

Fumitaka Matsuo, exchange student from Japan, enlightens Dr. Bittinger about some aspects of the Far East as they discuss the new Far East course being offered to students of surrounding colleges on Monday evenings.

Colleges Study The Far East

Dr. D. W. Bittinger, president of McPherson College, is conducting a three hour class on the cultural study of the Far East and Sub-Continent countries. Composed of 37 members, the class meets on Monday evenings from 7 to 9:30.

Five surrounding colleges, Bethel, Bethany, Kansas Wesleyan, and Tabor have joined with McPherson College to make this venture a success. Materials, such as pamphlets and films, have been obtained from the embassies of different countries.

Furthering a better understanding of the cultures, problems, and development of these countries and a greater appreciation of them, is the purpose of the course. The study will tie in the political beliefs to the culture and the early background of the countries.

In commenting on the project, Dr. Bittinger remarked that the colleges which have joined together for this course will continue with other projects after this semester. A course on Latin America has been planned for second semester and other subjects are being considered for future courses.

Dr. Bittinger also stated that organizations such as the Ford Foundation and Fulbright Foundation were eager to assist in furthering such studies. Colleges offering courses of this nature are able to receive materials and equipment which would otherwise be economically impossible.

McAuley Dispels American Image

"What are Americans really like?" This is the question that Art McAuley, sophomore from Elizabethtown, Pa., and seven other young men from different midwestern colleges and universities tried to answer this summer in Hong Kong.

What Art likes to call a "student confrontation" is sponsored every two years by the Y.M.C.A. to promote understanding among American and foreign students. The "confrontation" continued for thirty days in Hong Kong and for several weeks in taking side trips to Japan and the Philippine Islands.

The program worked in this way: Each American student, paired with a Chinese student, visited the roof-top schools sponsored by the Chinese Y.M.C.A. of Hong Kong in sub-standard tenements called "seven-ups." Their work in the schools consisted of making friends with the children and of encouraging them to learn to know an American.

Art, who learned about the program from a former student here, was selected on the basis of an application and several personal interviews with sponsors of the program.

Excited about the apparent success of such a "confrontation," Art expressed what he feels to have been the greatest profit from his experience in Hong Kong: "We suddenly began to realize that there are people other than Americans in the world and that they think much differently from us.

"Meeting and talking with the Chinese students, who, like us, were from every walk of life, gave us insight into what is really going on in other countries."

"What are Americans really like?" Art McAuley hopes that he has helped to dispel images of the "Ugly American" in Hong Kong by participating in what he calls a "student confrontation."

A Cappella Choir Sings at State Fair

The McPherson College A Cappella Choir was a part of the inter-denominational worship service which was held Sunday morning at the Kansas State Fair and was seen live over KTVH-TV from Hutchinson.

The choir had been invited to take a major role in the service by the Kansas State Fair Board under the sponsorship of the Kansas Council of Churches. Leaving the campus at Mac at 8:15 Sunday morning, they arrived in Hutchinson at 9:00 and were given a police escort to the fair grounds.

The service began at 10:00 and a congregation of nearly 600 were present to participate in the devotional experience. The choir presented three an-

Artist To Speak In Assembly

Mrs. Sune Richards, nationally known photographer, artist, and minister will be guest speaker at the assembly to be held on October 2. Many of her paintings have been placed in distinguished salons and prize exhibitions.

Her greatest work of art was her painting of the 12 disciples of Jesus of Nazareth. She searched for 14 years looking for individuals whom she believed portrayed the disciples. Behind this painstaking search also came weeks of Bible study, research into historical and literary sources, consultation with Bible and church authorities, and long production work at the camera.

Much recognition has come to Sune Richards. She has won a "Master's Degree in Photography," which is the highest award a professional artist can receive. She has also had over 500,000 copies of her photo-paintings of the disciples printed and circulated throughout the world. Reproductions of her paintings will be included in the new edition of the Bible.

