"Marvelous Ensemble Of Angels"

Singing Boys Perform Tonight

On a bright, cold Sunday morning in February, a crowd of chattering little Mexican boys in gray overcoats and fur-trimmed caps were milling about on the sidewalk in front of a New York hotel.

They had just returned from an early church service, and were playing with yo-yos in the sunshine before going in for breakfast. The night before, they had performed in New York's Carnegie Hall.

This was "that marvelous ensemble of angels", as some have called the Singing Boys of Mexico. They had given a concert ranging from Gabrieli, Bach, and Brahms, to modern Mexican folk songs.

"How do they do it? And how much of the great music they sing can they really understand?"

Dr. Berber, the inspiring young director chiefly responsible for the creation and development of the choir answered these questions.

"Children can do great things," he said, "if we show them how. When we began they tired after five minutes. Now that we've shown them how to use their voices they can sing four or five hours a day and feel better at the end than at the beginning.

Then much depends on the sensitivity and responsiveness of a boy. I tell them, "On stage you are no longer children. You are artists. After the concert you are children. Then I play ball with lege where she is working towards a Master's Degree in Voice.

Mr. Wellman was a professional singer for a number of years before he decided to become a farmer in order to provide a more stable home for his children.

He has appeared professionally in at least three major oratorios, worked with the San Francisco Opera Company and Operatic Quartet, and has appeared in the Broadway performances of The Red Mill, The Desert Song, and three others. The San Diego Sun wrote that Mr. Wellman has a "voice of beauty and appealing quality."

The Requiem Mass is the traditional mass performed at the funeral service in the Roman Church.

The words and music serve as a vehicle for deep religious expression and this sincerity of expression and devotion caused the famous French composer Gabriel Faure to write his Messe, De Requiem in 1887.

Faure was one of the most prominent musicians in France at the turn of the century and served as director of the Paris Conservatory from 1905 to 1920.

The entire work is set to a Latin text but time will be allowed between each of the seven parts for the audience to read the translation.

Trustees Discuss Ways Of Financing New Dorm

In addition to increasing costs in tuition and rooms at McPherson, the trustees discussed methods of raising additional funds for the new boys' dormitory at their meetings Oct. 5 and 6. There will be additional costs not covered by the government loan.

His musical studies began when he was eight and during those early years he was a soloist with the Colegio de Infantes of the Cathedral Vallisoletana.

Before he was eighteen years old, he was director of the Chamber Choir of Morelia. From 1948-1956 he studied choral direction with Maestro Romano Picutti, then director of the Singing Boys and former director of the Vienna Boys Choir.

Within a year, Maestro Berber became Picutti's star pupil and was named assistant director.

At the death of Maestro Picutti in 1956, Luis Berber became Director of the Singing Boys.

The Colegio de las Rosas in Morelia, where the boys study and sing, was founded in 1743. In 1949 the director of the conservatory, Maestro Miguel Bernal Jimenez sought to form a choir which would rival the best in the world.

Seeking also the best possible leadership, he prevailed upon Maestro Picutti, then leader of the Vienna Choir Boys, to come to Morelia.

The Singing Boys have received ovations in Mexico City's huge Palacio de Bellas Artes (fine arts), and having given special performances for the President of the Republic and for the Prime of the Mexican Church.

Dean Clarifies Financial Boost

The published series of student reactions to the announcement of increased dorm rates and tuition charges raises a number of questions which deserve answers. The Spectator editor has kindly provided me with the opportunity to address a few comments to each of a number of questions which she has phrased for purposes of conveying information to the student body.

The questions which follow are the editor's questions; the comments following each question constitute a sincere attempt on my part to answer the questions raised.

1. WHY WERE THESE INCREASES MADE?

The increases in dormitory charges and in the basic tuition rate resulted from the fact that the college finds it necessary to seek increased revenue to cover the increased costs that go with an expanded program and an improved physical plant.

Last year the cost of the total program of the college was so great, as compared with income, that the college ran a sizeable deficit. Although this deficit was not startling, as compared with deficits of a number of other educational institutions, it is obviously an item that cannot be repeated very often.

