Pre-enrollment Delayed; New Courses Offered

Pre-enrollment, which was scheduled to begin Nov. 14, has been delayed. E. Dean Reynolds, registrar, explained that extra time was needed for faculty members to work on problems in their schedules. He hopes to have pre-enrollment started by the end of this week.

Courses not offered before at McPherson College are planned for next semester.

John Janzen, an anthropologist from Bethel College, will teach a special "Seminar on Africa." He has recently returned from Africa and will emphasize the area south of the Sahara.

This seminar is offered in cooperation with Associated Colleges of Central Kansas member colleges. Students who are interested must contact Dr. Raymond L. Flory, dean of student affairs, for permission to enroll.

The Philosophy and Religion Department offers two new courses next semester.

Thomas W. Deal, assistant professor of philosophy and religion, will teach "Logic," a lower level class, and "Early Modern Philosophy," an upper level course.

"Seminar on Religion and Science," which was taught one semester last year, will again be available. It will meet on alternate Monday evenings. Applications for permission to enroll may be obtained at the Registrar's Office or from Dr. Wayne Miller, associate professor of speech, philosophy and religion.

The six instructors who teach this course are Dr. Miller; Dr. John H. Burkholder, professor of biology; Dr. Wesley DeCoursey, professor of chemistry; Dr. G. J. Ikenberry, professor of biology; Dr. Lorell E. Weiss, professor of sociology, and Dr. Harley Stump, professor of English.

Dr. Stump will also teach History and Philosophy of Education, which is usually taught only in summer by demand. This will be offered on Thursday evenings.

Two education courses, Child Psychology and Psychology of Adolescence, have been combined into a course entitled Developmental Psychology. Monroe Hughbanks, assistant professor in education, will teach this class.

In the Physical Education Department, special courses of one-half hour credit are planned for each of the two nine-week periods of the semester.

In the first nine-week period, Weight Training will be offered to men only and Volleyball will be offered to women only. Both men and women may take Track and Field or Tennis in the second nine-week period.

Though each course is separate, students should enroll for the entire semester at enrollment time. This would include two courses and would earn one hour of credit.

The group will be sponsored by Miss Mary Ann Robinson, assistant professor of art and Robert Smith, part-time instructor in art.

Melhorn Attends Library Meeting

Dr. J. Jack Melhorn, president of the College, went to Tabor College on Nov. 15 to attend a meeting of the Associated Colleges of Central Kansas, and librarians from ACKK met at McPherson on Nov. 16 to continue discussions about the library project.

Library to Close Thanksgiving Day

The McPherson College library will be closed all day on Thursday, Nov. 24, for Thanksgiving Day. The regular library hours will be resumed at 7:30 Friday morning.

Dr. Walter Judd will be the main speaker at the Student Leadership Conference, at Kansas State Teachers College, Emporia, where approximately 60 college and university students will gather to discuss the role of the student leader.

McPherson College will send 15 representatives to the conference, sponsored by ex-Governor William Avery, Nov. 18 and 19.

College representatives will be Kathy Shank, Lynn Christy, Lisa Mauer, Judy Harris, Bill Duryea, Bob Klockars, Galen Kopp, Walt Miller, George Jones, Paul Roth, Rodney Lusk;

David Sovchen, Terry Bouse, Roger Nettleton, and Dr. Lewis Young, associate professor of psychology and acting dean of men.

Some of the College students plan to leave campus Friday and others will leave early Saturday morning in time to attend the conference prayer breakfast.

Buzz sessions and workshops will follow the breakfast which are included in the morning and afternoon schedules.

The group will return Saturday night.

Feasting Highlights Thanksgiving Day

By NORMA TUCKER
Thanksgiving Day at McPherson College features worship, feasting and rest.

Faculty and students are invited to attend the interdenominational Thanksgiving service at 10 a.m., Nov. 24, at the Methodist Church.

The local Church of the Brethren joins other churches of the community in this service, which is sponsored by the United Christian Youth Movement. Dr. Arden Almquist, M.D., executive secretary of the Covenant World Missions, will speak and a vocal ensemble from the high school will sing special numbers.

Peggy Stucky, president of UCYM, which also sponsors the local UNICEF drive and the Easter Sunrise service, will preside.

In addition, Church of the Brethren will hold a Thanksgiving service on Nov. 20 as part of the regular Sunday worship. The Rev. Harold Bomberger will speak on "Thanks, THEN Giving," and an a cappella choir will sing.

