

Bomberger to share impressions of sabbatical

By CINDY BARCHESKY

"Vignettes of a Vagabond" will be the theme of the Feb. 8 Convocation at 9 a.m.

Dr. Harold Z. Bomberger, pastor of the Church of the Brethren, is scheduled to speak on certain impressions and contacts of his four and one-half months sabbatical leave.

When he began his sabbatical last summer, Dr. Bomberger had four goals that he wanted to attain — service, study, travel and observation of the church in a culture completely alien to anything else before.

For his first goal, his service, he participated in the British - American Preachers' Exchange sponsored by the National Council of Churches of the United States and British National Council of Churches.

During July and August, Dr. Bomberger preached at a different church each Sunday throughout England and Scotland.

As a student, he spent three weeks during July at Oxford University and Mansfield College while taking a special course. He also attended St. George's College in Jerusalem during September and October.

Acting as a tourist, Dr. Bomberger traveled in Iran, France, Germany, Turkey, Greece, and the British Isles. He was in Nigeria for 16 days and in Israel for 34 days.

To observe the church, he visited the Church of the Brethren.

Brando, Fonda star in 'The Chase'

Marlon Brando, Jane Fonda, and Robert Redford star in "The Chase" which will be shown in Brown Auditorium Saturday night at 8:40 p.m.

When a young escaped convict tries to hide out among the people of a small Texas town, befriended by some, sought by others, the town goes berserk.

Starring as a modern-day sheriff, Marlon Brando alone believes the boy a victim of circumstances created by the town itself. As sheriff, Brando fights to return some semblance of sanity and respect for law.

Social problems such as injustice, adultery, apathy, and racial prejudice are boldly probed through superb characterizations.

Donation will be 50 cents as requested by the Social Committee.

Scholarship awards to be announced soon

By JANE DADISMAN

Academic and music scholarships will soon be announced. Many files on prospective new students for scholarship awards will be completed when seven-semester transcripts are received.

Academic scholarships to be awarded will still be based on grades and high school rank, ACT scores, a personal interview, and other standardized tests scores. Music awards will be based upon personal or taped auditions and a personal interview. The latter have been increased to begin with the 1968-69 school year.

This year the intent is to announce the winners as decisions are made rather than wait until all are qualified.

The scholarship program is ren mission in the midst of the Church of Christ in the Sudan; and missions in northern Nigeria.

Several incidents highlighted Dr. Bomberger's sabbatical. He was among 8000 persons that had an audience with the head of the Roman Catholic Church, Pope Paul IV.

He attended one of Queen Elizabeth's garden parties at Buckingham Palace.

While in Nigeria, he visited with 11 Church of the Brethren missionaries stationed at Waka who are College alumni.

Regier receives award of merit for sculpture

Arlie J. Regier, assistant professor of industrial arts, has been selected for an award of merit in the 37th Annual Exhibition held at the Springfield Missouri Art Museum.

The sculpture made of metal, was named "Homo Sapiens 00735792." Prof. Regier chose this name because the sculpture represents a man without a face who has no identity except for an IBM number.

Prof. Regier completed this welded sculpture at the Hobart Welding School in Ohio. He worked under the instruction of Richard Stankiewicz who was one of three men who brought welded sculpture into history.

Prof. Regier collects "found" objects from salvage yards. The "found" objects are discarded scraps of metal that have been previously formed for industrial or mechanical use. He then assembles the scraps into what he feels is a pleasing arrangement without the use of a blueprint.

Circle K to have membership drive

McPherson College Circle K Membership Drive will be Feb. 5-9. Interested persons may pick up applications for membership in the Student Union between 11 a.m. and 1 p.m. each day of the drive.

Applicants for membership must have a 2.0 grade point average and have attended McPherson College for one semester.

The applicants are voted on by the membership committee, the board of directors and finally by the entire club.

Seriously attempting to reward good students for their attainment but is also attempting to increase the awards sufficiently to help defray the increasing cost of school.

The present program began with freshmen entering in September 1960 with a maximum scholarship of $250 per year or a total of $1000 for four years. Previous to that, the maximum academic scholarship had been $50 per semester for up to four semesters, a total of $200.

In 1965, the maximum scholarship was changed to $3000. However, now the sizes of awards vary from $400-$2500, that is, from $100-$25 per year. To keep the maximum competitive scholarship, a student must maintain a 3.0 average each semester.

Meyers, Hedrick will promote College program

Introducing high school counselors and prospective students to the College requires extensive traveling for Eugene Meyers, director of admissions and Jerry Hedrick, Jr., admissions counselor.

