MOHLER ATTENDS THE NATIONAL COLLEGIATE ATHLETIC CONFERENCE

Represented the Kansas Athletic Organization at Atlanta, Georgia.

MET MANY FAMOUS COACHES

Mohler Also Visited Many Interesting Points in the South and En Route

Professor Mohler returned January 3 from Atlanta, Georgia, where he attended the National Collegiate Athletic Conference, December 27 and 28, as the one representative from Kansas Intercollegiate Conference, which was held in Topeka last December.

Faculty Supervision of Athletics.

Faculty supervision of athletics was the main subject of discussion by the principal speakers, Dr. James R. Angel, president of Yale University; Professor C. W. Savage, of Oberlin College; and Professor G. D. Dawson, of the Y. M. C. A. College of Springfield, Massachusetts. The discussion viewed three angles of the question: finances, scholastic requirements, and the correlation between athletics and life's work.

Famous Men in Athletics.

Among the famous men in athletics whom Professor Mohler met at Atlanta are: Stagg, of Chicago University; Zuppke, of Illinois University; Doble, of Cornell; Yost, of Michigan University; Jones, of Yale; Jones, of Iowa State University; Rocknie, of Notre Dame; "Bo" McMillan, the famous Center College quarterback; Moran, of Center College; Kabanagh, of Boston; and Walter Camp, the father of American college football, of Yale.

Interesting Statistics Presented.

Interesting statistics were presented by Yost showing that from a number of graduates of Michigan University, about twenty-five years ago, the salary today of the social leaders in school at that time is $10,000; of the leaders in athletics, $6,000; and of the intellectual leaders, less than $3,000.

At the same time that this Conference was held, the Conference of Physical Directors, and of Football Coaches were being held in Atlanta, and Professor Mohler attended their meetings.

Saw Oldest City.

During Professor Mohler's trip which lasted from December 22 to January 3, he visited points of interest in the South. He stopped at Jacksonville, Florida, which is on the edge of the tourist region, and at

FINAL EXAMINATIONS WILL BE HELD JANUARY 17 AND 18

Final examinations covering the first semester's work will be given January 17 and 18. The morning classes will be given their examinations Thursday, two hours to each examination, and the finals for the afternoon classes are to come on Friday, as has been the usual order in the College.

RECEIVES FIRST CLASS RATING

McPherson College Academy has recently been rated as a first-class school by the state inspector. J. E. Edgerlon, a member of the State Board, recently visited the campus and carefully examined the equipment and classroom work. He was well pleased with the Academy in every respect, according to his report which was received by Professor Hess recently.

FRANK HOWELL WINS ORATORICAL CONTEST

WILL REPRESENT M. C. IN STATE CONTEST AT BETHANY IN MARCH

The annual local contest of the Old Line Oratorical League was held in the chapel Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock. Those who competed in the contest were; Elizabeth Mohler, Frank Howell, Earl Broom, George Merkey, and William Burgin. The titles of the orations were "A Modern Peril," "Mars or God," "The Call of the Immature," "Christianity or Paganism," and "The Tragedy of America."

To Represent M. C. in State Contest.

Frank Howell who spoke on "Mars or God" won first place. William Burgin won second place, the title of his oration being "The American Tragedy." The other orators deserve honorable mention.

The winner besides receiving a prize of seven dollars to be given by Professor W. E. Ray Ph. M. 1906 of Houston, Texas, will represent McPherson College at Bethany College at Lindborg in March. Mr. Burgin will receive a prize of three dollars donated by Prof. Ray, also.

Judges for the Contest.

The judges were of two groups. Those judging delivery were Miss Mercedes Chapman, Professor P. L. Hamilton and C. E. Oelrich. The group judging thought and composition were Rev. Lawrence Ashley, Miss Edith Haight, head of the English department of McPherson High School, and Mrs. C. T. Heley.

Much Interest in Oratory.

Oratory is a growing interest at McPherson College evident from the larger number of contestants over last year and the interested audience. Much time and diligent work had been exerted by each contestant and all who attended were well repaid for having heard these excellent orations.

ENROLLMENT WILL BE JANUARY 21, 22, and 23

Enrollment for the second semester will take place January 21, 22, and 23. Students are urged to plan their courses with the assistance of their faculty advisers before that time so as to avoid any unnecessary bother during the Bible Institute.