German Club To Hold Recital

The recital will be held at Presser Hall, Bethany College,

Play Production For Teachers Class busily adjusts the lights for the production, "Sabrina Fair."

Alpha Psi Lab Theater Begins Sept. 29

Alpha Psi Omega met on Sept. 16 to discuss the details of setting up a laboratory theater.

The first laboratory theater will be held on stage in Brown Auditorium on Tuesday, Sept. 29, from 7 to 8.

At this first meeting Prof. Rehner will lecture and demonstrate how to produce a play or cutting arena-style. All students interested in drama are urged to attend.

Vida Sue Werner, senior, Wiconna; Jim Ockerman, senior, Hollansburg, Ohio; and Charlie Dadisman, senior, Nevada, Ia., were appointed as the steering committee to supervise the activities of the new laboratory theater.

Alpha Psi also discussed the possibility of holding a masquerade ball in the spring.

The regular meeting time for Alpha Psi was set for the first and third Wednesday of each month from 6 till 7 p.m.

Forensics Club Meets

Eight people were present at the first Forensics Club meeting. This club is available to students who are interested in debate, discussion, original oratory, extemporaneous speaking, and interpretive speaking.

The debate topic for this year is: Resolved: that the Federal Government should establish a national program for the unemployed.

Numerous invitations have been issued to the McPherson College debaters to attend debates at other colleges and universities.

Included among these are invitations from College of Emporia, Kansas State Teachers College, Kansas State University, Kearney, Nebraska, Wichita University, Iowa State College, and Southwestern College.

Stage Crew Begins Work

Rehearsals having begun for "Sabrina Fair," the first dramatic production of the school year, Prof. Loren Rehner has started organizing the production crew. Prof. Rehner stated, "The stage and construction crew will consist of members of the Play Production for Teachers class and any volunteers."

In charge of designing and lighting is Bryce York, sophomore from Hope.

"Sabrina Fair" is staged on an exterior set, which, according to Prof. Rehner, "involves the construction of walls, a fountain with flowing water, an extensive terrace, a large canopy, and numerous shrubs and trees."

To increase the efficiency of play production, the set, which should be completed within three weeks, is to be portable and thus able to be put up and taken down in a very short time.

Prof. Rehner concluded: "Sabrina Fair" is a difficult show technically, because of the complicated lighting, the exterior set, and the amount of stage properties that will have to be used.

Tryouts for "Antigone" will be October 5, before "Sabrina Fair" is given.

Drama Benefits Students

No student's education is quite complete until he has been in or helped produce a dramatic production.

At Macollege it has been the pattern that not very many students show up for play tryouts. Why this is, I'm not sure. The dramatics department doesn't put on one or two plays a semester just for the director's satisfaction. Drama is for the benefit of the students.

Plays are put on through a mass cooperative effort of actors, stage crew, and directors. Each are equally important, and if one fails to do his job, it affects the entire production. One learns cooperation and also gains a great sense of achievement participating in a group effort like this.

Schoolwork is also benefited. The more one memorizes, the easier it becomes, and after memorizing parts for plays, it becomes easier to retain school lessons.

Acting develops tremendously the speaking ability of a person and teaches him confidence in himself as he learns to face an audience.

One of the biggest rewards (momentary at least) is the applause—the great feeling of exaltation mixed with pride and a sense of achievement as the audience shows its appreciation.

Why are students then reluctant to try out for drama? Perhaps because they feel they don't have a chance of getting a part.

It is true, not everyone who tries out can get a part for every play. Now, however, we are beginning a laboratory theater program which will give a chance for all students to participate. Any student who is interested can direct a play or be in a play.

The drama program is set up for the benefit of the students. Take advantage of it. —cal

Life Is A Football Game

By C. L. Dadisman
Life is one big football game. It depends on "pre-game" training, convinced mental attitude toward winning the "game", readiness on the "kickoff", determination on the "kickoff return", watching for opportunities to further your advancement on the "field", the ability to be knocked down and to bounce up and plan another course of action, and having your eyes set toward the aim of the achievement of your goals.

