Nine Head Honor Roll With Perfect Average

Faculty Will Attend Conference At Bethel

Approximately 32 faculty members will be attending the Five Faculty Conference at Bethel College tomorrow. Participating in the conference will be the five colleges in this vicinity which are located on highway 81.

The program includes a joint morning session followed by a luncheon and a tour of the Kauffman Museum.

In the afternoon the assembly will break up into small group meetings according to departments. Pertinent problems relating to each individual department will be discussed.

The day will end with a social hour in the Student Union Building.

Thirty college students made the honor roll for the first semester. Nine of the thirty made a grade point average of 3.0. They were Dick Bittinger, Thelma Clouse, Bob Dell, Carl Harris, Glenna Hawbaker, Richard Herder, Marlo Oltman, Harold Pfalzgraf, and Willard Stucky.

Others on the honor roll were Robert Schrock, 2.89; Pat Albright, 2.87; Janice Bower, 2.86;

English Test Set For Feb. 13

The English Proficiency Test is to be offered to juniors and seniors who have not taken the test, and to those who have not passed the test.

Feb. 13 is the date for the test, at 7:45 a.m., in the chemistry lecture room, first floor in Harnly Hall.

The test is a requirement for graduation. It consists of the writing of a prose composition on a subject selected from a list of topics, at the time of the test, which have been approved by the English Department.

The test will be graded on the basis of form and content. At least two professors will grade the paper. Tests are coded so that the professors will not know whose paper it is they are grading.

Ratings of S for satisfactory, Q for questionable, and U for unsatisfactory will be given. A paper having two unsatisfactory marks will be considered for further testing.

Students will then have conferences with one of the professors in order to correct mistakes.

Fred Koons, 2.83; James Freed, 2.81; Dwight Oltman, 2.8; Glenda Wine 2.8; Florence Peel, 2.77; Norris Harms, 2.67; Ann Harms, 2.62; June Dirks, 2.6; Mary Ann Guthals, 2.6; Vera Mohler, 2.6.

Honor roll members must have a 2.50 average or higher, and those receiving honorable mention must have from 2.25 to 2.50. A student must carry 12 hours to be eligible for the honor lists.

This system places emphasis on quality of work instead of excess number of hours. Averages are determined by dividing the total number of grade points by the number of hours from which they are earned.

Football Coaches Have New Conversion Rule

Football coaches have a new strategy problem to cope with today: Is it better to try for a one point conversion after a touchdown, or gamble for a two pointer?

If the conversion is made by kicking, it is worth one point. However, if it is made by a running or pass play it then is counted as two points.

The national committee dealing with rules for high schools decided not to change the scoring rule.

The change was designed to reduce the number of ties and boost fan appeal.

With two minutes left in the game, Dennis Brunner suffered a Charley horse in each leg and had to leave the game. However, he was not seriously injured.

Scoring was very evenly distributed. All the starting team scored in double columns. High

Baker Bows To Mac Quintet

The McPherson College Bulldogs beat the Baker University Wildcats 69-62 in the high school gym Feb. 5 in what proved to be a fight to the finish.

The Bulldogs shot ahead 4-0 early in the first half. The Bulldog-lead ranged from one to ten points. The half ended 32-29 in favor of the Bulldogs.

Not more than ten points separated the teams at any one time in the game.

This exciting game saw the Bulldogs lose the lead only twice. With three minutes of the second half gone, Baker went ahead by one point. McPherson came back and went ahead on a field goal by Whirley.

The only other time McPherson lost the lead was one minute later when Baker again went ahead by one point. McPherson then surged ahead to stay.

However with 1:20 left Baker came within two points of the Bulldogs and had several excellent chances to tie the score, but they muffed them.

Bernard Whirley was high for the Bulldogs with 24 points, Ed Delk scored 15. Jerry McPherson scored 10. Ed Sink and Dennis Brunner got seven each. Robert Nelson got six; Don Widrig did not score.

McPherson lost the B game 75-62. The B's were behind 39-26 at the half. A rally early in the second half brought Mac within three points of Baker, but they did not have the strength to go ahead.

Home Ec Majors Plan Meals In Cookery Class

Students have all sorts of projects to do for classes but few have any as tasty as the quantity cookery class. Each member of the class plans and supervises a meal for a group of 50-150.

