

Lee, Jones Join Faculty

Two additional faculty members will join the McPherson College faculty at the beginning of the 1964-65 academic year according to Dr. D. W. Bittinger, president of the college.

Sai Kwing Lee has been appointed assistant professor of chemistry and Robert G. Jones, assistant professor of music and director of bands and orchestra.

Lee is a native of Hong Kong where he received his elementary and high school education. Before coming to the United States he was staff member of the import-export department of the Mercantile Bank of India in Hong Kong.

One year of undergraduate work was completed by Lee at Eastern New Mexico University at Portales.

Lee received his B.S. in 1959 from San Diego State College and his M.S. in January, 1964, from the University of California at Los Angeles.

While doing graduate work at U.C.L.A. he served as a teaching and research assistant.

Jones is a native of Scranton, Iowa where he received his elementary and secondary schooling.

In 1961 Jones received his B.S. from Arizona State College at Flagstaff. During his senior year he was one of five nominees for the Student National Education Association Outstanding Student Teacher Award.

Jones received a Master of Music degree in 1963 from the University of Wichita with a major in clarinet. He was a graduate teaching assistant in woodwinds.

Flory, Barrows Become Stu Co President, Treasurer

Lowell Flory won the race for Student Council President, and Jerry Barrows became the new StuCo Treasurer to highlight the student body elections held Thursday, April 16.

Flory, junior from McPherson, waged his campaign on the basis of more student representation and clearer understanding between student and faculty sentiments.

Both Flory and John Miller, Waterloo, Iowa, waged hard campaigns, but both retained their friendship and admiration for the other. The winner expressed his sentiments in these words:

"I am happy that the student body has expressed this confidence in me, but am also sobered by the thought of the responsibilities which will now be mine.

"John and I agreed before the election that whichever of us was elected, he would work with full support of the other. This attitude still remains, and for that, I am certainly grateful to John."

President-elect Flory, a history major, plans to attend graduate school eventually, probably at Kansas University.

Jerry Barrows, sophomore from Waterloo, Iowa, majoring in speech, gave this comment when asked about the election outcome, "I hope that I can fulfill the trust which the student body has shown in me."

He also added, as in his speech in chapel, that he would strive toward a more active Student Council next year.

Leah Standafer, Worthington, Minn., and Phil Miller, Adel, Iowa, represent next year's senior class StuCo members. They were elected by the 78 per cent of the eligible juniors who voted.

Next year's junior class elected Karen Andes, Mound City, Mo., and Dick Welch, Delphi, Ind., as their representatives. This class had 83 per cent voter participation, best in the college.

Freshmen Student Court members elected by the student body were Galen Bollinger, Caldwell, Idaho; Modena Hoover, Rocky Ford, Colo.; and Art McAuley.

Sophomore members of this body are Charles Horner, Carleton, Neb., Karen Andes, Junior Hendricks, and Dick Welch. Juniors elected are Ken Ullom, Vida Sue Werner, Phil Miller, and John Miller.

The unrivaled cheerleaders for next year are Shirley Blough, Waterloo; Diane Ebberts, Wichita; Diana Ferris, Elkhart, Ind.; Kathy Kienberger, Kansas City; and Jeanne Peterson, Wichita. All are freshmen.

Ken Dauer, sophomore from Dunkirk, Ohio, also ran for Student Council treasurer.

Other freshman candidates for class offices were: Shirley Fasnacht, Fruita, Colo.; Rayna Hamm, Rocky Ford, Colo.; Galen Neher, Quinter; Nancy Steffen, Goshen, Ind.; and Dan Zinn, Roanoke, La.

Anita Joe Ledell of McPherson and John Long from Quinter, also ran for office in the sophomore class.

Other candidates from the junior class for representatives in StuCo or Student Court were: Ron Grout, McPherson; Larry Bowman, Quinter; and John Lade, San Pedro, Cal.

Senior Women to Attend AAUW Tea, April 25

Spring flowers will set the tables at the tea to be given for Macollege senior girls by the McPherson chapter of the American Association of University Women to be given at the Grace Lutheran Church on April 25 at 2 p.m.

The purpose of the tea is to introduce Macollege girls to the AAUW and some of its goals. Mrs. D. W. Bittinger, instructor in foreign languages, will speak on "Women Around the World."

For the first time this year, Macollege girls will be eligible for membership in the AAUW. The membership became possible after the organization revised its chapter to include all colleges approved by accrediting agencies.