Glenn Lindsey, Slater food service director, is planning a special Thanksgiving feast for students. The traditional turkey with dressing, cranberry sauce, pumpkin and mince pie will be served from a special buffet in the dining room.

In addition, ham and many salads, including Heavenly Hash and molded cranberry salads, will tempt diners. Three kinds of potatoes appear on the menu, which also lists corn, green beans, carrots and peas.

This buffet will begin at 11:30 a.m. and continue until 1 p.m. Students who have regained their staved appetites by evening may return to the cafeteria for an evening meal featuring snack items.

On the night following Thanksgiving, a chili supper will be served in the basement of the cafeteria, freeing the dining room for the Winter Formal.

A special Thanksgiving Day reunion is planned at the home of Dr. Wesley DeCoursey, professor of chemistry, for the Grove family.

Mrs. DeCoursey reports that this group will include her parents and brother from Iowa, her sister from Chapman and four nephews who are students at McPherson College.

Some foreign students from the College, and some of the faculty will join Dr. and Mrs. DeCoursey and the Grove family for dinner.

Most students will remain on campus, resting and happily anticipating the long Christmas-New Year vacation made possible by the new schedule.

Those who live nearby will go home for Thanksgiving, and most faculty members, including Dr. J. Jack Melhorn, president of the College, plan a quiet day at home.

College Filmed For TV Show

If you were photographed by a roving cameraman on the McPherson College campus during the past few days, chances are that your image will appear on KTVH Channel 12 on Friday, Nov. 27, at 9:30 p.m.

At that time a film documentary on McPherson College will be televised. The program will center primarily around President J. Jack Melhorn and points of interest on the campus.

Scenes featuring the president, German and accounting classes, the museum, dorm life, the science labs, the greenhouse and individual shots have been taken.

"We are deeply honored to have a television documentary produced about our college," commented Larry Marcellus, director of publicity and promotion. "I only hope that all who are interested will view this informative film."

3 Movies Cancelled

Students may cross off the following movies from their McPherson College movie schedules:

"The Ugly American," Nov. 20; "Aida," Dec. 11; and "Twelve O'Clock High," Dec. 17. These movies will not be shown due to a financial deficit.

Stuco Buys Travel Map

During the last meeting of the Student Council, Dave Coppock, sr. Tapp City, Ohio, campus improvements chairman, reported that the Student Union had moved to finance the "transportation map," which will hopefully be placed in the basement of the Union before Christmas.

It was also reported that pennants of the five Brethren colleges: Bridgewater, College, Elizabethtown College, Juniata College, La Verne College and Manchester College would be placed on the West wall of the dining hall.

Along with the sister college pennants will be the pennants of the ten Kansas College Athletic Conference teams:

McPherson College, College of Emporia, Sterling College, Ottawa College, Bethel College, Kansas Wesleyan University, Baker University, Bethany College, Friends University and Southwestern College.

Also, at the Stuco meeting, Ed Lloyd, soph. Lancaster, Pa., was appointed to the position of head of the Foods Committee, after the resignation of Jim Bowen, jr. Auburn, N. Y.

It was also decided that an organizational chart of the Stuco would be placed on the Stuco bulletin board in the Student Union.

George Snavely, sr. Lebanon, Pa., president of Student Council, discussed the importance of class members getting in touch with their class representatives if they had any news or items of importance which should be brought to the attention of other students or faculty.

Education Slights Students

Is the present public education system preparing students for the rigors of the college challenge?

Too many students survive their college years unscathed. They emerge from their four years' experience with relatively few ideas changed, with almost as many prejudices as they brought as freshmen and with no solid philosophy of life.

What is lacking is the preparation students have had prior to entering college? Their secondary education has been insufficient to equip them to meet, to accept and to solve a problem which requires thinking on their own.

The public educational system needs strengthening in four areas, with the concept of creativity the guidelines in possible solutions.

First, the nature of many secondary classes prevents students from being able to express themselves creatively.

One answer to this problem is bringing together students from one broad area, like English or biology for a penetrating lecture or film presentation, and then dispersing them for discussion in small groups, with the teacher acting only as moderator.

Lack of encouragement in question asking is a second weakness in many public schools. The important idea is to create interaction among class members and a sense of "Thinking-for-themselves."

Along with lack of question-asking, class times and lesson plans are too often rigidly structured, preventing the give-and-take which is so important in the learning situation. Students need to learn to think creatively.