Total expenditures of the college for the educational program and the auxiliary enterprises (such as dormitories, the Student Union, the bookstore, the College Courts, the athletic program, the cultural series, et cetera) totaled $686,614.21.

Income which can be attributed rather directly to tuition, fees, dormitory charges, bookstore sales to students, et cetera, totaled approximately $540,794. The gap, which was in excess of $145,000, could not be covered by endowment income and by gifts from interested friends, in spite of the fact that the gift supporters of the college contributed in excess of $60,000 to the general operation for the year. Students should note that this giving by friends was in addition to generous gifts for the development of the physical plant of the college in recent years.

If one considers only the educational part of the total program, he finds the cost figure of $363,776.97 far in excess of the total of tuition and fees income from students of $246,814.79. Student payments for the educational program thus were $116,962.18 short of covering the cost of the program.

From the above, it appears obvious that income from students has not covered anything like the total cost of the college program. It is also obvious that even with the increased charges, the income from students cannot begin to cover the costs of running the college. WE WILL STILL BE QUITE DEPENDENT UPON GIFT INCOME AND INVESTMENT INCOME.

The deficit was not unexpected as the year progressed last year. Last spring, President Bittinger led us in the beginning of the study and discussion of the matter of tuition charges and dormitory charges in relation to increased costs.

On the basis of our contacts with sister institutions we knew that we were pricing our housing below the going market rate.

In the process of investigating the feasibility of a government loan for the new residence hall for men, we were advised by the Federal Government that we would need to charge a rental figure approaching $350 per year if we were to acquire government funds on the basis of a plan which would pay for the dormitory over a 40-year period. It was only after negotiation with the government that we were able to obtain government approval of the lower $275 figure just announced.

Approval of this rental figure was obtained on the basis of a pledge by the college that losses on the new dormitory operation, if incurred, would be considered an obligation of the college and covered in a business-like way from general funds.

Our recognition of the careful analysis of the government loan people, along with the fact that we lost money last year on student housing even though we do not assess any charges for the investment of college funds in facilities, led us to the conclusion that we had delayed as long as we dared delay in terms of raising dormitory rentals. Frankly, we could not, in the foreseeable future, take care of the continuously needed repairs and maintenance in the dormitory plant which we expect to use for many, many years without increasing the dormitory charges.

The necessity for an increase in the TUITION RATE is related to the gradually expanding educational program of the college. Students would agree, I believe, that McPherson has not been extravagant in terms of departmental supplies and equipment, library expenditures, instructional expenditures, and administrative expenditures. Nevertheless, the cost of all of these items has moved upward year by year. The obvious relationship of tuition to the total financial health of the institution led to periodic discussions over a five and one-half month period, with the eventual decision to increase the tuition rates.

In essence, then, the answer to the question is that the college saw no choice but to turn to the students with increased charges AND TO ITS FRIENDS FOR INCREASED GIFTS, for the students will not be and should not be expected to carry the total load of increased costs.

2. HOW DO THESE INCREASED COSTS COMPARE WITH OTHER PRIVATE COLLEGES OF COMPARABLE SIZE AND TO STATE UNIVERSITIES (NOT INCLUDING SORORITIES, ET CETERA)?

Since sororities have been excluded from the question by the above phrasing, I shall make only the preliminary comment that the absence of fraternities and sororities at McPherson does make a sizable difference in costs, as implied by the question—but perhaps it is fair to leave these items which are often an integral part of social life in some schools out of the main stream of this discussion.

Before reaching decisions concerning increased costs, the college administration and the trustees did check with several other colleges of comparable size and discovered that, for the most part, these other colleges are charging dormitory rates in this current year which are comparable to the dormitory rates which will be charged at McPherson next year, with the possible exception of the new men's residence hall charge at the $275 figure.

Even in that case, we believe that the deluxe features of the new residence hall will make it well worth the $1.00 per week differential, as compared with the Fahnstock Hall, and the $0.71 1/2 differential per week, as compared with Dotzour Hall. If the dormitory rentals announced are compared with the rentals charged by the other Brethren colleges, and by other schools not in our immediate area, it becomes obvious that the new rental figures are considerably below the market, for Kansas happens to be a low-cost area, as far as educational costs are concerned.

