Local MCY Encourages Student Religious Activity

"The purpose of the M.C.Y. is to give a religious background for all the students."

With this in mind as a goal, the McPherson Christian Youth, a part of the Y.M.-Y.W.C.A. has organized on campus as a society trying to meet the present needs of MacCollege students.

Members of the M.C.Y. meet weekly in small groups to discuss the topics of belief and non-belief, marital situations, contemporary thinkers, and the arts.

Monthly meetings of the entire M.C.Y. are held to discuss business and present items or programs of common interest. These programs and the overall direction of the M.C.Y. is conducted by a student cabinet.

Tryouts Open For Casting Of Ibsen Play

Tryouts for the major semester dramatic presentation, "A Doll's House," by Henrik Ibsen, will be held Tuesday at 6:30 p.m. in room 227, Mohler Hall.

"A Doll's House" has been one of Ibsen's most popular plays, for it entertains and challenges both actors and audiences.

Ibsen is of particular interest, for he was one of the pioneers in the modern realistic drama.

When the play was first presented, the theme of the emancipation of woman gave it both notoriety and popularity. In more recent times, the secondary theme of inter-personal relationships has been emphasized.

The female lead, states Mrs. Yoder, director of dramatics, is especially challenging for it calls for both dancing and acting ability.

Two male leads call for the ability to play piano.

Students interested in reading for parts in the play may find copies of the script in the library.

Youth for Christ Sponsors 'Lucia' By Billy Graham

Heading South and Southwest on deputation for the college is the Balladeers. This group, composed of Jim Ockerman, Barry Haldeman, Al Blough, and Larry King, is a new group this year. Traveling with the group is Dr. Wayne Geisert, dean of the college.

Some People Sound Like They Went to School in Hell

One of the things on our campus which has disturbed me for a long time is the free use of profanity which some people feel that they have to use.

I am not trying to be prudish or a do-gooder, but it is a situation which bothers me. Part of this editorial is written from experience, for in the past I have used a few expressions which I would not repeat in the presence of a lady.

Recently I heard the remark that, "Some people sound like they went to school in Hell, and the Devil was their schoolmaster!" I am inclined to agree with this statement.

Why do people use profanity? From past experience and observation, I have come to these conclusions as to why people cuss.

Using profanity puts the person up into the status of the big shots. It feels big to run around spouting words even a salty-sailor hasn't heard yet. The more we can cuss, the bigger we are. Society's big shots!

Cussing shows a sign of immaturity. It is similar to the child stomping his foot on the ground when something goes wrong.

Profanity shows a lack of vocabulary; instead of saying something creative the one who uses profanity has to repeat his profanity in order to get something across to his listener.

These are some of my reasons for not using profanity. Another reason would be that this is a Christian college. Here I tread on dangerous ground, for I know that this writer is probably just as much a hypocrite as many others.

But the term Christian means Christ-like. In other words we feel that Christ would stand with us and take God's name in vain.

If you don't like what I just said, you can refute my ideas through a letter-to-the-editor. Of course, I don't expect any replies because the majority of Mac college students just don't give a hoot about any issue which is presented.

We Get Letters . . .

Letters to the editor from students, faculty members, or others are welcomed. All letters must be signed, but the name of the writer need not appear in print. Letters may be submitted to the editor or placed in the campus mail. Contributions do not necessarily reflect the policy or opinion of The Spectator, the administration, or the faculty of McPherson College.

Writer Counsels: Objective Work From Scholiast

Dear Editor:

It seems to me that the Student Council of McPherson College could be more thorough in reporting its activities. I had the impression that the activities of the Council were being reported until the last few issues of the Spectator.

For instance, in the Sept. 27, 1963, issue (vol 48, No. 3) we were able to read these headlines: "Unpaid Volunteer to Report News, Views of StuCo." In this article the following statements were made.

"My main job is to report the activities of the Student Council."

"Simply because I am somewhat outspoken, and because all phases of politics fascinate me, I may depart temporarily from Student Council Activities."

"If I do mention things of this nature or impressions I might have, it should be taken with a grain of salt and a bit of thought."

In the next issue of the Spectator, the same person had another article with the same name, "The Scholiast," but with a note from the editor which read as follows:

"Editor's note: The following article reflects the views of Mr. van de Velde and does not necessarily report the consensus of opinion of the Student Council or the Spectator staff. The report of decisions made by the Student Council, however, is factual."

I commend Mr. van de Velde for being so interested as to take upon himself the responsibility of writing his column each week.

I am sure he feels that he is doing the student body of McPherson a great service by giving us his opinions; perhaps we need more of this on our campus.

Lest anyone think I am over-sympathetic to Mr. van de Velde's cause, I am more in favor of someone who is able to see some good in other people. But it is his right to say what he wants. Nevertheless, I would like to

Mac Republican Promotes Nixon For President

Dear Editor:

With the present concern among campus politicians about who should be the next Republican presidential candidate, this will only add to the confusion.

