maccollege, Berwyn belonged to the Debate squad, was a member of the Spectator Staff, a member of the SCA, CBV, and a member of the campus UNESCO. He joined the A Cappella Choir and was elected accompanist to the A Cappella Choir and the Ladies' Trio. He also played in the Pep Band.

He was president of the Regional CBYF during his freshman and sophomore years and a member of the A Cappella Choir, the Concert Band, and the Men's Council in his junior year.

He joined the M-Club in his sophomore year and at the end of the football season, he received an Honorable Mention to the All-Conference selections.

Ruth Papa Makes Second Class In ACP Paper Ratings

Miss Ruth Papa, former Maccollege student and editor-in-chief of the SPECTATOR for second semester during the last school year, was awarded the second class honor rating for the McPherson College weekly newspaper, the SPECTATOR, in an ACP rating just released by the Scholastic Editor, the official organ of the N.S.P.A., and N.A.J.D.

The McPherson College SPECTATOR is entered in competition with other colleges which are classified to type, frequency of publication, and enrollment of school.

The purpose of this honor rating is to provide an agency by which staffs may be aided in giving their schools and communities better publication, and to help the staffs in the solution of their problems.

Helping Ruth Papa on the Spec staff last year were James Craig, managing editor, and Wendell Lentz, campus editor. Much credit also goes to the reporters on the last year's Spec.

Spec, Quad Attend Formal Banquet

A formal Spec-Quad Banquet was held in the Home Economics Department in Harnly Hall on Monday, Nov. 2, 1953. A group of about fifty students composed of the Spectator and Quadrangle staffs and their guests attended the banquet.

Professor Max McAuley, a former Spec editor, was the main speaker. Prof. McAuley talked about the various humorous experiences he had when he was the editor of the Spectator. Prof. Sarah May Vancil, Spec adviser, gave "Willing to Edit."

Beth Strickler of the Quadrangle Staff, gave a short talk on "On the Life of an Editor." And Wendell Lentz, managing editor of the Spectator, explained the reasons for "The Editor's Headache." The invocation for the occasion was given by Kenneth Brown, editor of the Quadrangle.

Mrs. Mildred Sick, head of the Home Economics Department, supervised the Quantity Cooking Class which was in charge of the cooking and serving of the banquet.

The waitresses were Adnell Carpenter, Lois Rolfs, Marcelline Johnson, Betty Noller, Bertha Linda Hubbard, Alberta Ebbert.

Kathy Russell was in charge of the banquet. The menu consisted of frozen fruit cocktail, swiss steak, twice-baked potatoes, carrots ambrosia, parkerhouse rolls, butter, lettuce wedge, thousand island dressing, creme vanilla and coconut macaroons, and coffee.

Those present from the Spectator Staff, with their guests, were: Miss Sarah May Vancil, Wendell Lentz, Marilyn Spohn, Gary Williams, Shirley Long, Irene Shull, Lois Stinette, Margaret Yost, Vinya Lillie, Dean McKellip and Jeanne Crisp.

Those from the Quadrangle Staff that attended the banquet were: Gerald Ulrich, Mary Jo Snyder, Gary Jones, Anita McSpadden, Kenneth Brown, Eloise Postier, Esther Ikenberry, Paul Coffman, La Faughn Hubbard, Virginia Bowler, Ruth Grossnickle, Karl Baldwin, Pauline Forsyth, Jean Walker, Wayne Jones, Ruth Strickler, Gordon Fishburn, Joan McRoberts, Donna Schrock and Don Moeller.

November Display For Conference Guests

The Art Department of Maccollege has arranged for a November showing of 33 drawings by Edwin H. Denby, architect, illustrating architectural gems of Europe and the Near East in sepia tones and water color reproductions.

Mr. Denby graduated from Ecole des Beaux Arts, Paris, and has exhibited his works in Europe and America with numerous awards and honorable mentions.