Meyers will travel to a Kansas City, Mo. church and speak for a "School of Thought and Action Week" program Feb. 12. That program has replaced the traditional "School of Missions" program.

Hedricks will be visiting schools, counselors, and students in the Omaha area Feb. 20-21.

If any students know of any friends or students in these areas that are interested in the College, they are asked to contact the admissions office.

The men represented the College at McPherson High School Jan. 29-30.

On Jan. 31, Hedricks was at Wichita for a dinner and meeting of the counselors of Wichita schools and those of surrounding areas. His purpose was to acquaint the counselors with the Associated Colleges of Central Kansas.

Hedricks repeats the ACCCK dinner and meeting at Kansas City Feb. 1.

Meyer recently returned from a trip through southern Missouri.

Six ACCCK groups meet

The Associated Colleges of Central Kansas scheduled six meetings this week of various groups within the organization.

Meeting last Monday noon at Bethany College for a luncheon meeting was the ACCCK Board of Directors. This group includes the president and one trustee of each of the six ACCCK colleges. Two new trustees, Arthur C. Walther, Bethel, and Dr. Einar Jaderborg, Bethany, attended the meeting for the first time.

Politics class to tour Washington D.C.

The History Department headed by Dr. Raymond D. Flory will sponsor an educational tour to Washington D. C. March 30-April 6.

Students of American politics to whom the tour is open will have the opportunity to meet congressional members, visit congressional committees, the A.F.L.C.I.O. and other committees and their members which are of particular interest to the study of American politics.

Dr. Flory expects the cost to run approximately $100 per student. A chartered bus will provide transportation.

The Deans of the ACCCK colleges met Tuesday for a luncheon meeting in the student union here on campus.

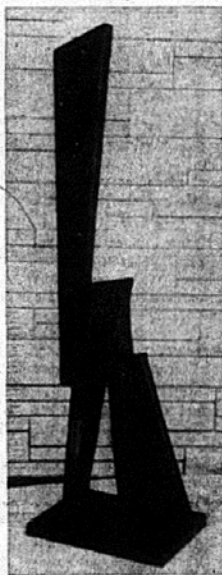

Also meeting on campus Tuesday was the Business and Economics committee. This group met at 5:30 p.m. for a dinner in the private dining room in the Student Union.

Miss Mildred Sisk, professor of home economics at McPherson, is the chairman of the ACCCK Home Economics Committee, which met Tuesday at 6 p.m. The committee, consisting of the heads of the home economic departments of the ACCCK colleges met in downtown McPherson for a dinner meeting.

The purpose of the meeting was to make plans for next year's inter-term session.

Wednesday night the Directors of Admissions of the ACCCK colleges met in Wichita for a dinner meeting. The purpose of the dinner was to meet with Wichita high school counselors and inform them about the ACCCK colleges.

A similar dinner will be held tonight in Kansas City, Mo. to meet with high school counselors in the Kansas City area.

Stucco to open Mac Shack again

A decision to re-open the Mac Shack was reached by the student council meeting which was held Jan. 24.

The Mac Shack which ran into the "red" by some $500.00 dollars during last semester is for the benefit of McPherson College students and, therefore it was decided that the Student Council should accept the responsibility of helping it financially.

One of the main reasons for the previous financial loss is that it is estimated that less than 15 per cent of the students use its facilities.

A trial period for one month in which prices will be slightly increased has been suggested by the Student Council.

If on the conclusion of this period of time the Mac Shack is still losing money its services will have to be discontinued.

The Mac Shack will open its doors tomorrow. The delay was caused by several broken water pipes.

Office hours change

Offices in Mohler Hall will be closed Saturday mornings. Most of the administrative personnel will be on duty, but appointments should be arranged ahead of time.

The office hours for Mohler will be as follows 8 a.m. — 12 p.m. and 1 p.m. — 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Ullom visits brother in Laos; tells of experiences, customs

By LINDA DEAN

While the majority of McPherson College students were getting ready for their usual Christmas vacations at home, Rose Marie Ullom, soph. Wiley, Colo., was making last minute plans to visit her brother in Laos.

The first step of her journey was a flight to San Francisco. From there she flew to Bangkok, Thailand, where she was met by her brother, Kenneth Ullom, a 1965 graduate of McPherson College.

Together they took a train to Vientiane, the capital of Laos, where Kenneth is stationed as the Associate Chief of Party of International Voluntary Service. This is a supervisory position of the Rural Development Department.

