

Concert Band Amalgamates Pep Band, Classical Music

By MARGE KECK

Pep band music and concert music may not seem like a logical combination to most people, but to members of the McPherson College Concert Band, the amalgamation is a necessity.

Taking time out to play for home football games, the 35 band members are busily preparing for their first concert, which will be Nov. 11.

Robert Jones, assistant professor in music and director of bands and orchestra, pointed out that the November concert date is earlier than first concerts of the past.

He added, however, that he thought that he had more qualified personnel in band this year than before.

Included in the band are two small ensembles. The trombone quartet, which auditioned for the Campus TV Show, is made up of Tim Matthaei, Mike Fox, Paul Tice and Lynn Coulter.

Members of the saxophone quartet are Jerry Persons, Lynnda Beavers, Jim Corbin and Ron Cassidente. Both of these groups will take a tour sometime next semester.

Playing flute in the McPherson College Band are Donna Brubaker, Harriet Krueger and Barbara Plaugher. Bill Beecher is the lone oboe player. The clarinet section includes Kandy Regier, Jerry Persons, Lynette Hollaway, Claudia Hanson and Mary Kay Brown.

Ron Cassidente plays alto clarinet and Lynne Standafer is playing bass clarinet.

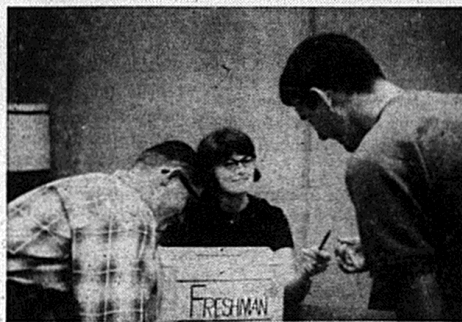

Glee Hoover and Andrea Siple make up the bassoon section. Alto saxophone players are Lynnda Beavers and Lela Weddie. Jim Corbin and Ken Steward play tenor saxophone while Betty Persons is playing baritone saxophone.

In the trumpet section are Randy Graber, Charles Meyer, P. J. Stucky and Meredith Haun. Horn players are Winona Achilles and Dave Weimer.

The trombone section is made up of Tim Matthaei, Mike Fox, Paul Tice and Lynn Coulter. The lone baritone is Wayne Bowman.

Bob Smith and Calvin Moffitt play bass while the percussion section is made up of Sam Maggio, Scott Carroll, Ed Meyers and Ray Medley.

Reyher Readies Cast For 'Love in Pool'

Washington, D. C., is the setting for Loren D. Reyher's newest play, "Love in a Public Pool," which will be presented Friday and Saturday, Sept. 30 and Oct. 1, at 8:15 p.m. in Brown Auditorium.

Proceeds from the play, sponsored by the McPherson County Hospital Auxiliary, will be given to the county hospital.

Reyher, assistant professor of English and theater, has assumed the triple role of playwright, director and actor in the production of this satire on government, politics and society.

According to Prof. Reyher, the story opens at the height of an international crisis in the capital. Two reincarnated creatures return to straighten out the situation.

They find themselves involved in the red tape of government and politics. Their aims result in rockets and chaos. In the midst of the crisis, however, their identities are established.

The two leading characters, Desdemona and Dante, will be played by Dell Ann Dyar and Prof. Reyher, respectively. Supporting them will be Wilma Matson as Bubbles; Ken Dyar as Herbert H. Herbert; and Rolynn Wall as The Man.

Mervin Penner is serving as assistant director and stage manager.

Tickets are available in the Student Union for $1.25 and $1.75.

Eighty Attend Camp '70

Over eighty McPherson College students participated in recreation, lectures, discussions, mosquito bites, and a movie at Camp '70 held last weekend at Camp Webster near Salina.

On Friday evening, Dr. J. Jack Melhorn, president of the College, presented and discussed the film, "The Eye of the Beholder."

Saturday was devoted to more lectures and discussions. Leland Lengel, assistant professor of history and political science, spoke on "A Pragmatic View of Theology and Philosophy."

Dr. Wayne L. Miller, associate professor of speech, philosophy, and religion, lectured on Ethics and Morals. Sex was the subject of Professor Robert Keim, assistant professor in sociology.