First, to attach a convenient handle to the author, two definitions:

Conservative: a person who believes that nothing should be done for the first time.

Liberal: an intellectual with both feet planted firmly in mid air.

Use these handles as they best apply.

Since it will be nearly impossible for any Republican candidate to unseat the Kennedy-Johnson image, it is a temptation to offer a completely different image as a substitute. But to offer a reactionary counter-image would be disastrous.

Republican candidates with any chance for victory must fit certain qualifications.

He must be relatively young. This eliminates none of the front running candidates.

He must be a moderate or liberal candidate who has maintained a consistent position in both national and international affairs. He must have the foresight to accept international influence in American affairs, and he must be so convinced of the worth of the American system, its development in the past and its potential in the "best-of-all-possible worlds," that we will not be sold short in the fields of international relations.

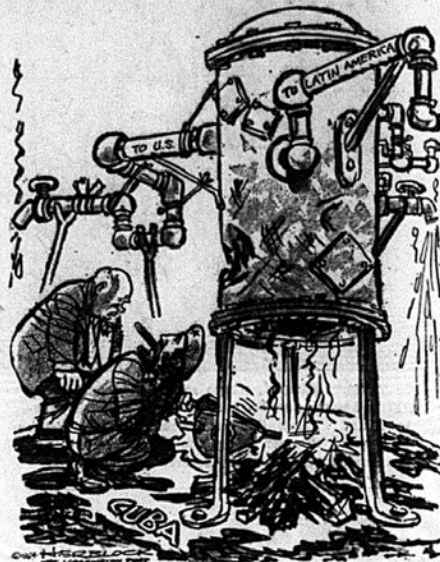

And he must present an acceptable image of American life.

In my opinion, this eliminates both Nelson Rockefeller and Goldwater.

The selection must now be made from the other potential candidates: Nixon, Scranton, Romney, and Lodge.

If the Republicans intend to defeat the incumbent President Johnson, they can not afford to do it with Nixon, who has been in 1960, nor can they do it with Romney, who is in local political trouble, or Lodge who is now desperately needed as ambassador to Viet Nam. This leaves Governor Scranton who may or may not choose to run.

"The Real Question Is, Can We Keep Them In HOT Water?"

However, if the Republicans want to center their attention and skill on the House and Senate races, as I believe they should, aiming for a presidential victory in 1968, the picture changes.

Romney and Lodge must still be eliminated as possible contenders. Scranton is undeniably a capable politician with polish and potential, but he is yet to be tried in a national contest. He is unknown and, therefore, too weak. This leaves Nixon, the man who nearly defeated Kennedy in 1960.

If the Republicans hope to continue as an active political party, they must stop bickering over men who can neither win nor strengthen the party and aim for goals that can be obtained.

It is possible for a Republican victory in 1964 only if the party aims for victory in 1968. Therefore, I see no other possible presidential candidate for the Republican Party in 1964 than Richard M. Nixon.

'We Men Want Coke Machine' Pleads Writers

Dear Editor:

It has long been stated that men are created equal. Recent developments on our campus have deviated from this Christian principle.

When a "questionnaire" was passed out to the students during an assembly a few weeks ago, the question was asked whether or not we would patronize vending machines if they would be placed in the dormitories.

It is quite apparent that the response was favorable due to the fact that during the week of Feb. 9, 1964, vending machines were installed in Dotzour and Metzler Halls — but, not in Fahnestock Hall!

Since we, the residents of Fahnestock Hall, support the college as much as the other residents on campus, is it not only fair that a vending machine also be installed in Fahnestock Hall?

A petition is presently being circulated requesting that the Student Council take the necessary steps to have a vending machine installed in Fahnestock Hall. We encourage the Student Council to give this matter their utmost consideration.

Author Suggests Self-Examination During Lent

Dear Editor:

According to the school calendar the next vacation which will bring a needed relief to the students as well as the faculty members, is Easter, March 20-31.

The period of 46 calendar days preceding Easter is the time known as Lent. This observance is to remind all Christians of the great temptations which Christ faced and of his personal sacrifices he made prior to the crucifixion.

Many of us are not sure of all the implications which are implied through his temptations, but the outstanding act exhibited through this time was that of self-examination.

The period of Lent should not only be the time we prepare our plans for the coming vacation, but in reality it should be a time of serious self-examination.

Brethren Initiate Improvements Within Church

Construction of the elevator and stairway in the Church of the Brethren should begin around mid-February.

The construction companies who will be working on this project are the Pyle Construction Company of McPherson and the Montgomery Elevator Company of Wichita.

The stairs will connect the balcony and the main floor foyer at the north east corner of the church for safety and convenience.