This year the six members of the class are all junior and senior home economics majors. They are Vernona Thralls, Kathy Burkholder, Donna Beach, Sara Ann Coffman, Anne Keim, and June Widrig. Miss Mildred Seik teaches the class.

For the meal she is managing, each girl plans the menu, the grocery list, the preparation, and the serving. She buys the groceries and assigns the other members of the class their duties.

Sara Ann will manage the Smorgasbord sponsored by the home ec department on Feb. 17.

The next meal will be the trustee-faculty dinner on March 3, with Donna supervising. They will serve about 140 people and all the home ec students will assist.

On April 14, Anne will supervise the meal for the bloodmobile.

The Home Economics Club is sponsoring the Mother-Daughter banquet of the Church of the Brethren on April 30. Vernona will manage the meal and will be assisted by the whole club.

Kathy will have charge of a tea room meal in the home ec department on May 12. The meal will be served similarly to the Smorgasbord.

This course is to enable the girls to prepare larger than family size meals for special occasions.

In addition to the preparing of meals, there are lectures on the theories and principles of feeding large groups.

Siek Applies Home Ec Ability

Miss Mildred Siek, professor of Home Economics at Macollege, has put her home making ability to practical use by completely redecorating her home with the exception of one bedroom.

In her study-sewing room she has an original combination study-sewing unit which she spent three years in designing. This blond mahogany finished unit extends from the floor to the ceiling.

There is a combination desk and table which can be extended five feet to be used in cutting material and sewing. When used as a desk the extra length rolls back into the cabinet.

Underneath the table is storage space for pressing equipment. Above the table are removable divided drawers for spools, pins, tape measures, and other sewing equipment. A special removable box holds patterns. Pigeon holes keep letters, bills, etc., in orderly arrangement.

To the right of the roll away table are drawers for the storage of fabrics and above these are adjustable shelves for the storage of magazines and books. Shelves for books, plants, and what-nots extend across the top of the entire unit to the ceiling.

In her color scheme Miss Siek used different values of aqua with pink as the accent color for the study room and the combination living-dining room. The walls are light aqua with the carpet darker aqua.

The ceiling is white in both rooms. The glass curtains in the living-dining area are white dacron. The drapes which she made herself are aqua.

The curtains in the study are a textured rayon in light rose color which harmonizes with a platform rocker in a deeper rose upholstery. In her living and dining room is solid walnut furniture by Abbernathy and a greyed rose divan and chair.

Copen blue linoleum cover the floor and counter of a pink kitchen with a lighter pink woodwork. Rebelling against the traditional blue bathroom of her family, Miss Siek has chosen a light lavender wall with white frost plastic tile in her bathroom. The yellow accent found in the bath mat and rick-rack bordering white organ-dy curtains adds a delightful interest.

Award Program To Include Macollege Chemistry Student

Dr. Wesley DeCoursey of the chemistry department has announced that McPherson College is included in the Chemistry Achievement Award Program sponsored by the Chemical Rubber Company of Cleveland, Ohio.

Under the program, a deluxe copy of the latest edition "Handbook of Chemistry and Physics" is offered to the student who shows the most outstanding progress in inorganic chemistry.

This student is selected by the professor. The prize Handbook, professors have found, has created great competitive spirit among the students.

Only students who have won this award are eligible to participate in the Special $100 Achievement Award Program.

The Chemistry Achievement Award Program was established in 1947 to create additional student interest in scientific endeavor.

It has been an annual award ever since that time. The program has gradually grown in scope. Last year more than 1200 schools participated in this Chemistry Achievement Award Program.

The Special $100 Chemistry Achievement Award Program was inaugurated in 1955, in order to stimulate further student interest in the essential branches of science.

Since trained technicians are so vital to our country the Chemical Rubber Company feels that this is one way in which it can help.

This program originated in three test states, and has now been extended on a regional basis to cover the entire United States.

Winners of this regular program are invited to participate in a test, compiled by a panel of professors currently teaching chemistry, and administered by the professor teaching the winning student at the school.

Winners of the test in each region are presented with a "Certificate of Merit" and $100 worth of scientific books which are given to the library of the college in the student winner's name.

The chemistry department is permitted to select the $100 worth of scientific books, needed for the college library.