In Vientiane they joined with their mother, Mrs. Rosalie Ullom, who had made the trip to Laos the latter part of November. Here they had their own house to live in. "Helping fix a meal for twenty people then leaving the messy kitchen for the maid to clean up was really great," Miss Ullom said.

Miss Ullom felt that one of her most interesting experiences was attending a Lao baci. This is a ceremony where everyone sits on the floor around a huge centerpiece of flowers.

During the ceremony everyone includes a string around his wrist and chants good wishes. The strings are to keep evil spirits away. To Miss Ullom the Lao people chanted wishes for her to marry a Lao boy. Baci are held at weddings, births, and for travelers.

For Christmas, the Ulloms invited thirty-two IVSers to their home for dinner, and spent the day much as they would have in America.

Miss Ullom feels that the Lao people are a very happy, contented, and friendly people, and that Laos is a beautiful country. One of her chances to see the country came on an excursion up in the mountains in a jeep. Although it was the cold season, there was no need for even a sweater.

The motorcycle was the main mode of transportation. Miss Ullom also took malaria pills as protection against the mosquitoes.

The Ulloms visited with Lane Yoder, who is an English teacher in IVS. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Yoder of McPherson. "It was odd for us four Americans to be sitting in a Lao home eating Indian curry chicken cooked by a Vietnamese cook," Miss Ullom recalled.

They also flew to Burma, but could only stay twenty-four hours, as this was the limit set by the government. Here they enjoyed a twelve course Chinese dinner at the home of Edward Khaw, a former McPherson College graduate.

Then on to New Delhi, India, where they visited with Wayland Beeghly, a student at McPherson College.

In Agra, India, they viewed the Taj Mahal, which Miss Ullom felt was indescribable by moonlight.

In Bombay, India, they visited with Everett and Joy Fasnacht, Brethren missionaries at Anklesvar, and toured the missionary post there.

They then flew to Frankfurt, then on to Amsterdam, where they spent a day with the mother-in-law of Miss Ullom's other brother.

Then back to the United States via New York, marking the end of a thirty-day trip around the world. Although she has many souvenirs to remind her of her journey, Miss Ullom will never forget all the things she saw and experienced and all the people she met.

Sociology profs. to discuss field trip on television Feb. 9

McPherson College will be featured on Hutchinson-Wichita station KTVH, channel 12, Feb. 9 at 7 a.m.

Dr. Kenneth C. Bechtel, professor of sociology and language, and Prof. Robert E. Keim, assistant professor in sociology, will be discussing and reviewing the sociology field trip in Chicago.

Some of the topics that will be talked about and reviewed include a visit to the juvenile court and the Institute of Juvenile Research, the Museum of Science and Industry and eating at Skid Row.

Progression, but, enough?

McPherson College has come a long way since its initial year in 1887.

Student enrollment has greatly increased, as has the faculty, which numbered eight in 1887.

The campus has expanded to meet the needs of the faculty, administration, staff and students.

Rules and regulations governing the college have also progressed despite contradiction by many.

I will review some of the rules as they appeared in McPherson College's first catalog.

1. All students are required to be present at Chapel exercises and all recitations; also to attend Sunday School and one church service each Lord's day, at the college chapel or at some other place, where their parents or guardian may direct in writing.

2. Students are required to go to their rooms at the ringing of the study bell and to observe order so as not to disturb others in study.

3. Students must extinguish their lights promptly at 10 p.m. unless excused by the professor in charge of the hall.

4. No lady or gentleman will be allowed to trespass on the territory of the opposite sex, except by special permission of the President.

5. Ladies and gentlemen will not ride, walk, or play together except by special arrangement with the President.

6. No students rooming in the dormitory shall be absent after 10 p.m. unless by permission of the President.

7. Students desiring to visit the cemetery or to go to the city must obtain permission from the President, except on Saturday afternoons between 1-4 p.m., when general liberty to go to the city and return is granted.

8. Students will be permitted to meet in the chapel for social intercourse 20 minutes immediately after supper of each day — to be under the supervision of one or more of the faculty.

9. Visitors desiring to call upon students in the building must apply to the President.

We think that we have it bad now? True, college rules and regulations have been liberalized since 1887, but have they been liberalized enough to meet the demands of the students?

Kobe views armistice with solid opposition

Dear Editor:

The cry to negotiate a settlement of the Vietnam war rings out from the McPherson Peace Action Council. It is time that this cry be met with determined opposition.

We must not fool ourselves by believing that negotiations bring lasting peace.

We must not fool ourselves by believing that an indecisive conflict in Vietnam will bring stability to that country any more than it brought stability to Laos.