The exhibit was secured through the courtesy of the Studio Guild, Redding, Conn.

Seniors Win First Prize For Decoration

The seniors of Maccollege received a first prize of $25 for their decorations during homecoming. This class decorated the entrance of Maccollege with several frightening braves and some ferocious bulldogs. The sign suspended between the gates read "Eat Up."

The second prize of $15 went to Arnold Hall. The girls erected a tepee and painted it saw dust inside to get a good smoke started. Above the tepee a sign read, "Heap Big Smoke. But No Fire."

The use of dry ice was the original plan to obtain the smoke, but the girls found the dry ice scarce. Then, however, they erected one end of the door entrance in Arnold Hall. "Smoke Em Out" was another of the signs in front of the building. The parlor of Arnold was adorned with bloody scalps.

The juniors received $5 for the third ranking decoration. This class made an Ottawa grave yard south of the Maccollege drive. The inscriptions on the markers told of each man's fate. A large sign read, "These brave men went to the dogs."

"Let's Keep The Ottawa Braves in This Town," read the sign in front of the tepee, built by the sophomore class. Beside the big tepee was a doghouse overlooking the mangled Braves.

In front of the gym the WAA built a grave over which a large Bulldog kept watch. The marker read "Here Lie the Ottawa Braves."

The freshmen built a radio tower and station, which was proclaiming a victory for the Bulldogs. This decoration was located between the library and Fahnestock Hall. A giant ghost floated in front of Fahnestock Hall, saying, "O. U. Hasn't a Ghost of a Chance."

The large "Welcome" sign adorns the front of Kline Hall. The girls reported a lot of work on this project. Over 4200 napkins were used in making the sign. Hanging from a rope were mangled Braves as a result of a Bulldog protecting an entrance.

In front of Fahnestock Hall the MAC made several contributions to the decorating of the campus. Nearest the building a large Bulldog was plowing under a Brave. Another decoration consisted of a spreader filled with signs and other things too numerous to mention. The top windows of Harnly Hall were painted to read "Welcome Alumnus." Harnly and Sharp Hall were decorated in crepe paper.

The devotions will be given by the Rev. Earl M. Frantz and Rev. Harry Zeller will offer the prayer.

Students Get No Rest As Opera Dates Approach

The Maccollege musicians are eating, living, and sleeping opera. Opera practice is becoming more intensive as dates of production approach.

Smetana's rustic opera "The Bartered Bride," will be presented Tuesday, Nov. 17, and Friday, Nov. 20, at 7:30 p. m. in the McPherson Community Building.

The forty members of the opera chorus directed by Prof. Donald Frederick are practicing in earnest for the production.

Definitely hard at work on their part in the opera are those persons playing leads: Norman Long, Carol Brooks, Joe Kennedy, Don Thrall, Ruth Peckover, Margaret Balle, Leon Neher, and Evelyn Williams.

Another group that is putting in a good portion of time practicing is the opera orchestra under the direction of Prof. Paul V. Sollenberger.

The orchestra is a 27-piece symphonette.

The M Club escort met the girls at the cars after they had come through the Pep Club lane and traveled around the field.

Alice Hanagarne, sophomore, was Paul Heidebrecht, senior. Tommy O'Dell, senior, escorted Shirley McDaniel to the royal throne.

The honor of escorting Queen Anneleise was given to Carl Metzker, senior.

The pregame ceremonies were announced by Joe Kennedy.

President D. W. Bittinger presented Anneleise with the royal scepter with the congratulations of the faculty, the student body, and the rest of the college family.

Anneleise wore a red suit with black accessories.

The two attendants wore blue knit dresses with white mums, presented by the M Club.

The queen and attendants watched the game from the royal throne on the fifty-yard line.

Dedication Nov. 18 For Dotzour Hall

The program for the dedication of Dotzour Hall will take place at the Church of the Brethren on Wednesday, Nov. 18, at 2:45 p.m.