STUDEBAKER STOPS AT M. C.

President Ellis M. Studebaker, of LaVerne College, LaVerne, California, paid McPherson a short visit last week when he stopped here for a day on his way home from Indianapolis, Indiana, where he attended the World Student Volunteer Convention, January 28 to December 1. President Studebaker is well known here, as he was on the M. C. faculty as professor of Greek and New Testament Interpretation, 1911 to 1923. Last spring he resigned to accept the presidency of LaVerne College.

BULLDOGS WILL OPEN SEASON NEXT FRIDAY AGAINST THE QUAKERS

Friends University Expected to Give Mishler's Cagers A Worth-while Battle.

TEAM IN SPLENDID CONDITION.

Both Schools Have New Coaches and Friend's Has a New Lineup of Players

The McPherson College Bulldogs will open their 1924 basketball season when they tangle with the Quaker Basketeer's of Friends University next Friday evening in the local gymnasium. The game promises to be a fast and interesting one. The Quaker lineup, as our own, will include several freshmen, while both schools have new coaches. It will be a battle of brains as well as of brawn—a clash of Eastern and Western coaching science.

Team Not Definitely Chosen

Mishler has built up a strong defense team with a set of guards that will defy the best of forwards. Captain Strickler capably fills one guard position; his whirlwind tactics both on the defense and the offense making him one of the ablest guards in the conference. The other guard position is in dispute between Eakes and Tipton, both able guards.

A Strong Defensive Team

"Si" Sargent at center seems to have his place clinched and bids fair to break all his previous scoring records. Cleo Hill, last year's forward, is showing good form and will have little difficulty in obtaining a position on Mishler's team. Daggert and Ellwood seem to be the chief competitors for the other forward position. However, LeMar Mast has also shown his ability in hitting baskets and with a little more exertion and confidence he should have a good chance of securing the other forward berth.

Dope Favors the Bulldogs

The dope for the Friends-McPherson game is all in favor of Mishler's aggregation, McPherson having taken second honors in the conference the past season while Friends was at the foot. This fact can not be relied upon however, for the Quakers are expected to play an entirely different type of ball this year. McPherson has had no athletic relations with Friends for the last four years, consequently much interest will be manifested in the game.

THREE-ACT COMEDY CHOSEN FOR ALL-SCHOOLS DAY PLAY

Will Be Given at the Opera House By Ten Members of the Dramatic Art Class

"Adam and Eva", the three-act comedy by George Middleton and Guy Bolton, has been selected by Miss Anderson to be given at the opera house by ten members of the dramatic art class on the evening of All Schools Day in May.

The cast chosen for "Adam and Eva" is as follows;

- James King ... Jay Eller Adam Smith ... Leland Kuns Eva ... Mildred Carpenter Julia ... Rozella White Clinton Dewitt ... Vivian Long Horace Pilgrim ... Frank Boone Lord Andrew Gordon ... Earl Morris Delamater ... Dale Strickler Aunt Addy ... Freddie Scott Corintha ... Lillie Crumpecker

Exercitiously funny is the comedy in its depiction of the typical modern rich man's family. It will be a worthy successor of "The Man on the Box," which was given on the same occasion last year.

WORKING ON CAMPAIGN.

Ray Waggoner spent the week-end at Ramona, Kansas, working on the endowment drive. The work in the field had been discontinued during the holidays.

SAGER ADDS VALUABLE PIECES TO ORCHESTRA

McPherson College Symphony Orchestra has been able materially to strengthen its instruments through the interest of Howard Sager who has recently purchased a complete percussion outfit from the Ludwig Drum Corporation of Chicago. Mr. Sager has a pair of Chromatic Timpani, a complete Trap Drum outfit, and a four octave Xylophone. This complete outfit represents over one thousand dollars in cash, and is said by Mr. Ludwig to be one of the finest outfits ever sold by their company to one man in one transaction. Mr. Sager's father selected the outfit personally with the help of the president of the company. Mr. Sager expects to avail himself of the excellent opportunity offered by the College Symphony of becoming familiar with the master pieces of orchestral literature.

"POLLYANNA" SELECTED BY DRAMATIC ART CLASS

FOUR-ACT COMEDY TO BE GIVEN IN NEAR FUTURE ON STUDENT TICKET

The dramatic art class has selected the four-act comedy "Pollyanna," by Catherine Christolm Cushing to be given in the near future under the direction of Miss Anderson, as a number on the student activity program.