The "pre-season training" helps one to get into a ready physical condition for the game itself. This training is very important, for without it you will not be ready for the game, and therefore, will lose ground once you are put out on the field.

Even if you do go through with your training, you should be very certain that it is the best you can possibly find. The facilities may be present, but if you are not making the best use of them, you are doing more self-destruction than self-construction.

In other words, total preparation and training prior to the "game" is important for those who desire to be on the side of progress in this challenge rather than on the side of regression. Excellence in a complete training program will produce excellence in actual participation.

A convincing mental attitude holds importance in that once doubt has entered your mind, you are not only going against the challenger in this "game", but you are also going against yourself.

An alert mind, a mind of readiness is perhaps the greatest security you will be able to hold on to when meeting the challenge.

Readiness is of utmost importance at the moment of the kickoff, the beginning of the "game". Were not readiness present, defeat will cause your downfall before you even are allowed to carry the ball. Once you have readiness, determination sets in and the initial run up the field seems easier than what was previously imagined. Determination is a key factor in any victory.

However, even when running with determination and readiness, you can still be stopped unless you also run with open eyes. Use your eyes to see those opportunities to further your cause, and then use your determination to shoot the gap.

Occasionally, you will get knocked down, or stepped on, or mistreated. This is a challenge to be met with the ability to bounce back up on to your feet and revamp your methods to meet the obstacles holding you back.

Above all, keep your eyes open and always in sight of the goals which you desire to achieve. Sometimes the air may be foggy or maybe even filled with rain, but if you keep your eyes open and do not worry about what is behind but what is ahead, the winning of the "game" will be easier.

Juniors Take Proficiency Test

Macollege juniors took the annual English Proficiency test to determine their working knowledge of the English language on Saturday, September 12.

All juniors are required to take the test, and anyone expecting to graduate is required to pass the test, although only about fifty per cent of those who take it, pass it on the first try.

Of the 105 juniors who took the test 49 failed. All the persons who fail the test are required to take one semester of English Review (00), during which time they will have the opportunity to take the test again.

Neher Remains As Housemother

Miss Edna Neher, former housemother of Dotzour Hall, was able to retain position as housemother of Arnold Hall after suffering a crippling injury as the result of a fall during the summer.

Miss Neher's right side was paralyzed as a result of the fall.

However, after a rapid recovery, she decided to stay as housemother of Arnold Hall.

Miss Neher has been a housemother at McPherson for twenty one years and said, "I like McPherson and was very glad to be able to return."

Goldwater Ignores Growth, Progress

Letters to the editor from students, faculty members, or others are welcomed. All letters must be signed, but the name of the writer need not appear in print.
Letters may be submitted to the editor or placed in the campus mail. Contributions do not necessarily reflect the policy or opinion of The Spectator, the administration, or the faculty of McPherson College.

Dear Editor,

It seems fitting that typical "Goldwater Republicans" would define the form of government they aspire to with a quote directly from 18th century political philosophy.

They consider this the ultimate in government form and completely ignore the growth, progress and change that has made what was a good system and philosophy into a much better working government.

As a party, the Democrats are acutely aware of their political heritage as the party of the common people, which dates back to Jefferson and Jackson and continues through the policies of F.D.R., J.F.K. and today in those of Lyndon Johnson.

With this in mind, the policies of today's administration, like those in the past, are not trying to subvert the will of the people into a dictator type state, as has wrongly been alleged.

In fact, it has been the active participation and voice of the people in government that has helped the Democratic party take the lead in progressive legislation, past and present.

It is also typical that some of Goldwater's supporters have made statements in last week's "Point of View" that were rash and will need much clarification, or so strikingly simple they mean little to any reader.

They stated in fact that Goldwater certainly is "... not against civil rights, farming, foreign aid, labor-management, or aid to education."

No one will have to clarify the points in this statement about farming or labor management, for I see no way anyone, even the Senator from Arizona, could object to farming or labor-management. (I do thank his supporters for assuring us he is for something.)