In considering tuition increases, we raised questions with several other private schools and found that the tuition increases which we project will make the tuition charges including the general fee at McPherson very comparable to the charges which will be in effect at other schools next year.

It should be noted that the McPherson figure used for comparison included the general fee which covers nearly all fees and that little is charged at McPherson in special fees such as, library fees, physical education fees, typewriter rental fees, graduation fees, and student teaching fees which are used at some of our sister Kansas institutions.

A factor that should not be overlooked is that other schools are caught with the same necessity of increasing charges as is McPherson. Some of the other schools have already announced increases, and many others indicate that it is their intention to increase charges. The tuition figure of $20 per hour seems high to us but is a rather low figure when one compares it with the tuition fees of $30, $35, and $40 per hour that are now rather standard in the eastern part of the country and in the far west.

Comparison of total costs with total costs at state universities is very difficult. The use of tax funds by the state institutions gives them an obvious advantage. Yet, state institutions also have financial problems confronting them.

An analysis of the costs as published in such publications as THE COLLEGE FACTS CHART reveals that the estimates of total cost, prepared by the institutions themselves, do not vary greatly between the public and private institutions. The estimate of one of the state institutions in Kansas has been above the McPherson estimate for several years. The estimates of the other four institutions vary a bit, with two of them being rather close to the McPherson level. (These figures do not include the special costs of the social organizations excluded in the phrasing of the question above).

A banker friend tells me that he is certain that our costs will compare very favorably with the actual costs at the state institutions next year, on the basis of the information which comes to his attention through friendly contact with the parents of students engaging in financial transactions relative to costs of education.

3. IS THE ADMINISTRATION CONSIDERING MAKING ARRANGEMENTS FOR INCREASED WAGES ON THE CAMPUS, AS THIS SEEMS TO BE

We Get Letters . . .

Student Defends Increased Costs

Dear Editor,

Comments I read in last week's paper about the increase in costs have led me to express my own opinions on the situation.

First of all, I would like to remind students, especially those living in the new dorms, that in many areas they would have to pay double or even three times the amount they pay here for a room of the same quality.

I think they are forgetting about heating costs and laundry and bath privileges. On the next trip home, these students should total the bills their parents receive for gas, water, and electricity.

An extra dollar a semester is not so much for electricity.

It might seem unfair that next year students will be paying an extra $35 or more for rooms, but rent always tends to fluctuate anywhere.

Students who complain about wages on campus have good reason to complain, and I hope the administration takes a serious look at this problem, if they have not already done so.

In any case, the announcement shouldn't call for drastic plans. This situation demands serious, adult planning. I would say that in time, students won't notice the change at all if they begin to

Geisert To Work With Private Institutions

Dr. Wayne F. Geisert, dean of McPherson College, will be working with the Kansas Foundation of Private Institutions next Monday, through Friday.

The Foundation annually solicits funds from Kansas businessmen in the Topeka and Kansas City area for private institutions. Some funds come from out-of-state businessmen.

Dr. Geisert is working with the Foundation in the absence of Dr. Desmond W. Bittinger, president of McPherson College.

ONE OF THE MAIN COMPLAINTS OF STUDENTS?

Although I would like to answer this question in detail, I cannot do so at present, for this matter is under current consideration. We are seeking information from schools with comparable costs relative to their student pay scales. On the basis of the information received thus far, and on the basis of the analysis that has been made, it would be my expectation that some small internal adjustments will be made to eliminate inequities in the present scale. I cannot really comment at present concerning the likelihood of increases for a sizeable number of student jobs.

4. WHY WERE THE INCREASES ANNOUNCED ALL AT ONCE SO IT WOULD HIT THE STUDENT BODY AND FUTURE STUDENTS SO HARD AT ONCE INSTEAD OF SNEAKING IN THE PRICES GRADUALLY?

We believe that the students deserve to know the policy of the college on such matters as charges as soon as policies are determined and, therefore, made the announcement concerning the increases in the first assembly following the decision concerning charges. One could argue, I suppose, that it would be better psychology to avoid announcements on matters like this and to increase some items one semester and other items in another semester, or a second year.