The play is based on the popular novel of that name by Eleanor H. Porter. It is a book that has brought tears to the eyes and smiles to the lips of thousands of people everywhere. It has a universal appeal; it is a book for the old as well as the young. It carries with it that wholesome lesson of learning to see the silver lining of every dark cloud that looms up in the lives of all people. Pollyanna, known as "The Glad Girl" is a character who causes great mirth, and at times great paths throughout the play. She is a lovable little person whose winsomeness and sweet, cheery disposition wins for her a place in the hearts of all the characters in the play, even that of her severe, austere aunt Polly.

The play follows the story of the book closely, with the exception that a greater period of time is covered in the play than in the book. With this in view, the play should prove to be highly entertaining.

WORK OF W. A. KINZIE IS FEATURED BY PAPER

An interesting full-page article entitled "Rebirth of Salem Community" in which is featured the building up of a rural community near Nickerson under the leadership of W. A. Kinzie, an alumnus of McPherson College, appears in the December 29th issue of the "Kansas Farmer and Mail and Breeze."

The report tells of the transformation of the once lethargic rural church into an activity center, ministering to the many needs peculiar to rural life. Included in the article are three pictures showing the old Salem church, the new commodious modern building, and Reverend Kinzie, under whom the work has progressed.

Reverend Kinzie received the B. S. L. degree from McPherson College in 1918. Since then he has been doing pastoral work. He is the father of Roy Kinzie, who is now a student in M. C. Reverend Kinzie is now the pastor at Ottawa.

Six days of school until the finals.

PROGRAM FOR BIBLE INSTITUTE PROMISES AN EXCELLENT TREAT

Reverend J. W. Lear of Chicago Will Speak at the Ten-Thirty Period Each Day.

WILL BEGIN JANUARY 20.

Daily Lectures by Interesting Speakers Will Be Included in Week's Events

The Bible Institute, an annual event of McPherson College, beginning January 20th and lasting a week, promises to be an excellent treat for all who can attend. With the Reverend J. W. Lear, Dr. Kurtz, Professor J. W. Deeter, H. E. Blough, and many others giving daily lectures, and other programs of interest, this institute will likely excel those of previous years.

Is a Forceful Speaker.

The Reverend J. W. Lear, now pastor of the Bethany Church of the Brethren in Chicago, and a member of the mission board of the Church, will speak at the ten-thirty period each day and the first three days at two-thirty. Although the subject of his series has not been made known it will undoubtedly be good. He is a forceful speaker, making the audience feel the importance of his message.

Series of Lectures by Deeter.

At eight o'clock Professor Deeter will give a series of lectures on the "Pauline Epistles." These will prove intensely interesting, as anyone acquainted with Professor Deeter as a speaker can testify. The Reverend Homer E. Blough will speak at nine o'clock of various phases of community building, the rural church, and sermon construction. He is at present pastor of the church of the Brethren, of Wiley, Colorado. He comes highly recommended.

Importance of Christian Culture.

Miss Margaret Walters Librarian of the College, speaks Monday at eleven-thirty on "Reading Material for Children," while the Reverend H. F. Richards talks the next three days about "The Importance of Christian Culture." Dr. Kurtz will lecture Thursday and Friday on subjects of his own choosing. This period will undoubtedly be worth a great deal.

Professors to Assist.

Four speakers will have charge of the one-thirty period. Monday Miss Deana Gronewold, superintendent of the McPherson County Hospital, will give a talk pertaining to health. The two following days belong to Dr. Craik, who will lecture on "The Brethren in Kansas," and "Crises in Church History." He is without question well qualified to give these lectures. Professor J. J. Yoder will speak Thursday on "Church Finances." Professor Yoder has had much experience in managing the finances of the College. Dr. Harnly takes the time Friday on "God's Method of

Student Wins Fame In Radio Concerts

The Collego Lyric Tenor became famous in the twinkling of an eye last Sunday evening when he proved his ability as a radio entertainer.

The response received from the various receiving stations proves beyond a doubt that his career is only in its infancy.

He owes this publicity to the generosity of several of the radio fans of Fairbrook Hall, who have recently installed broadcasting stations in their rooms.

In the near future station B. O. O. B. expects to obtain a license and the nearby towns will benefit by the concerts given by McPherson College talent.