We must not fool ourselves by believing that an indecisive conflict will bring freedom from terrorism, assassination, and military conflict any more than it did in Korea.

Macalendar

Friday, Feb. 2 — Basketball, Baker, here, B-team, 5:30 p.m.; A-team, 7:30 p.m.

Saturday, Feb. 3 — Movie, "The Chase," 8:30 p.m., Brown Auditorium.

Sunday, Feb. 4 — Morning church services; attend the church of your choice.

Monday, Feb. 4 — Children's Theater, 4 p.m., Brown Auditorium.

Monday, Feb. 5 — Basketball, Southwestern, here, B-team, 5:30 p.m.; A-team, 7:30 p.m.

Friday, Feb. 9 — Student Music Recital, 7 p.m., Brown Auditorium.

Saturday, Feb. 10 — Basketball, Bethel, There B-team, 5:30 p.m.; A-team, 7:30 p.m.

If the cry for negotiation seems strong it is because of an unwillingness to pay the price for lasting peace.

If Americans have, and are to die for the name of peace as defined at the Munich Conference of 1938 and the Potsdam Conference of 1945; then it is better that no Americans should have died at all.

If the advocates of negotiation are proud of the fruits of peaceful settlement that let them speak the words of the Munich Agreement to the people of the dismembered Czechoslovakia of 1939.

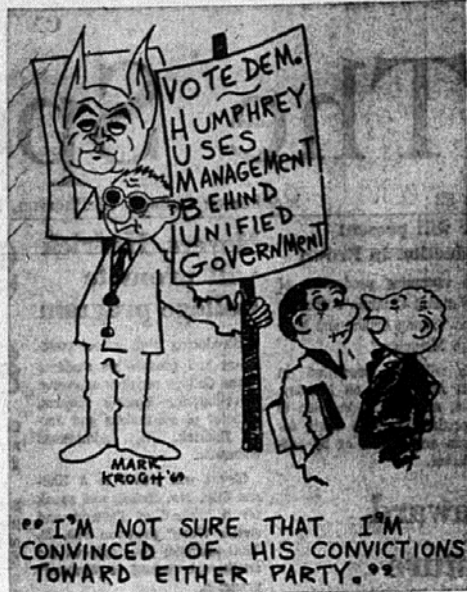

If the advocates of negotiation are proud of the fruits of peaceful settlement then let them speak the words of the Geneva Accords of 1962 concerning neutrality and coalition governments to the people of Laos.

Let the advocates of nonintervention address themselves to the Hungarians of 1956 concerning expediency.

If we decide to accept as our own, the views of the McPherson Peace Action Council, then perhaps we have not learned that peace is not to be found in armistice, concession, or unlimited toleration; but, that peace can only be maintained by an unswerving dedication to punish aggression without remorse.

Nations will learn to respect peace when they learn to fear aggression.

Student questions value of inter-term

By MARILYN SMITH

The snowy campus was swept by freezing wind when a few hardy souls returned here several weeks ago for the inter-term. Since many participants lived off-campus, only a handful of us lived in the dorms on the nearly deserted campus.

For two weeks (January 9-19), for three hours every morning, students either attended classes here or on the campus of Kansas Wesleyan University or Tabor College. Many of the courses were in teaching methods.

"What an easy way to get two hours of credit!" is a comment I heard more than once—but from students who did not participate in the inter-term! The supposed "ease" varied greatly from class to class.

Some students felt that they were required to expend more time and energy in the two weeks than in a semester course. Other professors were more easy-going, and perhaps a little more realistic.

Actually, the total hours spent in class and in probable outside study proved quite comparable to a regular two-hour course. Concentration on only one course and lack of campus attractions and distractions may even have helped students learn more than in a normal course.

Since this was the first inter-term program, problems and confusion were probably inevitable. No one seemed to know exactly what was to happen, or how many would participate. One unfortunate result was a shortage of textbooks in some courses.

In spite of reluctance to return to studies early, most students seemed to like the inter-term program. Those of us who commuted to classes had the unique opportunity of becoming acquainted with another campus, with different students from several schools, and with different professors, most of whom proved to be excellent. Getting out of our educational "rut" proved both interesting and stimulating.

Questions and rumors have arisen, however, concerning the inter-term program. Most of us who participated were required to do so in order to meet a requirement. Does this "arm-twisting" mean, as rumor has it, that the program is "just a money-making deal?"

What implications does required participation in the inter-term have? Transportation was not inconsiderable expense for commuting students. Both students told us their school paid drivers eight cents per mile, but McPherson students were not compensated.