The AAUW, which is an educational organization, is basically concerned with the status of college women and that they have the opportunity to study. It particularly has the goal of continued education for women, and provides scholarships for women, particularly for advanced degrees at both the national and international levels.

This year, the McPherson chapter of the AAUW has been studying science and its relation to the individual.

Mrs. Rosella Ogg, art teacher at the local high school, is the chairman of the hostess committee, and Miss Mildred Sick, professor of home economics, will be a hostess at the tea.

YR's Will Discuss Role of Political Clubs

The role of political clubs on campus will be discussed at the Young Republicans meeting held Tuesday, April 28, at 6:30 in Mohler 227.

Some important amendments to the constitution will also be discussed.

Knights of the Round Table discuss future problems involved in the jobs of Student Council President and Treasurer. President and Treasurer for next year are Lowell Flory, Junior, McPherson, and Jerry Barrows, sophomore, Waterloo, Iowa. The retiring President and Treasurer are Steve Mohler, senior, Warrensburg, Mo., and Bill Grove, junior, Redfield, Iowa.

Spring Dance to be Held In Student Union, May 1

Various committees are working on preparations for the annual Spring Formal to be held May 1, 9-12 p.m. in the first floor of the Student Union.

Lynn Christy, sophomore from McPherson is overall chairman of the formal and will coordinate the work of the various committees.

Committees for the dance are: clean-up, Galen Bollinger, Dianna Ebberts, Judy Holsinger, Art McAuley, Valerie Price, and Peter Tham.

Decoration, John Beckwith, Beth Brumbaugh, Charlene Lewis, Terry Reyher, and Margaret Williams; entertainment, Earl Saffer, chairman, Henry Gier, Merlin Grady, Judy Harris, and Deanna Johnson.

Juniors, Seniors Hold Spring Prom, Banquet

New York and Manhattan skylines will set the stage for the Junior-Senior Banquet and Prom which will be held in the Student Union tomorrow evening. The theme for this year's banquet and prom is "Manhattan Island".

The Banquet, which begins at 7:30, will be served buffet style and decorated in accordance with the banquet theme. Appetizers will be served on the patio.

Bill Grove, president of the junior class, will be master of ceremonies for the banquet, and will represent the junior class in welcoming the seniors. Dallas Wine, senior class president, will make the reply.

During the Banquet, Dr. Wayne Geisert, dean of the college; and the Balladeers, a folk-singing trio, will provide entertainment. Dr. Raymond Flory, professor of history and political science, will be the

Seniors Highlight Program At April 28 Band Concert

The McPherson College Department of Music will present the Concert Band conducted by Irving L. Wagner, Tuesday, April 28. The band will begin the concert at 7:30 p.m. in Brown Auditorium.

Besides a well rounded program of concert music, three graduating seniors in the music department will be spotlighted. Jim Burnett, McPherson, Warren D. Harden, McPherson, and Jim Neher, Cabool, Mo., will each play a technique solo and direct one number on the program.

Each of the seniors are musical education majors in the instrumental department.

The program for the night will consist of "Commando March" by S. Barber, "Celebration Overture" by Creston, "Two Choral," by Brahms-Guenther, and conducted by Jim Burnett.

Jim Neher will play solo tuba on the "Carnival of Venice," by Clarke; Warren Harden will conduct "Elsa's Procession to the Cathedral," by R. Wagner; Jim Burnett will play solo trumpet on "Stars in a Velvety Sky," by Clarke.

Jim Neher will conduct the "Second Suite in F Major," by Holst, and Warren Harden will play solo trombone on "Blue Bells in Scotland," by Pryor.

Two marches, the "Klaxon," by Fillmore, and "Kansas Wildcats," by Sousa will conclude the program.

Pieratt, McAuley Chosen Leaders Of WCY, MCY

The results of the MCY and the WCY elections which were held are as follows: co-presidents are Carolyn Pieratt and Art McAuley both freshmen; co-vice presidents are Barbara Bollinger and Roger Schrock, both freshmen; co-secretaries are Anjie Benton a sophomore and George Snavely a freshman; co-treasurers are Dottie Wine and Ron Flory both freshmen; and co-publications are Lavonna Howell and Galen Bollinger both freshmen.

Sex Can Be Fun; But - - - ?