Following each lecture, the campers broke into ten discussion groups. These were led by Kathie Andrews, Ron Cassidente, Jim Haldeman, Judy Harris, Marlin Hoover, Modena Hoover, Carolyn Pieratt, Jeanne Schrock, Roger Schrock, and George Snavely.

The purpose of Camp '70, sponsored by MCY, was to get the freshmen away from campus and into an atmosphere in which they could get to know one another better through fellowship, recreation, and singing.

Buffet Meal To Feature Roast Beef

The first dress-up dinner for students at McPherson College is planned for Saturday, Oct. 1. The dinner will be a buffet featuring steamboat roast beef, carved on the line, and several other entrees.

Decorative features at future dress-up dinners will include the traditional bear's head with apple in mouth, and sculptured ice centerpieces, which Glenn Lindsey, manager of ARA Food Service, will carve.

Purchasing for this buffet and regular meals is done locally and through in-state and out-of-state purveyors by contract and includes such items as 250 lbs. of Jello and 950 gal. of milk each week.

SNEA Signs 102 Members

The Maurice Hess chapter of the Student National Educational Association ended its membership drive after 102 McPherson College students had signed membership cards.

"A few more students are expected to join within the next few days," reports Harvey Werner, sr., Winona, president.

The first meeting of the SNEA is to be held Oct. 12, in Mohler Hall, room 212, at 7:30 p.m.

Each year, members have to sign up to join the SNEA. Between 100 and 125 students usually join.

Harvey Werner is president; Bonnie Reynolds, jr., Franklin Grove, Ill., vice-president; Eileen Claassen, sr., Newton, secretary; Craig Miller, jr., Waterloo, Iowa, treasurer; Patti Allen, jr., Scott City, publicity; and Janet Knackstedt, jr., McPherson, historian.

The officers plan to attend a state workshop for chapter officers and state committees

Nurse Offers Medical Care

A staff member of the McPherson Practical School of nursing conducts a miniature hospital Mopday through Friday when she is not on duty.

Mrs. Nora Zimbleman, McPherson, is the new McPherson College nurse. As college nurse, Mrs. Zimbleman administers practical first aid and offers medical advice to on-campus students.

For students needing more serious attention, Mrs. Zimbleman signs permits allowing students to enter the hospital for treatment.

Infirmary hours are from 6:25 p.m. at Metzler Hall and from 6:30-7 p.m. at Dotzour.

at KSTA headquarters, Topeka, Oct. 8.

Also attending the workshop will be Dayton G. Rothrock, professor of education and psychology, sponsor; and two committee members—who have not been chosen.

The SNEA has speakers at its monthly meetings, the second Wednesday of every month. Mrs. Maddox, teacher at the McPherson Junior High School, will speak at the first meeting, Oct. 12.

The SNEA was organized late in the fall of 1953 by students who were prospective teachers. It was then called the Future Teachers of America, but the present name was adopted in 1956.

The purpose of this organization is to develop an acquaintance with the history, ethics, and program of the organized teaching profession among young people who are preparing to be teachers.

Campus Talent Await Decision on Auditions

Performers who auditioned for "Campus Talent '66" are eagerly watching their mail and listening for the phone to ring this week. Decisions on performers for the show were made in Hodston Sept. 24, and individuals are now being notified.

"Everyone who appears in the show will be paid a professional fee," said Harry Heuston, who studied applications, wrote critiques and taped portions of the 14 auditions on Sept. 22.

Acts were varied. The auditions began with a trombone quartet. Tim Matthaei, sr., Wichita; Lynn Coulter, jr., Ravenna, Neb.; Mike Fox, jr., Garfield; and Paul Tice, fr., York, Pa., played "A Suite for Four Trombones."

Lise Mauer, soph, Red Bank, N. J., who this August won the talent contest in the Miss New Jersey Pageant, did an original dance routine. An original piano composition was performed by Ed Myers, sr., Dixon, Ill.

Janet Wiggins, fr., McPherson, sang her original composition with guitar accompaniment, and John Lane, fr., Piqua, Ohio, played two numbers on the guitar.

Jerry Persons, sr., Ames, Iowa, did a saxophone solo, and David Coppock, sr., Tipp City, Ohio, did a Bob Newhart monologue.