However, I wonder if his supporters could uphold his positive stand on the other issues such as civil rights, foreign aid, or aid to education, by citing his voting record in congress.

I doubt it. On most of these issues, Goldwater is found to be consistently voting against the majority opinion of his colleagues in Congress.

This has shown his constant conflict with the will of the people he aspires to serve.

This conflict might account for the new uprising of the "Goldwater Democrats." This is a group of voters who are going Democrat because the Republicans went Goldwater.

In conclusion, Barry Goldwater does offer this nation a choice. The choice of a future with a free prosperous, progressing nation that is evident today, or a reactionary, provincial government based on Goldwater's yesterday.

Why Are Student Jobs Slowly Disappearing

Dear Editor,

Why are jobs for students on campus slowly disappearing? Is it because students are not thought capable of handling these jobs? As for the first, most students would much rather work on campus because of transportation and the feeling of being more a part of the college atmosphere.

Surely it isn't the latter, for students who can hold down responsible jobs during the summer are capable of performing typing and filing tasks as well as business management positions.

Economically, it seems as though it would be cheaper for the college to hire college students rather than non-students (especially with the salary college students receive.)

It seems that campus jobs for students should be limited to full-time students because actually they are the ones that have to foot the heaviest bill. Why can't they have an opportunity to earn part of it here on campus?

College students are capable of doing responsible and adequate jobs and should be given a chance to do so. College is preparation for life; why take a very helpful preparing device away?

1963-64 Quadrangle Receives B+ Award

The 1963-64 Quadrangle yearbook of McPherson College, which was edited by Marcia Yoder, received a B plus score, meaning very good, by the National School Yearbook Association, now located in Memphis, Tennessee.

Announcement of this meritorious score was made by N. S. Patterson, founder and director of this professional service directed at helping school-college staffs and advisers produce more journalistic and more artistic yearbooks.

Bulldogs Battle KWU Coyotes

Tomorrow night, the Macollege Bulldogs travel to Salina to battle the Kansas Wesleyan Coyotes in the second game of the young football season for both teams.

Throughout the years these teams have traded victories with the Bulldogs having a slight edge in the past three games.

Last year the Bulldogs jumped off to a quick start with a touchdown on the first play from scrimmage and went on to win 24-0. In the two games previous to that, the Bulldogs won by a one point margin in each.

Both teams will be looking for their first victory of the season. In their first outing the Coyotes were barely defeated 6-0 by a strong Southwestern club, while the Bulldogs were knocked off 34-14 by College of Emporia.

Last year the Bulldogs tied with Kansas Wesleyan for seventh place in the conference with identical records of 3 wins and 6 losses.

The Coyotes probable starting lineup will be:

QB—Dee Koltzow—180 pounds
HB—Gary Leazure—

160 pounds

Ron Magathan—170 pounds

FB—Ken Hanson—168 pounds

C—Jack Clover—210 pounds

G—Terry Sommers—109

pounds

Alan Morgan—160 pounds

T—Cliff Montgomery—230

pounds

Gary Fields—210 pounds.

Ten Participate In Cross-Country

Ten boys checked out their cross-country uniforms on September 16, at 4:00 p.m.

Wiggins Elected Player of the Week

Charles Wiggins, 6 ft. 1½ in., 184 pound junior end from McPherson was chosen by his teammates as player of the week after the Bulldogs first game with College of Emporia.

This is quite an honor as the team voted on the player who has shown the most desire, leadership, and enthusiasm both on and off the field during the first three weeks of practice.

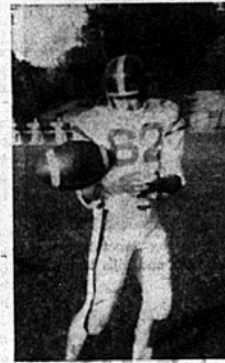

Charlie played an outstanding game against C of E, catching five passes for 98 total yards, including two that scored the Bulldogs two touchdowns against the Presbies.