The fact that KWU students were not charged for the courses, while McPherson students paid $25 per hour (none of which went to the other colleges which provided courses), is another friction point.

Is it true, too, that the administration decreed that scholarships and some other financial aids, which many students depend heavily upon, could not be used in paying for the inter-term?

If the inter-term is compulsory for some students, and not purely voluntary, then these questions need to be answered fully and fairly.

Other questions concern the future of the inter-term program. Will it be compulsory for all students next year, as some predict?

On many college campuses throughout the United States this kind of program involves the entire student body in studying a particular broad field, emphasizing individual thinking and creative research.

Are these exciting ideas possible for McPherson College in future inter-terms? Could such progressive programs succeed here, or in McPherson College destined to be small in outlook as well as in size?

An administrative report on the inter-term program — its rationale, goals, and possible future — would be welcomed.

Navy officer team to recruit Feb. 29

The Navy Officer Procurement Team from the Navy Recruiting Station, Kansas City, Mo., and the Naval Air Station, Olathe, will be on campus Feb. 29 from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m.

The Navy team will be located in the Student Union to give information and test for the various Navy officer programs.

In Loss Of Mind

Smoke lazily roles from my new wood pipe,
And snow is piling up outside.
Warmth by the artificial rock, oh, life is ripe.
And time is piling up inside.

Touched by the icy sting and blistered wind,
I move my pen across my mind.
In record of whatever may descend
From a swollen heart with love so blind.

A deep sickening yearn for fruitful thought;
In deed a meaning of the truth.
False reality in support of realism bought
From a peddler with the past as proof.

Lost articles of fact and figure-heads,
Each striving to symbolize what you'll find.
Lamp shades, rockers, and antique beds;
Where invalid writers lie in loss of mind.

Student voices opinion on re-evaluation of rules

Dear Editor:

On page thirty-three, under "Rules, Regulations and Suggestions" of The Growl, the first paragraph reads: "It is reasonable to assume that students who enroll in McPherson College are also willing to abide by the regulations of the college."

In my opinion, this is a false assumption. Although some, perhaps even most, of the students are willing to abide by the rules, all of the students are not.

For a number of students, myself included, it was a matter of either coming to McPherson or not going to college at all. It is no secret that McPherson College has very liberal admittance requirements.

Would a person who wanted to receive an education think first of the education he would receive at college or of the rules and regulations by which he would be expected to abide? I thought, first, of an education.

As McPherson College progresses, and it is progressing, not only in the growing number of students, but in offering new and extended areas of study, it should consider seriously a re-evaluation of the rules and regulations of campus activities.

Education and progress go together hand in hand. If McPherson can be liberal enough to accept the rejected, would-be students from other colleges, why can't it be liberal enough to look at itself objectively and realize that changes are due?

Foreign study applications due

Students wishing to take advantage of the Service Education Abroad should apply to Dr. Merlin L. Frantz, dean of academic affairs, before Feb. 15. This covers a one year academic program of study during the 1968-69 school year in either Colombia, Latin America or Argentina.

Any person with at least one year of college, adequate knowledge of the Spanish language and an average of B or better in his course work may apply.

Another program, Seminar in El Salvador, under the direction of William Siemens, professor from Pacific College, will be offered from June 10 to July 19, 1968.

The first part of the Seminar will be a tour through Mexico and Guatemala.

Students who are interested may apply to the dean of academic affairs before Mar. 15. A student, who has attended college for one year or more may apply.

Stueco appoints Ganshorn to head social committee

Monty Ganshorn, Jr., Warsaw, Ind., has assumed the position of social committee chairman for this semester. Ganshorn, who is majoring in business administration, is replacing Cliff Gates, Alexandria, Va., who graduated in December.

He will be working closely with social committee members Art Ware, soph, Silver Springs, Md.; Sandy Fisher, soph, Lakins; Linda Fleischacker, soph, Rocky Ford, Colo.; Jody Duffy, jr, Abilene; Jan Burnham, sr, Pierceson, Iowa; and Jody Serenitis, jr, Washington, D. C.

Ganshorn said that he accepted the position because he had worked closely with Gates and knew what the job would involve. He said that several dances and movies are being planned.

The social committee has been working with the other colleges in the AACC in considering holding a computer dance and they have also discussed having a dance with a big-name group.

"We have a good committee and plan on having a lot of activities," Ganshorn concluded.

C of E, Bethany hand Bulldogs two defeats

Both College of Emporia and Bethany College handed the McPherson College roundballers a defeat during the past week.