The elevator is to service the sanctuary and basement floor from the ground level at the north east corner of the church.

The space for installation will be provided from the former secretary's office on main floor and the north east classroom in the balcony.

The convenience to the elderly church members is a primary objective of the stairs and the elevator is for those who find it hard to climb stairs.

Secretary Pursues Various Activities

Flowers are a favorite hobby of Mrs. Anna Mae Hull, secretary of the alumni office. She raises flowers and plants, both indoors and outdoors, and experiments with flower arrangements.

Mrs. Hull loves to cook and "is always baking something." Bread is one of her specialties.

Her taste in music runs mostly to choirs and choruses. She likes voice better than instrumentally because she enjoys singing herself.

She is a member of her church choir, and has been a member of several other choirs in the past few years.

Mrs. Hull is very interested in art and has done some drawing. She would like to take courses in both drawing and painting in the near future. She especially likes landscapes.

She and her husband, Mr. Cleve Hull, farm and operate a dairy near McPherson. The Hulls have three children, two girls and a boy.

Roselyn Nicklaus, their oldest daughter, has two girls and is living in McPherson. Her husband is working at the Farmer's Alliance. Roselyn graduated from Emporia State Teachers College.

Raymond, their son, graduated from McPherson College, then received his masters at the University of South-Dakota.

He is now working at the University of South Dakota as supervisor of the speech and hearing clinic, and has begun work on his doctorate.

Gloria, their youngest daughter, is a sophomore at McPherson College.

The alumni office takes care of all of the big mailings to alumni, church members, and friends, and one of Mrs. Hull's main jobs is to operate the addressograph machine which addresses the envelopes for these mailings.

Mrs. Hull has been working at McPherson College for three years.

Bulldogs Lead Presby Team

Marion Enke, with 25 points, paced the McPherson Bulldogs to an easy 85-67 victory over the College of Emporia Presbies on Friday, Feb. 14.

This victory on the Bulldogs home court avenged an earlier defeat suffered at the hands of the Presbies in Emporia.

The Bulldogs jumped out to a quick lead and were never headed. They took a lead of 40-23 to the dressing room at half-time.

This victory brought the Bulldogs league record to 8 wins and 7 losses, good for a fourth place tie with the Presbies.

Altogether the Bulldogs ended with five men in double figures for the night. George Czaplinski followed Enke's 25 with 17 counters. John Tegeier tallied 15, while Dick Welch added 12.

Group Will Join NCTE As Junior Participants

Nineteen students have joined the National Council for Teachers of English as junior members this year, and at least one other student already belongs to NCTE.

Those who joined this year are: Joyce Birkenholz, Carol Christy, Robert Crabb, Dorothy Delp, Francis Edwards, Barbara Elmore, Pearl Fruth, Evelyn Grove, Karen Henry, Donna McBride, Edwin Mohler, Karen Oltman, Sharon Poff, Bette Quirling, Jacquelyn Raymond, Ellen Sell, Leah Standafer, Connie Weddle, and Vida Werner.

One of the Methods courses is for English education majors who plan to teach on the secondary levels and is taught by the entire English Department with Professor Harley Stump as chairman; and the other is for elementary education majors and is taught by Mrs. Maxine Brunzell, an elementary teacher from Lincoln School.

The NCTE was organized in 1911 with the purpose of improving and defining the teaching of English. Since then it has grown to a membership of over 70,000 members, with over 7,000 junior members.

NCTE headquarters are local.

Cagers Meet Friends' Team

Basketball season ends for McPherson College before the next edition of the Spectator. The home season ends tomorrow night against the Friends Falcons. The Bulldogs' last game is at Baldwin against Baker on Feb. 25.

Friends has been led this year by 5'8" freshman Keith Rucas, who has been averaging over 25 points per game. This is good for second place in the KCAC this season.

Otis Isaacs, a teammate of Rucas at Wichita East High School last year, is another Falcon.

Dramatists to Present Several Short Plays

Notices of readings will be posted around campus and in the Spectator.

The first of these plays, "The Terrible Meek," directed by Betty Varner, will be announced within a few days.

Republicans Sponsor Dance After Game

The Young Republicans will sponsor a dance in the basement of the Student Union following the basketball game with Friends, tomorrow night.

The program will include Doug Rapp, Gary Fisher, Art McAuley, and the "Beetles."

The Friends' team has already doubled their victory total of last season, and it is very capable of upsetting another unwary opponent.

Baker U. defeated the Bulldogs at the McPherson High Roundhouse on Dec. 19, but the Wildcats show only a 5-9 mark for the season.

The Bulldogs' revenge will be hard to come by, however, as the Wildcats have the home-court advantage for this game. The Bulldogs will have to rebound better in this contest than they did in the first if they hope to end the season with a victory.