Students Prepare Lab

The last laboratory session of the general chemistry class was spent in preparing the laboratory for the next semester's work.

Each student was assigned a locker. It was then the student's responsibility to clean out each locker and supply it with the proper equipment.

After completion of this task the lab assistants repainted the desk tops with one of the best acid and base resistant paints available.

The laboratory is at the present time in the best condition that it has been in for several years. The students who work there certainly appreciate the work that has been done.

Pondering With The President . . . John Talks About Sputnik

By Dr. D. W. BITTINGER

"Hi, John. Carrying your head any higher now?"

"No, Joe. (Carrying it the same level. I notice your chin is, up though. What for?)"

"Haven't you read the papers, Joe, or listened to the radio? We finally got our sputnik up! I suppose we shouldn't call it sputnik though, because that's a Russian name. We'll probably call ours orbitor or something else. Aren't you proud of that?"

John thought for a while and then said rather guardedly, "Yes, I'm proud of it. But I'm not proud of the way we advertise it. We have made it appear that getting a sputnik out into space was some sort of competition between Russia and ourselves.

"This, it seems to me, has made us appear to the rest of the world like some little school-boys each bragging about which one could throw a baseball the farthest.

"Actually this is not on that same plane at all. Getting an orbitor out into space is not the result of any one man's or one nation's thinking. It is the result of the experiments of thousands of men stretched over thousands of years.

Beginning

"It began when the first man learned that he could knock a coconut off a tree by throwing a rock.

"The Phoenicians and Arabs are more to be credited than anyone else. If you think about it, you will notice that even our getting our sputnik up was more a result of having brought to this country somebody from Germany who worked for us, just as Russia's getting a sputnik up was the result of their having brought someone into their country from Germany.

"This does not mean that the Germans are smarter than either Americans and Russians, but that the Germans had brought together this information and given more thought to it than other people."

"John," said Joe, "you mean then you aren't proud we got a sputnik up?"

Share Information

John continued, "Yes, I'm proud, but I wish all of the people in the world could bring together their information and all scientific things and share it, thus making the experiments for the good of all mankind.

"If these experiments are designed to understand and control the weather, then we ought to utilize what we learn for the benefit of all mankind.

"And we could save a lot of money. Think of the millions of dollars or perhaps even billions, in our own country spent in duplicating the equipment for sputnik launching for the Army and for the Navy.

"In our own country, take it a step further. Think of the tremendous cost of duplication of this equipment for all the countries that are now trying to do the same thing.

Starkweather Case

"So, Joe, I have not thought as much about sputniks as I have about a young fellow up in Nebraska by the name of Charles Starkweather."

"Why," said Joe, "he's not in the same category as sputniks. He's just a murderer, a temporary newspaper headline."

"No," said John. "He killed 11 people within a matter of a few days. One of them was a 3-year-old child. He said he did it because he had hate in his heart.

"As we build up these sputniks — our warheads, if they are to be in national competition — we build up hate. One nation can go berserk with hate or fear and then we commit international suicide.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

"SO I ASKED HIM WHY HE PUT ME ON THE THIRD TEAM, AN' HE SAID: BECAUSE WE DON'T HAVE A FOURTH."

"Charles Starkweather had simple weapons, but with hate he killed 11 people. We have suicidal implements. If we do not overcome hate, how many will we kill?"

An Interview With Docking

By Glenna Hawbaker

"Here's a piece of cake for you," said Governor George Docking in his Topeka office as he handed this reporter a piece of a birthday cake.

The occasion was a combination birthday party and press conference. John Casebeer, representative from McPherson, was one of the honored.

During the jovial informality of the small gathering, the Governor and the few legislators present discussed the day's procedure of the legislature and the probable significance of the moves taken.

Governor Docking took a few minutes to talk personally with the visitors. His secret for remaining cheerful even when dodging arrows was, "I have always lived on the spot. And I don't feel right unless I'm working under pressure."

In discussing some of the background of politics, he mentioned that the ethics of politics is much lower than that of general business.

Continuing with the analogy, the Governor stated, "Politics has not yet reached maturity. If you look into the history of business you discover that the ethics there was lower 50 or 60 years ago."

As the legislature went back to its voting, the press conference was adjourned until the next morning.

If you want to test your memory, try to recall what you were worrying about one year ago to-day.