Recently Newsweek featured an article about the morals revolution on campuses in the United States. I believe that the article points out (although not stated) that the young people of the U.S. are rapidly becoming a group with double standards.

While some people advocate free sexual activity for themselves they would hesitate to let their kid sisters engage in intercourse whenever they felt the need for it. I believe that this is rapidly becoming prevalent at McPherson College. This is, if the talk among the young "men" in locker rooms and dorm rooms is true, sexual activity among students is increasing.

According to Newsweek, "in a 1916 poll, almost a fifth of Princeton's senior class had never even kissed a girl." But in 1953, 20 per cent of the college women admitted having premarital sex before graduation.

Even some ministers today advocate that "sex with love" is perfectly all right. Contraceptives have become a declaration of independence for those afraid of pregnancy. But, according to Newsweek, in spite of contraceptives, in one eastern women's school the doctor said she knew of at least twelve girls who had to get married and another six who had abortions.

One of the advocates of the new morality is the Playboy magazine. According to Newsweek, "Even the editors of Playboy, that four-color exponent of the new morality, have no real answer when students ask what they should do when something goes awry."

"At Michigan's Albion College, Anson Mount, director of Playboy's college bureau, recently discussed 'A New Breed of Cat' in a seminar in the campus chapel. Afterward, he was asked by one student: 'Mr. Mount, I've read Playboy for four years. I've dressed by Playboy, I've eaten by Playboy, dated by Playboy. Can you tell me what this new breed of cat should do when he finds his kitty is going to have a kitten?' Mount's lame reply: 'See an obstetrician.'"

What is the cause of the new morality? I do not blame the young people for this; I blame some of the members of the adult generation; they are the ones who write the plays, they are the ones who set the example in sexy movies, they write the books, and they set the example in their daily lives. If the parents do not set the example, what do they expect of their kids. They say that the younger generation is going to the dogs. One question.

The Scholiast

By Christopher R. van de Velde

Usually a good controversy is healthy for a community; it often stimulates idle minds, and it frequently results in situational improvements. Some controversies, however, are a waste of everyone's time and energy, and it seems to me that the commotion about our election system is, unfortunately, of this latter variety.

The objection to the present election system is that the plurality basis for selecting representatives-at-large does not guarantee fair and accurate representation.

The complainants maintain that each potential candidate should be required to receive a certain percentage of the total vote cast.

I am not the deciding authority on constitutional questions, and while I disagree with this idea, it is not the idea which leads me to view this controversy as a waste of people's time and efforts. I am sorry that the question is raised in an antagonistic rather than a constructive manner.

The Student Court and not the Student Council is the body designated by the Constitution as its interpreter. To petition the Student Council is a waste of time and energy, because it is not the proper procedure, and because our Student Council would be more than willing to hear any student's view without a petition. It also seems to me that it would have been more useful to make this suggestion before the elections, rather than afterward.

When there are so many areas (refer to past "Scholiasts") that students could become involved in that would be so much more worthwhile, it seems a shame that some feel determined to stir up a controversy, just for something to do.

I think many people feel that I am typically stirring up trouble and suggesting changes, just for the sake of changing things.

It is unfortunate that I have been so misinterpreted, and I am sorry to have to disappoint people on this issue.

I have always believed in suggesting changes, but only when I think some specific advantage is to be gained by the change; and this particular change in question seems detrimental rather than advantageous.

Where did we come from?

"It is hardly news," ("states Newsweek") that this generation of students was raised in the most permissive, affluent, and sex-suffused society in history.

"Yet, at college, especially at the cosmopolitan ones, the aloof generation has been suddenly thrust into an environment that is not only cool but coldly and sometimes cruelly competitive.

"For the lonely crowd" at Harvard and other colleges, sex has become the antidote for anxiety. "If you can establish a good relationship with an attractive girl, it's a very good thing," says a worldly Harvard junior. "It gives you a sense of security."

"Sleeping with an attractive girl has always given boys an illusion of security and status, but as anything more than a temporary prop for the ego, sex seems like a fragile reed."

Newsweek concluded with the colleges' responsibility toward students and sex by stating that "nevertheless, the college must not abdicate its role in conserving, transmitting, and helping to mold both moral and intellectual values. It must do this without sounding pompous or pious. The college must make clear in a firm, sophisticated, and sometimes even 'cool' manner that sex with love is not really a moral standard, but an ambiguous slogan.