We believe that stability in charges for several years and honesty in terms of communicating the charge picture to the students are of more importance than the seemingly more peaceful procedure of sneaking prices up without making students particularly conscious of the changes.

Again, I wish to thank the editor for the opportunity to comment on the questions listed. I am certain that there is no way to make any of us enjoy the increased prices that confront us. I do appreciate the opportunity to present the above information in an endeavor to present the facts which confronted the college administration and the college trustees on matters of charges.

Sincerely,
Wayne F. Geisert
Dean

plan now to meet the adjustment.

We are still more fortunate than most students attending private schools. Compare costs with other private schools of quality, and then ask students at the state schools. Some of them pay still more for education than we do.

Private Protests Howell's Letter

Dear Editor,

In reply to Mr. Nolan Howell's letter in the Sept. 14th Spectator concerning the organization of campus politics, I find him rather unreasonable in his views of the previous Republican administration.

As I am a 1962 graduate of McPherson and am now a member of our armed forces, I feel that Mr. Howell would change his mind about our present administration.

Of course, he does not have to worry about being extended or sent to Cuba or Viet Nam, does he? Nor does he seem to realize what administration it was who put Russia on her feet and made her the "vicious militant foe" she is today through a lend-lease program.

Before he places the blame on the last Republican administration, he should consider what look place before to put this foe into its present position as a world power.

Granted, Russia moved forward during the last administration, but look where they have placed themselves in power in the last two months just off of our borders. Mr. Howell, this advancement was made during the present administration.

If we have called Mr. K's bluff what has happened that we are being mobilized by units and some posts have been alerted that they may be sent to Viet Nam and other such places. Is this what we call a bluff and will it work?

Since Mr. Howell is asking us to be reasonable why does he not also consider it.

Pvt. Bob Atwater

Bulldogs Seek Grid Revenge

History reversed, that is what MacCollege will be aiming for tomorrow afternoon at Lindsborg. The Bulldogs encounter the Swedes at Bethany at 2:30 p.m.

This is a must game for both teams. Victory for either team could point the way to a winning season. Another loss for Bethany would almost ruin their chances for a winning season, while a win for McPherson, would almost assure the Bulldogs of a winning year.

History reversed refers to last year's game in which Bethany, on the Bulldog homecoming, defeated McPherson 7-0. Tomorrow is Bethany's homecoming and the Bulldogs are eager for a win.

Bethany features a strong defensive unit. Although the team consists of six sophomores, two juniors, two seniors and one freshman, they have made few mistakes on defense this year. Last year Bethany stopped McPherson cold.

So far this year, the Swedes have garnered wins from Bethel 6-0, and Sterling 3-0, while being defeated by C of E 10-0, KWU 14-0, and Southwestern 13-7. From these scores, it is easy to see how rough the Swedes are on defense.

In comparison, the Bulldogs have defeated Sterling 12-0, KWU 13-12 and Friends 39-0. McPherson lost to C of E 39-0 and Southwestern 26-7.

Jerry Dahlsten, 205-lb. sophomore guard, John Oakleaf, 185-lb. sophomore guard, and Glen Shipman, 225-lb. tackle, anchor the Bethany defensive line. Roger Lemons, 200-lb. end, and Lee Pfaff, 205-lb. tackle add more size to the Swedes defensive line.

The offensive unit for Bethany consists of John Tompson, 210-lb. fullback, Norm Estes, 180-lb. halfback, Dick Langford, 185-lb. halfback, and Leon Burch, 185-lb. quarterback. Langford and Estes have scored Bethany's only two touchdowns of the year against Bethel and Southwestern.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

"I'M NOW, JUST OFF THE FIELD - BUTTER-FINGERS MY GEE GETS A REPRIMAND FROM THE COACH."

From The Locker Room

By Larry Morlan

The Bulldogs looked good against Friends, that is in every department except pass defense. The only defensive weakness the Bulldogs have, rests in this department. But anyway, congrats Bulldogs on a fine victory.

I can boast a little now, C of E did beat Ottawa like I picked. But since things have been going so good on my picks, I will pick Baker over Ottawa when these two teams meet.