"The Grannies," a vocal trio, sang "Houston" and "Green Grass." "Summertime" was sung by Delores Taylor, jr., Bronx, N. Y.

Mary Anne Miller, fr., Waterloo, Iowa, sang "Adele's Laughing Song," and male vocalists were Tom McAdams, sr., Tipp City, Ohio; Lawrence Couch, fr., Rochester, N. Y.; and James Furnas, soph, Troy, Ohio.

Jean Lichty, soph, Dayton, Ohio, a pianist, played "Moon River."

Paper Responsible to Public

What is the responsibility of the campus newspaper?

"I think that the tremendous asset of . . . newspapers over all other forms of communication is their role of public responsibility."

That is the way Gardner Cowles, president of the Des Moines, Iowa, Register and Tribune and chairman of the board and editor-in-chief of Cowles Communications Inc., summed up the place of the modern newspaper, in an address at Kansas University.

Cowles's remarks are apropos for a campus newspaper like The Spectator, although he was referring specifically to daily publications:

If The Spectator is to be a responsible publication, it must meet its responsibility in five areas.

First it must strive for truth in all facets of its coverage. "Getting the facts" and getting them straight invest each reporter and writer with a trust to ferret out the news and verify each item before the goal of truth is met.

The Spectator must provide in-depth coverage of news which may contain unclearly defined background or circumstances valuable for reader appreciation or understanding.

Providing entertainment and timely coverage of news of community, national or international significance, in addition to campus news, are essential if The Spectator is to fulfill its responsibility.

Most important of all, however, is The Spectator's obligation to students and faculty at McPherson College, for whom it should serve as sounding board, tool for expressing opinion and outlet for campus creativity.

The Spectator is being published weekly to serve the academic community of McPherson College. Its editors do not intend to disregard its "public character," keeping in mind Gardner Cowles' words: "Responsible newspapers . . . which shun this public character ignore their greatest asset and this will eventually show up in the balance sheet."

Itchy Feet Initiate Journey

Yingst Views Europe On Summer Vacation

By PHIL GROVE

Flying from New York to Ireland by Trans World Airlines was only the beginning of a long journey taken by Doug Yingst, soph., McPherson and Jay Bremyer, sophomore at Kansas University.

When asked why they took the trip, Doug answered, "We had itchy feet. It was a spur-of-the-moment decision."

The two young men hitchhiked through Ireland, England, France and Spain. They had planned on traveling through Greece and northern Africa, but changed their minds after talking with a girl artist from Paris.

She convinced them that the only way they could really see anything was to spend a lot of time in one country.

Traveling from Dublin, Ireland to England and then to France and Spain, the students met many interesting people.

Doug and Jay had left their suitcases in New York and were carrying only a sleeping bag and four or five changes of clothes.

"The young kids and older men who wanted to talk were usually the ones who would give us rides," remarked Doug. He said that there were many discussions about the Viet Nam situation.

"The central part of the trip was completely open," said Yingst. "We were completely open about everything we did. We went where we wanted to go and did what we wanted to do."

"We trusted everyone we met, and in return they would trust us. This is how we got invited to spend a few days with some people."

Many of the people who gave them rides invited the two to spend the night sleeping in their homes or in their barns.

The hitchhikers only slept in a bed five times during the summer. The other nights were spent in their sleeping bags on the floor of a living room or in a barn.

The students decided to spend the last month of their trip in Spain because Doug had two years of Spanish in high school.

Comparing Spanish people to the French, Doug stated that the Spanish would go out of their way to help them with the language barrier, while the French would act snobbish and wouldn't really help them learn French.

"We had the most fun at Pamplona, Spain, where we attended the Festival of Bulls," remarked Yingst. The festival lasts about five days and is highlighted with a fight with the bulls in which men wrestle with the bulls.

Boarding a boat at Gibraltar, the two students sailed to New York where they were separated. Jay traveled into Canada, and Doug hitchhiked back to Kansas.

"Anyone could make the trip," said Doug. "Tremendous things happened all the time and I only spent $630. All but $10 was spent for transportation and food."

What Is Man?

Man Struggles For Answers In Many Ways

Man is the epitome of struggle—the struggle between iconoclasm and ideology, both in an intellectual and a religious sense.