During the program Paul Sargent, chairman of the Executive Committee of Trustees, will introduce Royer and Edna Dotzour; and the Dotzours will make the presentation. Dr. W. H. Yoder, president of Board of Trustees will give the acceptance for the college.

The A Cappella Club will sing. An instrumental musical presentation will be given by Faye Ellen, Carol, and Nancy Trostle. A vocal solo by Arthur Price and a number by the Combined Ladies' Ensemble will be other musical numbers on the program.

The devotions will be given by the Rev. Earl M. Frantz and Rev. Harry Zeller will offer the prayer.

The following people are in the opera symphonette: flute, Carol Trostle; clarinet, Lois Kessler; carol of Hintz, Rita Royer; Ruth Davidson; horn, Doris Coppel; trumpet, Curtis Leicht, Sara Courtney; trombones, Donald Goodfellow; Jane Grove, Bob Price; bassoon, Robert Price; percussion, Donald Faules, Gordon Fishburn.

Violins, Prof. Sollenberger, Mary L. Hutcherson, Ronald Klemmison, Carol Watkins, Walter Blough, Charles Vance, Donna Burkholder, Linda Larsen, Max Royer, Richard Trowbridge.

Viola, Shirley Hamilton; cello, Betty Holderead, Sonja Mark; bass, Robert Vance.

This is the second year that the opera production has used an orchestra.

Mrs. Una Yoder has announced the following production assignments: scenery—Dale DeLauer, Bob Vance, Don Ullom, Ted Vance, and Glenn Bellah; lighting—Ted Vance; sound—Manly Draper and Max McAuley; properties—Nancy Andrews.

Make-up—Martha Switzer, chairman, Maxine Hanley, La Faughn Hubbard, Alberta Ebbert, Velva Wagner, and Irene Shull; concessions—Norma Goering.

The members of these committees that are not already hard at work in producing the opera will be in the near future.

Faculty Discusses Sick-Leave Policy

One of the main issues discussed at the faculty meeting yesterday morning was a sick-leave policy. In previous years no set rules have governed the absence of the faculty due to sickness.

A plan was drawn up and will be presented to the Board of Trustees for approval.

What A Combination

During the days prior to Homecoming, the students are bubbling with schemes as they dash madly about engaged in energetic activity. The artists and the carpenters produce the handiwork of their talents at a feverish pace. The rest bring forth the fruits of their untalented labor at an equal rate.

Also bubbling up this week is that atrocious invention of the demented professor, the "nine-week test." In this instance formulas, definitions, principles, and ideas, all of which should constitute an answer somewhere, bubble in and out of the frustrated student's feeble brain. All for the cause of education!

Homecoming! The time when the campus, the students, the faculty, the entire college is at its best. The students may be exhausted by the mental torture of trying to remember the names that go with the familiar faces of the alumni. The faculty may be exasperated at the upsetting of the campus equilibrium, the Kansas winds may blow, but the best of the elaborate decorations stand in spite of all!

Tests! That period when students are as studious as they know how, the faculty is as superior as ever, and the college has that subdued atmosphere, with the pouring of the proverbial midnight oil.

Take a large portion of Homecoming, mix well with the premonition of nine-week tests, and you have MacColl, 1953. What a combination!

So You Think You've Got It Bad

Everyday as I walk around on my way to classes, or to some school activity, I hear a lot of complaining about numerous things. Many of these things seem to be very important to the student at the moment. I find myself often adding my little complaints to the ones of other students.

The other day I was a part of a group that visited an institution set up for the correction of speech defects. Many of these defects were associated with physical difficulties such as cerebral palsy, and such things.

I saw that day, children who had to wear helmets on their heads to keep from injuring themselves as they could not control their head movements. I saw the cute little boy in the striped sweater ready for a piece of paper, and miss it. The little girl on her way to the restroom go down the hall arms dangling and legs unsteady, carrying her forward almost as if drunk. I was almost speechless as I saw these things. Then I began to wonder about the things that I had been complaining about. That time I worried about not having enough money for that date. That little boy will never have the chance to earn money. I ballyhooed over not having as new a car as my buddy. These children will never be able to even drive one. I griped over my tough assignments. That little girl will never know the privilege of learning in a normal institution.