In a previous issue, I stated the score of the Friends-KWU game as a 13-13 tie. The KWU paper has brought it to my attention that it was a 0-0 tie.

Bruce Upstill of C of E leads NAIA District Ten in two categories. He leads in passing and in total offense. Upstill is also tied for second in individual scoring. Not a bad guy to have around.

The new plays the Bulldogs ran for awhile last week looked pretty good. I hope they are perfected just a little more for these last few games.

Students, be sure and note that the Bethany game is at 2:30 Saturday afternoon. Since Bethany is only 13 miles away, almost the entire student body should make the trip to Lindsborg to cheer the Bulldogs to victory in this important game.

One thing everyone seemed to be talking about at the Friends game was Larry Crumrine. Most thought Crumrine, besides being a good quarter-back, would also be an outstanding halfback by the way he carries the ball. I agree full, Larry is one of the finest ball carriers I have seen.

Something you might watch for in the Bethany game are the new offensive patterns the Bulldogs have been working on, that is if they are needed. But I have a feeling the plays will be saved for Baker and Ottawa.

Speaking of Baker, the Wildcats are leading the small colleges of the nation in offense. Baker leads in total offense with a 520-yd. average per game and they lead in rushing with a 352-yd. average.

Tomorrow's game against Bethany matches two teams of almost equal strength. Bethany, who defeated McPherson last year, has a stronger team this year and it is still a very young team.

McPherson is also stronger this year and the team making the fewest mistakes and able to capitalize on the opponents mistakes will win.

Bethany, besides being our rival, has a special interest to me and it would be bad for me if the Bulldogs lost.

Mac Smashes Falcons 39-0

Scoring in every quarter, and twice in the first and third periods of play, the McPherson Bulldogs defeated the Friends Falcons 39-0 at Mac last Saturday. This win gives the Bulldogs a 3-2 conference record, good for fifth place; while the loss drops Friends to last place with an 0-4-1 record.

The quarterbacking and running of Larry Crumrine shone through as the outstanding forces behind the Bulldog victory. Crumrine scored four touchdowns for McPherson on runs of 44, 11, 4, and 6 yards.

Clem Bailey shook loose for the other two Bulldog scores for the entire course of the game. The runs of 30 and 18 yards. Keith Miller kicked two extra points and Dave Priddy kicked one.

McPherson also used a new offensive pattern at different times against Friends. Coach Smith seemed to be testing the offense against Friends in order to use it in the remaining games.

Crumrine literally ran over, around, and through the Friends defensive unit. Running the roll-out and the quarterback sneak with almost perfection, Crumrine repeated tore off yardage against the Falcons.

Bailey showed Friends his heels most of the night with his exceptional speed. Either going around end or through the middle of the line, Clem always had up a full head of steam and was tough to bring down.

Friends did not mount any offensive threat to speak of during the entire course of the game. The farthest Friends ever penetrated was the McPherson 18-yd. line and that came as a result of a Bulldog fumble. The Falcons gained a total of 171-yds. and 7 first downs, while MacCollege gained 453-yds. and 19 first downs.

McPherson scored twice in the first quarter, with Crumrine scoring the first on a 44-yd. run and the second on an 11-yd. run. Miller converted one extra point. The third touchdown came on Bailey's 30-yd. run in the second quarter. Miller again converting the extra point.

In the third period Bailey scored the fourth touchdown on an 18-yd. run around right end. The second touchdown of the third quarter came after Friends, on an attempted quick kick, kicked the ball 10-yds. and Mac took over on the Friends four yard line. Crumrine went in for the score.

Crumrine scored the final McPherson touchdown in the fourth quarter on a 6-yd. run. This T.D. came on a drive exclusively from McPherson's new spread offense. Priddy kicked the extra point.

The final score read Crumrine 24; Bailey 12, Miller 2, Priddy 1, and Friends 0.

C of E Shatters Ottawa's 23 Game Winning Streak

College of Emporia wins over Ottawa 20-16! College of Emporia not only ended Ottawa's dominance over the Kansas Conference, but also ended the nation's longest collegiate winning streak. Ottawa had won 23 consecutive games until this defeat.