There are crucial ways in which students, faced with new knowledge and perspectives, begin to tear down old structures of faith and knowledge. Doubt and questioning become a part of his existence.

He not only questions God Himself, but tears into a variety of false gods—the gods of fine clothes and sophisticated pretense, the gods of fine scholarship, gods of fine rah-rah spirit that never get below the surface of life.

The destruction of these latter gods can be understood—but what about the deep question of God and faith?

Without doubt it is unlikely the student can really develop a significant and personal faith which is integrated with the rest of his experience and understanding.

Library Boasts Longer Hours

Twelve faculty members and staff assistants will be working at Beeghly Library.

The library administration is composed of Miss Virginia Harris, librarian; and Miss Myrtle Haughn, assistant librarian.

Mrs. Kenneth Bechtel and Mrs. Evelyn Minns are members of the clerical staff.

The student assistants are:

Patti Allen, Carolyn Dadisman, Patricia Drury, Marilyn Dyson, Marjorie Keck, Carolyn Leighnor, Paul Roth and Nelda Schrock.

Library hours are 7:30 a.m.-10 p.m. Monday-Thursday; 7:30 a.m. - 5 p.m. Friday; 8 a.m.-5 p.m. Saturday; and 2-5 p.m. Sunday.

Most Important Values In Life Related To 'I'

By RON CASSIDENTE

Everybody seems to have something that is important to them. For most people it turns out to be "I," "my" or "For me," followed by a group of words that relate directly to themselves.

When asked what's most important, people usually turn to their limited store of ill-gained philosophy and start quoting phrases that ring with high minded ideals.

Worse yet, if you ask about the five most important things in a person's life, he or she will usually have to look it up.

Actually, one would think the "most important things" in a person's life would be rooted to the very reasons they exist, strive for higher education, or even get out of bed in the morning.

Even so, most people are hard pressed to name the "important things."

Taking all things into consideration, it seems that the main reason most people cannot come through with their "important things" is that they are ashamed to expose some of the thoughts that come from within the id.

These thoughts of self are ones that everyone seems to be afraid of. Most people who are bold enough to try to explain their true motivations usually end up tongue-tied in the process, and the ones who try to hide their usually aren't fast enough talkers—so no one discusses really important things.

The song "Happiness Is" seems to explain what one might hear if some people really started exposing what was important in their life.

Unlike some of the showy ideals attributed to today's latest stars of stage and screen, the college students' important things might be more down to earth, if they were ever exposed.

Like Linus, some college men would nominate their blanket, for one reason or another. Others would immediately cite their 2-S while other pragmatists would talk about GP's, GTO's or any of the milling things that make life comfortable.

Likewise, Sally Coed would have some of her "important values" exposed including those late leaves, any eligible male, hair spray and tight skirts—across from glib professors. Sometimes one can be thankful our super-egos are ashamed of our ids. It sure makes a more pleasant world when, only the idealists spout off—even if we all aren't always honest.

Newspaperman Joins Staff

Marcellus Promotes College Via Press

"It's my job to sell McPherson College to the outside world through news releases and television," stated Larry Marcellus, newly appointed director of publicity and promotion.

Raised in Lawrence, he attended Lawrence High School. At the University of Kansas Marcellus majored in business administration.

Marcellus has been in the Kansas newspaper business for 22 years. After beginning newspaper work in 1950 with the Junction City Daily Union, he purchased the Leonardville Monitor in 1951.

He took a two-year leave in 1958 from his Leonardville paper to work in a variety of capacities with other Kansas newspapers. Marcellus has worked for the McPherson Sentinel, Fredonia Daily Herald and the El Dorado Times.

In 1964 he sold his Leonardville interests and bought the McPherson County News at McPherson.

Marcellus in his first job out of the newspaper field here at McPherson College stated a good deal of the population had the same idea as he did—high school graduates go to the big city for an education instead of the smaller towns "but the more I am associated with McPherson, the more I realize that this is a fallacy."

He compliments McPherson College as "a fine institution with an excellent curriculum, and students enjoy very close relationship with the professors; something you don't get at a large college."

Presently Marcellus is making plans for a one-half hour television documentation to discuss the change in enrollment within the past 10 years and the outstanding graduates who attended McPherson College.