LOOKING AHEAD

The first college debate will be held one month from today. On the evening of February 8 the College debaters will meet the orators from Sterling, McPherson College, in the past, has won high forensic honors among the Kansas colleges. Two years ago her debaters won the highest honors of the state, and last year they were successful until the final contest.

Again the members of the team and the coach are working hard and giving willingly of their time and effort in anticipation of additional laurels for M. C.

Forensics always receive the support of the McPherson College students, and we are anxiously awaiting the opening of the debating season.

THE HOME STRETCH.

Six days more of classes. We're on the home stretch. In two weeks we can draw a deep breath. But with note books, back themes, term problems, and theses due, and about ten week's work to be done in one, and Harold Lloyd or Douglas Fairbanks at the Tourney, an occasional date, and skating—well, is it any wonder one becomes father frantic at times wondering if it will all get done?

There will be those who didn't go to the show, but got their trigonometry. There will also be those who left their trigonometry to go to the show.

There will be those who made straight A's, and there will be those who made—well, far from it. There will be those to whom the call of the open field or the frozen stream will be stronger than the call of the library.

At any rate we do have a variety in our college. But the democratic part of it is that each person can choose for himself. No one is placed in one class or another by anyone or anything but his own volition. We can choose for ourselves. Isn't human nature funny?

LET'S GO!

This week we have our first basketball game. Let's get started right. When the football season ended we were doing fine but oh! the trials and tribulations along the way. Students! Must we start all over again? Why not carry over our football enthusiasm, or efficiency, or rooting that we displayed towards the end of the season, and apply it to our first basketball game. We are going to need pep just as much for the first five games as we will for the last ones. We may have it if we will. Let's go!

Eventually, why not now? Don't wait until the last minute to begin review.

I've Been Reading

W. E. Bishop

My Life and Work by Henry Ford and find it exceedingly interesting from the standpoint of business philosophy, the value of the true things of life and the volume of isolated but interesting facts that are set forth.

Perhaps the book could have better been titled "My Lizzie and Me", because it is chock full of Henry and his struggle to make the Ford automobile a success. Like all great men he puts more emphasis and thought upon his work. Therefrom he derives all the value of his life and from his efforts springs all the good that he may be able to do for mankind.

Being an autobiography it is hardly commendable to criticize the form, technique or type of his writing. A man's autobiography is a written expression of his life as he wishes to express it and we must let it go at that.

The book is well worth reading for the business advice and the sound philosophy of life and work that Henry sets forth.

Listen to some of his definitions and axioms:—
 "Failure is only the opportunity to more intelligently begin again."
 "Waste is due largely to not understanding what one does, or being careless in doing it." "Greed is merely a species of nearsightedness."
 "The modern city today become prodigal, it is today bankrupt and tomorrow it will cease to be."

Writing of his company he says, "We are not bound by precedent but we leave nothing to luck. We experiment all the time. About ninety percent of all experiments have been successful."
 Regarding the present banking system of the U. S., which he considers a failure as such he writes, "It is not going to be changed by speech making or political sensationalism or economic experiment. It is going to change under the pressure of conditions that are now with us, that pressure that we cannot control. These conditions are now with us, that pressure is now upon us."
 And he continues with more philosophizing,—"Public opinion may keep a man better than he might otherwise be—if not better morally, at least better as far as his social desirability is concerned. But it is not a bad thing to be a fool for righteousness' sake. The best of it is that such fools usually live long enough to prove that they were not fools—or the work which they have begun lives after them to prove the same."

And then the book is full of interesting facts. Henry's first Lizzie had to be chained to a lamp post to keep the curious from tearing it to pieces. Ford once raced against the great Winton automobile and won the race. Barney Oldfield who was then a dare-devil bicycle rider drove his first auto race for Ford, and just before entering the car he said "Well, this Charlie may kill me, but they will say that I was going like hell when she took me over the bank" — and he finished the race half a mile ahead of the competing cars.

You must read the book for yourself to get the true spirit of the man, his honest and simple sincerity, his open minded altruism, and his love of life and his own work.