Most of all, I worried that life such as mine is not the toughest life in the world. I saw others who have far less opportunities than I have and I did not even hear a word of complaint. They seemed happy just for the opportunity of life.

Money for date? I should thank God that I am socially acceptable enough to even have a date. Nice car? Thank God that I even have one, and can go and come without the aid of a nurse. Tough assignments? Thank God that I have the ability to learn, and that I can read and go to classes without having someone push me in a wheelchair, or hobble along on two canes.

Perhaps all of us complain over things that are not really the most important things in life. No one is in a situation so bad that there is not someone who is in a situation that is worse.

If you look at these less fortunate, you will find the situation you complained about one that you perhaps should thank God for the privilege of being in. You think you've got it bad? You've got it better than you think!

Mac Students Operate From Europe To Alaska For Summer Work

The traveling instincts of MacColl students seem to have been brought out this summer, as many of them were abroad to work or to study. Their sphere of operations included Alaska, Europe, and Puerto Rico, as well as the United States.

Loren Frantz decided to go the limit to get his summer job, so he and three other students from nearby colleges drove a pickup truck 4300 miles to Anchorage, Alaska. They arrived after five days and five nights of continuous driving.

He gained employment as a carpenter, although jobs were hard to find because of the huge influx of people emigrating there. There isn't enough industry to meet the employment situation.

Leon Albert and Kenny Brown traveled to Europe and saw sights in Great Britain, Scotland, Belgium, France, Holland, Germany, Switzerland, Austria, Italy, Yugoslavia, Greece, Denmark, and Sweden.

Leon attended a Work Camp held by the World Council of Churches in Greece, where he worked for the week. Ken went to the British International Peace Seminar at Brinlford, Germany, which also lasted five weeks. Twenty countries were represented at this conference. A girl from behind the "Iron Curtain" smuggled herself across the line to attend the meeting.

The Brethren Summer Service Project held at Castner, Puerto Rico, was attended by Velva Wagner, Colleen Martin, and Shirley Hamilton. The project consisted of repairing an old building for the local residents of the Cerroto community.

LaFaughn Hubbard worked in BVS at Fresno, California, on a Brethren Service Project. Faye Elain Troutte worked in the Baltimore Negro slums, and Esther Gaylor and Ruth Stichler were members of the Abundant Life Youth Corps. Esther Ikenberry worked in the Mental hospital in Elgin Illinois.

Nearly forty MacColl students worked in pea canneries at Pendleton and Milton-Freewater, Oregon, this summer. This is the third year that MacColl students have worked at the two canneries under the management of Ed Martin.

Bulldog Barks

The first nine weeks are gone and everyone is probably starting the next nine with all kinds of resolutions on how much they are going to study.

I couldn't begin to list everyone who was here for homecoming, but here are a few that many of you might know:

Ginger and Ann Reynolds, Miekie and Duane Jamison, Naomi and Freddie Gaynor, Vernon and Rowena Nicholson, and Esther Mohler, Al and Angie Fishburn, Wesley Ikenberry, Bob Kerr, Mildred Beck, Anita Rogers, Howard Mehlhager, Keith Rich, and Winona, and Margaret Goering, Betty Baker, Linda Witten, Dean Cottrell, Margaret Daggett, Mary Ellen Yoder, Nedra and Gifford Ikenberry, Winifred Reed, Betty Jo Baker, Bob and Rowena Wilson and Miss Jerry McConkey.

Stan and Morris McClung came all the way from Sacramento, California. Their sister Martha McClung was also here.