C of E rolled over the Bulldogs 102-78 Jan. 22, and Bethany nipped the Bulldogs 66-64 Jan. 27.

At Emporia the Presbies jumped to an early 28-12 lead, hitting 13 of their first 19 shots from the field.

They went on to build up a 53-32 halftime advantage, hitting 56 per cent from the field in the first half.

McPherson outscored the Presbies from the charity line 28-10 but that was not enough to offset the 46-25 advantage that the Presbies had from the field.

McPherson's Don Woodcock was high scorer of the game with 22 points. Hal Wright added 17 points for the Bulldogs and John Smith 16.

Bob Burns hit 20 points for the Emporia team. Five other

Presbies also hit the double figures.

Emporia was in fourth place in the Kansas College Athletic Conference with a 6-3 record going into its clash with Ottawa last night.

Bethany's Dale Gorsky caught a full-court pass with six seconds remaining to play and drove to the basket for an easy layup to stun the Bulldogs 66-64 Saturday night at Lindsborg.

The winning basket left the McPherson fans in silent awe after they had watched the Bulldogs make four quick points to tie the score at 64-64 with eight seconds remaining in the game.

The loss dropped McPherson into a two-way tie with Bethany for eighth place in the Kansas conference.

Both teams had 2-7 KCAC records going into this week's play. Bethany is 3-10 overall and McPherson is 3-11.

The Bulldogs outscored the Swedes 36-34 in the last half but that was not enough to overcome their four point deficit at halftime.

McPherson's Wright was high scorer of the game with 20 points, followed by Smith with 16 and Woodcock with 10.

Oleen hit 16 points for the Swedes, Fugua 14 and Gorsky 10.

The McPherson junior varsity team lost to the C of E JVS 83-73, but managed a 77-76 victory over the Bethany JVs.

Braun will direct ACCC orchestra

William Braun, professor of music and director of band at Tabor College, Hillsboro, has assumed the position of director of the Associated Colleges of Central Kansas Orchestra.

The group meets alternately at Tabor and McPherson Colleges each Monday night. At the end of last semester, 30 students, faculty members, and interested community members gave a concert directed by Robert E. Revell, assistant professor in music.

Class gains experience by cooking large meals

The eleven students enrolled in the Quantity Cookery class conducted by Miss Mildred Slek are becoming acquainted with cooking meals for a large number of people.

Each girl is required to prepare, plan, and manage a meal for fifty or more people. The girl decides the menu, figures the cost, buys the groceries, and works out the schedule, as well as helping with the actual cooking.

Janice Howell, sr., St. John, will be in charge of the first dinner, which will be prepared for the FFA Mother - Daughter banquet at McPherson High School on Feb. 8.

Other groups the class prepares meals for are the Mother-Daughter banquet at the Church of the Brethren and faculty dinners.

Tea rooms are also held in the department. The first one will be Feb. 12 and will be managed by Glenice Miller, sr., McPherson.

At a tea room a maximum of forty-eight persons are served at $1.00 a plate. It is somewhat like going to a hotel, and a choice of menu is offered. These are open to everyone, including students, by reservation. Dinners are served at 5:30 and 6:30 p.m.

College to make public aware of curriculum

One of the many purposes of an institution such as McPherson College is to make the public aware of the curriculum it has to offer. One way it does this is by deputation trips.

McPherson College has no deputation trips planned for this spring as in former years. However, a new idea is going to be tried.

Iowa, Missouri, Nebraska, and Kansas churches will be involved in a College Sunday Emphasis program from Feb. 25 to the middle of March. Faculty and administrative personnel will travel to churches in these states, arriving on Saturday evening.

At that time, they will meet with the church people or hold meetings on Sunday morning for adults or young people during the Sunday School hour. Talks will deal with college and church relationships.

According to Paul Wagoner, associate director of development, there are two activities still in the first stages of planning. He has hopes of sending representatives to churches of Colorado on April 28, National Christian College Sunday.

There is also the possibility of sending a drama group for two weekends to Kansas churches.

Dogs to play two games

The McPherson College Bulldogs see action twice in the coming week. Both games are at home and will be played at the Roundhouse. The Dogs tangle with Baker Friday. Baker has been going with Bodecker, Brown, Munger, Shank and Struby as its top five this year.

A close game is expected, as Baker barely nudged out the Dogs at their last meeting.

The Bulldogs will meet Kansas Wesleyan University and try for the first victory of the season against the coyotes. Feb. 5, KWU won the first outing.