THE DUMOND MALE QUARTET

The Du Mond Male Quartet appeared at the opera house the evening of January 5 as the third number of the lecture course series. The program was rendered in a very acceptable manner. Among the program offerings were some real musical gems, although these were too far in the minority. The first number on the program was very acceptable but, the singers voices were husky and did not blend as well as later. The outstanding features of the program were "Lead Kindly Light" arranged by Dudley Buck, a quartet arrangement of one of Joyce Kilmer's poems, Brahms' "Cradle Song," "Lullaby" (Humoresque) Overak-Spiross and several groups of American, English and Austrian folk songs. The accordion number of Mr. Du Mond, "Quarter" from "Rigoletto" was very effective but was not played in a highly artistic manner. The solo of the lyric tenor "Donan" was hurried too much to be appreciated. A group of Negro Spirituals were given with more true color than any of the other numbers of the program. They were very much appreciated by the audience. The balance of the program was the usual "Cornfield Medley" quartet material which all high school and college quartets attempt and quite often execute (literally) very much to their own satisfaction. The group of instrumental ensemble numbers placed on the program were harmful to the good opinion of the quartet that some may have formed of them previously.

The ensemble of the voices was excellent and in the better part of their program they may be highly complimented as an organization. The striking personality of the manager made up for any deficiencies of the organization especially from the ladies' point of view.

WILBUR BALDWIN

Word has been received that Wilbur Baldwin passed away at a hospital in Kansas City, Thursday, January 3. Mr. Baldwin was a graduate of McPherson High School in 1916; he entered McPherson College the next year, but completed his collegiate training at the Rosedale Medical School, Kansas City, from which he would have received his doctor's certificate next spring. He had within recent months undergone several operations for hemorrhage of the nose; he died on the table while under a similar operation. The father of Mr. Baldwin died just before Thanksgiving.

Save your money and go to see "Polyanna."

Don't fail to see the Bulldog basketballers in action for the first time Friday evening.

Six days of school until the finals.

Printer, journalist, diplomat, inventor, statesman, philosopher, wit. One of the authors of the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution, author of Poor Richard's Almanack; and one of the most eminent natural philosophers of his time.

"Speaking concisely the essence of what I could say on the subject I shall blia bla a short blast like this: You are nice boys and girls but you don't pay your honest debts, you spend $100.00 or more for luxuries and then tell the business manager you can't pay. Tell it to Sweeney! Which will be the most value to you after college days (dream days), your education or your "below-par-and-above-income-habits?"

You can't get by St. Peter on credit. And I am neither the business manager, his assistant, a professor, nor a freshman, but just one who owes the College some money.

Don't you think we better pay up or have the decency to get out and quit blissing?

But nobody had thought to do it

By bringing electricity down from the clouds over a kite string, it was a simple thing to prove that lightning was nothing more than a tremendous electrical flash.

For centuries before Franklin flew his kite in 1751 philosophers had been speculating about the nature of lightning. With electrified globes and charged bottles, others had evolved the theory that the puny sparks of the laboratory and the stupendous phenomenon of the heavens were related; but Franklin substituted fact for theory—by scientific experiment.

Roaring electrical discharges, man-made lightning as deadly as that from the clouds, are now produced by scientists in the Research Laboratories of the General Electric Company. They are part of experiments which are making it possible to use the power of mountain torrents farther and farther from the great industrial centers.

Electrical machines bearing the mark of the General Electric Company, in use throughout the world, are raising standards of living by doing the work of millions of men.

BIRKINS BECOME NATURALIZED

Leonard Birkin, a member of the Sophomore College class received his naturalization papers yesterday, and is now a citizen of the United States of America. He received first papers in 1914, but, overrunning the seven year limit of validity, was forced to take out papers again in 1922. The necessary two years have elapsed and he made application for second papers.

Mrs. Birkin is fortunate; she need not go through this legal procedure, as she becomes an American citizen automatically and simultaneously with Mr. Birkin. The college is glad to receive them as fellow citizens and is sure that George V. (Del. Gra. Britt., Omn. Rex., Fid. Def. Ind. Imp.) has lost two worthy subjects.

MISS WALTERS RECEIVES INJURIES IN COLLISION

Miss Minnie Walters found herself the victim of careless driving Friday, December 23, when a car driven by a citizen of this city dashed unexpectedly out of a side street on the wrong side of the highway, and collided with the Ford coupe in which she was riding, causing her serious injuries.

Seeing the danger, Miss Walters, who was with her brother at the time, "stepped on the gas." Her car sped forward, but not in time to avert an accident. The other car rushed toward her, caught the rear fender, breaking the left rear wheel and completely overturning the coupe.