"In their bright college years, students should learn that sex can make extraordinary emotional demands as well as offer personal rewards. Sex can be fun, but at 19, or 20, it can also be very bad news.

"The colleges cannot tell a student what to think about sex, especially this generation of students which, by general agreement, is sharper and smarter than its predecessors.

"The colleges can only present the contemporary facts of life to their undergraduates as candidly as possible and then keep their fingers crossed, hoping that somehow the lesson seeps in. It means taking a chance on their intelligence, but that, after all, is the real nature of education." daa

Actors Display Perception In Dramatic Characterizations

By Noel Grove
McPherson Sentinel

Henrik Ibsen's play "A Doll's House" presented ample challenge and valuable experience in dramatic interpretation for the McPherson College players last weekend.

Part of the challenge lay in the fact that there were few "shouting" parts to hide behind, no clowns or drunks to portray with their broad action, with the exception of the slightly high "spirited" scene between Torvald and Dr. Rank in the third act.

Instead the play called for disciplined delivery and perceptive vision into the personalities of the main characters. In this matter, the theatric light radiated most brightly from Dell Ann Larsen, with her portrayal of Nora Helmer.

While one doesn't wish to discredit other members of the cast for their efforts, Miss Larsen left little for comparison. Her Nora was at once capricious, scheming, loving, and finally resolute—all this done with the skill to make the figure on the stage Nora, not Dell Ann Larsen, an especially difficult task in any local amateur-production.

Her most difficult sections appeared to be Nora's several moments of extreme frustration and anxiety, when perhaps a bit more intensity, well-tempered with restraint, might have lent more credibility to the emotion. But even this cast only a frail doubt on an otherwise equal and convincing performance.

John Harrison, as a last minute substitute in the part of Torvald, could be excused in his some time struggles with his lines. His final scene alone on the stage, a difficult one, was carried capably, but his businesslike treatment of Nora at the first of the play was different from the coddling, gently chiding husband Ibsen had envisioned.

Vance Alexander as Nils Krogstad was more apologetic than threatening. Anita Joy Ledell had moments of brightness when the emotion in the part of Christina Linden was properly channeled for her. Nelson Stump seemed to underplay Dr. Rank, the part with all the good lines as far as the audience was concerned, and the one offering the most obvious comic relief.

Stump was at his best, however, in his last scene, when he seemed, almost as genuinely intoxicated with his lines as Dr. Rank was supposed to be with the champagne.

Director Mrs. Una Yoder is to be congratulated for choosing and staging a play by an important author who all too often is restricted to college "history of the drama" courses. And Ibsen on the stage beats Ibsen on the page, any day.

We Get Letters . . .

Dear Editor,

The history of mankind is a history of ethnic groups, and among these one must, of course, list the family. Last week our president again expressed his views about the Mc-Pherson College Family, and Dr. Bittinger should be commended for his efforts to try to make our college experience as full and beneficial as he can.

While the family concept is not altogether useless, it likewise is not entirely perfect either.

A family, as any other ethnic group, I feel, is created solely for the benefit of its individual members, and when the group—the whole—becomes more important than the individuals who comprise it, then it is time for us to step back and make a serious appraisal.

Dr. Bittinger stated the idea that the weak members should be helped by the strong members of the group. Of course we would all agree with this, but as Dr. Bittinger stated, all members should be helped.

My question is: Are the strong being helped by the family? Or are they suppressed — hindered—held back? Is it right to force conformity, when the standards for this conformity infringe on the potential of the strong? Does the group help the strong? Are the outspoken encouraged? Are initiative and creativity met with enthusiasm?

There is ready help for the weak — the substandard—untalented—to bring them up to the level of the family, but what does this family offer the talented, or strong? Conformity and compromise or ostracism!

Fifteen years ago McPherson College was small, unknown and relatively impotent, and the security of a family concept offered fulfillment and identity to its members. Today McPherson is not small. It is growing, moving, and dynamic.

Yet the family concept is still the instrument used to meet our needs. Just as the family unit cannot meet the needs of a neighborhood community, neither can the family concept offer the solutions to the college community.

Unless we recognize our present needs, and tackle them with a realistic attitude turned to these needs, we will continue to waste the kinetic potential of the strong!

Brethren Youth Sponsor Rocky Mountain Hike

The Western Region Youth Cabinet of the Church of the Brethren is sponsoring an Older Youth Trail Hike from August 23-29 in the Rocky Mountains.