Bruce Upstill guided C of E brilliantly in leading the Presbies to their fourth straight league conquest. The loss dropped Ottawa into third place in the conference with a 3-1 record.

Southwestern stayed tied with Emporia for first place with a hard-fought 13-7 win over Bethany. Southwestern scored both of its touchdowns in the first half, but could not dent the tough Bethany defense after that. The Bethany score, which came in the fourth quarter, was only the second touchdown of the year for the Swedes. The win gives Southwestern a 4-0 record and drops Bethany to 2-3.

Baker remains hot on the heels of the conference leaders by defeating KWU. The Wildcats unleashed their nation leading offense for a total of 59 points, while holding KWU to 6. Jacobs scored three touchdowns as Baker racked up 486 yards to KWU's 70.

McPherson's Larry Crumrine led the Bulldogs to a 39-0 victory over the winless Friends Falcons. Crumrine scored four touchdowns and Bailey two as McPherson moved its league record to 3-2. McPherson gained 453 yard to 171 yards for Friends.

Sterling failed to move out of the conference cellar as Bethel scored in the final period of play to tie the game 13-13. Sterling and Friends are now tied for last place in the conference.

This week's games are McPherson at Bethany; Southwestern at Baker; Bethel at C of E; Sterling at Friends; and Ottawa at KWU.

Open Season

Macollege Men Seek Shelter

With the advent of autumn, hunters are again taking to the fields and forests in pursuit of native game. But just as open season begins on ducks, pheasants, and other forms of wildlife, a more devastating season opens at Mac.

It requires no license, no buckshot (although this can be helpful), and there isn't even a limit or game warden to protect the hunted. It's known by many names, but referred to in public as WPA Week. It will begin Oct. 27 and end Nov. 2.

For the benefit of confused freshmen and unwarned transfer students, WPA Week is the time of year when campus social life is turned upside down. The hunters become the hunted.

Expectancy mounts as the season begins. Males feel increasingly uncomfortable around their female classmates. Excitement reaches a crescendo every time the phone rings in one of the men's dorms.

But there are inherent advantages in this switch of social roles. It gives the fellows a chance to reiterate the time-tested excuses offered by the women. "I have too much homework," "I really must practice my clarinet," and other favorite clichés.

The week opens with the football game on the 27th and concludes with a movie in Brown

Auditorium, Nov. 2, at 8 p.m. Coke and study dates are popular during the week.

Student Members Total 123 At College Church

Student membership in the McPherson Church of the Brethren now numbers 123. On Student Membership Sunday, Oct. 7, 117 students took part in the consecration service.

Six students joined the College Church last Sunday, and others may sign membership cards if they so desire.

McPherson Will Host Brethren Youth Nov. 22

The Brethren Student Christian Movement Conference will be held on the campus of McPherson College Nov. 22-25. The theme of the conference is to be Christianity and communism.

Brethren students from all over the nation will attend the conference. Not only will all the Brethren colleges be represented, but many state colleges and universities also will be represented.

Frantz Attends Wichita U. For Series Of Meetings

Dr. Merlin Frantz, professor of education and psychology at McPherson, has attended several meetings in the last few days related to teaching and teacher placement.

Yesterday, Dr. Frantz attended a meeting of the Kansas State Association of Teacher Placement Officers, at the University of Wichita.

Secretary-treasurer of the Association, Dr. Frantz attended the annual meeting to discuss possible areas of research related to placement of teachers in the state of Kansas.

Today, also at the University of Wichita, the Kansas College Conference on Teacher Education is meeting.

The major speaker at the conference is Dr. Ernest O. Melby, professor emeritus at Michigan State University. Dr. Melby's speech, "The Process of Teaching," is also the theme of the conference.

Highlights of the conference include general session, discussing groups, and a banquet, held in the ballroom and other rooms on the campus of the University of Wichita.

To conclude the three days of meetings, Dr. Frantz will attend a meeting of the Kansas Advisory Council on Teacher Education.

Dr. Frantz is a member of the committee which makes recommendations to the state council on changes related to education in the state of Kansas.