Creativity is a fragile, tenuous "evanescence"—and its very transience makes it crumble under the harshness of ruthless routine.

Unconsciousness of the relatedness of different areas of study is a fourth and most important weakness in the educational system. Students in high school need to be aware, before they ever come to college, that their studies have meaning only when they are considered in the broad context of their whole existence.

These students are never confronted, until they reach the college level, with the interrelatedness of these disciplines.

They have a piecemeal education. They are thus not ready to tackle the challenges in thinking which they face in the college experience, because they have been cheated on the secondary level. ldk

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

'Silver Cord' Is Cancelled

"The Silver Cord," after one week, died due to the resignation of the leading lady. Originally planned for Dec. 8-9-10 as an arena production, "The Silver Cord" had already consumed more than 100 hours of study and preparation on the part of cast and director.

Loren D. Reyher, assistant professor of English and theater, in explanation of the cancellation of "The Silver Cord," gave this statement:

"With just three weeks remaining before performance, it was deemed wise to abandon the entire project rather than attempt to find a new leading lady.

Taking into consideration the intense drama and psychological implications in Sidney Howard's play, it was felt that a hasty, fleeting production would not only reflect upon the entire cast and the director, but also upon the memory and reputation of the playwright.

'Love, Pleasure' Sets Theme At Conference

"Love, Pleasure and the Good News" will be the theme of the Brethren Student Christian Movement Conference, to be held at Bridgewater College, Bridgewater, Va., December 23-31, 1966.

College and university students, faculty, campus ministers and BSCM representatives are invited to attend the conference.

The conference will be an exploration of contemporary Christian understandings about morality, looking at the sociological, Biblical and theological dimensions.

Total cost for the conference will be $30 plus transportation. More information about the conference will be available from Dr. Wayne Miller, director of religious life, for those who are interested in attending.

The program will include addresses by the guest leader, Dr. William Johnson, panel discussions, talk-back sessions, small group discussions.

Frantz to Lecture In Hutchinson Church

Dr. Melin L. Frantz, dean of academic affairs, will speak at the Church of the Brethren in Hutchinson, Sunday evening Nov. 20.

This program is one of a series exploring Christian vocations. Dr. Frantz will discuss teaching as a Christian vocation.

The Rev. Irvan Stern, former instructor at McPherson College, is pastor of the Hutchinson Church of the Brethren.

Students Sponsor Teachers' Dinner

The annual Teacher Appreciation Dinner will be held at 7:15 p.m. Nov. 22, at the Student Union. Each year, student teachers and the Department of Education sponsor this dinner to show their gratitude for the work of supervising teachers and administrators of the student teaching program.

The program for the evening will feature several selections from "For Heaven's Sake." Dr. Doris Coppock, professor of physical education for women, will direct these numbers, and James Lambert, sr., McPherson, will be master of ceremonies.

Discussion groups will provide another part of the program. They will evaluate various phases of the student teaching program.

Quad Sends First Pages

The first deadline for the Quadrangle, the College yearbook, was Nov. 14, which meant that 37 pages of the 1966-67 yearbook were to be sent to the American Yearbook Company of Topeka.

Jean Yoder, sr., McPherson, editor; Peggy Kuehl, soph, Waukegan, Iowa, assistant editor; Diana Merrifield, Champaign, Ill.; and Linda Lee, soph, La Verne, Calif., have been working on layouts for the Quadrangle.

Morals Problem Remains Dilemma for Mankind

Editor:

Since everyone else failed to give any answers to the poor soul who wrote the article on the great conflict in man's life, namely religion vs. sex, which appeared in the Oct. 29 Spectator, I thought I should do some careful research on this topic and try to help the author.

For the research, I went to the great chronicle on the temptations of man and did some study.

To my amazement, I discovered that the problem was not original to this generation, but that Adam and Eve seemed to have originated the whole thing.

Furthermore, it was perpetuated by Ruth, Tamar, Jezebel, Gomar, Esther, David, Bathshe-ba, Solomon, the Queen of Sheba, the Woman at the Well, Mary Magdalene—and the problem even beset the Virgin Mary.

There were several dozen other people, especially men, whom I won't take the time to mention. Sodom and Babylon seemed to have a great deal of trouble with this problem.

It even seems that I have read about this problem in the history of Rome, which wasn't especially religious. Even Ann Landers often refers to the consequences of the problem.

Yes, God certainly did seem to foul up in this area by giving man a choice.