Students to Compete In Academic Contest

MacCollege students will participate in the Ninth Annual Kansas Intercollegiate Mathematics Contest tomorrow morning at Bethel College.

Korean Kim Likes Hamburgers, Malts

After eleven months in the U.S., Dal Young Kim, a 19 year old first semester Macollege freshman from Seoul, Korea, reports he dislikes most American foods except hamburgers, spaghetti, pizza, and malts.

Kim, or Charles (his given American name) is no stranger to American ways even though this is his first time at a U.S. college.

He arrived in the U. S. last March after graduating from high school in Korea. He spent the last eleven months traveling, living with his brother, and working in Akron, Ohio, Washington D. C., and Huntington W. Va. He arrived at Macollege Feb. 3. In the line of hobbies, Kim likes to listen to both popular and classical music, watch people dance, and swim. He was a champion breast-stroker on his high school swimming team, and he also played on a water polo team.

Dal Young Kim

In comparing American students to Koreans, he thinks there are too many differences to accurately compare the two; however, he does feel that U. S. students have too much freedom, yet they have much they can teach Korean students.

Kim's brother and a sister graduated from Macollege and now live in Seoul.

He has two brothers now studying in the U. S. One of his brothers and his brother-in-law graduated from Macollege and recently visited the campus on their way back east to study for their PhD degrees.

Board Seeks Solicitations

An annual Booster Banquet, sponsored jointly by McPherson city and Macollege, will be held Feb. 29.

The entire program accenting the science facilities will begin at 6 p.m. with a meeting in Brown Auditorium to be followed by tours of the campus and a buffet style dinner in the Student Union.

The groups will tour Metzler Hall, the chemistry department, and the biology laboratories as part of the program which will acquaint them with the new and proposed campus improvements.

It is hoped that $50,000 can be raised through the banquet and enlistment programs. This constitutes a thirty per cent increase over former years.

From the money raised, $6,000, which will be matched by an equal grant from the National Science Foundation, will be used to complete laboratory improvements for the biology department.

Another $6,000 will be used to start improvements in the chemistry department.

The remainder of the funds will go into the general operational budget of the college.

Griffin Speaks of Dread, White Man's 'Other Side'

Editor's Note: The following article appeared in the Kansas State Collegian, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Feb. 17.

The article concerns John Howard Griffin, author of "Black Like Me." It is included in the hopes that we might begin to question our own beliefs about the racial problem.

A Negro's sense of dread and what white men reveal to Negroes that they don't reveal to other whites were two points emphasized by John Howard Griffin, author of "Black Like Me," Sunday night.

Approximately 4,000 people listened to Griffin's lecture in both the University Auditorium and in the Union.

The Texas author, who darkened his skin to better help his study of racism in the Deep South, first began to realize the depth of the racial problem in America while serving in France in World War II.

He carried his study over to the study of the suicide rate of the Negro.

By internal medication, Griffin, darkened his skin over a period of three weeks. During this time he set up contacts in New Orleans as a white man. Later, when he returned as a Negro to one of these places, he received cordial treatment, but was told to go seventeen blocks for a drink of water.

Griffin said that the white girl did not think her action cruel but that such actions greatly affect the daily life of a Negro. "If the white man has hunger or other physical needs throughout the day, he can take care of them, but the Negro must deliberately anticipate hunger and thirst and hope that his needs will arise when he is near a facility that he can use," he explained.

Few places in the South have signs saying "Whites Only," but the Negro knows that many others are closed to him. According to Griffin, "The Negro is rejected because of his pigment, not what he may or may not be."

Griffin grouped white men into three classes as he saw them while being a Negro.

"One man," he said, "would look at you as a functional thing. You would shine his shoes and he would pay you, but all the time he would be looking right through you."

Only two out of 12 men that Griffin traveled with were considered "decent." These are the men that treat the Negro normally with human dignity.

Ten out of the 12 men are what Negroes call "Great White Buddies." They begin a conversation with a Negro man openly, friendly and democratically, then they become obscene and make immoral propositions.

"I first tried to find work by reading want ads and then telephoning the business," Griffin said. "In all but one instance where the job had not been filled, they were interested in my qualifications and asked me to come for a personal interview."

"As soon as they saw that I was a Negro, the job was no longer available."

Griffin said that in areas of discrimination, the Negro is imprisoned in the white man's stereotype of a Negro. He can't get out of it because the white man doesn't allow him to do so.

The Negro will put up with degradation if his family has to depend upon his bowing to the white man for their living.

When Griffin visited a Negro home, the father said, "You mustn't let them make you hate; then they will have dragged you down to where they think you are."

Griffin concluded by saying, "When we don't judge a human being by qualities other than pigment, it is an incident against the whole people, against us and our own intelligence. To be pro-just is to be pro-human."