All is visualized in the elegance of fashion photography, including experimentation with color.

League Leader Invades Grid

The McPherson College Bulldogs will host the Southwestern Moundbuilders Friday Sept. 30, at 7:30 p.m. at the College stadium.

The Moundbuilders are currently tied for first place in the Kansas Collegiate Athletic Conference with Ottawa, Baker and C of E.

Head Coach Sid Smith stated that of the 59 squad members, 21 are returning lettermen. Smith also said that Southwestern has two offensive and defensive units which are used intermittently.

The Moundbuilders have a superior amount of depth — one of the strongest in the conference. According to Coach Smith, Southwestern's first string personnel is very well molded. Two good running and passing quarterbacks, Leroy Blackwell and Melvin Chasteen, have helped to put the Moundbuilders in a tie for first place.

The builders have a fast backfield and a pair of good ends; David Juhlin and Brian Negal.

Concerning the game coach Smith stated, "We are going to have just as good a chance as they do." Smith also added, "We go out on the field to play our best and to win."

The Bulldogs' mentor added that practice has been as usual this week, with emphasis on both offense and defense.

Coeds Battle Each Other In Football

Juniors and seniors will battle sophomores and freshmen and men will lead cheers in the first annual powder-puff football tilt Oct. 6 at 5:30 p.m. at the practice field.

Barbara Westray, sr., Lakehurst, N. J., and coordinator of the event, said the match will be flag football, a form of touch football.

Play will be divided in four running quarters of twelve minutes each, with no stopping of the clock except for times out.

Captains of the two teams are Janet Rhinehart, sr., Brooklyn, Iowa, and Lela Weddle, jr., Bloom, helming the upperclasswomen; and Beth Schultz, soph., Ely, Iowa, and Kathy Rogers, fr., Brooklyn, Iowa, leading the freshmen and sophomores.

"We're hoping to make this an annual event," said Barbara.

KWU Stomps Over B-Team

Kansas Wesleyan University B-squad romped to a 25-7 victory Monday, Sept. 26, over the McPherson Bulldogs B-team.

Coach Don Widrig and his assistant, Buddy Taylor, sr., Thomas, Okla., directed the Bulldog assault on KWU, who scored all but one touchdown in the first half.

McPherson's TD came in the second half on a pass from quarterback Hal Wright, fr., Dwight, to D. Moore. The kick for the extra point was successful.

Jim Beachell, soph., Princeton, N. J., played in the quarterback position along with Wright. Both teams used patterns identical to A-team strategy.

McPherson Trounces Coyotes for First Win

The McPherson College Bulldogs won their first game this season by defeating the Kansas Wesleyan Coyotes last Saturday in Salina 24-7.

The Bulldogs avenged a 23-13 defeat handed to them last season by the Coyotes.

Quarterback, Junior Smith, fr., Oakley, scored three touchdowns to lead the Bulldogs to their first victory of this season.

McPherson scored first in the opening quarter on a 97 yard march in 13 plays. Smith scored from the one-yard line on a quarterback keeper.

The Coyotes had only one scoring attempt in the first half. A blocked Bob DeFour punt was recovered by the Coyotes on McPherson's 22-yard line.

Wesleyan moved the ball to the Bulldogs' 14, but lost possession on downs.

Later in the second period the Coyotes had another chance to get on the scoreboard when they recovered a Bulldog fumble on the McPherson 30. The stout Bulldog defense held, and the half ended.

Junior Smith scored two more touchdowns in the third quarter, both climaxing long drives of 59 and 65 yards.

McPherson's fourth touchdown came in the final period when freshman fullback John Sumenski took a pass from reserve quarterback Don Crosby. All four attempts at extra points failed.

Collegians Teach Karate, Fencing

By PHIL GROVE

Karate and fencing lessons are being given by two McPherson College students this year.

Larry Martin, fr., Rome, N. Y., is giving lessons in karate; and Evan Ruff, jr., Clay Center, is giving fencing lessons.

Martin attended school at the Rome Free Academy, located on the Air Force Base where his father was in the service.

In order to receive his Black Belt, Martin had to take an hour-long test which included the techniques and combination of techniques of karate.