The total cost for the six-day hike is $35. All that students need to provide are clothing and personal items.

During the Hike, which begins within 15 miles of Aspen, Colo., hikers cover approximately thirty-five miles. The area included in the hike covers some of the highest country in the continental United States. One side trip takes hikers to 14,000 foot high Snow Mass peak.

The hike usually includes 25-30 older youth with student and adult leaders.

Ken Ullom, Macollege junior, will take part in leadership this summer.

Ken participated in last summer's hike and feels that "the outstanding part of the hike is the fellowship. Living, working, and hiking together for a week develops a close group feeling."

In addition, the group will get in on some of the finest lake and stream trout fishing in the state.

During the Hike last summer, the group developed an elite corps (also known as the polar bears) who wade across the mountain lakes in water 35-40 degrees.

Anyone interested in the Hike may contact Ken Ullom "in Metzler Hall. Early applications provide the possibility of coordinated transportation.

Tennis Team DeTour Shows Versatility Whips Bethel In Athletic Competition

The McPherson College tennis team defeated Bethel College 7 to 2 in a dual tennis meet here last Thursday, April 16.

Bill Kelly, M, defeated Charles Graber, B, 6-0, 6-2; Lynn Warner, M, defeated Marlin Unruh, B, 6-0, 6-0; Arlo Schmidt, B, defeated John Tegler, M, 6-3, 6-1; Phil Miller, M, defeated Charles Craig, B, 6-0, 7-5; Stanley E. Voth, B, defeated Larry Evans, M, 6-4, 6-3; Roger Emmert, M, defeated Ed Peters, B, 7-5, 7-5.

Warner - Miller, M, defeated Graber-Schmidt, B, 6-3, 6-2; Kelly-Tegler, M, defeated Unruh-Voth, B, 6-0, 6-0; Emmert-Evans, M, defeated Peters-Craig, B, 6-4, 6-2.

Bob DeTour, who broke the Macollege Javelin record last week with a throw of 198 ft. is a very versatile athlete. He also throws the shotput and the discus, and is fleet enough of foot to be considered a runner, although he has not run for the college.

In meets this season he has won two first places and a second place in the javelin and discus.

Bob is a freshman and a native of McPherson, where he was prominent in three sports. Playing fullback for his high school team he was voted the number one fullback in the CKL Conference his senior year.

Macollege football enthusiasts saw his talent in this sport last fall as he was the first string fullback on the Bulldog grid team.

Bob also played basketball in high school on teams that always ranked high in the conference. He played this past winter for a team in the McPherson Industrial League.

During the summer Bob works and lifts weights to stay in shape during the off season.

Being a history major, he hopes to one day become a judge in the courtroom. Teaching history may be an intermediary step between graduation and a judgeship.

Two Games In Softball Play

Team One won one game and lost one game in intramural softball action in the only two games completed thus far. On April 16 Team One defeated Team Four 9-4 behind the pitching of Nancy West. Stan Dalton and Russ Burkholder hurled for Team Four.

On April 20 the game between Team Three and Team Two was called because of rain with Team Three leading 6-0 in the first inning.

Team Three defeated One 4-2 on April 21 to round out the action this week. Bob Crabb pitched for team four, while Nancy West pitched for team one.

Bailey, Mohler To Read Papers To Historians

Gary Bailey and Edwin Mohler, both 1963 graduates of McPherson College, will present papers on the United States' intervention in Lebanon, 1958, to a dinner meeting of historians scheduled for Tuesday, April 28.

The paper by Mohler and critique by Bailey were first given to the McPherson College History class in the fall of 1961.

Norstrom Leads College Bowlers To NAIA Meet

Six Mac College pin busters qualified for the National NAIA Roll-off to be held today and tomorrow at the King Louis West Lanes in Kansas City, Mo.

Leroy Norstrom had the highest qualifying series of the group, bowling 1230 for a six game series. Others qualifying for the match were: Bill Kline, Bob Williams, Lynn Sorenson and Bill Loewen. Calvin Unruh will be a substitute.

Politics Class Observes Government in Operation

By Beverly Judge
Any observation of government in operation is open to variable factors which color one's view of what is seen and heard.

This was in part the experience of thirty-four students of American Politics in their first hand view of government in Washington, D. C. this month.

The "light housekeeping" duties of the House following their Easter recess, the Civil Rights debate in the Senate, and the death of General Douglas MacArthur are among the unpredictable factors which affected the interpretation of the Washington scene.