Ikenberry Donates Greenhouse Plants

A bunch of bananas hanging from a length of cord in the office of Dr. Gilford Ikenberry, professor of biology, is a fringe benefit of being a biology instructor.

The ancestor of the plant that produced those bananas in the College's greenhouse was brought from Michigan State University by Dr. Ikenberry when he came to McPherson in the fall of 1961. The majority of the plants in the greenhouse were also donated by Dr. Ikenberry.

Constructed of concrete and steel and featuring a fiberglass roof, the greenhouse was designed by Dr. Ikenberry. The materials and labor for the structure were donated by local businessmen.

"At the time the greenhouse was constructed," commented Dr. Ikenberry, "the fiberglass roof was a unique innovation. Now, fiberglass is quite popular with commercial greenhouses."

One advantage of the fiberglass is that it cuts out 30 percent of the heat in the summer, provides the right amount of sunlight in the winter and protects against summer hailstorms.

The primary purpose of the greenhouse is to grow plants that are generally unobtainable in this area; the banana tree, the date palm and the papaya tree are three examples of tropical plants that are grown in the greenhouse.

Another feature of the greenhouse is the two small ponds in which aquatic plants and animals are grown. These are then used in the botany and biology labs.

In the summer the building is cooled by an evaporative air conditioner, and in the winter it is steam heated.

All botany students are given the opportunity to perform studies in the greenhouse, and the more advanced students conduct various projects. In the head house or potting room up to six students are able to work at one time.

Neal Lindquist, jr., Denver, Colo., is the current student assistant whose main job is to care for the plants in the greenhouse and to see that favorable growing conditions are maintained.

What Is Man?

Idea Name Present Age

By JERRY LASATER

What will our age be called?

It's not likely to be called "the age of anxiety" or "the age of the cold war." We must remember that any age is named for its triumphs... for the ideas, thoughts and commitments that gave new structure to knowledge and to the human being.

"The Age of Enlightenment" was a time of vast illiteracy in the western world. "The Age of the Rights of Man" was one in which slavery was wide spread, and, in the new world, slavery was being established, and colonialism was beginning to wage bloody wars for colonies around the world.

The magnificent 18th century produced philosophy that brought advancement to man and his world. Yet, it was a century filled with wars, ignorance, superstition, fear and disease. Still, we are right to call it a golden age when the mind and soul took on a new image.

What shall our age be called?

Many Attend Open House At Museum

Many students and local residents attended the McPherson College Museum open house that was highlighted by a continuous showing of "The Making of a Synthetic Diamond," by Dr. J. Willard Hershey and narrated by Dr. Wesley DeCoursey, professor of chemistry.

Dr. Hershey, former head of the Chemistry Department at McPherson College, is internationally known for having manufactured the first synthetic diamond in the world.

Coffee and cookies were served to visitors and directories of the points of interest in the museum were distributed.

Most of the materials and displays were labeled and attendants were present to show and explain items in the museum.

Cagers Ready Stage For Upcoming Season

The stage is set for the 1966-67 basketball season to swing into action.

Head Coach Don Widrig and his assistants Art Ray and Buddy Taylor are getting ready to mold a Bulldog basketball team.

Practice started for the team Nov. 14, with approximately 20 players showing up for the first practice.

Coach Widrig stated that he has only three lettermen returning— forwards Gene Nilson, Tom Worthing and Don Woodcock.

Widrig said that last year the Bulldogs had one freshman, one sophomore, one junior and two seniors who started and composed the nucleus of the team. He has only one junior and one senior left out of five starters last year.

When asked about the team Widrig commented, "We have a young and spirited team, and are going to get better as the season comes along."

Last season the Bulldogs finished with nine victories and nine defeats in the conference and tied Ottawa for fifth position in the Kansas Collegiate Athletic Conference.

The first games are pre-season ones sponsored by the McPherson Jaycees on Nov. 28, 29 and 30. This will be the first of its kind, McPherson Invitational with C of E, KWU, Peru State, Neb., Sterling, St. Mary's, Dodge City and McPherson.

The Bulldogs' first game will be with Sterling.

Coach Widrig asserted, "Although we have a young team, we will beat Sterling."

KCAC Records Show Advance For 2 Players

Junior Smith, fr. Chase, and Bob DeTour, jr. McPherson, have advanced in the individual Kansas College Athletic Conference standings, according to statistics compiled by College of Emporia, Nov. 10.

Junior has advanced from second to first place in total offense with an average of 138.3 yards per game. He dropped however, in passing with an average of 88.7 yards per game.