The karate expert is giving lessons twice a week to 12 students. They meet on Saturdays and Sundays each week from 1:30-3:30 p.m.

Lessons begin and end with stretching exercises. The rest of the time is devoted to practicing the various karate techniques, punching and kicking. Three students have been taking fencing lessons from Evan Ruff, a transfer student from Kansas University.

Ruff started fencing during the second semester of his freshman year at K. U. After taking the fencing course he began fencing on the K. U. team.

He took second place in a meet held at Kansas City and has placed in some of the larger tournaments held throughout the state.

The 19 year old fencer, majoring in history, has given lessons to as many as five or six students at a time; and has taught everything he knows to one other student.

Ruff gives lessons on the use of foils and sabers. The foil is used only for piercing. The torso, or upper part of the body, is the target of the foil.

The saber is used as a cutting or piercing weapon. Any part of the body, above the waist is the target.

Lessons are given whenever a time can be worked out with Ruff and the student.

Prognosticator Tells KCAC Wins, Losses

By GENE CZAPLINSKI
After ten straight winning guesses in our picking program, we feel ready to retire and let the lil' ol' upset bug bite some other poor forecasters.

But due to ho-hum-popular demand and a basic lack of forecasters, we engage to step out on the tightrope of slippery picks once more.

Reviewing last week's encounters, we find: Baker 7—Sterling 0, C of E 27—Friends 21, McPherson 24—KWU 7, Ottawa 60—Bethel 0.

Mac vs. Southwestern — the Bulldogs' defense was stingy against a weak K. W. U. last week, but how will it react against a vaunted Moundbuilders' offense? We think not, but Junior Smith could pose a problem. Southwestern 20—McPherson 6.

Baker at C of E—Baker appears weak this year and C of E is just getting into the winning habit. C of E 20—Baker 7.

K. W. U. at Bethany—Bethany will be snortin' rips to prove that last week's loss to C of E was a fluke. K. W. U. is in no position, manpower wise, to argue. Bethany 41—K. W. U. 7.

Bethel at Friends—The Falcons have just landed and that thud you heard was the Threshers—whom they landed on. Friends 31—Bethel 0.

Ottawa at Sterling—On offense, the Braves are averaging 47 ppg, the Warriors 3½. On defense, the Braves haven't been scored on yet.

16 Represent Foreign Lands

Sixteen foreign students are enrolled at McPherson College this year. The total enrollment of the college is 808 students.

Three of the sixteen foreign students are women and the remaining are men.

The largest percentage of foreign students are from Nigeria. They are Martin Alugbo, John Ayoko, Geoffrey Achumba and Donatus Mbaliri.

Other students are Nola Apostolidou, Greece; Michael Ziemann, West Germany; Pepe Castuera, Mexico; Irja Ratia, Finland; Jean Kwok, China; Samuel Kungsun, Japan; Dana-iso Somprasong, Thailand;

Luis De La Torre, Mexico; Michael Abdo, Lebanon; Raymond Juma, Israel; Al Jamil, Iraq; and Azouz Aziz, Arabia. These 16 foreign students represent 12 different countries.

Azouz Aziz, Jr., Arabia, had this to say about McPherson College, "I like the campus, it has a view of natural scenery and the yard is full of green. The buildings are new and well furnished."

"Both, students and faculty are co-operative, understanding and helpful. I am fascinated by the friendliness of the teachers and students."

Pepe Castuera, soph, Mexico, thinks of McPherson College as a big family where everybody co-operates.

Playing soccer for as long as he can remember, he has been practicing with some other students in hope that McPherson College can have a team next spring.

He hopes that he will have a good toe Friday night at the football game where he will attempt to kick field goals for the first time for the Bulldogs.

Another interest to Pepe is his accordion. He has played several pieces for college talent shows but shyly says, "I just make noises on my accordion."

Michael Ziemann, jr, Berlin, has a very interesting background. In 1961 he escaped from East Germany over the Berlin Wall.

During the past summer, Ziemann was with the West German Army Reserve. He spent a month training on a tank before being sent to Greece on a North Atlantic Treaty Organization maneuver.

From Greece his group was sent to northeast Turkey, about 60 miles from the Russian border, where he helped dig up the remains of a small town where 220 persons were killed in the earthquake which claimed the lives of 5 thousand people.
