New Majors To Be Added

Dean Reynolds, registrar, has announced the inclusion of two new majors, foreign language and physical education, in the curriculum effective in the fall. Proposed by the Curriculum Committee, the addition was approved by the faculty.

Language majors will be offered in German and Spanish, with emphasis placed on composition, speaking proficiency and the particular country's civilization.

The 20 required hours of first and second year courses do not apply toward a major, explained

Dr. Jan van Asselt, associate professor of languages. Twenty-five hours are required beyond those two courses.

Required also will be the spending of the junior year abroad, studying Spanish or German conversation, composition, literature, history, contemporary thought and philosophy.

For the physical education major, 28 hours will be required, most of them in courses already in the present curriculum, according to Reynolds. Six hours must be filled in skills proficiency in dual or individual sports, and two hours in team sports.

Remaining will be distribution of hours in Methods, health, recreation, first aid, organization, anatomy and kinesiology and history, philosophy and principles of physical education. Physics will be a required supporting course.

Electives will include skills and dance courses or care and treatment of athletic injuries.

Parade Highlights All Schools Day

By Marcella Sherry

Raucous noise, ceaseless movement and carefree fun are the traditional trademarks of McPherson's All Schools Day. Prospects for this year's festivities, to be held May 20, do not differ from past experiences.

The theme for this year's celebration is "Kansas, Home of Miss America, 1966." The day, which is to be a Macollege holiday, will find various portrayals of this idea, although Miss America will not actually be in the city.

The celebration, marking its 33rd occurrence this year, is a McPherson County tradition. All Schools Day began as a way of entertaining and honoring the eighth grade graduates of the county.

Its focus has been broadened to all school ages, although the graduates are still given special recognition.

Activities really begin on the evening of May 18 and 19 with a May Fete program. This event, which takes place in the bandshell at Lakeside Park, is begun with the crowning of a May Queen, chosen from the McPherson High School senior class.

A Maid of Honor and Prince Charming, also from McPherson, as well as princes and princesses from the county high schools, will then be recognized.

The season and the evening will come to flower with the winding of the May Pole followed by dances and skits giving color and sound to the Miss America theme.

Dorm Construction Ahead of Schedule

Construction of the new men's residence hall going up behind Metzler Hall on Baer Street is approximately two weeks ahead of schedule according to the projected chart by the O'Mear Chandler Benson Company of Houston.

So far the drilling and pouring of bell caissons, and the construction of the first floor slab and the second floor columns is completed, while the plumbing installation and electrical wiring has begun.

Construction of the third floor columns and slabs, which was

The Macollege art department is painting the scenery for the pageant and the Modern Dance class will be participating.

The top of railroad boxcars, roofs of buildings and ample blocks of curbing are fair game in the contest of getting a seat for the parade at 11:00 a.m. May 20, which highlights All Schools Day.

Crowds, which have been estimated at 20,000 by the Highway Patrol in past years, will view a parade over an hour in length. The main substance of it is approximately 20 floats representing the grade schools of the county and carrying their graduates.

Other entries will be various organizational floats, 27 bands from surrounding schools, decorated bicycles, old cars and farm equipment, horses, clowns, and a float for the May Fete royalty.

In addition, every grade school child in the city will tramp the length of Main firmly clutching a decorated balloon.

The day is by no means over with the completion of the parade. The eighth grade graduates will be given a dinner and an awards assembly.

For the rest of the city the afternoon is waiting with picnics and sunburns, queasy stomachs and thrills.

The traditional carnival will set up for business in the municipal parking lot back of the new YMCA building.

A platform for novelty and musical entertainment will be located on the downtown streets. Dances and a rodeo will take place later in the day.

Painting, lathing, plastering, laying of ceramic tile, and acoustical ceiling, and installation of toilet partitions will be completed in the next three months.

If construction continues ahead of schedule the final clean-up and inspection may be finished before August 12, and in plenty of time for the fall semester.

Dr. Godard Is Guest Speaker For Graduation

Dr. James M. Godard, president of the Council of Protestant Colleges and Universities, Washington, D. C., will give the address for the combined McPherson College baccalaureate commencement ceremonies, May 29, 1966, at 2:30 p.m.