Charlie thinks that the team has some excellent prospects for this year. He pointed out that there is good team spirit and most of the boys enjoy the contact that football brings them.

"To win, a team must block and tackle better than their opponents," added Charlie, "and this year the Bulldogs will be blocking and tackling with the best of the teams."

Charlie played four years of high school football, and has played two years in college.

Charlie is majoring in education and minoring in history, an education that he hopes will lead him to a coaching career.

Charles Wiggins, 184 pound junior from McPherson, who was chosen player of the week by his teammates, shows the pass catching form that he used to catch five passes, two of them good for touchdowns, in the Bulldogs opener against College of Emporia.

Reazin Wins Pair of Shoes

Tom Reazin, 180 pound junior linebacker from Lyons, received his choice of the shoes in Miller's Shoe Store, after an excellent defensive effort against C of E in the Bulldogs opening football game.

Miller's Shoe Store annually gives away a pair of shoes to the Macollege player who makes the most tackles in the opening football game.

It was a tight race this year for the shoes, as the Bulldogs had a fine team effort on defense. Reazin led with nine tackles, followed by Nick Petrucci, 205 pound senior middle guard, and John Beckwith, 180 pound senior linebacker with seven tackles each.

Judging from last week's scores, the KCAC will be a much better-balanced league this year. The only major upset was Sterling's 14-0 win over Bethany, but all the other scores were much closer than expected.

Tops among the contenders for most-unexpected - strength honors would be the Bulldogs' next opponent, Kansas Wesleyan. Strong Southwestern scored only once against the Coyotes, and that was early in the game.

Other scores were Baker over Bethel 20-6, Ottawa over Friends only 19-0, and of course C of E over Mac 34-14.

The Bulldogs will be trying for their fourth straight win over Wesleyan Saturday night. The Coyotes undoubtedly will be "up", and the game should prove an interesting proving ground for both teams to test their new-found muscles.

Douglas Lausinger, freshman from Petersburg, Pa.; Alan Waltner, sophomore from Pretty Prairie; and Merlin Grady, senior from Waterloo, Iowa, get in shape for the intramural volleyball season.

Favored Presbies Defeat Macollege Bulldogs, 34-14

In their first outing of the season the Macollege Bulldogs were beaten 34-14 by heavily favored College of Emporia.

The Presbies scored first and held a 6-0 lead throughout the first quarter when the Bulldogs clicked on a touchdown pass from Buddy Taylor to right end Charles Wiggins. McPherson's 7-6 lead stood up through most of the first half until the Presbies scored two quick touchdowns to take a 20-6 lead to the dressing room at half time.

The second half was almost the same story with the Pres-bies scoring one touchdown on an intercepted pass, and the Bulldogs again scoring on an aerial from Taylor to Wiggins.

Barrows Sells Ads for Spec

By Doug Rapp

If one sees Jerry Barrows or Jim Lambert scratching their respective heads loose of dandruff, it's probably because they're wondering how they are going to pay for the next issue of the Spectator.

Jerry, a junior from Waterloo, is the Business Manager for the Spectator and Jim, a sophomore from Inman, is the Assistant Business Manager.

These boys cover quite a bit of ground in one week just so you and I may glance at the weekly paper.

The total cost of the paper is about $3,700 dollars a year, of which we the students pay $709 through our tuition fees. It is their job to raise the additional $2,991 through the sale of advertisements and non-student subscriptions.

It all begins on Thursday when Jerry and Jim contact downtown McPherson businessmen in person to sell advertisements. "We have trouble sometimes," said Jim, but Jerry added, "It always helps when a customer tells the merchant he saw the store's advertisement in the Spectator."

On Saturday and Sunday Jerry does anything from updating the books to dusting the Spec office.

On Monday the real work begins for the advertisements must be completely designed and drawn up from scratch. A merchant may say, "Give me a funny one," another may say, "Make mine catchy." Of course," said Jim, "all merchants want theirs to be seen the most."