Bob advanced from third to second position in punting— with an average of 39.1 yards per kick.

As a team, the Bulldogs rank third in total defense, allowing opponents 224.3 yards per game; fifth in rushing defense, allowing 121.4 per game; and fifth in passing defense, allowing 102.9 per game.

They ranked fifth in total offense, with an average of 271.5 yards per game; fifth in rushing, with 147.2 per game; and third in passing, with 124.3 per game.

Forecaster Tallies 86 Per Cent Accuracy

By GENE CZAPLINSKI

Attention in the sports' world now focuses on the roundball game — this column is no exception.

Our final results in the picking department was 38 for 44 and one tie. This amounted to 86 per cent accuracy.

The team we fouled up on the most was, you guessed it, the unpredictable Bulldogs, on whom we missed four games. This amounted to two-thirds of our total misses. We picked McPherson for eighth and they finished seventh. So much for the past.

Last year, this column predicted, after seeing Texas Western play, that TW would win the national basketball championship. Two weeks later, the forecast became a reality. They were undoubtedly the best college basketball team these eyes have ever seen.

This year, all the pre-season experts are throwing the Bruins of UCLA on the hotseat and placing them in the favorites role.

They base their suppositions on the broad shoulders of seven-foot sophomore, Lew Alcindor. The praise of this phenomenon goes to the point of ridicule.

Yet, hardly a word is mentioned about the Miners from TW, who incidentally return 10 of their top 12 have two bona-fide All-Americans and inherit two fabulous sophomores from a tremendous freshman team.

This shows the audacity of some of these so-called "experts" who refuse to accept the fact that a small school with a seemingly easy schedule can steal a championship from one of an imminent basketball heritage — Kentucky.

The Texas Western squad will be a target of every opponent they play, yet they have the incentive from these pre-season ratings working for them.

Team Washes Own Laundry

M Club purchased two washers and one dryer several years ago so that the uniforms of the men that participate in athletics could be washed and dried. These washers and dryer are located in the basement of the locker room.

Tom Worthing, sr., Wamego; Don Woodcock, jr., Washington; and Darrell Miller, fr., Dwight, are in charge to see that the athletes get fresh uniforms and towels at regular intervals during the week.

Woodcock said, "The laundry is done for every sport that McPherson College participates in."

He also stated that the laundry is done as a part of the McPherson College work program.

Worthing has been washing uniforms for three years. Woodcock for two and this is Miller's first year. Don commented that he and Darrell will probably have the washing duties for next year.

Five Coeds Spark Sports' Enthusiasm

Five coeds will soon begin their promotion of school spirit as B-team cheerleaders. Janell Brown, fr. Beloit; Sherry Dirks, fr. Wichita; Linda Lee, soph. LaVerne, Calif.; Paula Jo Sissel, fr. Davenport, Neb.; and Lesa Snyder, fr. Liberty, Neb., were elected in September to lead cheers at all B-team basketball games.

Janell, a history major, is head cheerleader. She was a cheerleader for two years in junior high school at Coffeyville and three years at Beloit High School.

Janell has always enjoyed being a cheerleader and feels "cheerleading is a great way to feel like you are doing something for the team and the school."

Sherry Dirks was a B-team cheerleader in high school. An elementary education major, she is "interested in sports and the promotion of school spirit, and feels there is no better way to help foster this spirit than to be a cheerleader."

Linda Lee plans to teach Spanish in elementary school. Although she has never been a cheerleader before, Linda was a flag twirler in high school and with the squad took an active part in the varsity games along with the cheerleaders.

Linda has "always been interested in cheerleading and doing my part to help promote school spirit. I also feel that it is a great way to get out and become acquainted with more people."

Home economics major Paula Jo Sissel was a high school varsity cheerleader two years. She "loves to cheerlead and thought this would be an excellent opportunity to promote school spirit."

Lesla Snyder was a cheerleader during junior high school and her last two years in high school. She said, "Cheerleading is an activity that I really enjoyed during high school. It also provides an excellent opportunity to get to know members of the McPherson student body and become acquainted with students from other schools."

Although the girls do not officially begin their season until Dec. 7 game here with Baker, they will accompany the Varsity cheerleaders to the tournaments the preceding week.

DeCourseys To Appear On Television

Dr. and Mrs. Wesley DeCoursey will appear on Channel 12's Community Window at 7 a.m. Friday, Nov. 18. During this 10-minute program, the DeCourseys will relate some of their adventures while Dr. DeCoursey was on a year's sabbatical leave.