With a setting of stars and can-delight the Queen's Banquet was a wonderful success. The Queen was crowned by the retiring queen, Rowena Wilson. The delicious dinner was followed by a tribute to each girl in the royal party. Connie Brooks sang a solo for the Indian.

Esther Doyle gave "A Kiss for Cinderella" for the American — and the women's quartet sang two songs in German for the German.

Congratulations seniors. You've done it again. Last year it was "Expecting a Victory" and this year "Eat 'Em Up." Another clever idea was the junior's graveyard for the eleven Ottawa players.

White coffee and doughnuts were being served to the alumni after the game the students were in the gym, getting clean and doughnuts. Not only were there a lot of Mac students there, but Ottawa and turned out. Music was played in the background and the cider was served from punch bowls.

Don Bowman of Dayton, Ohio, the Brethren Representative to the Youth Conference in India last year was on our campus last week and the first of this week. He spoke at SCA, CBYF, and showed pictures at the Peace Cell.

Dr. Bittinger and Prof. Dell will both be in Chicago next week. Dr. Bittinger is planning on attending the installation of Dr. Paul Robinson, the new President of Bethany Seminary.

Dr. Bechtel's Educational Sociology class went to Wichita Tuesday, while those they visited the School of Logopedics.

The Super-Qquad Formal Banquet was held last Monday night. The dinner was prepared by the Quality Cookery class. Kathy Russell was in charge.

The one act play "Five Minutes To the Station" is going to do some traveling during the next two weeks. They plan on giving the play at ten high schools in surrounding towns. The play is directed by Phyllis Kingery. The cast consists of Jean Slabaugh, Marilyn Draper and Max Parmenter.

The "M" Club had a luncheon for all "M" club members past and present at the Warren Hotel last Saturday night.

Dorothy Lucore is sporting a beautiful engagement ring which she received from Keith Kipp Thursday night, October 29.

Student Ministers Have Weiner Roast In Park

The MacCollage Student Ministers and their wives and friends had a wiener roast in the park Tuesday night, Oct. 27.

Later in the evening the group retreated to the warm basement of Dr. Bittinger's home for a period of worship and devotion led by the Rev. Robert Mays of the Alumni Office. The Student Ministers' Quartet gave a number at the close of the devotional period, and Olen Bellah closed the meeting with the benediction.

Richard Trowbridge went home last weekend to spend a few days with his family.

Eva Peterman left for Kansas University yesterday. She is planning on staying there for two weeks. Eva is an exchange student from Germany. She is going to KU so that she may visit a larger school.

Esther Doyle was on our campus last week. She gave many readings while she was here. She was enjoyed by everyone who heard her.

Happy Birthday To You

This week there are only five students who will be celebrating for their birthdays, we wish to extend to them our heartiest congratulations, and wish them many happy returns for their birthdays.

Congratulations to Dan Becker and Clifford Reeve, who will be celebrating on Monday, Nov. 9.

Congratulations to Max Parmenter, Shirley McDonald, and Carol Trout, who will be having their birthday on Tuesday, Nov. 10.

Happy birthday to you, and many happy returns!

Lucore, Kipp Are Engaged

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lucore of Arriba, Colo., announce the engagement of their daughter, Dorothy to Keith Kipp, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Kipp of Huxton, Colorado.

300 Attend Student Reception During Homecoming

Over 300 students attended the student reception held in the gym after the game the students were in the gym, getting clean and doughnuts. Not only were there a lot of Mac students there, but Ottawa and turned out. Music was played in the background and the cider was served from punch bowls.

Civil Service Girl Enrolls In College

A new student, Glorian Johnson, has enrolled as a freshman and is taking an elementary course.

During the summer Glorian worked for the government in Washington D.C. She is on temporary leave of absence and plans to go back next summer.

She was a Civil Service employee of the Navy Department. She was employed as Head Information with the Office of Congressional Liaison Bureau of Naval Personnel.

Glorian acquired this job by taking a Civil Service exam through the McPherson High School. She stayed in Washington with five other girls from Kan., who were also employed by the government.

