

Rascher Visits Mac for Concert

Sigurd Rascher will appear in a concert Saturday, March 2, with the McPherson College Concert Band at 8 p.m. in the McPherson High School Auditorium.

"Rascher is one of the most highly respected saxophone players in the world," stated Irvin Wagner, assistant professor in music and director of bands and orchestra.

Rascher is credited with many "firsts" in saxophone playing. One such "first" is bringing the saxophone to the concert stage as a legitimate solo instrument.

He has proved that the saxophone has an incomparable variety of tonal qualities, and has increased its range from two-and-one-half to four octaves.

Sigurd Rascher graduated from the State Academy of Music in Stuttgart, Germany. He is professor of saxophone at the Danish Royal Academy.

Rascher has been soloist with the Berlin Philharmonic, Royal Philharmonic of London, New York Philharmonic, Philadelphia, and other orchestras.

Sigurd Rascher will hold a saxophone clinic Saturday afternoon at 2 p.m. in Brown Auditorium. Groups from sixty high schools

Admission to the concert Saturday evening will be one dollar for adults and 50 cents for students. McPherson College students and club members must pay admission for this concert.

Good English Habits Hinder Progress of 'Papa Is All'

Although good English training is essential for speech and drama students, the actors of "Papa Is All" are finding their education a detriment in characterizing the Pennsylvania Dutch.

Now that the cast is rehearsing without scripts the director finds that "didn't he" creeps into the lines for "aint he don't." "A egg" becomes "an egg." "I'll throw you it out" changes to "I'll throw it out for you." "Think not?" becomes "don't you think?" and "a old man only" may be "only an old man."

On the other hand, the players find that offstage they often add such words as "already," "yet," or "still" to their daily conversation.

When nothing remains, the Pennsylvania Dutch say "all" instead of "all gone;" hence "Papa Is All" is the title of the play which the McPherson College Players will be giving March 8 and 9.

Sue Warrick and Peter Ford play the roles of Mama and Papa Aukamp who are of the Mennonite religion; the son and daughter, portrayed by John Harrison and Dell Ann Larsen, exercising the privilege that is part of the Mennonite faith, have not adopted it. They remain "worldly" until they feel the call to become "plain" or Mennonite.

In the name of religion Papa suppresses the simple pleasures of life. He is furious when the daughter falls in love with a surveyor; he refuses to let the son simplify farm life by the installation of machinery.

The play concerns what happens when Jake and Emma rebel against their tyrannical father.

Traveling Man Stump Labors To Provide Clean SU for Mac

Everyone certainly has heard the screeches and the hum coming from the Student Union late each evening. It is not a juke box, but the janitor, Galen Stump, moving tables to remove all footprints left by the day's traffic.

Galen Stump comes from the Texas Panhandle where he farmed until 1941. For three and one-half years he worked with the Military Secret Service, in building helium plants and heading the metal-working departments.

After that work he spent one month in Europe. He traveled across as a cattleman under the Heifer Project. Then he again went back to farming in Missouri.

Boeing Airplane Company in Wichita then hired him to work on their assembly line for 6½ years. "Footloose" is the way he identified the next few years which he spent here and there working on farms, once in the Brethren Service Center in California, and other general work.

MacCollege acquired this gregarious and traveling man one and a half years ago. He says he enjoys the work around here and also being around the students.

Dusting the mounted swordfish in the Student Union does not seem to be his hobby. But since he took last semester's courses in ceramics and sculpture, he enjoys working in this medium as a hobby. It also seems he has a yearning to go back to farming, especially to raise Christmas trees.

When asked why he isn't married, his answer was, "That's what I'd like to know."

If you think he leads a dull life, ask him about his one camping trip to Colorado when a mountain lion almost licked his face during the night.

Seniors Teach In Local, Area Schools

All but two of the eleven senior student teachers this semester are teaching in the local schools.

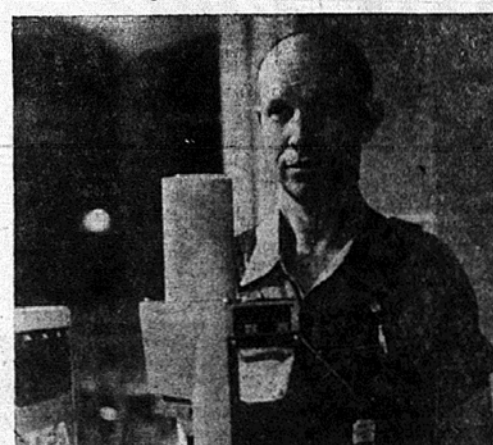

Student teachers in the elementary schools are Virginia Brandenberg, Burrton, teaching fourth and fifth grades at Buhler; Margaret Hess, Bareville, Pa., kindergarten and first grade at Washington School.