This is not to diminish in any way the impact of such a trip, for there could be no "ideal" time in which to see government in operation.

In no other way except by a personal visit can one hope to become truly acquainted with the manner in which government operates. No press account, television coverage, or reading of the Congressional Record could adequately communicate the understanding of government which one receives by sitting in the House and Senate galleries.

Rather it is the latter which makes the former meaningful. It is unfortunate, however, that so many people travel to Washington without first having had an introduction to the workings of government.

The Politics Class trip was supplemented with advanced preparation so that we were not overly alarmed by the fact that there were more people seated in the Visitors' Galleries of the Senate than there were Senators on the floor.

Neither did we have just cause to be shocked by the delaying tactics used by the Republican opponents of the Wheat-Cotton Bill on the House floor, nor by the Seante debate on Civil Rights Bill which in no manner resembled a typical debate.

Denied the understanding that the last bulk of legislative business transpired in committee meetings one would possibly conclude — as do the majority of tourists — that the men elected to legislative positions are wasting the taxpayers' money while taking a long winter's nap in Washington.

It would have been easy enough for all of us to undersell the significance of the Washington men. But this was not our prerogative, for we were not tourists.

Ideally we were serious students of the American government working on a first-hand interpretation of the substance of government; in this context we could not be disappointed in what we observed.

Hinkle Begins Duties As Secretarial Aid

Mrs. Mürle Hinkle brings many years of experience as school secretary to her new position as secretary to Kenneth Yingst, director of development and public relations.

Mrs. Hinkle and her husband make their home in Cahoon where he is an International dealer. She has just completed more than six years in secretarial work for the Canton schools.

The Hinkles have two daughters. The oldest is the wife of Karl Balmer, a Church of the Brethren minister and lives in Newport News, Virginia.

Her other daughter lives in Manhattan where her husband is a student in the Kansas

State University School of Veterinary Medicine.

Sewing and reading are important pastimes for Mrs. Hinkle.

"I will soon wear trifocals instead of bifocals," says Mrs. Hinkle, "because most of my hobbies require a lot of close eye work."

"I used to make all of my own clothes and all of my daughters' clothes but for many years I haven't had time," she said.

Much of Mrs. Hinkle's time is spent playing bridge and bowling. She says that her bowling scores are not anything spectacular but she enjoys playing.

Spears, Burkholder

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Spears, Waterloo, Iowa, announce the engagement of their daughter, Marjorie Ellen to Jon David Burkholder, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Burkholder, Preston, Minn.

An August wedding is planned.

Yoder, Emmert

Mr. and Mrs. R. Gordon Yoder, McPherson, announce the engagement of their daughter, Marcia to Dennis Emmert, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Emmert of Adel, Iowa.

Following graduation in June, Miss Yoder will leave for the Hawaiian Islands for the summer. She will be an elementary teacher in the Salina public school system this fall.

Mr. Emmert will be working near Des Moines, Iowa this summer and will return to McPherson College where he will be a senior this fall.

No definite wedding date has been set.

Women Plan Style Show For Fine Arts Festival

The spotlight will be on both winter and summer fashions when the Home Economics Department presents "Paris in Springtime"—a style show and tea on May 9 at 2:30 p.m. in Brown Auditorium.

The style show and tea will be held in conjunction with the second annual Fine Arts Festival which is May 8-10.

Sheryl Hollis, senior from Waterloo, Iowa, and Dona Hutchison, senior from Thomas, Oklahoma are in charge of the show.

Models will be students enrolled in tailoring, applied dress design, and fundamentals of clothing classes this year and last year.

Students who will model their garments are: Pearl Eckhardt, Muriel Gibson, Dona Hutchison, Beverly Jackson, Judy Richards Janzen, Deanna Johnson, Anita Joy Ledell, Bethel Miller, Connie Nichols, Judy Penny, Joyce Shobe, Robert Slack, Elva Stryker, and Betty Thalman.

The setting will be in a French sidewalk cafe with background organ music provided by Marilyn Albin, senior from Quinter.

The tea in Friendship Hall following the style show is being planned by the Foods and Meal Planning class. Jeanette Bartel, chairman.

Carolyn Pieratt, freshman from Emmetsburg, Iowa, and Roberta Slack, sophomore from Imperial, Neb., are on the committee. Roberta will be hostess.