While in Washington she had the opportunity to meet President Eisenhower, also the senators and some of the representatives. She attended Senator Taft's funeral and also Senator McCarthy's wed-

Bowman Relates World Travels To Mac Students

Don Bowman, Brethren youth representative to a world conference, arrived over Macampus Thursday, Oct. 29.

He spoke to the SCA group that evening on the educational system in India. One interesting fact was that it cost only $500 for one year of college work. Girls are not permitted to receive advanced education, even in the missionary school, because of a government ruling.

At CBYF Don talked to the group on the problems that were presented at the Travencore Youth Conference held in India in December, 1952.

Don spoke to the Peace Group on Sunday evening. He presented his slides of his conference friends and many historical points of interest that he saw on his journey around the world.

At chapel on Tuesday Don came out dressed in the winter clothes of a typical Indian young man at the conference.

He presented a chapel program illustrated by slides on many phases of his trip. Most impressive of the slides were the ones which showed the vast destruction of World War II and the Korean War and the conditions that have been brought about by them.

One Foot In Heaven Is Movie For Sat.

The film "One Foot in Heaven" will be shown in the chapel tomorrow, November 7th at 7:30 p.m.

The film is based on the book written by Hartzell Spence. The life of a small town preacher, Rev. William Spence, and his wife is at times very hilarious and yet very heart warming. They learned just what it meant to be "poor as church mice" on a salary of $385 a year! Rev. Spence was the Methodist minister in Lakewood, Iowa, when this biographical sketch was written.

Canines Tame Braves In 47-7 Win

Bulldogs Beat Ottawa In Homecoming Game

A big crowd of alumni, friends, and fans were on hand at the local gridiron last Saturday night, Oct. 31, to see the McPherson College Bulldogs under Coach "Sid" Smith in display tremendous power in both offense and defense in rolling over the fired-up Ottawa University Braves 47-7, in a Kansas Conference football game that was also Homecoming game for the Bulldogs.

Saturday night's game was the twenty-first time the two teams have clashed on the gridiron. The Braves from Ottawa have clubbed the Bulldogs 12 times, and the Bulldogs have scalped the Braves 9 times, including the thriller at Ottawa last year, over which loss, the Braves have not yet fully recuperated.

In displaying their tremendous power, Coach Smith's Bulldogs romped away and tore into the Braves' defenses to score in every period of the ball game. The Canines led 13-0 at the end of the first quarter, they were ahead 27-0 at the end of the half. The margin increased to 32-0 at the end of the third period, and at the end of the game, Braves' scalps lay all over the field as the Bulldogs walked away with a 47-7 triumph. The Braves' lone touchdown came with only 8 seconds left in the game.

Once again, Eddie Ball led the Bulldogs to victory by making three touchdowns. Dwight McSpadden scored a TD and got three extra points. Gene Smith, Dwight Nulph, Ronnie Sams each scored a touchdown, and Larry Gilchrist made one extra point to bring the Bulldogs' score to 47. Dave Ryan of Ottawa made all 7 points for his team.

The Bulldogs won the toss and decided to receive. Ottawa booted and 14 plays later, Eddie Ball carried the mail from the two yard line to tally for the Canines' first TD. McSpadden's attempt at extra point failed.

The Bulldogs kicked off - off, and the Braves took over on their own 20. They met with a strong Bulldog defense, and were forced to punt to the Bulldogs' 44. A pass from Hoch quarterback to Eddie Frantz at end took the Canines to the Ottawa 34, but the Bulldogs yielded on downs, and the Braves took possession of the pigskin.

With only 8 seconds gone in the second quarter, the Bulldogs romped again, and Eddie Ball scored for the Bulldogs. McSpadden's extra point kick was good.