Vevaleen Lugisland, McPherson, first grade at Lincoln School; Pansy Puckett, Hutchinson, kindergarten in Hutchinson; and Linda Sebes, Hanston, first grade at Lincoln School.

Those teaching in secondary schools are Maurine Geisert, McPherson, English; Wayne Grossnickle, Laurens, Iowa, business; Glenn Lorei, Ramona, biology; Nelson Stump, McPherson, music; and Marshall Uncapher, Hutchinson, English.

Marvin Elliot teaches physical education in elementary and secondary schools.

Seven teachers are taking student teaching on the job. They are currently teaching and taking student teaching for credit.

THE PAUSE THAT REFRESHES—Galen Stump stops at the iced tea fountain for a drink before continuing his duties as custodian of the Student Union.

America Worries About Castro But Ignores Other Vital Issues

It's been about four months now since the world tottered on the edge of nuclear destruction, but the forces of frustration are again becoming vocal and demand another show of brinkmanship.

Basically, there are two reasons for this nation's preoccupation with Castro—a preoccupation that has caused James A. Wecheler to remark, "There have been moments in the last two years when one was tempted to wonder whether Castro is a larger threat to our national sanity than to our military security."

Many Americans consider it an affront to our national dignity that we even allow Castro to exist. They rally for a full-scale invasion or at least another blockade so that somehow America can prove her virility.

They call for a return of the good old days of San Juan Hill and press for a military victory to restore American prestige.

Actually the forced ouster of Castro would serve to raise American prestige only in our own eyes. The damage such a project would do to our image in Latin America and South America is incalculable.

Although the American ego has been wounded by Castro, a second factor has been the overestimation of Soviet strength.

One of the most amazing discoveries of this debate season has been the realization of the basic weakness of the Soviet Union. The internal condition of the USSR is such that she is not capable of sustaining a massive economic or military operation.

Time and time again, the teams which have tried to prove that the Soviet Union is a serious threat to free nations have been buried under the mountain of evidence to the contrary.

Indeed, because of major economic difficulties, the tide seems to be turned against the Soviets. In the past year they have been forced to cancel numerous trade and air programs in order to bolster their own sagging economy.

In short, it's rather unfortunate that so many congressmen on both sides of the aisle are more concerned about several thousand Soviet troops in Cuba than they are about the social and economic conditions that fostered this dilemma.

Maybe it would be a good idea, as some congressional leaders have already suggested, to let Mr. Castro burn himself out and concentrate instead on Latin and South America where an ounce of prevention will be much cheaper than a pound of cure. WMB

We Get Letters . . .

Reader Attacks Spectator Writers

Dear Editor,

Now that the great thinkers have shown us what's wrong with our college, why don't you and they tell us what to do about it? What are we going to do to stop this infringement on our civil rights?

You, Mr. Mohler, and Mr. MAL-adjusted, have criticized our administrative system, so why not offer some advice as to how these infringements can be overcome? Or have you all thought that far yet?

To begin with you, Mr. Editor, you stated that Dr. Flurac has "repeatedly preached the doctrine of puppet government . . ." Have you told students how to get out from under this dictatorship, or have you blasted away at administrative policy just for the fun of it?

You also stated that Dr. Flurac stands firmly on the status quo and refuses to rock the boat. You gave as your reason for this: "Apparently the great desire to keep the great ship Mac from being rocked by winds of typhoon progressives, stems from an inherent susceptibility to seasickness."

Now, WMB, have you checked back over the past years to see if "the great ship Mac" has been progressive in its standards? Let me illustrate just two cases in which Mac has been rocked by winds of progressives.

Dancing has only been allowed on campus for a few years, and even later than dancing on campus has been the permission for poor deluded students to tag their cancer sticks in the parking lot. What say you to that, Mr. Progressive?

Perhaps Mr. Mohler does not realize that while in college he is supposed to be under suppression (or maybe he does realize it). It's a well-known fact that you can disagree with the professors in class, but on the test you'd better quote the professor, or else!

I sometimes wonder if Mr. Mohler has ever thought of what he would do if given the chance to help decide the administrative policies of our fair campus. True, there is a weakness in a multi-party system, but could he do any better?