This work carries over into Tuesday with a mad scramble to finish but "Wednesday is our day off," Jerry said emphatically!

Thursday, of course, work begins again for the following week's paper.

On Friday the Spectator comes off the press at 11 a.m. After his 10:30 class, Jim rounds up Alan Walther, sophomore from Pretty Prairie, and together they pick up the Spectator from the office of the McPherson Sentinel where it is printed. They then hurry back to Mac and deposit copies in our mail boxes, but their job isn't through yet. They, along with Jerry, must now tackle the job of mailing out 550 copies of the Spectator to all parts of the United States.

"We usually kiss them off at the post office at about 4 o'clock," said Jerry, "and then head for Peter Pan."

I asked Jerry, "Why did you take this job?" He simply replied, "Some might take it for the experience, but I'm in it for the money, 300 bucks worth."

The job is a two year episode and Jim will automatically assume the job of Business Manager next year as will his assistant, who might be one of you the following year."

Librarian Teaches Correct Library Use

Miss Harris, librarian, is teaching the Written Communications classes about the library once a week for four weeks.

The first week she discussed general information concerning how to check out and locate books and magazines. The second week she told how books are classified and arranged and the card catalog.

The periodical index and special indexes will be explained and then a test on how to use the library, prepared by the Teachers College of Columbia University, will be given.

Schedule For Quad Pictures

Schedules have been made concerning the times students will be allowed to have their pictures taken for the Quadrangle.

Each individual appointment will be scheduled according to room numbers in the dormitories. All the pictures will be taken in the Student Union Conference Room.

Boys are asked to wear a white shirt, a dark, long tie, and a dark suit jacket (black or navy). Girls will be provided with the proper attire when they meet their appointment.

Seniors will have evening appointments, either Wednesday or Thursday evening. Boys are asked to wear dark suits and long ties. Girls may wear what they choose.

Seniors only may select the pose they wish to appear in the yearbook and pay $1.50 for retouching. All seniors will be notified further for an individual appointment.

The schedules have been set up according to dormitories as follows:

Wednesday, Sept. 30—
8:00-9:00 Fahnestock Hall
9:00-11:40 Metzler Hall
11:40-12:05 Arnold Hall

School Nurse Announces Campus Infirmary Hours

School nurse for McPherson College, Madeline Olt, may be contacted by campus and college court students during infirmary hours Monday through Saturday at Dotzour Hall 7:30-8:30 a.m. and Metzler Hall 2:10-2:45 p.m. Any fellows requiring medical attention, may contact Miss Olt at Dotzour within the scheduled times.

Miss Olt has suggested that it would be in order for all new students to acquaint themselves with the health provisions as listed on page 20 of the college catalog.

In case of emergency, she may be contacted through Dotzour or the telephone operator. On Sunday she may be reached at Dotzour Hall.

The following reminders are listed for the convenience of students:

- (1) A student too ill to go to the cafeteria may have a tray brought to his room by a friend after obtaining a signed slip by either the housemother in the dorm or the school nurse.
- (2) Physician appointments are made by the college nurse who will give a student a signed slip to present to the physician. This is a necessity.

CYR's to Hear Goldwater Speak

The McPherson College chapter of The Collegiate Young Republicans held their first meeting Monday September 21, to organize for their trip to Wichita this past Thursday. In Wichita the group of 40 students heard a major address from their parties standard bearer, Senator Barry M. Goldwater.

John Miller, club chairman of the CYR's expressed the view that although the club has already had a large turnout of students, many more are welcome and can join by contacting him or any other member of the club.

Besides their trip to Wichita, the CYR's plan to have a mock election, a trip to see President Johnson, to provide assistance for McPherson County Republicans, and a possible election night party including a dance. They also plan to have Bob Dole, United States Representative for the first Kansas district, as a chapel speaker in October.

Dr. Raymond Flory, head of the history and political science departments at McPherson College, is the club's faculty advisor.

The main purpose of the CYR's is to create interest in politics as well as to give members an insight into the thought and policy of the Republican Party.