Recovering from the shock, she found that a rib had been cracked, and that there was a bad bruise over the right eye and a slight laceration of her right hand. With the exception of a few bruises, Mr. Walters was uninjured.

ALUMNI NOTES

Dr. Walter Thompson, A. B. '12 McPherson College, is the author of a scholarly work of four hundred pages entitled "Federal Centralization" which has just recently come from the press of Messrs. Harcourt, Brace and Company of New York. Dr. Thompson was until lately a member of the faculty of the University of Wisconsin, where he taught Political Science. He is now identified with the Junior College at Hibbing, Minnesota.

The book is divided into four parts. Part One treats of the constitutional basis for the Federal police power; Part Two deals with social legislation; Part Three takes up economic legislation; and Part Four points out the hazards and possibilities of centralization. Throughout the work there is evidence of a masterly grasp of constitutional law, a broad knowledge of the trend of American history, and a just and reasonable explanation and interpretation of the effort of our Federal form of government to function under greatly changed conditions. Dr. Craik of the M. C. faculty has an autographed copy of the book and has been asked by the author to criticize the work.

Social Events

Thirty guests attended with much interest and pleasure a charmingly-arranged New Year's party Tuesday evening at which Miss Eunice Almen was the gracious hostess at her attractive home, Maple Glen on South Maple Street. The decorations were a distinctive feature, a red and green color scheme was artistically worked out with deep red carnations, greenery and a profusion of New Year's bells which were supplemented with other suggestions of the season. The dining table was especially attractively centered with a large bowl of sweet peas surrounded by candles in crystal holders which were linked with a rope of red and green satin ribbon. Guests obtained partners for the evening by drawing seals found at the end of satin ribbons which were suspended from a wreath hung in the doorway. The company was divided into two groups, the "Evergreens" and the "Holy Reds" and a program of nine cleverly arranged contests were staged. There included New Year's Resolution's in rhyme, a night watch contest, a bell game, a hood race and other stunts both athletic and intellectual. When the scores were counted it was found that the Evergreens had won and they were rewarded prizes of bon-bons. Other prizes, beautiful hand-colored calendars, were captured by Miss Selma Engstrom in the night watch contest and by Miss Ocie McAvoy in the bell game. An elaborate two course midnight luncheon was served at the end of this hilarious program by Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Almen, Misses Mary Swain and Rowland Almen. CAGERS SHOW SPEEDY PLAY AGAINST WINDOM

ELLWOOD OF LAST YEAR'S TEAM
LET THE ATTACK OF THE VISITORS.

The McPherson College basketball team, in a practice game last Thursday evening, defeated the Windom Athletic Club 26-7. The local Second team was swept off its feet the first few minutes of play by the furious onslaught of the Windom team. "Jim" Ellwood, of the last year McPherson team, played the stellar roll for the visitors.

The McPherson Second team started the game. In the first few minutes the Seconds were outplayed by the visitors. Windom took the lead by scoring two baskets, their only field goals made in the game. The Second team regained their confidence and were able to overcome the lead by the end of the first half, the score being 6-5 in their favor.

Mishler ran in the first team at the beginning of the second half. They immediately piled up a big lead and substitutes were sent in. The fans were able to get just a glimpse at the wonderful teamwork of which the Bulldog team is capable.

A return game, played at Windom last evening, as won by the Bulldogs by a 32-15 score.

St. Augustine, the oldest city in the United States, before going to Atlanta. While in Atlanta, he was taken out of the city eighteen miles to the magnificent isolated Stone Mountain, a solid block of granite seven miles in circumference, out of which the Southern States have begun the twenty-year project of carving a great monument to the confederate soldiers.

Other Sightseeing Trips.

On the way home, Chattanooga was visited, also Lookout Mountain, from which six states and fourteen battlefields could be viewed. Missionary Ridge and Signal Mountain were also visited. With a stop at Mammoth Cave the sightseeing ended, and Professor Mohler returned to McPherson, arriving January 3.

FAILS TO FIND METEORITE

Although Professor Nininger, in his recent search for a meteorite north of Ashland, failed, he discovered some valuable fossils. Because of the storm he was unable to finish the work he had planned, but hopes in the future to locate the meteorite. The country about Ashland is exceedingly rough, making the search quite difficult.