May I point out to Mr. MAL-adjusted that the staff on the Spectator is predominately Republican. This juicy fact was brought out in research done for the writing of this letter.

In stating that editorializing in the Spec is a poor place to begin, I'd like to ask Mr. MAL-adjusted where else would it begin? Isn't it the editor's privilege to print his viewpoint?

We cannot rely on the Birch sheet — er, I mean the Rally Master for the straight dope: for that matter, we cannot rely on the Young Democrats either.

I'm afraid that I'll have to argue that the pinball and juke box affair is a mixed-up deal.

Now I've had my say, Mr. Editor, and if all that you have said is true, I hope that someday the leaders of this institution may be so kind as to GIVE ME BACK MY CIVIL RIGHTS.

Editor's Reply

Dear Civil Rights,

Judging from the comments I have heard and overheard in the past few weeks, the readers of the Feb. 8 editorial can be divided into three groups: those who understood it, those who didn't understand it, and those who completely misunderstood it. It is for the benefit of the latter group that I offer this explanation.

Contrary to the opinions expressed by certain individuals, that editorial was NOT a calculated attempt to spike Dr. Flory. In fact, Dr. Flory and I have been very good friends ever since he gave me a gift subscription to Pravda last Christmas.

The editorial was primarily an attempt to build a bridge between international affairs and our own campus environment in a form which students would read.

It was hoped that in this way, students who had previously been unaware of General de Gaulle, of the NATO problems, and of regional economic blocs, might begin to take note of these significant developments. I think if you'll refer to the last paragraph of that editorial, Mr. Civil Rights, you'll find the key to its purpose.

Dr. Flory was picked for three major reasons. He is a Frenchman, most students have had him for a class, and he habitually bolts the editor. And while I'm on the subject, it should be significant to note that I was comparing de Gaulle to Flory, not Flory to de Gaulle — there is a difference.

This much said, I would hasten to point out that certain issues were raised which I feel need to be examined, and here, Mr. Civil Rights, is where your questions come in.

In the first place, I definitely feel that the students do not have a large enough role in shaping the policies of this institution. This is due, in part, to the administration, but it is also the consequence of an apathetic student body.

Whether recognized as such or not, we do have a puppet student government and one which is not

Debaters Unveil Adventures Of 'Absent Minded Prof'

By Margaret Dadisman
and Jeanette Weddle

A weekend away from McPherson College can prove both educational and humorous, especially if you are traveling with an Absent Minded Professor, henceforth known as AMP.

As February and March are the busiest months for the debate squad, two debaters found themselves headed for a tournament at William Jewell College, Liberty, Mo.

Taking the Kansas Turnpike from Emporia, AMP turned off at Lawrence to transact some business at the University of Kansas. Pulling up to the toll booth, AMP reached for his billfold—and reached again. His billfold was not there, but in McPherson, along with the expense money for the trip, his driver's license, and identification cards.

With the help of two "rich" college students who paid the toll, the group left the turnpike.

They spent several hours at KU while AMP completed his business there. It took some time for AMP to convince the authorities of the Student Union that he had been a student there and that his check would be good.

Event number two took place as the group approached Kansas City. AMP happened to glance at his gas gauge which registered "empty" and suddenly remembered that he had driven around McPherson, to Salina and back, and now to Kansas City on that same tank of gas.

They crossed a seemingly endless viaduct before coming to a gas station just in time to fill the tank.

Since events always happen in three's, AMP then proceeded to travel the wrong way on several one-way streets in Kansas City, all of the time without his driver's license.

Eventually, the debaters located a hotel and safely escorted AMP to his room, hoping that he would remain protected there from his own absentmindedness.

Nations Need Socialism Now, Not Competition

Dear Editor,

The editorial by Mr. Karney which appeared in the Feb. 8 Spectator left me very uneasy. Evidently Mr. Karney fails to understand the socio-economic structure of the underdeveloped nations.

It is knowledgeable that not all nations can cope with their domestic problems by mere application of American capitalist competition; many socialistic ideas have to be applied to meet with the dilemma of the masses.

Because of the prevailing illiteracy and technological retardation created by the firm roots of old tradition, the intelligent practice of capitalism is quite beyond reach. In former British Protectorates, such as Malaya and Ghana, socialism is a must.

The educational system, for instance, is government controlled; i. e., all schools are government-aided or state-owned and teachers are paid by the government.

To supply medical care to the teeming population, hospitals and health organizations, by and large, are also under the administration of the government. Thus, the poor, which constitutes a good two-thirds of the population, can be provided with education and medical aid.