The coyotes go with Sasser and Stoller at forwards, Williams at center and Coleman and Szypulski at guards.

The Coyotes are in the middle of a battle for the conference crown while the Bulldogs stand 2-7.

Graduate joins Peace Corps

McPherson College graduate, Michael D. Brown, has recently been named a Peace Corps Volunteer after completing 12 weeks of training at the Peace Corps Training Center in Hilo, Hawaii.

Brown is one of 200 new Volunteer teachers who will teach agriculture in secondary and teacher training schools; liberal arts subjects in secondary schools or educational methods in teacher training institutions. Brown will teach language or social science at a secondary teacher's college.

During their training the new Volunteers study the Malaysian language, history and culture as well as technical studies in their respective fields. Their late December arrival in Malaysia brings the total of Peace Corps Volunteers serving there to over 525.

Athletes form FCA chapter

McPherson College athletes formed a chapter of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes last semester. The officers are: president David Shepherd, soph, Fort Scott, vice-president, Bruce Cook, soph, McPherson, secretary, Dick Stalcup, fr, Topeka.

This is a nationwide organization for high school and college athletes and is headed by some of the top athletes in the world: Bobby Richardson, Bob Pettit, Bob Richards, Paul Anderson, Larry Wilson, as well as many other top professional and amateur athletes.

The purpose of the Fellowship is "to confront athletes and coaches and through them the youth of the nation with the challenge and adventure of following Christ through the fellowship of the church."

There seemed to be an interest among the athletes for some type of organization, and Donald Widrig, associate professor in physical education, backed them in forming the FCA.

The Fellowship of about 20 athletes meet every other Thursday at 8 p.m. in the quiet room and discuss problems of being an athlete and Christian.

Shepherd said that anyone who had participated in athletics in high school or college or is now active is invited to attend.

Madrigals plan larger engagements for schedule

By DONNA WINEGARDEN

McPherson College Madrigals, under the direction of Dr. Doris Coppock, professor of physical education for women, are planning a bigger schedule than last semester.

They entertained at the Cedars, Central College, the Fireman's Dinner, Kiwanis Club, Monitor Church and Convocation.

This semester Don McMurray, soph, Canton, is taking over in the bass section for Roger Ditzler who transferred.

The Madrigals sing a variety of popular, religious, and classical songs. This semester, according to Dr. Coppock, they are planning to sing a short Lenten cantata, "Seven Words from the Cross," by Knut Nystedt, a contemporary composer.

Other Lenten numbers will be added for sacred performances at chapel and several churches during the Lenten season. Also they are planning several new classic and contemporary madrigals for other scheduled performances.

Already a number of performances are scheduled for the Madrigal group. They will sing for the Newton Church Dedication, at the 2:30 p.m. program, Feb. 4; they entertain at Ladies Night for the Rotary Club, Feb. 20. In March they appear at the Reading Circle, sponsored by Mrs. J. Jack Melhorn.

Most exciting is the TV appearance Friday March 8, 7 a. m., when the McPherson College Music Department is featured on Community Window

Students returning from Mexico City reminisce about various experiences

By CAROLYN DELL

Three McPherson College students spent from October to December last semester studying in Mexico.

Lydia Garza, Jr., Fallurrias, Tex., Janet Smith, Jr., Lyons, and Miss McFadden, Jr., Baudette, Minn., attended the fall quarter at the University of the Americas in Mexico City.

Miss Garza took 15 quarter hours of Spanish courses at the university. Most of her classes concentrated on Spanish grammar and literature. She commented that only the Spanish courses were taught in Spanish. All other courses were taught in English.

"Nearly all of the university students are Americans from all parts of the United States," said Miss Garza. "This is because the university is really just like any other American college, only located in a foreign country."

Communion to be served Sunday, Feb. 4

The McPherson Church of the Brethren will conduct a Communion service on Feb. 4 rather than the usual church service.

The service will revolve entirely around Communion; there will be no sermon as such, but mainly a meditation period. The special music will also contribute to the Communion theme.

The Bread and Cup will be shared during the service but is open to all members and friends.

This communion service usually takes place early in January, but has been moved up for the benefit of McPherson College students.

Sunday evening will begin a four-week series of study groups on foreign policy. Dr. Lorell Weis, professor of sociology, has charge of the program. There will be a youth, college, and several other groups.

Anyone who would like to know more about the US foreign policies or who enjoys discussion is welcome.