He has served on the faculties of both colleges, and was dean and education professor, Queens College, Charlotte, N. C., for 13 years.

Dr. Godard has received five honorary degrees from various universities.

The title of Dr. Godard's presentation will be "The College and the Changing World."

Speaking Is May Fare For Melhorn

Activities of Dr. J. Jack Melhorn, president, for the remainder of May include two commencement addresses and attendance at a Leadership Breakfast.

"Change and Stability" will be the topic of Dr. Melhorn's commencement address to the audience at Galva's high school graduation exercises, May 17.

Invited by the Wichita Citizen's Committee, Dr. Melhorn will attend the Wichita Leadership Breakfast at the Broadview Hotel, May 18, 1966.

Dr. Melhorn will be commencement speaker at Hillsboro for the high school graduation exercises the evening of May 27.

Admissions Occupies New Office

The old, neat, functional but cramped office of admissions director Guy Hayes and his secretary Myrna Hauck were transplanted to a more spacious dwelling during Easter vacation.

The new offices, under construction for some time, were made ready for the occupants Friday, April 8.

The superiority of the location and the advantages of the new offices are readily apparent. Parents and students alike will enjoy the comfort of the added space in the reception area, and personal interviews will be granted additional privacy.

A change of scenery isn't the only alteration the admissions office will undergo, for it is anticipated that a second full time person will be employed to help shoulder the admissions work load.

Expanded part time help from students will also be added. As of March 31, applications were 45 ahead of last year at that time, partly accounting for the necessity of extra help.

College Benefits Thinkers

"To most people nothing is more troublesome than the effort of thinking," said James Bryce.

The college community should nevertheless offer opportunities for its members to think and to grow in an environment rich with learning experiences.

Responsibility for this learning process lies at both poles of the academic spectrum. In the faculty lies the charge of providing surroundings with free lines of communication, amiable arguments and treatment of students as adults.

Left to the student is the choice to accept or reject the challenge of a healthy atmosphere and its improvement.

It is upon the student's handling of the challenge that successful education pivots. His willingness to exchange old ideas for new, his desire to ask questions and to criticize constructively are essential to the vitality of learning.

Students must want to do more than merely "get by." They must want to produce more than a regurgitation of facts in acceptable verbal patterns to "make" the acceptable C- on an examination.

Otherwise, their education is an end in itself instead of a tool with which to think independently.

Prof. Retires After 20 Years

A professor whose tasks have regularly included the rigors of a climb to fourth floor Harbly, Mrs. Audrey L. San Romani, associate professor of piano and organ, will retire from the college teaching profession at the end of this school year.

Mrs. San Romani, a native of Kansas, gained most of her education from Lindsay's Bethany College and from study under Helen Curtis in Chicago.

Having been in the field of education all her life, she began her work by teaching methods in class piano in Arkansas City. Mrs. San Romani came to McPherson College in 1945 after serving as music supervisor of grade teachers in Ottawa.

The music faculty at Macollege when Mrs. San Romani came consisted of a piano instructor, a voice teacher, and an instructor in music education. She entered in the latter capacity. She also began the teaching of pipe organ during her first years here.

In 1951, following a serious illness, Mrs. San Romani became a full-time piano and organ instructor as well as teaching one class in grade music methods. She presently is teaching 28 piano students and 10 organ pupils.

The time following retirement will not be one of strict leisure for Mrs. San Romani. This summer from June 20-24, she will participate in a Piano Workshop at Kansas State University at Manhattan, conducted by Robert Dunn from the Boston Conservatory.

Mrs. San Romani is also planning to teach piano privately at home next year as well as spending more time in practice herself.

Her hobby of needlework, which includes Italian hemstitching, Spanish cutwork, satin embroidery and crocheting, will also have more time in her schedule.

The Draft Dilemma—

Selective Service Schedules Define Student Draft Status

Editor's Note: This is the third in a series of articles dealing with aspects of the Selective Service and their implications for the college student.

By Phil Grove
Where do college students stand in regard to the draft? The Selective Service System has a scheme for helping the local draft boards decide which college students should be drafted.

The plan is to draft students who are in the lower half of their college classes. They are given an option, however, of taking a test. If they pass the test, they will be deferred, even if they are at the bottom of their classes.