"What the underdeveloped nations of the world need is not socialism" is untrue, and partially valid in some industrialized areas. This whole picture does not lie on such a simple ground as "large doses of competitive enterprise based on individual initiative and private property."

Frankly, fulfilling the request of these underdeveloped nations at the national level is insufficient; much cultural understanding at the level of the common people, and the conveyance of the 20th Century ideas still stand an acid test for Uncle Sam.

Yours,
International Observer.

College Heads Meet at Mac

Representatives from eleven colleges were present on Macollege campus last Saturday.

Colleges attending this meeting were four-year fully accredited colleges. Those colleges represented were Baker, Bethel, Bethany, Kansas Wesleyan, St. Marys, Southwestern, St. Benedict, Ottawa, Sterling, Friends, and McPherson.

Chairman of the meeting was Dr. W. J. Scarborough, president of Baker.

Speaker and consultant was Dr. Jack Kough, executive vice president of Science Research, Associates, Chicago. Dr. Kough is a graduate of McPherson College.

This meeting related to the areas of cooperation between the colleges. This is the fourth meeting of this kind.

Representatives from the colleges were the presidents, deans, and business managers. Those representing Macollege were Dr. Wayne Geisert, dean of college and professor of economics, Dr. Raymond Flory, dean of students and professor of history and political science, and R. Gordon Yoder, business manager.

truly representative of all Macollege students.

As the student council elections draw nearer I will have more to say concerning this situation and will offer some specific suggestions which might be used to alleviate the problem.

Secondly, I feel that student initiative is unfavorably received outside the realm of academic study. An attitude persists that students really haven't enough originality to offer constructive suggestions. If you would like specific examples, feel free to ask me.

As far as "progressiveness" is concerned, your connotation for the word seems to be a little different from mine. It appears that you label any change as "progressive"—a rather dangerous habit. Actually I have reservations about the "progressiveness" of both of your examples.

To me, progress denotes improvement, not merely change. My primary concern is for progress in the area of student government and student initiative, both of which could stand a constructive change.

I hope this clarifies my position and as for some specific suggestions, keep your eyes open—they'll be forthcoming. WMB

Bulldogs Clash Against Tabor

The final game of the basketball season for the Bulldogs pits them against the Tabor Bluejays of Hillsboro at McPherson, Monday, Feb. 25, at 8 p.m. This will be the third meeting of the year between these two teams.

McPherson is the only club that has been able to defeat the Bluejays twice this year, winning the previous two meetings. The scores of the first two games were Mac 65 Tabor 60 and Mac 80 Tabor 74.

Tabor is led by its high-scoring forward LeRoy Dick. He is currently averaging close to 25 points a game. Dick is also the top Tabor rebounder.

Dale Jost, Tabor center, and Jerry Fleming, the other Tabor forward, add scoring punch to the Bluejay attack. Steink and Simmons round out the starting five for Tabor.

Both of the previous meetings between Mac and Tabor were close games, with Mac winning the first in the second round of the Moundridge tournament.

In the second meeting at Hillsboro, McPherson won the game in overtime after trailing most of the way by large margins.

Dick was the top Tabor scorer in the first two games, getting 27 points in the first meeting, and getting 19 points in the second game.

Tegeler was high point man for Mac in the first game hitting 19 points. Marion Enke topped all scorers in the second meeting getting 31 points.

Women Defeat Central 47-30

Macollege women's basketball team moved to another convincing victory Feb. 14. Mac defeated Central College of McPherson 47-30 at Central.

The halftime score was close with Mac holding a narrow 16-12 advantage. Mac opened up in the second half, scoring 31 points to 18, points for Central.

Anne Kruse again topped the McPherson attack hitting 10 field goals and 5 free throws for 25 points.

Erritt hit 9 points and Andes 8 points for Mac.

High for Central was Wallis with 16 points.

Mac Graduate Enters Peace Corps Training

Roberta Varner has become the first Macollege graduate to enter Peace Corps training. Roberta, a '62 graduate, has begun her three-month training at the University of New Mexico, Albuquerque, N. M.

After successfully completing her training there, she will be assigned to a project in Brazil.

Robert majored in home economics at Macollege.

Faculty Members To Visit Salina For Conference

Seventeen Macollege faculty members will attend the Six-Faculty Conference to be held at Kansas Wesleyan University, Salina, tomorrow.

Although the conference is usually held once a year, the last one was two years ago at McPherson. Participating colleges include: Kansas Wesleyan, Bethany, Bethel, Friends, Sterling and McPherson.