Gene Smith intercepted an Ottawa pass on the second play after the Bulldogs had kicked off, but again the Braves put up a rugged wall, and the Bulldogs were forced to yield on downs. The Braves started a march downfield only to be thwarted again by Gene Smith who recovered an Ottawa fumble that set the stage for another Bulldog TD. Quarterback Wayne Bickens staff, who led most of the offense connected with a pass to McSpadden for the TD that put the Canines 19 points ahead of the Braves. Again McSpadden's kick for extra point was good.

Several plays later, Bob Wise intercepted a pass and returned it to the Braves' 29. After three attempts, Smith went over from the 8 to score for the Bulldogs. Sams attempted the extra point kick, but it was no good, and the half ended with the Bulldogs leading 26-0.

Coach Sid Smith used his second string to open play in the second half. Larry Gilchrist intercepted a pass that paved the way for a TD

Touchdowns: Eddie Ball, 3. Dwight McSpadden, Gene Smith, Dwight Nulph, Ronnie Sams, 1 each. Extra - points: Dwight McSpadden, 3, Larry Gilchrist 1.

Ottawa Queen Is From Cuba

The 1953 Queen of the Ottawa University Campus is Rosita Remon, a native of Manzanilla, Cuba. The contest is held annually, with the necessary qualifications of beauty, personality, and likeability.

When Rosita graduates from Ottawa, she plans to return to Cuba and to go into Christian Service work there. She is a Religion-Philosophy major, and a member of the Phi Kappa Chi. This year she is the secretary of junior class and the athletic chairman of her social club.

Rosita is the first Homecoming Queen ever to be chosen from a foreign country by Ottawa University.

Oklahoma again proved her superiority over the rest of the Big Seven last week as she trounced start Kansas State by the score of 34-0, to put her in the undisputed conference lead.

Notre Dame again won handily to give them first in the AP and UP poll by a wide margin. The only team that is seriously challenging them is Maryland, the powerhouse of the east.

And now the stabs in the dark this week:

Intramurals Race Continues As Season Approaches Close

The Intramural volleyball season has gone over the half way mark, and before too long it will be basketball season.

Last week not many games were played because of the different activities here on the campus that drew priority over volleyball. Students were busy preparing for the homecoming, and others took time out to listen to Miss Esther Doyle's Oral Interpretations to many literature pieces. It was a week well spent, even though the volleyball season fell behind.

Two teams still remain undefeated. Wayne Bickens staff in the National League has now a record of 8 wins against no loss. The Swinger-Hayes team has come up a lot since last week and has won three more games to lead the American League with 6 victories against no defeats.

League standings as of Monday, Nov. 2, are as follows:

Bulldogs Tangle With Bethany Swedes Tonight

The McPherson College Bulldogs will travel to Lindsborg tonight. There the Bulldogs will meet the Bethany College Swedes in a Kansas Conference football game. Game time at the Bethany College Athletic Field is 8 p. m.

The Swedes were upset last week by Friends University at Wichita. Undoubtedly, however, the Bethany team will do everything in their power to hand a defeat to Sid Smith's fighting Bulldogs.

Bethany College has won four let during his college days at Kansas and lost two Kansas Conference games this season. Their victories have been won by sizeable margins and their losses have been close games.

The Swedes have in their possession a very potent passing attack plus numerous good running plays. The Swede defense has also been great this season.

The "Blue and Gold" from Lindsborg are coached by Ray Hahn, a familiar figure in Kansas Conference coaching circles. Mr. Hahn is head coach and director of athletics at Bethany College. Now in his 29th year of coaching, Ray Hahn has coached numerous all-Conference selections and won several Kansas Conference championships.

Hahn also was an excellent athlete.

Bob Bean — Senior. Yes. K State has a better team this year in comparison with Wildcat teams of the past few seasons. And also I am a K State fan.

Don Colberg — Freshman. Yes. The one-platoon system has helped the Wildcats a lot and K State has a fine determined spirit.

Don Hoch — Senior. Yes. I think the Wildcats will win by at least two touchdowns because K State boys have superior speed and better deception in their backfield.