The test will be given at examining centers throughout the United States. Macollege students may take the test May 14, at 8:30 a.m. in Brown Auditorium, but must have their ticket of admission with them. The test will examine one's

Unquenchables Asked To Contribute or Leave

Dear Editor,

There has been so much static on this campus this year that it seems necessary to appease an inner opinion on it.

There is a group on campus which can aptly be called the unquenchables, unquenchable with insatiable appetites for what may be termed social orders.

They grip about: Mandatory chapel; Slater food; the no-smoking rule; the incompetent instructors; that crummy paper; the lack of good-looking broads; the stupid social and sport events and so on.

We reach our first point — they gripe. That is all they do — just gripe. When they are given the chance to speak up or help out Stu-Co or Slater by filling out questionnaires, all they can do is fill in the blanks with something some little fourth-grader learns in the back alley. No difference — intellectually or socially.

When they are given a chance to join a committee, they sign their buddy's name to pull a "funny" on him, college-style, you know.

When they are given a chance for a little cultural advancement in chapel, they respond to the catcalls their group makes, their minds never quiver nor absorb the message.

There is a difference between an agitation and a constructive criticism and all these "unquenchables" seem to do is agitate — not criticize. That is above them intellectually.

We have a little message for them from this corner: If they don't like the way the instructors instruct, the food is served the events are run — help us all out a little and remove your invaluable presence next year. Simplified, it means leave.

We of the "satiables" or "bearers of the unbearable toll" will be rid of one of our biggest complaints if you do.

We will try to carry the burden of this institution and all its imperfections because we can see, for all its bad points, it can offer us more and progressively more good ones.

Two Coeds in Finals Of Hutch Pageant

Apprehensive about tomorrow evening's Miss Hutchinson Pageant at 8 in Hutchinson's convention Hall are two participants from McPherson College, Susan Frederick, fr., McPherson, and Wanda McDonough, fr., Grinnell, Iowa.

The pageant, sponsored by district Jaycees and their wives, the Jaycee Jaynes, will be the culmination of a flurry of special luncheons, rehearsals and talks in which the two women, along with ten others, have been taking part.

The coeds will dine at noon on Friday with the current Miss America, Deborah Bryant, who will also be present at the pageant that evening.

The judging is based on poise, talent, charm and appearance in modeling evening gowns and bathing suits.

Both women, along with the other ten, will wear identical black bathing suits in the evening gown division; both will wear floor-length dresses of different styles and shades of blue. Susan will be singing "Let My Song Fill Your Heart," a Viennese waltz by Ernest Charles, as her talent presentation. Wanda will interpret an original comic piece, "Can I, Mom?" for her presentation.

Both coeds feel they are gaining a great deal of self-confidence and poise through the contacts they have made during the course of the contest preliminaries. In addition, each agrees that it has been a valuable, if not exhausting, experience.

Since it's too late to change our prediction about Cincinnati winning the National League pennant this year, it is time to defer to a bright side of baseball—a rookie with the potential of the likes baseball has never seen. His name is Rick Reichardt. He plays outfield for the California Angels.

Reichardt stands six feet three inches and weighs 215 pounds. In college at Wisconsin, he batted .547 in his senior year.

With 50 scouts in attendance for one of his games, ready to offer him in excess of 200 G's, Reichardt unloaded five hits including three homers, one a 510 foot blast.

Reichardt runs his sturdy form over 100 yards in 9.7 seconds, and led the Big Ten in pass receiving in his junior year.

This year, in his first big league season, he is hitting a cool .318 with eight homers and has already moved to the cleanup spot on his big league team.

He is living off the bonus the Angels paid him and looms as a six-figure salary boy in only a short while.

Must be nice, huh.

WC Sponsors Barn Dance

The Women's Council has a treat in store for all square dance fans, for they will host a barn dance Friday, May 13. The women of Dotzour Hall are also in luck because this is a Sadie Hawkins affair, the last such occasion of the year.

Patti Howell, soph., Glenview, Ill., publicity chairman, announced that a professional caller would lead the dancing and that refreshments and entertainment would round out the evening.

A car caravan leaving at 9:15 in front of Dotzour Hall will go to Krehbills Roof Top Barn.

On behalf of the Women's Council Patti urges everyone to attend and had this to say, "Everybody had such a grand time last year, and the Women's Council is working to make it even more successful this year."