Those attending will be devoting particular attention to matters of cooperation among schools.

The morning session will feature a panel discussion. Panel members will include representatives from the State Board of Regents, different campuses, one of the sponsoring denominations and from other groups. Wayne F. Geisert, dean of Macollege, will be a panel member.

In the afternoon session, faculty members will be organized into groups according to subject areas and will discuss common problems.

Elmore Moves To Fifth Place In District Rating

Deryl Elmore, Bulldog guard, has moved up one more notch in the individual scoring division according to the latest District 10 statistics.

Elmore, at the completion of 20 games, averaged 18.9 points per game and now ranks fifth among the individual scorers of the district.

In the individual field goal department, Art Hoch retains third place, hitting at a 54 per cent clip. LeRoy Weddle, a newcomer to the division holds down the number four spot, sinking over 52 per cent of his attempts.

Elmore, while moving up in individual scoring, took a dive in the free throw division. Formerly ranking third, he now is in the fifth slot at a shade over 80 per cent.

As a team, the Bulldogs retained second place in both free throws and field goals. The Mac eagles are currently hitting exactly 70 per cent from the charity line and 45 per cent from the field.

Offense Shines in 110-100 Mac Victory over Friends

McPherson evened its conference record at 8-8 in a high-scoring game at Wichita, defeating Friends 110-100 last Saturday.

The halftime score of this barn-burner read only 47-33 in favor of McPherson. Thus, in the second half, Friends scored 67 points and Mac 63 for the final totals of 100 and 110.

Larry Snyder scored exactly half of the Falcon's total hitting for 50 points. Snyder scored only 16 points in the first half and gave no indication of the second half performance to come.

Snyder hit 15 field goals and four free throws in the second half for a total of 34 points. His final totals read 21 field goals and eight free throws.

Deryl Elmore led McPherson with 39 points on 18 field goals and three free throws. Elmore's all around floor play led to many more points for Mac.

Marion Enke hit for 26 points on eight field goals and ten free throws, while John Tegeler had 24 points on nine field goals and six free throws.

The Bulldogs hit 52 per cent of their shots in building the first half margin.

In the second half, Mac hit 80 per cent of its shots until the

Three Will End Cage Careers

When Tabor College invades Mac on Monday, Feb. 25, three McPherson College seniors will play the final basketball game of their college careers for Mac.

The three players are Deryl Elmore, Art Hoch, and LeRoy Weddle.

Two of the players, Elmore and Hoch, are starters for Mac, while Weddle is the sixth man for the Bulldogs.

Art Hoch, from Dwight, is an elementary education major. Art plays a forward position for the Bulldogs and at times plays the center position.

Art has played basketball four years and football four years. He also throws the javelin in track, and he is a member of M-Club.

Art is the president of the local chapter of SNEA, is a member of Men's Council, and a member of the Student Council.

He was the vice-president of his sophomore class and president of his junior class.

LeRoy Weddle, from Bloom, is majoring in agriculture. LeRoy plays a guard for the Bulldogs and has added much strength to the team. He also plays a forward position.

LeRoy has played football four years, basketball four years, and was a member of last year's conference champion tennis team.

He is also president of M-Club.

Deryl Elmore, from Greeley, Colo., is majoring in rural life. Deryl plays a guard for the Bulldogs and has been the leading scorer on the team.

Deryl has been a leading scorer in the league for the past three years and as a sophomore he won the conference scoring title.

That same year he was named to the all-conference team. As a junior, Deryl was named to the second team in all-conference selections.

Deryl has played basketball four years, and has also participated in football and track. He is also a member of M-Club.

only to lose 88-78 in overtime.

McPherson won possibly one of the highest scoring games in the records, by defeating Friends 110-100 at Wichita. Snyder hit 50 of Friends 100 points, while Elmore had 39 points for Mac.

From The Locker Room

Two hundred and ten points, quite an offensive show for one game. Goes to show why the Bulldogs rank as one of the highest scoring teams in the conference.

In commenting on Snyder's getting 50 points for Friends, I don't mean to take anything away from him, but he could have thrown the ball underhanded and it would have gone in.

He and Elmore had quite a scoring duel going for a while. The only difference was that Deryl, besides scoring, was also playing team ball.

The game with Tabor is important in more than one respect. Not only does McPherson need a win to finish with a respectable record, but Tabor needs a victory to gain a play-off with the league winner.

As most of you know, the winner of the Kansas Conference and the winner of the CIC meet in a playoff for a berth in the NAIA Tournament at Kansas City.