LYDIA GARZA, Jr., Fallurrias, Tex., and Janet Smith, Jr., Lyons, recently back from Mexico, catch-up on current news articles.

made Miss Garza's stay even more exciting. "I lived with a family of four and the two daughters were older than me. They even had a maid," she said smilingly, "but everyone in Mexico has a maid because they are paid such low wages."

Miss Smith's classes included 13 quarter hours of Spanish grammar, Spanish diction and History of Spain. "Most of the teachers at the university are Spanish or Mexican, but a few are American," she stated.

During her first four weeks in Mexico, Miss Smith lived with ten other American girls in a Mexican home. "However, it was more like a girls dorm at any other college," she commented. "So I moved to the same home Lydia was staying in because I wanted to learn more about Mexican family life."

"I was really surprised when the family maid did everything for us. She washed our clothes, made our beds and brought meals to our room since we only ate with the family on weekends." We always ate delicious Mexican food, but without the hot sauce," Miss Smith said laughing.

McFadden was enrolled in 13 quarter hours while studying at the university.

He also lived with a Mexican family, which he described as, "having six kids who all spoke Spanish."

While in Mexico, McFadden visited Vera Cruz, Acapulco, and went mountain climbing.

When asked if he had any difficulty with the language barrier, McFadden replied, "At first I had trouble understanding people who spoke Spanish, but I soon learned much of the language."

Miss Garza and Miss Smith agreed that they did not have too much trouble with the language because most people in Mexico City speak English. All the people in the City are striving to learn English," Miss Smith stated.

"Mexico City is really like a big American city. There are many stores and eating places."

Both girls said that they met few Mexican students at the university. However, there were chances to meet Mexican youths who lived in their neighborhood or who came to visit in the girl's Mexican home.

"One interesting thing we learned about Mexican youths is that the girls marry about the age of 17. Yet, the boys do not marry until about 25 because they are still in college up until that age," Miss Garza said.

"We felt that we were completely accepted as the Mexican people try very hard to make you one of them."

"The Mexican people are very, very polite. One thing we had trouble adjusting to was always shaking hands everytime we said hello or goodbye. If we went to a home and we were introduced to a large family, we had to go around the room and shake hands with every member of the family."

Miss Smith stated that one unusual experience she has was riding the bus from her home to school every day. "You were apt to find anything on the bus," she said. "Often there were people with pigs or chickens. Once a man got on carrying balloons to sell. He tied the balloons down in the middle of the aisle and people had to crawl under them to get off the bus."

Do Mexican men really serenade girls? "Yes," Miss Garza said. "Once a man came to serenade a girlfriend of mine, but the only trouble was that she was out with another man."

Miss Garza thinks more students should go to Mexico. "It is a wonderful place to learn about a different culture," she stated. "I feel studying in Mexico was really a great experience."

Heart Sister Week to be Feb. 12-18

Heart Sister Week will be Feb. 12-18, stated Annette Burkholder, sr., Preston, Minn., president of Women's Council.

Each woman will draw a name and then, without revealing her own identity, send gifts or do as many deeds of kindness as she can for her heart sister.

Suggested presents for a heart sister might be putting a candy bar in her mailbox, making her bed, or perhaps cleaning her room.

The sisters reveal their identity at a traditional breakfast in the Student Union Feb. 18.

ACCK to offer aviation course

A Saturday morning Aviation Education course is being sponsored by the Associated Colleges of Central Kansas.

The course which begins Feb. 3, will continue for 16 weeks in Mohler Hall on McPherson College campus.

Marion P. Stevens and Don Cary of the Education Division at Beech Aircraft in Wichita are the instructors for the course which covers all phases of flying and offers 3 hours of college credit.

Dr. V. R. Easterling, president of ACCK, said students from the ACCK member colleges are being accepted as well as others who are interested in learning the basics of flying.

Interest has been shown in flight training at the McPherson airport on Saturday afternoon. This is a separate program from the ACCK course. One half-hour of actual flying is included, but not required, in the Aviation Education course.

Formal dinners will continue this semester

Jim Winters, assistant manager of Slater Food Service, said that the formal dinners to which students were invited on Saturday evenings last semester will continue through this semester on Wednesday evenings at 6 p. m.

Invitations will continue according to alphabetical order and Winters said that this will give everyone an opportunity to attend before the end of the semester.

However, any person who would like to attend before his name comes up is welcome and may contact Sue Duncanson, chairman of the food committee, for an earlier invitation.

The menu will remain the same as last semester: flaming clam appetizer, juice, soup, tossed salad, baked potato, and lobster.

Mr. Winters said that the dining service is planning several other special ideas during this semester, but the plans are not final yet.