Magazine Sparks Talent

During the 18th century, a literary movement spread through Germany with an impact so profound that it was given the name "Sturm und Drang," or Storm and Stress.

McPherson College has borrowed this name for its annual literary magazine - a publication conceived to give vent to the expression and originality of its students.

Many excellent entries were received by the Sturm und Drang editors, and those chosen to have their contributions printed are listed below.

The only essay appearing in the magazine is by Dave Roberts, sr., Hutchinson. Gary Wilson, sr., New Orleans, Guy Ward, sr., Hutchinson, and Wendall Kuhlman, sr., McPherson have each submitted a short story. The photographs appearing above each story were taken by Praful Pandya, jr., India, and Clare Swick, sr., McPherson.

The authors of the poems and sonnets also appearing are Jerry Barrows, sr., Waterloo, Iowa; Linda Kurtz, jr., McLouth; Patti Howell, soph., Glenview, Ill.; Jim Guenther, soph., Piqua, Ohio; Peggy Slater, fr., Denver; Guy Ward, and LaVonna Howell, jr., Cordell, Okla.

One section of Sturm und Drang is devoted to the display of artwork entered by the following people: Kathy McDermott, fr., Simsbury, Conn.; Jim Guenther, Karen Mayner, fr., Polk City, Iowa; Bill Dickerson, sr., Denver; Dee Northey, fr., Waterloo, Iowa; Karen Mathes, fr., McPherson; Keith Pauls, fr., Inman; and Doug Tuell, fr., Rockford, Ill.

In addition to the photographs at the beginning of each story Praful Pandya, jr., India, and Robert Tomlin, jr., Elgin, Ill., have each entered a photograph. The magazine's cover picture was taken by Clare Swick.

An historic meeting was held at McPherson College May 4, when six Protestant four-year co-educational liberal arts colleges finalized arrangements for the formation of the "Associated Colleges of Central Kansas."

Original membership in the Association includes Bethany College, Bethel College, Kansas Wesleyan University, McPherson College, Sterling College and Tabor College, all located within a 40-mile radius.

All of the college presidents, including Dr. J. Jack Melhorn, MacCollege president, signed the Articles of Incorporation with the approval of their boards of trustees.

MacCollege facilities were used during the last three months by the presidents and deans while they worked out the relationship.

Purpose of the organization is "to develop areas of cooperation and general policy that would serve to strengthen the respective colleges and supplement their individual programs."

Officers elected at the organizational meeting were Dr. Vernon Neufeld, chairman; Dr. D. Arthur Zook, vice - chairman; and Dr. Roy Just, secretary and treasurer. Bylaws for the association were also adopted.

During the planning stage, Vernon Neufeld, president of Bethel, served as acting chairman and Dr. Merlin Frantz, dean of academic affairs served as secretary.

College officials anticipate pooling resources in many areas, including faculty recruitment, research projects, purchasing of some equipment and sharing of guest speakers and artists.

They plan to adopt a uniform system of data processing, cooperate in the use of library resources, and establish a telephone communication system to facilitate cooperation.

One of the first matters to be given consideration by the Board of Directors of the Associated Colleges of Central Kansas will be to employ a director to coordinate activities.

The Board of Directors is composed of the presidents and a member of each institution's Board of Trustees.

Creativity to Characterize Dance Class Program

By Marcella Sherfy

Art will take on a varied mode of expression in the Modern Dance Recital to be held tomorrow evening, May 13, at 7:30 in Brown Auditorium. Members of the creative dance class will be performing in the program.

Every member of the class will be in at least one group number. Those giving solos are Barbara Bollinger, jr., Seattle, Wash., who will use the music of the French composer Erik Satie as background; Charleen Lewis, sr., Denver, using electronic music; and Ann Rodabaugh, sr., Lathark, Ill., who will dance to modern poetry.

In commenting on the development of modern dance, Dr. Doris Cockpo, professor of physical education, pointed to the twenties as the decade during which modern dance in America became known, although it is timeless in nature.

She mentioned that it is hard to define modern dance in the present setting. Overlap is found between it and ballet as well as the soft shoe dance. Martha Graham is perhaps the best known performer and choreographer in the area of modern dance today.