Dr. DeCoursey, professor of chemistry, was granted a Fulbright Lectureship in organic chemistry to Jinnah College, Karachi, Pakistan. The DeCourseys' three children accompanied them on this trip.

Dr. DeCoursey taught a few days in Pakistan before the war between India and Pakistan made it impossible to teach. He then transferred to Tehran University, Tehran, Iran.

While in Tehran, Dr. DeCoursey visited the various universities in Iran and gave special lectures on petrochemistry, atomic structure and non-aqueous solvents.

Upon leaving Tehran, the DeCourseys traveled by air to the Holy Land. From Israel they traveled to Athens, Greece; Naples and Rome, Italy; and Frankfurt, Germany.

From Frankfurt they drove through France, Italy, Switzerland, Germany, Denmark and Holland. Then they flew to New York and drove home.

Librarians Continue Cooperative Projects

Librarians from member colleges of Associated Colleges of Central Kansas met at McPherson on Oct. 19 to continue discussions about the cooperative library project.

Robert Sudeman, librarian at Tabor College, was elected chairman of the group, and Miss Virginia Harris, librarian at McPherson College, was elected secretary.

Dr. Merlin Frantz, dean of academic affairs, said, "The eventual goal is to give each library a chance to specialize in some area, and to go deeper into that area than they otherwise could."

The first project of the group will be to provide a combined serial catalog so that each library can see what periodicals are available within the group. A union catalog of books held by member colleges is planned for the future.

Under this system, each College would provide the highly specialized periodicals for its area of specialization, giving each member access to materials from all areas.

Dr. Frantz emphasized that the ACCK library program will in no way reduce the importance of the planning of the individual library program.

Donors Give At YMCA

Blood donors are now making appointments for the Red Cross bloodmobile visit to McPherson on Nov. 28. A bloodmobile unit from the Wichita Regional Center will be at the McPherson YMCA from 9:30 - 2:30 p.m. Transportation to and from the YMCA will be provided for McPherson College students.

Students may call the Red Cross office, CH 1-2386, for an appointment and transportation or leave their name and desired appointment time with Mrs. Homer Brunk, associate professor in English and journalism, Mohler 201.

Students who gave at the Oct. 11 campus visit are not eligible for the Nov. 28 visit, but other students who had classes and activities which conflicted during that visit or who were unable to give on Oct. 11 and are now eligible are urged by the McPherson County Red Cross to help save a life by donating a pint of blood.

Because parental consent is needed for unmarried donors below 21, students who do not have a parental consent on file will need to get a Red Cross parent's consent form to send to their parents.

BCA Adds Depth, Perception To Knowledge of Participants

By NORMA TUCKER
A group of students interested in the Brethren Colleges Abroad program met last week to hear Dan Zinn, sr. Houston, Tex., and Art McAuley, sr. Warrensburg, Mo., tell of their experiences in foreign countries.

This program, sponsored by seven Brethren churches, provides opportunities for students to spend their junior year abroad.

Dr. Jan Van Asselt, associate professor of German and linguistics, who sponsored the meeting, said:

"It is a tremendous experience when students can learn look on the world outside the United States and then return to the United States with a completely new perspective."

"It adds an additional dimension to their total life's experience. Experience is the key word in the BCA program."

Tuition, activities fees, meals and lodging are covered in the $2,050 cost of the program. This fee also includes round trip transportation from New York. Additional personal expenses may vary from $200 to $500.

Headquarters for BCA are Marburg, Germany, and Strasbourg, France. BCA also cooperates with Mennonite colleges in South American programs. Future plans include programs in Nigeria and Kenya.

Two McPherson students, Marilyn Wood, Panora, Iowa, and Ron Adkins, Long Beach, Calif., are in Marburg this year. One student has applied to go to South America next year.

Candidates for the BCA program must have had at least two years of foreign languages at the college level, so Dr. Van Asselt suggests that students plan early to join the program. Language majors are required to spend their junior year abroad.

Students who have scholarships do not receive them during their junior year abroad, but receive both junior and senior scholarships when they return for their senior year.

No Corsages At Formal

Corsages will not be prominent at the Winter Formal this year at the request of the Social Committee.

Because of the change in times, big colleges and universities have terminated the corsage business at formal dances, says the Social Committee. They, therefore, want to try it once to see how the student body will react.

The Social Committee would like to have everyone's cooperation in doing away with corsages for this year's Winter Formal.
